After dinner the VIEW representative had the good fortune to meet Mr. F. F. Visscher, who is superintending the construction of the new railroad at a point two miles northwest of Clanton Ford. Mr. V. has fifty hands under his supervision, and says there are two other forces of fifty hands each at work on the road between Montgomery and Maplesville. He says the road will cross the E. T. V. and Ga. railroad about half a mile south of Maplesville, that the work of construction will be pushed through rapidly, and that the road will be completed between Montgomery and Tuskaloosa within the next nine months. Mr. Visscher says the company has ample capital now in control to complete the work. This will be good news to all the county, and particularly to that portion contiguous to the new line of road.

RESOLUTIONS

Relative to the Death of Rev. A. B. Hill, Adopted by Jemison Lodge No. 418, F. & A. M., Aug. 2, 1889.

WHEREAS, it hath pleased Almighty God to call from the walks of life, our beloved brother, A. B. HILL, therefore be it

RESOLVED 1ST, That we bow in submission to that divine summons which calls on us "to pass under the rod."

RESOLVED 2D, That we endeavor so to live and shape our lives that we too may be prepared, as was our brother, when summoned to put off this mortality for an immortality beyond the grave.

RESOLVED 3D, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes; that a copy be furnished the departed brother's family; that they be furnished the CHILTON VIEW for publication; that a page of the records of the proceedings of this Lodge, be set apart sacred to the memory of our departed brother, Rev. A. B. HILL; and that the usual badge of mourning be worn for thirty days.

L. J. HAND, W. M., pro tem.
H. T. CAFFEY, Secretary.

Miss Chilton takes pleasure in announcing to the public that she will open her music class Monday, August 19th, teaching both vocal and instrumental music, using chart and black board for instruction.

Reduced Fare.

Through the application of Prof. A. J. Scott, the L. & N. R. R. have promised reduced fare (one cent a mile) to all teachers attending the District Teacher's Institute at Clanton. This reduced rate is only for the return trip, as will be noted from the attached letter from Mr. G. M. Williams, the division passenger agent of the road:

MONTGOMERY, ALA., Aug. 9.

A. J. SCOTT, ESQ.: Dear Sir—Yours of the 8th to hand. You can inform parties attending this meeting to purchase local tickets to Clanton (not pay conductor on train) and take a certificate or receipt for fare paid. Present this certificate to agent at Clanton any time within twenty-four hours after adjournment of meeting and he will sell a ticket to return at one cent a mile, provided, it is on this line of road.

Respectfully,
G. M. WILLIAMS, D. P. A.

Miss Ross will return next week and will re-open her school the first Monday in September.

Mr. Thos. C. Lee, proprietor of the hotel, Arkadelphia, Ark., says that Swift's Specific has so strengthened his wife for her labors as hostess that he can recommend and emphasize the assertion as a tonic for ladies and children S. S. S. it has no equal.

Mr. B. F. Whatley is a prominent merchant of Ruston, La. He says that he has sold Swift's Specific to many persons, and knows of some wonderful cases, and has never heard of a failure to cure. Several cases of contagious blood poison were cured after all the doctors and all other remedies had failed.

I am of the opinion S. S. S. should stand at the head of the list of blood remedies. I arrived at this conclusion from the testimony of scores of persons who have told me of the good results from its use. I have been selling S. S. S. for years and it has won a large sale.

C. A. GRIFFITH, Mayflower, Ark.

Mercury and potash mixtures dry up the secretions of the body cause mercurial rheumatism and dyspepsia, and finally run the system down to such a condition that other diseases are induced. Swift's Specific builds up the patient from the first dose and gives life and vigor to the whole human frame.

State Normal College,
FLORENCE, ALA.
JAS. K. POWERS, A. M. President.

THE COURSE OF STUDY embraces all the branches required in the public schools of the State.

THE THEORY AND PRACTICE of teaching receive careful attention throughout the course.

DRAWING, VOCAL MUSIC AND CALISTHENICS are taught. No teacher is thoroughly equipped for his work without training in these branches.

STATE CERTIFICATES are granted to graduates, entitling them to teach in any public school in Alabama, without further examination.

TUITION IS FREE

to teachers and those preparing to teach and good board costs only ten to fourteen dollars a month.

Fall Term Opens Sept. 17, 1889.

For catalogue or further information, apply to the President.

STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLEDO, Lucas County, S. S.
Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the city of Toledo, county and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrh Cure.
FRANK J. CHENEY.
Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D., '86.
A. W. GLEASON, Notary Public.
Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials free.
F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.
Sold by druggists, 75 cts.
oct 11-y

BUSINESS LOCAL NOTICES.

Insure in the Commercial Fire Insurance Co. of Montgomery.

Go to Blank Brothers, Leading Clothiers, 2112, 2nd Avenue, Birmingham, Ala., to buy anything you need in the way of clothing and gent's furnishing goods.

The VIEW job office is prepared to do all kind of job work at short notice. Let us know what you want and we will give you extra low figures.

HELP IN TIME OF NEED.

When a man is drowning he will grasp at straws, but straws will not save him. Extend to him a life-boat and his rescue is certain.

Mr. James A. Greer, of Athens, Ga., (endorsed by the editor of the Athens Banner-Watchman) makes the following statement:

"I am first cousin of the late Ex-Governor Alexander H. Stephens, and have been postal clerk on different railroads since 1868. For ten years I have been a sufferer from a cancer on my face, which grew worse until the discharge of matter became profuse and very offensive. I became thoroughly disgusted with blood purifiers and pronounced them humbugs, as I had tried many without relief.

CANCER

Finally I was induced to use Botanic Blood Balm, (B. B. B.) The offensive discharge decreased at once and the hardness disappeared. It became less and less in size until nothing remains except a scar. I gained flesh and strength, and all who have seen me bear testimony. I cannot say too much in its praise."

A. H. Morris, Pine Bluff, Ark., writes:

"Hot Springs failed entirely to cure me of several terrible, indolent running ulcers on my legs, with which I have been troubled for many years. Several doctors also attempted to cure me but failed. I have only used a few bottles of B. B. B., (made in Atlanta, Ga.) and the effect has been truly magical, as they have all healed and I am cured after everything failed. My general health is also improving, appetite and digestion good. I sleep soundly, and never felt better. Doctors told me that I could not be cured.

HOT SPRINGS

I refer to every merchant or professional man of Pine Bluff.

Any one interested who desires to know more about the wonderful merit of B. B. B., will please send address to Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga., for their illustrated "Book of Wonders."

[sep27 cw 1y]

NOTICE NO. 8941.

Land Office, Montgomery, Ala.,
July 24, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on September 7, 1889, viz: William H. Mills, homestead No. 15149 for the n w ¼ of n e ¼, the n ½ of n w ¼ and s w ¼ of n w ¼, sec 14 t 20, north, r 13 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: James T. Chambers, Henry A. Sewell, John Hamilton, and Thomas Anderson, all of Kincheon, Ala.

jul25* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 8907.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., July 10, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on August 17, 1889, viz: John D. B. McDuffie, Homestead 14772 for the n ½ of s e ¼ and e ½ of s w ¼ sec 15 t 20 n r 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Elizabeth Gordon and Frederick G. Gordon, of Mountain Creek, Ala., Noah Duffee and Mayberry Cooper, of Verbena, Ala.

july11o J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 8988.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
August 6, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the Circuit Court, Clanton, Ala., on September 14th, 1889, viz: Abner C. Poole, Homestead 15309 for the n w ¼ of s e ¼ sec 32, township 21 north, range 14 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: William I. Mullins, Robert S. Owen, James Owen, and John W. Scott, all of Kincheon, Ala.

aug8o J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 8989.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 8, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on September 14th, 1889, viz: Ely Garner, widow of Dick Garner, deceased, Homestead 9816 for the n e ¼ of n w ¼ of sec 2, township 21 north range 12 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: Henry Young, Ben Talley, Noah Coleman, Aaron Talley, all of Maplesville, Ala.

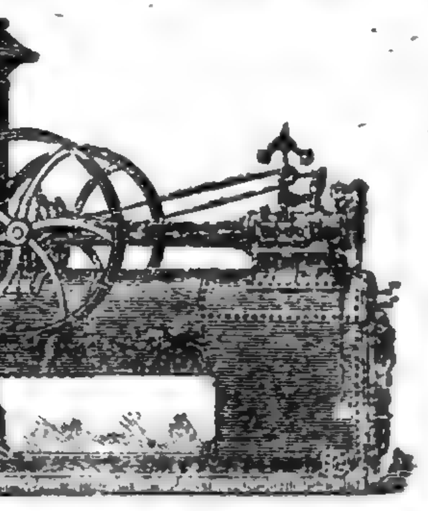
aug 8* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

Now is the time to subscribe for your county paper.

A. E. BIVINGS,
—DEALER IN—
DRUGS, AND Medicines, FAMILY Groceries, ETC.
Clanton, Alabama.
I can furnish you anything you may wish in the way of DRUGS AND MEDICINES. I also handle THE BEST GROCERIES TO BE HAD, and you will find my prices to suit the times. [mar21]

BUY YOUR
PIANOS and ORGANS
—FROM—
GRAMBS & BUCHANAN,
—2107 SECOND AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—
THE VERY LOWEST CASH PRICES, or on easy installments. Sohmer, Cranich & Bach, Gabler, Wheelock and Newby & Evans Pianos, and the world renowned Wilcox & White organs. Mail orders for sheet music or musical merchandise given prompt attention.
Write for Catalogue. jul18
When ordering please state in what paper you saw our advertisement.

CRELLIN & NALLS,
BOILER MAKERS
Copper and Sheet Iron Workers
Chimneys, Tanks, and Repairing of All Kinds.
Saw Mill Work a Specialty.
AVENUE C AND TWENTY-SECOND STREET, SOUTHSIDE,
Birmingham, Ala.
mar21 y

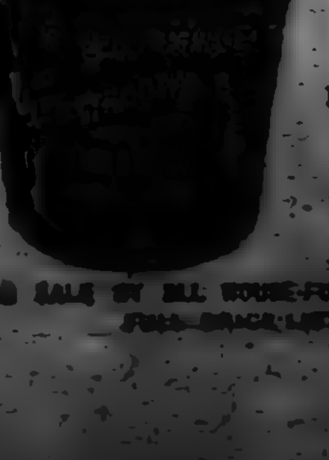


I. N. LANGSTON,
—DEALER IN—
Dry Goods, Groceries, Family Supplies, &c.
(Contractor for Cross Ties for the L. & N. R. R.)
—JEMISON, CHILTON COUNTY, ALA.—
I have been out of business for the past year, but I am now before the public with a full and Complete Line of Goods for the General Trade. I invite the Farmers of Chilton county as well as my old customers to give me a call and examine my stock. I will please you every time both in quality of goods and low prices.
Highest market price paid for Cross Ties, Cotton and Country Produce.
oct 18-y I. N. LANGSTON.

MONTGOMERY IRON WORKS.
MACHINISTS & FOUNDERS
Dealers in Fittings, Supplies and Machinery
OF ALL KINDS.
MAKERS OF ENGINES, CANE MILLS, COTTON SEED CRUSHERS, SAW MILLS, LIVE ROLLS, LOG HAULUPS, &c.
ESPECIAL ATTENTION TO WANTS OF SAW MILL MEN
nov 8-y

INSURE WITH
The Commercial Fire Insurance Company,
Montgomery, Alabama.
Capital $100,000. Surplus $146,578.
Directors:—P. J. Anderson, C. A. Lanier, H. C. Tompkins, A. M. Kennedy, M. P. LeGrand, S. C. Marks, J. H. Clisby, C. W. Buckley, Frank Duncan.
W. H. Lawrence, Agt., Clanton.

Roberts & Son,
Steam Printers and Binders,
1918 FIRST AVENUE, BET. 19th & 20th STREETS,
Birmingham, Ala.
BLANK BOOKS TO ORDER. WORK PROMPTLY DELIVERED.



INDURATED FIBRE WARE.
ABSOLUTELY ONE PIECE!
HAS NO HOOPS!
NEITHER PAINTED OR VARNISHED!
NOT AFFECTED BY HOT WATER!
CORDLEY & HAYES, New York, Sole Agents.

A. M. RAMBO,
DENTIST,
VERBENA, ALA.
Will respond to calls along railroad between Calera and Deatsville
[mal6 y]

Money to Loan.
Loans can be negotiated on first mortgage security on improved farming lands. Call on or address
R. M. WILLIAMSON,
ST. CLAIR THORNTON,
jun27 Clanton, Ala.

S. P. TRESSLAR,
Photographer,
10 COURT SQUARE,
Montgomery.
Photographs on Silk, Satin and Linen. Photographs on watch dials.
Portraits in Crayon, Pastile, India Ink and Water Colors.
All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.
Correspondence solicited.
Always glad to have you call at the gallery, and examine specimens of the work on exhibition.
[jan21-tf]

J. H. SHEPHERD
THE LEADING
PHOTOGRAPHER,
—OF—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE
(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)
Photographs of All Kinds Work Done in the BEST STYLE.
Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

Insure Your Property against Fire.
The Commercial Fire Insurance Company of Montgomery, has a record for reliability unsurpassed.
Insure through the Local Agency at Clanton, and save expense.

HERBINE
After ten years exclusive sale, can now be obtained of all Druggists and Dealers in Medicines. It CURES—take notice—not simply helps but CURES LIVER COMPLAINT, Biliousness and Dyspepsia.
Is a strictly vegetable preparation and will CURE MALARIA, and all MALARIAL troubles.
Dr. S. H. Wise, of Boston, Ky, says: "Have practiced medicine 15 years, and find no equal to HERBINE as a Liver Regulator."
Dr. W. A. Baker, of Madison, Fla., says: "A bottle of HERBINE is worth more than $5.00 worth of Quinine in any family."
Acting on the Liver in a different way from any other medicine; it is a positive cure for Chronic Constipation and is cheaper than [illegible].
Its peculiar composition is such, that we guarantee to cure any case of Chills and Fever or Bilious Fever with one bottle.
It costs but 75 cents and each bottle contains over 40 average doses, making the cost less than two cents a dose. Would you ask for cheaper medicine? It is not a cure-all. But will cure any Liver, Bilious or Malarial Complaint. Manufactured by
The Herbine Co.
(Successors to Wm. Condell.) St. Louis, Mo.
mar 14-y

PISO'S CURE FOR
TWENTY-FIVE CENTS
Piso's Cure for Consumption is also the best Cough Medicine.
If you have a Cough without disease of the Lungs, a few doses are all you need. But if you neglect this easy means of safety, the slight Cough may become a serious matter, and several bottles will be required.
CONSUMPTION
PISO'S REMEDY FOR CATARRH gives immediate relief. Catarrhal virus is soon expelled from the system, and the diseased action of the mucous membrane is replaced by healthy secretions.
The dose is small. One package contains a sufficient quantity for a long treatment.
CATARRH
A Cold in the Head is relieved by an application of Piso's remedy for Catarrh. The comfort to be got from it in this way is worth many times its cost.
Easy and pleasant to use.
Price, 50 cents. Sold by druggists or sent by mail.
E. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.
nov29-y

ALLEGRETTI
GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES!
FROM $85. to $58.
This Elegant Parlor Organ style 98 containing 5 octaves, 2 sets of reeds, 10 stops, 2 knee swells, stool and book free. For only $58.00. With right and left coupler. "Warranted for 6 years."
[illegible]
D. F. BEATTY,
Washington, New Jersey.

AGRICULTURAL.

TOPICS OF INTEREST RELATIVE TO FARM AND GARDEN.

THE FLOWER GARDEN IN SUMMER.

To have flowering plants and shrubs through the warm season, writes Helen Wharburton in the Washington Star, one must needs take good care of them, and not trust too much to nature. The fault with many is to think that in the summer time everything will bloom and look its best no matter how little attention is bestowed upon it. But the garden of the experienced flower-lover will always look much neater, prettier and fresher than the one presided over by an ignorant amateur. To say that weeds should be kept out of the garden is an unnecessary precaution, for all understand the need of such work. But there are other little odd jobs that can be done about the flower garden with satisfactory results. If the blooming season is to be prolonged all flowers should be removed as soon as they begin to fade. The strength of the plant that would go to produce seed will then contribute toward making new flowers. The embryo seed-vessels should be pinched off, and the plant will make another effort to bud out in all such places. To secure flowers all attempts of the plants to produce seeds should be stopped.

Bedding plants should be cut back frequently, as this induces new growths, and new growths usually produce new flowers. The flowering season can also be prolonged very greatly by taking care to stir the top soil occasionally with a small trowel. This allows the air to circulate around the roots of the plants and makes small passage ways for the water to trickle through. If plenty of water is then supplied the plants there is no reason why flowers should not be blooming in the garden until late autumn. I have had annuals flowering until the first frost of the year nipped them.

Some plants, such as dahlies, tuberoses and the tall varieties of the gladiolus, are easily broken, and they need some support other than their frail stems. Stakes should be placed alongside of them, and the stalks securely fastened in an upright position. If the stakes are cut from the woods when green they can hardly be distinguished from the plants. The plants should be tied to them with wide strips of cloth, and not with string, as the latter is liable to cut the plants. If a dry season makes the plants wilt in spite of frequent watering, it is well to make a mulch around the plants. This can be done by cutting green grass from the lawn and spreading it close up around the base of the plants. When it rots it can be dug into the soil, where it will act as a good fertilizer.

THRESHING DAY.

Ah me, how many threshing days do I remember—some sad ones and some pleasant ones. Sometimes the crop proved almost a failure, and sometimes it turned out better than we expected, and the good wife rejoiced and gave the threshers and all hands the best the house could furnish. In my younger days we were threshing more or less all winter. Now a ten-horse power steam thresher does the whole work sometimes in one long day and always in two days. It is a trying time. The hopes and fears of a whole year are brought to the test. It is a busy time for the farmer, and if he is not careful he will be likely to overtask himself. If he is wise nothing but absolute necessity should induce him to "cut bands," or take away the grain, or build the stack, or undertake any work that will confine him to one spot. He can always find plenty to do. Sometimes the men who are pitching the grain to the machine may come across a lot of rakings, and a little help may encourage them. Sometimes the man who is carrying away the grain will find the granary chocked up, and the farmer, by the vigorous use of a scoop shovel, will make all right again in a few minutes. Sometimes the wind may bother the men on the stack, and a few words of encouragement and sympathy, with a little assistance, will put new spirit into them.

The essential points to look after are: 1st. The granary. It may need a few strips of tin to make it rat and mouse proof. Recollect, also, that you have not only to get the grain into it, but also to get it out again—and it sometimes happens that it is necessary to get it out sooner than you expect. Should it get warm it will be necessary immediately to turn it or spread it out on the barn floor, or run it through a fanning mill. 2d. See that the machine threshes clean. If not, lower the concave. See that no grain is carried over with the chaff. Occasionally the threshers have a visitor who wants to feed the machine, and he crowds in the sheaves, and the sieves cannot properly clean the grain, and more or less of it passes over on to the straw carrier. 3d. Look to the straw stack. This is an important matter to those of us who feed out the straw. The great secret of making a stack rain-proof is to keep the middle full and well trodden down from the start, so that when it settles, the outside will sink down lower than the inside. When you begin to build the roof, the part that needs the most care is immediately under the straw carrier. The chaff is apt to accumulate there, and when the machine is removed there will be a depression in the stack at this point that will let in the rain. Take special pains to put some layers of long straw under the straw carrier. Many of our straw carriers are not long enough, and if it is necessary for a man to throw the straw up on the roof of the stack, drive some long poles into the stack and place an old door on them for the man to stand on. If this is not done, the place where he stand will be a hole difficult to fill up so that it will shed the water. The farmer, if he is wise, will frequently be on the straw stack during the day and help to tread it down in the middle, but for his own safety and for the good of the stack he will not venture too near the outside.

4th. Look out for fire from the engine, but in point of fact there is more danger from tobacco smokers than from the engine.—American Agriculturist.

FARM AND GARDEN NOTES.

Twelve hours with system harvests more than sixteen hours without.

A well-known agriculturist claims that Canada thistle can be eradicated by smothering with clover.

Rye which has been sown for pasturage must be kept fed down closely. If it be allowed to grow too much it will become tough and woody; if fed closely it will sprout, and if the ground be rich the feed will be abundant.

WORDS OF WISDOM.

Character is true wealth.

Any one can act natural by keeping still.

Every throb of the heart is a new birth.

None but the rich can afford "dear" ends.

The only "fall of man" is when he falls behind.

Competition is a necessity to the activity of life.

Education that restrains the desire to learn is false.

Nothing great was ever achieved without enthusiasm.

Charity and personal force are the only investments worth anything.

Most people would succeed in small things if they were not troubled with great ambitions.

We do love beauty at first sight; and we do cease to love it if it is not accompanied by amiable qualities.

He who is false to present duty breaks a thread in the loom, and will find the flaw when he may have forgotten its cause.

Candor is the seal of a noble mind, the ornament and pride of man, the sweetest charm of woman, the scorn of rascals and the rarest virtue of sociability.

The training a man gets is the staging by which, if he chooses, he can build himself up, but if the structure rises to any great height it must support the staging.

Whatever the number of man's friends, there will be times in his life when he has one too few; but if he has only one enemy, he is lucky indeed if he has not one too many.

People who speculate about the future from their devoted study of the past, may as well be pronounced dead, for surely they do not live in the present, which is all the time there is to exist in.

Great Earthquakes, Floods and Fires.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean gives a list of great earthquakes, floods and fires. First the earthquakes. In their chronological order they were as follows: December 5, 1456, at Naples, 40,000 persons were destroyed; December 26, 1531, at Lisbon, 30,000; July 2, in Japan, several cities and thousands of lives destroyed; July 30, 1626, at Naples, 70,000; April 6, 1667, at Ragusa, 5000; during three months, 1667, at Schamaki, 80,000; in September, 1693, in Sicily, 100,000; in 1703, at Jeddo, 200,000; May and June, 1716, at Algiers, 15,000; November 30, 1731, at Pekin, 100,000; October 28, 1746, at Lima and Callao, 18,000; September, 1754, at Grand Cairo, 40,000; June 7, 1775, at Kashan, Persia, 40,000; November 1, 1755, at Lisbon, 50,000; February 4, 1797, in the country lying between Santa Fe and Panama, 40,000; August 14, 1851, at Melfi, Italy, 14,000; December 16, 1857, at Calabria, 10,000; March 20, 1860, at Mendoza, South America, 7000; August 13 and 15, 1868, in Peru and Ecuador, 25,000.

Among most destructive inundations are those in April 17, 1421, when the sea broke over Dort, drowing 100,000 people; in 1530, when Holland was overwhelmed and 450,000 persons drowned, and in 1617, when 50,000 were drowned at Catalonia. There have been numerous floods in which as many as 1000 persons were drowned, and those in which the loss of life was less are beyond record.

Fires have been fatal to large numbers at times, but have been more hurtful in working destitution upon masses than in the actual destruction of life. During the London fire of 1212 there were 3000 lives lost, but that was through the drowning of the crowd driven into the water. The forest fires of October, 1871, burning in Michigan and Wisconsin were, perhaps, the most destructive of life in history, 2000 lives being lost. In the great Chicago fire of the same time there were but 200 lives reported lost, though it was impossible to ascertain whether that was the maximum figure.

The Bad Singer.

State v. Linkshaw (69 N. C., 214; 12 Am. Rep. 645).

[The unintentional disburbance of a religious congregation by discordant singing, when the singer is conscientiously taking part in the services, is not indictable.]

In North Carolina's health-inspiring woods
Lived the defendant, poor in worldly goods,
But full of grace, an exemplary man
As ever lived since Methodists began.
Upon acquaintance 'twas apparent soon
Nature denied to him the sense of tune,
And though the forest there with pine are rich,
'Twas vain to him—he couldn't get the pitch.
In church he warbled with enthusiasm,
Infecting every hearer with a spasm.

His fault was worsened by his holding on
After the other vocalists had done,
And so in many a fervent "winding bout"
He showed them "linked sweetness long drawn out,"
And with a voice stentorian he sang
Until the dim aisles of the tar woods rang,
Not with the understanding, but with spirit,
As if he wished the heathen world to hear it.
This made one-half the congregation shout
With laughter, while the pious and devout
Were scandalised; the wicked were delighted,
But all the good and sober were affrighted:
Once the sad preacher had shut up his book,
Declined to sing the hymn, and angry took
His seat: the ruling elder had refused
To preach, because the music was abused.
On one occasion when the Holy Ghost
Seemed brooding o'er the expectant humble host,
A member asked the brother not to sing
Lest he should on the cause so sacred bring Deep ridicule, and he for once complied;
But usually he such requests denied,
Avowing, if he hoped to win the prize,
Not only must he pray, but "vocalize."
And so when'er it came to singing psalms
That house was filled with miserable qualms;
Until at last the suffering congregation
Had him indicated for the desecration.
A witness being called, with lungs inflated
The manner of his singing imitated,
Producing inextinguishable laughter
That shook the court house to the highest rafter,
Convulsing Judge, spectators, bar and jury,
Till some lay down and rolled in comic fury.
This testimony wrought a quick conviction,
But on appeal it met with interdiction.
For there was no pretense that he intended
The worship to disturb, he thought he blended
Most scientifically with the rest—
In short, he always did his "level best."
"And so if he will sing, there's no help for't;
His church may discipline him, not the Court."
The prosecuting brethern went out sad
At this intelligence; it was to bad;
Not only must they hear him on the earth,
But as he was a man of Christian worth,
Sure of salvation with a godly leaven,
They must to all eternity in Heaven,
List to that voice, which all the saints would drown
Of smiling Linkshaw, with his harp and crown!
But for the earthly part of this dire past,
I might one simple remedy suggest:
Induce good brother Linkshaw to embrace
The ministry, and then at least his face
He must to some fresh field once in three years
Reluctant turn, and spare the tortured ears.
Devoutedly to be wished for dispensation,
The Methodist contrivance of "rotation!"

—Irving Browne, in The Green Bag.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

PLEASANT LITERATURE FOR FEMININE READERS.

A VERY REMARKABLE WOMAN.

Miss Mary A. Newcomb, the "Cattle Queen of Texas," in many respects a most remarkable woman, died of apoplexy recently, at Henrietta, Texas. She was the daughter of the late Charles Newcomb and a granddaughter of Judge Newcomb, of Keene, N. H. Her mother was Betty Hallett, of Cape Cod. Miss Newcomb was born at Canton, Ill., and spent many years in this State.

She graduated from Knox College and afterward filled many places of honor and trust. At one time she was Professor of Mathematics at Wheaton College. Upon her father's death she became the actual head of the family and took upon herself duties which impaired her health. When her mother died she took an invalid nephew to Henrietta, Texas. There she engaged in the real estate and stock business. She was one of the few who successfully passed through the years of financial depression, and during the agitation over fence-cutting she gained the respect of all.

Within eight years Miss Newcomb amassed a fortune, and she became known as "The Cattle Queen of Texas." Her ranch, well stocked with cattle and horses, was enclosed by fifty miles of fencing. Her success was brought about by her integrity and perseverance. She gained many warm friends and she was idolized by the members of her family. The remains were brought to Farmington, Ill., for burial.—Chicago Times.

THE CARE OF THE HAIR.

Don't wash your hair. That is the advice given by a woman who has been at the head of a leading establishment for the last sixteen years. She says:

"I believe the average woman drowns the life of her hair by frequent washing in hot and cold water. We send out from the house nineteen hands, who dress hair by the season, contracting for the entire family. They plan to give each head a combing twice a week, and by special arrangement make house-to-house visits daily. Not a drop of water is put on the hair, and every head is kept in a clean and healthy condition. We pin our faith to a good brush, and prefer a short-bristled, narrow brush, backed with olive or palm wood, to the elaborate articles bound in silver or ivory. A brush of this sort costs 75 cents, but I wear one out every month. You see I use it not only on the hair, but the scalp as well.

"A maid has to be taught how to dress a head of hair just as instruction is needed in school-teaching or bread-making, and this training is part of my duty. One object lesson is worth a term of theory, and so in teaching one novice I operate on another.

"The first thing to do when the hair is unpinned is to loosen it by lightly tossing it about. The operation need not tangle it, and as the tresses are being aired they fall into natural lengths. Instead of beginning at the scalp the first combing should start at the end of the hair. In other words comb upward to avoid tangling, breaking and tearing the hair out. This racking of the hair will remove considerable dust. The scalp should be cleaned in spots and sections, and a fine tooth comb is indispensable. It is not necessary to draw the comb down through the hair. Dandruff can be removed by combing the surface where it has accumulated, and by slanting the fine comb it may be brought from the scalp without having to go the whole length of the hair. As I said before, the head should be cleansed in spots. When the dead skin has been loosened, a thorough brushing is all that is required to remove it. By thorough, I mean to spend a full hour, first brushing the head and then the hair to free it from the scurf and eruptions of skin. Frequently this can be accomplished by shaking out or fanning the hair, and subsequent brushing will give the hair the glossy, silky finish for which so much pomade is used.

"We have on our books a family including seven girls, for whom we have done work since 1870. The hair was so very poor that at the mother's suggestion we tried the experiment of dry dressing; that is, no water. Two of the daughters have not wet their head, except while bathing in the ocean, in thirteen years, and in both cases the hair is abundant and very beautiful in quality, one suit surpassing in quantity that of the mother and five sisters combined. It is my experience that actresses, who take better care of themselves than any other class of women, are averse to wetting or washing the head, depending entirely on a maid to keep it clean and orderly by means of a comb and brush."—New York World.

FASHION NOTES.

Summer underskirts for wet days are made of gray colored mohair and trimmed with two plaited flounces.

A novelty in bracelets is called the Shakespeare. Each bangle is engraved with a quotation from the famous poet.

The modern Empire waist is not actually short, but is made to appear so by the girdle or sash that is always worn with it.

Old fashioned lawns and dotted muslins have been revived by Worth for gowns to be worn at summer garden parties.

Guimpes of silk muslin are made to fill up the V shape opening to a waist. A frill of the double muslin finishes the neck.

It is noticeable that styles in gloves have changed, and that colors which match trimming or dress are greatly in favor.

Combination suits which ladies were formerly obliged to have made at home may now be bought in all sizes and grades.

The predominating shape among newmarkets has the back fitting well to the figure, and a loose front. The sleeves have a bell puff.

A Funeral Car.

The New York Central and Hudson River Railroad Company has just put on the road a funeral car costing $10,000. The car has three compartments. The front one contains a mahogany catafalque, upon which the coffin rests and is held in place by small steel fastenings. The middle compartment is large, and is fitted up in deep plush, with curtains which can be drawn for complete seclusion. The apartment is for the family and immediate relatives of the dead person. The third compartment is designed for others attending the funeral, and is also richly furnished. The car will accommodate forty persons.

HOUSEHOLD MATTERS.

TOMATO OMELET.

Scald and skin three ripe tomatoes, quarter them; fry a quarter of an onion (minced) in an ounce of butter, toss the tomatoes in this, add a little water to prevent burning; season with salt, a pinch of cayenne and a very slight suspicion of mace; simmer until reduced to a pulp. Break three eggs separately, beat them together, put them in the frying pan, and when slightly browned on the bottom prepare to fold the omelet; just before doing so add the tomato pulp and turn the omelet out on a hot dish, surround it with a little tomato sauce and serve.—New York Sun.

CHOW CHOW.

Half peck of green tomatoes, two large heads of cabbage, fifteen large onions, twenty-five cucumbers, one pint grated horseradish, half-pound white mustard seed, one ounce celery seed, fifteen or twenty small onions, white, half-teacup ground pepper, turmeric and cinamon each. Chop the tomatoes, cabbage, onions and cucumbers in small pieces and salt them down one night. In the morning drain off the brine and put them to soak in vinegar and water for two days, drain off again and mix in the spices. Boil one and one-half gallons of vinegar and four pounds of brown sugar together and pour over them hot. Do this three mornings successively. The third time mix two half-pound boxes of mustard with one-half pint of pure salad oil and add to it.—Washington Star.

CORN CHOWDER.

One pint of canned corn, chopped fine, one and a half pints raw potatoes sliced thin, three or four slices of salt pork, one onion, milk, flour and Boston crackers. Fry the pork in a deep kettle, and then take out the pieces. Slice the onion and fry in this fat; put in corn and potatoes in layers, sprinkling with salt and pepper, and dredging well with flour. Pour over one generous pint of hot water, cover, and cook until the potatoes are tender, which will be in about twenty minutes. Mix two level tablespoonfuls of flour with a little cold milk, add it to one pint of milk and stir into the chowder. Split six Boston crackers, dip in a little cold water for a minute, add them, boil up once and serve. This makes a very satisfying luncheon dish, or it may be served as a soup course at dinner, in which case little else will be required, save a simple salad and dessert.—New York Observer.

TURKEY SCALLOP.

This savory dish was cooked by a venerable "Auntie," once the famous chef in the house of a wealthy Southern family. Make a pint of gravy from the bones and skin; chop the bits of meat picked from the bones very fine. Have ready a buttered pudding dish with a layer of dried and rolled bread or cracker crumbs; add a layer of the minced turkey, and dot with bits of butter, seasoning with salt and pepper. Moisten each layer with some of the gravy, with either milk or oyster liquor added, and so continue until the dish is full. Let the top layer be of crumbs, seasoned or dotted with butter and moistened with the gravy or make a crust with crumbs wet with gravy, milk or oyster liquor, or all three mixed, beaten up with two eggs. Spread it smoothly over the top about a quarter of an inch thick; invert a pie dish over it and bake in a moderate oven until it begins to bubble at the sides; remove the cover and brown. After you have partaken of this dish you will think the second state of that bird better than the first.—American Agriculturist.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Oil cloths will last longer if one or two layers of wadded carpet lining are laid under them.

To wash finger-marks from looking-glasses or windows put a few drops of ammonia on a moist rag and make quick work of it.

Jelly bags should always be of white flannel. When quite new they must be well washed before using to get out all the grease of the wool.

Clear boiling water will remove tea stains and many fruit stains. Pour the water through the stain, and thus prevent it spreading over the fabric.

Always keep carbolic acid convenient for use. It is one of the best disinfectants and insects destroyers. A small quantity need only be applied at a time.

When the rubber rollers of a wringer become sticky, as they very often do after wringing flannels, rub with kerosene and wipe dry, and they will be nice and smooth.

Lay a piece of thick canton flannel under your tablecloth. Even coarse napery will look a much better quality with a subcover than if spread directly over the bare table top.

To keep green vegetables for a day or two sprinkle with water and then place on a cellar floor. Fruit should not be kept in the cellar, but put out singly and stood in a dark, dry, cool place.

Corn salad is a small green leaf, which resembles that of the sown lettuce, and is served with a simple French dressing. It wilts quickly, consequently must not be dressed until serving time.

To cure felons mix one ounce venice turpentine with one ounce of water, and with a smooth stick mix and spread a thick coating of it around the finger; bind on with a cloth and renew daily.

Inks for rubber stamps or type can be made as follows: Sulphate of manganese, two teaspoonfuls; lamp black, one teaspoonful; powdered loaf sugar, four teaspoonfuls. Rub into paste with water.

Javelle water, used to remove tea, coffee, grass and fruit stains from linen, is made thus: Mix well in an earthen vessel one pound of sal soda, five cents' worth of chloride of lime and two quarts of soft water.

To take ink stains out of a mahogany table, dip a feather in a spoonful of water mixed with eight drops of nitre and apply to the stain. Rub with a wet cloth immediately. Very deep stains require a stronger solution.

Oil for lubricating guns may be purified by putting a few shot into a bottle with some olive oil. Expose it to the sun, and in a few days a quantity of cloudy matter will separate, and fine, clear oil that will not clog may be decanted off.

To make a cement for closing crevices in stove plates, etc., mix finely-powdered iron, to be had of any druggist, with water-glass, to a thick paste. Coat the crevices and then build a fire which will melt the cement and combine it with the surrounding metal firmly.

CURIOUS FACTS.

In India a medical student's hair turned white during an examination.

Wood can be sawed in veneers only one two-hundredths of an inch thick.

The weight of the heart is from eight to twelve ounces. It beats 100,000 times a day.

If all the telephone wires in this country were stretched in a continuous line they would go seven times around the globe.

The latest fad in photography is the portrait stamp. It is the size of a postage stamp, and is gummed ready to apply to letters.

In Berlin heavy wagons are not allowed on certain streets. In Paris any cartload of rattling material must be fastened till it can't rattle.

The record for hard-boiled egg-eating is held by a young man named Canary, who once disposed of forty-two eggs in forty-five minutes.

What an Ohio farmer plowed up and took to be the bones of an ancient ten feet in height turned out to be the skeletons of two five-foot men.

The sweetest thing King Solomon knew of was honey, but in these day that delicacy is positively sour compared to three or four different compounds.

The French factory of Matois is the only one in the world where glass large and perfect enough for the lenses of a big telescope can be successfully cast.

Alfred S. Kidder, of Portland, Oregon, inherited $50,000 four years ago. He lost it at poker, and when his last $500 went that way recently in Richmond, Va., he blew out his brains.

Belgium is a poor place for physicians. A writer to a medical journal published there says that they have the care of three-fourths of the population, get nothing at all from one-half of their patients and very poor pay from the rest.

In 1687 the sea retired from the shores of Peru, and returned in mountainous waves, which destroyed everything on the coast. In 1726 the same phenomenon took place, and only 200 out of 4000 inhabitants of Callao saved themselves.

The latest crank prominently reported is the madstone crank in New York city who sublimely offers to allow himself to be bitten by a mad dog for and in consideration of the sum of $500, relying on his precious madstone to effect a cure.

Under what is known as the Union of Calmar, Denmark, Sweden and Norway were united in June, 1396, under Margaret, Queen of Norway and Sweden, "the Semiramis of the North." The union continued until dissolved by Gustavus Vasa in 1523.

For several years there was a standing offer of $10 for a partridge's nest containing more than twelve eggs, the records at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington giving that as the greatest number of eggs of that species to a nest. A party of Worcester (Mass.) girls recently won the money by finding a nest with fifteen eggs.

The reason why fishes and mollusks living more than three miles under water are able to bear a pressure of several tons is that they have exceedingly loose tissues, which allow the water to flow freely through every interstice, and thus equalize the weight. When the pressure is removed they perish.

America's Great Success.

Sixty millions of people enjoy already the incomparable advantages which our incomparable institutions offer to one and all, but a hundred millions of people could now be sustained without increasing the area of a single farm or adding one to their number by merely bringing the product up to the average standard of reasonably good agriculture, and then there might remain for export twice the quantity we now send abroad to feed the hungry of foreign lands. The Empire of Germany, together with Holland and Belgium has about the same extent of territoty as the State of Texas, and the good land of the farmer is no better than in the latter, and, while the population of Texas is not over 2,000,000, the population of Germany, Holland and Belgium exceeds 50,000,000. France, with an area of 132,000,000 of acres and 38,000,000 of people, has less land than Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska, and yet these three States only have a population of about 4,000,000, and the largest portion of their land is as fertile as that of France.

A like comparison might be made in reference to other parts of the United States and other nations, showing the same results. The four States just mentioned do not count more than six million people, but they could easily sustain a population equal to that of Great Britain, Germany and France put together. There can be no doubt of the agricultural capabilities of the United States to maintain a population greater than that of any other equally large inhabitable portion of the globe, and there is no doubt that the American race is destined to exercise the commanding influence in the world's future. When Napoleon I. drew up his troops before the Mamelukes under the shadow of the great pyramids, pointing to the latter, he said: "Soldiers, remember that from yonder heights forty centuries look down upon you!" Americans may justly and proudly, from the pyramid top of opportunity, look back on four centuries and stretch out their arms into the future with power to mold the destinies of unborn millions, for they occupy the Gibraltar of the ages, which commands the future of the world.—Mail and Express.

Where Haircloth Comes From.

"Yes," said a furniture man on the Bowery a few days ago, "the manufacture of haircloth has fallen off considerably, chiefly because it is not used to such a great extent as it used to be. Furniture covered with haircloth used to be very popular, but other materials have superseded it. And speaking of haircloth, many people are ignorant of where the hair comes from that was used in the manufacture. The first piece of haircloth that was made in this country was made in Rahway, N. J., in 1813. Two New York men were the patentees, and it was called Taurine cloth. It was made from the hair of cattle, with a mixture of wool. The sources of supply for horse hair were Siberia, which probably furnished sixty per cent. of the amount used, and South America, which furnished about twenty-five per cent. The rest was collected in other countries. What is collected in Tartary, Siberia and other Russian possessions is brought to Tobolsk, where there is an annual fair, in which the sale of this hair is one of the principal articles of merchandise."—New York World.

Appreciation.

It is only when a person becomes an invalid that they appreciate good health. It is only when they have tried various advertised remedies and found no relief that they feel that they would appreciate a sure restorative. Thousands there are who appreciate one remedy, for it saved them after all other treatments failed. Failing in health, growing in weakness, they craved a tonic that would give them vim and vigor. They found it in B. B. B., the greatest strengthening tonic in the world. The best blood purifier; a safe prescription that never has failed to relieve every symptom of impure blood. Read testimonials from thousands, who have been cured. Write Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga., for medical advice. Be saved to health and longevity ere it is too late.

Effects of the Suez Canal.

Some years ago it was proposed to expedite the opening up of the interior of Africa by letting in the waters of the ocean to the Great Sahara, which would thus become an immense inland lake, to the shores of which ready access could be gained by ships. One of the objections raised to the scheme was that it would seriously affect the climate not only of the adjacent countries, but of the whole of Europe, which would be turned into an Arctic region. It is interesting to recall this circumstance in view of one of the unforeseen consequences of the opening of the Suez canal which is now reported. The climate of lower Egypt has been markedly modified, and rain, which was previously almost unknown there, has become relatively frequent. Another singular result is not so satisfactory; the sharks of the Indian ocean have found their way through the canal into the eastern part of the Mediterranean and the Adriatic, and sea bathing at the ports of Fiume and Pola is rendered impracticable.

Making Opium.

Opium is got by cutting the capsule of the poppy flower with a notched iron instrument at sunrise, and by the next morning a drop or two of juice has oozed out. This is scraped off and saved by the grower, and after he has a vessel full of it it is strained and dried. It takes a great many poppies to make a pound of opium, and it goes through a number of processes before it is ready for the market. In a liquid state it looks like a dark strawberry jam.

Prince of the Bootblacks.

Antonio Aste, the Prince of the New York bootblacks, was recently married in great style in that city. He owns a number of the most valuable stands in town, and is the proprietor of several tenement houses—all purchased by money raised in blacking shoes. His bride is a pretty young Italian girl named Annie Barbieri, who wore on the occasion a white silk dress trimmed with valuable lace. They will go to Europe for their bridal tour.

A Huge Lump.

A piece of coal, weighing five and a half tons, was cut at Abercarn colliery, Cornwall, England, and sent to the Paris exhibition. The block measured 7 feet 6 inches long, 5 feet 6 inches wide and 3 feet 6 inches deep. It was hauled for a mile along the workings to the pit's bottom, where it had to be trimmed before being raised. Five other blocks, each weighing two and a half tons were also forwarded to Paris.

Save That Sweet Girl!

Don't let that beautiful girl fade and droop into invalidism or sink into an early grave for want of timely care at the most critical stage of her life. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will aid in regulating her health and establishing it on a firm basis and may save her years of chronic suffering and consequent unhappiness.

A more pleasant physic
You never will find
Than Pierce's small "Pellets,"
The Purgative kind.

The king of Spain is not yet three years old, and is a rosy-cheeked, fair child of bright disposition and more than ordinary quickness and curiosity for his age.

What do you chew?
"LUCY HINTON!"
Why?
Because it is the best I can find.
Who makes it?
T. C. Williams Co., Richmond, Va.
Who sells it?
All dealers.
How can I recognize it?
The name Lucy Hinton is on every plug.

Coral is said to be a coming rage. It is to be worn in all forms, even for buttons.

Taking it altogether, there never was a time when our country was enjoying greater prosperity than at the present moment, and yet there are thousands of people in the land who are fussing and fuming about hard times. No doubt but what many of them are honest in their complaints, and it is often because they have not found the right kind of work or the right way to do it. Now, if business is not moving along with you satisfactorily, take our advice and write to B. F. Johnson & Co., Richmond, Va. It is more than likely that they can help you, at any rate, it would cost you nothing but a postage stamp to apply to them.

A Remedy for Indigestion.

For ladies and children whose taste cannot be offended with impunity, Hamburg Figs form a remedy for constipation, indigestion, piles, and liver complaints which is as pleasant to take as it is effective in use. 25 cents. Dose one Fig. Mack Drug Co., N. Y.

Heirs Wanted.

Information is wanted of the whereabouts of Johanna Wilson, daughter of Mark Sweeney, wife of Thomas Wilson, born in Limerick Co., Ireland. She is, if living, heir to an estate. If dead, her children or next of kin are wanted. Address, W. J. Covil, Webster City, Iowa.

If afflicted with sore eyes use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye-water. Druggists sell at 25c. per bottle Old smokers prefer "Tansill's Punch" 5c. Cigar to most 10 centers.

Summer Weakness

is quickly overcome by the toning, reviving and blood purifying qualities of Hood's Sarsaparilla. This popular medicine drives off that tired feeling and cures sick headache, dyspepsia, scrofula, and all humors. Thousands testify that Hood's Sarsaparilla "makes the weak strong."

"My health was poor, as I had frequent sick headaches, could not sleep well, did not have much appetite, and had no ambition to work. I have taken less than a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla and feel like a new person."—Mrs. W. A. [illegible], West Hanover, Mass.

N. B.—If you decide to take Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to buy any other.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

THE STORY OF AMERICA.

JUST PUBLISHED. It reads like a romance; is immensely popular. An able solicitor, Woman or Man, can take 15 to 20 orders a day. Reliable representative wanted in every county in the U. S. Apply early if you want a choice of this great book. (Salary to right party.) R. S. KING PUBLISHING CO., Chicago, Illinois.

ORATORS say Piso's Cure for Consumption is THE BEST for keeping the voice clear. 25 cents.

HOME STUDY. Book-keeping, Business Forms, Penmanship, Arithmetic, Short-hand, etc., thoroughly taught by MAIL. Circulars free. Bryant's College, 457 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y.

$25 [illegible] MEDICAL CO. Richmond, Va.

BRYANT & STRATTON Business College [illegible]

BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR
A SPECIFIC FOR PAINFUL PROFUSE SCANTY SUPPRESSED AND IRREGULA MENSTRUATION OR MONTHLY SICKNESS
IF TAKEN DURING CHANGE OF LIFE GREAT DANGER & SUFFERING WILL BE AVOIDED
BOOK "TO WOMAN" MAILED FREE
BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO. ATLANTA GA.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

1,000 CASES TINWARE.

$15.00 Per Case. Freight Prepa
RETAILS FOR $25.00.

CONTENTS AND RETAIL PRICES:

6 Coffee Pots, 1 quart	.10
12 Coffee Pots, 2 quart	.15
6 Coffee Pots, 3 quart	.20
6 Stamped Wash Basins, 10 in	.05
6 Stamped Wash Basins, 11½ in	.10
6 Stamped Wash Basins, 12 in	.15
48 Cups, 1 pint	.05
12 Cups, 1 quart	.10
12 Covered Buckets, 1½ pint	.05
24 Covered Buckets, 2 quart	.10
6 Covered Buckets, 3 quart	.15
6 Covered Buckets, 4 quart	.20
6 Milk Buckets, 4 quart	.10
6 Milk Buckets, 8 quart	.15
12 Stamped Dippers, ½ pint	.05
12 Cocoa Shape Dippers, bl'k handle	.10
18 Stamped Plates, 9 in	.05
12 Stamped Milk Pans, 6½ in	.05
12 Stamped Milk Pans, 11 in	.10
6 Stamped Milk Pans, 13 in	.15
6 Stamped Milk Pans, 15 in	.20
6 Dish Pans, 6 quart	.10
6 Dish Pans, 10 quart	.20
3 Dish Pans, 12 quart	.25

Total Retail Selling Price....... $25.00

Shipped promptly to any point in your State, and FREIGHT PREPAID, on receipt of $15.00.

L. F. BROWN, Charleston, S. C.
Importer and Jobber of Earthenware, Tinware, Glassware.

IF YOU WISH A GOOD REVOLVER purchase one of the celebrated SMITH & WESSON arms. The finest small arms ever manufactured and the first choice of all experts. Manufactured in calibres 32, 38 and 44-100. Single or double action, Safety Hammerless and Target models. Constructed entirely of best quality wrought steel, carefully inspected for workmanship and stock, they are unrivaled for finish, durability and accuracy. Do not be deceived by cheap malleable cast-iron imitations which are often sold for the genuine article and are not only unreliable, but dangerous. The SMITH & WESSON Revolvers are all stamped upon the barrels with firm's name, address and dates of patents and are guaranteed perfect in every detail. Insist upon having the genuine article, and if your dealer cannot supply you an order sent to address below will receive prompt and careful attention. Descriptive catalogue and prices furnished upon application.

SMITH & WESSON, Springfield, Mass.
Mention this paper.

JONES HE PAYS THE FREIGHT.
5 Ton Wagon Scales, Iron Levers, Steel Bearings, Brass Tare Beam and Beam Box for $60.
Every size Scale. For free price list mention this paper and address JONES OF BINGHAMTON, BINGHAMTON, N. Y.

Dr. Lobb, 329 N. 15th St., PHILA., PA. After ALL others fail, consult

Twenty years' continuous practice in the treatment and cure of the awful effects of early vice, destroying both mind and body. Medicine and treatment for one month, Five Dollars, sent securely sealed from observation to any address. Book on Special Diseases free.

ARE YOU THINKING OF BUYING A Cotton or Hay Press? We manufacture a Cotton Press and two Hay Presses. Will send Circulars and Price List upon application.
ROANOKE IRON AND WOOD WORKS, CHATTANOOGA, TENN. P. O. Box 280.

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT
TULANE UNIVERSITY OF LOUISIAN
[Formerly, 1847–1884, the University of Louisiana.] Its advantages for practical instruction, and especially in the diseases of the South-west, are unequaled, as the law secures it superabundant materials from the great Charity Hospital with its 700 beds, and 20,000 patients annually. Students have no hospital-fees to pay and special instruction is daily given at the bedside of the sick, as in no other institution. For catalogue or information, address
Prof. S. E. CHAILLÉ, M. D., Dean,
P. O. Drawer 261, New Orleans, La.

DROPSY TREATED FREE.
Positively Cured with Vegetable Remedies. Have cured thousands of cases. Cure patients pronounced hopeless by best physicians. From first dose symptoms disappear; in ten days at least two-thirds all symptoms removed. Send for free book testimonials of miraculous cures. Ten days' treatment free by mail. If you order trial, send 10c. in stamps to pay postage. Dr. H. H. Green & Sons, Atlanta, Ga.

DUTCHER'S FLY KILLER
Makes a clean sweep. Every sheet will kill a quart of flies. Stops buzzing around ears, diving at eyes, tickling your nose, skips hard words and secures peace at trifling expense. Send 25 cents for 5 sheets to F. DUTCHER, St. Albans, Vt.

Plantation Engines With Self-Contained RETURN FLUE BOILERS, FOR DRIVING COTTON GINS and MILLS. Illustrated Pamphlet Free. Address JAMES LEFFEL & CO., SPRINGFIELD, OHIO, or 110 Liberty St., New York.

Patronize HOME INDUSTRY!
BUY SOUTHERN-MADE PRINTING INKS
—FROM—
FRANK J. COHEN, General Agent
23 East Alabama St., ATLANTA, GA.

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH PENNYROYAL PILLS. Red Cross Diamond Brand. The only reliable pill for sale. Safe and sure. Ladies, ask Druggist for the Diamond Brand, in red metallic boxes sealed with blue ribbon. Take no other. Send 4c. (stamps) for particulars and "Relief for Ladies," in letter, by mail. Name Paper. Chichester Chemical Co., Madison Sq., Philada., Pa.

WANTED, One Agent in each County to make $5 to $10 a Day Selling the FARMER'S GIN SHARPENER. New way of sharpening gins. Make your old gins new; keep your new gins so. No files. Anyone can use it. Commission paid agent on ALL sales in county, whether made by us or him. 300 machines in use since September last. Machines and satisfaction guaranteed. Write at once to J. G. FALLS & CO., Memphis, Tenn.

OPIUM and Whiskey Habits cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE. B. M. WOOLLEY, M.D. Atlanta, Ga. Office 65½ Whitehall St.

MUSIC—ART—ELOCUTION and General Culture. Desirable Positions open to progressive students. All interested will receive valuable information Free, by addressing E. TOURJEE, Boston, Mass.

$5 to $8 a day. Samples worth $2.15 Free. Lines not under horse's feet. Write Brewster Safety Rein Holder Co., Holly, Mich.

PEERLESS DYES Are the BEST.

I prescribe and fully endorse Big G as the only specific for the certain cure of this disease. G. H. INGRAHAM, M. D., Amsterdam, N. Y. We have sold Big G for many years, and it has given the best of satisfaction. D. R. DYCHE & CO., Chicago, Ill. $1.00. Sold by Druggists.

A.N.U.

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per square, of one inch or less, for the first, and fifty Cents for each subsequent insertion.

Inches.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
1 Inch	$ 5 00	$ 7 50	$ 11 25
2 Inches	7 00	11 25	16 00
3 Inches	10 00	15 00	22 50
4 Inches	12 50	20 00	27 00
5 Inches	15 00	22 50	33 00
¼ Column	18 00	27 00	40 00
½ Column	27 00	40 00	60 00
1 Column	40 00	60 00	100 00

The Chilton View.

W. H. LAWRENCE, Editor and Publisher. "WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION." TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME VIII. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, AUGUST 22, 1889. NUMBER 43.

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line each insertion.

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be headed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

☞ The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

CAHEEN'S AS USUAL

Will Begin Bright and Early Monday Morning

-THEIR GREAT-

MIDSUMMER COST CLEARING SALE!

FIRST AVENUE, - - - - BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Everything has been arranged to make this in all probability one of the greatest sales in the history of Birmingham. Remember you will have a stock of over $100,000 to select from and these goods were purchased for for first-class class city trade and were not intended for any snide catch-penny business.

A TERIFIC BLOW TO COMPETITION!

A Life's Twilights.

When the lingering hours were laden
With the spells of a summer day,
And a wreck of light and beauty
On the far horizon lay;
When the sky grew soft with twilight,
Ere the stars began to throng,
She passed me lightly humming
A snatch of a schoolday song;
And the dream still moves my fancy,
That I dreamed with a heart aglow,
As she tripped away to the sunset,
To the sunset long ago.

As lovers part we parted,
Where the winding paths divide,
When the evening clouds were golden
And the day grew dreamy-eyed.
Her face was bright with blushes,
And her eyes with smiles and tears,
While the sunlight fell around us
Like a dream of coming years,
And the air seemed hushed with music
That whispered soft and low,
As she tripped away to the sunset,
To the sunset long ago.

There's a spot where silent shadows,
When the sun is brightest, lie;
There's a grave beneath the maples,
Where the wild winds sink and sigh,
And there I often wander,
With a saddened heart, alone,
When the dewy night-wind murmurs
Of the noisy day that's flown.
And recall the dreams I cherished
Ere the world grew dark with woe,
When they bore her away to the sunset,
To the sunset long ago.

There are shadows falling 'round me
And the darkness soon will close,
For my star is swiftly sinking
To the night from which it rose,
And I often hear the whispers
Of hovering spirit bands
And the weird and airy music
That floats from spirit lands.
Yet each dream in my fancy lingers,
That I dreamed so long ago,
As I move away to the sunset,
To the sunset's dying glow.

—P. McArthur in Detroit Free Press.

TOO MUCH ALIKE.

BY LIEUT. J. DARK CHANDLER.

"Yes," assented Mr. Bird, with evident appreciation, as he ran his fingers carelessly through his iron-gray hair; "yes, sir, as you observe, they are very pretty girls, and their likeness to each other, in every way, is truly wonderful."

"The remark was made in answer to a tribute of respect which the writer had paid to a pair of young ladies—I use the word "pair" advisedly, because they were twins—who had passed out of the office of Mr. Bird, one of the oldest and most respected members of the Middlesex bar.

"I knew the mother of those girls and her sisters, and their parents, more than thirty years ago. The grandparents of those girls were clients of the man with whom I read law, and afterward their children became my clients, and now I am the legal adviser of both the grandchildren. I don't think, however, that those children are as much alike as were their mother and her sister. You could not tell them apart at all, unless you had them together.

At this point one of the young ladies returned, with a little rush and flurry, saying, in a very pretty tone.

"I beg your pardon, Mr. Bird, but I went off without my gloves."

"Don't apologize, don't apologize, I pray, Miss—Miss—ah, Miss Annie. I am only too glad too see you in my office or my home, at any time."

"Alice, you mean, Mr. Bird; but I thank you for the compliment all the same," and away she fluttered.

"Confound it!" growled the old gentleman, as he resumed his seat, after closing the door upon the fair visitor. "I'd have sworn that one was Annie." Then he looked up with a smile, after thinking a few minutes, and resumed: "If you can spare five minutes and care to hear it, I will tell you how I came near going crazy getting acquainted with the mother of those young ladies and her sister."

Of course, nothing would please me better, and I said so at once. Mr. Bird produced an ancient and most respectable brand of cigars, and when we had lighted up he proceeded:

"The maiden name of those young ladies' mother and her twin sister was Van Scriver, and their father, old John Van Scriver, was a large farmer and miller, quite wealthy, residing near Princeton. I had been admitted to the bar only about a year when he died, and my preceptor in whose office I was still located, had the settlement of the estate.

"On one occasion he wrote to the girls, who were the only heirs, that he needed certain memoranda from some papers in the homestead, and that on a day he mentioned he would be there to get them, asking the girls to look the papers up in the meantime. When the day came the old man was particularly engaged, and asked me to take his horses and do the errand; and I was only too glad to oblige him.

"In due season I reached the homestead, was received by a staid, elderly housekeeper and ushered into the parlor, where I was greeted by one of the brightest and most beautiful young ladies I had ever met with. I told her who I was and how I came to be there.

"'That is all satisfactory, Mr. Bird. We are glad to see any friend of Mr. Adair's. Be seated, and I will have the papers for you in a few minutes. Excuse me, please,' and she disappeared.

"I sat pleasurably thinking of the young lady who had just left me, when the housekeeper came in with refreshments, after the then good, old-fashioned custom, and soon left me to enjoy them. I had been alone again but a very short time, it appeared to me, when the young lady returned with papers in her hand; but instead of coming forward, she stopped and stared at me in the most embarrassing way.

"'Did you find the papers?' I asked, in my best society tones.

"'Sir!' she exclaimed, with Jack Frost in her beautiful voice. 'Did I what?'

"'Find the papers you went after.'

"'What are you talking about? Who are you, sir, and pray what are doing here?'

"'The only thing I'm doing at present, madam,' I responded, in tones quite as glacial as her own, 'is leaving here as soon as possible.'

"'Oh, thank you,' she replied, with lofty urbanity, as the maddest young man in New Jersey slammed the door behind him.

"Long afterward I learned that I had hardly driven away when the housekeeper re-entered the room, and Miss Laura Van Scriver, with her dignity still at its full height, demanded:

"'Who was that horrid, impudent young man I found in the parlor just now?"

"'Why, he's the young man Mr. Adair sent down for some papers that Miss Maggie has gone to get. Where is he?'

"Miss Laura responded by dropping into a chair and exclaiming, with almost a scream:

"'Oh, my! haven't I done it? Why, Mrs. Elkins, I actually drove the poor fellow out of the house. What in the world will I do? Don't, for gracious sake, tell Maggie. I'll make it up with Mr. Adair somehow, indeed I will.'

"The result was that Miss Maggie Van Scriver never heard of my cavalier treatment, and was for a time filled with wonder as to what manner of business man I could possibly be, having driven fifteen miles to do an errand and then gone off without courtesy or performance.

"I nursed my wrath and kept it nice and warm until I reached home, and then poured it all out to Mr. Adair, whose laughter was so long and uproarious that I took on a fresh installment of virtuous indignation, and was about giving the old gentleman a piece of my mind when he bade me shut up, while he wiped away the tears of hilarity and comforted me by saying: 'Bird, my dear fellow, it is all my fault. I utterly forgot to tell you that the girls are twins, and so terribly alike that you can't tell one of them from both.'

"The next day brought a wondering letter from Miss Maggie, asking what had caused my sudden and uncomfortable departure, and would Mr. Adair please tell her what it all meant, anyhow.

"'Now, here's your chance, Bird,' said the old man, handing me the letter. 'Just take my team and have another drive down there. You can fix up the mistake, whatever it is, in a jiffy, and get what I want this time sure.'

"Away I went, and in due time was in the Van Scriver parlor. I took a critical look at the young lady as she came forward and offered me her hand, which I lost no time in taking. I was sure of Maggie Van Scriver now.

"'I'm very glad to see you, Mr. Bird. Pray what made you leave so unceremoniously on Monday?'

"'Well, Miss Maggie, I thought it was about the best thing I could do under the circumstances.'

"'What? Just because I offered you a little refreshments?'

"'Not at all. The refreshments were as acceptable as they were gracefully tendered.'

"'Then why did you go away before I returned?'

"'I didn't go before you returned. I staid until you came back and practically turned me out of the house.'

"'I turned you out of the house!' she exclaimed, in blank astonishment. Why, I never did anything of the kind.'

"I am sorry to contradict a lady; but you certainly did.

"By this time I had forgotten all about the twins in the case, and Miss Maggie's brow darkened ominously as she said gravely:

"'Mr. Bird, have you been drinking? I wish you to distinctly understand that I am not a story teller; and I say I never saw you after I went out of this room for the papers.'

"'Miss Van Scriver, I want it equally, distinctly and emphatically borne in mind that I am not a liar, and if you had not in effect turned me out of the house, pretending to know nothing about me, I should not have gone away.'

"Then Miss Maggie's eyes flashed as she retorted:

"'And you cannot oblige me more than by going away again.'

"I was half way across the yard to my carriage when I heard a tearfully penitent voice crying: 'Oh, Maggie! Call him back! Don't let him go! It was I that did it!'

"I turned in considerable astonishment, and there stood both girls on the porch, looking so terribly alike that, staring at them in semi-idiotic wonder, I could not for the life of me have told which was the other.

"There is but little more of it. The story of how Laura 'fired me out' and concealed the fact from Maggie had to be told numberless times, until the moon shone brightly down upon my pleasant reflections as I pursued homeward the lonely road that was not lonely at all."

"Well," asked the writer, "is that all there is of it?"

"Yes," said Mr. Bird, with a queer smile, "except that I am the uncle of those two girls that just left us and the mischievous Laura is their aunt."

Consumption Caught from Earrings.

The British Medical Journal reports a case of tuberculosis which was contracted by wearing a pair of earrings. The patient, a girl of fourteen years, removed the earrings from the ears of a young girl who died of consumption, and wore them in her own ears. Soon after, an ulcer formed in the left year, the discharge from which, when examined was found to contain tubercle bacilli, and a gland in the neck also enlarged and ulcerated. The patient developed pulmonary consumption, and at the date of the report was sinking rapidly.

PEARLS OF THOUGHT.

At a wedding men laugh and women cry.

Do not let others spend the money you earn.

Don't do work unworthy of you if you can avoid it.

Gratitude is the music of the heart when the chords are swept by kindness.

The multitude is like the sea; it either bears you up or swallows you, according to the wind.

Politeness is like an air cushion; there may be nothing in it, but it eases our jolts wonderfully.

We ought not to judge of men's merits by their qualifications, but by the use they make of them.

Strictly speaking, a prince requires nothing but eyes and ears; he does not need a mouth except to smile.

As for the place you were cast, don't find fault with that; you need not to be a horse because you were born in a stable.

Politics resemble a desert in which a blast of wind forms an enormous mountain and in which dangerous mirages are frequent.

Japanese Paper.

The Japanese beat the world for hand-made paper. The Japanese paper is especially good for etching, and is greatly in vogue among artists. It is exceedingly durable and highly finished, and prints from it are very much finer than any other quality of paper. The hand-made parchment paper is made from the inner bark of the sycamore tree and is of very tough fibre and is beautifully finished. The Japanese government has official documents in its possession printed upon this parchment, which are as good as new today, after 1,500 years' wear and tear. The Japs themselves use this paper for houses, coats, umbrellas, screens and every imaginable purpose. The manufacture of hand-made paper is now being principally conducted by the Japanese government as a national enterprise.

Some of the finest residences in the United States and many public buildings have been lately decorated with Japanese wall paper. This is fast becoming one of their leading lines for export. The papers are most gorgeous in hue and design, and are very strong and durable. Another attractive feature about them is that they can be peeled right off the wall without any trouble or injury to the wall.—Detroit Free Press.

Expensive School Life.

A curious manuscript, preserved in a Devonshire family, throws some interesting light on school life at Eton in the reign of Queen Elizabeth. It is a record of the school expenses of the sons of Sir William Cavendish of Chatsworth, and includes the following items: "A breast of mutton, 10d.; a small chicken, 4d.; a week's board, 5s. each, besides the wood burned in their chamber; an old woman for sweeping and cleaning the chamber, 2d.; mending a shoe, 1d.; three candles, 3d.; a book, 'Æsop's Fables,' 4d.; two pairs of shoes, 1s. 4d.; two bunch of wax lights, 1d." The total expenses of an ordinary scholar in the year 1514, were about £5 per annum. The Cavendish boys would cost a larger sum, for they had, among other luxuries, a man-servant to wait upon them.

A Peculiar Will.

"John Colter, I give you all this property when I die, for you and your wife, for taking care of me so long, and Tim Crowley, you hear me say this," is the way James Ryan's last will disposed of a $500 lot. The bequest written by one of Ryan's friends, was filed for probate yesterday.—San Francisco Chronicle.

An Incident of City Life.

In a Sixth avenue elevated train at Forty-second street, Monday, a tall, well-dressed and prosperous-looking man, apparently 50 years old, entered a car and took a seat in one of the cross sections. He pulled a newspaper from his pocket and began to read. In turning the paper he glanced over it at a woman who sat opposite. With visible agitation he laid down the paper and fairly stared at the lady. His face grew red and his eyes bulged out of his head. Then, with a suddenness that was startling, he leaned over, took the young woman's face between his hands, and planted two resounding kisses on her lips.

She jumped to her feet in consternation and gave a little scream, whereupon the gentleman said: "Don't you know me, Mary?"

When it was her turn to stare at him she evidently knew him, for she quickly threw her arms about his neck and began crying. They paid no attention to the interest taken in them by the other passengers, but conversed in an animated manner until the train reached Fourteenth street and then alighted. In answer to inquiries later the man said:

"I'm not going to give you my name, but I will tell you the rest. When I was a boy of 15 I lived in Dayton, O. I ran away from home with a circus. Now I live in Butte, Mont., and am rich. This is my sister Mary, whom I have not seen in that time and have heard from only once. She says she wouldn't have known me, but I knew her. She is a boarding-house keeper in Harlem, but, by thunder, she's going to Montana with me. I may have acted a little foolish, but I think I would have done the same in church—in church, sir, when the preacher was praying."—New York Sun.

The Puget Sound Timber Region.

A lumber pile made of boards each 100 feet long and six feet in width would be an unprecedented sight in the East, but a gentleman recently returned from a visit to the coast of the North Pacific Ocean says that piles of lumber such as that are common at the mills on Puget Sound. "Boards 100 feet long and six feet wide, without a knot in them," he said, "are common from the gigantic fir trees of the Puget Sound forests. These trees grow to the enormous height of 250 feet, and the forests are so vast that, although the sawmills have been ripping 500,000,000 feet of lumber out of them every year for 10 years, the spaces made by these tremendous inroads seem no more than garden patches. Puget Sound has 1800 miles of shore line, and all along this line, and extending thence on both sides miles and miles further than the eye can see, is one vast and almost unbroken forest of these enormous trees. There is nothing like it anywhere on the Pacific coast. An official estimate places the amount of standing timber in that area at 500,000,000,000 feet, or 1000 years' supply, even at the enormous rate the timber is now being felled and sawed. The timber belt covers 30,000,000 acres of Washington Territory, an area equal to the states of Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut and New Hampshire. The markets for the Puget Sound lumber are entirely foreign, being South America, Australia, Central America and the Pacific Ocean islands."—Chicago Herald.

A Device to Make Coats Fit.

A simple little thing that is bound to net its inventor a fortune is a spring yoke to go about the neck and under the collar of a coat. It is specially designed to give shape and fit to the collars of fancy flannel, silk, pongee, linen, or seersucker coats, and by its use garments of that class fit as snugly as tailor made Spring or Winter clothing. The slovenliness of a Summer coat about the neck has been a material drawback, which this simple invention, sold in all the furnishing stores, obviates.

A SHIP'S WARD-ROOM.

HOW NAVAL OFFICERS LIVE WITHIN CLOSE QUARTERS.

A Little Odd World on a United States Man-of-war—Some Terrors of a Long Cruise, &c.

"Permission to smoke, Mr. Smith?"

"Certainly, Mr. Jones."

The scene is in the ward-room of a United States man-of-war, and the time is just after dinner, when the officers, ranged about the table, staff to right and line to left, are sipping their coffee and exchanging good-natured chaff. At the head sits the executive officer, and it is to him that Mr. Jones addresses the request for permission to smoke. As there is a guest at dinner, it is a matter of course that everyone may smoke a cigar with coffee, but it is equally a matter of course that no one shall do so without first asking permission of the senior line officer present. It is always wise aboard a man-of-war to ask permission before doing anything.

The wardroom is an odd little world, where the rigors of red tape and officialism are tempered by good fellowship or rendered well nigh unendurable by petty tyranny. Each ship has from ten to twenty officers in the wardroom. Here, often within smaller space than is accorded to as many convicts in a well regulated prison, these men eat, drink and sleep. Opening off the wardroom saloon are the officers' private rooms—in most ships tiny apartments, barely high enough for a tall man to stand up in and just about long enough for him to lie down in. Sitting at the wardroom table you may shake hands with a man in the nearest bunk.

Close quarters these. Some of the new ships have larger wardrooms, and again, some of them haven't. A voyage of three months in these cramped quarters is a crucial test of a man's social qualities. If the executive officer, who is in effect the captain of the wardroom, be a martinet or a blackguard, which latter he seldom is, the ship is a floating hades. Two or three evil spirits among subordinate officers may make a dozen brother officers uncomfortable. Sometimes a ship goes half round the world with the wardroom's occupants in a state of mutual hatred. Perhaps the executive officer is unpopular, and three-fourths of his subordinates never address him except in the course of duty. Perhaps the perennial war of line and staff is such that the right side of the dinner table finds it difficult to be civil to the left side. These conditions, however, seem to be comparatively rare, and now and then the wardroom is the scene of absolute peace and good will. The executive officer's unquestioned authority is exercised with courtesy and acknowledged without grudging. Line and staff agree to bury their mutual suspicions, and the best is made of close quarters. Of course nearly every wardroom has its bore. Perhaps he makes bad puns, perhaps he tells long stories, perhaps he talks about himself, perhaps he rides a hobby. He is soon found out. Indeed he is often known beforehand, for there are bores who have a fame throughout the navy. They have marred a whole generation of wardrooms in the China Seas, going down the Mediterranean, on the home station, in the frozen North, in the tropics. Brother officers study the register and rejoice to discover that some old familiar bore will be retired before another cruise.

What of ward-room talk? First, and always, chaff. The little vanities, the personal habits, the petty likes and dislikes of each are known and hinted at. Then there are stories to be told. One may tell the same story twice in a cruise without incurring serious penalty, but if the cruise be long, every man is likely to have spun his yarn until they are known by heart.

Ward-room talk is seldom learned. A dozen clever, well-educated, good-mannered men together, find it impossible to keep themselves up to a general discussion of literary, social or political topics. The magazines, from one to three months' old, are on board, and the ship can muster some hundreds of readable books. These are a resource when a shipmate is ill-tempered or tiresome. Dice are an unfailing source of amusement. You shake for everything.

Monotonous, isn't it? What is the compensation? Moderate pay for life; slow, but sure promotion; unquestioned social standing; the sight of strange lands the world over, and whatever moral reward comes of faithful service to the Stars and Stripes.—[New York Star.

AN INTERESTING STORY.

Watson—What was the largest trout you ever caught, Fly?

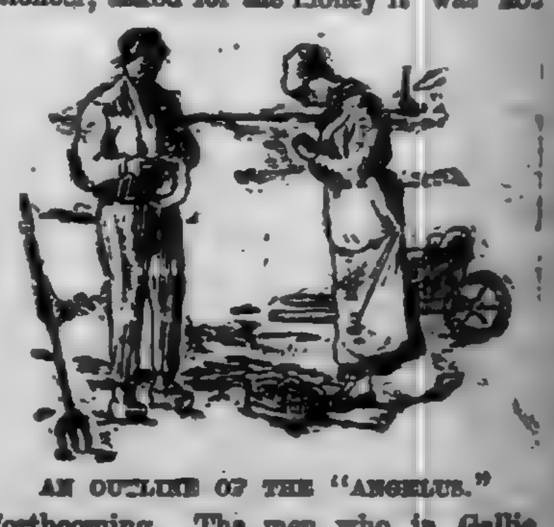
Fly—Let's see, what day of the week is this, Watson?

Watson—Monday, I believe. But what in the world has that to do with my question?

Fly—Oh, nothing, only I guess you'd better wait till Wednesday. I always like to get as far as possible from Sunday when I tell about that [illegible]

A Painting That Cost $110,000 Coming to America.

The American public, says the Chicago Herald, will soon have the pleasure of seeing a masterpiece of modern art. Jean Francois Millet's wonderful painting, "The Angelus," for the possession of which much desperate effort was made on behalf of the French Government, has been secured by the American Art Association, and will be exhibited throughout this country. At the Secretan sale in Paris, Monday, July 1, M. Proust, who bid the Government, offered $110,600 for the painting, and it was knocked down to him as the representative of the Louvre. The fact appeared that Mr. Proust did not have anything like the amount he offered, and when Challonier, the auctioneer, asked for the money it was not forthcoming. The men who in Gallic exaltation, when the picture was put on sale the second time, subscribed hundreds of thousands of francs, were not to be found.



AN OUTLINE OF THE "ANGELUS."

Challonier then sent for Mr. Sutton, of the American Art Association, and asked him to take the picture at his bid of $110,400. Sutton had advertised his willingness to give $10,000 to the poor of Paris if allowed to take the "Angelus" at the figure at which it was bid off for the Louvre, and his delight knew no bounds when told of the new turn of affairs. Before he could get to Challonier with a certified check high officers of the Government had induced the auctioneer to wait until 9 o'clock A. M. of July 4, and in the meantime Baron Rothschild had been induced to give his check for the entire amount on behalf of the Government. Believing he had no further show to buy the picture, Mr. Sutton decided to apply to the French Government for permission to exhibit the picture in New York next autumn, and, as an inducement intended to offer to make over half the proceeds to Millet's widow, who is now living in extreme poverty in Barbizon. However, the cables announced that M. Proust had written a letter in which he announced the withdrawal of the request of the Chamber of Deputies for a credit for the purchase of the painting. The cable also announced that Mr. Sutton had secured the famous painting, which will be exhibited in the American Art Gallery in New York after it has been shown in Paris for the benefit of the painter's widow.

Jean Francois Millet, the "painter of peasants," was born October 14, 1814, in the village of Gruchy, commune of Greville, canton of Beaumont (Manche), France. With the exception of his last years, when his genius had been recognized and he received many orders for paintings, his life was one long struggle with sickness, disappointment and sorrow. He died January 20, 1875.

So little were Millet's works esteemed during his lifetime that for the "Angelus," his greatest production, he received only 2000 francs, or $400. Of this masterpiece the artist, Richard Heath, writing in 1882, said: "The religious sentiment which pervaded Millet's paintings from the time he first began to follow his true vocation attains its highest expression in the 'Angelus.' It is that moment of the day when the whole creation is one in adoration. The sun has just passed away, and the purple afterglow suffuses all things. A man and a woman have been digging up potatoes; the sound of the angelus floating through the air has just reached them; they have risen and are repeating the traditional words: 'Angelus domini nuntiavit Mariæ.' The man stands solemn and motionless; the woman, her head bent, is wrapt in prayer. This painting, in our conception, exceeds in feeling anything the mediæval artists produced."

NOT AS LONESOME AS THAT.

Wife—Now, George, you won't be lonesome when I'm gone, will you?

Husband—I'll try not to be.

Wife—If you are, you know you can go up and see my mother.

Husband (quickly)—I don't think there will be any danger of my [illegible] lonesome.—[Epoch.

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., AUG. 22, 1889.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year	$1.50
One copy six months	75
One copy four "	50

Col. Thos. L. Bulger, of Dadeville, will be a candidate for Congress in this district next year according to a Wetumpka paper.

We welcome the evening Journal, of Montgomery among our exchanges. This is Mr. Horace Hood's paper, and as long as he is at the helm the Journal will be a bright and interesting paper. Success to it.

Dr. R. A. Mosely has received the appointment of collector of internal revenue for Alabama. Considering the villification and abuse which Mosely has had to bear as the Alabama champion of the g. o. p. it was thought he would have received a good appointment before this. It is Alex. Wilson's time now, but he seems to be giving most of his time and work to his friend Edwards.

An English lady declares that a mustard plaster on the elbow will relieve neuralgia in the face, and one on the back of the neck will relieve neuralgia in the head; and that many persons have been cured by this simple process. The remedy is worth trying, remarks the New Orleans Picayune. If neuralgia can be elbowed out of existence by a little thing like a mustard plaster it ought to be made to go.

Can any one tell us the name of the gentleman who introduced the famous resolutions denouncing the Montgomery Advertiser at the Alliance meeting in Auburn. Some supposed it was W. H. Lawson, of Montgomery, others thought it was commissioner Kolb. Both of these gentleman deny the least knowledge of the resolutions until they were presented to the Alliance for acting upon. The Advertiser has characterized them as the work of the "small politician" and since then that paper and every other seems to be too timid to mention who the "small politician" is. We only want to know the name of the gentleman, and care not whether he is a "small politician" or a whale. In either event he is already famous.

One of the richest men in New York is Christopher C. Baldwin, and he owes his wealth to the Elyton Land Company. Some ten years ago, Mr. Baldwin was rich, but lost his fortune in an unfortunate venture. "Calamity is the touchstone that shows the metal men are made of," and Mr. Baldwin determined to revive his fallen fortune. He cast about and saw that Birmingham offered the greatest field for future wealth. He wrote and talked a great deal about the south, and originated the expression the "New South." He invested in the stock of the Elyton Land Company and its unrivaled increase in value gave him an opportunity for still further investments, and to-day he has amassed a fortune greater than the one he lost. He owns a residence at Newport and will entertain Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland this week.

Mr. Vanderbilt was worth $200,000,000. If this sum were in standard silver dollars it would present such features as this:

Put lengthwise, dollar after dollar, it would stretch a distance of 4,673 miles, making a silver streak from New York across the ocean to Liverpool.

Piled up, dollar on dollar, it would reach a height of 355 miles.

Laid flat on the ground, the dollars would cover a space of nearly sixty acres.

The weight of this mass of silver would be 7,160 tons.

To transport it would require 359 cars carrying 20 tons each (this is the capacity of the strongest freight cars), making a train just about 2½ miles long.

In one dollar bills this two-hundred million dollar fortune would assume such shapes as this:

The bills stretched lengthwise would extend 23,574 miles or nearly the circumference of the earth at the equator.

Piled up one on another, close as leaves in a new book, they would reach a height of 12 miles.

Spread out on the ground they would cover 746 acres, or nearly the whole surface of Central Park.

The Negro Again.

A negro educated enough to write a caustic newspaper article full of incendiary teachings and malicious innuendoes has stirred the whites of Selma and of the State this week; and given us an old and rather villainous subject to exercise our thoughts upon, and perhaps later a subject upon which the whites of the locality may have to exercise with the famous and deadly Winchester. That such troubles are likely to become general is not at all probable even in those sections where the negroes are in the majority. But that they will continue periodically and locally there can be no doubt.

The educated negro in nine cases out of ten is made a very devil by his education, and with an ambition to make himself heard from and with all the instincts of the savage in his breast he will not scruple at the means to accomplish his purpose. This has proved the case over and over again since the war and as the doughty Sambo has been successfully restrained in his warlike proclivities by the whites heretofore, there need be no alarm that he will not be hereafter.

Drawing conclusions from these premises we are inclined to the opinion that as the negro educates he will gradually become extinct by dangerous conjunction with the bloodthirsty repeater. However, we are not one of those alarmists who think that the negroes as a race will ever become an educated people. The experience of the whites of the South is such that they can be left to manage the negro and the negro question be left to manage itself.

NEWS ITEMS.

Culled From the Bad, Bad Newspapers.

Kilrain has been captured and carried to Mississippi for trial.

Prairie fires are raging in Montana and great devastation has resulted.

Clay Clark, a well known Birmingham broker has been arrested for forgery.

The Birmingham Chronicle reports a boom in the coal business in the Birmingham district.

Sullivan received a sentence of one years imprisonment. An appeal was taken and the slugger gave bond to the amount of $10,000 and went north.

Judge Terry, of California, made an assault upon Justice Field, of the U. S. Court in California recently and was shot and killed by a deputy marshal who was on hand for the purpose of protecting Justice Field. There is a moral to be drawn from the life and fate of Judge Terry. Fine talents, oratorical power and political ability may come to naught when coupled with a violent temper and unrestrained passions. It was these that blasted Terry's life; it was these that caused his death. Greater is he that ruleth his temper than he that taketh a city.—Mobile Register.

The hungarian hordes who are raising sheol in the Connellsville coke region, destroying property, assaulting and beating innocent and inoffensive citizens, committing murder, arson and other crimes, are the sort of human scum the south would get in the mining and iron smelting districts if the negro abandoned those industries. We will not be able to replace negro with "intelligent foreiguers" or Northerners in the iron and coal industries, on the rice and cotton plantations along the coast, and in the Mississippi bottoms. We may have our choice—negroes, Chinamen, Hungarians and Italians, Mongolians and all these of the very lowest of humanity, infinitely beneath the negro in all respects. Those who hanker for a change should consider these things.—Chattanooga Times.

Walter Asbury, a negro, was lynched near Savannah, Ga., on the 18th inst., charged with an assault upon a 17-year old German girl. The girl successfully resisted him, but in the struggle her clothing was torn from her body, and her face was terribly beaten and gashed. Her cries attracted a colored man who was near by, and who rescued her from her assailant's clutches. Asbury sprang through the door and escaped, but in the next house he knocked down a woman and seized a double-barrel shotgun and fled to the woods. In an hour the whole town was in arms and a mounted posse started in pursuit. About midnight the negro was found at a low dance, about a mile from the scene of the assault. He was taken back to the girl's house and she identified him as her assailant. His clothes were covered with blood from the encounter with the girl. He confessed the crime and begged for mercy. Three hundred masked men hurried him to an open field near the railroad, where he was strung up to a tree and riddled with bullets. Across his body was pinned a paper with the inscription "this is the way we protect our homes."

All Selma has been stirred over some editorial paragraphs which appeared in the last issue of the Independent, published by J. C. Clark and J. C. Jones as editors and proprietors, and Rev. M. E. Bryant as contributing editor, all of whom are negroes, under the head, "The Negro Not Progressing." After indiscriminate abuse of the whites, the paper says of them: "Were you to leave this southland, in twenty years it would be one of the grandest sections of the globe. We would show you moss-back crackers how to run a country. You would never see convicts half starved depriving honest working men out of an honest living, as you great 'I-ams' now have it. It is only a matter of time when this whole state of affairs will be changed, and I hope to your sorrow. We were never destined to always be servants, but as all other races we will and must have our day. You now have yours. You have had your revolutionary and civil wars, and we here predict that at no very distant day we will have our race war, and we hope as God intends, that we will be strong enough to wipe you out of existence and hardly leave enough of you to tell the story. It is bound to come, and just such hot-headed cranks as the editors of some of our Democratic journals are just the right set to hasten it on. It is fate." The people are aroused and the police force was doubled to preserve peace. The local military were held in readiness for orders. The negroes were reported well armed and determined to resist the arrest of Bryant. A citizens meeting was called to consider what action should best be taken in the matter. Four negro leaders were arrested, and the Sheriff made thorough search for Bryant, but failed to find him and it is thought he has fled the town. No further trouble is apprehended and all is quieting.

Wise Carl Dunder's Philosophy

E Pluribus Unum some more, means dot der man who can get ahead vhas all right, und he needn't care aboud't anybody else.

Let us be ready to die for our country, but let us die as easy ash possible, und let dot country pay all der funeral expenses.

I haf lived in dis country long enough to find out dot personal liberty means most general, der privileges of somepody else.

I hear a good deal about der majesty of der law, but I doan see much of her may be it vhas majesty vhen some loafer pounds his vife almost to death und de shudge says he shall be find five dollars.

Free speech vhash a great boon. Dat's vhy I doan say nottings vhen a tough stands in my door und und calls me a liar und a tief.

We vhas so independent in dis country dot we doan' haf no kings but one half der population vhas nevertheless busy all der time in licking der president's shoes.

Vhen a public official vhas sharged mit stealing we vhas all indignant but if he goes oudt office a poor man we speak of him ash a fool.

If we want office we speak der caucus, hire workers, buy wotes, und apuse der opposition candidate. If he goes in we claim fraud und chicanery. If we vhas elected it vhas all right und we represent der honest masses. I hat noticed dot watefer our party does vhas open to objection. Some feller gets oop und says dere no sooch grand country on earth, und dot no peoples vhas blessed like we vhas. Dot same eafnings he gets a letter dot his application for a place in the custom house was n. g., und he goes oudt und screams aloudt dot America vhas a sham from top to bottom. We talk arouudt about dot Monroe doctrine, und dot no nation must tread on our coattails. Some American vhas flung in shail in Mexico, Cuba or Perue, und vhas treated like dogs und, vhen he likes to haf his rights Uncle Sam goes und hides by a knothole. Der constitution guarantees efen der humblest citizen his rights but I notice dot der more money a citizen has der more rights he gets. —Detroit Free Press.

Keeping at It.

It is a great mistake to suppose that the best work of the world is done by people of great strength and great opportunities. It is unquestionably an advantage to have both these things, but neither of them is a necessity to the man who has the spirit and the pluck to achieve great results. Some of the greatest work of our time has been done by men of physical feebleness. No man has left a more distinct impression of himself on this generation than Charles Darwin, and there have been few men who have had to struggle against such prostrating ill health. Darwin was rarely able to work long at a time. He accomplished his great work by having a single aim and putting every ounce of his force and every hour of his time into the task which he had set before him. He never scattered his energy, he never wasted an hour, and by steadily keeping at it, in spite of continual ill health and of long intervals of semi-invalidism, he did a great work, and has left the impression upon the world of a man of extraordinary energy and working capacity. Success is rarely a matter of accident, always a matter of character. The reason why so many men fail is that so few men are willing to pay the price of self-denial and hard work which success exacts.—The Christian Union.

Make Daughters Independent.

How many men are there to-day toiling night and day in order that they may, when they die, leave their daughters safe from want, and in comfortable circumstances. The best way to leave the daughters safe is to give them a knowledge of business and affairs that will enable them to take care of themselves. Give them the knowledge of profession or occupation so they will be able to take care of their money, if they have any, or to earn it if they have not. This is better than to leave the daughter a princely fortune, and make her a mark in the community for every eager, grasping, selfish prodigal to reach out to attain. Better have her able to fight the battle of life for herself, and to so live that the world will be better for her life.—Exchange.

The subject of an interesting article in Scribner's Monthly is "The New Poverty." The new kind of poverty decribed being no improvement upon the old article there is no demand for it at this office.

Maplesville Dots.

The past week has been very favorable for fodder-pulling and that crop is very good. All crops in this locality are better than for many years.

Mrs. Glover planted the seed from a fine rattlesnake melon twenty-nine years ago, and has kept the seed every year since. She has raised some very fine ones this season shaped much like the first.

Some of our Maplesville gentlemen are enjoying the presence of Miss Johanna Farrington and Miss Wilson, who are visiting Miss Waterworth and Mrs. Vines.

Mrs. Bowline, of Selma, is visiting Mrs. Gullahorn, of this place.

We are sorry that Mr. Wallace Gullahorn is quite sick. We sincerely hope he may soon recover.

Mrs. Foshee has moved into her beautiful house.

Mr. Frank Gist has been a visitor of Mr. Waterworth the past week.

The young folks of Maplesville were amply compensated for the rough ride and being caught in a shower on the road to Mulberry church, by hearing a most excellent sermon by Rev. Mr. McCord.

REVOLO.

Strasburg Locals.

Mr. H. B. Pugh is very sick with fever.

Mr. A. L. Foshee has a large school at the Cross Road Church.

Mr. F. I. Crockeron, of Jemison, was in Strasburg last Saturday.

Crops are looking very prosperous in and around our village, and farmers are wearing bright faces.

The residence of Mr. C. W. Robinson is being pushed as rapidly as possible to completion by the energetic owner.

Mr. Thos. Williams, of Jemison, was in town Tuesday, SAW DUST.

Mr. J. R. Grinstead, Senora, Ky., says: My children have sometimes had boils and other signs of blood impurities, with loss of appetite, etc., at which times I have found Swift's Specific a most successful remedy, in no instance failing to effect a speedy and permanent cure.

"Swift's Specific is a great blessing to humanity," says P. E. Gordon, of 725 Broad Street, Nashville, Tenn., for it cured me of rheumatism of a very bad type, with which I had been troubled for three or four years. S. S. S. cured me after I had exhausted everything else.

Mr. Russell Myrick, of the firm of Myrick & Henderson, Ft. Smith, Ark., says he wishes to add his testimony to the thousands which have already been given as to Swift's Specific. He says he derived the most signal benefit from its use to cure painful boils and sores resulting from impure blood.

When taken for a few days, potash mixtures impair the digestion, take away the appetite, and dry up the gastric juices which should assist in digesting and assimilating the food. Swift's Specific has just the opposite effect; it improves digestion, brings appetite and builds up the general health.

Notice!

Sealed bids will be received by the Judge of Probate until the 2d of September for the taking care of, clothing and feeding the county paupers.

Save Your Hair

By a timely use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. This preparation has no equal as a dressing. It keeps the scalp clean, cool, and healthy, and preserves the color, fullness, and beauty of the hair.

"I was rapidly becoming bald and gray; but after using two or three bottles of Ayer's Hair Vigor my hair grew thick and glossy and the original color was restored."—Melvin Aldrich, Canaan Centre, N. H.

"Some time ago I lost all my hair in consequence of measles. After due waiting, no new growth appeared. I then used Ayer's Hair Vigor and my hair grew Thick and Strong.

It has apparently come to stay. The Vigor is evidently a great aid to nature."—J. B. Williams, Floresville, Texas.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past four or five years and find it a most satisfactory dressing for the hair. It is all I could desire, being harmless, causing the hair to retain its natural color, and requiring but a small quantity to render the hair easy to arrange."—Mrs. M. A. Bailey, 9 Charles street, Haverhill, Mass.

"I have been using Ayer's Hair Vigor for several years, and believe that it has caused my hair to retain its natural color."—Mrs. H. J. King, Dealer in Dry Goods, &c., Bishopville, Md.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by Druggists and Perfumers.

tma16

DRS. STARKEY AND PALEN'S
TREATMENT BY INHALATION

TRADE MARK REGISTERED.
DRS. STARKEY AND PALEN
COMPOUND OXYGEN
NOT A DRUG
1529 Arch Street, Philad'a, Pa.

For Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Hay Fever, Debility, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and all Chronic and Nervous Disorders.

Drs. Starkey & Palen's office records show over 50,000 cases in which their Compound Oxygen Treatment has been used by physicians in their practice, and by invalids independently. Over 1000 physicians and more than 40,000 invalids.

Drs. Starkey & Palen have the liberty to refer to the following named well-known persons who have tried their Treatment:

Rev. O. A. Darby, Columbia, S. C.
Col. T. B. Crews, editor Herald, Laurens, S. C.
Rev. John L. Gerardeau, Columbia, S. C.
Rev. Sidi H. Browne, editor Christian Neighbor, Columbia, S. C.
Rev. H. F. Chreitzburg, Chester, S. C.
Mrs. Wm. H. Johnstone, Tarboro, N. C.
Rev. S. P. Richardson, Athens, Ga.
John J. Mason, M. D., Columbus, Ga.
Rev. W. F. Cook, D. D. Augusta, Ga.
Mrs. Ella R. Tennent, Home Magazine, Marietta, Ga.
Rev. T. R. Kendall, Macon, Ga.
Rev. W. A. Candler, President Emory College, Oxford, Ga.
W. H. Lawrence, Editor Chilton View, Clanton, Ala.
Rev. Henry D. Moore, Montgomery, Ala.

Would you like to know whom it has cured, where these restored and vitalized people live and what were the diseases removed? Return mail will bring you a brochure of 200 pages containing these points if you will drop a postal to

Drs. STARKEY & PALEN,
1529 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
Or Mrs. A. W. MOORE, Camden, S. C.

MELANINE
TRADE MARK
INDELIBLE INK.
THE ONLY ABSOLUTELY INDELIBLE INK

"THE ETHIOPIAN CAN NOT CHANGE HIS SKIN NOR THE LEOPARD HIS SPOTS."
MARKING DONE WITH this INK is EQUALLY UNCHANGEABLE.

CAN NOT BE REMOVED WITHOUT DESTROYING THE FABRIC. NO HOT IRON OR SUNLIGHT REQUIRED, CAN BE USED WITH STAMP OR PEN.

RETAIL PRICE, 25c.

—ALSO MANUFACTURERS OF—
Writing and Copying Inks, Sealing Wax, Mucilage, Wafers, Etc.

THADDEUS DAVIDS CO.,
127-129 William Street, NEW YORK CITY
ESTABLISHED 1825.

ma30-6

Remember
The View Job Office
When you want
First-class Job Printing done.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of an execution issued out of the Clerk's office of the City Court of Birmingham, Jefferson county, Ala., in favor of Wm. P. Baird and against The Taylor Manufacturing Co., I will proceed to sell, at the courthouse door in Clanton, Ala., between the legal hours of sale at public outcry, to the highest bidder for cash, on Monday, September 2nd, 1889, the following described real estate, levied upon as the property of the said Taylor Manufacturing Co., to-wit: The n w ¼ of n e ¼ of Section 2, and n ½ of n w ¼ and n w ¼ of n w ¼ of Section 11, all in Township 21, Range 15, and lying and being in Chilton county, Ala.

LEE HAYES,
Sheriff Chilton County.

aug1st

Barber Shop.

Mr. H. A. Logan, who has his barber shop in the Farmer's Alliance Building, solicits the patronage of the good people of Clanton. He does good work and is well fixed up for the [illegible]

The Lawson Carpet C

Birmingham, Ala.

Take pleasure in directing the attention the people of Chilton county to their larg and attractive stock of

Carpets, Oil-cloths, Window Shades,

Curtains & Household Novelti

The Stock represented is the finest in Alabama, and prices are guarant low as similar goods are offered in any of the eastern markets.

All communications answered by return mail. Respectfully, ma30-y THE LAWSON CARPET CO. (WM. LAW

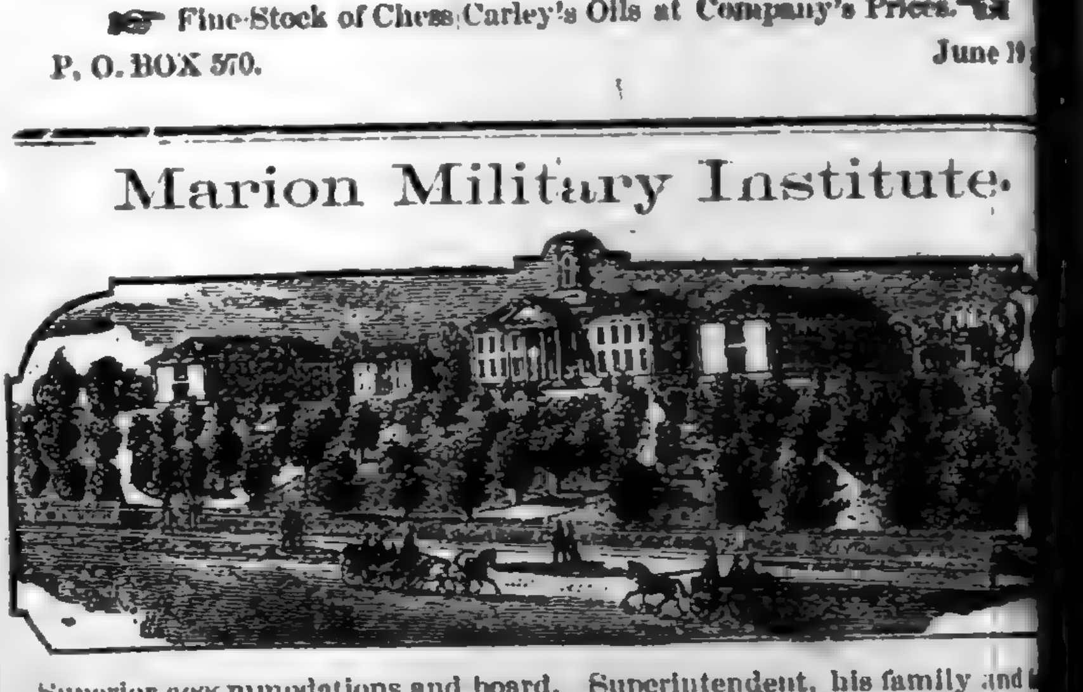
BAINS & PORTER.
(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & PEEBLES.)
WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.
Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt tention.
FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIAL
1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS
Birmingham, Ala.

Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices.

P. O. BOX 570. June 1

Marion Military Institute.



Superior accommodations and board. Superintendent, his family and live in buildings with cadets. Specially suited to boys who need family care, to young men who need business education, and to all who wish p and thorough training. Terms moderate. J. T. MURFEE, Sup Marion, Ala

THOMAS FOSHEE

(SUCCESSOR TO N. W. FOSHEE,)

—DEALER IN—

Dry Goods, Groceries

—AND—

GENERAL MERCHANDIS

Maplesville, Alabama.

I solicit a continuance of the liberal patronage here extended our house. Respectfully, feb 28-y THOMAS FOSHE

BLOOM,
The Tailor, of Montgomery, A
—HAS OPENED—
THE MERCHANT TAILOR ROOMS,
With a Large Stock of New Goods. Scouring and done.
No. 7, North Court Street.

WALL PAPE

WINDOW SHAD MOULDIN
—AND—
PRACTICAL PAPER H

H. M. MANCHA,
204 DEXTER AVENUE, MONTGOMERY, ALABAM

Papers furnished at any price from 10 cents up. samples on application. apr

BIRMINGHAM MARBLE WORK
THOS. H. HOLT,
PRACTICAL WORKMA
—AND DEALER IN—
American and Italian Mar
—Manufacturer of all kinds of—
CEMETERY MARBLE AND STONE W
Cor. Second Avenue and Twenty-Fourth Street,
Birmingham, Ala

Carpet Co

n, Ala.

g the attention

nty to their large stock of

Window Shades,

old Novelties

ims, and prices are guarante

astern markets.

mail. Respectfully,

ARPET CO. (WM. LAWSON)

ORTER.

& PEEBLES.)

RUGGISTS,

l Receive Prompt A

ORS A SPECIALT

19th and 20th STREETS

n, Ala.

at Company's Prices.

June 19 y

y Institute.

rintendent, his family and fa d to boys who need family w ion, and to all who wish pr

J. T. MURFEE, Sup't,

Marion, Alaba

FOSHEE,

W. FOSHEE,)

Groceries

RCHANDISE

Alabama.

liberal patronage hereto

tfully,

THOMAS FOSHEE

OM,

ntgomery, Al

AILOR ROOMS,

oods. Scouring and d

Court Street.

PAPER

WINDOW SHADE

MOULDING

—AND—

PRACTICAL PAPER HA

NCHA,

NTGOMERY, ALABAMA

ce from 10 cents up.

apr 1

ARBLE WORKS

. HOLT,

WORKMA

LER IN—

Italian Marb

f all kinds of —

AND STONE W

d Twenty-Fourth Street,

Alab

GO TO BLANK BROS., LEADING CLOTHIERS, 2112 SECOND AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., AUG. 22, 1889.

THE VIEW is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

A cross mark (X) after your name means that your subscription is due and that we would be glad to have you renew.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the second Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—On the eleventh Monday after the fourth Monday in February, and on the thirteenth Monday after the fourth Monday in August, and may continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD.—Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.

No. 1 Express at	5:55 a. m.
No. 3 Mail	5:37 p. m.
No. 5 (Passenger)	6:17 p. m.
No. 9 Accommodation	7:08 a. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 2 Fast (Don't Stop)	2:20 a. m.
No. 6 Mail	9:16 a. m.
No. 4 Express	7:55 p. m.
No. 10 Accommodation	7:22 p. m.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

County Treasurer Parish was in town Saturday.

Farmers should prepare to poison the worms without delay.

The new crop of sweet potatoes is coming into market.

Capt. DeJarnette visited his family here this week.

Mr. G. R. Evans spent Sunday with relatives in Clanton.

Mr. W. D. Scarbrough, of Cooper's Station, was in town Monday.

Mr. Pou DeJarnette spent Sunday with his parents in Clanton.

The teachers institute is not so largely attended as was expected.

Miss Annie Lou Duke is visiting Miss Rosa West in Montgomery.

Misses Delaynee and Mattie Duke visited Montgomery last week.

Mr. Alfred Lewis, of Birmingham, was in Clanton the past week

Prof. J. L. Williams, of Macedonia neighborhood, was in Clanton Monday.

Mrs. Flewellyn, of Columbus, Ga., is visiting her aunt, Mrs Wright.

Mrs. Maj. Bivings, of Montgomery visited relatives in Clanton the past week.

Mrs. W. D. Sarter was called to Anniston last week by the death of her mother, Mrs. Hurst.

Those who fail to get their papers from the post office will please call for them at this office.

Mr. Jno. N. Thornton has gone to Sheffield to seek employment. Much success to him.

Rev. Claude Chilton, delivered a fine sermon at the Methodist church on last Friday night.

Bennie Lane, of the L. & N. R. R. visited Clanton Sunday. He is now at work as brakesman.

Mr. J. T. Anderson, representative of the Birmingham Lumber Co., was in town last Sunday.

Mrs. Thos. Phillips has purchased and moved into the cottage residence of Mr. John Lawrence.

Many subscribers are paying for their paper, without waiting to be dunned. It is your time next.

Miss Annie Mahone has returned from her summer vacation and will open her music school in connection with Clanton High School on the first Monday in September.

Mr. O. A. Duke expects to have his mill at work in a few days, and thinks of moving his family to the mill. We are glad that he has started again but would regret the removal of his interesting family from our town.

New Goods.

W. L. Sampey has been receiving some very nice goods lately and the prices are very reasonable Shoes are crowded and need to be sold to get them out of the way. Some nice saddles are priced at very low figures. A few suits of Spring clothing will be sold at cost to make them go. Lots of little things have been added to the stock.

Clanton, Aug. 14. 1889.

Miss Cora Phillips returned home last Friday.

Mr. J. Bice, of Strasburg, was in town Monday.

Mr. E. M. Ricks, of Atlanta Ga., is again in our town.

Mrs. Dr. Bivings is on a visit to relatives in Birmingham.

Miss Yelverton, of Georgia, is visiting Mr. O. R. Bell's family.

Dr. W. E. Stewart went to Montgomery one day last week on business

Capt. W. A. Smith and son attended the Teacher's Institute in Clanton.

Mr. A. W. Midleton, of Lowndes, Co., visited his parents in Clanton this week.

Mr. Burnett Hurst, on his return to Birmingham, stopped over in Clanton Sunday.

Miss Ada Thorington, of Montgomery, is visiting her grandmother at this place.

Mr. James Moore and family, of Lowndes county, visited the family of Capt. W. A. Midleton this week.

Lucien Day can be found behind the counter at Ehrman's where he will be pleased to wait upon his friends.

Mr. Will A. Ashley, returned Wednesday to his home in Montgomery, after a pleasant sojourn with relatives in our city.

Mr. W. H. Mills, that good natured farmer who makes farming pay in the Kincheon neighborhood was in town trading Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Lanier, of Birmingham, are visiting Clanton and are stopping with Mrs. Hannon. This is the old home of Mr. Lanier.

See the new advertisment of Messrs Marks & Gayle cotton factors Montgomery. This is a reliable cotton house, and one that desires to tand with and help the farmers fight against the bagging trust.

The VIEW is conducted upon business principles and those who do not pay dues promptly may expect to receive a call from our irrepressible collector this fall, with costs added to their accounts.

Oscar Boykin and Frank Baldwin, of Verbena, were in Clanton Monday and had invitations printed for the first annual barbecue and shooting match at Verbena by the Verbena Gun Club, to take place to-morrow.

Our correspondents seem sleepy or else there is nothing for them to write about. We complimented all of them recently for efficiency, and some of them went back on us at once. Let us hear from you "brederin and sisterin."

A negro tramp who was stealing a ride on the trucks of a freight train was run over and killed by the train at the Clanton depot on Thursday afternoon. The negro attempted to leave the trucks before the train reached the station, but he fell beneath the wheels and was killed as above mentioned. His name was unknown. The remains were interred at Clanton by the railroad company.

A Narrow Escape.

One day last week Louis DeJarnette was rubbing up his shot gun in his mother's room. His mother was in the the room, and the gun happened to be pointing towards her. Mrs DeJarnette's brother, Mr. Pou, directed the attention of Louis to the fact and told him to point the gun to the floor. As the muzzle was being lowered the gun was accidentally discharged. the load taking effect in the floor directly in front of Mrs. DeJarnette. The slant of the gun as it was being pointed down, prevented a serious and possibly fatal accident.

Boys be careful in handling fire arms, or you may sometimes be suddenly motherless or fatherless or brotherless or perhaps headless.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla, by purifying and enriching the blood, improves the appetite, aids the assimilative process, strengthens the nerves and invigorates the system. It is, therefore, the best and most thoroughly reliable alterative that can be found for old and young.

"I never in my life," says John Wannamaker, "used such a thing as a poster or dodger or hand-bill My plan for fifteen years has been to buy so much space in a newspaper and fill it up with what I wanted. I would not give an advertisement in a newspaper of 400 circulation for 5,000 dodgers or posters."

THE TEACHERS

In Attendance Upon the District Institute.

Clanton is interested this week in entertaining the teachers attending the meeting of the district teacher's institute. On behalf of the community the VIEW extends a cordial welcome to them and trusts their sojourn in our midst may prove both pleasant and profitable. The teacher fills an exalted and noble station in the field of human endeavor, and deserves that respect and attention which such a dignified, honorable and philanthropic calling should secure. We have no doubt but that they will receive such attention while in our midst that they will return to their homes with pleasant memories of Clanton. Following are the names of those in attendance:

J. W. Kemp, J. J. Dennis, A. B. Harwood, D. S. Robinson, W. J. Martin, J. M. Scott, Jemison.

J. M. Carnel, Strasburg.

J. A. Green, Jumbo.

J. A. B. Lovette, Huntsville.

I. W. McAdory, Misses Parker, Wilson and Ledbetter, Montgomery.

Miss Minnie Phillips, Clanton,

Misses Garner, F. Willie, W. S. Moore, Jumbo,

Miss Annie Mahone, Loachapoka.

Mrs. I. B. Bowden, Clanton.

Will Robinson, Cooper's Station.

R. E. R. Hicks, Clanton.

Mrs. Fannie Davis, W. P. Stott, Verbena.

W. H. Hinton, Miss A. Miles, Kincheon.

Tipton Mullins, M. Gore, Jumbo.

Mr. Harris, Jemison.

J. W. Moore, Cooper's.

Miss Ganey, J. L. Ruffin, Jemison.

W. A. Smith and son, Dixie, and others whose names and post offices we could not learn.

Expenses of a Great Newspaper.

Some idea of the expense of running a large newspaper may be formed from the following: The New York World's Sunday edition consumes seventy-five tons of paper which, at four cents per pound, would cost $6,000. The paper has on its regular pay roll 1200 men, including 30 editors and sub-editors; 104 reporters, 468 correspondents in other cities; 275 compositors and proof readers, and 71 employees in the press room. The cost of the composition in the last Sunday's edition, which contained 40 pages, was about $1,680. Thus it will be seen that just two items, paper and composition for one day amounted to $7,689.

Judge (to jury)—have you agreed upon a verdict? Is the prisoner guilty or not guilty of theft, as charged in the indictment?

Foreman—We have not yet reached a verdict, your honor. I missed my pocket book in the night and I would respectfully ask that each juror be searched.

Ayer's Hair vigor restores color and vitality to weak and gray hair. Through its healing and cleansing qualities, it prevents the accumulation of dandruff and cures all scalp diseases. The best hair dressing ever made and by far the most economical.

Send your Cotton

—TO—

MARKS & GAYLE,

COTTON FACTORS,

Montgomery, Ala.

Agents for English Acid Phosphate, German Kainit and Favorite Guanos.

State Normal College,

FLORENCE, ALA.

JAS. K. POWERS, A. M. President.

THE COURSE OF STUDY embraces all the branches required in the public schools of the State.

THE THEORY AND PRACTICE of teaching receive careful attention throughout the course.

DRAWING, VOCAL MUSIC AND CALISTHENICS are taught. No teacher is thoroughly equipped for his work without training in these branches.

STATE CERTIFICATES are granted to graduates, entitling them to teach in any public school in Alabama, without further examination.

TUITION IS FREE

to teachers and those preparing to teach and good board costs only ten to fourteen dollars a month.

Fall Term Opens Sept. 17, 1889.

For catalogue or further information, apply to the President.

STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLEDO, Lucas County, S. S.

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the city of Toledo, county and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrh Cure.

FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D., '86. A. W. GLEASON, Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly upon the blood and mucus surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials free.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

☞ Sold by druggists, 75 cts.

oct 11-y

BUSINESS LOCAL NOTICES.

Insure in the Commercial Fire Insurance Co. of Montgomery.

Go to Blank Brothers, Leading Clothiers, 2112, 2nd Avenue, Birmingham, Ala., to buy anything you need in the way of clothing and gent's furnishing goods.

The VIEW job office is prepared to do all kind of job work at short notice. Let us know what you want and we will give you extra low figures.

A PHYSICIAN'S

WARNING!

Of all the terrible, soul affrightening curses that afflict all classes of humanity, nothing in all ages has ever approached comparison to the ravages of BLOOD POISON that slow, insatiate destroyer of flesh and life. Alas! How often just such an affliction loves to affect a noble life with its poisonous taint. It strikes with destructive aim the most notable, sparing neither SCROFULA king nor statesmen. Even unto the third generation are the sins of the father made manifest. What a fearful heritage to bequeath an innocent child! Ah! the horrible ravages of this affliction! To its activity is due sore throat SORES sore liver, sore kidneys, sore lungs, sore skin, great ulcers, internal, external and eternal unless proper treatment is applied. The best remedy is a prescription used extensively in private practice by an old Atlanta physician. It is now prepared a thousand gallons at a time, and is sold in large bottles at PIMPLES only one dollar per bottle. It is called B. B. B. or Botanic Blood Balm. Under its peculiar influence the blood poison first becomes passive, then divided, and lastly is exuded through the liver, through the kidneys, and through the pores of the skin.

It is clearly the duty of every one who suspects the least trace of syphilitic or scrofulous poison in their blood, whether recently from contagion or from inheritance, to get it out of their system thoroughly PAIN by the use of this great remedy so that pimples, sores, aches, pains, weak kidneys and other symptoms will not be transmitted to innocent posterity.

Demand it of your druggist and take no substitute. Testimonials from those who have used it may be found in the illustrated "Book of Wonders" sent free to any address by the Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga. (3)

[sep27 cw 1y]

NOTICE NO. 8941.

Land Office, Montgomery, Ala., July 24, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on September 7, 1889, viz: William H. Mills, homestead No. 15149 for the n w ¼ of n e ¼, the n ½ of n w ¼ and s w ¼ of n w ¼, sec 14 t 20, north, r 13 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: James T. Chambers, Henry A. Sewell, John Hamilton, and Thomas Anderson, all of Kincheon, Ala.

jul25* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 8907.

U. S. LAND OFFICE, Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 21, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on September 28, 1889, viz: Ephram Vasser, homestead 14371 for the n e ¼ of section 28 township 21 n, range 11 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Colwell Choats, Chambers Young, Fed Latham, and Anderson Peoples, all of Maplesville, Ala.

aug22o J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 8988.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., August 6, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the Circuit Court, Clanton, Ala., on September 14th, 1889, viz: Abner C. Poole, Homestead 15360 for the n w ¼ of s e ¼ sec 32, township 21 north, range 14 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: William I. Mullins, Robert S. Owen, James Owen, and John W. Scott, all of Kincheon, Ala.

aug8o J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 8989.

U. S. Land Office, Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 8, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on September 18th, 1889, viz: Edy Garner, widow of Dick Garner, deceased, Homestead 9876 for the n e ¼ of n w ¼, of sec 2, township 21 north range 12 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: Henry Young, Ben Talley, Noah Coleman, Aaron Talley, all of Maplesville, Ala.

aug 8* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

Now is the time to subscribe for your county paper.

A. E. BIVINGS,

—DEALER IN—

DRUGS, AND Medicines, FAMILY Groceries, ETC.

Clanton, Alabama.

I can furnish you anything you may wish in the way of DRUGS AND MEDICINES. I also handle THE BEST GROCERIES TO BE HAD, and you will find my prices to suit the times. [mar29]

BUY YOUR

PIANOS and ORGANS

—FROM—

GRAMBS & BUCHANAN,

—2107 SECOND AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—

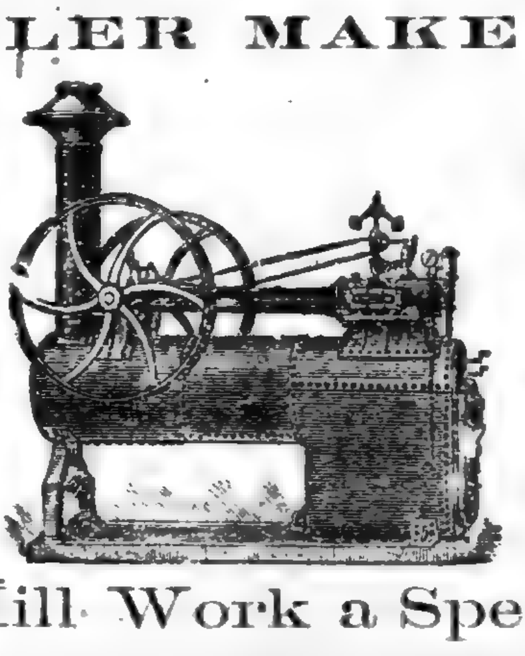
THE VERY LOWEST CASH PRICES, or on easy installments. Sohmer, Cranich & Bach, Gabler, Wheelock and Newby & Evans Pianos, and the world renowned Wilcox & White organs. Mail orders for sheet music or musical merchandise given prompt attention.

☞ Write for Catalogue. ☜ jul18

When ordering please state in what paper you saw our advertisment.

CRELLIN & NALLS,

BOILER MAKERS



Copper and Sheet Iron Workers

Chimneys, Tanks, and Repairing of All Kinds.

Saw Mill Work a Specialty.

☞ AVENUE C AND TWENTY-SECOND STREET, SOUTHSIDE, ☜

Birmingham, Ala.

mar21 y

I. N. LANGSTON,

—DEALER IN—

Dry Goods, Groceries, Family Supplies, &c.

(Contractor for Cross Ties for the L. & N. R. R.)

—JEMISON, CHILTON COUNTY, ALA.—

I have been out of business for the past year, but I am now before the public with a full and Complete Line of Goods for the General Trade. I invite the Farmers of Chilton county as well as my old customers, to give me a call and examine my stock. I will please you every time both in quality of goods and low prices.

☞ Highest market price paid for Cross Ties, Cotton and Country Produce.

oct 18-y I. N. LANGSTON.

MONTGOMERY IRON WORKS.

MACHINISTS & FOUNDERS

Dealers in Fittings, Supplies and Machinery

OF ALL KINDS.

MAKERS OF ENGINES, CANE MILLS, COTTON SEED CRUSHERS, SAW MILLS, LIVE ROLLS, LOG HAULUPS, &c.

☞ ESPECIAL ATTENTION TO WANTS OF SAW MILL MEN ☜

nov 8-y

INSURE WITH

The Commercial Fire Insurance Company,

Montgomery, Alabama.

Capital $100,000. Surplus $146,578.

Directors:—P. J. Anderson, C. A. Lanier, H. C. Tompkins, A. M. Kennedy, M. P. LeGrand, S. C. Marks, J. H. Clisby, C. W. Buckley, Frank Duncan.

W. H. Lawrence, Agt., Clanton.

Roberts & Son,

Steam Printers and Binders,

1918 FIRST AVENUE, BET. 19th & 20th STREETS,

Birmingham, Ala.

BLANK BOOKS TO ORDER. WORK PROMPTLY DELIVERED.

dec5 ay

INDURATED FIBRE WARE.

ABSOLUTELY ONE PIECE!

HAS NO HOOPS!

NEITHER PAINTED OR VARNISHED!

NOT AFFECTED BY HOT WATER!

HAS APPEARANCE OF POLISHED MAHOGANY.

PAILS, TUBS, BASINS, PANS, KEELERS, SPITTOONS, SLOP-JARS, WATER-COOLERS, REFRIGERATORS, &c., &c.

LARGE VARIETY OF GOODS.

CORDLEY & HAYES, New York, Sole Agents.

Factories: Portland, Me., Peterboro, N. H., Watertown, Mass., Oswego, N. Y., Lockport, N. Y., Cleveland, Ohio, Winona, Minn.

FOR SALE BY ALL HOUSE-FURNISHING, HARDWARE, GROCERY AND CROCKERY DEALERS. FULL PRICE-LIST AND CATALOGUE FREE ON APPLICATION.

Apr25-6

A. M. RAMBO,

DENTIST,

VERBENA, ALA.

Will respond to calls along railroad between Calera and Deatsville.

[mal5 y]

Money to Loan.

Loans can be negotiated on first mortgage security on improved farming lands. Call on or address

R. M. WILLIAMSON,

ST. CHAS. THORNTON,

jun27 Clanton, Ala.

S. P. TRESSLAR,

Photographer,

10 COURT SQUARE,

Montgomery.

Photographs on Silk, Satin and Linen. Photographs on watch dials.

Portraits in Crayon, Pastile, India Ink and Water Colors.

All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.

☞ Correspondence solicited. ☜

Always glad to have you call at the gallery and examine specimens of the work on exhibition.

[jan21-tf]

J. H. SHEPHERD

THE LEADING

PHOTOGRAPHER,

—OF—

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE

(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)

Photographs of All Kinds

Work Done in the

BEST STYLE.

Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

Insure

Your Property

against Fire.

The Commercial Fire Insurance Company of Montgomery, has a record for reliability unsurpassed.

Insure through the Local Agency at Clanton, and save expense.

HERBINE

TRADE MARK

After ten years exclusive sale, can now be obtained of all Druggists and Dealers in Medicines. It CURES—take notice—not simply helps but CURES LIVER COMPLAINT, Biliousness and Dyspepsia.

Is a strictly vegetable preparation and will CURE MALARIA, and all MALARIAL troubles.

Dr. S. H. Wise, of Boston, Ky says: "Have practiced medicine 15 years, and find no equal to HERBINE as a Liver Regulator."

Dr. W. A. Baker, of Madison, Fla., says: "A bottle of HERBINE is worth more than $5.00 worth of Quinine to any family."

Acting on the Liver in a different way from any other medicine; it is a positive cure for Chronic Constipation and is cheaper than [illegible]

Its peculiar composition is such, that we guarantee to cure any case of Chills and Fever or Billous Fever with one bottle.

It costs but 75 cents and each bottle contains over 40 average doses, making the cost less than two cents a dose. Would you ask for cheaper medicine? It is not a cure-all. But will cure any Liver, Billious or Malarial Complaint. Manufactured by

The Herbine Co.,

(Successors to Wm. Condell,) St. Louis, Mo.

mar 14-y

PISO'S CURE FOR

TWENTY-FIVE CENTS

Piso's Cure for Consumption is also the best

Cough Medicine.

If you have a Cough without disease of the Lungs, a few doses are all you need. But if you neglect this easy means of safety, the slight Cough may become a serious matter, and several bottles will be required.

CONSUMPTION

PISO'S REMEDY FOR CATARRH gives immediate relief. Catarrhal virus is soon expelled from the system, and the diseased action of the mucous membrane is replaced by healthy secretions.

The dose is small. One package contains a sufficient quantity for a long treatment.

CATARRH

A Cold in the Head is relieved by an application of Piso's remedy for Catarrh. The comfort to be got from it in this way is worth many times its cost.

Easy and pleasant to use.

Price, 50 cents. Sold by druggists or sent by mail.

E. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.

nov22-y

ALLEGER'S

GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES!

FROM $85, to $33.

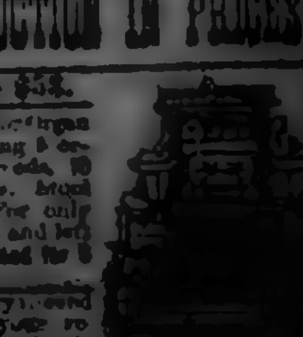
This Elegant Parlor Organ style 70 containing 5 octaves, 4 sets of reeds, 10 stops, 2 knee swells. Stool and Book free. For only $33.00. With right and left coupler. "Warranted for 6 years."

It is only necessary to send reference as to your responsibility from any banker, postmaster, merchant or express agent and the Organ will be shipped promptly on ten days' test trial.

[illegible]

H. W. ALLEGER,

[illegible]



WOMAN'S WORLD.

PLEASANT LITERATURE FOR FEMININE READERS.

WOMEN AND PROGRESS.

There is hope for Turkey, since her women have taken up with Paris fashions and have determined that their beauty shall no longer be hidden from the eyes of admiring infidels. The ladies of Constantinople have shortened the mantles that formerly enshrouded them, have donned ribbons and long gloves, and have taken to wearing veils so thin that the play of their features can easily be seen. This settles the business of the harem, and the devout Mohammedan may as well make up his mind first as last that he will have to give up his plural wives and come down to a single consort. No man or monarch, however long his purse, can afford to buy Worth costumes for forty wives, or even for four. And the Turks know how it is themselves; for the women of the harem, though secluded from sight, have managed to bankrupt the land already.—The Sunday Mercury.

FOR STOUT WOMEN.

"Women are such geese," growled a prominent physician recently, as he eyed the retreating form of one of his wealthy patrons. The woman in question seemed to be a fitter subject for pity than blame as she puffed and waddled out of the office. "Now there is that one," continued the doctor, "she comes here in her carriage every week or two to ask me to rid her of several of her 200 odd pounds of flesh. In vain do I tell her to exercise; she spends one-half of the day in sleep, and the other in novel reading. I have no patience for her left. If she would only stop sleeping in the daytime and follow my advice she would soon lose her superfluous flesh."

When asked to give that advice for the benefit of those who might be suffering from the same complaint, the doctor said:

"To reduce the weight eat lean meat to the extent of satisfying the natutal appetite, let your vegetables be turnips, potatoes and cabbage. Drink lime juice, lemonade and acid liquids; tea and coffee with a little milk is allowable. Above all things, don't neglect to exercise freely, and discharge your coachman or give him a vacation. Drink but little water. Now, my patient persists in eating fat meats and lots of butter. These tend to increase the weight as do beets, carrots, oatmeal, peas, pastry and custards."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

DANCING GIRLS OF INDIA.

I was invited to a wedding feast at Agra, writes Frank G. Carpenter, and the polite Hindoo who so honored me told me upon parting that my presence had "glorified the occasion." There were five hundred Hindoos present, and the entertainment consisted of Nautch dancing and acting. The Nautch girls, attired in gorgeous clothes, went through the most surprising of contortions to the music of two drums, which were played with the hands, and a curious Hindoo fiddle. These Nautch girls are the dancing girls of India. They are remarkable for their plump, round figures, and for the wonderful ease and grace which they throw into the movements of their bodies.

A large part of the dancing consists in the movement of the frame, without lifting the feet from the ground, and the whole story of love is told by them in gestures, which must be seen to be appreciated. They are the same as the dances of the girls of Egypt and of the African negroes, and seem to be a part of Oriental life. They are paid high prices, and some of the best dancing girls of India get as high as $25 a night. The celebration which I attended was in a tent built outside the house for the occasion. A rich carpet covered the ground, and the flickering lights shone over a collection of curious figures which would make another fortune for Barnum. I looked in vain for the bride, and whether she was a baby or not I do not know. The groom was not more than six. He was a bright little fellow, in a red velvet coat, and he brought me a bunch of flowers and some cardamom seeds, which are given to the guests upon such occasions.

FASHION NOTES.

The doom of the bustle is sealed.

English tailors set the fashion in jackets.

Black is held in abhorrence at the Russian court.

Stiffly starched shirts are worn by girls in Cincinnati.

Slender figures are well suited by the fashions of to-day.

Hats made entirely of flowers are the fashion in London.

Full ruchings of crimped silk edge many of the newest parasols.

Nainsooks and lawns are made up into waists and worn with different colored skirts.

The imagination has absolutely no play in the matter of dress except in waist sleeves.

Piano backs and covers exercise the ingenuity and taste of every decorative art designer.

"Sweet peas" and "laburnum" are the favorite artificial flowers in London this season.

Some of the new Japanese paper fans are quite elaborate, having wide folding leaves of gilt or silver paper, richly decorated, the outer panel laced with colored silk cord.

Cool and pretty summer toilets in white and green, or white and gold, are of white crepaline or India veiling with garniture of China silk arranged as a soft, easy Empire vest.

Fans of long ostrich feathers or curled tips are still considered the most elegant for full-dress occasions. They are mounted upon sticks of mother-of-pearl, ivory, tortoise shell or gilded wood.

Hats of green or brown rushes are a hot-weather luxury. One of these hats is wholly veiled with green tulle, with mossbuds and great yellow Tosca roses and leaves around the front of the crown.

Rich black toilets are in vogue and reach the height of fashionable elegance. Soft silks of various kinds, lace veiling, grenadine, crepe de chine, plain and beaded nets, and other handsome materials are in popular use.

The increase in the amount of tonnage passing through the Suez Canal is claimed to be due in a great measure to the lighting of the canal by electricity, admitting of its use by night as well as by day.

WORDS OF WISDOM.

One need not live high to be above suspicion.

Never covet that which cannot possibly be obtained.

Where much is sought for little is often to be found.

A wise man embraces an opportunity; the fool hugs a delusion.

The happier one's thoughts the pleasanter will be his reverie.

Hoping for the best will make the worst none the easier to bear.

Perseverance, to receive a rich reward, must have an object worthy of it.

Those who follow will always be flattered by the other end of the string.

It is better to repeat the idea of others than to make an effort to be natural.

The very essence of intelligence is the liberty inspired in every living thing.

Dull scholars are apt to be slow and sure—slow to learn and sure to forget.

Be persuaded that your own treasures are those which you carry in your heart.

An easy way to get a living is to flatter the rich, but the honest way is to earn it.

The man who has reached a condition of perfection must suffer for room to develop in.

Don't carry the whole world on your shoulders, far less the universe. Trust the eternal.

Nothing is more common or more fatal than grasping at an advantage at the cost of ten times its value.

If thou art wise, thou knowest thine own ignorance, and thou art ignorant if thou knowest not thyself.

Origin of "We Won't Go Home."

An interesting history of an old and well known comic tune was given by Professor Ensel, a music teacher, in a speech in the Music Teachers' Association recently. He said that when the army of the first Napoleon was in Egypt in 1799 the camp for awhile was near the pyramids. One afternoon about sunset the band was playing. The inhabitants of the desert had collected near and were listening to the music. Nothing unnatural happened until the band struck up a tune which we now hear under the name of "We Won't Go Home Till Morning." Instantly there were the wildest demonstrations of joy among the Bedouins. They embraced each other and shouted and danced in the delirium of their pleasure. The reason was that they were listening to the favorite and oldest tune of their people. Professor Ensel then stated that the tune had been taken to Europe from Africa in the eleventh century by the Crusaders, and had lived separately in both countries for over seven hundred years. This is certainly enough to make "We Won't Go Home Till Morning" a classic. Its origin is more of a mystery than the source of the Nile.—Louisville Post.

Street Scenes in Damascus.

The streets of Damascus are crowded from morning to night, like a town on circus day, and are a scene of hubbub and bewildering confusion, men, dogs, horses, camels and donkeys jolting against each other in careless commotion. Here you see the white Bagdad donkeys, which are a famous breed and distinguished by the unusual length of their ears. Their turbaned and bearded riders have the bearing of Kings. Among the other groups are Bedaween of the desert who come to the city to make purchases. The men are tall, straight and thin, have dark complexions and eyes, wear beards and gay handkerchiefs about their heads. Their eyes have a fierce expression, but they carry themselves like Lords. The women have straight black hair, are coarse of feature, and tattoo their faces, arms and feet. They do not keep themselves closely veiled like the women of the city.—Mail and Express.

South American Ostriches.

The South American ostriches, or rheas, go about the open grass lands in groups of from twenty to thirty females, led and carefully guarded by one male bird. About the end of August the male bird makes the nest, and the hens go down one by one to lay their eggs, and the laying season being over, the male bird proceeds to carry out the incubation. The process of incubation lasts over a month; and the hatcher, knowing that his progeny will soon surround him, turns out three or four eggs from the nest, where in the hot sun they soon become decomposed. When the young birds begin to make their appearance the father breaks these eggs, the flies get on them, and in twenty four hours they are a mass of maggots, thus supplying to the young brood tender food until they are able to pick up insects and grasshoppers.

How the Paris Exhibition Closes.

The exhibition closes at night in the following manner: The gates are all shut at 10:30 o'clock P. M., when the cannon on the Eiffel tower is fired at that hour to announce the fact. At 11:15 o'clock two drummers beat the tatoo in the gardens, while 200 policemen and fifty municipal guards, carrying lanterns, gradually clear the crowd off the grounds toward the Jean bridge, where the only exit is found. By 11:30 o'clock the exhibition is empty, and all trespassers found inside after that hour are arrested. Policemen patrol the place all night, and firemen hold themselves in readiness to start at any moment should an alarm be given.

A Legend of Forget-Me-Nots.

The poet Shiraz gives the following legend of the forget-me-not:

"It was in the golden morning of the early world, when an angel sat weeping outside the closed gates of Eden. He had fallen from his high estate through loving a daughter of earth; nor was he permitted to enter again until she whom he loved had planted the flowers of the forget-me-not. When their task was ended, they entered Paradise together; for the fair, without tasting the bitterness of death, became immortal like the angel, whose love her beauty had won, when she sat by the river twining the forget-me-not in her hair."

A Natural Bed of Shoe Blacking.

A natural bed of a substance resembling shoe blacking has been discovered in Rush Valley, Utah. Analysis shows that it contains 16 per cent. carbon, 34 per cent. aluminium, and 50 per cent. clay. When properly applied to leather it produces a fine polish that is not easily destroyed.

It is wonderful how polite men are in the summer. They even lift their hats to the breeze.—New York News.

AGRICULTURAL.

TOPICS OF INTEREST RELATIVE TO FARM AND GARDEN.

CURING CHEESE.

Dr. Reynolds, of Maine, observes that in curing cheese certain requisites are indispensable in order to attain the best results. Free exposure to air is one requisite for the development of flavor. Curd sealed up in an air-tight vessel and kept at the proper temperature readily breaks down into a soft, rich, ripe cheese, but it has none of the flavor so much esteemed in a good cheese. Exposure to the oxygen of the air develops flavor. The cheese during the process of curing takes its oxygen and gives off carbonic acid gas. He also says that the development of flavor can be hastened by subjecting the cheese to a strong current of air. The flavor is developed by the process of oxidation. If the cheese is kept in too close air during the process of curing, it will be likely to prove deficient in flavor.

A SIMPLE MARKER.

A very convenient, accurate and expeditious way of marking ground for planting, either in drills or check rows, is with a chain marker. This system of marking has been in vogue in our neighborhood for the last forty years, in Lake Comto, Ohio, and is adhered to by all who have tried it. The marker consists of a pole of some light wood of any desired length, into which fence or other staples are driven at such distances apart as it is desired to plant the rows. To those staples are attached pieces of rope three feet long, and to the rope farm chains of the same length. The outer ends of the chains should be equally distant from the pole and not more than six and a half feet, so that when the pole is raised as high as the men using it can reach they will hang perpendicularly. Now start correctly. Such a marker if properly made is light and easily handled by two persons, the one who guides walking directly in front of an end chain. On fine soil, if lumpy, use the plank crusher or rubber, and the chain mark will show plainly for days.—H. G. Tryon.

HAVE PLENTY OF MANURE.

As a counterpart of soiling should go the making of a large quantity of manure. As the cows are stabled more or less every day in the year, and for the other time are kept in a yard, every particle of manure made, solid and liquid can be saved, and a very large quantity of litter can be worked up into compost. In this way, by the use of leaves gathered from a wood lot cleared of brush so that a horse rake can be used to gather them, with dry swamp grass and other materials one cow in the year can be made to furnish 10 loads of excellent manure, and the land be kept in the highest state of fertility. There is no chance for weeds when land is plowed and cropped three times in a year, and the result is that the soil is brought up to the most productive condition. With ensilage, which with this system affords succulent green fodder the year round, it is possible to bring up the average yield of a herd of good cows to 300 pounds of butter in the year. As a cow under this system can be kept for an actual cost of less than $20 a year, the profit is evident.—New York Times.

HOW TO CARE FOR A HARNESS.

Some farmers act as though a harness needed no care. They buy a new one, use it the first season when they go to town or carry the milk to the factory; come home, take it off the horse and throw it on a peg or a barrel, as the case may be. After the first season it is put to general use. It soon becomes dry, hard, brown and stiff, and then breaks, in half the time it would had it been cared for properly. Speaking of this way of using a harness, a writer in the Western Liveryman says:

A harness that has been on a horse's back several hours in hot or rainy weather becomes wet, and if not properly cleaned, the damage to the leather is irreparable. If, after being taken from the horse in this condition, it is hung up in a careless manner, traces and reins twisted into knots, and the saddle and bridle hung askew, the leather when dried remains the shape given it while wet, and when forced into its original form damage is done to the stitching and the leather. The first point to be observed is to keep the leather soft and pliable. This can be done only by keeping it well charged with oil and grease; water is the destroyer of these, but mud and saline moisture from the animal are even more destructive. Mud, in drying, absorbs the grease and opens the pores of the leather, making it a prey to water, while the salty character of the perspiration from the animal injures the leather, stitching and mountings.

It therefore follows that to preserve a harness the straps should be washed and oiled whenever it has been moistened by mud. If a harness is thoroughly cleaned twice a year, and when unduly exposed treated as we we have recommended, the leather will retain its softness and strength for many years.

FRUITFUL ROADSIDE.

Galen Wilson says in the New York Tribune: Maple, elm and ash are favorite roadside trees since the Lombardy poplar was discarded; but almost everywhere people have fallen into the error of planting too thickly and permitting them to grow too tall, so that they shade the highway continuously. In a wet season the roads are thereby kept muddy all the time, the sun having no opportunity to dry them, and it is a relief to get away where there are no trees but better traveling. This should not be. In view from my window is a reach of east-and-west road, and on the south side of it is a row of cherry trees thirty feet high and several rods apart, just the right distance to serve as posts for a wire fence. These trees answer a four-fold purpose.

They supply sufficient shade without keeping the road muddy; increase the beauty of the landscape as much as any trees can; make excellent living posts to support fence wires; and they are just now loaded with delicious fruit, and all passers-by are welcome to help themselves. By heading in the branches at odd spells they can be kept at their present height, and thus remain permanently a feature of use and beauty. The object of planting trees by the wayside is to furnish shade and add to the good appearance of the highway, and as fruit trees of various kinds accomplish this double purpose, and also furnish abundance of fruit, there can be no question as to what trees should be planted.

Some of the upper crust looks soft enough to be dough.

HOUSEHOLD MATTERS.

SAGO WITH FRUIT.

Sago with fruit is an appetizing dessert and one that is especially nice in warm weather. Soak a cupful of sago in half milk and water; then add it to a quart of boiling milk, stirring it until it becomes thick, and let it cool. In a pudding dish put a layer of peaches, or other fruit if you prefer it, and on this a layer of sago, and another of the fruit, using a little sugar if needed, and so on until the dish is full. Set it on the ice. Serve with sweetened cream.—Prairie Farmer.

CAULIFLOWER OR BROCCOLI, TO BOIL.

Choose those very white, close and compact; trim off all decayed leaves, and cut the stock off close to the head; open the flower a little in places and wash; place them, head down, in salt and water for two hours previous to dressing, which will draw out all insects; put into boiling water, with a heaping tablespoon of salt to each two quarts of water; boil briskly fifteen to twenty minutes over a good fire, keeping the sauce-pan uncovered, skimming the water several times, When boiled tender, take up, drain, and if large heads, place upright in a dish, and serve with plain melted butter, pouring a little on the flower; or a white sauce or drawn butter may be used with it.

ENGLISH BEEF SOUP.

Let a soup stock hot and strained be ready. Put in a saucepan two slices of raw ham, an onion cut up, a carrot, one-half a turnip, one-half a pound of butter, a bay leaf, and a few whole peppers. Let these be fried until thoroughly browned and then mix in a cupful of flour and let brown again. Then dilute with three quarts of hot stock and a can of tomatoes and allow to boil for an hour. Cut in small dice-sized pieces two carrots and one turnip and parboil in salted water. Cut one pound of cooked lean soup-meat in small pieces. Parboil one-half a pound of barley. Then strain the soup, skimming off all fat, and add the boiled vegetables, the meat and barley, season with salt and pepper, and let boil for fifteen minutes more. Finish with the juice of one-half a lemon and a small portion Worcestershire sauce.—Chicago News.

A FRUIT CAKE THAT IS EASY TO MAKE

While making cake for sheep-shearers I thought that there must be some of your readers, writes a Canandaigua (N. Y.) young lady to the Detroit Free Press, who would like to know how to make a farmer's fruit cake that, though rich and hearty and universally liked, especially by the men folks, is yet inexpensive.

Take one cup of dried apples, soak over night in water enough to cover them. Then chop fine, add one cup of syrup to the water in which they were soaked and boil all till the apples are tender and the syrup very rich and thick. After this is cool add it the last thing to the following: Two well beaten eggs, one cup of sugar, one and one-third cups of sour cream, or two-thirds of a cup of sour milk and two-thirds of a cup of butter, three teaspoonfuls of soda, one-half cup of raisins, one-half cup of currants, flour enough to form a stiff batter; bake half an hour in a moderate oven.

Dried apples prepared in this way can hardly be told from citron. Indeed, when well made this cake is good enough for any occasion.

POTATO YEAST.

I send my recipe for making potato yeast. I thought some of the readers would like to try it: Mix together two cups of cooked potatoes mashed through a sieve, one cup of sugar, and four cups of warm water. Put this in a warm place for twenty-four hours, when it ought to be foamy. It may take a longer time to sour it, but one experienced in bread-making can tell when it is ready. It is now ready to be mixed into dough. To provide a potato-ball for the next time, take one cup of mashed potatoes and one tablespoon of sugar. Mix this with a little of the foam and a little of the sediment (a tablespoon of each will do), cover closely and let stand a few hours in a warm place. Then add a teaspoon of salt, and remove to a cool place. When ready to bake again, prepare two cups of mashed potatoes, add one cup of sugar, and mix in the potato-ball. Let stand an hour more, take out a cupful for the next baking, add salt to it, and set away. To the remaining three cups add four cups of water, and let it remain over night, when it is ready to mix into the sponge. I think I have made this plain, but if not, I will answer anything you don't understand.—New York Witness.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

When recipes call for a cupful it means just half a pint; this amount in granulated sugar weighs just half a pound.

Salt will curdle new milk; so in preparing custards or porridges the salt should not be added until the dish is prepared.

Red pepper pods or a few pieces of charcoal thrown into the pot in which onions, cabbages, etc., are being boiled will prevent the unpleasant odor.

Two tablespoonfuls of washing soda in a gallon of boiling water makes a good disinfectant for the kitchen sink. Pour it in at night, while it is still at boiling heat.

Tin pans can be prevented from rusting by heating them and rubbing well with linseed oil and heating again. Wood ashes or whiting (which is better) mixed with kerosene will brighten them.

Make a list, in the order in which you pack them, of the contents of your woollen chest, and paste it on the outside. Then the articles at the head of the list will be in the bottom of the box.

Rusty black cashmere should be sponged with equal parts of alcohol and ammonia, diluted with a little warm water. When pressing use a piece of alpaca or undressed cambric next the warm iron.

If ironed when damp, and pressed till dry, table linen takes a certain stiffness which is more permanent and less subject to creases than the stiffness of starch, which is also injurious to the fabric.

Lime and alkali stains may be removed from white goods by simply washing. In the case of colored goods and silks the goods should be moistened and citric acid, much diluted, applied with the finger.

A horse lying down on a railroad track is a more dangerous obstruction than half a dozen cows, while the engineer isn't a bit worried over a dozen hogs or a score of sheep.

The newest engagement ring is of twisted gold without a stone.

POPULAR SCIENCE.

Underground lighting has proved so successful in Chicago that the plant is to be largely increased.

Power obtained from a fall of water a mile distant is to be used for lighting the tower of Segorbe, in Spain.

The maximum intensity of the light from the Eiffel tower is 500,000 carcels, giving a range of 137 miles.

It has recently been proposed to use an alloy of zinc and phosphorus in boilers to prevent incrustation and pitting.

Naturalists and others are becoming considerably alarmed over the prospect of the early extermination of the kangaroo.

Experiments made on the dog and rabbit show generally that the quality of water is less in the venous than in the arterial blood.

M. Chauvin concludes that Iceland spar possesses magnetic rotary power not only in the direction of its axis, but also in the neighboring direction.

After more than twenty-seven years the pearl oyster has produced pearls off the Madras coast in sufficient quantities to be worth the expense of fishing.

Gurjun oil produced from a fir tree that grows in the Andurame Island is said to be a sure cure for leprosy. It is used by inunction and taken internally.

Carpenters and other tool users who keep up with the times now use a mixture of glycerine instead of oil for sharpening their edge tools. Oil, as it is well known, thickens and smears the stone.

The invention of a "fog machine," by which water is thrown in spray as fine as vapor, makes it possible to spin the finest cotton thread in mills established in the hottest, dryest parts of the South.

The Insect House of the Zoological Society of London is said to be the only place where an attempt is made to attract public attention to the various and wonderful groups of the insect family.

Abroad conductors are being laid underground and insulated by placing the bare wires in glass tubes, which are protected by layers of cement, outside of which is an iron pipe. This method is cheap, gives a high degree of insulation, and water cannot penetrate.

Both the French and German Governments have provided facilities for the examination and certification of electrical instruments, and it is now found that apparatus bearing the official indorsement brings a better price in Continental markets than non-attested instruments.

A steam carriage in which coke is used as fuel has lately appeared in France. The driving is effected by two hind wheels, and the speed attained is about fifteen miles per hour, twenty-eight and three-quarter gallons of water being sufficient for a run of twenty-five miles.

In an improved method of wire-making, the wire is drawn cold over successive pairs of rolls, each pair having a greater speed than the pair preceding it, with an intervening friction clutch to graduate the speed of the rolls to the speed of the wire in process of rolling.

From the general appearance of the vegetation, together with a discussion of the origin and relations of the florist, it is concluded by eminent botanists that Greenland is not a European province from the point of view of botanical geography, but has nearer relations to America.

A century ago only 300 species of orchids were known, and those very imperfectly. Now the latest authority gives the extreme number of knows species as 10,000. This may be an excessive estimate, but shows the immense advances which have been made in our knowledge of these interesting plants, for which collectors now ransack the most remote quarters of the globe.

The Island of Curacoa.

This little Dutch island of Curacoa, writes William E. Curtis in the Chicago News, is small and barren, but it has played an important part in the history of Spanish America. It has belonged at different times to England, Spain and Holland, and its cosy harbor has been the scene of many a bloody battle between the navies of the old world, as well as between the pirates and buccaneers that infested the Caribbean Sea for two centuries. It has been for a hundred years and still is the asylum for political fugitives, and most of the revolutions that rack and wreck the South American Republic are hatched under the shelter of the pretentious but harmless fortresses that guard its port. Bolivar, Santa Anna, and many of the famous men in Spanish-American history have lived here in exile, and until recently there was an imposing castle upon one of the hills called Bolivar's tower, for it was there that the founder of five republics lived in banishment for several years and watched for rescue to come.

The houses are all built in the Dutch style, exactly like those of Holland; the streets are so narrow that the people can almost shake hands through the windows with their neighbors across the way, and the walls are as thick as would be needed for a fortress. The Dutch Governor lives in a solemn looking old mansion fronting the Shattegat or lagoon that forms the harbor, and is guarded by a company of stupid looking soldiers with a few old-fashioned cannon. The entire island is of phosphates, and the Government receives a revenue of $500,000 from companies that ship them away. There is not a spring or a well on the island, and the inhabitants are entirely dependent upon rainwater for existence, or upon that brought in barrels by schooners from the Venezuelan coast ninety miles distant. As it hasn't rained for nearly two years the natural supply was long since exhausted, and a glass of imported water is worth as much as the same amount of wine or beer.

Curacoa gave its name to a celebrated liqueur that was formerly manufactured from the peel of a peculiar species of orange grown there, but the fruit trees have been destroyed by the droughts and the supply now comes from other of the West India islands.

The inhabitants are mostly colored. There are a few rich merchants representing all nationalities, who are said to have made their money by smuggling. Curacoa is a free port. No duties of any sort are charged, and as the amount of merchandise imported annually is about twenty-five times as much as the inhabitants can consume, and the harbor is constantly filled with little schooners that seem to be always loading and unloading, there is good ground for belief that a contraband trade with the main coast is still going on.

A discovery of tin ore deposit has been made at Kansas.

The Leech Business.

There are only two firms in the business here, and all the leeches used in the United States and a large part of South America are handled by them. Their importations of late years have been between 300,000 and 350,000, of which number 100,000 or thereabouts were re-shipped to South American ports. The average price at which they are sold is $35 a thousand, while the retail price for a leech is from 20 to 25 cents, leaving a profit to the retail dealer of from nearly 600 to 800 per cent.

Prior to 1839 there was no regular import trade of European leeches into this country, but sea captains were accustomed to bring them in occasionally in small quantities on private speculation. Leechers were, therefore, obliged to depend largely on the native leech for drawing blood, and during the early part of the century the American species was in considerable demand. All this species is quite widely distributed, the principal source of supply appears to have been, as it is now, Eastern Pennsylvania, and especially Berks and Bucks counties.

Leeches are imported during most of the year, but only to a slight extent in Summer, as they are easily killed by an excess of heat. June, July and August are the months when the smallest quantities are received, and when the greatest mortality occurs, reaching sometimes 25 per cent. They are imported packed in swamp earth, in air and water-tight wooden cases, holding 1,500 leeches each. These cases are made rather light and are about 21 inches long, 15 inches wide and 13 inches high.

In shipping leeches to customers in this country, the same cases are used for sending large quanties, and tight wooden pails for the smaller quantities, the packing of swamp earth being also employed. American leeches, on the contrary, are kept best in water, in earthen or glass jars, in a cool place. Although considerable quantities of leeches are kept constantly on hand in the importing houses, Mr. Witte is obliged to draw on his storage ponds on Long Island, between Winfield and Newtown, for supplying large amounts, and especially for the export trade.—[New York News.

An Arkansas Hermit.

There lives in a wilderness section of Columbia county, Ark., a hermit. He has yielded a destructive knife and revolver in half a score of tragedies, and is constantly on the alert, expecting to be assassinated. This man, who has forfeited the companionship of mankind, is guarded by animals that are well trained watchmen. He has a magic control of the brute creation, and owns six large goats and an equal number of dogs. His lonely cabin stands in the middle of a fifteen acre field. When he goes to plowing three of the dogs are placed at each side of the field at his row's end. These dogs are trained to patrol the adjacent forest, and no human being can approach without being exposed by these vigilant sentries. At night the dogs and goats lie about the cabin—the goats without the yard enclosure, and the dogs within. When any human being approaches these goats set up an unearthly series of bleating. The dogs within understand the signal and rush furiously at the intruder. Armed to the teeth, the proprietor hails the visitor. If found to be a friend, one word from the hermit silences both goats and dogs, and the guest is invited in. Thus guarded, this desperate man says he sleeps more securely than the czar, because, unlike the imperial cohorts of the latter, his faithful sentinels cannot be bribed or otherwise rendered unsafe by collusion with their owner's enemies.

Cannibalism in China.

The steamship City of Pekin, which recently arrived at San Francisco, brings tidings of an attempt at cannibalism at Pao Shan Hien, near Shanghai. The proprietor of a public bath there became possessed of the notion that to eat a child would cure him of an illness from which he was suffering. From an old woman he bought a child, which he induced a coolie to kill. The body was discovered by the authorities in a large jar, ready for cooking. All the persons connected with the crime were arrested. The viceroy of Fukien and Cheinangk has issued a proclamation against the drowning of female children, which has been common of late. He notifies families that hereafter the penalty provided by law will be strictly enforced. The penalty is sixty blows of the bamboo and one year's banishment.

A FRENCH physician says that raw oysters and chicken soup will nourish any girl through at least six disappointments in love.

There is a man in our town
And he is very wise, sir,
When e'er he doesn't feel just right
One remedy he tries, sir.
It's just the thing to take in spring
The blood to purify.
He tells his friends, and nothing else
Is he induced to try

Because, having taken Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to cleanse his system, tone it up and enrich the blood, and finding that it always produces the desired result, he considers that he would be foolish to experiment with anything else. His motto is: "Prove all things and hold fast to that which is good." That's why he pins his faith to the "Golden Medical Discovery."

Walking advertisements for Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy are the thousands it has cured.

A young spark, suffering from a too strong sensation of the more tender feelings, dodnes his complaint as an attack of lassitude.

All Run Down

From the weakening effects of warm weather, by hard work, or from a long illness, you need a good tonic and blood purifier. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives a good appetite, strengthens the whole system, purifies the blood, regulates the digestion.

"It affords me much pleasure to recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla. My health two years ago was very poor. My friends thought I was going with consumption. I commenced using Hood's Sarsaparilla, took five bottles of it, and to-day I can do as hard a day's work as I ever could. It saved me from the grave and put me on my feet a sound, healthy man."—WILL R. D. TRIMBEY, 141 East Main St., Wiggonsville, Ohio.

Hood's Sarsaparilla
Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.
100 Doses One Dollar

PEERLESS DYES Are the BEST. Sold by Druggists.

Wonderful Success.

A remedy must have merit or it will not become a favorite remedy with the people. When the virtue of Botanic Blood Balm (B. B. B.) is thoroughly known, it sells better than any other medicine. Nabers & Morrow, of Birmingham, Ala., say they sell a gross of B. B. B. a month to their retail customers. They buy it by the gross at a time, as they also have a good wholesale demand for it. Other similar instances might be mentioned, but we have not the space to spare. Sufficient it is to know that B. B. B. has better effect than all other blood purifiers, and as a general health restorer and strengthener of the system, it is the best and only safe remedy. When your blood is impure, when aches and pains trouble you, when sores break out on your person, when you feel weak, nervous and debilitated, when your appetite fails, when you are troubled with dyspepsia, when there is a general functional derangement of the system, when you feel all broke up and life hardly seems worth living, give B. B. B. a trial and you will begin to grow better and stronger.

MANY are the detractors of Dickens, but his amanuensis has dealt him the most bitter blow of all. In an interview published some time since he says: "He (Dickens) was an inveterate cigarette smoker, and when dictating to me always had a cigarette in his mouth."

Sarah Bernhardt.

is coming to America, and great will be the enthusiasm aroused amongst her admirers. But, we have our own bright star, Mary Anderson, who will continue to bear off the palm in the dramatic, as does Lucy Hinton in the great tobacco world.

Unnecessary Misery.

Probably as much misery comes from habitual constipation as from any derangement of the functions of the body, and it is difficult to cure, for the reason that no one likes to take the medicines usually prescribed. Hamburg Figs were prepared to obviate this difficulty, and they will be found pleasant to the taste of women and children. 25 cents. Dose one Fig. Mack Drug Co., N. Y.

Oregon, the Paradise of Farmers. Mild, equable climate, certain and abundant crops. Best fruit, grain, grass and stock country in the world. Full information free. Address Oreg. Im'gra'th Board, Portland, Or.

Have you tried "Tansill's Punch" Cigar?

THE STORY OF AMERICA
JUST PUBLISHED. It reads like a romance is immensely popular. An able solicitor, Woman or Man, can take 20 orders a day. Reliable representative wanted every county in the U. S. Apply early if you want a chance on this great book. (Salary to right party.) R. S. KING PUBLISHING CO., Chicago, Ill.

DUTCHER'S FLY KILLER
Makes a clean sweep. Each sheet will kill a quart of flies. Stops buzzing around ears, diving at eyes, tickling nose, skips hard words, ensures peace at trifling cost. Send 25 cents for 3 sheets. F. DUTCHER, St. Albans, Vt.

Dr. Lobb, 329 N. 15th St., PHILA., PA.
After ALL others fail, consult
Twenty years' continuous practice in the treatment and cure of the awful effects of early vice, destroying both mind and body. Medicine and treatment for one month, Five Dollars, sent securely sealed from observation to any address.
Book on Special Diseases free.

Plantation Engine
With Self-Contained
RETURN FLUE BOILER
FOR DRIVING
COTTON GINS and MILLS.
Illustrated Pamphlets Free.
JAMES LEFFEL & CO.
SPRINGFIELD, OHIO. or 110 Liberty St., New York.

ARE YOU THINKING OF BUYING A
Cotton or Hay Press
We manufacture a Cotton Press and two Hay Presses. Will send Circulars and Price List upon application.
ROANOKE IRON & WOOD WORKS,
CHATTANOOGA, TENN.
P. O. Box 2

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH PENNYROYAL PILLS
Red Cross Diamond Brand.
The only reliable pill for sale. Safe and sure. Ladies, ask Druggist for Chichester's English Diamond Brand, in red metallic boxes, sealed with blue ribbon. Take no other. Send 4c. (stamps) for particulars and "Relief for Ladies," in letter, by mail. Name Paper.
Chichester Chemical Co., Madison Sq., Phila., Pa.

WANTED. One Agent in each County. Make $5 to $10 a Day Selling the FARMER'S GIN SHARPENER. New way of sharpening gins. Make your old gins new and your new gins so. No files. Anyone can use it. Commissions paid agent on ALL sales in county, whether made by us or him. 200 machines in use since its invention. Machines and satisfaction guaranteed. Write at once to J. G. FALLS & CO., Memphis, Tenn.

$75 TO $250 A MONTH can be made working for us. Agents preferred who can furnish a horse and give their whole time to the business. Spare moments may be profitably employed also. A few vacancies in towns and cities. B. F. JOHNSON & CO., 1009 Main St., Richmond, Va. Please state age and business experience. Never mind about sending stamp for reply. B. F. J. & Co.

N. C. Y. L.
Nashville, Tenn. College for Young Ladies
Is the leading school of this section. Began 1880 with 50 pupils, without grounds or buildings of its own. Now has 3 buildings, 160 rooms, 30 officers, pupils from 18 States. Full course in Literature, Science, Art, Music, privileges in Vanderbilt University, fully equipped Gymnasium, and all modern conveniences. For catalogue address President Rev. Geo. W. F. Price, D. D., Nashville, Tenn.

MUSIC—ART—ELOCUTION General Culture. Desirable Positions open to progressive students. All interested will receive valuable information Free, by addressing E. TOURJEE, Boston, Mass.

PALMS BUS. COLLEGE, Philadelphia. Scholarship and positions, $50. Write for circulars.

OPIUM and Whiskey Habits cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE. B. M. WOOLLEY, M. D., Atlanta, Ga. Office 65½ Whitehall St.

ORATORS say Piso's Cure for Consumption is THE BEST for keeping the voice clear. 25 cents.

$25 AN HOUR made by our Agents. THE DR. PERRY MEDICAL CO., Richmond.

FARMS Do you want to buy or sell? If so send stamp for circular to Curtis & Duffett, 232 Broadway, N. Y.

Agents wanted. $1 an hour. 50 new articles. Catalogue and sample free. C. E. MARSHALL, Buffalo, N. Y.

SINGERS who have used Piso's Cure for Consumption say it is BEST OF ALL. Sold everywhere.

BIG G
Cures in 1 TO 5 DAYS. Guaranteed not to cause Stricture.
Mf'd only by the Evans Chemical Co. Cincinnati, Ohio.
I prescribe and fully endorse Big G as the only specific for the certain cure of this disease. G. H. INGRAHAM, M. D., Amsterdam, N. Y.
We have sold Big G for many years, and it has given the best of satisfaction. D. R. DYCHE & CO., Chicago, Ill.
Trade Mark. $1.00. Sold by Druggists.

THE BEST COUGH MEDICINE. PRICE 25 CTS.
PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

BRYANT & STRATTON Business College
LOUISVILLE

Rates of Advertising.

ne Dollar per Square, of one inch ace or less, for the first, and Fifty nts for each subsequent insertion.

Space.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
Inch	$ 5 00	$ 7 00	$ 11 25
[illegible]	7 00	11 25	18 00
[illegible]	10 00	15 00	22 50
[illegible]	12 50	20 00	27 00
[illegible]	15 00	22 50	[illegible]
[illegible]	18 00	27 00	40 00
[illegible] Column	27 00	40 00	60 00
[illegible] Column	40 00	60 00	100 00

The Chilton View.

W. H. LAWRENCE, Editor and Publisher. "WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION." TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME VIII. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, AUGUST 29, 1889. NUMBER 44.

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line each insertion.

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be headed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

☞ The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

CAHEEN'S

AS USUAL

Will Begin Bright and Early Monday Morning

-THEIR GREAT-

MIDSUMMER COST CLEARING SALE!

FIRST AVENUE, - - - - - BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Everything has been arranged to make this in all probability one of the greatest sales in the history of Birmingham. Remember you will have a stock of over $100,000 to select from and these goods were purchased for for first-class class city trade and were not intended for any snide catch-penny business.

A TERIFIC BLOW TO COMPETITION!

Make Childhood Sweet.

Wait not till the little hands are at rest
Ere you fill them full of flowers;
Wait not for the crowning tuberose
To make sweet the last sad hours;
But while in the busy household band,
Your darlings still need your guiding hand;
Oh, fill their lives with sweetness!

Wait not till the little hearts are still
For the loving look or praise;
But while you gently chide a fault,
The good deed kindly praise.
The word you would speak beside the bier
Falls sweeter far on the living ear;
Oh, fill young lives with sweetness!

Ah, what are kisses on cold clay lips
To the rosy mouth we press,
When the wee one flies to her mother's arms
For love's tenderest caress?
Let never a worldly babble keep Your heart from the joy each day should reap,
Circling young lives with sweetness.

Give thanks each morn for the sturdy boys,
Give thanks for the fairy girls;
With a dower of wealth like this at home
Would you rifle the earth for pearls?
Wait not for Death to gem love's crown,
But daily shower life's blessings down,
And fill young hearts with sweetness.

Remember the homes where the light has fled,
Where the rose has faded away;
And the love that grows in youthful hearts—
O cherish it while you may!
And make your home a garden of flowers,
Where joy shall bloom through childhood's hours,
And fill young hearts with sweetness.

—Picayune.

A SONG'S HISTORY.

Perhaps the most popular song ever written was "Ever of Thee."

It happened in this way: On a cold day in the January of 1850 the door of Mr. Turner's music shop in the Poultry, London, was nervously opened, and a most unclean, ragged specimen of humanity dragged himself in. He looked as though he hadn't been washed for months. His beard was unkempt, and dirty, and matted! For boots he wore some folds of filthy rags, and in all he was a specimen of the most degraded class of that community.

One of the clerks said to him, "You get out of here."

Two ladies who happened to be in the shop noticed his woe-begone look, and were about to offer him some money when a Mr. T—, (a clerk in the establishment), seeing the poor fellow shivering with cold and apparently hungry, pitied him, and brought him into the workshop so that he might have a "warm-up" by the stove. A few minutes after Mr. Turner, the proprietor, came in, and seeing the ragged individual asked what he wanted, and "who allowed him in?"

"I did," said Mr. T—; "the poor fellow looked so cold and miserable I couldn't send him out in this piercing wind without giving him a warm, and, besides, he says he has got some business with you."

"Business with me!"

"Yes, sir; I have a song I should like you to listen to."

Turner eyed him from head to foot, and then laughed outright.

The miserable looking object at the stove began to grow uneasy, and begged to be allowed to play the air of his song, which he then unearthed from his rags and handed to the music publisher. Turner looked at it, and said:

"Who wrote this?"

"I did, sir," came from the rags.

"You! Well, I'll have it played over, and if it's any good, I'll give you something for it."

"I beg your pardon, sir, I'd prefer to play it for myself."

"What! you play! Well, bring him up to the piano-room when he gets warm, and we'll humor him."

"In a few minutes the bundle of rags was seated at the concert grand piano, and "Ever of Thee" was played for the first time by its composer, James Lawson.

His listeners were electrified when they heard this dilapidated-looking tramp make the piano almost speak. His touch was simply marvellous, and his very soul seemed to be at his finger-tips. When he had finished, he turned to his little audience and said:

"I'd like to sing for you, but I have a terrible cold. I haven't been in bed for five nights. I'm hungry, sir, and I feel I could not do it justice."

Turner was almost dumb with amazement. The air would take; he knew it would be a success, and he decided that this man had a history which, perhaps, might advertize the song. So he determined to cultivate him, and in flattery (as he thought), pressed him to sing "just one stanza." Lawson protested, but finally agreed, and if Turner was amazed when he heard him play, he was positively enraptured when that hungry voice, hungry with love, hungry physically, poured out in the sweetest of tenors the first stanza of the song in which his soul lived. It was the story of lost love, but he cherished it, and as he sang it was easy to see that he lived and breathed only for that love. "Ever of Thee" has never been so sung since. But that trial verse made its success, and to the experienced publisher, Mr. Turner, it was decidedly apparent that he had secured a great song.

Addressing Mr. T—, he said: "Mr. T—, take this man along; get him a bath, a shave, some decent clothes; in fact, fix him up like a gentleman, and bring him here, and we shall see about this song."

T— "took him along." He took him to a bath, and while the unclean was being made clean, he bought for him a shirt, a pair of shoes, some socks, collars, cuffs and underwear. Then he had him shaved. Then they hied to a clothier's, and having removed the rags, Lawson was quickly clad in fine raiment. The change was beginning to tell. Already the tramp seemed to be the guide and treasurer. He was a splendid-looking fellow, and had quite a distingue appearance. But the hat was still there, and a mirror-like chimney-pot was purchased to complete the make-up. T— laughed when all was finished. He was in his working clothes, and this unfortunate looked like a duke. The good clothes fitted him, and they suited him and his appearance much too well to continue the assumption that Mr. Lawson was a tramp. He was a gentleman all over, and he looked it. T— said to him:

"Mr. Lawson, I wish you would go into the shop before me. They won't know you, and it will be such a joke."

"I don't mind that, Mr. T—, but won't you let me have a drink? I want it—please let me have a drink."

T— refused to stand the drink; he told Mr. Lawson that if he wanted a dinner he could have it, but drink he could not have. Finally, the two went into the Ship and Turtle dining-rooms, and, over chocolate and sirloin steak, the author of "Ever of Thee" told the following story:

"I was once rich, Mr. T—. You know what I am now. You were astonished to hear me play the piano so well. That little song has been the only companion from which I gained any comfort for the past twelve months. It brought back to me the days when I was rich, loved, looked up to and happy. Of course, it has its sad side for me. But the memory of what it recalls is the dearest thing in my existence."

T— interrupted him at this point and indicated that it was growing late.

"Please bear with me," rejoined his companion. "Let me tell you how and why I composed the little song. Two years ago I met a girl in Brighton. If God ever allowed one of his angels to come on earth she was that one. I adored her. She seemed to return the affection. I escorted her everywhere, was at her beck and call morn, noon and night, and it was currently believed that Miss Blank and I were engaged. I had to return to London on business, and when I went back to Brighton she was gone.

"Three months after I met her at a ball. She had just finished a waltz with a tall, good looking man, and was promenading the hall on his arm. She recognized me. But when I said, 'How do you do, Miss Blank?' she quickly replied:

"'I'm well, Mr. Lawson, but I am surprised to hear you call me Miss Blank. When you left Brighton so suddenly I thought I should never see you again. You left no address, never called again, and—well, I am married.'

"'To whom?' I gasped.

"'To Mr. Prize,' she replied, pointing at the same time to the gentleman with whom she had been dancing.

"That ended my life. My Marie, my dream, was gone. I left the hall, went to a low gambling place, and in drink and gambling endeavored to kill my grief. It lasted but a little time, for in four months I was penniless.

"Then came my trial. The men who played with me shunned me. My friends shut their doors, and a few days later my last sovereign was gone. I was utterly stranded, homeless and unhappy as it would be possible to make a human being. For nights I slept in the cabmen's coffee houses; then I was considered a nuisance, and some door-step served me for a bed. I pawned every trinket, decent suit of clothes—everything, and finally I spent three months in a workhouse under an assumed name.

"In my bed, there in that workhouse hospital, I wrote the words of the song you heard me sing today. Then I got well, and sick of the life, I left the place and became night watchman at some new buildings they were putting up in Aldersgate street. While there the music of my song came to me. I got a scrap of manuscript music paper and jotted it down, and for a time I was happy. My old friends often passed me at night, jolly and careless, little dreaming that James Lawson was the poor night watchman who answered their indolent questions.

"Often, when all was still, I poured out my soul in this little song, and after a while the night gamins used to come and listen to me. It pleased them. To me it brought back the memory of a dead love and a ruined life. But you are tiring of my story. There is little more to tell.

"I could not endure the solitary meditation of my past. I again began to drink. I lost my situation, and as a last resort I thought that perhaps my little song was worth a few shillings and brought it to Mr. Turner."

At this the poor fellow burst into tears. When he was himself again they went out, and a few minutes afterwards Mr. Turner, addressing Lawson, said:

"Mr. Lawson, here is ten shillings. It will be enough to get your supper and a decent room tonight. To-morrow morning I want you to call here and I shall give you a good position in my warehouse. As for your song, I want you to remember this: If you will keep sober I will pay you a good royalty, but if you spend this ten shillings in drink, not another penny will you get."

Lawson left the shop, and did not make his appearance for five days. Then he was in a condition almost as bad as when he first entered it. His vest was gone; his boots were exchanged for old ones; his hat was—well, it was an apology for a hat. His coat (an old one) was buttoned tight around his collarless neck, and his face was unkempt and unshaven—as unclean as it was five days ago. Mr. Turner looked at him. He did not even speak to him. The smell of bad rum sufficiently told him all he wished to know. He took a half-crown from his pocket, handed it to Lawson, and turned on his heel. Addressing Mr. T—, he said: "If this man comes here again, put him out."

The composer of "Ever of Thee" immediately left the shop, and heaven only knows what his fate has been. Certain it is that he never called at Turner's again.

LONG BRANCH.

LIFE ALONG NEW JERSEY'S WAVE-WASHED SHORE.

Happy Summer Days for Young and Old Who Love to Dance, to Drive, to Bathe or Do a Little Flirting.

All along the New Jersey coast, from Sandy Hook to Point Pleasant, pleasure reigns supreme. Every day the beach is dotted with bathers, the cottage and hotel lawns swarm with tennis players and the roads are marked by lines of dust kicked up by horses worth all the way from fifty to thousands of dollars. There are far more of the latter, however, than of the former, for the wealthy summer visitor generally brings his "turnout" with him, but it is an open question whether he enjoys the glorious drive along the shore any more than the occasional Jersey farmer who comes in with his corn fed team and "democrat wagon" to see "them stylish rigs."

THE BOSS BATHER.

Every night the hotel piazzas are the centre of life until about half-past ten o'clock, when the music ceases and the mothers and younger children go to bed. The older children then get a chance to watch the sea from the summer houses and whisper away as if they had not seen each other for years. Papa, alas! quite frequently strolls around to study the habits of that unconquerable animal, the tiger.

The nightly display of dress in the hotel parlors at Long Branch is magnificent. There are more finely formed, beautiful and exquisitely adorned women here now than ever before. No wonder the young men are losing their heads, and the first crop of engagements is announced. The average young lady here, while a far more shapely being than a cheap wood cut artist design, and as lively a maiden as one would wish to see, is a modest, well behaved girl in the water and out of it. The girls love the waves. They "go in" by the hundreds, and the bathing masters tell me they learn to swim easier and better than men.

One of the sights of the Branch during bathing hours is the "boss bather," as the children disrepectfully term her. If she is not fair and forty, she is certainly the other thing, for a ninety inch belt could not make both ends meet around her waist. Every chance she gets to take a roll in the sea she improves, so that in all respects she is a great bather.

While watching this fleshy nymph of the sea tumbling about in the water, I noticed that several ladies in bathing wore their diamond earrings. They said they felt that the jewels were safer in their ears than anywhere else, but it is a queer combination, a bathing suit and diamonds.

After her bath the Long Branch girl takes a drive. So does everybody else if they can afford it. There are a number of carriages out in the morning before the day grows hot, but the "passing show," as seen from the West End piazza in the cool of the afternoon, is one of the features of Long Branch life. The dull clatter of the horses, many of them thoroughbreds, the gingling of their chains, the glitter of their trappings, the roll of the carriages, filled with elegantly attired women, makes pleasant music as the panorama moves along the bluff. It is indeed a pretty picture, this daily display of beauty on wheels. The moving line is flanked by beautiful lawns; it runs between imposing hotels and cottages. All is color and animation in the foreground, while behind lies the ocean, calm and dull under a cloudless summer sky stretching away as far as the eye can reach, and dotted here and there by white wings that seem to have been painted on canvas, so well defined but motionless do they appear.

REPAIRING THE BLUFF.

The Ocean Drive, the glory of the Branch, was badly damaged last winter by the sea. It hardly seems possible that the water could get over the bluff, which is fully thirty feet high, but it did, and in places took the bluff away with it. The roadway ran close to the edge, so that in spots it was ruined.

A United States engineer says he will put down bulkheads every 200 feet from the Iron Pier to Elberon and guarantee that the beach will make instead of lose. That will cost a great deal of money, but it seems to be the last chance to have the valuable hotel property facing on the ocean, to say nothing of the driveway and the bathing facliities, without which the hotels would not be able to compete with Eastern summer resorts.

The big break begins at the east end of the Howland House. It is about 500 feet long. To get around it the stages have to run about 300 feet inland on a poor road, which is unpleasant and delays one. There is a force of men at work with a pile driver, building up the bluff again, and their labors are watched daily by hundreds of people. It is one of the sights of the beach.

This hole in Ocean avenue is a sore trial to the hundreds to whom Long Branch was a delightful place to bring their horses. It is still, however, an agreeable drive from Seabright to Elberon, and even further up and down the coast.

The Long Branch stage is one of the most inconvenient vehicles on earth, but it is cheap and therefore popular with the masses. There are hundreds of these stages running back and forth from the Iron Pier to the West End all day and nearly all night. The fare is only ten cents for the whole distance, but like the New York "L" roads, a short ride costs just as much as a long one. I overheard a young man arguing with a hackman the other day about his bill. The price seemed a little steep until the hackman explained why he charged so much.

"My carriages all come from New York," said he, "and before I can run them I have to pay $17 for a license for each one. This is the tax paid to the town for three months' business. In New York we can get a license for a year for $2. Besides this I have to pay the hotel I serve $2750 a season for the privilege of answering its calls. I tell you there is very little money in hacking in Long Branch." The hackman depends largely on the custom of transient visitors. Nearly all of the permanent guests at the hotels and the cottages bring their own equipages. I noticed the other day on the avenue quite a number of well-known people behind their own horses.

Not to mention the Baroness Blanc when writing about the driving on the avenue would be leaving out one of the best known whips at the Branch. The Baroness is an expert in managing horses either from the box or in the saddle. For years hers has been a familiar figure, mounted on a spirited steed and whizzing along at a rate that would make almost any other woman faint to think of. This season, however, the Baroness does not appear on horseback. She drives a span of sorrels to a stylish victoria in the afternoon, but it is in the morning that she appears in the little yellow buckboard that is so familiar to people at the Branch.

While the wealthy are enjoying themselves in their carriages the less fortunate find plenty of amusement at the hotels and cottages. Long Branch will never be a second Coney Island. It is too far from New York, and the necessarily high rates of transportation keep away to a great extent the crowds that make West Brighton so lively. Yet the building of the iron pier has encouraged the Sunday pleasure-seeker to come, and has made that end of the Branch a little like the popular Long Island resort. The sausage man can be seen now and then near the pier, the carrousel is there, and while it is quiet enough week days it is the liveliest spot for miles about at night and on Sundays.

It is a remarkable thing that one seldom sees a drunken man. This is true of the whole region. The policemen tell me that the crowds are remarkably well behaved and that arrests are seldom made.

Just as soon as the evening falls visitors from all along the beach flock to the West End Hotel to join in the dancing or to watch the children dance. This is a pretty sight. The picture of the brilliantly lighted room with happy little tots circling about to the music is a familiar one to any one who has spent an evening at the Branch. The broad piazza outside is crowded with onlookers in evening dress, while proud fathers and mothers gaze fondly at the merry little ones.

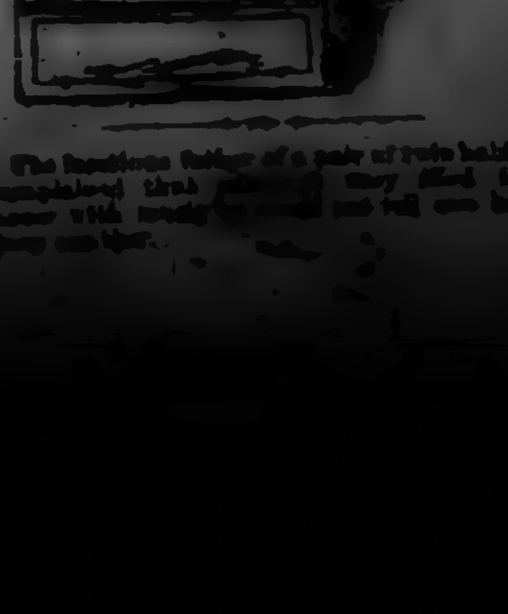
It is on the piazza, while the soft music floats out from the parlor, that Cupid binds his victims. It is there that the young men, gathering courage perhaps in the uncertain light, talk their sweetest, and the girls, who are there for that purpose, look their prettiest and listen. So far there have been only three engagements whispered to confidential friends, but from the prospects the net result of the season will be many times three.

No such nonsense as lovemaking bothers the children, who seem nevertheless to have the best time at the seaside. They romp from morning to night. The beach is their favorite spot, and high times they have there. Not a few lads and quite a number of girls of tender years are good swimmers and frighten their nurses twenty times a day by darting away from the life lines. Just now baseball is enjoying the attention of the boys. I noticed a youngster hardly as high as the table playing billiards one day, and he made runs of eight and ten quite frequently. Another little fellow spends his time in the Ocean House bowling alley. He disdains a small ball, and always picks out the largest he can find to roll at the pins.

A YOUTHFUL BOWLER.

After the lovelorn maidens and the romping children have retired, the gentlemen disappear from the hotels. They steer for one or two high rings of lights that seem to hang in the air, so high are they above all else at Long Branch. Beneath the domes wherein these lights are hung are spacious circular rooms extravagantly furnished and beautiful to look upon. Sometimes it is expensive to look upon them when the ball goes round, for they are gambling rooms. The rooms are attractive and are visited nightly by hundreds of men, not all of whom are by any means professional gamblers. They are the centers of life after ten o'clock, and remain so until the circles of light above them pale in the growing morn. The frequenters are mostly business men, who never enter a gambling house in the city, but who feel a little wicked when away for the summer. They seldom play beyond a certain limit, although now and then one loses his head and consequently his cash in an attempt to break the bank. A very generous and well served supper is provided every night and it is quite the thing, even for men who don't gamble to drop in about that hour to lounge about and watch the play. Women when they go the seashore do not leave their curiosity at home. Even the most demure would give more than her old gloves just to see the inside of one of those wicked places.—New York Herald.

A Bad Drawing.



[illegible]

SIGHTS IN MEXICO.

Jumbo Snails—Wonderful Butterflies —Armadillos as Food.

The trees are covered with orchids, lovely in form and hue, exquisite of odor, infinite in variety. In the course of one afternoon I gathered more than a dozen species, besides a whole flower-press full of ferns and blossoms, as an incidental in the collection of butterflies and land-shells.

Of the latter there are over one hundred varieties in the neighborhood of Xalapa, from the tiny Strebeling, newly discovered by my hostess, who is a full-blooded Totonac Indian, to the great hermaphrodite Glandina Sowerbyana, whose shell reaches a length of eleven centimetres or five inches, while the extended snail not infrequently measures eight and one-half or nine inches. And the butterflies! oh, the butterflies! I remember once cavilling at Edwin Arnold's simile in "The Light of Asia," wherein he speaks of butterflies as "jewelled objects." The term seemed inappropriate to the velvety texture of the butterfly; but I bow to its accuracy, having seen the butterflies of Xalapa. White, black, red, purple, brown, golden they shine, and many of them glitter with the brilliancy of gems. One particularly beautiful variety is familiarly known as "the figure 8," from the mark on the under side of its wings. The spread of wing of some of these gorgeous creatures is often eight or ten inches and the night moths have wings larger than those of doves in many species.

Armadillos are, if not abundant, not rare hereabouts, and they find ready purchasers at from thirty to fifty cents. The flesh is very delicate and savory. The favorite mode of cooking is by a sort of barbecue in its own shell. This shell is a sightly object, with its graduated bosses and corrugations, and it has been utilized by deft needlewomen for the groundwork of many pretty bags and boxes. The peons employed in field labor use these shells to hold the seed for sowing. To meet these purposes the lateral edges are bent together while green, and laced fast by cords or hide thongs. Although it would appear to be a cleaner animal than the armadillo, the opossum, it seems, is disdained as a food element by the Mexicans, although it is so plentiful hereabouts that it is largely trapped for its depredations in the poultry yard. Strange that this discrimination should exist, for the armadillo is somewhat omniverous, and it has been asserted that it has been known to make ghoulish raids on graveyards, while the opossum is a more fastidious creature.

There exists hereabouts a belief that the tail of the opossum, dried and pulverized and drunk in wine, is a sovereign remedy for chills and fever. Another animal, considered a tidbit by the people of the lowlands, makes a decidedly repulsive impression upon unaccustomed strangers. This is an iguana or lizard, which the natives catch and confine in the thatched-roofed peaks of their houses. Some people declare, that in order to fatten properly, the mouth of the iguana must be closed by a few stitches to prevent it from eating. The truth probably is that the wider the poor creature's mouth is left open the sooner it completes the process of fattening, as it doubtless lives on the various larvæ and beetles bred in the straw or palm of the thatching. Another of the resources of the commissary department is a shrub which is called bequinite, or else pitos (whistles), from the shape of the flowers, which are of a deep scarlet, some three inches in length, growing in clusters. These conical heads are cooked either as greens or in the shape of forcemeat balls, and they have, it is said, all the flavor of good meat. I have not tasted them.

There are mosquitoes in abundance and a vicious little gnat called rodador, or "rounder," whose sting burns like fire and leaves a tiny speck of scarlet in the flesh of its victim. Happily this pest is not common. There are scorpions and other venomous insects, but their sting is only painful, not fatal. There is also a rattlesnake which is not venomous, and a horned serpent, and another snake which the wiseacres were fain to find a realization of the fabled Amphisbœna, which was said to have a head at each end and to run with equal facility in either direction. The present variety has been shown, however, to have the customary head and tail end, the two being markedly alike in appearance.—[San Francisco Chronicle.

Our Nine Navy Yards.

There are nine navy yards in the United States, as follows: Brooklyn Navy Yard, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Charlestown Navy Yard, at Boston, Mass.; Gosport Navy Yard, near Norfolk, Va.; [illegible] Navy Yard, opposite Portsmouth, N. H.; League Island Navy Yard, [illegible] below Philadelphia, Penn.; [illegible] Navy Yard, near San Francisco, [illegible] New London Navy Yard, [illegible] Conn.; [illegible]

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., AUG. 29, 1889.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year	$1.50
One copy six months	75
One copy four "	50

The dispatches of yesterday reported the lynching of the Selma negro, Bryant, at Meridian, Miss. The report lacks confirmation.

Ella Wheeler Wilcox, in her latest poem makes a lover tell his sweeheart that he would fold her close in his arms and drop with her down to "sweet hell." Such stuff ought not to be called poetry; the proper appellation for it is "rot."

The action of the Farmer's Alliance in denouncing the Montgomery Advertiser and forgetting all the kind words which that paper has ever had to say for the Alliance, is illustrative of the fact that a public journal is usually a subject of much criticism and few thanks.

Strong thoughts are iron nails driven in the mind that nothing can draw out. Although it is dangerous to have too much knowledge of certain subjects, it is still more dangerous to be totally ignorant of them. Rest satisfied with doing well, and leave others to talk of you as they please.

Texas, it is claimed, will raise 2,000,000 bales of cotton this year. That is about one-fifth of the world's supply. It is as much as was raised in the entire South up to 1840 and more than half as much as was raised in this country any time prior to the war. It is almost equal to the amount of cotton manufactured by all the mills in the United States. And by far the greater portion of it is grown by white labor.

The Scottsboro Progressive Age, a rotten radical sheet, admits that such characters as the Selma negro, Bryant, should not be tolerated in any community. These radicals will never come over until they begin to quake at the probable outcome, and deviltry which their work has led up to. We might say ditto of the Birmingham dam-radikils who call themselves white, and who have seen fit to resolute against the "d—d nigger" since they can't expect to make any further use of him.

We do not believe that anything will be done with Nagle. It is interesting to know that the California statute is much more explicit in its definition of justifiable homicide than are the statutes of the Eastern States. It makes killing justifiable when committed in defence of wife or husband, parent, child, master, mistress, or servant. It will take no great flight of fancy on the part of a grand jury to see that Nagle, being an assigned bodyguard of Justice Field, was so far his servant, and consequently a shooting to protect him comes within the definition of a servant protecting his master.—Mobile Register.

HON W. H. LAWSON.

Denies the Insinuation that He is Author of the Auburn Resolutions.

Editor The Advertiser.

The CHILTON VIEW says some supposed that W. H. Lawson, of Montgomery, introduced the Auburn resolutions denouncing the Advertiser.

I have been accused of many things that I was never guilty of, but my most bitter opponents have never accused me of striking under the belt, but always credited me with striking straight from the shoulder, and I regret that any suspicion has attached to me in regard to those resolutions. I disapprove of said resolutions for various reasons.

First—That the resolutions are unjust and are misrepresentations of the position of the Advertiser.

Second—That if they meant anything, they were intended to suppress the Advertiser, which is one of our institutions and a coworker of the farmers. It has required the expenditure of a large amount of work and money to bring it up to its present standard and to destroy it now would be a public calamity.

Third—That I view with alarm any attempt to dictate to the press what it shall or shall not publish.

Fourth—That a free press is the corner stone of constitutional government, and affords to the people the best protection against oppression, and no class need this more than the farmers.

Fifth—That the Advertiser and the entire press of the country were the first to attack the jute trust, and it is due the agitation and co-operation of the press that we have succeeded as well as we have.

Sixth—That my information as to the author of said resolutions is that he is a newspaper man and has no interest in agriculture, and in my opinion, is not eligible to membership in the Alliance, such a class in the order has pushed itself to the front and is attempting to use the Alliance for gain, and for some personal gain and for personal grievance, real or imaginary is attacking in secret in the name of the Alliance, those they have not the moral courage to attack openly.

Seventh—That the Alliance deals in economic questions, only seeking to enjoy in part the prosperity of the country which its members help to produce.

This is the sum total of the purpose of the Alliance, and to this end we invite the influence and co-operation of all men.

W. H. LAWSON.

Montgomery, August 24, '89.

OVER THE COUNTY.

Neighborhood News Gathered by Our Correspondents.

Mountain Creek.

A party of nine gentlemen Messrs. Jones, Marbury, Henderson, Howell, Thorington, Blakey, Dennis, Kelly and Sweatt, who had a desire for catching and eating fish went out to Mr. Cox's pond, and had a fine time fishing and splashing. They had plenty to eat and brought home to their respective families quite a number of fish.

There are a very nice party of Montgomery people now at Mountain Creek, who take the chances of enjoying themselves in the country as best they can, and who are gaining in health and weight daily according to Henderson's scales.

Crops are good, and farmers have commenced gathering cotton. Fodder nearly all pulled. T. J. H.

Stanton Notes.

The Age-Herald contains the following items from Stanton, this county:

Rev. W. J. Ruddick is confined to his bed with typhoid fever.

Information reached here yesterday that Ben Neely, a negro school teacher, had been appointed postmaster at Maplesville, which is four miles north of us. This is the only negro appointment we known of in this county, and hope that this report may be an error.

Yesterday, Monroe Sanson, a boy of 11 years old, was sent by his mother on some errand to Mr. Poole's, who lives close by. Poole and his wife were not at the house, but left their children, together with some of the neighbor's children, who were playing in the yard. The little Sanson boy, who was a frequent visitor there, walked in the gate. Poole's dog, a small black cur, happened to spy the boy and made for the little fellow, pulling him to the ground, biting him most terribly, tearing big chunks of flesh from the boy's thigh and legs, and doubtless would have bitten the little fellow to death had it not been for one little boy's presence of mind, who ran in the house and got the broom and beat the dog off. The dog was never known to try to bite anybody before.

Cooper's Locals.

ED. VIEW:—I think your last week's criticism upon your contributors was just, but, my dear Sir, you must make an allowance when you remember that nearly all of your county correspondents are farmers, and we have worked hard and late, and we were tired and sleepy, and as soon as we woke up and went to a few picnics, we had to git up and dust and git to the fodder fields, and our crops were never better. The rust has injured the cotton some on the more sandy lands. The staple is rapidly developing from the opening bolls, and cotton picking will soon be all the rage.

Cooper's Station and vicinity is buoyant as usual. We sympathize with the Messrs. Gullahorn who have been recently bereft of their dear brother.

I think the lumber business is in a prosperous condition. The mercantile business is also healthy, and Mr. Moore's school has been a success, but our stock of religion seems to have run down.

The health of the people is generally good. Old Mr. Yates and Willie Dennis, have been very sick, but we are glad to note their improvement.

The bagging question is being agitated; the solution of which is so hard to arrive at that your correspondent has concluded to embrace the sentiment of the little girl who read in a little book that those who did marry did well, and those who did not marry did better. She exclaimed, she was "willing to do well!" The bagging question is a vexed question, one that a country in debt like ours cannot well meet. Let us procure that which saves us the most money. I don't feel that biting off my nose to spite my face would be any consolation, so looking at all the phases of the subject I am willing to adopt the sentiment of one old maid who said, "Lord, any!"

Success to the VIEW, its genial editor, and its many readers. H. J.

From Jemison.

We are exceedingly glad that the prospect for home-made hog and hominy is better than in several years. The cotton crop till very recently bid fair for a wonderful yield, but now many are complaining of rust or some yellow disease. It may be that it is a gentle reminder that it is proper to plant more corn and potatoes and all eatables for man and beast, and to let cotton be the surplus crop.

How many country children will be found in the school rooms from now till November. Until smaller acreage of cotton than formerly, country children will be destined to a limited education, and many none at all. We are in sympathy with the toiling farmer who is raising cotton to push through his indebtedness. But if he will study a moment his guano account is his largest.

Mr. Editor, we regret leaving Shelby Springs before you made your visit there some weeks ago. We should have been pleased to have seen you taking in that delightful little heaven.

We are thankful to note the good health of our community which we think is better than previously for August.

We hope that success will crown the efforts of Prof. Ruffin in his second term at Jemison Academy, which time is so closely approaching. Let each student have a settled determination to let no one excel in close application to studies, and good behavior as well.

Success to the ever faithful VIEW.

A MOTHER.

The New Capitol is a new journalistic venture in Birmingham. After an examination of the paper we are not surprised at the cruel pasquinade and ridicule with which the Age-Herald and the Advertiser greeted its advent. The object of the New Capitol theorist is to move the capital to Birmingham. The wonderful wisdom of this project is only equaled by that of the Age-Herald theorist who makes a point that all capital towns are dead towns, but expects that Birminham will yet become such a great city as to absorb the capital without much effort. We too think that Birmingham will grow into a city of such proportions that if such a paper as the New Capitol was published there a thousand years the great majority of the people would never know of its existence. And the greater and grander Birmingham grows as a business centre the less it will want to "absorb" anything that will make it a dead town. We are proud of Birmingham as a great city and as there are always too many dead towns in the country, we will never want to afflict her in that way. If it were not for this "deadly" danger we would want the capital at Lomax, Chilton county, which is the geographical centre of the State according to all geographers who know anything, but we don't want to kill Lomax, and we hope the New Capitol will permit the capital to remain where it is.

The Blade notices with some degree of surprise that a number of Alabama editors belong to the Alliance. The surprising part is how they get in. Under what head do they have a right to join? We know one of the number who is also officially connected with a railroad corporation. Most of the editors are like those of the Blade entirely friendly to the order, but we cannot see any connection which would entitle them to affiliation on the inside of the order.—Bibb Blade.

We have never heard that the Alliance objected to editors as members, but have heard that it seriously objected to the admission of lawyers and corporation officials, We must have been misinformed, as the editor of the new State organ of the Alliance is both a lawyer and the secretary of a railroad corporation. His may be an exceptional case, however.

A Defective Memory.

Youth's Companion.

The late Colonel Scott, who had charge of the war records of the government, relates, that one day an officer came into the room in a state of great excitement.

"Have you said that I was not in the second battle of Bull Run?" he demanded.

"No, not exactly that," said Scott.

"Well, Bob Scott, I was told that you said so and I came in to put daylight through you if you stuck to it."

"Oh, no," replied Scott. "I never said you were not in the battle. What I said was that you yourself in an official report dated on the day of the battle, had said that you were in the Cumberland Valley, 100 miles from Bull Run.

Colonel Scott called a clerk and ordered the report brought. The officer read it twice through in silence, put on his hat and went away without a word.

The Swift Specific Company, Drawer 3, Atlanta Ga., offer a reward of one thousand dollars to any one who will find by analysis a particle of mercury, iodide or other poisonous substance in S. S. S.

Husband—"Wife, the doctor said I was to have but one ounce of liquor per day. How much is an ounce, dear?"

Wife—"Sixteen drams."

Husband—"Wife, I believe that doctor understands my case thoroughly. Let's see, I've eleven more drinks due me yet to-day."—Omaha World.

W. H. Wright, of Rogers, Ark., a prominent farmer and stock grower says that Swift's Specific cured him of tetter of twenty years standing. Of course in that time he had a great amount of treatment says the wonder is that he did not scratch the flesh from his bones. S. S. S. cured him quick and permanently.

The continued use of mercury mixtures poisons the system causes the bones to decay, and brings on mercurial rheumatism. The use of S. S. S. forces impurities from the blood, gives a good appetite and digestion, and builds up the whole human frame. Send to Swift's Specific Company, Drawer 3, Atlanta Ga., for Treatise on Blood Diseases.

Few children can be induced to take physic without a struggle, and no wonder—most drugs are extremely nauseating. Ayer's Pills, on the contrary, being sugar-coated, are eagerly swallowed by the little ones, and are therefore, the favorite family medicine.

A perfect complexion, free from pimple or blemish, is very rarely seen, because few people have perfectly pure blood. And yet, all disfiguring eruptions are easily removed by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Try it, and surprise your friends with the result.

Notice!

Sealed bids will be received by the Judge of Probate until the 2d of September for the taking care of, clothing and feeding the county paupers.

NOTICE NO. 9067.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., August 26, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 7th, 1889, viz: Daniel Martin, Homestead 14614 for the e½ of n w ¼ and e ½ of s w ¼ sec 20, t 21 n, range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Ben Brown, Charles Jackson, Madison Popwell, James Headley, all of Kincheon, Ala.

aug29* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 9064.

U. S. LAND OFFICE, Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 26, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence, the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., October 7th, 1889, viz: Coldwell Choate, Homestead 13704 for the e ½ of s w ¼ sec 34 township 21 n range 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Thomas Jackson, Sr., Allen Jackson, Dennis Green, and J. P. Haley, all of Dixie, Ala.

aug29o J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 9049.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala. August 22d, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 5th, 1889, viz: Calvin Hall, Homestead entry 15640, for the n ½ of n w ¼ sec 26, tp 21 n, r 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Ambrose Kiener, Daniel Scoggins, William S. Lawrence, Jeffie J. Scoggins, all of Maplesville, Ala.

aug29o J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 9047.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 22, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit at Clanton, Ala., on October 5th, 1889, viz: William S. Lawrence, Homestead entry 14698 for the s e ¼ of n w ¼ sec 2, tp 21 n, range 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Ambrose Kiener, Jeffie J. Scoggs, Calvin Hall, and Daniel Scoggins, all of Maplesville, Ala.

aug29o J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 9048.

U. S. Land Office, Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 22, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 5th, 1889, viz: Ambrose Kiener, Homestead entry No. 16680 for the n w ¼ of n e ¼ sec 14 tp 21 n, range 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: William S. Lawrence, Calvin Hall, Daniel Scoggins and Jeffie J. Scoggings, all of Maplesville, Ala.

aug29o J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 9068.

U. S. LAND OFFICE, Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 27, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 4th, 1889, viz: William E. Culp, Homestead 14722 for the s ½ of n e ¼ and e ½ of s e ¼ sec 18 t 21 n r 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Albert Headley, Willis Barber, Ira Headlay, Dan Barber, all of Clanton, Ala.

aug29* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

CONSUMPTION,

In its first stages, can be successfully checked by the prompt use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Even in the later periods of that disease, the cough is wonderfully relieved by this medicine.

"I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral with the best effect in my practice. This wonderful preparation once saved my life. I had a constant cough, night sweats, was greatly reduced in flesh, and given up by my physician. One bottle and a half of the Pectoral cured me."—A. J. Eidson, M. D., Middleton, Tennessee.

"Several years ago I was severely ill. The doctors said I was in consumption, and that they could do nothing for me, but advised me, as a last resort, to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After taking this medicine two or three months I was cured, and my health remains good to the present day."—James Birchard, Darien, Conn.

"Several years ago, on a passage home from California, by water, I contracted so severe a cold that for some days I was confined to my state-room, and a physician on board considered my life in danger. Happening to have a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, I used it freely, and my lungs were soon restored to a healthy condition. Since then I have invariably recommended this preparation."—J. B. Chandler, Junction, Va.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

tmal6

DRS. STARKEY AND PALEN'S TREATMENT BY INHALATION

TRADE MARK REGISTERED.

Drs. STARKEY AND PALEN

COMPOUND OXYGEN

NOT A DRUG

1529 Arch Street, Philad'a, Pa.

For Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Hay Fever, Debility, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and all Chronic and Nervous Disorders.

Drs. Starkey & Palen's office records show over 50,000 cases in which their Compound Oxygen Treatment has been used by physicians in their practice, and by invalids independently. Over 1000 physicians and more than 49,000 invalids.

Drs. Starkey & Palen have the liberty to refer to the following named well-known persons who have tried their Treatment:

Rev. O. A. Darby, Columbia, S. C.
Col. T. B. Crews, editor Herald, Laurens, S. C.
Rev. John L. Gerardeau, Columbia, S. C.
Rev. Sidi H. Browne, editor Christian Neighbor, Columbia, S. C.
Rev. H. F. Chreitzburg, Chester, S. C.
Mrs. Wm. H. Johnstone, Tarboro, N.C.
Rev. S. P. Richardson, Athens, Ga.
John J. Mason, M. D., Columbus, Ga.
Rev. W. F. Cook, D. D. Augusta, Ga.
Mrs. Ella R. Tennent, Home Magazine, Marietta, Ga.
Rev. T. R. Kendall, Macon, Ga.
Rev. W. A. Candler, President Emory College, Oxford, Ga.
W. H. Lawrence, Editor Chilton View, Clanton, Ala.
Rev. Henry D. Moore, Montgomery, Ala.

Would you like to know whom it has cured, where these restored and vitalized people live and what were the diseases removed? Return mail will bring you a brochure of 200 pages containing these points if you will drop a postal to

Drs. STARKEY & PALEN,
1529 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
Or Mrs. A. W. MOORE, Camden, S. C.

Administratrix's Sale.

By virtue of an order of sale granted by the Probate Court of Chilton county, State of Alabama, the undersigned Administratrix of the estate of M. C. McRee, deceased, will proceed to sell at the Court House door in Clanton, Alabama at public outcry to the highest bidder for cash, on Monday, the 7th day of October, 1889, the real estate—including the widow's dower interest therein—belonging to the estate of said M. C. McRee, deceased, to-wit: South East Fourth of Block No. Fifteen, East of the South and North Alabama Railroad, in the town of Clanton, Alabama, together with all the buildings and appurtenances thereto belonging. Said lot running 140 feet East and West and 150 feet North and South: And that lot of land in the town of Clanton, Ala., described as follows, to-wit: Twenty-five (25) feet fronting street from Court House to South and North Alabama Railroad tracks and running one hundred and fifty feet back in a northerly direction and being in the western part of lots No. 10 and 15 in Block No. 7 East of the S. and N. Railroad, together with the Store House situated thereon.

ANN JANE McREE,
Administratrix.

Clanton, Ala., Aug. 29th, 1889.

Jemison High School.

:o:

Good House, Well Furnished, Healthful Locality, Dry Sandy Roads, Good Board Cheap, Tuition Low, Maps, Globes, Charts, etc., Moral Community, Three Churches, No Whisky, Well Trained Teachers, Fine Success, Teachers Re-elected without a Dissenting Voice. Session opens Sept. 2d, 1889.

Apply to J. L. RUFFIN, Jr., Principal.
aug29

Remember
The View Job Office
When you want
First-class Job Printing done.

Barber Shop.

Mr. H. A. Logan, who has his barber shop in the Farmer's Alliance Building, solicits the patronage of the good people of Clanton. He does good work and is well fixed up for the business.

The Lawson Carpet Co

Birmingham, Ala.

Take pleasure in directing the attention of the people of Chilton county to their large and attractive stock of

Carpets, Oil-cloths, Window Shades,

Curtains & Household Novelties

The Stock represented is the finest in Alabama, and prices are guaranteed as low as similar goods are offered in any of the eastern markets.

☞ All communications answered by return mail. Respectfully,

ma30-y THE LAWSON CARPET CO. (WM. LAWSON.)

BAINS & PORTER.

(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & PEEBLES.)

WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.

Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.

FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY.

1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS

Birmingham, Ala.

☞ Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜

P. O. BOX 570. June 19 y

Marion Military Institute.

Superior accommodations and board. Superintendent, his family and faculty live in buildings with cadets. Specially suited to boys who need family watch care, to young men who need business education, and to all who wish practical and thorough training. Terms moderate.

J. T. MURFEE, Sup't., Marion, Alabama.

THOMAS FOSHEE,

(SUCCESSOR TO N. W. FOSHEE,)

—DEALER IN—

Dry Goods, Groceries

—AND—

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

Maplesville, Alabama.

I solicit a continuance of the liberal patronage heretofore extended our house. Respectfully, feb 28-y THOMAS FOSHEE.

BLOOM,

The Tailor, of Montgomery, Ala.,

—HAS OPENED—

THE MERCHANT TAILOR ROOMS,

With a Large Stock of New Goods. Scouring and dying done.

No. 7, North Court Street.

WALL PAPER,

WINDOW SHADES,

MOULDINGS,

—AND—

PRACTICAL PAPER HANGER.

H. M. MANCHA,

204 DEXTER AVENUE, MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA.

☞ Papers furnished at any price from 10 cents up. Will send samples on application. apr 11-y

BIRMINGHAM MARBLE WORKS.

THOS. H. HOLT,

PRACTICAL WORKMAN.

—AND DEALER IN—

American and Italian Marble.

—Manufacturer of all kinds of—

CEMETERY MARBLE AND STONE WORK.

Cor. Second Avenue and Twenty-Fourth Street,

Birmingham, Alabama.

nov28-tf

arpet Co.
, Ala.
the attention of y to their large tock of ndow Shades,
ld Novelties.
, and prices are guaranteed as rn markets.
ail. Respectfully,
RPET CO. (WM. LAWSON.)

RTER.
(PEEBLES.)
GGISTS.
Receive Prompt At-
S A SPECIALTY.
and 20th STREETS
Ala.
Company's Prices.
June 19 y

Institute.

ndent, his family and faculty boys who need family watch nd to all who wish practical
J. T. MURFEE, Sup't.,
Marion, Alabama.

SHEE, SHEE,) oceries
HANDISE.
abama.
l patronage heretofore
HOMAS FOSHEE.

M, omery, Ala.,
R ROOMS,
Scouring and dying rt Street.

PER,
INDOW SHADES,
OULDINGS,
—AND—
TICAL PAPER HANGER.
HA,
ERY, ALABAMA.
10 cents up. Will send apr 11-y

LE WORKS.
OLT, RKMAN.
an Marble.
of—
STONE WORK.
-Fourth Street,
Alabama.

CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., AUG. 29, 1889.

THE VIEW is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the doubtful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

A cross mark (X) after your name means that your subscription is due and that we would be glad to have you renew.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the second Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—On the eleventh Monday after the fourth Monday in February, and on the thirteenth Monday after the fourth Monday in August, and may continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD.—Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.

No. 1 Express at	5:55 a. m.
No. 3 Mail	5:37 p. m.
No. 5 (Passenger)	6:17 p. m.
No. 9 Accommodation	7:08 a. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 2 Fast (Don't Stop)	2:20 a. m.
No. 6 Mail	9:16 a. m.
No. 4 Express	7:55 p. m.
No. 10 Accommodation	7:22 p. m.

LOCAL LACONICS.

Tax Assessor Rollins was in town uesday.

Mr. T. J. Marcus, of Strasburg, as in to see us Friday.

Dr. Stewart has been absent the st week at South Pittsburg, enn.

Mr. Jim West, and sister, of ontgomery, spent Sunday in lanton.

Clanton High School will open onday, and we hope with a full tendance.

Mrs. Martin and family, of Un- Springs, are visiting relatives Clanton.

Mrs. McCants and children, of irmingham, are visiting relatives our town.

Dr. A. M. Rambo, of Verbena, ade a professional visit to Clan- n Monday.

Mr. Wm. Walker, Jr., of Ma- sville, was here Monday behind panking team.

Mr. P. C. Dennis, the leading mer- ant of Cooper's was in town Fri- y on business.

Miss Annie Lou Duke has re- ned home from a pleasant t in Montgomery.

Misses Florence and Carry Wil- mson have been visiting their her in Clanton.

Misses Bessie and Gertha Pon- have gone to Tuskegee, where y will enter School.

Mr. John Aldridge is preparing build a new blacksmith shop the site of his old one.

Miss Leah Watts returned home Friday, after spending a pleas- visit in Lowndes county.

The teachers have gone and e left us wiser and better their presence among us.

Miss Ella Gartman one of Clan- 's fair young ladies is on a vis- relatives in Montgomery.

The next county teachers' insti- will be held at Verbena in tember. The date not yet fixed.

e notice of sale of real estate by A. J. McRee, administratrix e estate of the late M. C. McRee.

iss Ross will fill the position sistant to Prof. Scott at the ton High School the coming on.

D. Bently, Esq., of Rockford, in our town Friday and Sat- y. What was he doing here? k the winds.

. R. M. McKee, of Jumbo, in town last week and sub- ed for the VIEW like a sensi- an that he is.

of. C. C. Nall, principal of ford High School was one of eachers who came over to at- the congressional institute.

New Goods.

L. Sampey has been receiv- ome very nice goods lately and prices are very reasonable are crowded and need to be o get them out of the way. nice saddles are priced at low figures. A few suits of g clothing will be sold at e make them go. Lots of things have been added to ock.

ton, Aug. 14, 1889.

The Montgomery Advertiser has a very capable correspondent at this place, and he never writes anything "fuky."

Mr. Gay, whose farm is near Clanton expects to make three bales of cotton from two acres we hear. How is this for the pine hill lands?

Our Cooper's correspondent makes some practical suggestions on the bagging question. He is an experienced and well to do farmer and an Alliance man.

Clanton merchants will all handle cotton bagging. One or two of them will handle the cotton bagging exlcusively, and others will order the jute if there is any demand for it.

We regret very much that in our report of the institute we omitted the name of Miss Mary E. Lovett, the accomplished daughter of Prof. J. A. B. Lovett, of Huntsville.

Mr. W. H. Phillips will shortly go on the road canvassing for the sale of some of his own and Dr. M. J. Green's preparations. He will travel through Alabama and Florida during the coming winter.

Mr. B. T. Rasberry, of Mulberry neighborhood, say he has the finest cotton crop he ever raised and all who have seen it say it presents a better prospect than any crop of cotton, of like extent that they ever saw.

On Saturday afternoon during the heavy rain a washout occurred on the railroad at Lomax, and Mr. C. J. Stewart stood out in the rain until the passenger train came along and signaled it to stop; averting a serious accident.

During the session of the teacher's institute last week, we were pleased to meet Prof. W. P. Stott, formerly of Butler county, but now a citizen of Chilton. Prof Stott will have charge of Verbena Academy the coming session and he speaks most encouragingly of his prospects for a large attendance of pupils.

Tip Mullins has given up his school in the Jumbo settlement and is preparing to re-enter the Normal Institute in Nashville next month. Tip is a thorough specimen of progressive citizenship and we feel interested in his career and predict that he will reflect honor upon his name and family.

An exchange says it will pay you for the trouble it costs to file home papers. No volume in your library will afford more pleasure, more profit, more everlasting benefit. It contains dates of local events which you cannot get elsewhere; marriages, obituary notices, etc. In short your paper is a history of the world in which your friends live, and occasionally reminds you that you are a year or two behind on subscription.

A negro man wearing female attire was caught near Strasburg last week. He was given a thrashing, and permitted to leave. This was a case for the Sheriff and the courts, and yet we don't blame the parties who administered the flogging. After the beating they ought to have brought him to jail or held him until the Sheriff could get him. It has not been so many years since a negro man in like disguise made an assault upon a white woman in the same neighborhood. Such a disguise always means deviltry ahead as well as behind, and such scoundrels ought to have quick and effective punishment.

Rev. A. E. Burns, our Baptist pastor, held a series of meetings at Mulberry church in this county week before last which resulted in great good to the church and community. It was the most gracious revival the church has had for years; many were hopefully converted and twenty added to the church. Bro. B. was assisted by Rev. J. M. McCord, the former pastor of the church. No minister was ever more beloved by any people than is Bro McCord by those people, and the love of the ministers for each other is like that of David and Jonathan. We rejoice to hear of such meetings as the above. Let the good wook go on.

Scuppernongs.

I have charge of the Willis Lowe arbor and have thrown it open to the public charging an admission fee of five cents, and five cents will be charged for each quart of grapes brought away from the arbor. No credit. C. R. BRUCE.

The District Teacher's Institute.

The Fifth Congressional Institute has just closed its session here. The Institute was conducted by Prof. J. A. B. Lovett, of Huntsville, Ala., assisted by Prof. I. W. McAdory, of Jefferson. Their lectures on the best methods of teaching and to the people were grand, and showed their ability as educators.

Major Palmer arrived Thursday and gave two very strong and forcible addresses. His lecture Thursday night was sound and to the point as is characteristic of most of his lectures. Great interest was manifested all through the meetings both by the teachers, and people. The attendance was large, there being over fifty teachers present. The Institute was a grand success. It has left an impression which will be felt for many years by the people of Clanton. At the mass meeting Thursday night the following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, The Congressional Institute which has been in session one week, is about to close, be it resolved, 1st. That it has been both a pleasant and profitable meeting to all who have attended.

2d. That the thanks of the people and the teachers are due our State Superintendent for holding the Institute in our city and for his presence and able addresses.

3d. That we tender our thanks to Prof. J. A. B. Lovett, who has so ably conducted the Institute, for his instruction, and the pleasant manner in which he managed the same, and to Prof. I. W. McAdory for assistance rendered Prof. Lovett in the work of the Institute.

4th. That we extend our thanks to the good people of Clanton for their generous hospitality and kindness shown us in their homes during our stay here, and to Prof. Hicks, County Superintendent and Prof. Scott, Principal of Clanton High School, for uniform kindness in providing for our pleasure and entertainment, and to Miss Annie Mahone, the music teacher, for the excellent music which contributed to the success of the Institute.

5th. That the thanks of the Institute are due the Louisville and Nashville Railroad for reduced rates.

6th. That we thank the Methodists for the use of their church for night sessions.

Respectfully submitted,
MRS. FANNIE DAVIS,
R. E. R. HICKS,
I. W. MCADORY,
Committee.

Jemison High School.

In another column will be found the announcement of this excellent institution. Last session this school under the able management of Prof. J. L. Ruffin had ninety-four pupils enrolled, and they came from the territory extending from Cullman on the north to Montgomery on the south. "Jemison is a town proverbial for its morality with as few corrupting influences as any place. The people are unexcelled in their appreciation of the school or interest in the pupils," says a handsomely printed catalogue of the institution, and which statement we can heartily endorse. The advertisement speaks for itself briefly but to the point. For catalogue and further information address the principal.

Mr. Walter Gray, of Kincheon, a pleasant and good looking gentleman, was in town Saturday and dropped in to pay for two years subscription to the VIEW.

Misses Kate and Bessie Collier, of Troy, are visiting relatives in Clanton.

Mrs. C. M. Reid, of Montgomery, is visiting relatives in Clanton.

CLANTON
HIGH SCHOOL.
:o:
This School will open Monday, Sept. the 2nd, 1889. Advantages the best in the county. Rates low, board and tuition $10 per month. Patronage is earnestly desired. For further information address me at Clanton, Ala.
Respectfully,
A. J. SCOTT, Principal.

State Normal College,
FLORENCE, ALA.
JAS. K. POWERS, A. M. President.
THE COURSE OF STUDY embraces all the branches required in the public schools of the State.
THE THEORY AND PRACTICE of teaching receive careful attention throughout the course.
DRAWING, VOCAL MUSIC AND CALISTHENICS are taught. No teacher is thoroughly equipped for his work without training in these branches.
STATE CERTIFICATES are granted to graduates, entitling them to teach in any public school in Alabama, without further examination.
TUITION IS FREE
to teachers and those preparing to teach and good board costs only ten to fourteen dollars a month.
Fall Term Opens Sept. 17, 1889.
For catalogue or further information, apply to the President.

STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLEDO,
LUCAS COUNTY, S. S.
Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the city of Toledo, county and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrh Cure.
FRANK J. CHENEY.
Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D., '86. A. W. GLEASON, Notary Public.
Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly upon the blood and mucus surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials free.
F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.
Sold by druggists, 75 cts.
oct 11-y

BUSINESS LOCAL NOTICES.

Insure in the Commercial Fire Insurance Co. of Montgomery.

Go to Blank Brothers, Leading Clothiers, 2112, 2nd Avenue, Birmingham, Ala., to buy anything you need in the way of clothing and gent's furnishing goods.

The VIEW job office is prepared to do all kind of job work at short notice. Let us know what you want and we will give you extra low figures.

BLOOD AND BRAIN.
Pure blood is what oils the machinery of life, eases every movement of the body, removes stiffness of the joints, drives out pain from the nerves, stimulates the brain, protects the liver and kidneys from irritation, enables physical exertion without fatigue, prolongs life, and makes men and women perfect in health and feature. Good blood and good brain are inseparable. Aim to keep the blood pure by using the only true blood remedy, B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm.)
Miss S. Tomlinson, Atlanta, Ga., says:
"For many years I have been afflicted with rheumatism combined with severe kidney troubles, indigestion and nervous prostration.
Rheumatism
Several physicians were employed and numerous patent medicines resorted to without benefit. At last I began the use of B. B. B., and its effect was like magic. Rheumatic pains ceased, my kidneys were relieved, and my constitution improved at once."
Z. T. Hallerton, Macon, Ga., writes:
"Three years ago I contracted a blood poison. I applied to a physician at once, and his treatment came near killing me. I employed an old physician and then went to Kentucky. I then went to Hot Springs and remained two months, but nothing seemed to cure me permanently, although temporary relief was given me. I returned home a ruined man physically, with but little prospect of ever getting well. I was persuaded to try B. B. B., and to my utter astonishment it quickly healed every ulcer."
Hot Springs
W. C. McGaughey, Webb City, Ark., writes:
"I owe the comfort of my life to a use of B. B. B. I was troubled with blood poison for five or six years, and found no relief equal to that given by this valuable remedy."
Bad Blood
Mrs. Emma Griffiths, Unitia, Tenn., writes:
"The doctors said my boy twelve years old had scrofula. His knees were drawn up and joints were stiff, and for three years he had been unable to walk. One bottle of B. B. B. has done him so much good he can now walk, and his pain has ceased. Its action on my boy has been pronounced most wonderful." (4)
Scrofula
[sep27 ew 1y]

NOTICE NO. 8941.

Land Office, Montgomery, Ala.,
July 24, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on September 7, 1889, viz: William H. Mills, homestead No. 15149 for the n w ¼ of n e ¼, the n ½ of n w ¼ and s w ¼ of n w ¼, sec 14 t 20, north, r 13 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: James T. Chambers, Henry A. Sewell, John Hamilton, and Thomas Anderson, all of Kincheon, Ala.

jul25* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 9042.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 21, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on September 28, 1889, viz: Ephram Vasser, homestead 14371 for the n e ¼ of section 28 township 21 n, range 11 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Coldwell Choate, Chambers Young, Fed Latham, and Anderson Peoples, all of Maplesville, Ala.

aug22o J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 8988.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
August 6, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the Circuit Court, Clanton, Ala., on September 14th, 1889, viz: Abner C. Poole, Homestead 15869 for the n w ¼ of n e ¼ sec 32, township 21 north, range 14 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: William I. Mullins, Robert S. Owen, James Owen, and John W. Scott, all of Kincheon, Ala.

aug8o J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 8989.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 8, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circurt court at Clanton, Ala., on September 14th, 1889, viz: Ely Garner, widow of Dick Garner, deceased, Homestead 9316 for the n e ¼ of n w ¼ of sec 2, township 21 north range 12 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: Henry Young, Ben Talley, Noah Coleman, Aaron Talley, all of Maplesville, Ala.

aug 8* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

Now is the time to subscribe for your county paper.

A. E. BIVINGS,
—DEALER IN—
DRUGS, AND Medicines,
FAMILY Groceries, ETC.

Clanton, Alabama.
I can furnish you anything you may wish in the way of DRUGS AND MEDICINES. I also handle THE BEST GROCERIES TO BE HAD, and you will find my prices to suit the times. [mar20]

BUY YOUR
PIANOS and ORGANS
—FROM—
GRAMBS & BUCHANAN,
—2107 SECOND AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—
:o:
THE VERY LOWEST CASH PRICES, or on easy installments. Sohmer, Cranich & Bach, Gabler, Wheelock and Newby & Evans Pianos, and the world renowned Wilcox & White organs. Mail orders for sheet music or musical merchandise given prompt attention.
Write for Catalogue. jul18
When ordering please state in what paper you saw our advertisement.

CRELLIN & NALLS,
BOILER MAKERS
Copper and Sheet Iron Workers
Chimneys, Tanks, and Repairing of All Kinds.

Saw Mill Work a Specialty.
AVENUE C AND TWENTY-SECOND STREET, SOUTHSIDE,
Birmingham, Ala.
mar21 y

I. N. LANGSTON,
—DEALER IN—
Dry Goods, Groceries, Family Supplies, &c.
(Contractor for Cross Ties for the L. & N. R. R.)
—JEMISON, CHILTON COUNTY, ALA.—
I have been out of business for the past year, but I am now before the public with a full and Complete Line of Goods for the General Trade. I invite the Farmers of Chilton county as well as my old customers, to give me a call and examine my stock. I will please you every time both in quality of goods and low prices.
Highest market price paid for Cross Ties, Cotton and Country Produce.
oct 18-y I. N. LANGSTON.

MONTGOMERY IRON WORKS.
MACHINISTS & FOUNDERS
Dealers in Fittings, Supplies and Machinery
OF ALL KINDS.
MAKERS OF ENGINES, CANE MILLS, COTTON SEED CRUSHERS, SAW MILLS, LIVE ROLLS, LOG HAULUPS, &c.
ESPECIAL ATTENTION TO WANTS OF SAW MILL MEN
nov 8-y

INSURE WITH
The Commercial Fire Insurance Company,
Montgomery, Alabama.
Capital $100,000. Surplus $146,578.
Directors:—P. J. Anderson, C. A. Lanier, H. C. Tompkins, A. M. Kennedy, M. P. LeGrand, S. C. Marks, J. H. Clisby, C. W. Buckley, Frank Duncan.
W. H. Lawrence, Agt., Clanton.

Roberts & Son,
Steam Printers and Binders,
1918 FIRST AVENUE, BET. 19th & 20th STREETS,
Birmingham, Ala.
BLANK BOOKS TO ORDER. WORK PROMPTLY DELIVERED.
dec5 ay

1889 1890
S. C. MARKS, P. H. S. GAYLE, WM. A. GAYLE.
MARKS & GAYLE,
The Montgomery Warehouse.
Just back of the Exchange Hotel. Very convenient to the business centre, and close to the Fire Department.
ALL COTTON CAREFULLY WEIGHED & HANDLED.
Bagging and Ties at Lowest Rates.
We will take pleasure in forwarding orders for Cotton Bagging for our customers, charging them actual cost for same, free from any profit whatever to ourselves.
Montgomery, Ala.
FREE WAGON YARD THE YEAR ROUND.

A. M. RAMBO,
DENTIST.
VERBENA, ALA.
Will respond to calls along railroad between Calera and Deatsville
[mar15 y]

Money to Loan.
Loans can be negotiated on first mortgage security on improved farming lands. Call on or address
R. M. WILLIAMSON,
ST. CLAIR THORNTON,
jun27 Clanton, Ala.

S. P. TRESSLAR,
Photographer,
10 COURT SQUARE,
Montgomery.
Photographs on Silk, Satin and Linen. Photographs on watch dials.
Portraits in Crayon, Pastile, India Ink and Water Colors.
All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.
Correspondence solicited.
Always glad to have you call at the gallery, and examine specimens of the work on exhibition.
[jan21-tf]

J. H. SHEPHERD
THE LEADING
PHOTOGRAPHER,
—OF—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE
(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)
Photographs of All Kinds
Work Done in the
BEST STYLE.
Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

Insure
Your Property against Fire.
The Commercial Fire Insurance Company of Montgomery, has a record for reliability unsurpassed.
Insure through the Local Agency at Clanton, and save expense.

HERBINE
After ten years exclusive sale, can now be obtained of all Druggists and Dealers in Medicines. It CURES-take notice-not simply helps but CURES LIVER COMPLAINT, Biliousness and Dyspepsia.
Is a strictly vegetable preparation and will CURE MALARIA, and all MALARIAL troubles.
Dr. S. H. Wise, of Boston, Ky. says: "Have practiced medicine 15 years, and find no equal to HERBINE as a Liver Regulator."
Dr. W. A. Baker, of Madison, Fla., says: "A bottle of HERBINE is worth more than $5.00 worth of Quinine in any family."
Acting on the Liver in a different way from any other medicine; it is a positive cure for Chronic Constipation and is cheaper than ….
Its peculiar composition is such, that we guarantee to cure any case of Chills and Fever or Billous Fever with one bottle.
It costs but 75 cents and each bottle contains over 40 average doses, making the cost less than two cents a dose. Would you ask for cheaper medicine? It is not a cure-all. But will cure any Liver, Billous or Malarial Complaint. Manufactured by
The Herbine Co.,
(Successors to Wm. Condell.) St. Louis, Mo.
mar 14-y

PISO'S CURE FOR
TWENTY-FIVE CENTS
Piso's Cure for Consumption is also the best
Cough Medicine.
If you have a Cough without disease of the Lungs, a few doses are all you need. But if you neglect this easy means of safety, the slight Cough may become a serious matter, and several bottles will be required.
CONSUMPTION
PISO'S REMEDY FOR CATARRH gives immediate relief. Catarrhal virus is soon expelled from the system, and the diseased action of the mucous membrane is replaced by healthy secretions.
The dose is small. One package contains a sufficient quantity for a long treatment.
CATARRH
A Cold in the Head is relieved by an application of Piso's remedy for Catarrh. The comfort to be got from it in this way is worth many times its cost.
Easy and pleasant to use.
Price, 50 cents. Sold by druggists or sent by mail.
E. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.
nov22-y

GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES!
FROM $85, to $65.
This Elegant Parlor Organ style 78 containing 6 octaves, 6 sets of reeds, 10 stops, 2 knee swells, Stool and Book free. For only $65.00. With right and left coupler. "Warranted for 6 years."

H. W. ALL[illegible]
Washington, [illegible]

AGRICULTURAL.

TOPICS OF INTEREST RELATIVE TO FARM AND GARDEN.

ANTIDOTE FOR ANTS.

I tried several methods to prevent ants molesting bees, and found the following far the most satisfactory: By use of crowbar make a hole in the middle of the anthill down to the bottom, which is easily found by the more open or less compact earth. Then turn into this hole a gill of bisulphide of carbon, and fill and crowd down with earth. As the liquid is very volatile, and cannot pass out of the now compactly filled hole, it quickly evaporates and kills all the ants. If clay be near, always use this to crowd into the hole, as it is more impervious than is sand, though by firmly pressing with the foot the sand can be made to hold the liquid. Kerosene may be used instead of the carbon, but it is far less effective. So, too, of carbolic acid. By means of syrup, so covered by gauze that bees are excluded, the ants can be trapped in great numbers and destroyed. I have often done this, and by adding Paris green have poisoned the ants.—New York Tribune.

THE POINTS OF A GOOD BUTTER COW.

What are the fine points that make up a good creamery cow? is a question I am asked to answer. I presume a butter cow is meant, as the volume of cream does not determine the butter value. Cream separated from milk by intense refrigeration or by the centrifugal machine requires about one-third more in volume to make a pound of butter than cream raised in silo pans at a temperature of sixty-two degrees, and yet either of the other processes may produce more butter from one hundred pounds of milk than a silo pan.

A good butter cow should have a long face, wide between the eyes, the eye alert and expressive, and placed a long way between the horns. A cow with eyes near the top of the head does not know any more than a man with eyes so placed. She should have a large muzzle, a slim neck and a yellow skin, especially inside the ears; the breathing should be regular, the back and abdomen strong, the udder wide where it connects with the body, the teats squarely placed, and the tail slim. Over and above all these points, she must have the dairy form. The points at best are only indications. The desirable dairy form is always seen in the best types of Jerseys, Guernseys, Ayreshires, and Holsteins. The best beef is presented in the Shorthorns, Herefords and most of the polled breeds. The intelligent dairyman, with a knowledge born of experience, desire and capacity for the business, never makes the mistake of choosing his cow with a beef form. Neither will the intelligent beef breeder choose his animal from the dairy form with a cat head and relaxed expression. Physical structure and natural adaptability embrace the possibilities, and therefore increase the probabilities of success with the butter cow.

While it is not difficult for a dairyman with a knowledge of his business to select a cow that make ten pounds of butter a week, provided always such a cow is within the drove or herd he is inspecting, cows that will make fourteen pounds of butter a week are not to be found in the droves that are driven about for sale. Such cows are seldom for sale except at breeder's prices. A novice might by chance select a cow that was making ten pounds of butter a week under the right treatment, yet if he kept her in a cold stable and gave her ice-water to drink and fed her on timothy hay and ground barley and corn meal, all of which are lacking in protein, the cow would soon run down to three and one-half pounds a week and stay there, or make less and less. Another man who knew his business might have selected the same cow and kept her in a warm stable, given warm water, warm ensilage made from sweet corn well matured, two or three pounds of clover hay and a plentiful supply of wheat bran or middlings, ground oats and peas, or a little oil meal or any other food containing protein in liberal proportion, and the cow would probably have increased to twelve pounds a week if her limit permitted.

Cows have their limit as sharply defined as a trotting horse. Pasture grass is the only single feed known that contains one part of protein or nitrogenous food to five pounds of starch and sugar (carbhydrates) in its dry matter, and it is therefore a good feed to test an ordinary cow's limit. But just as good a ration as pasture grass can be made from the article just mentioned, and this ration will be much cheaper than pasture grass on high-priced land.

Dairy knowledge that enables a man to make selections of good cows from among poor ones, and shows him how to feed and treat them so that they will do their best, is not a commodity that can be rattled off to a novice like Widow Bedott's recipe for making potato pudding, but is the slow outcome of natural observation, experience and capacity. Such a man may be accurate in his judgment, and still be unable to make another man accurate. A butcher can judge the weight of a dozen or twenty bullocks within the fraction of a pound, but he cannot instruct a novice to do likewise, any more than the poet Whittier can tell Tupper how to write good poetry.

The theory that the young calf reveals the future cow is based on the form and on the heredity of the calf's ancestors. If the calf has the beefy form, and her ancestors were noted for their beef qualities, it is safe to say that such a calf will not make a profitable butter cow. But if the three days' calf has the marked dairy form and is descended from a long line of butter cows and sires, she can be developed into a good butter cow. The theory is based on the fundamental principle of all scientific but practical breeding that like begets like.—American Agriculturist.

FARM AND GARDEN NOTES.

Air-slacked lime is a sure remedy for the slimy pear slug, and an easy one to apply.

From observation and experience we are persuaded that more young chicks are killed by lice than by skunks or minks.

In shipping hens and roosters have them in different coops. Have shipping coops high enough so the birds can stand up in them.

Professor Goff, of the New York Station, finds the really valuable novelty in tomatoes tested the past season in the dwarf champion.

Ground from which a crop of potatoes or early cabbage has been taken can be profitably sowed in July to turnips of the [illegible] or early varieties.

HOUSEHOLD MATTERS.

CLOTHES CLEANING.

Soiled and faded black cashmere may be made to look almost as good as new by washing in soapsuds, rinsing in water, and then putting in water with so much bluing in it that looks black. The cloth is to lie in this for some time—as long as over night, if it is much faded. Do not wring the cloth after taking it from the water, but hang up to dry in a shady place. If the gown is elaborately trimmed, the trimming may be ripped off and treated in this separately. Dark blue cashmere can be made to look beautiful if renewed in this way. For silk cleaning, paper and a hot iron is the old and best method. Put brown paper under the grease spot, on a board, and over the spot place several sheets of paper. With a medium heated iron press firmly on top, and several times renew the sheet of paper next to the silk on top. The paper will finally absorb all the grease. This method is applicable to any unwashable cloth, except velvet, plush, etc.

Ammonia is a favorite substance for cleaning cloth. The ammonia should be well diluted with water—fifteen drops are enough in a small basin of water. A piece of flannel is saturated with this dilution and rubbed on the grease spot until it is removed, after which that place on the cloth is sponged off with clear water. Dry somewhat, and iron when damp.

Ammonia water is also recommended to remove the shiny look from a black coat, but it is not good for much for this purpose. Strong black coffee, to which have been added a few drops of ammonia, is said to be good for cleansing a black coat that needs a thorough renovating.—St. Louis Star-Sayings.

HOW TO BUY AND USE BROOMS.

Mrs. J. M. Milligan writes as follows in the American Agriculturist: It is doubtful if there is any surer index to the qualifications of a housekeeper than the condition of her brooms. In buying brooms those with varnished handles are to be avoided, the natural moisture of the hand being sufficient to make them sticky. It is usually cheaper, and will be found a convenience to buy brooms by the half dozen or more. If kept in a dry place they are not injured by keeping except in the elasticity and toughness of the brush, and this is easily restored by dipping in hot water. Brooms of medium weight and size are preferable to the very heavy or very light ones. Those made of fine greenish straw are of better quality than those made of coarse red straw.

There should be in every house one or more fixed places for brooms on each floor, three at least for the first floor, so that carpet, kitchen and scrubbing brooms may be kept distinct. A broom that has not a fixed place is a time waster and a worry. A good simple way of suspending brooms is by a stout cord run through holes bored in the upper ends of the handles. It is well to select brooms with the holes already made, as the wood of some handles is so hard that it is almost impossible to pierce them without the proper tools. There are several reasons why it is better that brooms should be hung up. If a broom is stood on its brush it becomes an angular, forlorn object, with which it is impossible to sweep easily or well. Walls are marred by handles or brush being dropped against them many times a day. An inverted broom suggests a laborious worker; two unnecessary turns of this implement every time it is used might, in time, prove "the straw too much." Finally, if a wet broom is inverted, the moisture has free way to the closely-laid parts of the brush and soon causes mustiness and decay.

Dr. Franklin is credited with introducing broom corn into the United States, he finding a single seed in a ladies' brush—said to have been imported from India—which he planted. There are now thirty thousand acres of this plant cultivated here, with an annual crop valued at $1,500,000.

RECIPES.

Apple Custard—Pare and grate a quart of apples; stir in a quarter of a pound of melted butter and half a pound of sugar. Beat the yolks and the whites of the eggs separately; stir in the whites the last thing. Bake in a deep dish, lined with puffed paste.

Mint Sauce—Take fresh spear mint leaves, wash and drain them; chop very fine, put in a gravy bowl, and to three tablespoons of mint add two of powdered sugar; mix and stand a few minutes, then pour over it slowly six tablespoonfuls of vinegar; let stand a half hour before serving.

German Sticks—Take two eggs and mix them with their weight in flour and sugar, beat well with a fork, lay half of the paste on a buttered tin and put it in a brisk oven; when a little set spread over it strawberry jam; the remainder of the paste and bake; when cold sift a little sugar over it and cut in narrow strips.

Snow Pudding—One quart of milk, one cup of sugar, four tablespoonfuls of corn-starch dissolved in a little of the milk; let come to a boil, stirring constantly; beat the whites of three eggs to a froth and stir in and remove from the fire when thick, and flavor; make a custard of the yolks of the eggs, put in a deep dish and pour the sauce over it.

Green Corn Fritters—Cut through the centre of each row of kernels, then press out the centre pulp with the back of the knife. Beat two eggs thoroughly, and add to them a heaping saltspoonful of salt, a pinch of cayenne, one pint of corn pulp, and flour enough to make a moderately stiff batter. Drop the batter in smoking hot fat by tablespoonfuls, and brown them evenly.

Ragout of Beef—For six pounds of the round of beef take a dozen ripe tomatoes sliced, three sliced onions, half a dozen cloves and a little whole black pepper. Cut gashes in the meat, into which stuff half a pound of salt pork cut in thin squares; place the meat upon the other ingredients, and pour over them half a cup of vinegar and a cup of water; cover tightly and bake in a moderate oven five hours. When about done salt to taste; strain the gravy through a colander and thicken with flour.

Cauliflower Salad—To make a salad that will suffice for ten persons procure three heads of cauliflower. Let them be parboiled in salt water, and when thoroughly done put them in a stone jar and cover them with water. When they become cool place the cauliflower in an ice box and let it remain till they are ready to serve. Then strain off the water, arrange them in a salad bowl, and garnish with small leaves of lettuce. Pour over one pint of French dressing, and when serving do not omit putting some of the dressing upon every plate.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

PLEASANT LITERATURE FOR FEMININE READERS.

INGENIOUS FEMININE PATENTEES.

A writer who has been overhauling the records of the patent office says: "The first patent granted to a woman was to Miss Mary Keif in the year 1800, for weaving straw with silk or thread. The next was fifteen years later, when Mary Brush received a patent for a corset. Two years afterward Sophia Usher followed with cream of tartar carbonated liquid. In 1822 Julia Planton had a foot-stove patented. Of later years the entries in the patent office at Washington have been annual. In the period between 1800 and 1858 precisely fifty patents were granted to women. They are all embraced in one page of the record. But in 1868 the entries fill a full page, and by 1873 three pages. The first native patentee whose address is recorded is Agdalena S. Goodman, of Duval County, Fla., in 1859, for an improvement in broom brushes. Up to the outbreak of the Civil War she and one other were the only Southern women who had thus distinguished themselves. During the same period New York had furnished fourteen, Massachusetts four, Ohio two, Maine, Connecticut, Indiana and New Jersey one each. These patents are by no means confined to the domestic arts and conveniences, or to the hygiene and adornment of the female sex. In 1864 Mary Jane Montgomery, of New York, brought forward her improved war vessel. In the same year a young woman from Michigan introduced the improved lantern dinner pail. Miss Montgomery also devised an improvement in locomotive wheels, and she has many associates in railway inventions, even to an apparatus for destroying vegetation on railroads. There is a woman in Iowa who, with a male partner, makes an improvement in cigars. Another in Philadelphia invented a mustache spoon. A Boston woman contributes a trousers tree, and another an apparatus for killing mosquitoes."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

WOMEN'S LETTERS TO MRS. HARRISON.

The most exacting, time-consuming and laborious portion of the daily routine of the chief lady of the White House is her correspondence. One of the principal subjects of correspondence is the request for samples of her inaugural ball costume. They come from feminine sources, of course, and in the appeals for the coveted fragment of the silk-woven, homespun textile, the acme of epistolary composition and logic is often reached. In the kindness of heart Mrs. Harrison has gratified many of these simple appeals from the fabricators of crazy-quilts and patch work, but not to the extent of demolishing the historic gown in which she looked so well in the vast court of the pension building, but from garments which had seen service in church-going, household display, and social duty in times of Senatorial dignity, and in the retirement of home life in Indianapolis. In this fragmentary form the dresses of former days have disappeared, leaving a decided void in the wardrobe of the first lady.

The fair sex relic hunters of the republic do not stop at samples of inauguration dresses, but intersperse their well-intentioned epistolary requests, by asking locks from the bounteous tresses which lie in wavy brown masses threaded with gray upon the head of the first lady. There is a limit to the responsibilities of nature, and notwithstanding her wealth of the treasured article sought, these requests are respectfully declined, or committed to the silk-lined paper basket, where every one must admit they belong. If even a moiety of the appeals for locks of hair for charity or jewelry were gratified, the presiding lady would long since have been driven to such expedients to replace nature's supply known only among the tonsorial mysteries of the wig maker and the hair dresser.

Another fruitful theme of epistolary communication between the outside world and the inner circle of the President's family springs from solicitous grandmothers and thrifty matrons who make the care of the inner man their chief delight and study. There have been recipes enough received for bodily ailments, particularly in the infant stages of humanity, to constitute an invaluable pharmacopœia for White Household practice, but with possible consequences for which no one would care to be responsible. Reams of stationery have been thus traversed by chirographic efforts which might be a sufficient guarantee of the simple-hearted intentions of the writers, but advance little encouragement upon which to base a very high estimate of their learning.

Another field of epistolary effort, and one well worked by the indefatigable wiseacres of a thousand households and communities, is that which blooms in the self-constituted advisory relations of the writer. This would make another chapter of horrors to which the first lady is compelled to submit. She daily receives directions sufficient to run the domestic and social affairs of the White House into the ground without half trying.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

FASHION NOTES.

The yoke bodice is the favorite for white wash goods.

Feathers are worn equally with flowers as a decoration for hats.

In many cases parasols match the prevailing tint of the toilet.

All gold jewelry is more fashionable than before for several years.

Maize or cork color is revived, among other fashionable shades of yellow.

Even gingham dresses have parasols made up of the material of the gown.

It is quite common now to see ladies without either bustle or reeds in the dress skirt.

Pongee in natural puff colors is as popular as ever for summer gowns and traveling wraps.

Many light shoes are worn by both sexes. They are particularly suitable for the seashore.

Pompadour foulards rival other printed stuffs for summer morning and afternoon toilets.

Eccentric shapes are noticeable in millinery, some of the hats being of gigantic proportions.

Some new menu-stands are in the shape of miniature tennis racquets, in silver, with gilt network.

Broad bands of soft leather, in colors to match the material of the gown, are worn as hems, cuffs, collars, waistcoats and revers on walking and driving suits intended for country wear.

WORDS OF WISDOM.

Worry kills more than work.

Experience gets there every time.

Great men can outgrow nicknames.

Wisdom waits to be asked for advice.

Some men discipline themselves to death.

Many a man lives on the reputation others make for him.

The truth about some men is not told until after they are dead.

Men would be less wicked if they would hunt for fewer opportunities.

The man that never knows the time of day is always too late or too early to wait.

The degrees of luck are so various that they can be applied to all circumstances.

The man that guesses at probabilities often overreaches the man that waits for the truth.

Truths differ. Sometimes they are told to a man's face and sometimes behind his back.

Sometimes it is wiser to beg pardon than to fight. The other fellow may be bigger and a black eye is a cloud.

When the policeman says "Move on!" it is wise to move. He has two advantages—a club and semblance of law.

A Novel Wedding.

A very unique marriage was celebrated in 'Squire Hauser's office the other afternoon, the 'Squire officiating. The bride was Miss Jessie Troeger, who obtained some celebrity two years ago by leading a strike of waitresses in Rockwell's restaurant. She is twenty years old. The groom was Charles K. Adams, better known in the dime-museum world as the Armless Wonder. He was born without those useful members of the body, and, in lieu of a better and more profitable means of livelihood, hired himself out to dime museums. Adams is now about thirty years of age, and, barring the lack of arms, is a fine specimen of physical beauty.

The absence of arms is little felt by the Wonder, however, for he has become very expert with his toes and mouth. He can thread a needle or write a neat letter with the former, while with the latter he paints dainty little pictures, decorates chinaware, etc., holding the brush between his teeth.

When the couple entered the 'Squire's office yesterday and said they wanted to be united in wedlock that official was perplexed for awhile.

"How can you join hands?" he asked bluntly, pointing to Adams.

"Oh, that is easy enough," said the pretty bride, who stood fully three heads shorter than the groom. And she reached up and grasped the stump of his undeveloped left arm with her right hand.

"See," she said, as she stood smilingly on her tip-toes.

"But the ring. How can he put the marriage ring on your finger?"

"In this way," said Adams, and the astonished officials in the 'Squire's court were thunderstruck to see the circlet of gold between the armless man's teeth. Bending his head he deftly slipped it over the girl's finger.

Satisfied that the couple understood their business, the 'Squire went ahead and performed the ceremony.

After being made man and wife, Adams sat down, and, slipping the shoe off his right foot, disclosing a stocking with the front of the foot cut off, he reached into his vest pocket with his toes and brought out a roll of bills. Selecting a $5 note, he tendered it as a fee, and, putting on his shoe, went away, his little wife sticking close to him.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Classifications of Postoffices.

The first-class postoffices are those the salaries of whose postmasters are $3000 or over; second-class where the salaries are $2000 up to $3000; third-class where the salaries are $1000 up to $2000; fourth-class where the salaries are less than $1000. The salary of the postmaster in turn depends upon the annual receipts of the office. Where the annual business is $40,000 to $45,000 the salary is $3000; where the annual business is $45,000 to $60,000, $3100; $60,000 to $80,000, $3200, and so on. In second-class offices annual receipts of $8000 to $9000 give a salary of $2000, and so on. In third-class offices receipts from $1900 to $3000 brings a salary of $1000, and so on. Fourth-class postmasters are paid according to the amount of stamps canceled yearly. Where the total cancellation is $50 or less a year he receives 100 per cent.; for the next $100, 60 per cent.; for the next $300, 50 per cent.; for anything above that, 40 per cent.—Chicago Times.

Ants Make a Temperance Drink.

"Did you know that ants would make lemonade?" said a Bridge street grocer to a Tribune man the other day. "They will, for I have seen them do it several times. The other day I left a slice of lemon on the counter, and there happened to be some sugar not far off, and directly I noticed the ants carrying the sugar to the lemon juice. I thought it was rather queer as well as cute, and, to test the matter, have tried it several times by putting a piece of lemon on the counter and placing some sugar near by, and the ants never fail to carry the sugar to the lemon. What do you think of that now? It is an absolute fact."—Tampa Tribune.

An Enormous Locomotive.

A new locomotive built at the shops of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad is an enormous structure, having a height of 14 feet 8 inches, and a total length of nearly 56 feet. It weighs 107,700 pounds. The engine will be used to pull the limited vestibule train between Baltimore and Chicago.

A Mystery.

What art thou, O thou strong, mysterious Might!
My being's deep
That mov'st—that, still, by day and night,
Yea, e'en in sleep,
At thine approach I tremble, weep and sigh.
Say, whence dost wield
Such sovereignty that, though I fain would fly,
I yet must yield?
And, ah! why art thou so strangely, wildly sweet?
And wherefore art
In thine attained bliss, so short, so fleet,
To human heart?
Say, hast thou learned the whirlwind's secret force,
That, over hill
And dale, sweeps all before it in its course,
And then is still?
Nay, rather art thou born of that soft power,
The gentle breeze,
That, wooing, bends and thrills the slender
[illegible]
[illegible]

POPULAR SCIENCE.

A Newcastle (England) rolling-mill engine weighs 300 tons and runs 10,600 horse power.

Human life is estimated to have lengthened twenty-five per cent. during the last half century.

It is claimed that the use of electricity in the deep mines of Nevada has increased their productiveness twenty-five per cent.

In some of the bogs of Ireland paraffine oil is found floating on the surface of ponds. This is sometimes skimmed off and refined by poor laborers.

Sir Morell Mackenzie, the famous English specialist, is strongly opposed to the use of tobacco and alcohol by people who use their voices in public.

Those earthquakes about Charlestown, S. C., heaved a rock out of the bed of the ocean fifteen miles off the outer bar which is estimated to cover four acres of ground.

It should never be forgotten in scarlet fever, says the London Hospital, that, however mild the case, there is always a liability to dropsy in the latter stages of the disease.

The Russian Government has offered a prize of $2500 for the best inquiry into the nature and effects of the poison which develops in cured fish. The competition is open to all.

As soon as improvements now contemplated shall have been completed the plant for furnishing electric light and power in Bangor, Me., will be operated altogether by water power.

In some recent cases of typhoid in England, which have been traced to impure milk, it seems that the primary source of infection was the stagnant water of the ponds from which the cows drank.

The first electric crane ever built in America has just been put into a mill at Milwaukee, Wis. It weighs ninety tons, and lifts with ease a weight of twenty-five tons, swinging it to any part of the factory.

The graphophone is likely to find novel use in medicine. Every kind of cough may be recorded, to serve in teaching students, and for tracing the progress of the disease by future comparisons.

M. Pasteur is threatened with a rival. Dr. Peyrand, a consulting physician at Vichy, claims to have discovered an efficient method of treating rabies. By injecting into rabbits the essence of the familiar herb called "tansy," he produced what he calls hydrophobic intoxication, or something very similar, and with virus thus obtained he mingled ten per cent. of chloral.

An invention has been made which promises to revolutionize completely the industry of china decoration. By a process discovered by Mr. J. B. Bonnaud it is possible to obtain in a few minutes the same artistic effects which cost the hand-painter on china days of labor. Landscapes, groups of figures and portraits are produced by this means on vases, plates and plaques in their natural colors, even to the most delicate shades.

An average of five feet of water is estimated to fall annually over the whole earth, and, assuming that condensation takes place at an average height of 3000 feet, scientists conclude that the force of evaporation to supply such rainfall must equal the lifting of 322,000,000 pounds of water 3000 feet in every minute, or about three hundred billion horse power constantly exerted. Of this prodigious amount of energy thus created a very small proportion is transferred to the waters that run back through rivers to the sea, and a still smaller fraction is utilized by man; the remainder is dissipated in space.

The Oneida Community.

The famous Oneida Community, established in 1834 by John Humphrey Noyes at Oneida, N. Y., has been in litigation for some time, and a motion for its dissolution was made recently before Recorder Waters, of St. Charles, N. Y. The motion has been brought by Charles A. Burt, one of the members of the community. In his complaint he sets forth that in 1884 the plan of the community was changed, and that from an association in which each member had equal share and lived together under one roof, it has become, under the new management, a co-operation in which membership is simply represented by a certain number of shares of stock. This transformation, Mr. Burt argues, is contrary to the intention of the founder, John Humphrey Noyes, and as a consequence of the departure from the old method of living this stock has passed into the hands of a trust and the interest of individual members has been gobbled up by certain capitalists. He, therefore, asks for an accounting, a receivership and a dissolution of the corporation. This singular community has been in existence since 1834. John Humphrey Noyes, the founder, was ordained to the ministry after a collegiate course at Dartmouth College. In 1838 he founded a sect called the Perfectionists and drew up the first plan of the society which afterward became the Oneida Community. He and his followers claimed to possess a peculiar phase of religious experience, having for its basis spiritual intercourse with God, which Noyes taught may proceed so far, even in this life, as to destroy all selfishness and so make an end of sin. Two communities were founded, one at Oneida and the other at Wallingford, Conn. A home was established at Oneida, the members engaged in agricultural pursuits and manufactures. In 1884 the community owned property to the value of over $500,000. The practice of free love has been abolished and married couples now form a part of the society. It was in this community that Guiteau, the assassin of Garfield, and his father lived for a time.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Carriage in Which the Czar Died.

There is a curious museum at St. Petersburg, Russia, to which access is not easily obtained. It contains all the Imperial State and private carriages, but the most interesting among all is the brougham in which Alexander II. was killed. The back of it is all in ruins, and inside it looks quite dreadful. One of the cushions, however, is still good; here and there splashes of mud are on it.—New York Tribune.

A new industry is developing on the Island of Guadalupe. There are now about 50,000 wild goats there, and they are being killed for their skins and tallow. [illegible] have already arrived at San Diego, Cal., with cargoes of goat skins and tallow.

THE "SINGLE TAX."

What the Phrase Means—Lucid Explanation of the Theory.

We hear much nowadays of the "single tax" agitation. There is a "Single Tax" league, which has a considerable membership throughout the country; public meetings in the interest of the "Single Tax" are held, and several newspapers and many books advocating the "Single Tax" are published or have been published. What is this "single tax?"

It is, in brief, a proposition to abolish all taxation except that upon land, or the value of land. It does not propose that even buildings shall be taxed, but that all the taxation of the nation, the State, and the municipality shall be laid upon the land alone, exactly in the same measure, whether it be built upon or vacant, but in proportion to the value which it possesses from nearness to the centres of population or business.

The "Single Tax" theory is based upon the doctrine that the land rightfully belongs to all the people. That the exclusive possession of land by individuals is not right, and that the separate ownership of land might be merged into a sort of joint-stock ownership of the public without injustice, was first suggested, in England, by the social philosopher, Herbert Spencer. The doctrine received a much fuller statement in this country at the hands of Mr. Henry George, in a book called "Progress and Poverty," first published in 1879. Mr. George is accounted the founder of the "Single Tax" system, and is the head and front of the agitation.

Mr. George and his followers maintain that, under the present system of private ownership of land, the burden of poverty resting upon the mass of mankind grows heavier as the world makes material progress; that in spite of the increase in the world's productive power, wages always tend to a minimum which will give but a bare living. They hold that private ownership of land, with the privilege of holding it for speculative purposes and of forcing up rents as population and industry advance, has the effect to put a monopoly of natural opportunities into the hands of the landowners. The natural opportunities being thus monopolized, laborers are compelled to compete with each other to such an extent as to force wages down to the lowest possible point.

As they hold that wages of all classes of laborers depend upon the productive cultivation of the soil, Mr. George and his followers maintain that the true remedy for poverty is to make the land common property.

They do not, however, propose to disturb the occupants of land, so long as the occupants make full use of their land. They propose, on the contrary, to allow the possessors of the soil to continue to buy and sell and bequeath it. But they do propose to take all the rent by taxation. To do this would make the occupant of the land a tenant paying rent to the State.

This proposition, which was first known under the name of "land nationalization," has since, by the common consent of its advocates, become known as the "Single Tax" movement, the efforts of its friends having been directed more specifically to the abolition of all other forms of taxation. They hold that the removal of taxation from industries in general would stimulate manufactures and business, at the same time that it destroyed speculation in land, to such an extent that the general prosperity would be immensely increased and wages greatly raised.

They hold that the revenue from the Single Tax would be so large as to enable the government to maintain schools and colleges, build and operate railroads and telegraphs, and do many things which it does not now engage in.—Youth's Companion.

Canada's Wealth.

Those who are in the habit of considering Canada as an Arctic and sterile country, will be surprised to learn that she has one-fourth more land fitted to wheat cultivation than the whole United States. In 1877 the yield of wheat in our own country was a little over twelve bushels per acre. In the same year, Manitoba alone raised 12,500,000 bushels, and averaged twenty-seven bushels per acre. The climate of Canada does not hinder, but contributes to the wealth and enterprise of her people. She has more timber of every possible description than both she and the United States could consume in a hundred years. She has more iron and coal than any other country in the world. She has probably more copper than all other countries combined, and there is no telling what lies hidden under the snow and ice of her northern districts.

MR. EDISON is at work on what he calls a "far-sighted machine," by which he expects it will be possible for a man in New York to see a friend in Boston.

What wrought the change? This woman's face
Is ruddy with a rose's grace.
Her eye is bright,
Her heart is light.
Ah, truly 'tis a goodly sight.
A few brief months ago her cheek
Was pallid and her step was weak.
"The end is near
For her, I fear,"
Sighed many a friend who held her dear.
I can tell you what wrought the change in her. She was told by a friend, who, like her, had suffered untold misery from a complication of female troubles, that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription would certainly cure her. This friend "knew whereof she spoke," for she had been cured by the remedy she advised her friend to use. She is enthusiastic in its praise, and tells her friends that Dr. Pierce deserves the universal gratitude of woman-kind for having given it this infallible remedy for its peculiar ailments. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction in every case or money refunded.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets, one a dose. Cure headache, constipation and indigestion.

An interesting man has named his daughters Time and Tide, so that they will wait for no man.

This is the age of wonders, and the average American citizen is no longer surprised at anything. If you want to experience that sensation, however, just write to B. F. Johnson & Co., 1009 Main St., Richmond, Va., and hear what they have got to say of the success of some of their agents. They have got the goods that sell, and any one out of employment will consult their own interest by applying to them.

The Mother's Friend, used a few weeks before confinement, lessens the pain and makes labor quick and comparatively easy. Sold by all Druggists.

A pocket match-safe free to smokers of "Tansill's Punch" 5c. Cigar.

THE BEST COUGH MEDICINE PRICE 25 CTS. PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.

BRYANT & STRATTON [illegible]

Sarah Bernhardt

is coming to America, and great will be the enthusiasm aroused amongst her admirers. But, we have our own bright star, Mary Anderson, who will continue to bear off the palm in the dramatic, as does Lucy Hinton in the great tobacco world.

If afflicted with sore eyes use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye-water. Druggists sell at 25c per bottle.

Weak and Weary

Describes the condition of many people debilitated by the warm weather, by disease, or overwork. Hood's Sarsaparilla is just the medicine needed to overcome that tired feeling, to purify and quicken the sluggish blood and restore the lost appetite. If you need a good medicine be sure to try Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"My appetite was poor, I could not sleep, had headache a great deal, pains in my back, my bowels did not move regularly. Hood's Sarsaparilla in a short time did me so much good that I feel like a new man. My pains and aches are relieved, my appetite improved."—George F. Jackson, Roxbury Station, Conn.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

"MOTHERS' FRIEND" MAKES CHILD BIRTH EASY SHORTENS LABOR LESSENS PAIN DIMINISHES DANGER TO LIFE OF MOTHER AND CHILD. BOOK TO "MOTHERS" MAILED FREE. BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO. ATLANTA GA. SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

IF YOU WISH A GOOD REVOLVER purchase one of the celebrated SMITH & WESSON arms. The finest small arms ever manufactured and the first choice of all experts. Manufactured in calibres 32, 38 and 44-100. Single or double action, Safety Hammerless and Target models. Constructed entirely of best quality wrought steel, carefully inspected for workmanship and stock, they are unrivalled for finish, durability and accuracy. Do not be deceived by cheap malleable cast-iron imitations which are often sold for the genuine article and are not only unreliable, but dangerous. The SMITH & WESSON Revolvers are all stamped upon the barrels with firm's name, address and dates of patents and are guaranteed perfect in every detail. Insist upon having the genuine article, and if your dealer cannot supply you an order sent to address below will receive prompt and careful attention. Descriptive catalogue and prices furnished upon application. SMITH & WESSON, Springfield, Mass. Mention this paper.

THE STORY OF AMERICA. JUST PUBLISHED. It reads like a romance; is immensely popular. An able solicitor, Woman or Man, can take 10 to 20 orders a day. Reliable representative wanted in every county in the U. S. Apply early if you want a chance on this great book. Salary to right party. R. S. KING PUBLISHING CO., Chicago, Illinois.

DUTCHER'S FLY KILLER. Makes a clean sweep. Every sheet will kill a quart of flies. Stops buzzing around ears, diving at eyes, tickling your nose, skips hard words and secures peace at trifling expense. Send 25 cents for 5 sheets to F. DUTCHER, St. Albans, Vt.

JONES HE PAYS THE FREIGHT. 5 Ton Wagon Scales, Iron Levers Steel Bearings, Brass Tare Beam and Beam Box for $60. Every size Scale. For free price list mention this paper and address JONES OF BINGHAMTON, BINGHAMTON, N. Y.

Plantation Engines With Self-Contained RETURN FLUE BOILERS FOR DRIVING COTTON GINS and MILLS. Illustrated Pamphlet Free. Address JAMES LEFFEL & CO., SPRINGFIELD, OHIO, or 110 Liberty St., New York.

Patronize HOME INDUSTRY! BUY SOUTHERN-MADE PRINTING INKS —FROM— FRANK J. COHEN, General Agt., 23 East Alabama St., ATLANTA, GA.

Dr. Lobb, 329 N. 15th St., PHILA., PA. After ALL others fail, consult. Twenty years' continuous practice in the treatment and cure of the awful effects of early vice, destroying both mind and body. Medicine and treatment for one month, Five Dollars, sent securely sealed from observation to any address. Book on Special Diseases free.

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH PENNYROYAL PILLS. Red Cross Diamond Brand. The only reliable pill for sale. Safe and sure. Ladies, ask Druggist for the Diamond Brand, in red metallic boxes, sealed with blue ribbon. Take no other. [illegible] (stamps) for particulars and "Relief for Ladies," in letter, by mail. Chichester Chemical Co., Madison Sq., Philada.

THE HARVEST IN TEXAS. Bountiful crops raised in this wonderful State. Corn 20 cents per bushel. Hay $5 per ton. Cattle [illegible] head. More cotton than can be gathered. For cheap lands apply to TEXAS INVESTMENT COMPANY, Corsicana, Texas.

A Valuable Treatise on the OPIUM HABIT. Full information of an Easy and Speedy cure [illegible]. Dr. J. C. HOFFMAN, Jefferson, [illegible]

MUSIC—ART—ELOCUTION. General Culture. Desirable Positions open to progressive students. All interested will receive valuable information Free, by addressing E. TOURJEE, Boston, [illegible]

HOME STUDY. Book-keeping, Business Forms, Penmanship, Arithmetic, Short-hand, etc., thoroughly taught by MAIL. Circulars free. Bryant's College, 457 Main St., Buffalo.

$25 AN HOUR made by our Agents. THE DR. PEETE MEDICAL CO., Richmond.

PEERLESS DYES Are the BEST. SOLD BY DRUGGISTS.

OPIUM and Whiskey Habits cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE. B. M. WOOLLEY, M.D., Atlanta, Ga. Office 65½ Whitehall St.

I prescribe and fully endorse Big G as the only specific for the certain cure of this disease. G. H. INGRAHAM, M.D., Amsterdam, N. Y. We have sold Big G for many years, and it has given the best of satisfaction. D. R. DYCHE & CO., Chicago, Ill. Cures in 1 to 5 DAYS. Guaranteed not to cause Stricture. Mf'd only by the Evans Chemical Co. Cincinnati, Ohio. Sold by Druggists.

A. N. U. [illegible] Thirty-[illegible]

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per Square, of one inch space or less, for the first, and Fifty Cents for each subsequent insertion.

Inches.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
1 Inch	$ 5 00	$ 7 00	$ 11 25
2 Inches	7 00	11 25	16 00
3 Inches	10 00	15 00	22 50
4 Inches	12 50	20 00	27 00
5 Inches	15 00	22 50	33 00
¼ Column	18 00	27 00	40 00
½ Column	27 00	40 00	60 00
1 Column	40 00	60 00	100 00

The Chilton View.

W. H. LAWRENCE, Editor and Publisher. "WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION." TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME VIII. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 5, 1889. NUMBER 45.

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line each insertion.

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be headed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

☞ The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

Caheen's Grand Introductory Sale OF NEW FALL DRESS GOODS!

EVERYTHING NEW, BRIGHT AND SPARKLING.

New Silks, New Velvets, New Trimmings, New Henriettas, New Brilliantes, New Drap D'Almas, New Dress Fringes and New High Art Production Novelty Combination Suits.

Early as it is, we are selling quantities of Fall Dress Goods, probably because we now have a great assortment at very attractive prices. New goods are arriving daily and we will beyond the slightest shadow of a doubt have the largest, finest and best assorted stock ever shown in Birmingham.

Casco Bay.

If e'er you sail on Casco Bay
When fields are green and skies are sweet,
And watch the foam-capped waves at play
Where land and sea touch hands and greet,
As friend with friend, in rude delight,
Your soul, like birds at break of day,
Will rise for many a joyous flight
Midst summer isles of Casco Bay:
Of Casco Bay! Sweet Casco Bay!
Where life is joy and love at play
Midst summer isles of Casco Bay.

Oh, wild and glad and circling fair,
The ripples sparkle from your prow
As silvery laughter from a star
When Venus decks the evening's brow
And where the islands stand apart
The ocean waves roll in to pay
Some tribute from the sea's great heart
To gentle, queenly Casco Bay:
To Casco Bay! Dear Casco Bay!
Your soul imbibes the salt-sea spray
And sings with lovely Casco Bay.

Down smiling channels shadows run
And shimmer on the green-blue tides;
And, booming like a far-off gun,
Where Harpswell sea from sea divides,
You hear the breakers' sullen roar
And watch the waves ascend in spray
While all around, behind, before,
The white sails swell on Casco Bay:
On Casco Bay! Fair Casco Bay!
The white sails fill and bear away
The happy ship on Casco Bay.

—Benjamin S. Parker, in The Century.

DOWN THE WELL.

It was a sunshiny day in mid-July, and Harrod Holmes had come down from the hayfield to get the stone jug filled with the delicious root beer which his mother had brewed from sweet birch, sassafras and home-made yeast; for haying was thirsty work, and there were four of them in the mountain lot.

To his surprise his mother, baking jumbles in the kitchen, had her apron to her eyes. Harrod set down the stone jug and flung his broad-brimmed hat on the floor. By nature and by self-election he was always his mother's champion knight.

"What is it, mother?" he asked, soothingly. "Has Reggy been up to his pranks again?"

"No—yes—nothing more than common," Mrs. Holmes answered, indistinctly. "He has thrown Kate's kitten down the well—to see it climb up again, he says; but the poor thing can't climb mossy stones. And he's been feeding the pig with one of my silver tablespoons—to teach it manners, he said—and the horrid creature has bitten the bowl off the stem and swallowed it, I suppose, for we can't find it anywhere. And now he has gone out into the swamp—because, he says, we can't follow him there—and got stuck in the black bog. Listen!" with a hysterical laugh. "Don't you hear him calling for help?"

"Let him call!" retorted Harrod, with an impatient glance out of the window toward the lush, deep green of the swamp, that carpeted the hollow to the west. "He can't get into mischief there, at any rate. But surely, mother, Reggy's capers can't be what's making you cry!"

"It's Amenia, Harrod. She's going. And—and I was fond of Amenia!"

"Amenia, mother? Going? When? And why?"

"Miss Octavia has lost her pocketbook. Full of money. She had it in her hand when she came in from her walk, and she says she put it down in her room when she came to breakfast. Amenia went in and did the room while Miss Octavia was at the table. She was the only person in the room, and so Miss Octavia thinks she has taken it."

"Amenia! taken a pocketbook!" cried Harrod, scornfully. "Why, mother, I should as soon suspect you of taking it. There's Reggy, now—"

Mrs. Holmes shook her head.

"No—that was just the time that Reggy and the big pig were fighting it out in the pen. I know your father had to jump up to interfere. No, it wasn't Reggy."

"Mother, do you really think it was Amenia?"

"No, I don't!" stoutly returned Mrs. Holmes. "But Miss Octavia does. She is positive."

Just then a slight, dark-complexioned young girl passed through the room.

Harrod stepped forward.

"Amenia," said he, "where are you going?"

"Home!"

She lifted her dark, liquid eyes to his face, full of defiant despair.

"Don't go!" said Harrod, bravely, planting himself in her way. "Stay, Amenia!"

"Miss Octavia thinks I am a thief!"

"Very well—I don't!"

"She says she will not stay in the house another day unless I go away."

Harrod gave his mother an imploring glance.

Mrs. Holmes came valiantly to the rescue.

"Let her leave it, then," said she. "We believe in you, Amenia. We know that you are incapable of deceit. We have seen you grow up from a child."

Amenia Varick burst into tears.

"It is so good of you to say so, dear Mrs. Holmes!" said she; "but—but I cannot stay here, to see your boarders driven away by my presence. Miss Octavia—"

"Hang Miss Octavia!" persisted the young farmer.

But even as the unpremeditated words escaped his lips, there was a soft rustle of perfumed India pongee, the gleam of a dead-gold necklace, and Miss Octavia Dryburgh herself stood opposite him, with calm, green-gray eyes of interrogation. But Harrod Holmes stuck to his colors like a brave soldier.

"No offense intended, Miss Octavia," said he, "but I cannot believe—nor can my mother, either—that Amenia here would touch so much as a hairpin that isn't her own. I'm very sorry you have lost your pocket-book. It's possible that you may find it again. If not, we shall all regret it heartily. But there's one thing absolutely certain—Amenia Varick never took it."

Octavia Dryburgh was a handsome girl, but there was something sneering and Mephistophelian in her beauty as she answered:

"So you believe this—this domestic servant, do you, in preference to me? Truly, this is highly flattering."

"We believe," Harrod sturdily answered, "what we think to be true."

"And I—am I expected to remain here in the house where I have been robbed, in daily association with the thief?"

Harrod could feel Amenia's nervous start at these cruel words, but he glanced encouragingly at her, as he answered:

"Of course you must do as you please about that; but when you speak of robbery and thieves, you are entirely mistaken. I guarantee my word as to that!"

Miss Dryburgh turned impatiently away.

Amenia Varick took up her checked gingham parasol, with a quick glance toward the door.

"I had better go," said she.

"But you shall not go," said Harrod.

"A new addition of Don Quixote and his Dulcinea," said Miss Octavia, scornfully. "Well, I may as well go up stairs and pack, I suppose."

"At least," said Harrod, courteously, "you will not leave us until after dinner. "Amenia"—to the young girl—"take your bonnet off, and help my mother with the raspberry tarts and cream syllabubs. For my sake, Amenia."

And coloring and reluctant, Amenia Varick complied. Had he not said that it was for his sake? And what was there, in all the world, she would not do for his sake?

She reached for the egg-beater and went to work on the syllabubs.

Miss Dryburgh took the scented rustle of the India pongee up stairs and began, in a sort of indignant haste, to pack her boxes.

That she had lost her pocketbook was an incontrovertible fact—but these people would not believe their own eyes and ears! These stupid, silly rustics.

The voice of little Kate, in a mournful minor, reached Harrod's ears as he started for the hay-field with the stone jug filled with cool root beer—a soft tug at his sleeve furthermore emphasized the piteous words:

"Please, Harry, my pussy cat—my pussy cat is meowing down in the well, and father has gone to market and Peter Simmons only laughs, and—and—"

"My poor little Kate!" Harrod set down the jug, kissed the troubled, tear-smeared cheek, and immediately looked around for the longest ladder, at present doing duty under the Black Knight cherry-tree. "There, don't fret, little one. I'll see what I can do."

Little Kate's face brightened.

"You can do anything," she chirped. "You are so big and so strong! But I never, never will forgive Reggy again, and I'm glad he's stuck fast in the bog and can't get his legs loose. He'll know now how pussy feels."

"Oh, Harry, did you find her?"

With one light toss he threw the drenched Maltese cat into the raptured arms of his little sister.

"There she is," said he, kindly, "and none the worse for her bath. Put her in the sunshine somewhere, Kate, or you'll be as wet as she is."

"What is that you have in your hand, Harry?" persisted the relentless little catechist.

"Oh, something I picked up!"

And holding in his grasp an oblong, dripping object, he walked steadily into the kitchen.

"Oh, Mr. Holmes, where have you been?" asked Miss Dryburgh, who had just come down stairs to get a piece of twine to tie up some little parcel or other.

"Down the well," said he calmly.

"Oh—for the kitten?" Really something ought to be done to that incorrigible Reggy!" cried Miss Octavia.

"Did you get her?" asked Mrs. Holmes.

"Yes—and I got something else. Is this the missing pocket-book, Miss Dryburgh?" holding up the wet, oblong object.

Miss Dryburgh uttered a little cry of mingled astonishment and recognition.

"Is it? Why, of course it is. Where was it! How did you find it?" she exclaimed.

"Are all the contents right?"

"Yes," hurriedly opening the leather covers, which were fortunately sufficiently thick to have protected the fine bills laid in the inside from all but a trifling moisture. "Where was it, Mr. Holmes?"

And Amenia Varick stood with large, earnest eyes fixed upon his face, as Miss Dryburgh uttered the words.

"Down the well," he answered with a half subdued smile. "Where Kate's cat was. Pussy was balancing herself piteously on one of the mossy stones that jutted out and on another stone, a few inches further up, lay this bone of contention."

"Where you must have dropped it, yourself," interposed Mrs. Holmes, eagerly, "when you took that drink of cool water out of the bucket, when you returned from your early walk, Miss Octavia. I saw it in your hand then and I have never seen it since."

"Yes, where I must have dropped it myself," rather shamefacedly owned Miss Octavia. "I assure you, Amenia, I ask a thousand pardons for so unjustly suspecting you."

"They are granted," Amenia answered, with calm dignity. "But the next time you lose anything, would it not be well to consider a little before you fasten the imputation of theft on any one."

PEARLS OF THOUGHT.

Wisdom waits to be asked for advice.

Some men discipline themselves to death.

Vanity produces corns and vexations of spirit.

A woman tired of hearing of love is tired of loving.

Words are the coin by which intelligence is exchanged.

Words are but forms resulting from the force of existence.

Whatever you hang on to, young man, don't let go of the truth.

No amount of acquired wealth or the grandest title ever made a man.

Avoid passion and excitement. A moment's anger may prove fatal.

A man should fear when he enjoys only what good he does publicly.

Purposes, like eggs, unless they be hatched into action, will run into decay.

A Chinese Farmer's Methods.

We must go to China to learn how much can be got out of land. Pong His, a native of the Chinese province of Swatow, lives in a village of three hundred persons, in which about thirty men are land owners, having altogether forty-five acres of land. Pong His owns two acres, inherited from the father who adopted him. His land is worth $1000. His family consists of ten persons. He is himself forty-six years old, his wife is forty-one, his son is twenty-two, his son's wife is twenty-one, his four daughters are from ten to seventeen, and his two grandchildren are three and seven years old. He and his son till the land, hiring help at harvest-time, and weaving straw mats on rainy days. The women folk make the clothing, rear pigs and fowls and do all the housework. Their dwelling, with its site, is valued at $120, their furniture at $44, their clothing at $40, their farming appliances at $40. They have a water-buffalo, two hogs, thirty fowls, ten ducks, a pair of geese, a dog and a cat. Last year Pong His sold $20 worth of rice from his farm, and paid $3.60 in taxes. He has $200 out at interest at eighteen per cent.

At this rate of production and consumption, the arable land in the State of New York, with a reduction of one-half its returns on account of its more northern latitute, would support the total population of the United States at the present time; and the occupied arable land of the United States with its producing power diminished, on account of climate, to one-half that of land at Swatow, would feed a population equal to that of the whole world, or over 1,400,000,000.—Once a Week.

Imitating the Cruelties of Rulers.

I know of no more appalling example of the power of one life to influence another in far distant periods than that which is afforded by the strange and horrible history of the Marechal de Retz. A man of noble birth, great wealth, great distinction as a soldier and high in favor with his sovereign, he took to the most horrible course of child murder of which we have any narrative, and when at last driven to confession he made his statement as to the origin of his crimes. "The desire to commit these atrocities came upon me eight years ago. I left court to go to Champence that I might claim the property of my grandfather, deceased. In the library of the castle I found a Latin book—'Sutonius,' I believe—full of the accounts of the cruelties of the Roman emperors. I read the charming history of Tiberius, Caracalla and other Cæsars, and the pleasure they took in watching the agonies of tortured children. Thereupon I resolved to imitate and surpass these same Cæsars, and that very night began to do so."—Contemporary Review.

Country Week.

Every year the weakest and most sickly of the children belonging to the Paris rag picking district are sent into the country to remain for a short time among the peasants, with instructions to eat all they choose, live in the open air and roll about on the grass. At first the miserable little creatures seem to be stupefied by the brightness of their new life, and quite dazed by the difference between city squalor and bright sun and flowers.

One boy, on rising from a laborer's said, almost with awe:

"This is the first time I ever ate till I was no longer hungry!"

Their startled surprise and almost piteous happiness recall the words of the English city child, who, taken into the green fields for a holiday, looked compassionately at a sparrow, and said:

"Poor little bird! he has no cage to sleep in."

Another, who had never even visited the parks and gardens of her native city, was terrified at the sight of trees. "Won't they fall on us?" she shrieked, clinging to her companion. "Ma'am, are ye sure they is stuck down tight?"

One little American boy, during his first country visit, mysteriously begged his hostess to lock up a small package for him during his stay. "Don't tell anybody I've got 'em, ma'am," he whispered, excitedly. "I didn't pick 'em up on your place; I got 'em in the road, a mile off."

"Why, what are 'they,' Jimmy?" asked the lady.

"Di'mon's!" said Jimmy, in her ear, looking about to be sure they were not overheard. "I'm goin' to sell 'em, and be richer'n anybody round here."

Having with difficulty obtained his permission, the lady opened the crumpled bit of paper, which contained, alas! only some sparkling bits of quartz. Jimmy, like many another explorer, had trusted his eyes, only to be deceived.

A wise man has said that no child can afford to grow up in ignorance of those common facts which Mother Nature is ready to teach.

Realizing what the city poor have missed, those of us who are familiar with country byways should feel rich indeed; rich enough, and grateful enough, gladly to lend a hand in giving at least a "country week" to some of our less-favored fellow-mortals.

His Life for His Brother's.

The following story is preserved in the Bodleian Library at Oxford:

The tower door of St. Leonard's Church, Bridgenorth, England, was left open, and two young boys, wandering in, were tempted to mount up into the upper part and scramble from beam to beam.

All at once a joist gave way. The beam on which they were standing became displaced. The elder had just time to grasp it when falling, while the younger, slipping over his body, caught hold of his comrade's legs.

In this fearful position the poor lads hung, crying vainly for help, for no one was near. At length the boy clinging to the beam became exhausted. He could no longer support the double weight. He called out to the lad below that they were both done for.

"Could you save yourself if I were to loose you?" replied the little lad.

"I think I could," returned the elder.

"Then good-by, and God bless you!" cried the little fellow, losing his hold.

Another second and he was dashed to pieces on the stone floor below, his companion clambering to a place of safety.

Room at the Top.

Dr. Primrose—There is always room at the top, my young friend.

Little Johnnie—Yes, sir. In your case there is room for hair.—Life.

Don't introduce a lady's name where you wouldn't introduce the lady.

THE NATIONAL GAME.

Pittsburg has already tried nine pitchers.

The Clevelands play nervously these days.

Connor's batting percentage is still rising.

Ryan, of Chicago, leads the League in run getting.

Chicago's stone wall infield is once more complete.

Louisville has purchased Ray's release from Boston.

Burdock, of Hartford, is to take a nine South this winter.

Young pitchers are blooming out this year with great success.

Six of the Pittsburg players were recently fined for drinking.

St. Louis has made forty-two home run in ninety-nine games.

Hoover is doing about all the catching for Kansas City just now.

McGuire is considered the greatest pitcher in the International League.

Duryea, of Cincinnati, is still the king American Association pitcher.

Big Jim Whitney is putting up a good game in the International League.

John M. Ward, of New York, is as great a favorite with baseball players as ever.

The Chicagos have played with more confidence since Williamson returned to his old place at short stop.

No baseball organization has had more ups and downs since its organization than the Pittsburg Club.

Deaf-mute Hoy is the only Washingtonian who has played in every game and Connor the only New Yorker.

Last season Clarkson won only one game of the three against Pittsburg. This year he has made it seven straight.

The New Yorks have as a team, up to late date, made thirty-three home runs, fifty-two three baggers and 182 doubles.

Captain Irwin has introduced discipline into the Washington Club, a quantity heretofore almost unknown among the Senators.

Bobby Mathews, the first pitcher to introduce the raise ball, made his first appearance in Boston in 1871, and was hit hard for twenty-one runs.

The only players now in the National League who were members of the organization when it was formed are Hines, Anson, O'Rourke and White.

George Wright is the only man who has ever mastered the science of both baseball and cricket, and who is looked on by most ball players as being without a rival.

Arthur Cummings, a Brooklyn boy, was the first to make use of the out curve as far back as 1869. He could make a ball sail like a curving clamshell when thrown against the wind.

A more patient player is not to be found in the Association than Robinson, of the St. Louis team. He has been sent to first base on balls seventy-seven time in as many games.

Thirty-eight games have been played by League clubs this season without making a fielding error. Washington and New York were, however, the only teams that played perfectly in the same contest.

Saturday is known throughout Connecticut as "baseball day," all the important games being played on that day. This arrangement accommodates the men in the factories, who are great lovers of baseball.

While the Bostons were in Indianapolis Manager Hart tried his best to buy the release of short-stop Glasscock, but President Brush wouldn't have it. Hart offered $7000 cash and two players, who, Hart says, are worth $4000 each.

The ten leading batters of the American Association up to a recent date were: First, Tucker, .358; second, Burns (Brooklyn), .345; third, Lyons, .347; fourth, Orr, .336; fifth, Holliday, .330; Larkin, .330; O'Neill, .330; eighth, Milligan, .323; ninth, Hamilton, .320; tenth, Comiskey, .315.

As far back as 1870, 20,000 people went out to see the national game played. The contesting teams were the Red Stockings, of Cincinnati, and the Atlantics, of Brooklyn. The latter administered to the "Reds" their first defeat after they had gone through their previous season without being vanquished.

LEAGUE RECORD.

	Won.	Lost.	Percentage.
Boston	59	32	.648
New York	55	35	.611
Philadelphia	51	41	.554
Chicago	48	47	.505
Cleveland	46	46	.500
Pittsburg	43	54	.443
Indianapolis	40	57	.412
Washington	30	60	.333

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION RECORD.

	Won.	Lost.	Percentage.
St. Louis	68	33	.673
Brooklyn	65	34	.657
Baltimore	58	40	.593
Athletic	53	43	.553
Cincinnati	55	46	.545
Kansas City	41	57	.418
Columbus	38	65	.369
Louisville	21	81	.206

The slaughter of the dervishes on the Nile's bank has raised a shudder even in England, where shooting savages is regarded as a part of the empire's great civilizing mission. The position of the poor wretches in this case is particularly horrible. They advanced many days' journey across the desert, and almost reached the Nile, panting for a drink of its refreshing waters. But there on the bank the Khedive's troops were drawn up. The savages fought a whole day in the broiling Soudan sun to get at the water, but without avail, and they hid themselves at night in the hills. Mounted cavalry scoured the banks all night to prevent the tribesmen reaching the Nile, [illegible] gun-boats flashed electric lights and fired shells continuously with the same object. All next day the same tactics were observed, and scores of poor Arabs have now been found dead, their parched tongues protruding and [illegible]

PROMINENT PEOPLE.

Austria has made Von Moltke a Colonel.

President Harrison is deaf in his right ear.

The Sultan of Turkey is said to be aging rapidly.

Four sons of Siam are being educated in England.

Jay Gould is one of St. Louis' largest owners of real estate.

The Czar of Russia spends an hour a day chopping down trees.

Constantine, heir to the Greek throne, is in his twenty-second year.

Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage has a brother who is a missionary in China.

Mexicans are extending much hospitality to ex-Speaker John G. Carlisle.

Emperor William, of Germany, is to make a tour of Alsace-Lorraine.

Dr. Brown-Sequard, discoverer of the famous "elixir of life," is an American.

Samuel J. Kirkwood, Iowa's war Governor, is now living on a berry farm near Iowa City.

Ex-Senator Joseph MacDonald, of Indiana, has a legal practice worth $15,000 a year.

Senator Evarts has gone to Europe for treatment for his eyes, which are troubling him much.

The Shah of Persia has one fondness which will increase his popularity in New England. He likes American pie.

The Hon. S. S. Cox, is the only living man in public life, who voted for the admission of Oregon as a State, February 14, 1859.

Robert Burns Wilson, the rising Kentucky poet, began writing verse at an early age and is now thirty-seven years old.

Electrician Thomas A. Edison, will visit the Krupp works at Essen, Germany, before the termination of his visit abroad.

The late S. L. M. Barlow, of New York city, left an estate of about two million dollars, largely accumulated in his law practice.

Jay Gould's "History of Delaware County, New York," written when he was twenty-one, is a rare book now, worth forty dollars.

A son of Admiral Farragut, is modestly working as a clerk in a New York counting room, rather to have some occupation than for the money it brings him.

General G. W. C. Lee, a son of Robert E. Lee, who is at the Hot Springs in Virginia, is an uncommonly large and powerfully built man, with grizzled gray hair and short beard.

Fanny Bignon, who is praised by zoologists for a recent paper on the anatomy of the lachrymal gland of the green turtle, is one of the remarkable women of Paris. She studied zoology at the Sorbonne, and has combined the careers of student and teacher.

Geronimo, the Apache, who has been a prisoner of the United States Government for some time, has grown so fat that he looks very little like an ideal chieftain. He was not well at Fort Augustine, Fla., but at Mount Vernon barracks, Ala., he has increased in weight rapidly.

Professor E. P. Crowell, of Amherst College, Dean of the Faculty and Professor of Latin, is totally blind. He is almost fifty years old and lost his sight five years ago through illness. His knowledge of Latin is so accurate that he has been able to hold recitations as if he had the open book before him.

Licorice Root.

Nearly 3,000,000 pounds of licorice root arrived at the port of New York during one week recently, from Smyrna. The largest share of licorice now comes from Asia Minor, one American having almost a monopoly of it, and having branches for manufacturing the extract in this country. Large quantities of licorice are imported into the United States at a heavy expense of import duties. About a year ago it was settled beyond doubt that the soil and climate of California are perfectly adapted to its production. Licorice is prepared like horse-radish, by means of root slips, which are removed from the main root. The soil must be well fertilized and thoroughly broken to the depth of three feet to obtain the best results. The great depth is necessary to encourage the roots to grow downward to escape the intense heat not only of one, but of several hot summers, as it takes three or four years to perfect the roots for market, during which time the plant must receive constant and careful attention with the prong hoe. Lay off the rows two feet apart; and after cutting the root slips into sections of five or six inches, plant them in vertical holes made with a dibble, sixteen inches apart, observing to thrust them several inches below the surface, and cover over. As the growing season closes each autumn, the stems should be cut down and removed, and a liberal coating of manure composted with rich hammock (top) soil. If the plants have been well cared for, the roots may be large enough in three years to harvest for market, though four years is not uncommon. Harvesting is quite a tedious job, and on account of the depth—two or three feet—has to be done with a spade. When dug, the side shoots, used for propagation, are cut off, and the roots are washed, dried, and tied in convenient-sized bundles.

The Court of Spain, under the reign of its baby King, is obliged to [illegible] a Lord of the Faith, a [illegible] of One Cow's Milk, a Lady in Waiting with Rocking-Chair [illegible]

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., SEP. 5, 1889.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year	$1.50
One copy six months	75
One copy four "	50

The Cotton Question.

The VIEW has received from President Macune of the National Farmer's Alliance, an interesting circular letter to the farmers of the country, which advises the holding of the cotton crop. We are requested to publish the letter or the following resolutions, which contain the gist of the letter. The letter would fill more than two columns, and we cannot find space for it, yet it contains so many good sound reasons for all it urges, that we would like to present it to our readers, if space would permit. Instead we publish the resolutions:

ATLANTA, GA., Aug. 29.—The members of the national cotton committee of the farmers' alliance, met here to-day and promulgated the following resolutions to southern farmers:

Resolved, That the national cotton committee recommend that the farmers of the south sell no cotton during the month of September, except what may be absolutely necessary to meet obligations which are past due.

Resolved, That the national cotton committee instruct the president of each sub-alliance, wheel or union, or some person appointed by him, to meet the president or secretary of his county alliance on the 28th of September at the county seat for the purpose of receiving instructions from the national committee.

Resolved, That each secretary of every cotton state be charged with the duty of placing these resolutions immediately before their respective county presidents and charge all expenses of printing and postage to the national alliance.

Resolved, That the farmers be urged to take special care in sheltering their cotton from the damaging weather.

Resolved, That every newspaper in the south in sympathy with the farmers is requested to publish these resolutions.

R. Sledge, chairman, Kyle, Tex.
W. T. Hatcher, Grand Cane, La.
W. R. Lacy, Winona, Miss.
S. D. Alexander, Charlotte, N. C.
L. P. Featherstone, Forest City, Ark.
M. L. Donaldson, Greenville, S. C.
W. J. Northern, Sparta, Ga.
R. F. Kolb, Montgomery, Ala.
B. M. Hord, Secretary, Nashville, Tenn.

We are disposed to believe that the resolutions contain good advise but being willing to give both sides a hearing in the matter for the benefit of the farmer, we publish the following circular, which has been sent out extensively over the country by Lehman, Durr & Co., cotton factors, of Montgomery. We shall not intrude with any of our advice:

"The general cotton crop of the country the present year—1889-90, promises to be the largest ever produced in the United States. But on account of there being of the stocks now carried by spinners, so much poor cotton, they (the spinners) will be compelled to buy of the first picking this year, in order to get better grade with which to work off their old, poor stock, so that for a time, at least, there will be a good demand for the crop and at high prices. It looks reasonable to us that cotton will bring higher prices from now until the first of October than at any time during the next season, and if this is true, then it behooves producers to pick and get to market every bale they can between this and the first of October, in order to avail themselves of the high prices likely to prevail. We beg you to consider this matter and act upon it if you agree with us. Middling cotton is selling here to-day at 10½ cents, while at the same time last year, with the prospect of a crop not so good as now, it brought only 9 1-8 cents."

POPULAR FALSEHOODS EXPOSED.

By a Cotton Man of Twenty Years Experience.

It is surprising that some of the efforts of the jute combine should be in the line of intimidating farmers, and in fact buyers of any kind, from supplying themselves with cotton bagging at this critical time. It must grieve, still it should alarm us to find Southern men taking the field against us, and even a farmer here or there, led on by selfish interests, or by his close connections with merchants, factors, capitalists, exporters, and middlemen; in a word, by those who have so long quietly absorbed the profits of farming. I say some farmers will perhaps either fight weakly or fight on the other side. But the mass of the farmers, when one of them pulls back and puts up arguments to stop our efforts to help ourselves, will recognize that "the hand is Esau's but the voice is Jacob's." In spite of the strenuous effort on the part of those who buy cotton to continue the use of jute by abusing and slandering cotton, the truth is that they have a hard case, because this jute is a wretched covering for cotton in every particular, and has been put upon farmers only too long. Jute is a splendid exponent of the farmer's failure in past years to look closely after his own interests. Now, let us look at the facts. Jute bagging stains cotton, as every sampler knows. The outer layers are always removed to get a clear sample. It also, to some extent, fills it with shives. It rapidly absorbs water, and a great deal of it. It ferments when wet, and damages and rots immediately. It holds water and heat and has to cut away to dry very wet cotton. It is inflammable to the highest degree, will explode, and when greased generate spontaneous combustion. It is poor to mark on, and from its color, concealing both mud and damage, tempts rough treatment in transportation. It is loosely woven and does not cover cotton Its apparent strength tempts rough use of hooks, but the greater part of it being filled upon a smaller and inelastic woof, tears literally to ribbons. It is maufactured of unequal weights, and the weights of the heaviest is adopted tare, entailing a consequent loss. This is enough to say against any covering, but it is absolutely true, and will not be denied by any one who is honest and intelligent. Now cotton is better than jute in these particulars, It is far less inflammable. It is more difficult to wet and easier to dry. Showing at once all rough usage from mud etc., it will induce more care in handling, and the damage being less hid will be easier to place upon the guilty party. It is good to mark on. It sheds no shives. It does not stain. It is useful for any purpose as sheets, towels, bed spreads, etc., or for spinnings over after being used. It is durable in the highest degree, and on account of its elasticity and its lying close to the bale it is stronger and harder to tear with hooks than jute. It is of uniform weight and the tare fixed. Its small tare allows a better chance for the seller without hurting the honest buyer. Now we know all this, and all the falsehoods which can be told on the other side will be speedily discovered. But, it is objected, the experiment has not been tried, the matter has not been thoroughly tested. If that be so, now is the best time to test it. If American spinners are greedy and old John Bull is slow, now is the time for the farmer to let them get right. They say the season is upon us; there is no time for this crop. Let us put off the season; we are not in any hurry. Let us give them sixty or ninety or more days to find out what we already know, and until they educate themselves let us keep our cotton. We know that the visible supply is admitted by consumers to be short some 400,000 bales, and the invisible supply shorter even than that in 1887. Latham, Alexander & Co., the great cotton statisticians, stated in their book of facts which all cotton men have seen that 7,000,000 bales were an absolute necessity for the uses of the trade and in that year there was a shortage. Now for two consecutive seasons the crop has been 200,000 bales less than that, which makes 800,000 bales short. Last years crop contained about 400,000 bales low cotton unavailable for the ordinary fabrics, and this refuse now constitutes the bulk of the stock. Here, then, is a shortage of 1,200,000 bales, not to speak of the increase of consumption in two years. The fact that spots in New York are worth nearly a cent more than contracts show how the shoe is pinching. Now, was there ever a better chance for the farmer to teach the consumer that he can not rob him, for robbery it is to allow no more for a bale containing 486 pounds of net cotton than for one of 470? As a matter of course, all consumers will try the game, but when they find farmers united and determined simply to hold their cotton, and see these farmers acting under the advice of reliable and competent committees then they will awake to a better sense of honesty. Our cotton committee can not be bought, and will not be intimidated.

A. BARNWELL,
Macon, Ga.

The Age-Herald gets up a sensation at Calera over the "When" card advertisement of the "When" cigar. Hard up.

NEWS ITEMS.

Culled From the Bad, Bad Newspapers.

People are dying of starvation in the Illinois mining districts. The situation is said to be unspeakably distressing. This is in a State where wealth abounds.

Mr. John Lawrence, while defending his store in Montevallo, Alabama, from burglars last Saturday night was shot and killed. Two negroes were caught and hung for the crime the next day, and the mob was hunting for a third one at last accounts. The race riotists will note that there is no race riot imminent in the locality.

The Age-Herald imagined a race riot in Mississippi on Sunday. On Tuesday, the great head-line fiend said the riot was quashed. Yes, quashed before anybody was hurt and before the riot got started enough to give a good sensation. The Age-Herald can always bet on the fact that its race riots and race wars will be quashed in short order.

It will be remembered that last Spring a negro by the name of Gomez was appointed postmaster at Luverne, Crenshaw county, Ala. Saturday night the building in which the postoffice was doing business was burned down. Thought to be incendiary. This was the only building in the place which Gomez had been able to rent for his postoffice.

The Age-Herald of Monday reported with glaring head-lines a race war in West Virginia, because a white man had killed a negro in that State and a crowd of negroes collected after the killing to talk about it. The race war did not materialize, but the A.-H. probably has its headlines standing for use on the next sensation of the kind. Anything to scare the people and sell the papers.

The very latest race riot on paper was the one started in Bibb county, on Tuesday by the Age-Herald, which paper the New Capitol has dubbed "The Wild Ass of Birmingham." The report went that whites and negroes were arming with Winchesters, and a bloody riot was momentarily expected at Blocton, and that the negroes out-numbered the whites two to one. All sensational. Bibb is a white county. The population in 1880 stood whites 5,887, colored 3,600. If the A.-H. will trouble itself to learn the facts it will find that the increase of the whites has been greater than the increase of the blacks since 1880. Wednesday the paper published facts from prominent citizens of Bibb which showed that its news was very newsy to the citizens of Bibb. One of the number, Mr. Aldrich, says: "It would be folly for the few negroes at Blocton to undertake any conflict with the whites. He regarded any preparation that may be going on among the whites to meet such an attack as the result of needless alarm. In fact, he knew of no such preparation being made, and knew of nothing going on among the blacks to cause any alarm. There are in Blocton some 500 negroes, men, women, and children, and some 1700 white people. Taking Bibb county as a whole the whites were largely in the majority, and the relations between the races are not strained that he has ever seen or heard of."

Maplesville Dots.

Our town is calm and serene. No change of postoffice has been made. Surely one must go from home to hear the news. A rumor was current some months since that Ben Neely's radical friends advised him to apply for the office, but the application was never made. If education benefitted all colored people as much as it has benefitted Neely, we would be a strong advocate for them to be educated. He and his family are quiet, good citizens, and in case of sudden accidents to his white neighbors, has never failed to render every assistance in his power.

Crops are almost made. There is some rust in cotton but no worms.

Mr. Mills filled Rev. J. O. Nobles last appointment in the Methodist church, with a most excellent sermon.

Mrs. Foshee gave a most enjoyable house-warming in her beautiful new house. Some complained of a chilly reception while partaking of the delicious ice cream.

Mr. Crit. Woolley's family are visiting the old folks at home.

L. H. DuBose, of Selma, is visiting here.

Mrs. Foshee has entertained Frank Bowline, of Selma, and Miss Mary Lou Bates, of Plantersville.

B. O. Glover has gone into business with Dr. Brand, of Randolph.

We are glad to say that Wallace Gullahorn is in his usual health.

Mrs. Wright, of Stanton, has visited Mrs. Lockhart here. Work is yet going on on the railroad, and grading will soon begin.

A man that has opinions of his own and the courage to advocate them, will be sure to have opposition in this world, because he runs across or contrary to other people's opinions, but just keep straight ahead if your cause is right and conscience is clear. Do not bother yourself about what people say; life is too short for that. Some will abuse you through envy, others for want of principle, and some because they honestly differ with you, but if you keep right on openly, manfully, intelligently and with proper dignity of character, honesty of purpose and self-respect, those who honestly differ with you, will respect you and your opinions.—Ex.

This is from the Philadelphia Record: "A great deal of harm is being done by those who indulge in sensational speculations concerning the whites and the blacks in the South. Such half informed people feed the smoldering fire of prejudice. Their little knowledge makes them dangerous things. As a matter of fact, the vast masses of people in the South are of a neighborly disposition. The petty Northern space writers who demand that a great ethnological question, with its multitudinous bearings, should be settled off-hand by political arbitrament are either silly, harmful folks, or else ignorant asses.

We have sold S. S. S. since the first day we commenced the drug business, and have heard some wonderful reports of its effects, Many use it, with the best results to cleanse malaria from the system, and for blood poison, scrofula, and such diseases it is without a rival. COLDERWOOD & Co., Monroe, La.

For Sale.

—:o:—

TWO DESIRABLE HOMES.

If you would like to purchase a lovely cottage home or splendid residence, both well finished, well painted, and nearly new, with new outhouses, gardens, young orchards, etc., in one of the most quiet and moral communities, and within a stone's cast of one of the best high schools in the State AT A SPLENDID BARGAIN. Call on or address,

A. E. BURNS,
Jemison, Ala.

sep 5 tf

NOTICE NO. 9067.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
August 26, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 7th, 1889, viz: Daniel Martin, Homestead 14614 for the e½ of n w ¼ and e ½ of s w ¼ sec 20, t 21 n, range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Ben Brown, Charles Jackson, Madison Popwell, James Headley, all of Kincheon, Ala.

aug29* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 9064.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 26, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence, the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., October 7th, 1889, viz: Coldwell Choate, Homestead 13704 for the e ½ of s w ¼ sec 34 township 21 n range 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Thomas Jackson, Sr., Allen Jackson, Dennis Green, and J. P. Haley, all of Dixie, Ala.

aug29o J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 9049.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.
August 22d, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 5th, 1889, viz: Calvin Hall, Homestead entry 15640, for the n ½ of n w ¼ sec 26, tp 21 n, r 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Ambrose Kleuer, Daniel Scoggins, William S. Lawrence, Jeffie J. Scoggins, all of Maplesville, Ala.

aug29o J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 9047.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
Aug. 22, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit at Clanton, Ala., on October 5th, 1889, viz: William S. Lawrence, Homestead entry 14696 for the s e ¼ of n w ¼ sec 2, tp 21 n, range 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Ambrose Kleuer, Jeffie J. Scoggs, Calvin Hall, and Daniel Scoggins, all of Maplesville, Ala.

aug29o J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 9048.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 22, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 5th, 1889, viz: Ambrose Kleuer, Homestead entry No. 16880 for the n w ¼ of n e ¼ sec 14 tp 21 n, range 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: William S. Lawrence, Calvin Hall, Daniel Scoggins and Jeffie J. Scoggings, all of Maplesville, Ala.

aug29o J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 9068.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 27, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 4th, 1889, viz: William E. Culp, Homestead 14722 for the s ½ of n e ¼ and e ½ of s e ¼ sec 18 t 21 n r 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Albert Headley, Willis Barber, Ira Headley, Dan Barber, all of Clanton, Ala.

aug29* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

Bring your job printing to this office.

Sick Headache

IS a complaint from which many suffer and few are entirely free. Its cause is indigestion and a sluggish liver, the cure for which is readily found in the use of Ayer's Pills.

"I have found that for sick headache, caused by a disordered condition of the stomach, Ayer's Pills are the most reliable remedy."—Samuel C. Bradburn, Worthington, Mass.

"After the use of Ayer's Pills for many years, in my practice and family, I am justified in saying that they are an excellent cathartic and liver medicine—sustaining all the claims made for them."—W. A. Westfall, M. D., V. P. Austin & N. W. Railway Co., Burnet, Texas.

"Ayer's Pills are the best medicine known to me for regulating the bowels, and for all diseases caused by a disordered stomach and liver. I suffered for over three years from headache, indigestion, and constipation. I had no appetite and was weak and nervous most of the time. By using three boxes of Ayer's Pills, and at the same time dieting myself, I was completely cured."—Philip Lockwood, Topeka, Kansas.

"I was troubled for years with indigestion, constipation, and headache. A few boxes of Ayer's Pills, used in small daily doses, restored me to health. They are prompt and effective."—W. H. Strout, Meadville, Pa.

Ayer's Pills,

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers in Medicine.

tma16

DRS. STARKEY AND PALEN'S
TREATMENT BY INHALATION

TRADE MARK REGISTERED.
DRS. STARKEY AND PALEN
COMPOUND OXYGEN
NOT A DRUG

1529 Arch Street, Philad'a, Pa.

For Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Hay Fever, Debility, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and all Chronic and Nervous Disorders.

Drs. Starkey & Palen's office records show over 50,000 cases in which their Compound Oxygen Treatment has been used by physicians in their practice, and by invalids independently. Over 1000 physicians and more than 49,000 invalids.

Drs. Starkey & Palen have the liberty to refer to the following named well-known persons who have tried their Treatment:

Rev. O. A. Darby, Columbia, S. C.
Col. T. B. Crews, editor Herald, Laurens, S. C.
Rev. John L. Gerardeau, Columbia, S. C.
Rev. Sidi H. Browne, editor Christian Neighbor, Columbia, S. C.
Rev. H. F. Chreitzburg, Chester, S. C.
Mrs. Wm. H. Johnstone, Tarboro, N.C.
Rev. S. P. Richardson, Athens, Ga.
John J. Mason, M. D., Columbus, Ga.
Rev. W. F. Cook, D. D. Augusta, Ga.
Mrs. Ella R. Tennent, Home Magazine, Marietta, Ga.
Rev. T. R. Kendall, Macon, Ga.
Rev. W. A. Candler, President Emory College, Oxford, Ga.
W. H. Lawrence, Editor Chilton View, Clanton, Ala.
Rev. Henry D. Moore, Montgomery, Ala.

Would you like to know whom it has cured, where these restored and vitalized people live and what were the diseases removed? Return mail will bring you a brochure of 200 pages containing these points if you will drop a postal to

DRS. STARKEY & PALEN,
1529 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
Or Mrs. A. W. MOORE, Camden, S. C.

Administratrix's Sale.

By virtue of an order of sale granted by the Probate Court of Chilton county, State of Alabama, the undersigned Administratrix of the estate of M. C. McRee, deceased, will proceed to sell at the Court House door in Clanton, Alabama at public outcry to the highest bidder for cash, on Monday, the 7th day of October, 1889, the real estate—including the widow's dower interest therein—belonging to the estate of said M. C. McRee, deceased, to-wit: South East Fourth of Block No. Fifteen, East of the South and North Alabama Railroad, in the town of Clanton, Alabama, together with all the buildings and appurtenances thereto belonging. Said lot running 140 feet East and West and 150 feet North and South: And that lot of land in the town of Clanton, Ala., described as follows, to-wit: Twenty-five (25) feet fronting street from Court House to South and North Alabama Railroad tracks and running one hundred and fifty feet back in a northerly direction and being in the western part of lots No. 10 and 15 in Block No. 7 East of the S. and N. Railroad, together with the Store House situated thereon.

ANN JANE McREE,
Administratrix.

Clanton, Ala., Aug. 29th, 1889.

Jemison High School.

—:o:—

Good House, Well Furnished, Healthful Locality, Dry Sandy Roads, Good Board Cheap, Tuition Low, Maps, Globes, Charts, etc., Moral Community, Three Churches, No Whisky, Well Trained Teachers, Fine Success, Teachers Re-elected without a Dissenting Voice. Session opens Sept. 2d, 1889.

Apply to J. L. RUFFIN, Jr.,
aug29 Principal.

Remember
The View Job Office
When you want
First-class Job Printing done.

Barber Shop.

Mr. S. A. Logan, who has his barber shop in the Farmer's Alliance Building, solicits the patronage of the good people of Clanton. He does good work and is well fixed up for the business.

The Lawson Carpet Co.

Birmingham, Ala.

Take pleasure in directing the attention of the people of Chilton county to their large and attractive stock of

Carpets, Oil-cloths, Window Shades,

Curtains & Household Novelties.

The Stock represented is the finest in Alabama, and prices are guaranteed as low as similar goods are offered in any of the eastern markets.

☞ All communications answered by return mail. Respectfully,

ma30-y THE LAWSON CARPET CO. (WM. LAWSON.)

BAINS & PORTER.

(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & PEEBLES.)

WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.

Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.

FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY

1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS

Birmingham, Ala.

☞ Fine Stock of Chess-Carley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜

P. O. BOX 570. June 19 y

Marion Military Institute.

Superior accommodations and board. Superintendent, his family and faculty live in buildings with cadets. Specially suited to boys who need family watch care, to young men who need business education, and to all who wish practical and thorough training. Terms moderate.

J. T. MURFEE, Sup't.,
Marion, Alabama.

THOMAS FOSHEE,

(SUCCESSOR TO N. W. FOSHEE,)

—DEALER IN—

Dry Goods, Groceries

—AND—

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

Maplesville, Alabama.

I solicit a continuance of the liberal patronage heretofore extended our house. Respectfully,

feb 28-y THOMAS FOSHEE.

BLOOM,

The Tailor, of Montgomery, Ala.

—HAS OPENED—

THE MERCHANT TAILOR ROOMS,

With a Large Stock of New Goods. Scouring and dying done.

No. 7, North Court Street.

WALL PAPER,

WINDOW SHADES,
MOULDINGS,
—AND—
PRACTICAL PAPER HANGER

H. M. MANCHA,

204 DEXTER AVENUE, MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA.

☞ Papers furnished at any price from 10 cents up. Will send samples on application.

apr 11-y

BIRMINGHAM MARBLE WORKS.

THOS. H. HOLT,

PRACTICAL WORKMAN

—AND DEALER IN—

American and Italian Marble.

—Manufacturer of all kinds of—

CEMETERY MARBLE AND STONE WORK

Cor. Second Avenue and Twenty-Fourth Street,

Birmingham, Alabama.

GO TO BLANK BROS, LEADING CLOTHIERS, 2112 SECOND AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

rpet Co.
Ala.
e attention of o their large k of ow Shades,
Novelties.
d prices are guaranteed as markets.
Respectfully,
T CO. (WM. LAWSON.)

RTER.
EBLES.)
GGISTS.
ceive Prompt At-
A SPECIALTY
nd 20th STREETS
Ala.
mpany's Prices.
June 19 y

nstitute.
dent, his family and faculty oys who need family watch d to all who wish practical
J. T. MURFEE, Sup't.,
Marion, Alabama

SHEE, SHEE,) oceries
HANDISE.
abama.
l patronage heretofore
THOMAS FOSHEE.

M, gomery, Ala.,
OR ROOMS,
Scouring and dying rt Street.

APER,
WINDOW SHADES,
IOULDINGS,
—AND—ACTICAL PAPER HANGE
CHA,
OMERY, ALABAMA.
m 10 cents up. Will se
apr 11-y

BLE WORKS.
HOLT,
ORKMAN.
lian Marble.
kinds of—
D STONE WOR
enty-Fourth Street,
Alabam

CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., SEPT. 5, 1889.

THE VIEW is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

A cross mark (X) after your name means that your subscription is due and that we would be glad to have you renew.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the second Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—On the eleventh Monday after the fourth Monday in February, and on the thirteenth Monday after the fourth Monday in August, and may continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD.—Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.
No. 1 Express at	5:55 a. m.
No. 3 Mail	5:37 p. m.
No. 5 (Passenger)	6:17 p. m.
No. 9 Accommodation	7:08 a. m.
GOING NORTH.
No. 2 Fast (Don't Stop)	2:20 a. m.
No. 6 Mail	9:16 a. m.
No. 4 Express	7:55 p. m.
No. 10 Accommodation	7:22 p. m.

LOCAL LACONICS.

Why?

A baby came into the world one day,
And the parents smiled in pride,
As swift to the messages flashed away
Came greeting from far and wide.

A baby went out of the world one night,
And the mother mourned aloud
For the stainless soul that had gained the light,
For the form in the pearl-white shroud

Oh, the mystery here, the problem deep,
Philosophers pause awhile;
Why do we laugh when we ought to weep,
And weep when we ought to smile?

Mr. W. A. Ashley spent Sunday in Clanton.

Mrs. Martin returned home last Thursday.

Mr. Shep Allen, of Jemison, visited Clanton last week.

Mr. W. L. Price, of this place, has moved to Duke's mill.

Mrs. Chilton visited Montgomery one day last week.

Mr. Will Kemp, of Kincheon, is attending Clanton Academy.

Mr. A. C. Holt, of Calera, visited his girl in Clanton last week.

Mrs. J. D. Lamar, of Deatsville, visited relatives in Clanton last week.

Master Tom Brown visited the family of Mr. W. H. Foshee Saturday.

Mr. L. H. McCants, of Birmingham, visited relatives here the past week.

Lucien Day has been confined to his bed some days with an attack of fever.

Miss Gamma Midleton returned home last Saturday after spending a pleasant visit in Tuskegee.

Mrs. Mollie Bowden opened school Monday in the Willis Lowe neighborhood with 29 pupils.

Messrs. J. M. Pellgrini and F. M. Bell, of Mongomery, visited friends in Clanton last Thursday.

Mrs. R. Q. Lane visited Birmingham the past week accompanied by her brother Mr. McAllister.

Mr. Wallace Glover, of Pratt Saw Mill, was in Clanton Monday on important business for the mill.

Prof. E. D. Acker, formerly principal of Verbena Academy, will take charge of the Cherokee High School, at Centre.

John Collins, a negro, was sentenced to six months hard labor and to pay costs by the county court Monday. Crime, embezzlement.

Capt. Jno M. McKleroy, president of the the Ala. Mineral Land Company, made a business visit to our town Monday.

Tax-collector Gentry was in town Monday. As soon as an abstract of assessment is made out he will enter upon his rounds, collecting taxes for 1889.

New Goods.

W. L. Sampey has been receiving some very nice goods lately and the prices are very reasonable. Shoes are crowded and need to be sold to get them out of the way. Some nice saddles are priced at very low figures. A few suits of Spring clothing will be sold at cost to make them go. Lots of little things have been added to the stock,

Clanton, Aug. 14, 1889.

Mr. H. C. Jones, of Lily, was in town Monday.

Mr. Oliver Mullins, of Jumbo, was in town Monday.

Jemison High School opened with seventy pupils.

One bale of cotton at the depot was wrapped in Osnaburgs.

Mrs. M. J. Green, of Montgomery, is visiting relatives here.

Miss Anna Lou Duke returned to school at Nashville last Monday.

Farmers use cotton bagging if you can get it and keep your money at home.

Clanton High School opened with 45 pupils, and the number is daily increasing.

Mr. J. H. Aldridge is preparing to remove his present store house and erect a new and larger one.

Mr. Kennerly Williamson and wife, of Dallas, Texas, are visiting the parents of the former at Verbena.

Mr. A. J. Marlar will have a sorghum mill and evaporator at work in his neighborhood in a short while.

Mr. H. J. Guy, from the Coosa river country, was in town Saturday and subscibed for his county paper.

Mrs. John Sampey, of Louisville Ky., is visiting relatives in Clanton. Prof Sampey is expected Thursday.

Bro. Burns is agent for the sale of some very desirable real estate in Jemison. See his "ad." in another column.

Clanton is not a heaven for goats. The Clanton small boy never lets them have a rest while daylight holds out.

Mr. R. A Wright, of Cooper's Station, was in town Saturday and called to pay for two years subscription to the VIEW. Thanks.

Miss Nona Thorington, the charming daughter of Col. W. S. Thorington, is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Chilton, at this place.

Col. Wm. P. Chilton, of Mongomery, stopped in Clanton a few days this week visiting his mother. He is on his way to Louisville on business.

Mess. J. M. and D. M. Hand have sold out their interest in the Jemison Lumber Co., and will move to Texas. We will regret to lose such good citizens.

A successful protracted meeting has just closed at Isabella church west of Clanton. Rev. J. P. Sanders assisted the pastor, and much good was done.

The Mulbery association meets with New Salem church, two miles southeast of Strasburg, on Sept. 21st. Write Bro. Burns, at Jemison, if you can go.

The L. & N, R. R. have commenced the use of pennies in making exact change and charging fare. The fare to Montgomery from Clanton is $1.24, and to Birmingham $1.66.

A little negro named Lewis Love created a stir on the streets Monday morning by having a race with Sheriff Hayes and several others at his heels. He was caught in Bell's field and jailed on a charge of stealing a watch.

Mr. M. Aldridge of Cooper's was in town last week. He says crops are splendid in his neighborhood, and the people are in good spirits. He says that lands that were worn out when he was a boy fifty years ago now have fine crops on them.

Mr. S. Headly brought the first bale of cotton to Clanton Thursday. It was bought by R. Ehrman for 10½ cents. It was wrapped in cotton bagging. Mr. Alfred Baker brought in a second bale Monday, which was wrapped in jute, and was purchased by W. L. Sampey at 10½ cents.

For nearly a year we have had in our employ Rev. J. M. Kailin, a graduate of Howard College. He has proven himself faithful to the trusts committed to him, and now gives up this work that he may give himself fully to the gospel ministry, for which he is well fitted. He is a close student, a good sermonizer, a man of social nature, and whithal a devoted Christian. Churches needing a pastor may correspond with him at Montgomery, care Alabama Baptist.

The above is from the Alabama Baptist. We hope our good brother, who was raised in Chilton, and who has many warm friends here may secure a good pastorate. He deserves the best.

Clanton High School.

The advertisement of Clanton High School should attract the attention of school patrons. This school is ably managed, with an excellent and well furnished building, and with a music department in connection, it offers advantages surpassed by none and equaled by few. The principal owns the school property and is to that extent interested in building up a permanent institution of high grade in our town. He deserves a most liberal patronage.

Maplesville Postoffice.

Mr. Thos. Foshee, postmaster at Maplesville, writes us that the reported appointment of B.J. Neely as postmaster at Maplesville is incorrect. We are glad to know this and hope that the Age-Herald correspondent at Stanton will make the correction through that paper, which originally gave it publication Maplesville has taken new life upon herself and any publications detrimental to her interests are to be deprecated. We know Neely well and we believe that he has too much good sense to accept the appointment should he receive it. Some time since it was reported that the place had been offered to him and that he refused it.

Mr. E. Slattery, of Delhi, La., says her son, 14 years of age had a dreadful time with ulcers, sores and blotches which followed chicken pox. After using many remedies without benefit, she gave him Swift's Specific, which cured him sound and well.

Mr. W. A. Tibbs is a printer in the office of the Jackson, Miss., Clarion-Ledger. He says that three years ago he was a victim of bad blood, which deprived him of health and threatened serious consequences. He further says that he took S. S. S. and it cured him.

I have been subject to painful boils and carbuncles over my body during the Spring season, and after much suffering and much useless doctoring I found a permanent cure in Swift's Specific. It is the monarch of blood medicines.

E. J. WILLIS, Augusta, Ark.

"It goes right to the spot," said an old gentleman who found great benefit in Ayer's Sarsaparilla. He was right. Derangements of the stomach, liver and kidneys are more speedily remedied by this medicine than by any other. It reaches the trouble directly.

"Five years ago I had a constant cough, night sweats, was greatly reduced in flesh, and had been given up by my physicians. I began to take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and after using two bottles of this medicine, was completely cured."—Anga A. Lewis, Ricard, N. Y.

Swift's Specific cured me of ugly and very painful boils or risings. I had twenty-three on my back and at one time and a great many on body. I took S. S. S, and cured me. This was five years ago and have had no boils since.

W. M. MILLER, Arlinghton, Tex.

CLANTON
HIGH SCHOOL.
—:o:—
This School will open Monday, Sept. the 2nd, 1889. Advantages the best in the county. Rates low, board and tuition $10 per month. Patronage is earnestly desired. For further information address me at Clanton, Ala.
Respectfully,
A. J. SCOTT, Principal.

State Normal College,
FLORENCE, ALA.
JAS. K. POWERS, A. M. President.
THE COURSE OF STUDY embraces all the branches required in the public schools of the State.
THE THEORY AND PRACTICE of teaching receive careful attention throughout the course.
DRAWING, VOCAL MUSIC AND CALISTHENICS are taught. No teacher is thoroughly equipped for his work without training in these branches.
STATE CERTIFICATES are granted to graduates, entitling them to teach in any public school in Alabama, without further examination.
TUITION IS FREE
to teachers and those preparing to teach and good board costs only ten to fourteen dollars a month.
Fall Term Opens Sept. 17, 1889.
For catalogue or further information, apply to the President.

ALABAMA CENTRAL
FEMALE COLLEGE.
While the patronage of many other schools in the Town and State has diminished, the attendance at this College has increased 25 per cent. during the past Session. Literary, Scientific, Music and Art Departments under the direction of [illegible] teachers. Send for catalogue. [illegible] September 18, 1889.
S. B. FOSTER, President, Tuscaloosa, Ala.

STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLEDO, Lucas County, S. S.
Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the city of Toledo, county and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrh Cure.
FRANK J. CHENEY.
Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D., '86.
A. W. GLEASON, Notary Public.
Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly upon the blood and mucus surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials free.
F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.
☞ Sold by druggists, 75 cts.
oct 11-y

BUSINESS LOCAL NOTICES.

Insure in the Commercial Fire Insurance Co. of Montgomery.

Go to Blank Brothers, Leading Clothiers, 2112, 2nd Avenue, Birmingham, Ala., to buy anything you need in the way of clothing and gent's furnishing goods.

The VIEW job office is prepared to do all kind of job work at short notice. Let us know what you want and we will give you extra low figures.

UNAPPRECIATIVE.
How little we are apt to appreciate that which we possess. The hardy wood-sawyer envies the wealth of his employer. The rich man envies the health and strength of his poor neighbor.
"Our mind and our time we employ
In longing for what we have not,
Unmindful of what we enjoy."
How much better if all exerted themselves to obtain their heart's longing. If poor in purse seek to gain wealth by industrious and frugal habits. If poor in health seek to use those remedies which are the best and truest medicines. Among remedies sold by druggists none is the equal of Botanic Blood Balm for curing the ills of flesh and blood.
Felix Foster, Atlanta, Ga., says: "I took B. B. B., for several foul ulcers, which had given me much trouble and would not heal from a use of ULCERS other remedies. Within ten days my health improved, and before I had used three bottles every sore was entirely healed. It improved my appetite and gave me flesh and strength."
Hudson Clark, Camden, Ark., says: "I was afflicted with the severest form BAD BLOOD of rheumatism for about 12 years, and suffered extreme misery during all that while. I also had catarrh so bad it almost stopped CATARRH my breathing through my nose. My flesh in some places looked as if it had been charred or scalded. My back was so lame I could hardly stand. I tried nearly every-RHEUMATISM thing but found no relief until I tried B. B. B. I used several bottles and am now as sound and well as any man in Arkansas."
J. W. Messer, Howell's Cross Roads, Cherokee County, Ga., writes: I was afflicted with chronic SORES sores nine years, and had tried many medicines and they did me no good. I then tried B. B. B., and eight bottles cured me sound and well."
[sep27 cw 1y]

NOTICE NO. 8941.

Land Office, Montgomery, Ala.,
July 24, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on September 7, 1889, viz: William H. Mills, homestead No. 15149 for the n w ¼ of n e ¼, the n ½ of n w ¼ and s w ¼ of n w ¼, sec 14 t 20, north, r 13 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: James T. Chambers, Henry A. Sewell, John Hamilton, and Thomas Anderson, all of Kincheon, Ala.

jul25* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 9042.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 21, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on September 28, 1889, viz: Ephram Vasser, homestead 14371 for the n e ¼ of section 28 township 21 n, range 11 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Coldwell Choate, Chambers Young, Fed Latham, and Anderson Peoples, all of Maplesville, Ala.

aug22o J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 8988.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
August 6, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the Circuit Court, Clanton, Ala., on September 14th, 1889, viz: Abner C. Poole, Homestead 15889 for the n w ¼ of s e ¼ sec 32, township 21 north, range 14 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: William I. Mullins, Robert S. Owen, James Owen, and John W. Scott, all of Kincheon, Ala.

aug8o J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 8989.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 8, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on September 14th, 1889, viz: Edy Garner, widow of Dick Garner, deceased, Homestead 9616 for the n e ¼ of n w ¼ of sec 2, township 21 north range 12 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: Henry Young, Ben Talley, Noah Coleman, Aaron Talley, all of Maplesville, Ala.

aug 8* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

Now is the time to subscribe for your county paper.

A. E. BIVINGS,
—DEALER IN—
DRUGS, AND Medicines, FAMILY Groceries, ETC.
Clanton, Alabama.
I can furnish you anything you may wish in the way of DRUGS AND MEDICINES. I also handle THE BEST GROCERIES TO BE HAD, and you will find my prices to suit the times. [mar20]

BUY YOUR
PIANOS and ORGANS
—FROM—
GRAMBS & BUCHANAN,
—2107 SECOND AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—
—:o:—
THE VERY LOWEST CASH PRICES, or on easy installments. Sohmer Cranich & Bach, Gabler, Wheelock and Newby & Evans Pianos, and the world renowned Wilcox & White organs. Mail orders for sheet music or musical merchandise given prompt attention.
☞Write for Catalogue.☜ jul18
When ordering please state in what paper you saw our advertisement.

CRELLIN & NALLS,
BOILER MAKERS
Copper and Sheet Iron Workers
Chimneys, Tanks, and Repairing of All Kinds.
Saw Mill Work a Specialty.
☞ AVENUE C AND TWENTY-SECOND STREET, SOUTHSIDE, ☜
Birmingham, Ala.
mar21 y

I. N. LANGSTON,
—DEALER IN—
Dry Goods, Groceries, Family Supplies, &c.
(Contractor for Cross Ties for the L. & N. R. R.)
—JEMISON, CHILTON COUNTY, ALA.—
I have been out of business for the past year, but I am now before the public with a full and Complete Line of Goods for the General Trade. I invite the Farmers of Chilton county as well as my old customers, to give me a call and examine my stock. I will please you every time both in quality of goods and low prices.
☞ Highest market price paid for Cross Ties, Cotton and Country Produce.
oct 18-y I. N. LANGSTON.

MONTGOMERY IRON WORKS.
MACHINISTS & FOUNDERS
Dealers in Fittings, Supplies and Machinery
OF ALL KINDS.
MAKERS OF ENGINES, CANE MILLS, COTTON SEED CRUSHERS, SAW MILLS, LIVE ROLLS, LOG HAULUPS, &c.
☞ ESPECIAL ATTENTION TO WANTS OF SAW MILL MEN ☜
nov 8-y

INSURE WITH
The Commercial Fire Insurance Company,
Montgomery, Alabama.
Capital $100,000. Surplus $146,578.
Directors:—P. J. Anderson, C. A. Lanier, H. C. Tompkins, A. M. Kennedy, M. P. LeGrand, S. C. Marks, J. H. Clisby, C. W. Buckley, Frank Duncan.
W. H. Lawrence, Agt., Clanton.

Roberts & Son,
Steam Printers and Binders,
1918 FIRST AVENUE, BET. 19th & 20th STREETS,
Birmingham, Ala.
BLANK BOOKS TO ORDER. WORK PROMPTLY DELIVERED. dec6 ly

1889 1889
S. C. MARKS, P. H. S. GAYLE, WM. A. GAYLE.
MARKS & GAYLE,
The Montgomery Warehouse.
Just back of the Exchange Hotel. Very convenient to the business centre, and close to the Fire Department.
ALL COTTON CAREFULLY WEIGHED & HANDLED.
Bagging and Ties at Lowest Rates.
We will take pleasure in forwarding orders for Cotton Bagging for our customers, charging them actual cost for same, free from any profit whatever to ourselves.
Montgomery, Ala.
☞ FREE WAGON YARD THE YEAR ROUND. ☜

A. M. RAMBO,
DENTIST.
VERBENA, ALA.
Will respond to calls along railroad between Calera and Deatsville
[ma15 y]

S. P. TRESSLAR,
Photographer,
10 COURT SQUARE,
Montgomery.
Photographs on Silk, Satin and Linen. Photographs on watch dials.
Portraits in Crayon, Pastile, India Ink and Water Colors.
All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.
☞ Correspondence solicited. ☜
Always glad to have you call at the gallery, and examine specimens of the work on exhibition.
[jan21-tf]

J. H. SHEPHERD
THE LEADING
PHOTOGRAPHER.
—OF—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE
(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)
Photographs of All Kinds
Work Done in the
BEST STYLE.
Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

DR. OWEN'S
ELECTRIC BELT
AND SUSPENSORY.
PATENTED AUG. 16, 1887. IMPROVED JULY 30, 1888.
DR. OWEN'S ELECTRO-GALVANIC BODY BELT AND SUSPENSORY are guaranteed to cure the following diseases, namely: All Rheumatic Complaints, Lumbago, General and Nervous Debility, Costiveness, Kidney Diseases, Nervousness, Trembling, Sexual Exhaustion, Wasting of Body, Diseases caused by Indiscretions in Youth, Age, Married or Single Life. In fact all diseases pertaining to the womb or genital organs of male or female.
☞ SENT TO RESPONSIBLE PARTIES ON 30 DAYS TRIAL.
TRY A PAIR OF DR. OWEN'S ELECTRIC INSOLES PRICE $1 PER PAIR.
Send 6c. postage for free illustrated pamphlet, which will be sent you in plain sealed envelope. Mention this paper, address
OWEN ELECTRIC BELT & APPLIANCE CO.
306 North Broadway, ST. LOUIS, MO.

RUPTURE!
ELECTRIC BELT AND TRUSS COMBINED.
DR. ISRAEL'S ELECTRO-GALVANIC TRUSS, with Dr. Owen's Electric Belt Attachment. This truss is worn with ease and comfort. The current can be made mild or strong. This is the only combined electric truss and belt ever made. It will CURE Rupture in from 60 to 90 days. For full description of Dr. Owen's Electro-Galvanic Belts, Spinal Appliances, Trusses and Insoles send 6c. for free illustrated pamphlet which will be sent you in plain sealed envelope. Sold only by the
OWEN ELECTRIC BELT & APPLIANCE CO.
306 North Broadway, ST. LOUIS, MO.
sep 5

HERBINE
TRADE MARK.
After ten years exclusive sale, can now be obtained of all Druggists and Dealers in Medicines. It CURES—take notice—not simply helps but CURES LIVER COMPLAINT, Biliousness and Dyspepsia.
Is a strictly vegetable preparation and will CURE MALARIA, and all MALARIAL troubles.
Dr. S. H. Wise, of Boston, Ky says: "Have practiced medicine 15 years, and find nothing equal to HERBINE as a Liver Regulator."
Dr. W. A. Baker, of Madison, Fla., says: "A bottle of HERBINE is worth more than $5.00 worth of Quinine in any family"
Acting on the Liver in a different way from any other medicine; it is a positive cure for Chronic Constipation and is cheaper than [illegible].
Its peculiar composition is such, that we guarantee to cure any case of Chills and Fever or Billious Fever with one bottle.
It costs but 75 cents and each bottle contains over 40 average doses, making the cost less than two cents a dose. Would you ask for cheaper medicine? It is not a cure-all. But will cure any Liver, Billious or Malarial Complaint. Manufactured by
The Herbine Co.,
(Successors to Wm. Condell.) St. Louis, Mo.
mar 14-y

PISO'S CURE FOR
TWENTY-FIVE CENTS
Piso's Cure for Consumption is also the best Cough Medicine. If you have a Cough without disease of the Lungs, a few doses are all you need. But if you neglect this easy means of safety, the slight Cough may become a serious matter, and several bottles will be required.
CONSUMPTION
PISO'S REMEDY FOR CATARRH gives immediate relief. Catarrhal virus is soon expelled from the system, and the diseased action of the mucous membrane is replaced by healthy secretions.
The dose is small. One package contains a sufficient quantity for a long treatment.
CATARRH
A Cold in the Head is relieved by an application of Piso's remedy for Catarrh. The comfort to be got from it in this way is worth many times its cost.
Easy and pleasant to use.
Price, 50 cents. Sold by druggists or sent by mail.
E. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.
nov22-y

ALLEGER'S
GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES!
FROM $85. to $53.
This Elegant Parlor Organ style 70 containing 5 octaves, 4 sets of reeds, 10 stops, 2 knee swells, Stool and Book free. For only $53.00. With right and left couplers. "Warranted for 6 years."
It is only necessary to send references as to your responsibility from any banker, postmaster, merchant or express agent and the Organ will be shipped promptly on ten days' test trial.
Circular free [illegible]
[illegible]
Mention Paper where this "AD" is seen.
[illegible]
H. W. ALLEGER,
Washington, Warren County, New Jersey
[illegible]

WOMAN'S WORLD.

PLEASANT LITERATURE FOR FEMININE READERS.

LADY DUFF GORDON'S PET SNAKE.

Lady Duff Gordon had a tame snake and used to carry her pet about with her, wound around her arm (inside the large baggy sleeves that were then the fashion), and it would put its slender head out at the wristhole and lap milk out of the palm of her hand. It was as fond of glittering things as Lucie herself, and when she took her many rings off her fingers and placed them on different parts of the table, it would go about collecting them, stringing them on its little body, and finally tying itself into a tight knot, so that the rings could not be recovered until it chose to untie itself again.—London Spectator.

ROOMS THE QUEEN LOCKS UP.

As is well known, Queen Victoria is in the habit of keeping rooms which have been occupied by deceased relatives locked up. The apartments a Claremont in which the Princess Charlotte died more than seventy years ago are rigorously closed, and nobody is allowed to use them. Prince Albert's apartments at Windsor, Osborne and Balmoral are all kept precisely as they were when he was alive, and on the wall of the room in which he expired there is a tablet with an inscription recording the fact that "this apartment was the scene of his demise." The Duchess of Kent's rooms at Frogmore are also shut up—an arrangement which renders that abode absolutely useless, inasmuch as they are the best in the house. Frogmore, by the way, is officially a part of Windsor Castle, and any repairs that are done there go into the castle's account. The Queen has also kept John Brown's rooms at Windsor closed since the death of that domestic, and a large brass has been erected in the apartment in which he expired, with an inscription commemorating his virtues and deploring his loss.—Chicago Herald.

WONDERFUL CORK WORK.

One of the latest crazes and perhaps that carried out the least successfully is the cork work which originated with the Swiss people. It is said that a number of studios are to be opened in the fall in this city where the art of producing wonderful effects in cork is to be taught. The material is bought in its rough state and a piece of the required size selected. It is then put through a course of knives, sandpaper and emery dust until a smooth surface is obtained; then the landscape, marine view or other design is worked out with small, fine-pointed knives and chisels, after which it is touched up with water colors. In Europe most of this difficult art is done by men, but, from all accounts, some of our American girls are coming in for honors in the near future. In an architect's office on Broadway one of the draughtswomen carved out several models in cork for which she received both praise and a goodly sum of the needful. The task of carving in cork is rendered especially difficult because of the imperfectness of the material and its exceeding brittleness. In a ton of cork there might not be five pounds of material perfect enough to be used in this fine class of work. The steadiest of nerves is also a part of the programme of success, as the slightest slip of the knife or chisel is death to the result. The art is not new, but its practice is only just becoming popular. The winter exhibition of the Academy of Design will no doubt show us what can be done in this line of work.—New York World.

SAD STORY OF FEMININE VANITY.

One of the strangest and saddest stories of feminine vanity comes from Berlin. The victim, one Elise Killer, a German waitress in the student's quarter—a waitress ugly, freckled, square shouldered and awkward. But Elise was happy in her humble solitude, until one day coming to a student's table with her sleeves rolled up, he glancing carelessly at the awkward girl, discovered that her arms were white, round, splendidly moulded, such arms as might have belonged to the Venus de Milo.

He was enchanted and immediately secured her for his model. Then all the students wanted her and she lived in clover from the money she earned.

Success and pleasant compliments improved her. She grew better looking and her awkwardness like that of the ugly duckling began to disappear as her good looks increased. She began to dress well and to move with more grace as the world became more lenient to her square shoulders and stumbling ways. She was dined and wined by the students until she believed her swain days had really come. But her dream was dispelled. She called one day at the studio of the man who had first discovered her arms.

He, looking up carelessly from his palette, said:

"I want you no more, I've found a girl with prettier arms than yours."

With a set, white face, she turned from his door and the next morning was found dead in her bed, a bottle of laudanum by her side.

A foolish suicide and yet as sensible as any. The girl had lost her fortune, she had absolutely nothing of earthly good left.—Atlanta Constitution.

FASHION NOTES.

Dresses made entirely of crape are worn only by widows.

The newest wrinkle in Paris is a colored gown with black sleeves.

Henrietta cloth is the material used for the first mourning dress.

Warm weather fancy work should not require the use of needles.

Never any fashion in dress died so hard as the bustle, but it is almost gone.

Every well regulated costume bears a fan attachment at the present time.

Blazers are closed with one button at the throat, or three buttons placed lower down.

Discontent is known to be possible even to a girl with red cheeks and a dimple in her chin.

The straight skirts which are now so fashionable measure four and a half yards around.

Woolen dresses of different weights are the most appropriate fabrics for seaside costumes.

Shoe laces are made in thirty or forty shades to match the many colors in which shoes are now made.

Dotted white mull, Swiss, and veiling gowns are in vogue, along with striped lawned white dresses.

WORDS OF WISDOM.

A fool is a wise man's ladder.

He who is born a fool is never cured.

A fool may by chance say a wise thing.

A fool's bolt may sometimes hit the mark.

A fool always finds a greater fool that admires him.

Only trust thyself and another shall not betray thee.

A fool who speaks the truth is better than a hundred liars.

Both men and women belie their nature when they are not kind.

Life is not so short but that there is always time enough for courtesy.

Though flattery blossoms like friendship, yet there is a great difference in the fruit.

A man may be doing much who is successfully overcoming adverse influences.

Those who live on vanity must, not unreasonably, expect to die of mortification.

The humblest occupation has in it materials of discipline for the highest heaven.

Whatever you dislike in another person, take care to correct in yourself by the gentle reproof.

Any one may do a casual act of good nature, but a continuation of them shows it is a part of the temperament.

Avoid him who, from mere curiosity, asks three questions running about a thing that cannot interest him.

Affectation is certain deformity; by forming themselves on fantastic models, the young begin with being ridiculous and often end in being vicious.

Nothing more impairs authority than a too frequent or indiscreet use of it. If thunder itself was to be continual it would excite no more terror than the noise of a mill.

Great talents for conversation should be attended with great politeness. He who eclipses others owes them great civilities; and whatever a mistaken vanity may tell us, it is better to please in conversation than to shine in it.

Use of Palms.

In order to be able to appreciate how much the native tribes of the countries where palms most abound are dependent upon this noble family of plants, and how they take part in some form or other in every action of the native's life, we must enter his hut and inquire into the origin and structure of the various articles we see around us. Suppose we visit an Indian cottage on the banks of the Rio Negro, in South America. The main supports of the building are the trunks of some forest tree of durable wood, but the light rafters are formed of the straight stems of the jara palm. The roof is thatched with large, triangular leaves, and bound to the roof with forest creepers. The leaves are those of the carana palm. The door of the house is a framework made of the stems of the pashinba palm. In one corner stands a harpoon for capturing the cow-fish; it is made of the black wood of the pashinba palm. Beside it is a blow pipe ten or twelve feet long, for shooting birds or even the wild hog or tapir; it is made from the stem of one of two species of palms. The Indians' large bassoon-like musical instruments are made of palm stems; the cloth in which he wraps his valued feather ornaments is a fibrous palm spathe, and the rude chest in which he keeps his treasures is woven from palm leaves. His hammock, bow-string, and fishing line are from the fibres of leaves which he obtains from different palm trees, the hammock from the miriti, and the bow-string and fishing-line from the tucum.

The comb that he wears on his head is ingeniously constructed from the hard bark of a palm, and he makes fish hooks of the spines, or uses them for tatooing purposes. His children are eating the agreeable red and yellow fruit of the pupunba or peach palm; and from the assai he has prepared a favorite drink which he offers you to taste. That carefully suspended gourd contains oil which he has extracted from another species of palm; and that long elastic plaited cylinder used for squeezing dry the mandrocea pulp to make his bread is made of the bark of one of the singular climbing palms, which alone can resist for a considerable time the actoin of the poisonous juice. In fact, there seems no end to the economical purposes to which the products of palms are applied in the countries where they grow.—Scientific American.

Handling Hay in the Metropolis.

The city of New York consumes daily about 1500 tons of hay. The handling of hay in this city busies fully 10,000 men. The tool of the hay handler is a hook formed like the freight handler's hook but shorter. A bale of hay weighs from 100 to 250 pounds. There is a special knack in handling it, and often a small man with skill is better for the work than a strong man who has not thoroughly learned the trick. Ordinarily two men handle a bale. They thrust their hooks into opposite ends and on the outward side of the bale, tilt it inward, then with the aid of their knees lift it clear of the floor of the car and carry it to the open doorway which looks out on the waitng dray. Here an intelligent looking pair of great iron hooks is ready to take hold. The hooks are controlled by a single rope and an ingenious mechanism in the loft by which a bale may be stopped by a single jerk of the rope, at any point in the descent or ascent.

A single bale of damp hay in a car may make the whole carload musty and almost worthless. Twenty-four hours' exposure to sun and wind may dry out the delightful dead green of timothy and rot it of its flavor. The owners of great racing stables buy only the best timothy and that known to have been carefully cured. Such hay easily brings $20 a ton wholesale at ordinary times, while inferior timothy sells as low as $14 and clover hay $2 or $3 lower. The retailer expects to make about 15 cents per hundred on hay.—New York Star.

Opium for Virtue and Vice.

The opium of the drug store and the opium of the Chinese joint are two different substances. The crude gum is "cooked" before it reaches the joint. There are seven cookeries of opium in the United States. There is a duty of $10 a pound on the imported article. The druggist buys his opium in New York, the Chinese in San Francisco.

More coal was mined in 1888, both anthracite and bituminous, than was needed for consumption in the United States.

AGRICULTURAL.

TOPICS OF INTEREST RELATIVE TO FARM AND GARDEN.

CABBAGES THAT DO NOT HEAD.

The defective cabbages in the fall are those that have been checked in growth during summer. To head properly a cabbage should grow without ceasing after it has recovered from the shock of transplanting. The shock is perhaps useful, as it supplies the plant with a new set of roots. If a dry time comes on, water liberally with water in which commercial fertilizers have been dissolved. No crop grown will prove better for this labor than cabbage. It may make the difference between a cabbage head and a mess of unsalable leaves.—Boston Cultivator.

BRITTLENESS OF THE HOOF.

A hard hoof is desirable rather than otherwise, as the foot will not wear so much when the horse goes unshod in the summer; but it tends to become brittle and break away under the strain of the shoe nails. If the hoof is brittle in this way it is an advantage rather than otherwise, as the injury by breaking can easily be prevented by keeping the hoofs dressed with a mixture of vaseline and glycerine. If the hoof, however, crumbles at the sole and around the walls into soft powder, this indicates disease of the horn induced by an inflamed condition of the foot, and often follows an attack of founder (laminitis or fever of the feet). This should be treated by the use of a cooling laxative, as a pound of epsom salts and bran mashes for food for a time; the feet should be poulticed with linseed meal until all heat about them is removed, and then dressed daily with the vaseline and glycerine mixture. This condition of the feet is frequently produced by the horse standing in soft manure, which rots the horn and causes the brittleness complained of.—New York Times.

THE POTATO ROT.

Every year the farmers dread the potato rot, which has done great damage in seasons past. The rot first appeared in Ireland in 1847 and was imported into this country but recently. It is a fungus which grows within the plant, filling the cells with white threads, which bear small balls or capsules containing black spores. It is these black spores which discolor the potatoes and from which the new plants spring. If diseased potatoes are left in the ground they infect the land and propagate a pest for the next season's crop of potatoes. When the potatoes die and rot in the ground the small spores turn into dust and rise in the air to be carried away to some other field. The disease spreads rapidly in this way. The best way to destroy the germ is to gather up all of the potatoes, small and large, and boil them for the fowl and swine. This will kill the spores and prevent the spread of the disease. Never feed them to the animals before boiling them.

The damaged potatoes should be kept from the sound ones after they are dug. It is well, then, to dust the sound ones with fresh, air-slaked lime, which will destroy any adhering spores. Keep the potatoes dry, too, as this will tend to keep the spores dormant. In selecting seed potatoes never take one that shows any black places; then roll the cuttings in air-slaked lime. The potato rot is strictly contagious and it should be killed wherever it manifests itself. If every farmer would be as careful in dealing with his crop of potatoes the rot would soon be exterminated and never heard from again in this country.—Washington Star.

DIRECTIONS FOR CHEESE MANUFACTURE.

The materials employed in making cheese are milk and rennet. The milk may be of any kind from the very poorest to that which is rich in cream. The former will make very mean cheese, the latter will make the richest sort. Put two-thirds of the milk into a large tub, and raise the temperature of the last third to that of new milk. The whole quantity is then whisked together, the rennet added, and the tub covered over: in this state it is allowed to stand until it is completely turned, when the curd is struck down several times with the skimming dish, after which it is allowed to subside. The vat covered with cheese cloth is next placed over the tub and filled with curd by means of a skimmer; the curd is pressed down with the hands and more added as it sinks, until the curd rises above the edge of the vat to about two inches. Now add the proper quantity of salt, after which place a board over it and under it and apply pressure for two or three hours. The cheese is next turned out and surrounded by a fresh cheese-cloth, and pressure again applied for eight or ten hours, when it is commonly removed from the press, salted over again, and pressed again for twelve to twenty hours. The quality of the cheese depends on this part of the process to a great extent, as if any of the whey is left in it, it will not keep. Further, the cheese must be washed in warm water, wiped dry, and placed in a cool place to ripen. This is a bare outline of the process of making cheese. Experience will quickly teach more than we could tell in a column. It is important to have a good rennet, which should never be taken from a calf that has not sucked, or that is not at least two days old.—Courier-Journal.

FARM AND GARDEN NOTES.

It is a mistake to stop feeding young turkeys when grown.

If too late to set out cabbage or celery where the early vegetables were grown, clear off the land and sow rye, it will be fine to turn under this fall.

The best and strongest chicks are hatched—some will be raised two months hence, but they are not considered as good as the early birds.

Ripe timothy hay is worth very little more than straw for milk and butter, while timothy cut when the grass is in early blossom is much more productive.

There is no more dismal sight than a sparsely painted farm-house without the sheltering shade of a small tree and with bare earth where luxuriant grass should abound.

Have the fair in mind while at work about the garden, any fine specimens of vegetables, crowd—exhibit at the fair and then save the seed for next year's planting.

According to Professor E. Morrow it is better, in draining wide, nearly level tracts, to have two, three or more lines parallel by each other than to have one main drain with short ditches at right angles.

HOUSEHOLD MATTERS.

CARE NECESSARY WHEN BOILING JELLIES.

The experienced housekeeper is careful not to boil preserves and jellies too long after the sugar has been added, because the acids in the fruits may cause the sugar to "invert," or split up into two other forms of sugar, neither of which possess much sweetening power. Neither will she boil jellies made from gelatine too long, or a chemical change will take place, and the gelatine lose its power of "setting," or gelatinizing.—Boston Cultivator.

CLEANSING OILCLOTH.

Oilcloth ought never to be scrubbed with a brush, but after being swept may be cleaned by washing with a soft flannel and lukewarm water or cold tea. On no account use soap or water that is hot, as either would have a bad effect on the paint. When the oilcloth is dry rub it with a small portion of a mixture of beeswax, softened with a minute quanity of turpentine, using for this purpose a soft furniture polishing brush. The following is also used to make oilcloths look well: Wash them once a month with skim milk and water, equal quantities of each; rub them once in three months with boiled linseed oil; put on a very little and rub it well in with a rag and polish with a piece of old silk.—Washington Star.

GARNISH FOR FISH SALAD.

A pretty garnish for a fish salad is made by arranging six sardines (the bones carefully removed), on the top, with heads meeting in the centre, a fringe of lettuce or parsley leaves in a border, and lemon points at intervals. The round red radishes can be prepared in such a way as to be very ornamental. Cut off the root close, and with a sharp knife pare the radish toward the top; the knife can only take up a narrow portion at a time; repeat this until all the red part is cut, and the result will be that the cut portion will look like petals, and the radish will closely resemble a flower. Let them stand in water until they are crisp, and serve them in a blue bowl with cracked ice. Olives also taste better if served on a bed of cracked ice.—New York Observer.

TO KEEP CUCUMBERS FOR PICKLING.

Wash the cucumbers in cold water. First put a layer of coarse salt, an inch or more in depth, in the bottom of whatever you wish to pack them in. Then a layer of cucumbers (lay them closely as it will not hurt them to touch). Cover each layer with salt. Always have a layer, on top. After putting in one day's picking cover all over, the salt on top layer, with a clean cloth wrung out of cold water then a board and weight to press them. In a few days brine will form from the dampness. After putting in each day's picking, rinse the scum from the cloth before replacing. When the vessel is full as desired cover over and about once a week rinse the cloth to remove the scum. Although some say to let it remain as it does no harm.—Farm, Field and Stockman.

CURRANTS IN TEMPTING FORMS.

Currant jam is made by stemming and washing the berries, adding no water, but two-thirds the quantity of sugar, and stirring and simmering for one hour, or till a smooth and even mass.

Currant preserve is made of equal weight of fruit and sugar, cooked slowly, and not stirred, so as to retain somewhat the shape of the currants.

Iced currants make a beautiful dessert, especially the red and white varieties, mixed. Take the clean, whole bunches, and dip them, holding by the stem, into beaten white of egg, then into finely powdered sugar, dry for an hour, and then repeat.

Another currant dessert, very ornamental as well as very palatable is currant froth. It is light and delicate for a warm day. Get one pint of currant juice, make perfectly clear by straining. Soak two ounces of gelatine in two cups of cold water for an hour. Then put currant juice, the gelatine and two coffee cups of sugar together in a milk boiler, over a clear fire; let it come to boiling point only; then strain into a vessel to cool. When cool, but before the jelly stiffens, add the frothed white of three eggs, and beat all till it is a stiff froth. Pour into a mold, and put near the ice. This should be made the day before it is wanted. This dish may be varied by making it sweeter, and serving with flavored whipped cream poured around it.

Currant flummery is another pleasing dessert. Get the juice from two quarts of currants and strain very clear; add one pint of granulated sugar. Now take out one pint of the currant juice and blend with it one-half pint of ground rice. It must be very smooth and free from lumps. Then put the remainder of the juice into a milk boiler, set it on the fire, and when it boils, stir the rice batter gradually in. When it has cooked till quite thick, put it into molds to congeal. It should be served with sweetened cream.

Currant Bavarian Cream—The flavor of currants in cream is especially agreeable, but they require more sugar from their acid nature than most fruit or berries to make it an acceptable dish. Cover one ounce of gelatine with half a cup of cold water for one hour, then put over the fire and add one pint of currant juice, one cup and a half of sugar, bring just to a boil and strain into a large earthen bowl, set in a cool place and stir till it thickens, when add one pint of whipped cream and whip all well together and put into molds and upon ice. In warm weather it should be chilled upon the ice before stirring.

Canned currants require so much sugar to make them good, that to make them into jam or preserve is the better way: but white currants are preferable to the red for the purpose. They must have a pound of sugar to every pound of fruit, be handled carefully and canned like any other berry.

Spiced currants to serve with meat are an agreeable relish. To four quarts of currants washed and stemmed, add two and one-half quarts of light brown sugar, one spoonful of ground cinnamon, one of ground cloves and half a spoonful of ground allspice, also one pint of vinegar. Mash the currants, stir often and cook slowly for two hours.—New York Independent.

The Summer's Trial.

IS not your patience worn out, pray,
THIS broiling, warm and sultry day?
NOT troubled by the heat a bit—
HOT days don't worry you a whit!
ENOUGH she does, I'll guarantee;
FOR instance, when a he or she
YOU hear repeat that query now:
"SIR, is this not enough for you?"
—[illegible]

SWIFT ON THE WING.

An Express Train Slow Compared With the Wild Duck and Goose.

"The gadwale—but there, it isn't likely at all that you know what a gadwale is," said an observant wild fowl hunter. "The gadwale is a duck. It is a wild duck that doesn't get East very often, but is a familiar fowl in the West. I was just about to remark that the gadwale is a bird that can travel nearly a hundred miles while the fastest railroad train is going fifty, and yet it is slow on the wing compared with a canvasback duck, the broadbill, or even the wild goose. I have held my watch on about every kind of wild fowl there is, and know to a dot just how much space any of them can get over in an hour. The canvasback can distance the whole wild fowl family, if it lays itself out to do it. When the canvasback is out taking things easy he jogs along through the air at the rate of eighty miles an hour. If he has business somewhere, though, and has to get there, he can put two miles behind him every minute, and do it easy. If you don't believe that, just fire square at the leader in a string of canvasbacks that are out on a business trip some time when you have the chance. Duck shot, propelled by the proper quantity of powder, travels pretty quick itself, but if your charge brings down any member of that string of ducks at all it will be the fifth or sixth one back from the leader, and I'll bet anything there is on it. If you have the faintest idea in the world of dropping the leader you must aim at space not less than ten feet ahead of him. Then the chances are that he will run plump against your shot. When he drops you will find him a quarter of a mile or so on, because even after he is dead he can't stop short of that distance.

"The mallard duck is lazy. He seldom cares to cover more than a mile a minute, but he can if he wants to. His ordinary every-day style of getting along over the country takes him from place to place at about a 45-mile an hour rate. The black duck can fly neck-and-neck with the mallard, and neither one can give the other odds. If the pin tail widgeon and wood-duck should start in to race either a mallard or a black duck it would be safe to bet on either one. But if a redhead duck should enter the race you can give big odds on him, for he can spin off his ninety miles an hour as easy as you can walk around the block, and can do it all day. He would be left far behind, though, by the blue-winged or the green-winged teal. These two fowl can fly side by side for 100 miles and close the race in a dead heat in an hour, and appear to make no hard task of it. The broadbill duck is the only fowl that flies that can push the canvasback on the wing. Let a broadbill and a canvasback each do his best for an hour, and the broadbill will only come out about ten miles behind. One hundred and ten miles an hour can be done by the broadbill, and he consequently makes a mark for a shotgun that a pretty good gunner wouldn't be apt to hit once in a lifetime.

"The wild goose is an astonisher on the fly. It has a big heavy body to carry, and to see it waddling on the ground you wouldn't suppose it could get away from you very fast on the wing. But it manages to glide from one feeding place to another with a suddenness that is aggravating to the best of wing shots. To see a flock of 'honkers' moving along, so high up that they seem to be sweeping the cobwebs off of the sky, you probably wouldn't dare to bet that they were traveling at the rate of ninety miles an hour, but that is just what they are doing, any hour in the day. The wild goose never fools any time away. His gait is always a business one."—[New York Sun.

Oldest Man in the World.

The oldest man in the civilized world, says a New York Sun writer, is Nagy Ferencz, a peasant in Bares, Hungary. He was born in Hedrahley, 121 years ago next September. Just 100 years ago last May he fell in love with the daughter of an inn-keeper. She promised to mary him on the July 31, 1789. Two days before the marriage day she jilted him for his best friend. Since then, Nagy has been a woman-hater. Four years later he went to the war of the first coalition. For the twenty succeeding years he was almost constantly under arms, in camp or on the battle-field. Nagy Ferencz is penniless, but he is not a beggar nor a public charge. He takes all his meals with seven Bares families, whom he has known for fifty years. Each one entertains him one day in the week. After each meal he smokes a pipefull of strong tobacco, as he has done every day for the last 104 years. He is fond of his wine and an occasional beer. His friends give him money with which to buy tobacco and liquor. He is erect and quick in his movements; is scrupulously neat in his person, and looks to be about seventy or seventy-five years old.

CHARLES LAMB said of the water-cure: "It is neither new nor wonderful, for it is as old as the deluge, which, in my opinion, killed more than it cured."

TEXAN marriage notices are quite in the national style of manners: "No cards, no cake, no flowers, no thanks, no regrets, nobody's business."

Sunstroke.

The effects of undue exposure to heat vary widely, and are by no means always proportionate to the temperature to which the person has been exposed. The so-called sunstroke, or heat-stroke, may occur either in the direct rays of the sun, or in hot rooms, such as laundry rooms or the holds of steamships. Attacks may occur in the night as well as during the day, and, in general, are to be feared at times when the atmosphere is loaded with moisture, so that free perspiration is checked. Experience shows that the drinking of ice-water, when the body is over-heated, is a prolific cause of these attacks.

All degrees of severity are met with, from the lightest attack of headache and dizziness, to the sudden stroke which ends in death within a few minutes. Some authorities would make three distinct degrees of heat prostration, although the line is seldom distinctly drawn in any given case.

The first variety includes those cases which show nothing more than a sudden faintness, muscular weakness and dizziness, with, perhaps, nausea and vomiting. The surface of the body is cool, the pulse rapid and feeble. In such cases, rest in a recumbent position in a cool place for a few hours will generally give relief.

In the second class of cases, the respiration and heart's action are affected and the patient may die suddenly of syncope. Active measures must be entered upon at once. The patient should be removed to a cool spot, the clothing removed or loosened, and cold water applied to the head. Complete recovery from the effects may not take place for years.

The third form is the most severe, and in the majority of cases proves fatal. The sufferer becomes unconscious, the skin is dry, the pulse slow and full, the face flushed and the breathing labored. Generally there is entire unconsciousness, and sometimes convulsions.

The temperature runs excessively high, and the first attempt should be to bring it to the normal point. For this purpose cold baths and the application of ice are indicated. As soon as the temperature is lessened stimulation must be commenced, to counteract the great depression which always follows.

It is important to remember that there is little danger from heat so long as the perspiration is free. By bearing this in mind many who are exposed might no doubt avert the threatened attack by leaving work and seeking shelter as soon as the diminution in perspiration is noticed.—[Youth's Companion.

Substitute for Glass.

It is impossible to conceive of anything that could supersede glass in the matter of transparency, but in respect of brittleness and rigidity, it is very far from being a perfect material. A substitute is now proposed, which, if it lacks in transparency, is free from the defects mentioned. It is fine wire netting covered with a prepared varnish which permits the light to pass through as freely as glass of the variety known as cathedral. It is almost as flexible as a sheet of canvas, and is absolutely air tight and water tight. The inventor has been working at the problem for years, and after experimenting with many products, he found that he could, by passing the wire netting through a series of baths of linseed oil chemically prepared, produce a material with the properties of amber. It is at once tough and elastic, and cannot be broken even by a very considerable weight falling upon it.

The House Fly.

Put a fly on the window and up he goes toward the top; he can't be made to walk downward. A gentleman hit upon an idea. Why not use that habit against them? Forthwith he made a window screen divided in half. The upper half lapped over the lower, with an inch of space between. As soon as a fly would light on the screen he would proceed to travel upward, and would thus walk straight out of doors. On reaching the top of the lower half he would be outside. Not being able to walk down, he had to was to return to the room. By this means a room can be quickly cleared of flies, which always seek the light.

Ancient Catacombs.

An ancient catacomb has been discovered in Naples, containing several perfect skeletons. The toombs, from inscriptions, are believed to be three thousand years old. Some lamps found therein were in such good preservation that they were at once used by the explorers to light up the vaults.

Sarah Bernhardt.

is coming to America, and great will be the enthusiasm aroused amongst her admirers. But, we have our own bright star, Mary Anderson, who will continue to bear off the palm in the dramatic, as does Lucy Hinton in the great tobacco world.

The reason for having Monday washing-day, the next after Sunday, is probably because cleanliness is next to godliness.

Considerable Boast of Success.

[illegible] warranted in selling it (as they are ... through druggists) under a positive guar of its giving satisfaction in every cas money paid for it will be refunded. No cine of ordinary merit could be sold such severe conditions with profit to its prietors, and no other medicine for the cases for which it is recommended was before sold under a guarantee of a cure pay. In all blood taints and impuritie whatever name or nature, it is most po in its curative effects. Pimples, blot eruptions and all skin and scalp disea radically cured by its wonderful medi Scrofulous disease may affect the gla causing swellings or tumors; the bone ing "fever-sores," "white swellings," "hip-joint disease," or the tissues of the lu causing pulmonary consumption. No mat in which one of its myriad forms it crop or manifests itself, "Golden Medical Di ery" will cure it if used perseveringly and in time.

Its thousands of cures are the best adver ments for Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

"Another divorce case! And yet they marriages are made in heaven." "Per that's why they wear so badly on earth."

Messrs. W. E. Lundy and E. M. Stillman two of the most popular traveling sale on the road. They represent the T. C. W liams Co., of Richmond, Va., manufactur the celebrated "Lucy Hinton" tobacco.

Smoke the best—"Tansill's Punch" C

Out of Sorts

Is a feeling peculiar to persons of dyspeptic ten cy, or it may be caused by change of climate, sea or life. The stomach is out of order, the he aches or does not feel right, appetite is capric the nerves seem overworked, the mind is conf and irritable. This condition finds an exc corrective in Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by its gulating and toning powers, soon restores harm to the system, and gives that strength of mi nerves and body which makes one feel perf well. N. B.—Be sure to g

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mas

100 Doses One Dollar

DUTCHER'S FLY KILLER

Makes a clean sweep. Each sheet will kill a quart of fl Stops buzzing around ea diving at eyes, tickling yo nose, skips hard words and secures peace of mind ... Send 25 cents for 5 shee F. DUTCHER, St. Albans, V

Dr. Lobb, 329 N. 15th St., PHILA., PA.

After ALL others fail, consult

Twenty years' continuous practice in the treat ment and cure of the awful effects of ear vice, destroying both mind and body. Medi and treatment for one month, Five Dollars, securely sealed from observation to any address.

Book on Special Diseases free.

Plantation Engi

With Self-Contained RETURN FLUE BOILE FOR DRIVING COTTON GINS and MI Illustrated Pamphlet Free. Addr JAMES LEFFEL & C SPRINGFIELD, OHI or 110 Liberty St., New Y

CHICHESTER'S ENGL PENNYROYAL PIL

Red Cross Diamond Bra The only reliable pill for sale. Ladies, ask Druggist for the mond Brand, in red metallic bo with blue ribbon. Take no other. (stamps) for particulars and "Relief Ladies," in letter, by mail. Name Chichester Chemical Co., Madison Sq., Phila

THE HARVEST IN TEXA

Bountiful crops raised in this wonderful State. 30 cents per bushel. Hay $5 per ton. Cattle head. More cotton than can be gathered. F cheap lands apply to TEXAS INVESTM COMPANY, Corsicana, Texas.

$75 TO $250 A MONTH can be made wo for us. Agents preferred who can fu a horse and give their whole time to the busi Spare moments may be profitably employed A few vacancies in towns and cities. B. F. J SON & CO., 1009 Main St., Richmond, Va. N Please state age and business experience. mind about sending stamp for reply. B. F. J. &

OPIUM and Whiskey H its cured at home w out pain. Book of p ticulars sent FREE B. M. WOOLLEY, M Atlanta, Ga. Office 65½ Whitehall

MUSIC—ART—ELOCUTION General Culture. Desirable Posi open to progressive students. All inter will receive valuable information Free, by addressing E. TOURJEE, Boston, ORATORS say Piso's Cure for Con sumption is ... for keeping ... clear. 25 cents.

FARMS Do you want to buy or sell? LA If so send stamp for circ'l'r to Curtis & Bufett, 233 Broadway, $25 AN HOUR made by our A THE DR. PERK MEDICAL CO., Richmond,

PALMS BUS. COLLEGE, Philadelphia Scholarship and positions, $50. Write for circ

AGENTS wanted. $1 an hour. 50 new varieties. C logue and sample free. C. E. Marshall, Lockport

PEERLESS DYES Are the BE

BIG G. Cures in 1 TO 5 DAYS. Guaranteed not to cause Stricture. Mf'd only by the Evans Chemical Co. Cincinnati, Ohio. Trade Mark. I prescribe and fully endorse Big G as the specific for the certain of this disease. G. H. INGRAHAM, M Amsterdam, We have sold Big G many years, and given the best of faction. D. R. DYCHE & C Chicag $1.00. Sold by Drug

A. N. U. ....Thirty-fi

BRYANT & STRATTON Business Colleg

Book Keeping, Short Hand, Telegraphy, &c. Write for Catalogue and full information. LOUISVILLE, K

M. RICH & BROS.

ATLANTA, GA.,

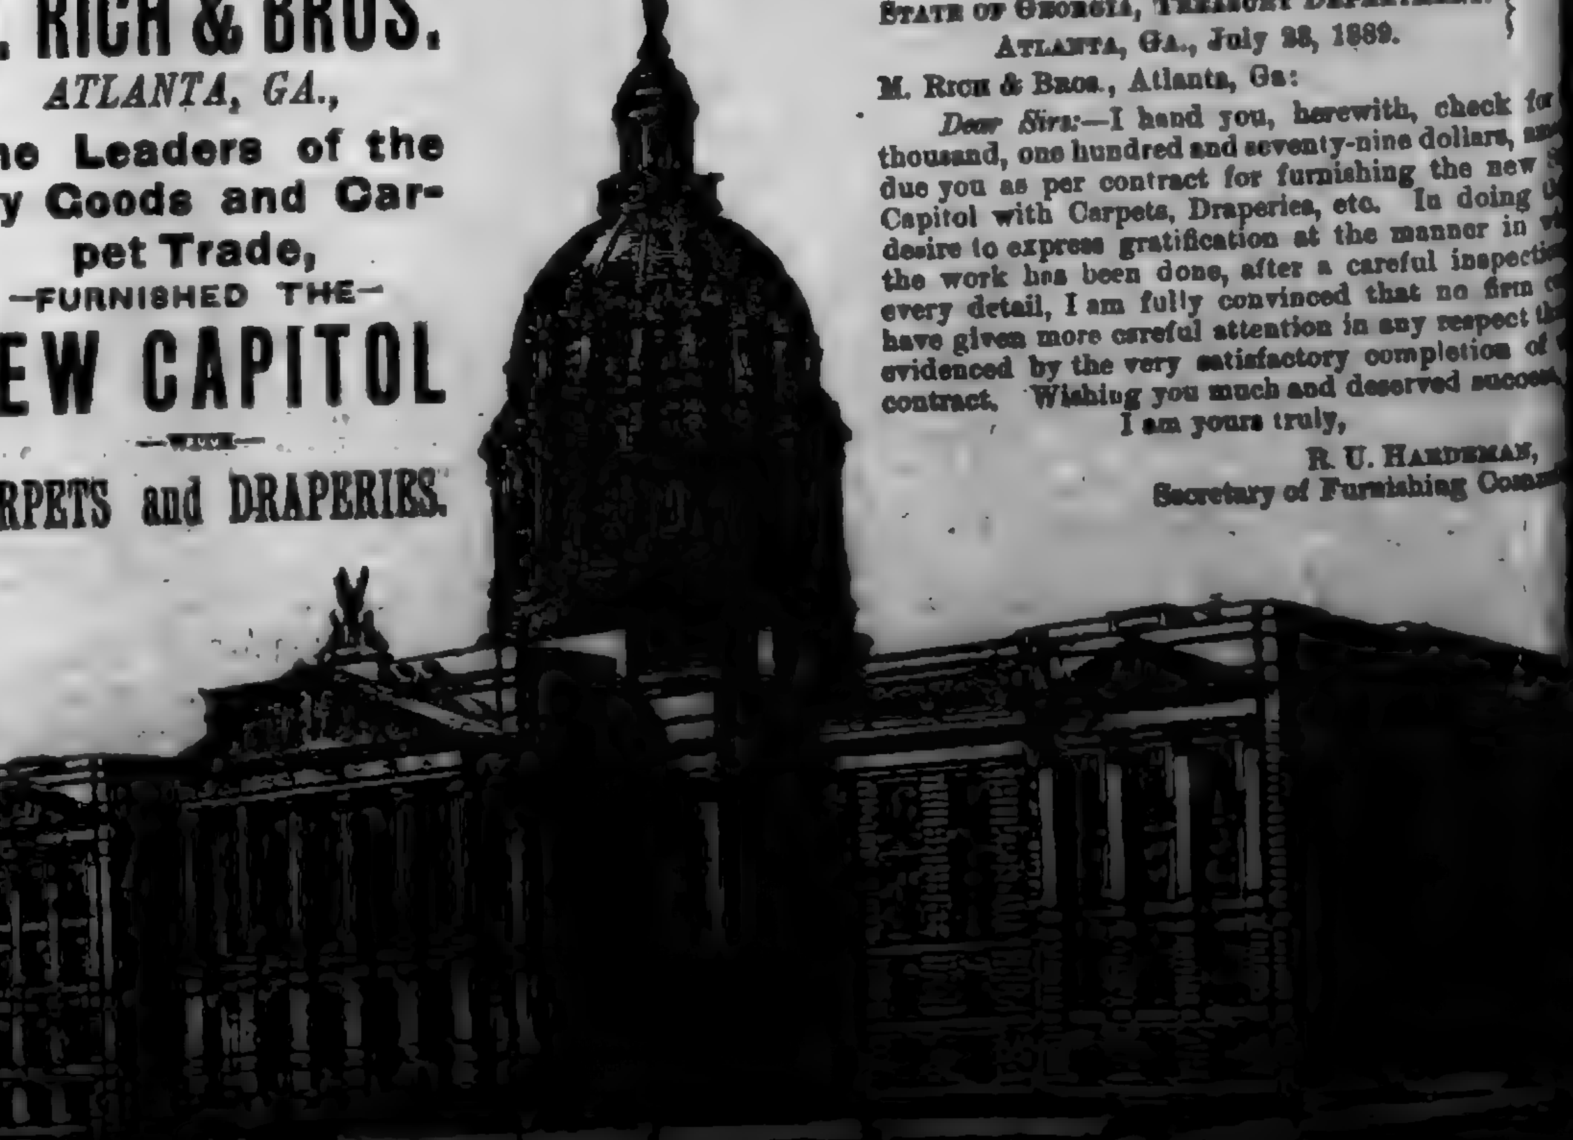
The Leaders of the Dry Goods and Carpet Trade,

—FURNISHED THE—

NEW CAPITOL

—WITH—

CARPETS and DRAPERIES.



R. U. HARDEMAN, Treasurer. W. J. SPEAR, Assist

STATE OF GEORGIA, TREASURY DEPARTMENT.
ATLANTA, GA., July 23, 1889.

M. RICH & BROS., Atlanta, Ga:

Dear Sirs:—I hand you, herewith, check for thousand, one hundred and seventy-nine dollars, due you as per contract for furnishing the new Capitol with Carpets, Draperies, etc. In doing desire to express gratification at the manner in the work has been done, after a careful inspecti every detail, I am fully convinced that no firm have given more careful attention in any respect evidenced by the very satisfactory completion of contract. Wishing you much and deserved succes

I am yours truly,

R. U. HARDEMAN,
Secretary of Furnishing Com

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per Square, of one inch space or less, for the first, and Fifty Cents for each subsequent insertion.

Inches.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
1 Inch	$ 5 00	$ 7 50	$ 11 25
2 Inches	7 00	11 25	16 00
3 Inches	10 00	15 00	23 50
4 Inches	12 50	20 00	27 00
5 Inches	15 00	22 50	33 00
¼ Column	18 00	27 00	40 00
½ Column	27 00	40 00	60 00
1 Column	40 00	60 00	100 00

The Chilton View.

W. H. LAWRENCE, Editor and Publisher. "WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION." TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME VIII. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 12, 1889. NUMBER 46.

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line each insertion.

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be headed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

☞ The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

Cahen's Grand Introductory Sale OF NEW FALL DRESS GOODS!

EVERYTHING NEW, BRIGHT AND SPARKLING.

New Silks, New Velvets, New Trimmings, New Henriettas, New Brilliantes, New Drap D'Almas, New Dress Fringes and New High Art Production Novelty Combination Suits.

Early as it is, we are selling quantities of Fall Dress Goods, probably because we now have a great assortment at very attractive prices. New goods are arriving daily and we will beyond the slightest shadow of a doubt have the largest, finest and best assorted stock ever shown in Birmingham.

My Ships That Went to Sea.

One after one they slipped the stocks,
And one by one they sailed.
Slow creaked the heavy tackle blocks,
And low the pennants trailed.
As on beyond the restless tide
Fast ebbing far to lee,
They drifted o'er the ocean wide
My ships that went to sea.

Adown the long horizon's rim,
I watched them as they passed,
Until within the distance dim
They faded out at last;
As happy birds, that seek the skies
When from the cage set free,
So disappeared before mine eyes
My ships that went to sea.

And other ships have come and gone
Since my ships sailed away.
And many a year in dusk and dawn
And many a night and day,
Full oft the grass has shimmered green
And budded flower and tree,
But since that hour none e'er have seen
My ships that went to sea.

And yet, and yet, within my dreams
Shows every mast and rope,
And sweetly on my farewell gleams
The smiling face of hope;
My slumbering fancies grope afar,
Through visions not to be;
I see them cross the harbor bar,
My ships that went to sea.

Ah, nevermore! Nay, nevermore!
Shall I such gladness feel.
Doubtless upon some storm-strewn shore
Lies every shattered keel;
Yet still, defying all that Fate
Has brought or keeps for me,
Upon the moaning sands I wait
For all my ships at sea.

—Ernest McGaffey, in Pittsburg Dispatch.

A KNOT IN THE SKEIN.

BY MRS. NORA MARBLE.

They made a pretty picture, did grandmother and little Dot. Grandmother sat in her low rocking-chair, with her glasses pushed back above her forehead, and before her stood Dot holding outstretched a brilliant skein of wool upon her chubby little hands.

"Hurry up, drandma," said Dot, with a slight frown, "you's so slow."

Grandma took no heed, apparently, but went on with the utmost precision. Slowly the yarn reeled over the chubby thumbs, slowly went on the winding about grandma's ball.

Dot stood first upon one foot, then the other, like a barn-yard fowl, and gave at intervals a tremendous sigh as evidence of her weariness.

"You's 'zasperatin'," she at last broke out; "really and truly, drandma, you's old 'zasperatin' hisself."

"What?" cried the startled old lady, who had been intent upon her winding or perhaps lost in a reverie of other days; "what is that you are saying, Dot?"

"I said you was a 'zasperatin' old poke," replied Dot firmly. "I is most tired to deaf, and there you go on windin' jes' as if you was asleep."

"Well, I never," gasped the old lady.

I pretended to be intent upon the work before me, yet could scarce refrain from laughing aloud.

"Tired, eh!" queried grandma, with a twinkle in her eye; "well, we will soon be through, and you can lie down and rest."

"No, I'm going out to jump rope," incautiously said Dot, "with Willie and Rose. They're jumping now, don't you hear them, drandma?"

"Ah, you are going to rest your weary limbs by jumping rope," replied grandma. "Well, so that you won't be entirely used up, suppose you sit on this chair," pulling one beside Dot.

Dot sulkily complied, but as she did so dropped her hands in feigned weariness.

"See," cried grandma, "you are letting strands of the wool drop over your fingers. Hold up your hands, dear, and we will soon be through," and on went the old lady, placidly and slowly winding as before.

Dot for a space looked the picture of youthful resignation, but soon her impatience returned.

"Hurry up," she cried vehemently. "You're enough to 'zasperate the patience of Job," and again I saw her slyly drop a loop or two from her fingers, as she moved restlessly upon the chair.

Grandma looked at her reprovingly, but hastened somewhat her movements. There was a pause presently in the winding. The old lady brought her spectacles down from her forehead, and peered at the skein of wool.

"There's a snarl," she said, "dear, dear, how did that come?"

"It's an awful hard knot," cheerfully said Miss Dot, after grandma had made several attempts to disentangle the snarl. "I dess you had better get it all right, drandma, and we'll wind the ball 'nother time."

"Oh, no, Dot, we'll get it all right now," replied grandma, with a jerk.

Snap went the strand. Several minutes were consumed in straightening the skein, and grandma carefully knotted the broken threads together before resuming her winding.

The sounds of laughing and jumping outside the window came borne in upon the stillness of the room. Another petulant movement from Dot.

"I is so nervous I can't hold still," she next exclaimed, impatiently tugging at the wool.

"Dear, dear, another knot," cried grandma, peering over her spectacles at Dot. "Why, at this rate we will never get through."

But at last it was done, and away scampered Dot, every vestige of ill-humor vanished from her pretty face.

Grandma's glance met mine.

"The wool is for her own stockings," quietly said she, as if in answer to something she read in my eyes, "and I intend those knots shall teach her a lesson which mere words would fail to accomplish. Youthful experiences, if rightly impressed, may serve to guard the future from sterner ones."

The old lady's favorite expression, "I know," played about her firmly closed lips, but she gave no utterance to them as with ball in hand she sat gazing upon pictures of the past—pictures whose lights and shadows were reflected in her own dim eyes, in the flitting smile upon brow or lip.

Well, if grandma had been slow in winding the ball, it was more than she was in lessening it again. How fast her needles flew! Early in the morning, late at night went on the knitting. Dot's eyes watched the progress of the stockings, and her admiration was unbounded over their hue.

"Red stockins, an' a red hood, and red mittins! My, it 'pears Sunday won't ever come!"

"Crimson" corrected grandma; "not red." But it mattered little to Dot what the color was named when she drew the bright stockings upon her chubby legs and over them again a pair of shining new shoes.

"You will be proud of these stockings," said grandma, on Saturday night, as she rounded the toe with a bit of white wool, "because you helped me to wind the wool, you know, Dot."

"Yes," assented the little one, with a proud air, "wasn't I dood, grandma?"

"And you so tired, too," went on grandma, ignoring her question.

"And so nervous," responded Dot.

"Yes, and you called me a 'zasperatin' old poke,'" gravely answered grandma, "and snapped the thread on purpose to make me give over the winding."

Dot opened wide her eyes.

"How did you know that?" she queried. "Now, don't say a 'little bird' told you, drandma, 'cause I'se tired to deaf hearin' that story."

"Never mind how I know, Dot. The fact remains that there were knots in my fair ball of wool, and knots, you know, can never be straightened out, never!"

Dot looked at her grandma reflectively.

"Didn't you ever make knots in your drandma's wool?" she asked, soberly.

"None but what I had to pay for," replied the old lady, suppressing a smile. "Knots are troublesome things, Dot, as you may find out before you are many days older."

Off to Sunday-school hied Dot the next morning, resplendent in new attire. Grandma smiled grimly when she returned with a perceptible limp in her gate.

"Somefin' is hurtin' my heel," she informed us at dinner, reluctantly.

"Your new shoes, I suppose," suggested her mother, "you had best take them off and put on your old ones."

But Dot demurred, and like her elders, sometimes, for vanity's sake, endured the torture the remainder of the day.

Grandma said never a word. Bedtime came, and with a sigh of relief Dot drew off her shoes.

"It's in my stockie," said she, after due examination; "there's two dreat big knots in the heel."

"Knots?" echoed grandma.

There was no stupidity about our bright Dot, and she understood all the meaning conveyed in grandma's tone and look at once.

"Knots of impatience, Dot," I could not refrain from saying, "for which you have suffered all day long."

"And undutifulness," added grandma, "and covert untruthfulness."

Dot turned the color of her stockings.

"You might have smooved 'em out," she said, carefully examining her blistered heel.

"Out of the wool, perhaps," answered grandma earnestly, "but not so easily the knots when formed in the skein of character, Dot."

Several days afterward grandma beckoned me to approach an open door. Within could be heard the voices of Dot, Willie and Rose. An altercation was evidently in progress concerning the destruction of a doll. In a rocking-chair sat Dot with a pair of grandma's spectacles upon her nose. Gravely she peered over them at the flushed face of Willie.

"Who broke Dolly's head?" she questioned.

"Rose!" answered he, promptly.

"Dear, dear," exclaimed Dot, bending forward, "such a snarl as you are dettin' the skein into, Willie!"

"What skein?" asked he sulkily.

"Did you or didn't you break Dolly's head?" she continued without answering his question.

"No, I didn't!" this very emphatically.

"'Nother knot in the skein," said Dot, imitating grandma's tone and manner to perfection, "'nother dreat big knot, my child, 'cause—'cause I saw you do it."

An impressive silence, broken only by Willie's sniffles.

"Keep on tellin' stories, Willie," gravely went on the little monitor, "and you'll det all tangled up like—like a skein of wool when you let your hands drop. Then comes knots, and knots never can be smooved out, never. They'll get knitted into your hide, my child, and—and div' you a heap of torment, I know," and pushing the spectacles back upon her head, Dot sank into a gentle reverie, so much like her grandma's that the smile died from our lips, and the dear old lady, as we tip-toed back to our room, said in trembling tones: "Heaven bless the child."

Same Place, but Different Persons.

Romantic Spinster—Excuse me, sir, but is not this the spot where that beautiful girl fell into the water last summer, and was so gallantly rescued by the gentleman who afterward married her?

Practical Bachelor (giving her a penetrating glance)—Yes, ma'am; but I can't swim.—Puck.

Orange Short Cake.—One cup of sugar, one tablespoon of butter rubbed in the sugar, three eggs, one full cup of flour, two tablespoons of cream; bake in jelly tins; spread with sliced oranges sprinkled with powdered sugar.

PEARLS OF THOUGHT.

The best wolf is the wolf that has never seen a sheep.

The fear of ridicule prevents more failures than ambition.

When woman remembers to be kind man forgets to be cross.

There is a time for man to laugh, but it is not when he sees his wife crying.

Man, with all his wisdom, never knows who is his best friend as well as a baby.

There are two ways of raising boys, but, judging from the men turned out, both ways are wrong.

The man who does not believe in friendship never deserves any. There are plenty of good friends in the world for those who deserve them.

The danger of admitting today that raisins are as good as plums in pudding is that you will say tomorrow that currants are as good as raisins.

In marriage one preaches economy and the other practices it, but no man and woman were ever able to agree as to who did the preaching and who the practicing.

We have always been hearing of men who did the best they could, but we should like to see one. The best man we ever knew mourned a good deal because of neglected opportunities.

The man of the present day who marries a girl with a calloused hand, with the hope that he will find a hard-working wife, too often wakes up to the fact that she is a lawn-tennis player.

Japanese Horticulture.

Japanese horticulture shows wonderful patience and a sort of ill-directed skill. The object of the Japanese uyekiya, like that of his Chinese brother, but in a greater degree, is to deform, maim and cripple nature, as we see especially in the dwarfing of trees and shrubs—nanization, as Dr. Rein somewhat pedantically terms the process, which consists mainly in starving the plant and crippling the circulation of its juices. Kaempfer is quoted as describing a trio he once saw in a small box 1½ inches broad, 4 inches long and 6 inches deep, for which the price of $500 was asked. The three denizens of the box were a bamboo, a blossoming plum tree, and a pine tree, perfectly formed, but in piccolo.—Athenæum.

A New Rain Theory.

A curious theory has been advanced that from the steam given out by the enormous number of locomotives and stationary engines is derived the water which, formed into clouds, causes the excessive amount of rainfall and storms that have lately prevailed. The Northwestern Railroader is responsible for this theory. The Railroader calculates that from steam engines alone 470,000,000,000 cubic yards of steam are sent forth each week, enough it thinks, to give a moderate rainfall every twenty-four hours.

The Quintessence of Sycophancy.

An Eastern potentate once asked a group of his courtiers whom they thought the greatest man, himself or his father. At first he could elicit no reply to so dangerous a question. At last a wily old courtier said: "Your father, sire; for, though you are equal to your father in all other respects, in this he is superior to you—that he had a greater son than any you have." He was promoted on the spot.—Argonaut.

Four Geographical Points.

The most eastern point of the United States is Quoddy Head, Me.; the most northern point is Point Barrows, Alaska; the most western is Alton Island, and the most southern Key West. Working from these four points, many will be surprised when they locate the geographical center of the United States.—Chicago Times.

Innishmacsaint Lace.

The Innishmacsaint lace comes from a region in Ireland interesting, not only from the loveliness of the scenery about the upper and lower lakes of Lough Erne, that splendid northern rival of glorious Killarney to Kerry, but also from the singular beauty of the maidens and mothers who dwell and labor amid these mountains, vales, glens, and upon these transcendent shores. Innishmacsaint itself is a dainty island half a mile from shore in upper Lough Erne. A famous abbey was founded there in the sixth century by St. Nenn or Nernid of the royal blood of Ireland. The saint's bell, ornamented with gold and silver, is still preserved there as a sacred and precious relic. The parish, partly in County Donegal and partly in Fermanagh, derives its name from the island of ruins, and the entire peasantry of this wild and beautiful region in manner and dress, strikingly remind one of the picturesque folk of the Tyrol. Nearly every family has a member who is a lace-maker; and without organization, technical instruction, or any attention whatever to preserving or developing artistic effort, these blue-eyed, black-haired, red-lipped women produce marvels in point lace as wonderful as were ever known in point d'Alencon. I found one worker who had been employed more than five months upon one handkerchief. She said two months more would be required to complete it. "What will you get for it?" I inquired. "Faith, an' I'm thinkin' a pound ($5) it'll bring." "And what will you do then?" I asked again. "Go to America, plase God!" was the reply. And yet the rich Belfast lace dealers showed me handkerchiefs by no means as rich and delicate, for which they easily got $150 each.

An Ancient Church Organ.

The oldest organ in the United States is said to be in St. John's church, Portsmouth, N. H. It was imported by Thomas Brattle in 1713 and presented to the society worshipping at King's Chapel by him. There was such a prejudice existing against setting it up that the cases containing its parts remained unopened for seven months, after which time the organ was in use until 1756, when it was sold to St. Paul's church, Newburyport. In 1836 St. John's church, Portsmouth, N. H., became the owner, paying $450 for the instrument. A new case was provided, the old pipes and the wind chest being found in perfect order. There the organ is today, doing service in the vestry where the veteran is regarded with the tenderest solicitude.

Erratic Courses of Bullets.

Bullets have been known to flatten round a bone as if the bone, having been broken, had been thus joined with the pliant lead. In another curious case, a bullet went exactly six times in and out of a skirmisher's body without doing him any serious harm. Kneeling when firing the ball had passed first in and out of one arm, had traversed the ribs, entering one side and making its exit at the other, and finished its erratic course by entering and finally taking its departure from the other arm of that curiously perforated soldier. Another bullet passed through thick plate-glass and smashing against a wall, flew into particles, bespattering a man's face without seriously injuring him; while the instance of a little child, who, endeavoring to stop, in her childish playfulness, what turned out to be a spent cannon-ball, which danced like a plaything before her, and who was crushed to death by its falling on her as she ran forward to catch it, is still fresh in the memory.—Argonaut.

Undoubtedly Honest.

"I see in the dictionary that honest means chaste."

"Then Browne must be honest. He was chased all the way to Canada by the police."—Bazar.

THE LABOR WORLD.

Detroit is getting to be a great shoe town.

The last of the Western iron mills have signed the scale.

At San Francisco union cooks and waiters get $2.50 per day.

Several large iron works are to be built on the Pacific coast.

Five large iron corporations have advanced wages lately.

Farmers' unions, with 1,500,000 members, took of amalgamating.

London cabmen collectively earn about $11,250,000 per annum.

The Iron Moulders' Union of North America is thirty years old.

A San Francisco cable company has raised wages to $2.50 per day.

The Pennsylvania Railroad has in its relief association treasury $170,700.

It takes 300 men to harvest the wheat crop of one ranch in Colusa County, Cal.

The iron-workers in South Wales have demanded a ten per cent. increase in wages.

A great coal strike was recently averted in England by a majority of one vote against it.

New England factory operatives worked from 4:30 A. M. to 7:45 P. M., thirty years ago.

One of the growing industries of San Diego County, Cal., is the manufacture of asbestos goods.

None under sixteen can work in Belgium without obtaining a physician's certificate of fitness.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company is taking steps to pension its superannuated employes.

The National Association of Stationary Engineers has 185 branches, with 10,000 members.

The Sultan of Turkey has a small electric railway, constructed entirely by native workmen.

Within a short time there has been some important labor legislation in Belgium, Holland and Germany.

There is a general revolt against the leaders of the trade unions in England opposed to an eight-hour law.

In Glasgow, Scotland, there are more factories to the square mile than in any other city in the United Kingdom.

English moulders work nine hours, and their average life is fifty-one years. In Ohio they work ten and die at forty.

Michigan has a ten hour law for women and those under eighteen. An hour for dinner makes the day nine hours long.

In Belgium there is now a law for the establishment of councils of industry or arbitration boards, in which trade disputes may be settled.

The Reading (Penn.) Railroad officials are about to place an order for 1500 hopper gondola cars of sixty thousand pounds capacity for use in the coal trade.

A war is being carried on in St. Louis between the laundry girls and the Chinese laundrymen. Parades are being held to arouse sympathy for the women.

North Dakota was the first State, as a State, to make provision of a system of manual training. Forty thousand acres of land are set apart for that purpose.

As the result of mining by electricity, it has been proved that ten men can accomplish with the electrical drill what it requires 100 men to do with other methods.

The shoe salesmen of New York city are organized to the number of 600. The work of organizing more thoroughly has been begun and a federation will be formed.

No one in Great Britain under eighteen, and no woman of any age, can work more than sixty hours a week in factory or store, and only fifty-six and a half hours in textile factories.

In Germany, the law enacted by the Reichstag for pensioning aged and infirm workmen provides for assessing the wages of labor and the incomes of employers to raise a fund for this purpose.

Mrs. Gill, of Mulberry street, is the only woman shoemaker in New York city. She made a pair of shoes before she was fourteen years old, and has worked at the cobbler's bench for the last ten years.

Many farmers in the north of Ireland grow tired of farming, sell out and start grocery stores in the towns and cities. Of late numbers of them are emigrating to America with the object of starting stores in Western cities.

The percentage of wages paid for food by American workingmen, as shown by a recent return from various countries, is much less than is paid by the workmen of either Germany, Spain, Great Britain, France, Italy or Belgium.

Hatched By a Partridge.

The Irwinton (Ga.) Appeal says that while Mr. S. J. Fountain, who lives in Bethel district, was out walking over his plantation, about two hundred yards from his home in the woods, he was surprised to find a hen's nest containing four eggs and a male partridge hovering over them as the hen would do that laid them. He left the bird unmolested, and the next morning about the hour of ten, joined by a number of friends, he returned and the bird had snugly concealed under its wings three chickens, and the fourth egg being thoroughly pipped. When removed from the nest, the bird made its exit to a branch near by, the three chickens following it. A few days afterwards Mr. Fountain returned for the purpose of carrying the bird and chickens back with him, but when they were found, a huge snake that they had run in contact with had ate two of them, and but for the presence of Mr. F., the third one would have been devoured. Mr. F. killed the snake and caught the remaining chicken, and tried to get the bird, but failed to do so.

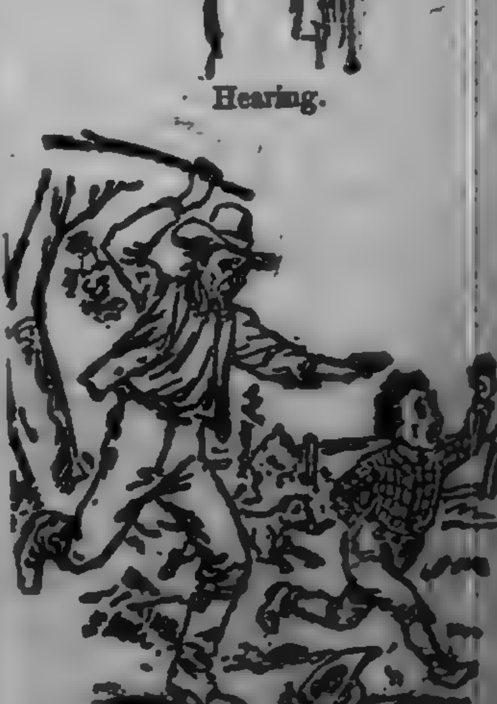
The Five Senses.

Taste.

Smell.

Sight.

Hearing.



Touch.

—New York Herald.

The investment of foreign capital in American industries is increasing at a rapid rate. Aside from the $50,000,000 or more which English capitalists are reported as having expended in the purchase of breweries in the leading cities, many millions of English capital have been used to establish and develop entirely new enterprises—for instance, to open mines, build railroads, construct iron furnaces and steel works, buy out cattle ranches, develop timber resources and so on ad [illegible]. Some of these investments have been very heavy; in the vicinity of Cumberland Gap, on the line between southeastern Kentucky and east Tennessee, $4,000,000 has already been spent by the [illegible] Association, limited, of London, in developing an iron, steel and railroad [illegible] and $1,000,000 additional [illegible] for the [illegible] the work. [illegible]

CHILTON VIEW.
Published Every Thursday Morning.
CLANTON, ALA., SEP. 12, 1889.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year	$1.50
One copy six months	75
One copy four "	50

It is about time for the Age-Herald to give us another dissertation on the race problem.

Fannie Bryant has been convicted as an accessory in the Hawes murders, and sentenced to life imprisonment. Hawes says she got off light.

A concise prayer, said to have been offered by an "earnest" New England deacon was as follows: "Lord, give us grace to know thy will and grit to do it."

The most exaggerated accounts of a race war in Bibb county, Ala., have appeared in the northern press. It all originated in the yarn of our over-excited and rather too enterprising Birmingham contemporary.

A convention of the Greenback party of Alabama, numbering about fifty of the true and tried lovers of "greenbacks," was held in Birmingham last week. J. A. Logan was in the convention from Chilton. What the party proposes to do is something unknown.

Cotton is now commanding good prices, and the figures are such as to induce the bringing of the staple to market. The Advertiser does not believe that any true friend of the planter will advise the holding back of his product now, when the chances are that in the near future the prices will materially decline. Our advice is to get good prices while you can.—Advertiser.

The Ala. Baptist compliments the VIEW because it has refused to advertise lotteries and breweries. We cannot deserve compliments for shunning what we know would be evil for ourselves and our readers, and which we cannot, as a churchman, recommend. When we can no longer make a living and keep a clear conscience we can ask to be provided for as a pauper. Just now we are getting along very well.

A blood red card with the word "when" printed on it, and circulated extensively at Calera was thought to be the ominous sign of a race riot until it was finally discovered to be a cigar advertisement. Most of the reported race troubles rest on about the same kind of an insecure foundation. The trouble at Blocton is found to have had no better foundation than the meeting of a Masonic lodge in the woods, because there was no house suitable for holding the meeting.—Ex.

Here is a good bear story from the Alta California. "A big grizzly bear started to walk around a pine tree and caught up with his own hind-quarters. Thinking they belonged to another bear, he opened war on his own rear with tooth and toenail. When he felt himself clawing himsely he thought, of course, that it was the other bear, then he chawed the harder. He never discovered his mistake until he had swallowed himself clear down to his ears, and then it was too late to retreat."

An east Alabama exchange makes a point against Col. Thos. G. Jones as a candidate for governor in the fact that the masses of people are prejudiced against a railroad attorney for such a high position. This prejudice we believe to exist whether reasonable or not. In this particular case we think it is unreasonable, since Col. Jones is attorney for a corporation (the L. & N. R. R.) that has done more for the growth and development of the State than any other agency that we know anything about. Yet this may militate against Col. Jones.

THE SOUTHERN EXPOSITION.

Brethren of the Chilton Co. Alliance:

The Southern Exposition to be held at Montgomery from November 5th to 15th, 1889, promises to be the grandest affair of the kind ever known in the South. It does not in any way conflict with the State Fair at Birmingham, as it begins three days after the State fair closes.

Your attention is especially directed to the handsome premiums for field crops grown by the members of any local Alliance, Grange, or club, on page 25 of Premium List.

Copies of said Premium List can be had at the Probate Office of your county, or by addressing the undersigned at the Alliance Exchange in this city. Montgomery is naturally the centre and headquarters of the agricultural interests of Alabama, and we trust you will attend the Exposition and compete for the handsome premiums for field crops.

No charge is made for space for exhibitions. New and unusual attractions too numerous to specify in detail will assure a large attendence, not only from Alabama and adjoining States, but also from the North and West.

The most favorable rates possible will be secured on all railroads, and local excursions will be run out from Montgomery to the Agricultural, timber and mineral regions for the accommodation of Northern visitors.

Held at the first capital of the Confedracy, in the very heart of the Gulf States, and at the seat of government of Alabama, the most progressive State of this section, the Southern Exposition can not fail to be superior and successful in its exhibits and attractions. Your co-operation and personal interests in this enterprise are respectfully solicited, and we hope you will attend and make an exhibit, one or both.

Yours Fraternally.
JNO. S. BIRD, President,
GEO. F. GAITHER, Secretary,
Alliance Exchange.

A CRIME TO GET DRUNK.

Minnesota's New Law Regulating the Drink Habit.

ST. PAUL, Aug. 20.— The first experiment in any non-prohibition state of making drunkeness a crime has now been in effect two months in Minnesota. The act know as the "Scheffer law," because introduced in the last legislature and championed by Senator Albert Scheffer, went into effect, June 1st, and makes it compulsory upon the police magistrate to impose the penalty of thirty days' imprisonment upon any one found guilty of drunkenness the third time.

While the law of Maine is much more rigid regarding drunkenness, Minnesota is supposed to be the first state to impose such severe penalties on the drinker of liquor the end of the law being usually to punish the seller. For the reason the result of the law is of great importance its champions in the legislature claimed it would materially reduce the number of cases of drunkenness.

During the last months of June and July, 1888, the number of prisoners arrainged at the bar of the municipal court for drunkenness, or for drunk and disorderly combined was 225 for June and 259 for July a total of 484. During the same months of this year, since the Scheffer law has been in effect, the total number of such cases in the same court was 446, there being 199 in June and 247 in July. These figures show a decrease of thirty-eight cases as compared with last year, and whether this is a direct result of the Scheffer law or simply accident of time, certain it is that the admirers of the law earnestly claim the former. For the past few years the Prohibitionists of Minnesota have been very active, but the only result of the statute books is the high license law, $1,000 in large cities and $200 in towns, which was enacted by the Republicans as a counter irritant.

While Senator Scheffer is by no means a prohibitionist, being a champion of German liberality as regards drinking liquor, yet the prohibitionists were highly pleased at the stand he took in procuring the enactment of the new law He says that while he has no objections to anyone drinking liquor he thinks it an offense to public morals and decency for one to be seen intoxicated; and for this reason he sanctioned the new law. Judge Burr, who presides in the court having jurisdiction in this class of cases, is becoming impressed with the idea the Scheffer law is a good one and acts as a deterrent in many cases. He explains that there are plenty of men who do not fear a trial in the municipal court, where they give false names and make light of a fine for drunkenness, but shudder at the idea of the penalty attached to the third offense—imprisonment in the workhouse for thirty days. Thus far only two cases of the offense have been before Judge Burr, although unless the parties are well known, it is easy to evade the law by giving fictitious names.

Commissioner Kolb has returned from a trip to Atlanta and Washington.

Jemison Locals.

(Written for last issue.)

Jemison High School, with Prof. Ruffin as principal and Miss Kate Sherrill as assistant, opened this morning under the most favorable auspices. Quite a number of the patrons and friends of the school were present at the opening seventy pupils were present and matriculated, several of whom were from other portions of the State. The number enrolled will increase largely during the month. Jemison is justly proud of her school and with such an able principal and assistant, its high moral and literary standard is assured.

Mr. J. M. Hand has sold out his interest in the business of the Jemison Lumber Co.

Mr. L. J. Hand is building a nice two-story house in south Jemison, and will remove his family from Pine Hill to this place at an early day.

Mrs. Mollie Allen and Miss Minnie Wells have returned to Jemison after a protracted visit to Six Mile and other places.

Mrs. I. C. Caftey and daughter, Miss Mary of Marion have been visiting relatives in Jemison.

Miss Lilla Ward, a charming young lady of Six Mile, is lending her smiles to our village.

Dr. Woolley of Randolph, paid our town a visit today.

Mr. I. N. Langston has taken in Mr. Latham as a partner, and the style of the firm is now I. N. Langston & Co. X. Y. Z.

Too True.

The more a newspaper man exerts his ability to please a whimpering public, the more good he does for a town, the more charitable he becomes, the more he is criticised. Speaking of this, a writer has said: "The man who can run a newspaper without being criticised, censured and threatened, is yet to be found. He is a barren ideality, beautiful to think about, but incapable of taking on mortality and associating with vulgar humanity. It is as impossible for him to please everybody as it is for everybody to please him and the sooner he makes up his mind to this stubborn fact, the better for everybody concerned, If he works hard for public good, he receives private censure; if he compliments merit, he is censured by jealous demerits; if he approves morality, he is cursed by imorality; if he tries to be fair, he is censured by the unfair; if he makes a mistake, few are found to overlook it or apologize for him. No matter how good his motive may be, how innocent his purpose, or unsullied his writings, he is picked to pieces misrepresented, maligned, ridiculed, sometimes licked, and seldom ever defended. He works from twelve to fifteen hours a day for a bare living, while other men get rich around him. He works up a marriage notice many yards long to the queen's taste for nothing, and is threatened with a libel suit or a duel if he records a drunken spree of the groom six months afterwards. Yes, it is impossible, we repeat, for a newspaper man to please everybody. You might as well attempt to chain the wind or stop the furious lightning.

Talking about supporting party nominees, the Eufaula Times says: The Age-Herald may support democratic nominees always, and just because they are such but this paper won't do it, and we don't care who knows it. The Times is fierce in its democracy, but when its support is expected for a nominee who happens to be unfit for the office, we caution the public that we may not meet its expectations. The Times is for democracy and honest men in public places.

Swift's Specific has saved me years of untold misery by relieving a partial paralysis in my left side. This was after I had been treated by the best physicians in St. Louis and Chicago. The trouble was caused by some derangement of my blood, which has been corrected by S. S. S.

T. A. Sheppart, Sherman, Tex.

It would appear from the following, in the West Alabama Breeze, that sand is of the "jumping kind" about Northport, Ala: "The other day a gentleman of Northport took a pan and went out to get some sand to put into a bird cage. He filled the pan up from a place where hogs had previously had a bed, and started home with it. When the fleas had all hopped out of the pan there was nothing left but the pan."

When a young Christian continually wants to know why it is wrong for him to do this and that doubtful thing, and if it may not be all right in case his conscience approves, I am sure it will end by his doing all of the desired things right or wrong, conscience or no. Moths play around the light until they get fatally burnt.

When a man tells me that he is an infidel and then asks me for a dollar to save him from starvation, I answer by recommending him to the charitable organizations founded and maintained by infidels. And when he replies, in bewilderment, that he does not know of any I assure him that he has uttered one of the strongest arguments against infidelity and for Christianity.

A Decatur special to the Montgomery Advertiser says: "Major C. H. Albes, proprietor of the Hotel Bismarck, has been experimenting with the culture of jute, which may afford a solution of the much mooted bagging question. The 3rd of June, after gathering a crop of peas, he planted some jute on the same ground. The stalks are now eight feet high and still growing. It requires good fertile ground but less cultivation than cotton.

BEWARE! BE PRUDENT!

When the proprietors of a blood remedy tell you that iodide of potash is a poison simply because their opponents use it, their assertions are made to deceive, and your use of 100 bottles of inert stuff their object. Iodide of potash is as essential to a true blood remedy, as pure blood is essential to good health. No remedy has proven itself so safe, sure and quick an eradicator of mercurial, syphilitic, scrofulous, malarial or other poison, foreign to health, that gets into bone and blood, when all else fails as B. B. B. Send to Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga., for illustrated "Book of Wonders," filled with convincing proof of QUICK CURES of seemingly incurable cases.

QUICK CURE

A. F. Britton, Jackson, Tenn., writes: "I contracted malaria in the swamps of Louisiana while working for the telegraph company, and used every kind of medicine I could hear of without relief. I at last succeeded in breaking the fever but it cost me over $100.00, and then my system was prostrated and saturated with poison and I became almost helpless. I finally came here, my mouth so filled with sores that I could scarcely eat, and my tongue raw and filled with little knots. Various remedies were resorted to without effect. I bought two bottles of B. B. B. and it has cured and strengthened me. All sores of my mouth are healed and my tongue entirely clear of knots and soreness, and I feel like a new man."

POISON

R. R. Saulter, Athens, Ga., writes: "I have been afflicted with Catarrh for many years, although all sorts of medicines and several doctors did their best to cure me. My blood was very impure, and nothing ever had any effect upon the disease until I used that great Blood Remedy known as B. B. B., a few bottles of which effected an entire cure. I recommend it to all who have Catarrh. I refer to any merchant or banker of Athens, Ga., and will reply to any inquiries."

CATARRH

Benj. Morris, Atlanta, Ga., writes: "I had no appetite, my kidneys felt sore, my throat was ulcerated and my breast a mass of running sores. Seven bottles of B. B. B., entirely cured me." (7)

SORE TONSILS

[sep27 cw 1y]

NOTICE NO. 9049.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala. }
August 22d, 1889. }

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 5th, 1889, viz: Calvin Hall, Homestead entry 15640, for the n ½ of n w ¼ sec 26, tp 21 n, r 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Ambrose Kiener, Daniel Scoggins, William S. Lawrence, Jeffie J. Scoggins, all of Maplesville, Ala.

aug29o J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 9047.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., }
Aug. 22, 1889. }

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit at Clanton, Ala., on October 5th, 1889, viz: William S. Lawrence, Homestead entry 14698 for the s e ¼ of n w ¼ sec 2, tp 21 n, range 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Ambrose Kiener, Jeffie J. Scoggs, Calvin Hall, and Daniel Scoggins, all of Maplesville, Ala.

aug29o J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 9048.

U. S. Land Office, }
Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 22, 1889. }

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 5th, 1889, viz: Ambrose Kiener, Homestead entry No. 16880 for the n w ¼ of n e ¼ sec 14 tp 21 n, range 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: William S. Lawrence, Calvin Hall, Daniel Scoggins and Jeffie J. Scoggings, all of Maplesville, Ala.

aug29o J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 9068.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 27, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 4th, 1889, viz: William E. Culp, Homestead 14722 for the s ½ of n e ¼ and e ½ of s e ¼ sec 18 t 21 n r 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Albert Headley, Willis Barber, Ira Headley, Dan Barber, all of Clanton, Ala.

aug29 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

Bring your job printing to this office.

Catarrh

Is a blood disease. Until the poison is expelled from the system, there can be no cure for this loathsome and dangerous malady. Therefore, the only effective treatment is a thorough course of Ayer's Sarsaparilla — the best of all blood purifiers. The sooner you begin the better; delay is dangerous.

"I was troubled with catarrh for over two years. I tried various remedies, and was treated by a number of physicians, but received no benefit until I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. A few bottles of this medicine cured me of this troublesome complaint and completely restored my health."—Jesse M. Boggs, Holman's Mills, N. C.

"When Ayer's Sarsaparilla was recommended to me for catarrh, I was inclined to doubt its efficacy. Having tried so many remedies, with little benefit, I had no faith that anything would cure me. I became emaciated from loss of appetite and impaired digestion. I had nearly lost the sense of smell, and my system was badly deranged. I was about discouraged, when a friend urged me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and referred me to persons whom it had cured of catarrh. After taking half a dozen bottles of this medicine, I am convinced that the only sure way of treating this obstinate disease is through the blood."—Charles H. Maloney, 113 River st., Lowell, Mass.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

PREPARED BY
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Price $1; six bottles, $5. Worth $5 a bottle.

tma16

DRS. STARKEY AND PALEN'S
TREATMENT BY INHALATION
TRADE MARK REGISTERED.
DRS. STARKEY AND PALEN
COMPOUND OXYGEN
NOT A DRUG
1529 Arch Street, Philad'a, Pa.

For Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Hay Fever, Debility, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and all Chronic and Nervous Disorders.

Drs. Starkey & Palen's office records show over 50,000 cases in which their Compound Oxygen Treatment has been used by physicians in their practice, and by invalids independently. Over 1000 physicians and more than 49,000 invalids.

Drs. Starkey & Palen have the liberty to refer to the following named well-known persons who have tried their Treatment:

Rev. O. A. Darby, Columbia, S. C.
Col. T. B. Crews, editor Herald, Laurens, S. C.
Rev. John L. Gerardeau, Columbia, S. C.
Rev. Sidi H. Browne, editor Christian Neighbor, Columbia, S. C.
Rev. H. F. Chreitzburg, Chester, S. C.
Mrs. Wm. H. Johnstone, Tarboro, N.C.
Rev. S. P. Richardson, Athens, Ga.
John J. Mason, M. D., Columbus, Ga.
Rev. W. F. Cook, D. D. Augusta, Ga.
Mrs. Ella R. Tennent, Home Magazine, Marietta, Ga.
Rev. T. R. Kendall, Macon, Ga.
Rev. W. A. Candler, President Emory College, Oxford, Ga.
W. H. Lawrence, Editor Chilton View, Clanton, Ala.
Rev. Henry D. Moore, Montgomery, Ala.

Would you like to know whom it has cured, where these restored and vitalized people live and what were the diseases removed? Return mail will bring you a brochure of 200 pages containing these points if you will drop a postal to

Drs. STARKEY & PALEN,
1529 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
Or Mrs. A. W. MOORE, Camden, S. C.

Administratrix's Sale.

By virtue of an order of sale granted by the Probate Court of Chilton county, State of Alabama, the undersigned Administratrix of the estate of M. C. McRee, deceased, will proceed to sell at the Court House door in Clanton, Alabama at public outcry to the highest bidder for cash, on Monday, the 7th day of October, 1889, the real estate—including the widow's dower interest therein—belonging to the estate of said M. C. McRee, deceased, to-wit: South East Fourth of Block No. Fifteen, East of the South and North Alabama Railroad, in the town of Clanton, Alabama, together with all the buildings and appurtenances thereto belonging. Said lot running 140 feet East and West and 150 feet North and South: And that lot of land in the town of Clanton, Ala., described as follows, to-wit: Twenty-five (25) feet fronting street from Court House to South and North Alabama Railroad tracks and running one hundred and fifty feet back in a northerly direction and being in the western part of lots No. 10 and 15 in Block No. 7 East of the S. and N. Railroad, together with the Store House situated thereon.

ANN JANE McREE,
Administratrix.
Clanton, Ala., Aug. 29th, 1889.

Jemison High School.

:o:

Good House, Well Furnished, Healthful Locality, Dry Sandy Roads, Good Board Cheap, Tuition Low, Maps, Globes, Charts, etc., Moral Community, Three Churches, No Whisky, Well Trained Teachers, Fine Success, Teachers Re-elected without a Dissenting Voice. Session opens Sept. 2d, 1889.

Apply to J. L. RUFFIN, JR.,
aug29 Principal.

Legal Notice.

W. M. Moore vs. G. H. Fisher. Attachment before A. A. Dyer, a Notary Public and ex-officio Justice of the Peace for Chilton County, Alabama.

The defendant in the above stated case, whose residence is not known will take notice that an attachment has been issued in said case and levied upon one ox the property of defendant, and that the trial of said case will be had before me at my office in Stanton, Ala., on the 12th day of October, 1889.

This September 7th, 1889.

A. A. DYER,
sep12-4 N. P. & Ex-Officio J. P.

Barber Shop.

Mr. H. A. Logan, who has his barber shop in the Farmer's Alliance Building, solicits the patronage of the good people of Clanton. He does good work and is well fixed up for the business.

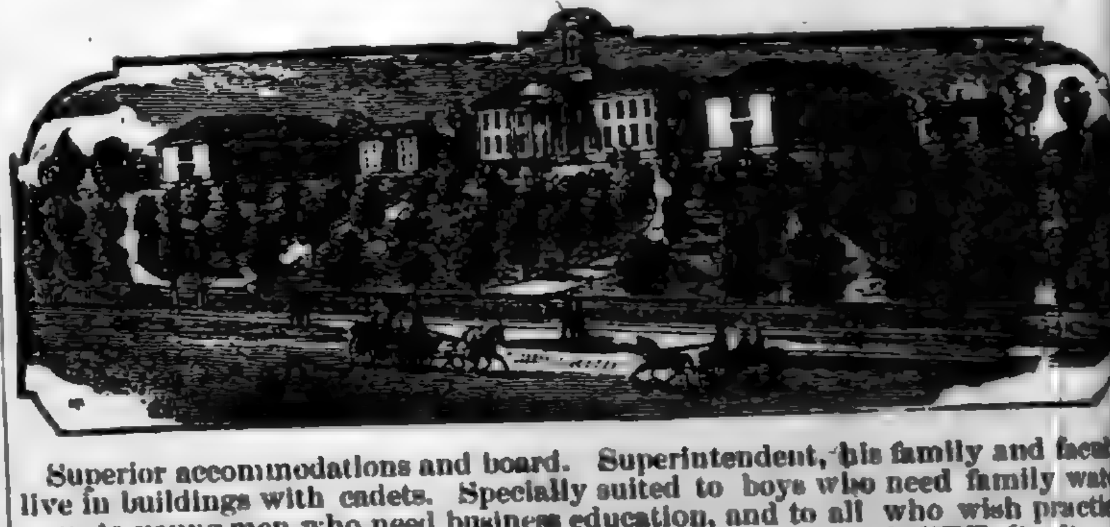
The Lawson Carpet Co.
Birmingham, Ala.
Take pleasure in directing the attention of the people of Chilton county to their large and attractive stock of
Carpets, Oil-cloths, Window Shades,
Curtains & Household Novelties.

The Stock represented is the finest in Alabama, and prices are guaranteed as low as similar goods are offered in any of the eastern markets.

☞ All communications answered by return mail. Respectfully,
ma30-y THE LAWSON CARPET CO. (WM. LAWSON.)

BAINS & PORTER.
(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & PEEBLES.)
WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.
Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.
FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY.
1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS
Birmingham, Ala.
☞ Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜
P. O. BOX 570. June 19 y

Marion Military Institute.



Superior accommodations and board. Superintendent, his family and faculty live in buildings with cadets. Specially suited to boys who need family watch care, to young men who need business education, and to all who wish practical and thorough training. Terms moderate.
J. T. MURFEE, Sup't.,
Marion, Alabama.

THOMAS FOSHEE,
(SUCCESSOR TO N. W. FOSHEE,)
—DEALER IN—
Dry Goods, Groceries
—AND—
GENERAL MERCHANDISE.
Maplesville, Alabama.

I solicit a continuance of the liberal patronage heretofore extended our house. Respectfully,
feb 28-y THOMAS FOSHEE.

The Largest and Cheapest Furniture Store
IN THE STATE.
New Stock is arriving daily, and Oh, what Styles and Assortments. You have never seen such a Beautiful and Artistic Stock in Montgomery Before and CHEAP, Something Wonderful. I am Agent for the Grand Rapids School Furniture Company, the Best Manufactured School Desk in the United States. Any one Contemplating Refurnishing School will save money and get the Best Desk Made by —CALLING ON ME—
B. WOLFF,
20 and 22 Commerce and Corner Court and Coosa Streets.
sep12 6 —MONTGOMERY, ALA.—

WALL PAPER,

WINDOW SHADES,
MOULDINGS,
—AND—
PRACTICAL PAPER HANG
H. M. MANCHA,
204 DEXTER AVENUE, MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA.
☞ Papers furnished at any price from 10 cents up. Will samples on application.
apr 11-y

BIRMINGHAM MARBLE WORKS.
THOS. H. HOLT,
PRACTICAL WORKMAN
—AND DEALER IN—
American and Italian Marbl
—Manufacturer of all kinds of—
CEMETERY MARBLE AND STONE WO
Cor. Second Avenue and Twenty-Fourth Street,
Birmingham, Alaba

GO TO BLANK BROS, LEADING CLOTHIERS, 2112 SECOND AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA ttention of eir large f Shades,

et Co.

ovelties.

s are guaranteed as e. pectfully,
(Wm. Lawson.)

ER.
S.)
STS. e Prompt At-SPECIALTY,
n STREETS
a.
's Prices.
June 19 y

itute.

his family and faculty ho need family watch ll who wish practical
MURFEE, Sup't.,
Marion, Alabama.

HEE,
E.)
eries ANDISE.
ama.
ronage heretofore
MAS FOSHEE.

rniture Store
TE.
Assortments. You hav ontgomery Before and r the Grand Rapids
ured School Desk
g Refurnishing
Desk Made by F,
Coosa Streets.

PER.
DOW SHADES,
ULDINGS,
—AND—CAL PAPER HANG
HA,
RY, ALABAMA.
0 cents up. Will apr 11-y

E WORKS.
OLT, RKMAN an Marble
of—
STONE WO
Fourth Street,
Alaba

CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., SEPT. 12, 1889.

The View is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the vicious, the immoral or the ungodly, but will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

A cross mark (X) after your name means that your subscription is due and that we would be glad to have you renew.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the second Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—On the eleventh Monday after the fourth Monday in February, and on the thirteenth Monday after the fourth Monday in August, and may continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD. Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.
No. 1 Express at	5:55 a. m.
No. 3 Mail	5:37 p. m.
No. 5 (Passenger)	6:17 p. m.
No. 9 Accommodation	7:08 a. m.
GOING NORTH.
No. 2 Fast (Don't Stop)	2:20 a. m.
No. 6 Mail	9:16 a. m.
No. 4 Express	7:55 p. m.
No. 10 Accommodation	7:22 p. m.

LOCAL LACONICS.

Miss Sankey Butler has returned to Florida.

Col. R. M. Williamson went to Wetumpka Monday.

Mrs. W. A. Collier visited Montgomery this week,

Mr. S. T. Nelson has moved into the old Marsh house.

Durword Foshee visited friends in Birmingham last week.

Mr. P. D. Wilson is back in business with his brother in Clanton.

Mr. T. H. Watts, of Montgomery, was in Clanton on business Monday.

Sumner Ashley, of Birmingham, has been visiting his parents in Clanton.

Mr. Buist Bivings, of Montgomery, is visiting friends and relatives in Clanton.

Mr. B. H. Chestnut has secured a position with D. A. Childs & Co. of Birmingham.

Miss Lucile Butler left for Huntsville last week to resume her school.

The public road leading to Verbena, is in a bad condition near Goose Pond Creek.

Miss Kate Campbell, of Montgomery, visited Mr. W. A. Collier's family this week.

Mr. Andrew Watts and daughter, of Lowndes county, have been visiting relatives in Clanton.

That jovial old farmer, Mr. R. S. Owen, of Kincheon, was in town selling cotton on Tuesday.

The Misses Collier, of Troy, have returned home after a pleasant visit to relatives in Clanton,

A Nashville drummer, Mr. Frank French, died at Verbena Saturday night of congestion of the bowels.

Mrs. John Sampey, who has been visiting relatives here left for Birmingham last Saturday to visit her aunt.

Unity Baptist Association meets at Stanton this year. We believe the date is Friday, before the fifth Sunday in September.

The Clanton postoffice has been removed to the Garner store near the depot. The postmaster proposes to put in a new lot of lock boxes soon,

If you could see your own scalp through an ordinary magnifying glass, you would be amazed at the amount of dust, dandruff, and dead-skin thereon accumulated. The best and most popular preparation for cleansing the scalp is Ayer's Hair Vigor.

With a feeble appetite and imperfect digestion it is impossible for the body to secure the requisite amount of nourishment. Ayer's Sarsaparilla not only stimulates the desire for food, but aids the assimilative organs in the formation of good blood and sound tissue.

New Goods.

W. L. Sampey has been receiving some very nice goods lately and the prices are very reasonable Shoes are crowded and need to be sold to get them out of the way. Some nice saddles are priced at very low figures. A few suits of Spring clothing will be sold at cost to make them go. Lots of little things have been added to the stock.

Clanton, Aug. 14. 1889.

Mr. J. F. McCary, of Birmingham, was in town Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Frye, of Verbena, visited Clanton this week.

Mr. Wm. Walker, Jr., of Maplesville, called to see us last week.

Mr. Jim Puckett has moved to Clanton and occupies the Chestnut house near the courthouse.

Miss Nona Thorington after a pleasant visit to relatives here has returned to her home in Montgomery.

Rev. T. H. Prim, of this county was in town last week. He will shortly go to Indian Territory in mission work.

The program of the teachers institute to be held at Verbena Sept. 27th and 28th is published in another column.

The party who delivered a sermon at this place one night last week is pronounced a fraud by the Ala. Christian Advocate.

A call for a meeting of the Confederate veterans of Chilton county to be held at Clanton on Saturday Sept. 28th, will be published next week.

John Edwards, a white man, was arrested in the western part of the county on Tuesday by Sheriff Hayes and brought to Clanton and jailed on a charge of perjury.

Read the announcement elsewhere of the re-opening of Pleasant Grove Academy. Prof. Hicks. the worthy principal, is county Superintendent of education for our county, and any commendation from us would be superfluous.

Herman Herzfeld, the Birmingham furniture dealer, solicits the patronage of the people of this section through our columns. From this house you can obtain anything needed in house-furnishing goods from the finest to the cheapest.

The Nashville American, of a recent date says:

> Miss Samuella Russell, of South Vine Street, will leave to-morrow for Helena, Ala., where she will visit the family of Prof. J. L. Ruffin. After spending a few days in Helena, she and Prof. Ruffin, will go to Jemison, where she will enter the Jemison High School, of which Prof. Ruffin is principal.

J. S. Edwards has taken charge of the Clanton postoffice under the Bennie Harrison and Alex. Wilson administration. This has afforded him an opportunity to "show his colors" and get squarely into the Radical camp, where it is well known by the Democrats of the county he really belongs. He promises to make a good postmaster, and, barring his politics and lack of gallantry, we can see no reason why he should not. If we must have a Republican postmaster, we think the new incumbent will fill the office as well as could be expected under such circumstances.

Abstract of Assessment.

An abstract of assessment showing the value of taxable property in Chilton county has been made out by the Probate Judge. It makes the following showing: No. of acres of land 402,066, valued at $535,302. Town property is valued at $126,117. The Board of Revenue increased the valuation to the amount of $20,955. Making a total of $682,374, as the value of real estate in Chilton county. The total value of personal, railroad and telegraph property is $1,343,431.52; making the total value of the taxable property of the county $2,025,805.52. The abstract of assessment for 1888 showed a total of $1,942,473; and the abstract for 1889 thus shows an increase of $83,332.52 in the taxable values of the county during the past year.

Catarrh Can't be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATION, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease and in order to cure it you have to take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucus surface. Hall's Catarrh Cure is no quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucus surface. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing catarrh. Send for testimonials free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO.,
Prop., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, price 75c.

Mr. John King, of Jackson, Miss., says that he was cured of rheumatism in his feet and legs by taking Swift's Specific. This was after he had tried many other remedies, both internal and external and paid many doctor's bills.

HERMAN HERZFELD,

—DEALER IN—

All Kinds of Furniture at all Prices.

Parlor and Bed-Room Suits, Carpets, Oil Cloths, Mattings, Blankets, Comforts and Lace Goods.

☞ Everything necessary in the House-Furnishing Goods Line. ☜

NINETEENTH STREET, BETWEEN FIRST AND SECOND AVENUES

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

PROGRAM

Of County Teacher's Institute to be Held in Verbena, September 27th and 28th.

FRIDAY.

10 a. m., Welcome Address by Prof. Stott.

10:30 a. m., G. L. Speer, "Relations of Parents and Teacher.

11 a. m., Mrs. M. A. Bowden, Paper, "A Model Country School."

12 m.—Recess.

2 p. m. W. H. Strock, "How to Teach Algebra."

3. p. m. "Educational Entertainments."

SATURDAY.

9 a. m., J. W. Moore, "Teacher's Influence in a Community."

9:30 a. m., J. W. Kemp, "Helps in Country Schools."

10 a. m., J. L. Ruffin, Jr., "How to Teach the First Four Rules in Arithmetic."

11 a. m., A. J. Scott, "Classifications of an Ungraded School·"

12 m.—Recess.

2 p. m., J. A. Harwood. "How Much Should the State Educate."

3 p. m., Miss E. B. Bonham, Paper, "Teacher's Progress."

3:30 p. m., Miss Edna Wilson, "How Should Ladies Manage Large Boys."

4. p. m., Mrs. V. Z. Palmer. School Entertainments. Closing speeches.

The law requires the teachers to attend the Institutes held in the county. This is the last opportunity that teachers will have in this scholastic year.

Everybody is invited.

Respectfully,
R. E. R. HICKS,
Supt. of Education.

His name is R. J. McKinney; his residence is Woodbury, Hill county, Texas; his statement May, 1889: My little son was cured by S. S. S. of bad sores and ulcers, the result of a general breaking down of his health from fever. He was considered incurable, but two bottles of Swift's Specific brought him out all right.

B. O. Gillett, of Purdy, Mo., says Swift's Specific cured him of Eczema on his limbs and body. He took only two small bottles, PLEASANT GROVE MALE and FEMALE ACADEMY.

—:o:—

The second session of this school will open Oct. 21st 1889. This Academy is situated about four miles southeast of Montevallo, in the most healthful portion of the county, above malaria and free from epidemic diseases. No sale of intoxicating liquors anywhere within reach of the Academy. Church advantages good. Board for pupils at from $6 to $8 per month. Conveyance from railroad to boarding houses free of charge. For further information address R. E. R. HICKS, sep12 Montevallo, Ala.

CLANTON HIGH SCHOOL.

—:o:—

This School will open Monday, Sept. the 2nd, 1889. Advantages the best in the county. Rates low, board and tuition $10 per month. Patronage is earnestly desired. For further information address me at Clanton, Ala.

Respectfully,
A. J. SCOTT, Principal.

For Sale.

—:o:—

TWO DESIRABLE HOMES.

If you would like to purchase a lovely cottage home or splendid residence, both well finished, well painted, and nearly new, with new outhouses, gardens, young orchards, etc., in one of the most quiet and moral communities, and within a stone's cast of one of the best high schools in the State AT A SPLENDID BARGAIN. Call on or address,
A. E. BURNS,
sep 5 tf Jemison, Ala.

Money to Loan.

Loans can be negotiated on first mortgage security on improved farming lands. Call on or address
R. M. WILLIAMSON,
ST. CLAIR THORNTON,
jan27 Clanton, Ala.

ALABAMA CENTRAL FEMALE COLLEGE.

While the patronage of many other schools in the South and State has diminished, the attendance at this College has increased 25 per cent. during the past Session. Literary, Scientific, Music and Art Departments under the direction of skilled teachers. Send for catalogue.
[illegible] Session opens September 18, 1889.
[illegible] PORTER, President, [illegible], Ala.

BUSINESS LOCAL NOTICES.

Insure in the Commercial Fire Insurance Co. of Montgomery.

Go to Blank Brothers, Leading Clothiers, 2112, 2nd Avenue, Birmingham, Ala., to buy anything you need in the way of clothing and gent's furnishing goods.

The VIEW job office is prepared to do all kind of job work at short notice. Let us know what you want and we will give you extra low figures.

NOTICE NO. 9064.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 26, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence, the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., October 7th, 1889, viz: Coldwell Choate, Homestead 13704 for the e ½ of s w ¼ sec 34 township 21 n range 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Thomas Jackson, Sr., Allen Jackson, Dennis Green, and J. P. Haley, all of Dixie, Ala.

aug29o J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 9042.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 21, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on September 28, 1889, viz: Ephram Vasser, homestead 14371 for the n e ¼ of section 28 township 21 n, range 11 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Coldwell Choate, Chambers Young, Fed Latham, and Anderson Peoples, all of Maplesville, Ala.

aug22o J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 8988.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
August 6, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the Circuit Court, Clanton, Ala., on September 14th, 1889, viz: Abner C. Poole, Homestead 15369 for the n w ¼ of s e ¼ sec 32, township 21 north, range 14 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: William I. Mullins, Robert S. Owen, James Owen, and John W. Scott, all of Kincheon, Ala.

aug8o J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 8989.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 8, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on September 14th, 1889, viz: Edy Garner, widow of Dick Garner, deceased, Homestead 9316 for the n e ¼ of n w ¼ of sec 2, township 21 north range 12 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: Henry Young, Ben Talley, Noah Coleman, Aaron Talley, all of Maplesville, Ala.

aug 8* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 9067.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
August 26, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 7th, 1889, viz: Daniel Martin, Homestead 14614 for the e½ of n w ¼ and e ½ of s w ¼ sec 20, t 21 n, range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Ben Brown, Charles Jackson, Madison Popwell, James Headley, all of Kincheon, Ala.

aug29* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

State Normal College,

FLORENCE, ALA.

JAS. K. POWERS, A. M. President.

THE COURSE OF STUDY embraces all the branches required in the public schools of the State.

THE THEORY AND PRACTICE of teaching receive careful attention throughout the course.

DRAWING, VOCAL MUSIC AND CALISTHENICS are taught. No teacher is thoroughly equipped for his work without training in these branches.

STATE CERTIFICATES are granted to graduates, entitling them to teach in any public school in Alabama, without further examination.

TUITION IS FREE

to teachers and those preparing to teach and good board costs only ten to fourteen dollars a month.

Fall Term Opens Sept. 17, 1889.

For catalogue or further information, apply to the President.

Now is the time to subscribe for your county paper.

A. E. BIVINGS,

—DEALER IN—

DRUGS, AND Medicines,

FAMILY Groceries, ETC.

Clanton, Alabama.

I can furnish you anything you may wish in the way of DRUGS AND MEDICINES. I also handle THE BEST GROCERIES TO BE HAD, and you will find my prices to suit the times. [mar20]

BUY YOUR
PIANOS and ORGANS
—FROM—
GRAMBS & BUCHANAN,
—2107 SECOND AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—
—:o:—

THE VERY LOWEST CASH PRICES, or on easy installments. Sohmer Cranich & Bach, Gabler, Wheelock and Newby & Evans Pianos, and the world renowned Wilcox & White organs. Mail orders for sheet music or musical merchandise given prompt attention.

☞ Write for Catalogue. ☜ jul18

When ordering please state in what paper you saw our advertisement.

CRELLIN & NALLS,
BOILER MAKERS

Copper and Sheet Iron Workers

Chimneys, Tanks, and Repairing of All Kinds.

Saw Mill Work a Specialty.

☞ AVENUE C AND TWENTY-SECOND STREET, SOUTHSIDE, ☜

Birmingham, Ala.
mar21 y

I. N. Langston & Co.
—DEALER IN—
Dry Goods, Groceries, Family Supplies, &c.
(Contractor for Cross Ties for the L. & N. R. R.)
—JEMISON, CHILTON COUNTY, ALA.—

I have been out of business for the past year, but I am now before the public with a full and Complete Line of Goods for the General Trade. I invite the Farmers of Chilton county as well as my old customers, to give me a call and examine my stock. I will please you every time both in quality of goods and low prices.

☞ Highest market price paid for Cross Ties, Cotton and Country Produce.

oct 18-y I. N. LANGSTON.

MONTGOMERY IRON WORKS.
MACHINISTS & FOUNDERS
Dealers in Fittings, Supplies and Machinery
OF ALL KINDS.
MAKERS OF ENGINES, CANE MILLS, COTTON SEED CRUSHERS, SAW MILLS, LIVE ROLLS, LOG HAULUPS, &c.

☞ ESPECIAL ATTENTION TO WANTS OF SAW MILL MEN ☜

nov 8-y

INSURE WITH
The Commercial Fire Insurance Company,
Montgomery, Alabama.
Capital $100,000. Surplus $146,578.

Directors:—P. J. Anderson, C. A. Lanier, H. C. Tompkins, A. M. Kennedy, M. P. LeGrand, S. C. Marks, J. H. Clisby, C. W. Buckley, Frank Duncan.

W. H. Lawrence, Agt., Clanton.

Roberts & Son,
Steam Printers and Binders,
1918 FIRST AVENUE, BET. 19th & 20th STREETS,
Birmingham, Ala.

BLANK BOOKS TO ORDER. WORK PROMPTLY DELIVERED.

dec6 ly

1889 1890
S. C. MARKS, P. H. S. GAYLE, WM. A. GAYLE.

MARKS & GAYLE,
The Montgomery Warehouse.

Just back of the Exchange Hotel. Very convenient to the business centre, and close to the Fire Department.

ALL COTTON CAREFULLY WEIGHED & HANDLED.

Bagging and Ties at Lowest Rates.

We will take pleasure in forwarding orders for Cotton Bagging for our customers, charging them actual cost for same, free from any profit whatever to ourselves.

Montgomery, - - - - Ala.

☞ FREE WAGON YARD THE YEAR ROUND. ☜

A. M. RAMBO,
DENTIST.
VERBENA, ALA.

Will respond to calls along railroad between Calera and Deatsville
[mal5 y]

S. P. TRESSLAR,
Photographer,
10 COURT SQUARE,
Montgomery.

Photographs on Silk, Satin and Linen. Photographs on watch dials.

Portraits in Crayon, Pastile, India Ink and Water Colors.

All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.

☞ Correspondence solicited. ☜

Always glad to have you call at the gallery, and examine specimens of the work on exhibition.

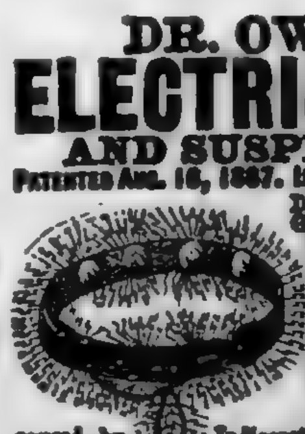
[jan21-tf]

J. H. SHEPHERD
THE LEADING
PHOTOGRAPHER.
—OF—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE
(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)

Photographs of All Kinds Work Done in the BEST STYLE.

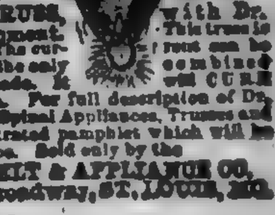
Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

DR. OWEN'S ELECTRIC BELT AND SUSPENSORY.
PATENTED AUG. 16, 1887. IMPROVED JULY 30, 1888.



DR. OWEN'S ELECTRO-GALVANIC BODY BELT AND SUSPENSORY are guaranteed to cure the following diseases, namely: All Rheumatic Complaints, Lumbago, General and Nervous Debility, Costiveness, Kidney Diseases, Nervousness, Trembling, Sexual Exhaustion, Wasting of Body, Diseases caused by Indiscretions in Youth, Age, Married or Single Life. In fact all diseases pertaining to the womb or genital organs of male or female. SENT TO RESPONSIBLE PARTIES ON 30 DAYS TRIAL. TRY A PAIR OF DR. OWEN'S ELECTRIC INSOLES. PRICE, $1 PER PAIR. Send 6c. postage for free illustrated pamphlet, which will be sent you in plain sealed envelope. Mention this paper, address OWEN ELECTRIC BELT & APPLIANCE CO. 306 North Broadway, ST. LOUIS, MO.

RUPTURE!
ELECTRIC BELT AND TRUSS COMBINED.



DR. ISRAEL'S ELECTRO-GALVANIC TRUSS, with Dr. Owen's Electric Belt Attachment. This truss is worn with ease and comfort. The current can be made mild or strong. This is the only combined electric truss and belt ever made. It will CURE Rupture in from 60 to 90 days. For full description of Dr. Owen's Electro-Galvanic Belts, Spinal Appliances, Trusses and Insoles send 6c. for free illustrated pamphlet which will be sent you in plain sealed envelope. Sold only by the OWEN ELECTRIC BELT & APPLIANCE CO. 306 North Broadway, ST. LOUIS, MO.

sep 5

HERBINE

After ten years exclusive sale, can now be obtained of all Druggists and Dealers in Medicines. It CURES—take notice—not simply helps but CURES LIVER COMPLAINT, Biliousness and Dyspepsia.

Is a strictly vegetable preparation and will CURE MALARIA, and all MALARIAL troubles.

Dr. S. H. Wise, of Boston, Ky. says: "Have practiced medicine 15 years, and find no equal to HERBINE as a Liver Regulator."

Dr. W. A. Baker, of Madison, Fla., says: "A bottle of HERBINE is worth more than $5.00 worth of Quinine in any family."

Acting on the Liver in a different way from any other medicine; it is a positive cure for Chronic Constipation and is cheaper than [illegible]

Its peculiar composition is such, that we guarantee to cure any case of Chills and Fever or Bilious Fever with one bottle.

It costs but 75 cents and each bottle contains over 40 average doses, making the cost less than two cents a dose. Would you ask for cheaper medicine? It is not a cure-all. But will cure any Liver, Bilious or Malarial Complaint. Manufactured by

The Herbine Co.,
(Successors to Wm. Condell.) St. Louis, Mo.

mar 14-y

PISO'S CURE FOR

TWENTY-FIVE CENTS

Piso's Cure for Consumption is also the best Cough Medicine. If you have a Cough without disease of the Lungs, a few doses are all you need. But if you neglect this easy means of safety, the slight Cough may become a serious matter, and several bottles will be required.

CONSUMPTION

PISO'S REMEDY FOR CATARRH gives immediate relief. Catarrhal virus is soon expelled from the system, and the diseased action of the mucous membrane is replaced by healthy secretions. The dose is small. One package contains a sufficient quantity for a long treatment.

CATARRH

A Cold in the Head is relieved by an application of Piso's remedy for Catarrh. The comfort to be got from it in this way is worth many times its cost. Easy and pleasant to use. Price, 50 cents. Sold by druggists or sent by mail.
E. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.

nov22-y

ALLEGER'S
GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES!
FROM [illegible]

This Elegant Parlor Organ style 79 containing 5 octaves, 4 sets of reeds, 10 stops, 2 knee swells. Stool and Book free. For only [illegible]. With right and left coupler. "Warranted for 6 years."

It is only necessary to send references as to your responsibility from any banker, postmaster, merchant or express agent and the Organ will be shipped promptly on ten days' test trial.

Circulars free to all. Be sure to write me, and save money. [illegible]

Mention Paper where this "AD." is seen.

[illegible]

H. W. ALLEGER,
Washington, Warren County, New Jersey,
UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

20 12 y

AGRICULTURAL.

TOPICS OF INTEREST RELATIVE TO FARM AND GARDEN.

REPAIRING TINS.

Farmers who live remote from any place where there is a tinsmith are often troubled by leaks in tin roofs, or eave troughs. Any farmer can repair them and make them stronger than before. Find the leak, and apply a good coat of rather thick paint; put on a piece of old bagging or coarse muslin, then a second coat of paint, rubbing it well in and smoothly. Then cover with a piece of tin, nailing it down tightly close to the edge, using large-headed tacks; those known as twenty-four or thirty ounce. Iron tacks are best. Then give another coat of paint, and the leak is not only repaired, but that part will last much longer than the rest. Old fruit cans are just the thing for the purpose; set them on top of a hot stove till the solder is melted, and then flatten them out.—New York Witness.

CURE FOR COLIC IN HORSES.

C. H. Allen, Queens County, N. Y., writes the American Agriculturist that he has found three drops of tincture of colocynth a sure cure for colic. The tincture is to be given in three or four tablespoonfuls of water, repeating the dose every twenty minutes until there is relief. Colocynth is a strong irritant, yet, although we do not doubt that horses have recovered from colic after taking three drops of tincture of colocynth, we can hardly believe that so small a dose has produced this effect. It is given to the human subject in doses of from five to fifteen grains. Among the most effectual remedies for both spasmodic and flatulent colic in the horse are the following: Aloes, eight drams; tincture of aconite, thirty drops, in a pint of water; or linseed oil a pint, to which may or not be added an ounce of sulphuric ether; or oil of turpentine, two drams; laudanum, one ounce; linseed oil, a pint, or in great pain, laudanum two ounces; warm water, eight ounces. Veterinarians often use hypodermically Magenda's solution of morphine from twenty to forty drops, or asafetida two ounces, tincture of opium (laudanum) half an ounce. The doses above are in marked contrast to the doses of colocynth, which are not more than from a quarter to a grain, probably.

THE ODDS-AND-END CORNER.

Every one should have a corner of the garden in which to grow flowers to cut from. If you have not the flowers, you have the corner and the flowers ought to find place in it. We have a bed into which a little of everything goes. It is called the "odds-and-end" bed. Does a branch get broken off the geranium? We stick it down in this bed, and before we know it it has taken root and begun to grow, and before long we are cutting flowers from it. Are there some old house-plants that seemed to have outlived their usefulness in pots, but which we do not want to throw away? The "odds-and-end" bed has a place for them, and when we find them renewing their youth and giving us fine blossoms for the daily bouquet we are glad that we gave them a place there. Here we plant the annuals that there is no other place for after a thinning out the beds; here we set out the bulbs that we are a little fearful about. Aristocratic plants and plebeian plants are all on an equal footing. There is a thicket of vines all along the fence, a tangle of plants all about the corner, and more flowers, we sometimes think, than we get from the show-bed in front of the house. It is the most attractive part of the garden, so utterly informal, and has a "sit-down-and make-yourself-at-home" air about it. By all means, have and "odds-and-end" corner in your garden.—American Agriculturist.

BREEDING TURKEYS.

In selecting turkeys for breeding purposes choose those that have long, symmetrical bodies, full breasts and broad backs. The neck should be slender but not too long, head small and keen-looking, covered with short, black hair; the wattle and gills should be of a bright red color.

The legs should be of moderate length, and in birds eight or nine months old are a dead black color; as they grow older their legs become lighter in color, until they are quite pink. The plumage of a healthy bird is bright and glistening.

When you select birds take those that are gentle—not wild. They will cause you much less trouble than those that are easily frightened. Generally better results will be obtained if you mate birds that are not related. Would at least change "Toms" every second year.

Turkeys will not stand crowding; they should be allowed to range at will. They are great foragers, and are of great benefit, as insect destroyers, to growing crops. The hen turkey naturally hides her nest, and it is best to humor this whim, yet there is no need of its location being known only to the turkey—and a rat or mink. If turkeys are petted and are not scared by man or dog, they will nest near the house, and will deposit their eggs in nests that you make, if you do not make "nice" ones. The turkey abhors pomp and "style." A good nest is made with an old barrel laid upon its side in some secluded fence corner; then carefully throw some brush over it. Or a brush pile that has an accidental (?) opening to a smooth place beneath. When the hen goes peering about to find this place, don't watch her from where she can see you. Be just as particular as she is not to be seen. Gather the eggs when she is not about (use one or two nest eggs), and keep them in a dry, cool place. Our plan is to set the first "litter" under hens, and let the turkey have those she lays for a second litter. Unless she is a remarkably good layer she will be able to cover all she lays at this time. If she steals her nest and brings off a nice brood of turks before you are aware she is laying, don't show your disappointment by neglecting her and her brood, but give her to understand that you appreciate her sagacity and success in getting the start of you. Treat her well and when fall comes her nice, great big birds, plump and fat for the table, will be an ample reward.—Farm, Field and Stockman.

The Dampest Place on Earth.

The heaviest annual rainfall on the globe, 600 inches, is on the Khasia Hills, in India, about 500 inches of which falls in seven months. This astonishing amount is due to the abruptness of the mountains, which face the Bay of Bengal.

HOUSEHOLD MATTERS.

JELLIED CHICKEN.

Boil a chicken in as little water as possible until the meat falls from the bones; chop rather fine and season with pepper and salt. Put in a mold a layer of the chopped meat and then a layer of hard boiled eggs cut in slices, a layer of meat and eggs alternately until the mold is nearly full. Boil down the liquor left in the pot one-half; while warm add a tablespoonful of gelatine, and when this is dissolved pour into the mold over the meat; set in a cool place over night to jelly.

CHOW CHOW.

Half peck of green tomatoes, two large heads of cabbage, fifteen large onions, twenty-five cucumbers, one pint of grated horseradish, half pound of white mustard seed, one ounce of celery seed, fifteen or twenty small onions, white, half a teacup of ground pepper, turmeric and cinnamon each. Chop the tomatoes, cabbage, onions and cucumber in small pieces and salt them down one night. In the morning drain off the brine and put them to soak in vinegar and water for two days, drain off again and mix in the spices. Boil one and one-half gallons of vinegar and four pounds of brown sugar together and pour over them hot. Do this three mornings successively. The third time mix one pound of mustard with one-half pint of pure salad oil and add to it.—Detroit Free Press.

HUNGARIAN TEA LOAF.

A pound and a quarter of Hungarian flour, two ounces of white sugar and half a teaspoonful of salt are to be mixed in a large bowl; in another bowl half a pint warm milk (in which three ounces of butter have been melted) is added to the yelks of two eggs, the white of one and two tablespoonfuls of fresh barm. With this mixture the ingredients in the large pan must be made into dough with the hand and left to rise for a couple of hours, then put into a tin, well greased, and plenty of room left for rising. The heat of the oven should be quickened at the first, and allowed to subside during the baking. As soon as the loaf is taken from the oven, brush it over with the white of an egg, beaten up with a tablespoonful of castor sugar; sprinkle it with chopped almonds, then return it to the oven to set, and lightly brown the surface. Dried yeast, half an ounce, may take the place of fresh barm; it should be "creamed."—Brooklyn Citizen.

FIFTEEN-CENT BREAD PUDDING.

Soak three half pints of moderately stale bread crumbs in a quart of five cent milk half an hour. Separate the yolks and whites of two eggs. Cream one ounce of butter with two ounces of powdered sugar by stirring them together in a soup plate with a silver plated fork. Now add the yolks to this and the grated rind of one lemon. Beat thoroughly, and add to the milk-soaked bread crumbs, mix and bake in a quick oven until a delicate brown on top. Then remove from the oven and let stand while you beat up the whites of the egges with two ounces of powdered sugar and the juice of half a lemon. Spread this meringue evenly over the pudding and return to the oven long enough to tinge the meringue a light russet color.

If the meringue is added to the pudding the moment it is taken from the oven it is apt to overflow.

This will make sufficient pudding for two meals for a family of four. Serve the cold pudding at lunch next day.—New York Sun.

METHOD OF CANNING SWEET CORN.

The factory method of canning sweet corn can be to a certain extent followed in the household by providing the necessary outfit. Whether it pays on a small scale is perhaps a question. A North Carolina bulletin furnishes the following directions: When a first-class article is desired it will be necessary to select the best corn, rejecting the immature and over-ripe ears. The sooner it is canned after being taken from the stalk the better. The corn is first cut from the cob with a curved knife, made for that purpose. The cobs are then placed in a vessel containing just enough water to cover them and boiled one hour. Fill the can through the opening with the corn that has been cut from the bob, pressing it in closely, leaving empty space of above one-fourth of an inch at the top to allow for the expansion of the contents by heat. Add to each can enough of the liquid obtained by boiling the cobs to just cover the top of the corn, then solder on the caps, each of which is provided with a small vent in the centre. Place the cans with a vent open in a kettle of water and boil for three hours; then take them out. Wipe the top with a cold, wet cloth and close the vent with the solder, after which return them to the kettle and boil four hours longer. Some add a little white sugar to the liquor obtained by boiling the cobs if the corn is lacking in sweetness. The proportion of sugar is about a teaspoonful to each can of corn.—New York World.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Serve cherries piled on cracked ice.

Serve boiled fish on a folded napkin.

Old tablecloths worn thin make excellent dish towels.

Only salads among vegetable dishes are served separately now.

Really good butter is sometimes spoiled by the use of inferior salt.

Porcelain kettles and wooden spoons are best to use in making preserves.

It is well to examine the refrigerator every day to keep it thoroughly clean.

Leather chair seats may be revived by rubbing them with well-beaten white of egg.

Dip ink spots in linen in melted tallow. The ink will come out with the tallow when the linen is washed.

Soft tissue paper is the best for polishing mirrors. This may also be used for polishing or drying window-glass.

Oranges peeled, cut in very thin slices, baked in a deep dish for ten minutes, then covered with grated cocoanuts and eaten ice cold make a good dish for high tea.

Borax water tends to keep the hands soft and smooth. Dissolve the borax in hot water, using as much as the water will take up; then bottle it. Use a spoonful to a pint of water, preferably before going to bed.

For hard-boiled eggs cook them twenty minutes in water just bubbling. The yelk of an egg cooked ten minutes in rapidly boiling water is tough and indigestible; cooked twenty minutes it is dry, mealy and easily digested.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

PLEASANT LITERATURE FOR FEMININE READERS.

A SOCK DARNING FACTORY.

Mrs. Ellen Snodgrass, a lady in Wickoff, a town in Yorkshire, England, has started a new industry. She employs a number of women in darning stockings and socks, and sends a woman periodically to the big towns in the neighborhood to solicit patronage. She is at work on a machine for the purpose of darning, which will enable her to extend her operations.

A PARIS ESTIMATE OF AMERICANS.

According to the Buffalo Commercial Advertiser, a Paris dressmaker thus explained the system on which goods are sold to Americans: "Ze Boston lady, oh! she is very easy; we sell her ze thing that ze English ladies have bought. Ze New York lady we sell her ze thing that ze English ladies have not bought, and which we offer to ze lady from Lyons, from Marseilles, what will you! Or to some New York ladies we sell ze fanciful thing, as dress for ze chateau, and zey call it ze street dress, figure that to yourself! But to ze Chicago lady we sell ze thing zat ze English lady will not looks affright, and at which ze New York lady scream. Ah, we know zem all!"

A LOVE-LORN FEMALE HERMIT.

A hermit has just been discovered living on the banks of the Raritan River, but a few miles from New Brunswick, N. J. The hermit is a woman, upward of eighty years of age, and lives alone with an old servant in a secluded mansion in the woods. She is reported to be very wealthy, and although most of the rooms in the house are never used, they are handsomely furnished.

The hermit keeps to her room and has not looked on a human face but that of the old servant for thirty years. Thirty-three years ago she was disappointed in love, and although a reigning belle and heiress, she withdrew from all society.

Her meals are served to her on gold and silver dishes and she still possesses the fine dresses and jewelry of bygone days. She has never slept in a bed since her disappointment in love. The old woman spends her time in reading the thousands of old musty volumes in the book cases in her room. She has twenty-eight cats, fifteen dogs and a goat, which she feeds on the choicest viands, and when any of her pets die, she orders that they be buried in expensive coffins by an undertaker, and her wishes are faithfully carried out by the old servant.

Her jewels are kept in a curious iron bound box in her room. Her estate is also large, and is looked after by a prominent lawyer, who transacts all her business with the servant only, who is as great a mystery as her mistress. The place is thought to be haunted by the ignorant, who shun it. There are people, however, who say that they have seen the old servant digging the woods at night by the light of a lantern and this fact has given rise to the ghost stories. A large amount of money and valuables are said to be buried in the woods surrounding the old house. The hermit's name is Merritt.—New York Press.

MERRY AS A MARRIAGE BELL.

I was having luncheon in a cafe on Fifth avenue, writes a New York correspondent to the Chicago Herald, when a somewhat unusual company of people entered the almost deserted room and arranged themselves about a table which had been specially set for them. There were eight men and one young woman in the group. I recognized the occasion as a wedding breakfast of persons that were scarcely of the fashionable sort. The girl was pretty enough, but she was quite awkward, while the men hardly knew what to do with their hands, and their conversation did not scintillate, as it were, with wit or repartee. The repast was nervously gone through, two bottles of claret and two of champagne being disposed of. When the waiter brought in the coffee he was accompanied by an assistant who bore on a tray before him what appeared to be a bird pie, the crust brown and tempting, and the silver plate on which it rested garnished about with green. When this was placed before the bride she looked at her husband in surprise, but apparently did not dare suggest that this was a rather substantial dish to bring on at such a late moment. All the faces of the men were twitching with excitement, with the exception of the husband's, which expressed blank amazement at what seemed a serious breach of correct form. The waiter handed a knife and fork to the bride.

"Will madam cut the pie just here?" he asked, indicating the outer rim of the top crust.

The bride took the knife tremblingly in her hand, and, with the aid of the waiter, succeeded in lifting the entire top crust away from the lower part of the pie. Then she gave a little cry of astonishment, for a white dove lifted up its head from the interior of the pie and cooed. Around the dove's neck was a very beautiful little diamond bracelet. It was a gift from the men who were present.

The episode was certainly not consistent with the customs of good society, but it was so thoroughly enjoyed, and brought that little awkward party so close together, that it appeared quite proper and was undoubtedly very pretty. The coffee was drank amid the best of good fellowship, and everything went as merry as the proverbial marriage bell—all because of a white dove's coo.

FASHION NOTES.

The newest red is a dull shade called Eiffel rouge.

Yokes are much employed for the waists of thin dresses.

Toques grow smaller, and are more worn than ever.

Black silk stockings are in good taste with any kind of a dress.

Ribbon bandeaux and metal fillets for the coiffure are much worn.

The Sir Joshua fichu grows in popularity and in fashionable favor.

Large, loose bishop sleeves of lace are frequently seen on silk bodices.

Pale blue is fashionably combined with dark green, and pale green with dark blue.

The popular hat of midsummer was the light sailor hat of straw, in any color preferred.

The dressiest hats are made of tulle, lace, and silk gauzes over very slight wire frames.

Epaulettes and shoulder knots grow more and more fashionable as the season advances.

WORDS OF WISDOM.

There is no influence of more value than the individual sense of existence.

The man who lives without work can prove that right does not always prevail.

Custom is the shell of ignorance that progress must break through by picking at the shell, the same as chickens come to light.

The man who can determine what good training is does not need it, and the man who cannot, does not know enough to be trained.

People become educated according to their ability to throw off the influence of their training and learn something by experience.

If a baby is not weaned before it is twenty-one years old, it is more than probable that it will never develop into manhood.

All men are "queer" that dare to act themselves, but those who hope to be mistaken for others, by acting like them, are foolish.

Ability does not depend upon the volume of acquirements one may possess, but, instead, it depends upon an honesty of purpose and courage, derived from one's common sense.

Trained persons becomes more and more dependent upon what was taught them, for confidence in their own wit will in a like degree disappear.

A person who takes the trouble to slander another, unconsciously exposes the effort to advertise their own virtue, for vice needs no pointing out, neither does virtue need to be advertised.

Depravity must first be taught, for a man untaught has no knowledge other than his instinct, his consciousness, and is as innocent of wrong as a stone rolling down hill. Hence the educated only are responsible for wickedness.—Sturdy Oak.

The Frost-Proof Man.

Humanity's manifold freaks are dwarfed by the appearance of a man insensible to the differences of heat and cold. His name is Silas C. Litchfield, and for thirty-five years he has lived in a temperature averaging thirty-six degrees above zero. In all those years Mr. Litchfield has had seven days' vacation. The rest of the time he spent in a subterranean refrigerator.

This frost proof being lives in Boston, Mass. Mr. Litchfield, the frost proof man, has the reputation of being one of the strongest men physically that was ever known around the market. In discussing himself, Mr. Litchfield said:

"My name is Silas C. Litchfield. I am sixty years old. For thirty-five years I have worked in this cellar, during which time I have had only seven days' vacation, and during the last twenty-six years only one day off, when I attended the firemen's muster last year. In my early days I was supposed to be the strongest man physically hereabouts, and carried the largest ox and hog that ever came into the market. I am the only man who has been seen to take a barrel of beef weighing 400 pounds, walk up the stairs and deliver it across the street. I have coopered ten barrels in less than eleven minutes right in here. I come to work at 3:30 A. M., and continue to cut beef, with about two hours out of the refrigerator for meals, until 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

"How do I like it? Why, I would rather be in there on a hot day than outside sweltering. I'm acclimated, and think no more of coming in here to work than you do of going into your office. Ain't I ever sick? Why, bless you, I've never been sick a day in my life, and never have a pain or ache. I can either go in or come out with impunity, and never feel the slightest difference in the two extremes.

"I can go from an atmosphere of 100 degrees into my thirty-six degree icebox and don't feel any different from what you do going from one room to another. In fact I've got no feeling as far as hot and cold is concerned."

Mr. Litchfield's employer speaks in the highest terms of his employe, and said that at one time Silas Litchfield was considered the strongest man in Boston. His insensibility to cold is due entirely to his long life in the refrigerator.—New York Graphic.

The Speed of Fishes.

The speed of fishes is almost an unknown quantity, being, as Professor G. Brown Goode says, very difficult to measure. "If you could get a fish," said Professor Goode to a Post reporter, "and put him in a trough of water 1000 feet long and start him at one end and make him swim to the other without stopping, the information could be easily obtained, but fish are unintelligent and they won't do this. Estimates of the speed of fish consequently are only approximated, and more or less founded on guessing. You can tell, however, at a glance whether a fish is built for speed or not. A fast fish looks trim and pointed, like a yacht. Its head is conical shaped, and its fins fit down close to its body, like a knife blade into its handle. Fish with large heads, bigger than their bodies, and with short, stubby fins, are built for slow motion."

"What are the fastest fishes?"

"The predatory fish, those which live on prey, are the fastest swimmers. The food fish are generally among the slowest, and are consequently, easily captured. Their loss is recompensed, however, by the natural law which makes them very prolific in reproduction. Dolphins have been known to swim around an ocean steamer, and it is quite safe to say that their speed is twenty miles an hour, but it may be twice as much. The bonito is a fast-swimming fish. Just what its speed is I do not know. The head of the goose fish is very large—twenty times as big as its body. It moves about very little, and swims at the bottom of the ocean. The Spanish mackerel is one of the fastest of the food fishes. Its body is cone-shaped and as smooth as burnished metal. Its speed is as matchless as the dolphin, and in motion it cuts the water like a yacht."—Washington Post.

Students Who Rise at 2:30 A. M.

How happy are the Mussulman students at the University of Fez. True, they have to rise at 2:30 A. M. in summer and at 5 A. M. in winter and their labors are not over until 9:30 P. M.; they have but one holiday in the week, and on that they are expected to practice total abstinence both from studies and from food. But in revenge they have no examinations. Each professor knows how to distinguish those of his hearers whose qualities render them worthy of a diploma, which diploma is highly valued, and gives those who possess it a veritable prestige in the Mussulman world.—Revue Francaise.

CURIOUS FACTS.

Melons were found originally in Asia.

The Mormons founded Nauvoo, Ill., in 1840.

Sage is a native of the South of Europe.

An Atlanta (Ga.) store is built entirely of paper.

In France a seventh son in direct succession is called a marcou.

There is only one lawyer in Millville, N. J., a city of over 10,000 inhabitants.

It is an ancient belief that a change in the body of a man occurs every seventh year.

Mr. C. W. Oldrive walked five miles on the surface of the water near Boston recently.

The New York Custom House has an efficient clerk, William O. Fitzgerald, who is a deaf mute.

The present English national debt may be said to have commenced in the reign of William III., 1689.

Ship building was begun at Salem, Mass., about 1640. So began the ship building industry in this country.

It is said that the number of derelicts recorded each month in the North Atlantic alone varies from twenty-five to forty-five.

About a week's association with a thrashing machine will pitch a farmer's voice fully an octave higher, as all town folks know.

A Jefferson City (Mo.) man manages to make a living by following up picnic parties and gathering up the empty bottles which they leave.

Toads from the squares loiter around the Philadelphia electric light poles to feast on the fried bugs that tumble to them sizzling hot.

The Minie rifle was invented at Vincennes, France, about 1833, by M. Minie, who from a common soldier raised himself to a high rank.

A Pennsylvania boy found a bird's nest that contained eggs of four different colors—white, pink, blue and green. All were of the same size.

A Chicago detective has just had his pocket picked of $600, which he had drawn from a building association to make a payment on a house.

A goat at Dallas, Texas, which came upon a rattlesnake, walked back a few yards, and taking a running start, made a long jump, alighting with his legs bunched, and cutting the snake in pieces.

Spiders have been known to come out of their webs and crawl down the sides of the wall at the sound of music, seemingly enchanted by the sounds, but hurrying back to their hiding-place as soon as the music ceased.

The latest development of the slot machine is a brass frame inclosing the city directory, which permits the volume to be opened only when a cent has been inserted in the slot. It is hailed as a blessing by druggists and others whose directories are in constant demand by the public.

It is believed by the Moslems that at the Judgment day painters will be required to furnish with souls all representations of human beings which they have made. Failing in this ordeal, they will lose their own souls as a forfeit for their presumptious imitation of the work of the Creator.

One method of keeping the railroad track clear of sand near the Caspian Sea is to soak the road-bed with sea-water. In other places it is protected with an armor of clay. Palisades are erected sometimes to stop drifting. Another method employed is the cultivation of hardy plants, such as are used for the same purpose on the Danish coast.

Romance of a Famous Mineral Water.

David Andreas Saxlehner, owner of the Hunyadi Janos, died recently while on his way to Carlsbad. He was a man of limited education, but practical in the extreme. After failing in several undertakings, he established a "national clothing-house" in Buda Pesth, in which home-goods alone were sold. Louis Kossuth, the Hungarian patriot, consented to act as Saxlehner's clerk for several days, in consequence of which the business increased enormously. While Saxlehner was sitting one day in his office, a peasant entered and complained that he could get no fresh water on his farm. He had bored wells in a number of places, but succeeded in getting only a peculiarly scented fluid, which he feared to use. Saxlehner was interested. He asked the peasant to bring him a sample-bottle of the water, had it analyzed, and decided to purchase the estate. He paid one thousand gulden per acre for the farm, and established a factory as soon as possible. The water became popular at once, and the red label upon the bottles a famous trade-mark. Of late years, the sales reached four millions annually, and made Saxlehner many times a millionaire.

An Algerian Horror.

A performance which is qute out of the common rut is that of the Aissaouas in the Algerian concert at the Paris Exposition. The Aissaouas are not actors, dancers, or athletes; they belong to a tribe where religious juggling is kept in great honor. To please the Divinity they eat the leaves of the thorny cactus, make their eyes project from their orbits, pierce their cheeks with long needles, have themselves bitten by vipers, swallow snakes or keep their equilibrium on a dagger, and all this is accomplished without shedding blood and without apparent pain or injury to themselves. After roasting for a few minutes over a brazier holding hot coals, they look intoxicated and give to the head a rotary impulse which leaves them in a sort of hypnotized state. Then, at the sound of a particular sort of music, they perform before the public all the acts that I have just enumerated. It is terrifying, even repugnant, but all the same it is very curious, and is one of the great attractions of the Exposition.—Chicago Herald.

Poetry Inspired by a Centipede.

Professor Lankester speaks at length in Nature of the series of instantaneous photographs of men and animals in motion taken by Muybridge for the University of Pennsylvania. He suggests that by this means we may be able to analyze the movements of the separate legs of the centipede, an insect which has absorbed many of the Professor's valuable hours. So enthusiastic does he become that he bursts forth in the following ditty:

"A centipede was happy—quite!
Until a toad in fun
Said, 'Pray which leg moves after which?'
This raised her doubts to such a pitch,
She fell exhausted in the ditch,
Not knowing how to run."

Wife (looking up from newspaper): "Astronomy must be a fascinating study. Here's an account of an astronomer sweeping the heavens with his telescope."

Husband: "Yes; that's the latest style of telescope, with broom attachment."

"Mamma's Gittin' Better."

There is gladness in the household;
The shadow fades away
That darkened all the sunshine
Of many a summer day.
"O, mamma's getting better,"
The happy children cry,
And the light of hope shines bright again
In the loving husband's eye.

In thousands of homes women are "sick unto death" with the terrible diseases so common to their sex, and it would seem as if all the happiness had gone out of life and the household in consequence. For when the wife and mother suffers all the family suffers with her. This ought not to be, and it need not be, for a never-failing remedy for woman's ailments is at hand. Many a home has been made happy because the shadow of disease has been banished from it by the potent power of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—the unfailing remedy for all weaknesses and diseases peculiar to women.

$500 Reward offered for an incurable case of Catarrh by the proprietors of Dr. Sage's Remedy. 50 cts., by druggists.

The worst hypocrite is the man who tells his wife that she always looks her prettiest when dressed in calico.

ENDERS, PA., Feb. 18, 1889.

Piso's Cure for Consumption relieved the cough, checked the night-sweats and emaciation—in short, gave a new lease of life to a patient of mine who was rapidly and surely approaching the final stage of this dreaded disease.

To-day she is in the enjoyment of fair health, and this result is due to the beneficial effects of only a few bottles of Piso's Cure for Consumption.

If we take into consideration the DURATION of this patient's sickness, the SEVERITY of the symptoms, the SMALL quantity of the remedial agent and the BRIEF PERIOD OF TIME within which a CURE WAS EFFECTED, we cannot fail to acknowledge the truly wonderful effects of Piso's Cure for Consumption.

LEVI JAY ENDERS, M.D.

In every community there are living witnesses to testify that in naming our medicine Piso's Cure for Consumption, we have not claimed more than it can do. Its standing in the market also proves its merit. We have not published sensational notices; our advertisements have been mere signs to indicate the existence of Piso's Cure for Consumption. Instead of endeavoring to excite fear our purpose has been to encourage hope.

Yet Piso's Cure for Consumption stands to-day at the head of all medicines of its class, requiring for its manufacture a factory full of skilled workers and improved machinery, whereas about twenty years ago all the work was done in one little room by one man.

Price, 25 cents per bottle.

E. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.

Harvest Excursions.

The golden harvest time is near, and fortunately the facilities for enjoying it are ample. The CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY will sell Harvest Excursion Tickets to all points in Kansas and Nebraska (west of but not on the Missouri River), Colorado, Indian Territory, New Mexico, Texas, Wyoming, Utah, Idaho, Dakota, Arizona, Northwestern Iowa and Southwestern Minnesota at ONE FARE FOR THE ROUND TRIP. Dates of sale September 10th and 24th, and October 8th, 1889; return limit, 30 days from date of sale, thus affording opportunities for investment or the location of farms and homes in growing sections of new country SUCH AS WERE NEVER BEFORE OFFERED, the territory to choose from being very much larger than that included in the scope of any similar previous excursion. THE SOLID VESTIBULE TRAINS OF THE ROCK ISLAND are composed of elegant Day Coaches, Pullman Palace Sleepers, FREE Reclining Chair Cars and Dining Cars to and from Omaha, and via Kansas City and St. Joseph through the most desirable portions of Kansas and Nebraska to Denver, Colorado Springs and Pueblo, where direct communications are made with diverging lines (also at St. Paul) to all points in the States and Territories above named. For more detailed information call on or address JOHN SEBASTIAN, General Ticket and Passenger Agent, Chicago, Ill.

Sarah Bernhardt.

is coming to America, and great will be the enthusiasm aroused amongst her admirers. But, we have our own bright star, Mary Anderson, who will continue to bear off the palm in the dramatic, as does Lucy Hinton in the great tobacco world.

"There is a tide in the affairs of men which if taken at the flood leads on to fortune." If your affairs are at a low ebb now, don't fail to write to B. F. Johnson & Co., 1009 Main St., Richmond, Va., who have plans that will enable you to make money rapidly.

Bradfield's Female Regulator will cure all irregularities or derangements peculiar to woman. Those suffering should use it. Sold by all Druggists.

The most prominent physicians in the city smoke and recommend "Tansill's Punch."

If afflicted with sore eyes use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye-water. Druggists sell at 25c per bottle.

Why Don't

You take Hood's Sarsaparilla, if you have impure blood, have lost your appetite, have that tired feeling or are troubled by sick headache, dyspepsia or biliousness. It has accomplished wonders for thousands of afflicted people, and, if given a fair trial, is reasonably certain to do you good.

"I have been troubled a great deal with headache, had no appetite, no strength, and felt as mean as anyone could, and be about my work. Since taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I have not had the headache, my food has relished, and seemed to do me good, and I have felt myself growing stronger every day." M. A. STEINMAN, 19 Grand Avenue, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Hood's Sarsaparilla
Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.
100 Doses One Dollar

Ely's Cream Balm
GIVES RELIEF AT ONCE FOR COLD IN HEAD.
—CURES—
CATARRH.
Apply Balm into each nostril.
ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N.Y.
THE CURE FOR CATARRH COLD IN HEAD HAY FEVER DEAFNESS HEADACHE ELY'S CREAM BALM 50c

RUPTURE
A written guarantee to ABSOLUTELY CURE. No detention from business. Endorsed by the leading physicians of the United States. Write for circulars.
DR. C. E. McCANDLISS, ATLANTA, GA.
Office 30½ Marietta Street, corner Broad.

LADIES
Amenagogue Pills
For Irregularities. Safe and certain. Should not be taken if enciente. Price per box of 100 pills, $1.00.
DR. W. C. ASHER, 31½ Marietta St., ATLANTA, GA.

OPIUM HABIT.
A Valuable Treatise Giving full information of an Easy and Speedy cure free to the afflicted. DR. J. C. HOFFMAN, Jefferson, Wisconsin.

YOU CAN MAKE $100 A MONTH working for us. Gentlemen and Lady agents wanted who can devote their entire time to the business. Spare time may also be employed profitably. Good agents promptly promoted to better positions. It will pay you to write us. Address at once, D. W. THAYER & CO., Pubs., Atlanta, Ga.

PEERLESS DYES Are the BEST. SOLD BY DRUGGISTS.

PISO'S REMEDY FOR CATARRH.—Best. Easiest to use. Cheapest. Relief is immediate. A cure is certain. For Cold in the Head it has no equal.
CATARRH
It is an Ointment, of which a small particle is applied to the nostrils. Price, 50c. Sold by druggists or sent by mail. Address, E. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.

TOWER'S FISH BRAND SLICKER

BRYANT & STRATTON

BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR
IS A SPECIFIC FOR PAINFUL PROFUSE SCANTY SUPPRESSED IRREGULAR MENSTRUATION BOOK TO WOMAN
BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO. ATLANTA

WEBSTER
THE BEST INVESTMENT
For the Family, School, or Professional Library.
WEBSTER'S UNABRIDGED DICTIONARY A LIBRARY IN ITSELF
Has been for many years Standard Authority in the Gov't Printing Office and U. S. Supreme Court.
It is Highly Recommended by 38 State Sup'ts of Schools and the leading College Presidents.
Nearly all the School Books published in this country are based upon Webster, as attested by the leading School Book Publishers.
3000 more Words and nearly 2000 more Engravings than any other American Dictionary.
GET THE BEST.
Sold by all Booksellers. Illustrated Pamphlet with specimen pages, etc., sent free.
G. & C. MERRIAM & CO., Pub'rs, Springfield, Mass.

IF YOU WISH A GOOD REVOLVER purchase one of the celebrated SMITH & WESSON arms. The finest small arms ever manufactured and the first choice of all experts. Manufactured in calibres 32, 38 and 44-100. Single or double action, Safety Hammerless and Target models. Constructed entirely of best quality wrought steel, carefully inspected for workmanship and stock, they are unrivaled for finish, durability and accuracy. Do not be deceived by cheap malleable cast-iron imitations which are often sold for the genuine article and are not only unreliable, but dangerous. The SMITH & WESSON Revolvers are all stamped upon the barrels with firm's name, address and dates of patents and are guaranteed perfect in every detail. Insist upon having the genuine article, and if your dealer cannot supply you an order sent to address below will receive prompt and careful attention. Descriptive catalogue and prices furnished upon application.
SMITH & WESSON.
Mention this paper. Springfield, Mass.

ARE YOU THINKING OF BUYING A Cotton or Hay Press
We manufacture a Cotton Press and two Hay Presses. Will send Circulars and Price List upon application.
ROANOKE IRON AND WOOD WORKS
CHATTANOOGA, TENN.
P. O. Box 201.

Dr. Lobb, 329 N. 15th St. PHILA., PA.
After ALL others fail, consult
Twenty years' continuous practice in the treatment and cure of the awful effects of early vice, destroying both mind and body. Medicine and treatment for one month, Five Dollars, sent securely sealed from observation to any address.
Book on Special Diseases free.

DUTCHER'S FLY KILLER
Makes a clean sweep. One sheet will kill a quart of flies. Stops buzzing around head, diving at eyes, tickling nose, skips hard words and insures peace at trifling expense. Send 25 cents for 5 sheets to F. DUTCHER, St. Albans, Vt.

DROPSY
TREATED FREE.
Positively Cured with Vegetable Remedies. Have cured thousands of cases. Cure patients pronounced hopeless by best physicians. From first dose symptoms disappear; in ten days at least two-thirds all symptoms removed. Send for free book testimonials of miraculous cures. Ten days' treatment free by mail. If you order trial, send 10c. in stamps to pay postage. DR. H. H. GREEN & SONS, Atlanta, Ga.

THE ALDINE FIRE PLACE

Patronize HOME INDUSTRY
BUY SOUTHERN-MADE
PRINTING INK
FRANK J. COHEN, General Agent,
23 East Alabama St., ATLANTA, GA.

JONES
HE PAYS THE FREIGHT
JONES OF BINGHAMTON,
BINGHAMTON, N. Y.

THE HARVEST IN TEXAS

OPIUM and Whiskey Habits

$25 AN HOUR

HOME STUDY

AGRICULTURAL.

TOPICS OF INTEREST RELATIVE TO FARM AND GARDEN.

REPAIRING TINS.

Farmers who live remote from any place where there is a tinsmith are often troubled by leaks in tin roofs, or eave troughs. Any farmer can repair them and make them stronger than before. Find the leak, and apply a good coat of rather thick paint; put on a piece of old bagging or coarse muslin, then a second coat of paint, rubbing it well in and smoothly. Then cover with a piece of tin, nailing it down tightly close to the edge, using large-headed tacks; those known as twenty-four or thirty ounce. Iron tacks are best. Then give another coat of paint, and the leak is not only repaired, but that part will last much longer than the rest. Old fruit cans are just the thing for the purpose; set them on top of a hot stove till the solder is melted, and then flatten them out.—New York Witness.

CURE FOR COLIC IN HORSES.

O. H. Allen, Queens County, N. Y., writes the American Agriculturist that he has found three drops of tincture of colocynth a sure cure for colic. The tincture is to be given in three or four tablespoonfuls of water, repeating the dose every twenty minutes until there is relief. Colocynth is a strong irritant, yet, although we do not doubt that horses have recovered from colic after taking three drops of tincture of colocynth, we can hardly believe that so small a dose has produced this effect. It is given to the human subject in doses of from five to fifteen grains. Among the most effectual remedies for both spasmodic and flatulent colic in the horse are the following: Aloes, eight drams; tincture of aconite, thirty drops, in a pint of water; or linseed oil a pint, to which may or not be added an ounce of sulphuric ether; or oil of turpentine, two drams; laudanum, one ounce; linseed oil, a pint, or in great pain, laudanum two ounces; warm water, eight ounces. Veterinarians often use hypodermically Magenda's solution of morphine from twenty to forty drops, or asafetida two ounces, tincture of opium (laudanum) half an ounce. The doses above are in marked contrast to the doses of colocynth, which are not more than from a quarter to a grain, probably.

THE ODDS-AND-END CORNER.

Every one should have a corner of the garden in which to grow flowers to cut from. If you have not the flowers, you have the corner and the flowers ought to find place in it. We have a bed into which a little of everything goes. It is called the "odds-and-end" bed. Does a branch get broken off the geranium? We stick it down in this bed, and before we know it it has taken root and begun to grow, and before long we are cutting flowers from it. Are there some old house-plants that seemed to have outlived their usefulness in pots, but which we do not want to throw away? The "odds-and-end" bed has a place for them, and when we find them renewing their youth and giving us fine blossoms for the daily bouquet we are glad that we gave them a place there. Here we plant the annuals that there is no other place for after a thinning out the beds; here we set out the bulbs that we are a little fearful about. Aristocratic plants and plebeian plants are all on an equal footing. There is a thicket of vines all along the fence, a tangle of plants all about the corner, and more flowers, we sometimes think, than we get from the show-bed in front of the house. It is the most attractive part of the garden, so utterly informal, and has a "sit-down-and make-yourself-at-home" air about it. By all means, have and "odds-and-end" corner in your garden.—American Agriculturist.

BREEDING TURKEYS.

In selecting turkeys for breeding purposes choose those that have long, symmetrical bodies, full breasts and broad backs. The neck should be slender but not too long, head small and keen-looking, covered with short, black hair; the wattle and gills should be of a bright red color.

The legs should be of moderate length, and in birds eight or nine months old are a dead black color; as they grow older their legs become lighter in color, until they are quite pink. The plumage of a healthy bird is bright and glistening.

When you select birds take those that are gentle—not wild. They will cause you much less trouble than those that are easily frightened. Generally better results will be obtained if you mate birds that are not related. Would at least change "Toms" every second year.

Turkeys will not stand crowding; they should be allowed to range at will. They are great foragers, and are of great benefit, as insect destroyers, to growing crops. The hen turkey naturally hides her nest, and it is best to humor this whim, yet there is no need of its location being known only to the turkey—and a rat or mink. If turkeys are petted and are not scared by man or dog, they will nest near the house, and will deposit their eggs in nests that you make, if you do not make "nice" ones. The turkey abhors pomp and "style." A good nest is made with an old barrel laid upon its side in some secluded fence corner; then carefully throw some brush over it. Or a brush pile that has an accidental (?) opening to a smooth place beneath. When the hen goes peering about to find this place, don't watch her from where she can see you. Be just as particular as she is not to be seen. Gather the eggs when she is not about (use one or two nest eggs), and keep them in a dry, cool place. Our plan is to set the first "litter" under hens, and let the turkey have those she lays for a second litter. Unless she is a remarkably good layer she will be able to cover all she lays at this time. If she steals her nest and brings off a nice brood of turks before you are aware she is laying, don't show your disappointment by neglecting her and her brood, but give her to understand that you appreciate her sagacity and success in getting the start of you. Treat her well and when fall comes her nice, great big birds, plump and fat for the table, will be an ample reward.—Farm, Field and Stockman.

The Dampest Place on Earth.

The heaviest annual rainfall on the globe, 600 inches, is on the Khasia Hills, in India, about 500 inches of which falls in seven months. This astonishing amount is due to the abruptness of the mountains, which face the Bay of Bengal.

HOUSEHOLD MATTERS.

JELLIED CHICKEN.

Boil a chicken in as little water as possible until the meat falls from the bones; chop rather fine and season with pepper and salt. Put in a mold a layer of the chopped meat and then a layer of hard boiled eggs cut in slices, a layer of meat and eggs alternately until the mold is nearly full. Boil down the liquor left in the pot one-half; while warm add a tablespoonful of gelatine, and when this is dissolved pour into the mold over the meat; set in a cool place over night to jelly.

CHOW CHOW.

Half peck of green tomatoes, two large heads of cabbage, fifteen large onions, twenty-five cucumbers, one pint of grated horseradish, half pound of white mustard seed, one ounce of celery seed, fifteen or twenty small onions, white, half a teacup of ground pepper, turmeric and cinnamon each. Chop the tomatoes, cabbage, onions and cucumber in small pieces and salt them down one night. In the morning drain off the brine and put them to soak in vinegar and water for two days, drain off again and mix in the spices. Boil one and one-half gallons of vinegar and four pounds of brown sugar together and pour over them hot. Do this three mornings successively. The third time mix one pound of mustard with one-half pint of pure salad oil and add to it.—Detroit Free Press.

HUNGARIAN TEA LOAF.

A pound and a quarter of Hungarian flour, two ounces of white sugar and half a teaspoonful of salt are to be mixed in a large bowl; in another bowl half a pint warm milk (in which three ounces of butter have been melted) is added to the yelks of two eggs, the white of one and two tablespoonfuls of fresh barm. With this mixture the ingredients in the large pan must be made into dough with the hand and left to rise for a couple of hours, then put into a tin, well greased, and plenty of room left for rising. The heat of the oven should be quickened at the first, and allowed to subside during the baking. As soon as the loaf is taken from the oven, brush it over with the white of an egg, beaten up with a tablespoonful of castor sugar; sprinkle it with chopped almonds, then return it to the oven to set, and lightly brown the surface. Dried yeast, half an ounce, may take the place of fresh barm; it should be "creamed."—Brooklyn Citizen.

FIFTEEN-CENT BREAD PUDDING.

Soak three half pints of moderately stale bread crumbs in a quart of five cent milk half an hour. Separate the yolks and whites of two eggs. Cream one ounce of butter with two ounces of powdered sugar by stirring them together in a soup plate with a silver plated fork. Now add the yolks to this and the grated rind of one lemon. Beat thoroughly, and add to the milk-soaked bread crumbs, mix and bake in a quick oven until a delicate brown on top. Then remove from the oven and let stand while you beat up the whites of the egges with two ounces of powdered sugar and the juice of half a lemon. Spread this meringue evenly over the pudding and return to the oven long enough to tinge the meringue a light russet color.

If the meringue is added to the pudding the moment it is taken from the oven it is apt to overflow.

This will make sufficient pudding for two meals for a family of four. Serve the cold pudding at lunch next day.—New York Sun.

METHOD OF CANNING SWEET CORN.

The factory method of canning sweet corn can be to a certain extent followed in the household by providing the necessary outfit. Whether it pays on a small scale is perhaps a question. A North Carolina bulletin furnishes the following directions: When a first-class article is desired it will be necessary to select the best corn, rejecting the immature and over-ripe ears. The sooner it is canned after being taken from the stalk the better. The corn is first cut from the cob with a curved knife, made for that purpose. The cobs are then placed in a vessel containing just enough water to cover them and boiled one hour. Fill the can through the opening with the corn that has been cut from the bob, pressing it in closely, leaving empty space of above one-fourth of an inch at the top to allow for the expansion of the contents by heat. Add to each can enough of the liquid obtained by boiling the cobs to just cover the top of the corn, then solder on the caps, each of which is provided with a small vent in the centre. Place the cans with a vent open in a kettle of water and boil for three hours; then take them out. Wipe the top with a cold, wet cloth and close the vent with the solder, after which return them to the kettle and boil four hours longer. Some add a little white sugar to the liquor obtained by boiling the cobs if the corn is lacking in sweetness. The proportion of sugar is about a teaspoonful to each can of corn.—New York World.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Serve cherries piled on cracked ice.

Serve boiled fish on a folded napkin.

Old tablecloths worn thin make excellent dish towels.

Only salads among vegetable dishes are served separately now.

Really good butter is sometimes spoiled by the use of inferior salt.

Porcelain kettles and wooden spoons are best to use in making preserves.

It is well to examine the refrigerator every day to keep it thoroughly clean.

Leather chair seats may be revived by rubbing them with well-beaten white of egg.

Dip ink spots in linen in melted tallow. The ink will come out with the tallow when the linen is washed.

Soft tissue paper is the best for polishing mirrors. This may also be used for polishing or drying window-glass.

Oranges peeled, cut in very thin slices, baked in a deep dish for ten minutes, then covered with grated cocoanuts and eaten ice cold make a good dish for high tea.

Borax water tends to keep the hands soft and smooth. Dissolve the borax in hot water, using as much as the water will take up; then bottle it. Use a spoonful to a pint of water, preferably before going to bed.

For hard-boiled eggs cook them twenty minutes in water just bubbling. The yelk of an egg cooked ten minutes in rapidly boiling water is tough and indigestible; cooked twenty minutes it is dry, mealy and easily digested.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

PLEASANT LITERATURE FOR FEMININE READERS.

A SOCK DARNING FACTORY.

Mrs. Ellen Snodgrass, a lady in Wickoff, a town in Yorkshire, England, has started a new industry. She employs a number of women in darning stockings and socks, and sends a woman periodically to the big towns in the neighborhood to solicit patronage. She is at work on a machine for the purpose of darning, which will enable her to extend her operations.

A PARIS ESTIMATE OF AMERICANS.

According to the Buffalo Commercial Advertiser, a Paris dressmaker thus explained the system on which goods are sold to Americans: "Ze Boston lady, oh! she is very easy; we sell her ze thing that ze English ladies have bought. Ze New York lady we sell her ze thing that ze English ladies have not bought, and which we offer to ze lady from Lyons, from Marseilles, what will you? Or to some New York ladies we sell ze fanciful thing, as dress for ze chateau, and zey call it ze street dress, figure that to yourself! But to ze Chicago lady we sell ze thing zat ze English lady will not looks affright, and at which ze New York lady scream. Ah, we know zem all!"

A LOVE-LORN FEMALE HERMIT.

A hermit has just been discovered living on the banks of the Raritan River, but a few miles from New Brunswick, N. J. The hermit is a woman, upward of eighty years of age, and lives alone with an old servant in a secluded mansion in the woods. She is reported to be very wealthy, and although most of the rooms in the house are never used, they are handsomely furnished.

The hermit keeps to her room and has not looked on a human face but that of the old servant for thirty years. Thirty-three years ago she was disappointed in love, and although a reigning belle and heiress, she withdrew from all society.

Her meals are served to her on gold and silver dishes and she still possesses the fine dresses and jewelry of bygone days. She has never slept in a bed since her disappointment in love. The old woman spends her time in reading the thousands of old musty volumes in the book cases in her room. She has twenty-eight cats, fifteen dogs and a goat, which she feeds on the choicest viands, and when any of her pets die, she orders that they be buried in expensive coffins by an undertaker, and her wishes are faithfully carried out by the old servant.

Her jewels are kept in a curious iron bound box in her room. Her estate is also large, and is looked after by a prominent lawyer, who transacts all her business with the servant only, who is as great a mystery as her mistress. The place is thought to be haunted by the ignorant, who shun it. There are people, however, who say that they have seen the old servant digging the woods at night by the light of a lantern and this fact has given rise to the ghost stories. A large amount of money and valuables are said to be buried in the woods surrounding the old house. The hermit's name is Merritt.—New York Press.

MERRY AS A MARRIAGE BELL.

I was having luncheon in a cafe on Fifth avenue, writes a New York correspondent to the Chicago Herald, when a somewhat unusual company of people entered the almost deserted room and arranged themselves about a table which had been specially set for them. There were eight men and one young woman in the group. I recognized the occasion as a wedding breakfast of persons that were scarcely of the fashionable sort. The girl was pretty enough, but she was quite awkward, while the men hardly knew what to do with their hands, and their conversation did not scintillate, as it were, with wit or repartee. The repast was nervously gone through, two bottles of claret and two of champagne being disposed of. When the waiter brought in the coffee he was accompanied by an assistant who bore on a tray before him what appeared to be a bird pie, the crust brown and tempting, and the silver plate on which it rested garnished about with green. When this was placed before the bride she looked at her husband in surprise, but apparently did not dare suggest that this was a rather substantial dish to bring on at such a late moment. All the faces of the men were twitching with excitement, with the exception of the husband's, which expressed blank amazement at what seemed a serious breach of correct form. The waiter handed a knife and fork to the bride.

"Will madam cut the pie just here?" he asked, indicating the outer rim of the top crust.

The bride took the knife tremblingly in her hand, and, with the aid of the waiter, succeeded in lifting the entire top crust away from the lower part of the pie. Then she gave a little cry of astonishment, for a white dove lifted up its head from the interior of the pie and cooed. Around the dove's neck was a very beautiful little diamond bracelet. It was a gift from the men who were present.

The episode was certainly not consistent with the customs of good society, but it was so thoroughly enjoyed, and brought that little awkward party so close together, that it appeared quite proper and was undoubtedly very pretty. The coffee was drank amid the best of good fellowship, and everything went as merry as the proverbial marriage bell—all because of a white dove's coo.

FASHION NOTES.

The newest red is a dull shade called Eiffel rouge.

Yokes are much employed for the waists of thin dresses.

Toques grow smaller, and are more worn than ever.

Black silk stockings are in good taste with any kind of a dress.

Ribbon bandeaux and metal fillets for the coiffure are much worn.

The Sir Joshua fichu grows in popularity and in fashionable favor.

Large, loose bishop sleeves of lace are frequently seen on silk bodices.

Pale blue is fashionably combined with dark green, and pale green with dark blue.

The popular hat of midsummer was the light sailor hat of straw, in any color preferred.

The dressiest hats are made of tulle, lace, and silk gauzes over very slight wire frames.

Epaulettes and shoulder knots grow more and more fashionable as the season advances.

WORDS OF WISDOM.

There is no influence of more value than the individual sense of existence.

The man who lives without work can prove that right does not always prevail.

Custom is the shell of ignorance that progress must break through by picking at the shell, the same as chickens come to light.

The man who can determine what good training is does not need it, and the man who cannot, does not know enough to be trained.

People become educated according to their ability to throw off the influence of their training and learn something by experience.

If a baby is not weaned before it is twenty-one years old, it is more than probable that it will never develop into manhood.

All men are "queer" that dare to act themselves, but those who hope to be mistaken for others, by acting like them, are foolish.

Ability does not depend upon the volume of acquirements one may possess, but, instead, it depends upon an honesty of purpose and courage, derived from one's common sense.

Trained persons becomes more and more dependent upon what was taught them, for confidence in their own wit will in a like degree disappear.

A person who takes the trouble to slander another, unconsciously exposes the effort to advertise their own virtue, for vice needs no pointing out, neither does virtue need to be advertised.

Depravity must first be taught, for a man untaught has no knowledge other than his instinct, his consciousness, and is as innocent of wrong as a stone rolling down hill. Hence the educated only are responsible for wickedness.—Sturdy Oak.

The Frost-Proof Man.

Humanity's manifold freaks are dwarfed by the appearance of a man insensible to the differences of heat and cold. His name is Silas C. Litchfield, and for thirty-five years he has lived in a temperature averaging thirty-six degrees above zero. In all those years Mr. Litchfield has had seven days' vacation. The rest of the time he spent in a subterranean refrigerator.

This frost proof being lives in Boston, Mass. Mr. Litchfield, the frost proof man, has the reputation of being one of the strongest men physically that was ever known around the market. In discussing himself, Mr. Litchfield said:

"My name is Silas C. Litchfield. I am sixty years old. For thirty-five years I have worked in this cellar, during which time I have had only seven days' vacation, and during the last twenty-six years only one day off, when I attended the firemen's muster last year. In my early days I was supposed to be the strongest man physically hereabouts, and carried the largest ox and hog that ever came into the market. I am the only man who has been seen to take a barrel of beef weighing 400 pounds, walk up the stairs and deliver it across the street. I have coopered ten barrels in less than eleven minutes right in here. I come to work at 3:30 A. M., and continue to cut beef, with about two hours out of the refrigerator for meals, until 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

"How do I like it? Why, I would rather be in there on a hot day than outside sweltering. I'm acclimated, and think no more of coming in here to work than you do of going into your office. Ain't I ever sick? Why, bless you, I've never been sick a day in my life, and never have a pain or ache. I can either go in or come out with impunity, and never feel the slightest difference in the two extremes.

"I can go from an atmosphere of 100 degrees into my thirty-six degree icebox and don't feel any different from what you do going from one room to another. In fact I've got no feeling as far as hot and cold is concerned."

Mr. Litchfield's employer speaks in the highest terms of his employe, and said that at one time Silas Litchfield was considered the strongest man in Boston. His insensibility to cold is due entirely to his long life in the refrigerator.—New York Graphic.

The Speed of Fishes.

The speed of fishes is almost an unknown quantity, being, as Professor G. Brown Goode says, very difficult to measure. "If you could get a fish," said Professor Goode to a Post reporter, "and put him in a trough of water 1000 feet long and start him at one end and make him swim to the other without stopping, the information could be easily obtained, but fish are unintelligent and they won't do this. Estimates of the speed of fish consequently are only approximated, and more or less founded on guessing. You can tell, however, at a glance whether a fish is built for speed or not. A fast fish looks trim and pointed, like a yacht. Its head is conical shaped, and its fins fit down close to its body, like a knife blade into its handle. Fish with large heads, bigger than their bodies, and with short, stubby fins, are built for slow motion."

"What are the fastest fishes?"

"The predatory fish, those which live on prey, are the fastest swimmers. The food fish are generally among the slowest, and are consequently, easily captured. Their loss is recompensed, however, by the natural law which makes them very prolific in reproduction. Dolphins have been known to swim around an ocean steamer, and it is quite safe to say that their speed is twenty miles an hour, but it may be twice as much. The bonito is a fast-swimming fish. Just what its speed is I do not know. The head of the goose fish is very large—twenty times as big as its body. It moves about very little, and swims at the bottom of the ocean. The Spanish mackerel is one of the fastest of the food fishes. Its body is cone-shaped and as smooth as burnished metal. Its speed is as matchless as the dolphin, and in motion it cuts the water like a yacht."—Washington Post.

Students Who Rise at 3:30 A. M.

How happy are the Mussulman students at the University of Fez. True, they have to rise at 3:30 A. M. in summer and at 5 A. M. in winter and their labors are not over until 9:30 P. M.; they have but one holiday in the week, and on that they are expected to practice total abstinence both from studies and from food. But in revenge they have no examinations. Each professor knows how to distinguish those of his hearers whose qualities render them worthy of a diploma, which diploma is highly valued, and gives those who possess it a veritable prestige in the Mussulman world.—San Francisco.

CURIOUS FACTS.

Melons were found originally in Asia.

The Mormons founded Nauvoo, Ill., in 1840.

Sage is a native of the South of Europe.

An Atlanta (Ga.) store is built entirely of paper.

In France a seventh son in direct succession is called a marcou.

There is only one lawyer in Millville, N. J., a city of over 10,000 inhabitants.

It is an ancient belief that a change in the body of a man occurs every seventh year.

Mr. C. W. Oldrive walked five miles on the surface of the water near Boston recently.

The New York Custom House has an efficient clerk, William O. Fitzgerald, who is a deaf mute.

The present English national debt may be said to have commenced in the reign of William III., 1689.

Ship building was begun at Salem, Mass., about 1640. So began the ship building industry in this country.

It is said that the number of derelicts recorded each month in the North Atlantic alone varies from twenty-five to forty-five.

About a week's association with a thrashing machine will pitch a farmer's voice fully an octave higher, as all town folks know.

A Jefferson City (Mo.) man manages to make a living by following up picnic parties and gathering up the empty bottles which they leave.

Toads from the squares loiter around the Philadelphia electric light poles to feast on the fried bugs that tumble to them sizzling hot.

The Minie rifle was invented at Vincennes, France, about 1833, by M. Minie, who from a common soldier raised himself to a high rank.

A Pennsylvania boy found a bird's nest that contained eggs of four different colors—white, pink, blue and green. All were of the same size.

A Chicago detective has just had his pocket picked of $600, which he had drawn from a building association to make a payment on a house.

A goat at Dallas, Texas, which came upon a rattlesnake, walked back a few yards, and taking a running start, made a long jump, alighting with his legs bunched, and cutting the snake in pieces.

Spiders have been known to come out of their webs and crawl down the sides of the wall at the sound of music, seemingly enchanted by the sounds, but hurrying back to their hiding-place as soon as the music ceased.

The latest development of the slot machine is a brass frame inclosing the city directory, which permits the volume to be opened only when a cent has been inserted in the slot. It is hailed as a blessing by druggists and others whose directories are in constant demand by the public.

It is believed by the Moslems that at the Judgment day painters will be required to furnish with souls all representations of human beings which they have made. Failing in this ordeal, they will lose their own souls as a forfeit for their presumptuous imitation of the work of the Creator.

One method of keeping the railroad track clear of sand near the Caspian Sea is to soak the road-bed with sea-water. In other places it is protected with an armor of clay. Palisades are erected sometimes to stop drifting. Another method employed is the cultivation of hardy plants, such as are used for the same purpose on the Danish coast.

Romance of a Famous Mineral Water.

David Andreas Saxlehner, owner of the Hunyadi Janos, died recently while on his way to Carlsbad. He was a man of limited education, but practical in the extreme. After failing in several undertakings, he established a "national clothing-house" in Buda Pesth, in which home-goods alone were sold. Louis Kossuth, the Hungarian patriot, consented to act as Saxlehner's clerk for several days, in consequence of which the business increased enormously. While Saxlehner was sitting one day in his office, a peasant entered and complained that he could get no fresh water on his farm. He had bored wells in a number of places, but succeeded in getting only a peculiarly scented fluid, which he feared to use. Saxlehner was interested. He asked the peasant to bring him a sample-bottle of the water, had it analyzed, and decided to purchase the estate. He paid one thousand gulden per acre for the farm, and established a factory as soon as possible. The water became popular at once, and the red label upon the bottles a famous trade-mark. Of late years, the sales reached four millions annually, and made Saxlehner many times a millionaire.

An Algerian Horror.

A performance which is qute out of the common rut is that of the Aissaouas in the Algerian concert at the Paris Exposition. The Aissaouas are not actors, dancers, or athletes; they belong to a tribe where religious juggling is kept in great honor. To please the Divinity they eat the leaves of the thorny cactus, make their eyes project from their orbits, pierce their cheeks with long needles, have themselves bitten by vipers, swallow snakes or keep their equilibrium on a dagger, and all this is accomplished without shedding blood and without apparent pain or injury to themselves. After roasting for a few minutes over a brazier holding hot coals, they look intoxicated and give to the head a rotary impulse which leaves them in a sort of hypnotised state. Then, at the sound of a particular sort of music, they perform before the public all the acts that I have just enumerated. It is terrifying, even repugnant, but all the same it is very curious, and is one of the great attractions of the Exposition.—Chicago Herald.

Poetry Inspired by a Centipede.

Professor Lankester speaks at length in Nature of the series of instantaneous photographs of men and animals in motion taken by Muybridge for the University of Pennsylvania. He suggests that by this means we may be able to analyze the movements of the separate legs of the centipede, an insect which has absorbed many of the Professor's valuable hours. So enthusiastic does he become that he bursts forth in the following ditty:

"A centipede was happy—quite!
Until a toad in fun
Said, 'Pray which leg moves after which?'
This raised her doubts to such a pitch,
She fell exhausted in the ditch,
Not knowing how to run."

Wife (looking up from newspaper): "Astronomy must be a fascinating study. Here's an account of an astronomer sweeping the heavens with his telescope."

Husband: "Yes; that's the latest style of telescope, with broom attachment."

"Mamma's Gittin' Better."

There is gladness in the household,
The shadow fades away
That darkened all the sunshine
Of many a summer day.
"O, mamma's getting better,"
The happy children cry,
And the light of hope shines bright again
In the loving husband's eye.

In thousands of homes women are "sick unto death" with the terrible diseases so common to their sex, and it would seem as if all the happiness had gone out of life and the household in consequence. For when the wife and mother suffers all the family suffers with her. This ought not to be, and it need not be, for a never-failing remedy for woman's ailments is at hand. Many a home has been made happy because the shadow of disease has been banished from it by the potent power of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—the unfailing remedy for all weaknesses and diseases peculiar to women.

$500 Reward offered for an incurable case of Catarrh by the proprietors of Dr. Sage's Remedy. 50 cts., by druggists.

The worst hypocrite is the man who tells his wife that she always looks her prettiest when dressed in calico.

ENDERS, PA., Feb. 14, 1889.

Piso's Cure for Consumption relieved the cough, checked the night-sweats and emaciation—in short, gave a new lease of life to a patient of mine who was rapidly and surely approaching the final stage of this dreaded disease.

To-day she is in the enjoyment of fair health, and this result is due to the beneficial effects of only a few bottles of Piso's Cure for Consumption.

If we take into consideration the DURATION of this patient's sickness, the SEVERITY of the symptoms, the SMALL quantity of the remedial agent and the BRIEF PERIOD OF TIME within which a CURE WAS EFFECTED, we cannot fail to acknowledge the truly wonderful effects of Piso's Cure for Consumption.

LEVI JAY ENDERS, M.D.

In every community there are living witnesses to testify that in naming our medicine Piso's Cure for Consumption, we have not claimed more than it can do. Its standing in the market also proves its merit. We have not published sensational notices; our advertisements have been mere signs to indicate the existence of Piso's Cure for Consumption. Instead of endeavoring to excite fear our purpose has been to encourage hope.

Yet Piso's Cure for Consumption stands to-day at the head of all medicines of its class, requiring for its manufacture a factory full of skilled workers and improved machinery, whereas about twenty years ago all the work was done in one little room by one man.

Price, 25 cents per bottle.

E. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.

Harvest Excursions.

The golden harvest time is near, and fortunately the facilities for enjoying it are ample. The CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY will sell Harvest Excursion Tickets to all points in Kansas and Nebraska (west of but not on the Missouri River), Colorado, Indian Territory, New Mexico, Texas, Wyoming, Utah, Idaho, Dakota, Arizona, Northwestern Iowa and Southwestern Minnesota at ONE FARE FOR THE ROUND TRIP. Dates of sale September 10th and 24th, and October 8th, 1889; return limit, 30 days from date of sale, thus affording opportunities for investment or the location of farms and homes in growing sections of new country SUCH AS WERE NEVER BEFORE OFFERED, the territory to choose from being very much larger than that included in the scope of any similar previous excursion. THE SOLID VESTIBULE TRAINS OF THE ROCK ISLAND are composed of elegant Day Coaches, Pullman Palace Sleepers, FREE Reclining Chair Cars and Dining Cars to and from Omaha, and via Kansas City and St. Joseph through the most desirable portions of Kansas and Nebraska to Denver, Colorado Springs and Pueblo, where direct communications are made with diverging lines (also at St. Paul) to all points in the States and Territories above named. For more detailed information call on or address JOHN SEBASTIAN, General Ticket and Passenger Agent, Chicago, Ill.

Sarah Bernhardt.

is coming to America, and great will be the enthusiasm aroused amongst her admirers. But, we have our own bright star, Mary Anderson, who will continue to bear off the palm in the dramatic, as does Lucy Hinton in the great tobacco world.

"There is a tide in the affairs of men which if taken at the flood leads on to fortune." If your affairs are at a low ebb now, don't fail to write to B. F. Johnson & Co., 1009 Main St., Richmond, Va., who have plans that will enable you to make money rapidly.

Bradfield's Female Regulator will cure all irregularities or derangements peculiar to woman. Those suffering should use it. Sold by all Druggists.

The most prominent physicians in the city smoke and recommend "Tansill's Punch."

If afflicted with sore eyes use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye-water. Druggists sell at 25c per bottle.

Why Don't

You take Hood's Sarsaparilla, if you have impure blood, have lost your appetite, have that tired feeling or are troubled by sick headache, dyspepsia or biliousness. It has accomplished wonders for thousands of afflicted people, and, if given a fair trial, is reasonably certain to do you good.

"I have been troubled a great deal with headache, had no appetite, no strength, and felt as mean as anyone could, and be about my work. Since taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I have not had the headache, my food has relished, and seemed to do me good, and I have felt myself growing stronger every day." M. A. STEINMAN, 39 Grand Avenue, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

Ely's Cream Balm

GIVES RELIEF AT ONCE FOR COLD IN HEAD.

—CURES—

CATARRH.

Apply Balm into each nostril.
ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y.

THE CURE FOR CATARRH COLD IN HEAD HAY FEVER DEAFNESS HEADACHE ELY'S CREAM BALM 50c

RUPTURE

A written guarantee to ABSOLUTELY CURE. No detention from business. Endorsed by the leading physicians of the United States. Write for circulars.
DR. C. E. MCCANDLISS, ATLANTA, GA.
Office 23½ Marietta Street, corner Broad.

LADIES

Amenagogue Pills

For Irregularities. Safe and certain. Should not be taken if enceinte. Price per box of 100 pills, $1.00.
DR. W. C. ASHER, 21½ Marietta St., ATLANTA, GA.

OPIUM HABIT.

A Valuable Treatise Giving full information of an Easy and Speedy cure free to the afflicted. DR. J. C. HOFFMAN, Jefferson, Wisconsin.

YOU CAN MAKE $100 A MONTH working for us. Gentlemen and Lady agents wanted who can devote their entire time to the business. Spare time may also be employed profitably. Good agents promptly promoted to better positions. It will pay you to write us. Address at once, D. W. THAYER & CO., Pubs., Atlanta, Ga.

PEERLESS DYES Are the BEST. Sold by Druggists.

PISO'S REMEDY FOR CATARRH.—Best, Easiest to use. Cheapest. Relief is immediate. A cure is certain. For Cold in the Head it has no equal.

CATARRH

It is an Ointment, of which a small particle is applied to the nostrils. Price, 50c. Sold by druggists or sent by mail. Address, E. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.

TOWER'S FISH BRAND SLICKER

BRYANT & STRATTON Business College

BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR — DANGEROUS, PAINFUL, PROFUSE, SCANTY, SUPPRESSED OR IRREGULAR MENSTRUATION. BOOK TO "WOMAN" MAILED FREE. BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., ATLANTA, GA.

WEBSTER — THE BEST INVESTMENT For the Family, School, or Professional Library.

Has been for many years Standard Authority in the Gov't Printing Office and U. S. Supreme Court. It is Highly Recommended by 38 State Sup'ts of Schools and the leading College Presidents. Nearly all the School Books published in this country are based upon Webster, as attested by the leading School Book Publishers. 3000 more Words and nearly 2000 more Engravings than any other American Dictionary.

GET THE BEST. Sold by all Booksellers. Illustrated Pamphlet with specimen pages, etc., sent free. G. & C. MERRIAM & CO., Pub'rs, Springfield, Mass.

IF YOU WISH A GOOD REVOLVER purchase one of the celebrated SMITH & WESSON arms. SMITH & WESSON, Springfield, Mass. Mention this paper.

ARE YOU THINKING OF BUYING A Cotton or Hay Press? ROANOKE IRON & WOOD WORKS, CHATTANOOGA, TENN.

Dr. Lobb, 329 N. 15th St., PHILA., PA.

DUTCHER'S FLY KILLER

DROPSY TREATED FREE.

THE ALDINE FIRE PLACE

Patronize HOME INDUSTRY. BUY SOUTHERN-MADE PRINTING INK. FRANK J. COHEN, General Agent, 33 East Alabama St., ATLANTA, GA.

JONES HE PAYS THE FREIGHT. JONES OF BINGHAMTON, BINGHAMTON, N. Y.

THE HARVEST IN TEXAS

OPIUM and Whiskey Habits. B. M. WOOLLEY, Atlanta, Ga.

A. N. U.

BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR
SPECIFIC PAINFUL PROFUSE SCANTY SUPPRESSED IRREGULAR MENSTRUATION
TO WOMAN
BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO. ATLANTA GA.

WEBSTER
THE BEST INVESTMENT
Family, School, or Professional Library.
WEBSTER'S UNABRIDGED DICTIONARY
A LIBRARY IN ITSELF been for many years Standard Authority in the Gov't Printing Office and U. S. Supreme Court.
Highly Recommended by 38 State Sup'ts of Schools and the leading College Presidents.
Nearly all the School Books published in this country are based upon Webster, as attested by the leading School Book Publishers.
3000 more Words and nearly 2000 more Engravings than any other American Dictionary.
GET THE BEST.
by all Booksellers. Illustrated Pamphlet with specimen pages, etc., sent free.
G. & C. MERRIAM & CO., Pub'rs, Springfield, Mass.

SMITH & WESSON
SMITH & WESSON, Springfield, Mass.

ARE YOU THINKING OF BUYING A Cotton or Hay Press?
We manufacture a Cotton Press and two Hay Presses. Will send Circulars and Price List upon application.
ROANOKE IRON AND WOOD WORKS. CHATTANOOGA, TENN. P. O. Box 260.

Dr. Lobb, 329 N. 15th St. PHILA., PA.
After ALL others fail, consult

DUTCHER'S FLY KILLER
F. DUTCHER, St. Albans, Vt.

DROPSY TREATED FREE.
Dr. H. H. GREEN & SONS, Atlanta, Ga.

THE ALDINE FIRE PLACE.
Address ALDINE MFG. CO., Grand Rapids, Michigan.

Patronize HOME INDUSTRY! BUY SOUTHERN-MADE PRINTING INKS
—FROM—
FRANK J. COHEN, General Agent, 23 East Alabama St., ATLANTA, GA.

JONES HE PAYS THE FREIGHT.
5 Ton Wagon Scales, Iron Levers, Steel Bearings, Brass Tare Beam and Beam Box for $60.
JONES OF BINGHAMTON, BINGHAMTON, N. Y.

THE HARVEST IN TEXAS

OPIUM and Whiskey Habits cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE. B. M. WOOLLEY, M.D. Atlanta, Ga. Office 65½ Whitehall St.

$25 AN HOUR made by our Agents. THE DR. PERRY MEDICAL CO., Richmond.

HOME STUDY. Book-keeping, Business Forms, Penmanship, Arithmetic, Shorthand, etc., thoroughly taught by MAIL. Bryant's College, 457 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y.

I prescribe and fully endorse Big G as the only specific for the certain cure of this disease. G. H. INGRAHAM, M.D., Amsterdam, N. Y.
We have sold Big G for many years, and it has given the best of satisfaction. D. R. DYCHE & CO., Chicago, Ill.
$1.00. Sold by Druggists.

CATARRH.—Best. Easiest to use. Relief is immediate. A cure is certain. it has no equal.
CATARRH
A small particle is applied into each nostril. Sold by druggists or sent by mail. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.

SLICKER The Best Waterproof Coat.

BRYANT & STRATTON Business College, LOUISVILLE, KY.

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per square, of one inch space or less, for the first, and fifty cents for each subsequent insertion.

Inches.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
1 Inch	$ 5 50	$ 7 70	$ 11 25
2 Inches	7 00	11 25	16 00
3 Inches	10 00	15 00	22 50
4 Inches	12 50	20 00	27 00
5 Inches	15 00	22 50	33 00
¼ Column	18 00	27 00	40 00
½ Column	27 00	40 00	60 00
1 Column	40 00	60 00	100 00

The Chilton View.

W. H. LAWRENCE, Editor and Publisher. "WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION." TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME VIII. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 19, 1889. NUMBER 47.

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line each insertion.

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be headed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

☞ The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

Caheen's Grand Introductory Sale OF NEW FALL DRESS GOODS!

EVERYTHING NEW, BRIGHT AND SPARKLING.

New Silks, New Velvets, New Trimmings, New Henriettas, New Brilliantes, New Drap D'Almas, New Dress Fringes and New High Art Production Novelty Combination Suits.

Early as it is, we are selling quantities of Fall Dress Goods, probably because we now have a great assortment at very attractive prices. New goods are arriving daily and we will beyond the slightest shadow of a doubt have the largest, finest and best assorted stock ever shown in Birmingham.

The Grapevine Swing.

When I was a boy on the old plantation,
Down by the deep bayou—
The fairest spot of all creation,
Under the arching blue—
When the wind came over the cotton and corn,
To the long slim loop I'd spring,
With brown feet bare, and a hat brim torn,
And swing in the grapevine swing.

Swinging in the grapevine swing,
Laughing where the wild birds sing—
I dream and sigh
For the days gone by
Swinging in the grapevine swing.

Out—o'er the water lilies bonnie and bright,
Back to the moss-grown trees;
I shouted and laughed with a heart as light
As a wild rose tossed by the breeze.
The mocking-bird joined in my reckless glee,
I longed for no angel's wings:
I was just as near heaven as I wanted to be,
Swinging in the grapevine swing.

Swinging in the grapevine swing,
Laughing where the wild birds sing
Oh, to be a boy,
With a heart full of joy,
Swinging in the grapevine swing.

I'm weary at morn, I'm weary at night
I'm fretted and sore of heart;
And care is sowing my locks with white
As I wend through the fevered mart.
I'm tired of the world, with its pride and pomp,
And fame seems a worthless thing;
I'd barter it all for one day's romp,
And a swing in the grapevine swing.

Swinging in the grapevine swing,
Laughing where the wild birds sing—
I would I were away
From the world today,
Swinging in the grapevine swing.

—Samuel M. Peck in Times-Democrat.

Saved By a Broken Strap.

AN ADVENTURE IN SWITZERLAND.

The sun was just beginning to sink toward the great snow-peaks of the Central Alps, on a fine summer evening, when three strapping young fellows, knapsack on shoulder and pikestaff in hand, came tramping down the steep hillside that overhung one of the prettiest valleys in northern Switzerland. And there, on the farther side of it, barely three miles away, lay nestling beneath the shadow of a vast rocky mountain, thousands of feet high, the snug little village where they meant to halt for the night—a welcome sight to them all, for they had had a long and hard tramp that hot summer day.

But all at once the tallest of the three, who was lagging a few paces behind the other two, as if he were either less active or more foot-sore than his comrades, stopped short, uttering an impatient exclamation.

"There's that plaguy strap given way again!" cried he angrily, as he slipped his heavy knapsack off his shoulders. "One would think I had nothing else to do but to keep fussing with it!"

"Are you sure you didn't help it a little yourself, Ludwig?" asked Franz, with a sly grin. "It's queer that every time you begin to feel a bit tired, that strap's sure to come loose again."

"Well, anyhow, we can't wait till the repairs are completed, for I want my supper," said Kaspar, who was almost as good at eating as at walking. "We had better go on to the village; and when Ludwig's straps are mended—or his feet are rested, which is the same thing—I suppose he'll come after us."

And so, laughing and joking like school-boys, the doomed men went merrily onward to the very spot which, of all places on earth, they ought to have avoided.

Meanwhile Ludwig, who really was rather tired after his long march, and also, perhaps, somewhat vexed with his two friends for leaving him, took his time about splicing and repairing the broken strap; and even when all was done he found the grass upon which he lay so soft, and the shade of the tree above him so pleasant, that he was in no hurry to move.

"If they couldn't take the trouble to wait for me," he muttered, looking after his two companions, who were just disappearing among the clustering trees far below, "I don't see why I should take the trouble to run after them; so I'll just lie still a little longer, and have a bite."

And taking out of his pouch a piece of brown bread and some hard cheese, he fell to with a will.

Just as he was finishing his meal, and thinking of getting up to march on, he suddenly caught sight of something in the distance which puzzled him a good deal, and, to tell the truth, somewhat frightened him.

A number of birds which were wheeling around the tree-tops of the valley below checked their movements all of a sudden, fluttered confusedly to and fro for a few moments, and then, with shrill screams of terror, came flying to the other side of the valley as if pursued by some terrible enemy, passing Ludwig with a rush that stirred the leaves above his head like a strong breeze.

What could it be that was terrifying them? Ludwig strained his eyes toward the village, expecting to see a hawk, or a mountain vulture, or some other bird of prey, but nothing of the kind was to be seen.

A few minutes later, however, he saw something which disturbed him still more. A flock of sheep, which were feeding peacefully in a wide green meadow that lay midway between the village and a small lake in the centre of the valley, suddenly ceased to feed, lifted their heads uneasily, and then, without any apparent reason, rushed wildly away from their pasture, and came galloping up the narrow path to the spot where Ludwig stood, as if a whole pack of wolves were at their heels. But neither wolf nor any other creature was there.

Then a strange horror, which he could not himself understand, began to creep over the lonely man as he stood watching there. And even while he looked he was startled by another portent more awful and mysterious still. Although not a breath of wind was stirring, the smooth surface of the lake heaved itself all at once into angry waves, which surged furiously to and fro, while the trees were shaken as if by the rush of a storm.

Ludwig took out his spyglass in order to observe this extraordinary commotion more closely. But as he glanced through it he gave a start, and his sunburned face grew pale to the very lips, as well it might.

For as long as its oldest inhabitants could remember, a small stream had come leaping and flashing down the mountain side just beyond the village, bounding from ledge to ledge of the great precipice in an endless succession of tiny water-falls; and when he had passed through the valley only a few weeks before he had seen it there himself, just the same as ever. Where was it now?

Where, indeed? He rubbed his eyes, thinking that they must have deceived him; but no—he had seen only too truly. The bed of the torrent was dry.

Never before, even in far hotter and drier summers than this, had that stream been known to fail; and even had the sun had the power to parch it up, the heavy rains which had lately fallen would have been more than enough to swell it to its wonted size again; yet now not a trace of it was left!

As Ludwig stood gazing at this unaccountable phenomenon he suddenly saw, or thought he saw, the outlines of the great mountain wall that overhung the village begin to quiver and tremble as if seen through wet glass. He wiped his spy-glass with the skirt of his coat, and looked again. In that one glance the fearful truth burst upon him—the whole mountain was falling!

The cry of horror that broke from his lips was drowned by a crash as if the earth itself had been rent in twain. Instantly all was dark as night, the air trembled, the ground shook beneath his feet, and he fell heavily to the earth.

How long he lay there, helpless and unconscious, he never knew; but when he began to come to himself again, and rose to his feet, shaking off, as he did so, a thick cloud of dust that covered him from head to heel, the unnatural gloom had passed away, and the last rays of the setting sun were lighting up the surrounding landscape.

But oh, what a scene those rays revealed to his shuddering sight! The beautiful green valley, the happy village, the smooth, shining lake, were gone as if they had never been; and in their places lay outspread beneath him one wide waste of hideous ruin—broken rocks, vast mounds of earth and gravel, shattered trunks of uprooted trees, and great sheets of muddy water; for so mighty a mass of ruin had been hurled into the lake that its waters had been actually forced from their bed, and dashed over the surrounding country in one gigantic wave, sweeping to instant destruction every living thing that lay in the path of its rush. Of the ill-fated village itself nothing was ever seen again, except the bell of its church, which was found amid a heap of earth and stones fully a mile and a half away.

Years have passed since that fatal evening, and among the wrecks of the tremendous landslip other villages have sprung up. But its traces are as plain as ever, and many people still live there who have heard from the lips of a white-haired old man named Ludwig Stein how his life was once saved by a broken strap.—Harper's Young People.

Colts Lick a Calf.

A farmer named Hilton hired a very inexperienced boy to help him about the place. One morning he told the lad to go and salt the calf over in the pasture. The boy took about a quart of salt, rubbed it all over the calf working it into the hair. A gang of colts in the pasture scented the salt and got after the calf. They licked the hair all off the calf's back and tried to lick the hide off, too. The farmer tried to catch the calf to wash it, but the creature thinking he wanted to lick, too, kept out of the way. The boy, calf and farmer are all unhappy. The colts are the only ones that got any fun out of it.—Savannah (Ga.) Republican.

Seeing the Wind.

Take a polished metallic surface of two feet or more, with a straight edge; a large hand-saw will answer the purpose. Select a windy day, whether hot or cold, clear or cloudy, only let it not rain or the air be murky—in other words, let the air be dry. Hold the metallic surface at right angles to the wind, i. e., if the wind is north, hold your surface east and west, and incline it at an angle of about forty-five degrees, so that the wind striking, glances and flows over the edge. Now sight carefully over the edge at some minute and clearly defined object, and you will see the air flow over as water flows over a dam.

Baby Snakes at Breakfast.

Workmen doing the grading on a railroad near Atlanta, Ga., witnessed the sight the other day of a snake feeding its offspring. The baby snakes were secure in the roots of an old tree, and the mother, which caught flies by springing at them, would, when possessed of a fly, rapidly glide to the young snakes, which came pell-mell, helter-skelter to meet her. She caught a fly a minute, and was watched securing them for over two hours.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

A Missouri Fruit Farm.

Several years ago five men purchased 2200 acres of land in Howell County, Mo., for the purpose of establishing a fruit farm. They now have 31,000 peach trees, 22,000 apple, 200 pear, and 600 cherry trees, all bearing, and 40 acres in small fruit. The peach crop from the farm this year is estimated at 30,000 crates.

PEARLS OF THOUGHT.

The best excuse is to have none.

Vows made in storms are forgotten in calms.

Envy shoots at others and wounds herself.

Youth and white paper soon make an impression.

Zeal without knowledge is like fire without light.

A goosequill is more dangerous than a lion's claw.

Beware of a silent dog and a wet rat.

What we call time enough always proves little enough.

History is not fable agreed upon, but truth disagreed upon.

Remember impertinence isn't wit, any more than insolence is brilliancy.

A little seeing saves much looking; a little speaking saves much talking.

He who waits to do a great good at once will seldom do anything at all.

Gratitude is the music of the heart when its chords are moved by kindness.

Fortunes are made by taking opportunities; character is made by making them.

Don't indulge in the luxury of strong opinions in the presence of your elders and betters.

If young men will not believe in themselves, no man or woman can believe in them.

Ten Years Old and Weighs 234 Pounds

Mr. S. W. Power, who lives about eight miles from Nashville, Ark., was in the city recently with his son, a lad of 10 years. The little fellow gave his name as Zelates Orestes Power. He is something of a wonder in his way, weighing at this early age 234 pounds. Considering his ponderous size for a child of 10 he is quite active. He enjoys good health, is intelligent and even industrious—that is, as far as is compatible with his great weight and tender years. He has quite a tact for machinery and has great mechanical ingenuity. When walking the streets he presents the appearance of a huge miniature giant. He is about the height of children at the age of 10 ordinarily, possibly some taller, but not much. His parents are of average size and not large. They stand high in their community. They live at Corinth, a small interior town in the county.

Chinese Cooking Stoves.

A cooking stove from China is cylindrical in shape, about 18 inches in height, and made of pewter. In the top are circular orifices for pots and kettles, which, when in position, surround a little portable furnace. The Chinese cooking utensils, like the Japanese and Corean seem all to be on a diminutive scale. Economy is attained by their arrangement, as it is not necessary to burn a scuttle or two of coal in a big range in order to make a cup of tea. The Corean has a fire-pot made of soapstone. It is like a bowl with a little circular furnace in the centre. The coals are put in the furnace, the meats or vegetables to be cooked placed in the bowl around it and the cover put on. The Chinese have fire-pots similar in construction but made of metal.

A Safety Coffin.

One of the most curious inventions of 1868 was that of a safety coffin, intended to obviate the results of premature burial, and invented by M. Vester, a German. The coffin was made larger than required by the size of the body; it had at the head a movable lid, communicating with the open air by means of a square trough from the bottom of the grave. The arrangement was such that a person might then readily escape from the tomb. The inventor proposed to place refreshments in the coffin as a [illegible]

A Bleak Signal Service Station.

The officer in charge of the United States Signal Service Station on the top of Pike's Peak passes his days in a low, flat building made of stone and anchored and bolted to the granite bowlders. During the winter he has no connection whatever with the rest of the world. No human being can ascend to his station, and it is almost impossible for him to go down. Lee Meriwether, who ascended the snow-covered mountain one July day, says that the signal officer's face wears that careworn, depressed expression which comes from unbroken solitude. "You don't often see snow in July?" he said, after I had thawed out before a blazing fire. "Not often. You don't yourself, do you?" "Yes, two or three times a week. Snow is my only water supply. That boiler there," pointing to the stove, "is full of melting snow. Even in the heat of summer there is always enough snow at my door to furnish all the water needed." "Does not life become weary and desolate here, so far from the world?" "So much so that I sometimes fear it will drive me crazy. My official duties are light; they require only an occasional inspection of the instruments. The rest of the time I have nothing to do but read. Too much reading becomes wearisome. Sometimes I stand at the window with my telescope. The wind without is keen and cutting as a knife. I can see the houses of Colorado Springs," he continued, "twenty miles away; see the visitors sitting in their shirt-sleeves, sipping iced drinks to keep cool, and the ladies walking about in white summer-robes. Then I lower the glass; the summer scene is gone. Green trees and animal life, men and women, fade away like creatures in a dream, and I am the only living thing in a world of eternal ice and snow and silence.—Argonaut.

Lightning Flashes.

The length of the track of air through which lightning flashes is sometimes surprisingly great: M. d'Abbadie measured lightnings in Abyssinia which were four miles long from the place where they issued from the cloud to the point where they struck the earth. M. Petit, another very trustworthy authority, marked the extent of a lightning discharge at Toulouse, which proved to be more than ten miles long. M. Trouvelot submitted to the Paris Academy of Sciences a photograph of a flash of lightning which he secured during a storm on the 24th of June, 1888. The flash, which seemed to connect the earth to a cloud, subtended an angle of 40 degrees. It appeared divided in four main branches, brilliant and strong marked, with others very faint. The total number of branches, large and small, was 37. The image of the flash showed it to be like a long ribbon, taking all the forms which a ribbon might present if plunged into a slowly moving liquid. Flashes generally pass through the atmosphere in a zig-zag direction—a phenomenon ascribed to the resistance offered by the air condensed by the passage of a strong discharge. The spark diverges from a straight line and takes the direction of least resistance.

The Champion Horse-Swapper.

Luke Crawford of Thomaston is the champion horse-swapper of that place. He had one day three horses, altogether not worth $200, and during the day he traded fifty-five times and quit with one horse, it being one of the same he started with. He also had as a result of the day's work $350 in money, a bull and a buggy.—Macon (Ga.) Telegraph.

A Degree Worse.

Mrs. Cobwigger—I never like to take my little girl to church, she asks me such queer questions on the way home.

Mrs. Brown—That isn't half as bad as my little girl, who asks the queer questions right out loud in church.—[illegible]

General Jackson's Tomb.

The tomb of Andrew Jackson is in the southwest corner of the garden, three hundred feet or so from the Jackson monument, near Nashville, Tenn. The material used in the construction is solid limestone, and the flight of years has made but slight impression on it. The dome is supported by eight columns of the Doric order and three large steps serve as well-proportioned base. Upon either side of the monumental piece in the centre are two heavy slabs of stone, lying horizontally upon the floor of the tomb and in them are cut the inscriptions. Nothing could be simpler than one, "General Andrew Jackson. Born March 16, 1767. Died June 8, 1845." History tells and will ever tell the rest. Poor Rachel, who never saw the White House to live in it and who never cared to go there except to be with her illustrious husband, has one of the most beautiful inscriptions ever cut in stone or graven in bronze:

ANDREW JACKSON'S TOMB.

"Here lie the remains of Mrs. Rachel Jackson, wife of President Jackson, who died the 22d of December, 1828, aged sixty-one years. Her face was fair, her person pleasing, her temper amiable, her heart kind. She delighted in relieving the wants of her fellow-creatures, and cultivated that divine pleasure by the most liberal and unpretending methods. To the poor she was a benefactor, to the rich an example, to the wretched a comforter, to the prosperous an ornament. Her piety went hand in hand with her benevolence, and she thanked her Creator for being permitted to do good. A being so gentle and so virtuous slander might wound but could not dishonor. Even death, when he bore her from the arms of her husband, could but transport her to the bosom of her God."

Jackson might have had a more pretentious monument. A short time before his death Commodore Elliott brought home from a cruise in the Mediterranean the sarcophagus of a Roman Emperor, minus the remains. He offered it to the ex-President, who sent him this reply: "I have received your kind letter with its accompaniment, and you must pardon me if I do not accept it, for I do not think the sarcophagus of a Roman Emperor a fit receptacle for the remains of an American Democrat." The sarcophagus then went to the museum of the Smithsonian Institution at Washington.—New York World.

Two of "Old Hickory's" Slaves.

Two of General Jackson's old slaves are still living at the Hermitage. One is "old Alfred," who has convinced himself, and would like to convince all who visit the place, that he was the body servant of his master. The truth of history compels the statement that this is a figment of his imagination. Hannah's claims are, however, beyond all doubt or controversy. They rest on the solid foundation of fact. She was a trusted, confidential household servant long before General Jackson became President, and it was in her arms that Mrs. Jackson died in 1828. Her age is at least ninety-five. When James Parton visited the Hermitage, about 1860, he was struck by the great number of vigorous old people whom he met, and this sentence occurs in his "Life of Jackson": "Old Hannah, for example, whose care of the children at the Hermitage Jackson extols, is now sixty-seven years of age, and she appears to be still in the very prime of her vigor. She strode about the Hermitage with us on a chilly, wet day in February, bareheaded, with a spring in her step that belongs to thirty-five. When informed of her age I stared incredulous." Nine-and-twenty anniversaries of that chilly, wet morning in February have come and gone and Hannah, says Mrs. Dorris, "is so well preserved to-day as to lead to doubts as to her age, and is as bright, animated and spry as a woman of forty, and much more so than many of that age."

"I'se a [illegible] nigger, I is, and I belonged to a [illegible] white man," is the way she puts it. To observe her drop one of her old fashioned curtsies is worth going miles to see.

"How old are you, Aunt Hannah?"

"I'se ninety-five years old, an' ef you don't believe it, [illegible] you go up here and look at James K. Polk's tomb, an' I'se [illegible]

JOAQUIN MILLER.

The Poet Described Physically and Mentally—His Travels.

Imagine a man with a heart as tender as a gentle woman's and yet as brave as Richard Cœur de Leon; one who has the physical attributes which are said to be necessary for the making of a good surgeon—"the eye of an eagle, the hand of a lady, and the heart of a lion." Imagine a man of less than medium stature and flesh, dressed in a black frock suit, a scarf tied loosely about his collar, which is buttoned with a diamond, and another huge stone of first water glittering on a left hand finger; a broad-brimmed Panama hat; a great, pointed, gray moustache, hair falling in heavy curls almost to the shoulders, not leoninely, but cavalierishly; the hair yellow, almost to blonde, with white streaks in it—silver threads among the gold. When the Panama is removed a vast expanse of forehead is seen and a white bare place on the crown—not Greenland, however—and you have something of the appearance of Joaquin Miller, the brilliant "poet of the Sierras." He carried the money of the Wells, Fargo express over the mountains of Oregon and Washington away back yonder in the early "Sixties," when he was barely out of his boyhood, and has one stubby middle finger which the wolves chewed off, while he fought a pack of them one winter day in 1862, laying about him with dirk and revolvers and riding fiercely over a mountain trail amid deep snow—that winter of 1862 when the Columbia was frozen from tide water to source and all the beasts of the forests and the Cascades were ravenous with hunger. He has dined with princes and felt hunger among the lazaroni of Venice. He has sat within a gorgeous proscenium box of a great theatre in the republic's metropolis to see his own plays produced and wildly applauded, and has struggled on foot, with staff in hand amid the avalanches of the Alps. He has been favored by fair women and has sheltered himself from the simoon of the desert against the bosom and between the monstrous breasts of the silent sphinx. The modern centaur—the cowboy—and the gentleman of elegant leisure are blended in the man, as are also the antique and unique. He has dabbled in Wall street and has wandered through the ruins of Pompeii. He writes poetry of to-day and of the legends and traditions of the mound builders and cliff-dwellers. He talks wisely of the latest inventions, and when he speaks of the pyramids it would not test your credulity if he told you that he had seen them built. He is both a philosopher and a raconteur. He is a wonderful man, wise in the world's ways, yet a child of nature; big-hearted; considered eccentric because he is natural and despises conventionalities.—[The Tacoma Globe.

A Dog Which Caught On.

"Yes, that 'ere dog belongs to me, I s'pose," replied a farmer at the market, when rallied in regard to an ungainly cur which was lying under his wagon.

"Is he any good?"

"Not the least bit. I've tried to give him away, and I've tried to drive him off, but it's no go."

"Why don't you lose him here in town?"

"I've tried it in vain. Lemme tell ye what I did in September. I brought that cur up here with me, and I got on the street cars and rode around for half a day. Away up Jefferson avenue he got into a row with some other dogs and lost the car, and I went home feeling he was done for. Next morning I went at it with the boys and painted the front fence and the house so that he wouldn't know the place if he came along. I tied up a calf in the back yard, cut down all the weeds, and so changed the general look of things that my neighbors didn't hardly dare come in. On the third day we saw our cur coming down the road from town and everybody got inside. He came up, looked around in great astonishment, and his tail dropped as if somebody had tied a brick to it. In his bones he felt that it was the old place, but the painting up sorter paralyzed him. He sat down to think it over, and all at once he came over the fence and began to gambol around as if tickled to death. He had got on to something, and it was no use trying any longer to fool him."

"What did he discover?"

"Why, there had been three panes of glass out of the garret winder for over two years, and we'd forgot to put 'em in. As soon as he raised his eyes and saw that winder he knowed the house belonged to me, and a dozen of [illegible] best lawyers couldn't have made him believe I'd sold out and moved away. Dogs is no fools, and don't you forget it."—Detroit Free Press.

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., SEP. 19, 1889.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year	$1.50
One copy six months	75
One copy four "	50

John. L. Sullivan, the noted slugger, is a candidate for Congress from Boston.

S. S. Cox, the New York Congressman and ex-minister to Turkey, died last week.

The Birmingham Age-Herald would do the public—especially the black-belt portion of it—a decided favor if it would stop publishing so many sensational reports in regard to "race wars." It is bad enough to give accounts of troubles that really exist between the whites and blacks, without allowing reporters to draw on their imagination for their facts, or to be guyed by "reliable gentlemen".—Greensboro Watchman.

When Mr. Harrison was inaugurated everybody thought that an era of liberality and good times would follow. It had been promised in the campaign. It looks now as if the era of good times was at hand, but there is not a straw to show that the wind that brings it blows from the Republican administration. Really the good times are coming because they must come. There is plenty of money in the money centres and good crops all over the country, and nearly all the industries are busy. Hence the good times.—Ex.

Hon. N. W. E. Long, of Russell, several weeks ago wrote a letter to The Russell Register, suggesting that the convicts in the walls of the penitentiary be worked in a cotton bagging factory. About the same time Inspector Lee conceived the same idea and proposed on the 24th of July to the Alliance Exchange to establish a bagging factory at the penitentiary and work the dead head convicts therein. The same practical idea suggested itself to two excellent gentlemen about the same time and they were both doing the State a valuable service, and their idea will yet be adopted.—Advertiser.

Montgomery will have next fall the best Exposition ever held in this State. As its name indicates it is to be distinctly a Southern Exposition, displaying the products, manufactures and resources of our Southland. At the same time, exhibits from other parts of the Union are solicited, and citizens of every State are cordially invited to attend the Exposition, and to compete for premiums. The funds required have been raised and the Exposition is beyond doubt or contingency. The exhibits will be varied and interesting, and the Racing Programme is arranged to have the best horses entered that purses will secure. Other attractions, too numerous to specify in detail, will insure a large attendance, not only from Alabama and adjoining States, but also from the North and West. The most favorable rates possible will be secured on all railroads, and local excursions will run out from Montgomery to the Agricultural, Timber and Mineral regions for accommodation of Northern visitors.

Held at the first Capitol of the Confedracy, in the very heart of the Gulf States, and at the seat of government of Alabama, the most progressive State of this section the Southern Exposition can not fail to be superior and successful in its exhibits and attractions.

Your co-operation and personal interest in this enterprise are respectfully solicited, and I will be glad if you will attend and make an exhibit, one or both. Application for space for exhibits, premium list, or information of any kind should be addressed to W. C. Bibb Jr., Secretary Southern Exposition Co., Montgomery, Ala., who will take pleasure in responding promptly to all communications.

No entry fee is charged for exhibits.

Hon. W. H. Davis, of Double Springs Ala., has issued a call for a convention of Greenbackers of Alabama. Who is Hon. W. H. Davis? and where is Double Springs? and where, Oh! where are the Greenbackers of Alabama? We hope that our 'steamed contemporary the Age-Herald will send out a reporter armed with a search warrant and microscope to hunt up Double Springs, the Hon. W. H. Davis and the Greenbackers of Alabama.—Mountain Home.

The cause of this crank is Davidson, and he is the same fellow who was howling for the Republicans a year ago and was run out of Calera by the Hardy crowd, who became disgusted with him. He then went over to the Mosely faction. He now calls himself a Greenbacker having soured on Moseley, etc. The Age-Herald says of him:

Up to several weeks ago Mr. Davidson was an ardent Bob Moseley republican. He was an applicant for the marshalship of the northern district of Alabama and got left. He is now the most enthusiastic greenbacker in all Alabama. An Age-Herald reporter met Mr. Davidson yesterday and asked him if his party proposed to put out a full state and county ticket at the election next year. "That is our present intention," he said, "but it will be definitely determined later. We want to see what the national convention at Cincinnati is going to do before we go any farther. We are going to try and form a decent respectable party in Alabama, and don't want any mud-slinging. I believe in a fair square, dignified campaign conducted on principle and then let the people decide at the polls. We are going to cut adrift from all of the parties now in existence and paddle our own canoe, and I don't think we will need any help.

NEWS ITEMS.

Culled From the Bad, Bad Newspapers.

The Chronicle says more miners are needed in the Birmingham district.

Bamberger, Bloom & Co., one of the largest wholesale dry goods houses in Louisville, burned out Sunday. Loss $7,000,000.

Last week H. Young, a man who has been in charge of the Louisville and Nashville rock quarry near Bangor, picked up and left without saying good-bye, leaving about $5,000 in debts behind him.

The Thomas furnaces in Pennsylvania were sold last week to an English syndicate for $3,500,000. The Chronicle says the Thomas people will come to Birmingham and re-invest this money in iron making.

A Hillsboro, Tex., special says: Sim Foster, living seven miles north of here, was shot by his seven year old son on Saturday night, and will probably die. Foster had been in town during the day and returned home at night intoxicated. He began quarreling with his wife, and hurled a chair at her head. She fell to the floor to avoid the missile, and the boy entering at that instant, and thinking his mother dead, picked up a shot gun standing by and fired, the contents entering his father's chest and shoulders. The wounds will be fatal. Owing to the extreme youth of the boy nothing was done with him.

A dispatch from Cairo, Ill., says there are symptoms of a race war in Missouri, at Dexter, forty-two miles from there. People in that section have for years excluded all negroes from among them. A short time ago a man named Williams settled on a farm near there and engaged a dozen negroes to work for him. Fifty armed white men waited upon him this week and told him he must get rid of the negroes. He said they might kill him first. The armed men returned to town, where they circulated a paper pledging the signers to stand by the regulators. About 500 men signed the paper. About fifty men side with Williams, among them a hardware merchant, who has imported Winchester's and ammunition sufficient to arm his side. Further trouble is expected.

Following is an account of a race disturbance in Illinois, a part of the country where such riots ought to occur more often than they do:

A dispatch from Lawrenceville, Ill., says: A race war between whites and blacks occurred here Saturday night. A few days ago a St. Louis negro named Slick came to town, and on Saturday evening, in a quarrel with a white man, attacked him with a knife. The latter escaped after receiving two wounds, and then Slick dashed down the street slashing at every one.

Judge Barnes, of the county court, ordered the negro to stop. The negro attacked the judge, but the latter retaliated by knocking the negro down. The negro was then disarmed and arrested. Meanwhile the blacks, hearing of the arrest, determined to rescue the negro. A few white men rallied around the Judge. There was a hard fight, in which the negroes were beaten back and all the ringleaders arrested. The prisoners were taken to the county jail, and the sheriff and his deputies were ordered by the judge to guard the building. The blacks quickly organized and made an attack on the jail. The sheriff was ordered to fire on them but refused and the negroes forced their way into the jail and rescued the prisoner.

Judge Barnes organized the whites and attacked the blacks at the jail. There was a bloody fight, in which pistols, knives and clubs were used. Judge Barnes was cut and shot, but his wounds are not fatal.

Dr. Johnson, Ed Lamb and three other whites were seriously hurt. Two negroes were shot and half a hundred heads were broken. The whites won and the ringleaders were again put in jail and a heavy guard placed around it. The riot has created great excitement.

It is astonishing how rapidly the feeble and debilitated gain strength and vigor when taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. For what are called "broken-down constitutions," nothing else has proved so effective as this powerful, but perfectly safe medicine.

A White Man's Country.

The Pine Bluff (Ark.) Hornet, a negro paper edited by J. C. Duke speaking of the Selma editors, uses this very sensible language:

"When first reading the incendiary article ascribed to Mr. Bryant, in the Associated Press dispatches we said to a gentleman present at the time, that Bryant didn't write that article. We have read after him too long not to know his writing when we read it. Besides, Mr. Bryant is an educated man, any one reading the offensive article can see at a glance that no educated man wrote it. Clark or Jones wrote it—perhaps Jones. We disapprove of the article and regret more than we are able to express, the unfortunate mistake the writer of it made in writing it. There is no use to disguise or shut our eyes to the fact that this is a white man's country, and that the colored people can do nothing at present, and for a long while to come, but that which the white people will allow them to do."

Maplesville Dots.

Mornings are deliciously cool, while noons are very favorable to cotton opening, much of which is being marketed. Mr. Fom Foshee furnishes the patriotic with pine straw bagging, while much is being baled with osnaburgs.

We are sorry that Goodwin Du Bose is at his grandmother's quite ill with malarial fever. His father, Dr. DuBose, is with him. His disease was contracted before coming here.

Mrs. Courtney Graves confesses to being greatly benefitted with a few days of fine country air.

The Misses Glover have entertained the past week the Misses Dansby, Miss Loula Gilliam, and Mr. Walter Giroan. These young people managed to have a most enjoyable time.

Mr. Frank Kelley is on a visit to his aunt Mrs. Mary DuBose.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim DuBose are with Mr. Tom DuBose.

Mr. B. O. Glover was on a visit the 8th inst. REVOLG.

From Jemison.

The Union meeting at Jemison, held at the Methodist Church, was encouraging to outsiders, as well as a supreme delight to all who engaged in the daily worship for over a week. The different churches uniting harmoniously, shows the ungodly that where there is union there is strength, and that selfishness is laid aside. And until selfishness and secretarianism are put under foot, there can be no thriving of religion. The meeting was conducted by Rev. Mr. Dannelly, of Wetumpka. Quite a number were added to the different churches. We have previously intimated that hearts pure as diamonds could be found in cotton fields. We have this week discovered two. We know two boys yet in their teens, who picked cotton all day, and took time only at night to attend the wonderful meeting at Jemison. Allow us to say that one of them was our son and the other Fred. Simpson, of Coosa county.

A MOTHER.

A meeting of Republicans was held in Montgomery on Monday which passed resolutions roundly denouncing the Buckley, Parsons and Youngblood faction, and recommending Dr. P. H. Owen to the President as a suitable man for the Montgomery postoffice. Judge Buckley also had a meeting which was composed entirely of negroes, who passed resolutions sweet on "Buck."

Catarrh Can't be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATION, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease and in order to cure it you have to take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucus surface. Hall's Catarrh Cure is no quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucus surface. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing catarrh. Send for testimonials free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO.,
Prop., Toledo, O,

Sold by Druggists, price 75c.

A canvass among the editors of the National Press Association at Detroit, Mich., recently, showed that Grover Cleveland was the favorite by a large majority, of the members of the Association for President of United States in 1892.

The use of calomel for derangements of the liver has ruined many a fine constitution. Those who, for similar troubles, have tried Ayer's Pills testify to their efficacy in thoroughly remedying the malady, without injury to the system.

About the Size of It.

[Greensboro Watchman.]

Whenever you hear a man abusing a paper and its editor you may be sure that one of three things is the matter with him: He has been reading some one else's copy, owes for the one he does take, or had his name stricken from the list because of a failure to pay several years' back subscription. This will hold good in nine cases out of ten. The most appreciative readers a paper has, and the people who always have a cheering word for it are those who pay for what they get—whether it be for subscription or advertising.

A protracted meeting begins at the Clanton Baptist Church the first Sunday in October.

It Has Never Failed.

Botanic Blood Balm, (B. B. B.) has cured hundred of cases of Scrofula, Eczema and other contagious blood diseases, after other treatment had been tried and failed. You do yourself and family great injustice unless you give this excellent remedy a trial. Send to Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga., for illustrated "Book of Wonders" filled with letters from persons cured by B. B. B.

MR. M. J. ROSSMAN, Greensboro, Ga., writes: "I have a lady friend who has been entirely cured of an ugly scrofulous breaking SCROFULA out of the skin, and the use of two bottles of B. B. B. effected an entire cure. I know of several cases of blood diseases cured speedily by the use of B. B. B.

E. G. TINSLEY writes: My mother and sister used B. B. B. for scrofula and ulcerated sore throat SORE THROAT and received more benefit from its use than all other remedies they ever used.

A. H. NICHOLS, 110 Gray St., Atlanta, Ga., writes: "My wife for several years has been suffering with what physicians term Eczema, affecting her whole body, limbs and scalp. It appeared that her whole skin would shed off in scales about once a week, leaving the surface red and tender, and sometimes cracked open. Her general health failed, and for a while it was thought she would die, as several doctors and numerous patent medicines failed to give any relief. My brother-in-law, Mr. J. ECZEMA B. Cummings, was selling the B.B.B and insisted that I should try it on my wife. I did so, and to our utter astonishment she commenced improving at once, and three bottles, costing only $3, effected an entire cure. It is wonderfully quick in action."

D. M. McRAE, Waynesboro, Miss., writes: "My sister was aflicted with boils which sadly BOILS impaired her health, and she lost flesh and strength each day. One bottle of B B. B. acted like magic and produced a complete cure." (9)

[sep27 ew 1y]

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

Land Office, Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 12, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 28th, 1889, viz: Jeffie J. Scoggins, widow of Emsley Bearden, deceased, homestead 14401 for the n e ¼ of s w ¼ and s e ¼ of n w ¼ sec 14, t 21 n, r 11 e. She names the following witnesses to prove her continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Ambrose Kleiner, Calvin Hall, William S. Lawrence, and James D. McGee, all of Maplesville, Ala.

sep19o J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala. August 22d, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 5th, 1889, viz: Calvin Hall, Homestead entry 15640, for the n ½ of n w ¼ sec 26, tp 21 n, r 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Ambrose Kleiner, Daniel Scoggins, William S. Lawrence, Jeffie J. Scoggins, all of Maplesville, Ala.

aug29o J. G. HARRIS, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 22, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit at Clanton, Ala., on October 5th, 1889, viz: William S. Lawrence, Homestead entry 14698 for the s e ¼ of n w ¼ sec 2, tp 21 n, range 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Ambrose Kleiner, Jeffie J. Scoggs, Calvin Hall, and Daniel Scoggins, all of Maplesville, Ala.

aug29o J. G. HARRIS, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. Land Office, Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 22, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 5th, 1889, viz: Ambrose Kleiner, Homestead entry No. 16880 for the n w ¼ of n e ¼ sec 14 tp 21 n, range 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: William S. Lawrence, Calvin Hall, Daniel Scoggins and Jeffie J. Scoggings, all of Maplesville, Ala.

aug29o J. G. HARRIS, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE, Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 27, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 4th, 1889, viz: William E. Culp, Homestead 1472 for the s ½ of n e ¼ and e ½ of s e ¼ sec 18 t 21 n r 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Albert Headley, Willis Barber, Ira Headley, Dan Barber, all of Clanton, Ala.

aug29o J. G. HARRIS, Register.

Save Your Hair

By a timely use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. This preparation has no equal as a dressing. It keeps the scalp clean, cool, and healthy, and preserves the color, fullness, and beauty of the hair.

"I was rapidly becoming bald and gray; but after using two or three bottles of Ayer's Hair Vigor my hair grew thick and glossy and the original color was restored."—Melvin Aldrich, Canaan Centre, N. H.

"Some time ago I lost all my hair in consequence of measles. After due waiting, no new growth appeared. I then used Ayer's Hair Vigor and my hair grew Thick and Strong.

It has apparently come to stay. The Vigor is evidently a great aid to nature."—J. B. Williams, Floresville, Texas.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past four or five years and find it a most satisfactory dressing for the hair. It is all I could desire, being harmless, causing the hair to retain its natural color, and requiring but a small quantity to render the hair easy to arrange."—Mrs. M. A. Bailey, 9 Charles street, Haverhill, Mass.

"I have been using Ayer's Hair Vigor for several years, and believe that it has caused my hair to retain its natural color."—Mrs. H. J. King, Dealer in Dry Goods, &c., Bishopville, Md.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by Druggists and Perfumers.

tma16

Jemison High School.

:o:

Good House, Well Furnished, Healthful Locality, Dry Sandy Roads, Good Board Cheap, Tuition Low, Maps, Globes, Charts, etc., Moral Community, Three Churches, No Whisky, Well Trained Teachers, Fine Success, Teachers Re-elected without a Dissenting Voice. Session opens Sept. 2d, 1889.

Apply to J. L. RUFFIN, JR.,
aug29 Principal.

PLEASANT GROVE

MALE and FEMALE ACADEMY.

:o:

The second session of this school will open Oct. 21st 1889. This Academy is situated about four miles southeast of Montevallo, in the most healthful portion of the county, above malaria and free from epidemic diseases. No sale of intoxicating liquors anywhere within reach of the Academy. Church advantages good. Board for pupils at from $6 to $8 per month. Conveyance from railroad to boarding houses free of charge. For further information address

R. E. R. HICKS,
sep12 Montevallo, Ala.

CLANTON

HIGH SCHOOL.

:o:

This School will open Monday, Sept. the 2nd, 1889. Advantages the best in the county. Rates low, board and tuition $10 per month. Patronage is earnestly desired. For further information address me at Clanton, Ala.

Respectfully,
A. J. SCOTT, Principal.

W. W. C.

(Wooldridge's Wonderful Cure)

Is the greatest Blood Purifier ever yet discovered. It never fails to cure when taken according to directions. Read what it has done for Mr. A. Kimbrough:

COLUMBUS, GA., July 15, 1889.

Wooldridge Wonderful Cure Co., Columbus, Ga.

GENTS:—After suffering for twenty years with my kidneys, and finding only temporary relief, after taking various remedies, and consulting some of the most noted physicians in the country, at a cost of hundreds of dollars, for no good, I decided to try W. W. C., and I must confess that I am to-day as well as I ever was, and that I suffer no pain whatever from my kidneys, and am feeling better in every respect than I have for years, and I attribute it all to two bottles of W. W. C.; and I would advise all who suffer in the least with kidney or bladder troubles to give W. W. C. a trial. Yours truly,

A. KIMBROUGH.

WOOLDRIDGE'S WONDERFUL CURE is a sure Remedy for Syphilis, Syphilitic Rheumatism, Chronic Rheumatism, Skin Diseases, Bone Diseases, Old Sores, Bilious Troubles, Liver Diseases, Jaundice, Bilious Headache, Dyspepsia, and all Diseases caused from Impure and Poisoned Blood or Hereditary Diseases.

For sale by all Druggists.

Manufactured by
Wooldridge Wonderful Cure Co.,
COLUMBUS, GA.
sep19 y

Wool Carding.

Our Cards are now running and doing good work. Bring or send your work to E. G. WALKER, sep19 2m Montevallo, Ala.

Highest cash price paid for wool.

Money to Loan.

Loans can be negotiated on first mortgage security on improved farming lands. Call on or address

R. M. WILLIAMSON,
ST. CLAIR THORNTON,
jun27 Clanton, Ala.

Legal Notice.

W. M. Moore vs. G. H. Fisher. Attachment before A. A. Dyer, a Notary Public and ex-officio Justice of the Peace for Chilton County, Alabama.

The defendant in the above stated case, whose residence is not known will take notice that an attachment has been issued in said case and levied upon one ox the property of defendant, and that the trial of said case will be had before me at my office in Stanton, Ala., on the 12th day of October, 1889.

This September 7th, 1889.

A. A. DYER,
sep12-4 N. P. & Ex-Officio J. P.

Barber Shop.

Mr. H. A. Logan, who has his barbershop in the Farmer's Alliance Building, solicits the patronage of the good people of Clanton. He does good work and is well fixed up for the business.

The Lawson Carpet Co.

Birmingham, Ala.

Take pleasure in directing the attention o the people of Chilton county to their large and attractive stock of

Carpets, Oil-cloths, Window Shades,

Curtains & Household Novelties.

The Stock represented is the finest in Alabama, and prices are guaranteed as low as similar goods are offered in any of the eastern markets.

☞ All communications answered by return mail. Respectfully,

ma30-y THE LAWSON CARPET CO. (WM. LAWSON.)

BAINS & PORTER.

(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & PEEBLES.)

WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.

Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.

FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY

1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS

Birmingham, Ala.

☞ Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜

P. O. BOX 570. June 19 y

Marion Military Institute.

Superior accommodations and board. Superintendent, his family and fac live in buildings with cadets. Specially suited to boys who need family care, to young men who need business education, and to all who wish pra and thorough training. Terms moderate. J. T. MURFEE, Sup't.
Marion, Alabama

THOMAS FOSHEE,

(SUCCESSOR TO N. W. FOSHEE,)

—DEALER IN—

Dry Goods, Groceries

—AND—

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

Maplesville, Alabama.

I solicit a continuance of the liberal patronage hereto extended our house. Respectfully,
feb 28-y THOMAS FOSHEE

B. WOLFF'S

FURNITURE EMPORIUM,

20 and 22 Commerce and Corner Court and Coosa Streets.

—MONTGOMERY, ALA.—

CARRIES

The Largest and Cheapest Stock of Furnit

IN THE STATE.

sep11-6 ☞ When you come to the city, give me a call. ☜

WALL PAPER

WINDOW SHADES

MOULDING

—AND—

PRACTICAL PAPER HA

H. M. MANCHA,

204 DEXTER AVENUE, MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA.

☞ Papers furnished at any price from 10 cents up. Wi samples on application. apr 1

BIRMINGHAM MARBLE WORKS

THOS. H. HOLT,

PRACTICAL WORKMA

—AND DEALER IN—

American and Italian Marb

—Manufacturer of all kinds of—

CEMETERY MARBLE AND STONE W

Cor. Second Avenue and Twenty-Fourth Street.

Birmingham, Alab

arpet Co.

, Ala.

g the attention of ty to their large stock of indow Shades,

old Novelties.

na, and prices are guaranteed as stern markets.

mail. Respectfully,

ARPET CO. (WM. LAWSON.)

ORTER.

& PEEBLES.)

RUGGISTS.

l Receive Prompt At-

RS A SPECIALTY

19th and 20th STREETS

n, Ala.

at Company's Prices.

June 19 y

v Institute.

perintendent, his family and faculty d to boys who need family watch tion, and to all who wish practical
J. T. MURFEE, Sup't.,
Marion, Alabama

FOSHEE,

(W. FOSHEE,)

Groceries

RCHANDISE.

Alabama.

liberal patronage heretofore
ectfully,
THOMAS FOSHEE.

LLF'S

EMPORIUM,

er Court and Coosa Streets.

RY, ALA.

RIES

est Stock of Furnitu

STATE.

elty, give me a call.

PAPER.

WINDOW SHADES,

MOULDINGS

—AND—

PRACTICAL PAPER HAN

ANCHA,

ONTGOMERY, ALABAMA

rice from 10 cents up.

MARBLE WORKS.

I. HOLT,

WORKMA

EALER IN—

Italian Marbl

r of all kinds of—

E AND STONE W

nd Twenty-Fourth Street,

Alab

GO TO BLANK BROS, LEADING CLOTHIERS, [illegible] SECOND AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., SEPT. 19, 1889.

THE VIEW is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

A cross mark (X) after your name means that your subscription is due and that we would be glad to have you renew.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the second Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—On the eleventh Monday after the fourth Monday in February, and on the thirteenth Monday after the fourth Monday in August, and may continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD. Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.

No. 1 Express at	5:55 a. m.
No. 3 Mail	5:37 p. m.
No. 5 (Passenger)	6:17 p. m.
No. 9 Accommodation	7:08 a. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 2 Fast (Don't Stop)	2:20 a. m.
No. 6 Mail	9:16 a. m.
No. 4 Express	7:55 p. m.
No. 10 Accommodation	7:22 p. m.

LOCAL LACONICS.

Chancery Court last Thursday.

Mr. J. P. Allen was in our town Monday.

Mrs. Dr. Johnson, of this place, visited relatives in Verbena, last week.

Mrs. W. H. Foshee and children are visiting Mrs. Foshee's parents in Arkansas.

Mrs. Judge Callen has returned home after a protracted visit to relatives in Mississippi.

Misses Florence and Carrie Williamson visited their father in Clanton this week.

Pou DeJarnette of the Alabama National Bank, Birmingham, came down Sunday on a visit to relatives

Col. E. G. Walker, of Montevallo, has an advertisement in the VIEW. He is carding and buying wool.

Col. W. S. Thorington and Thos. H. Watts, Jr., of Montgomery, were the visiting attorneys in attendance upon chancery court.

Mr. Charles K. Bivings, of Dunham, Ala., was in Clanton this week visiting relatives. We were pleased to see his handsome phiz.

A. D. Bentley, Esq., and Miss Bentley, his sister, have been visiting friends at Verbena and made a brief visit to Clanton last week.

Prof. John R. Sampey, of Louisville, visited relatives here the past week. He fills a professor's chair in the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary.

Miss Gulledge and Mr. Gulledge, of Verbena, came up Friday evening to attend the gathering of young folks at the hospitable home of Mr. Willis Lowe.

Messrs. G. W. and Euell Dawson, of Jemison, came down to Clanton and went out to Kincheon on a visit to their father Saturday. Euell expects to enter a Mississippi college soon.

Mrs. Dr. J. S. Pitts died at Verbena last Wednesday. The remains were interred in Montgomery. The sorrowing relatives have the sympathies of many friends in their great loss.

Rev. J. L. Sampey and wife, of Mississippi, formerly of this place have been visiting relatives here the past week. They will move to Louisville soon and make that city their future home.

We made a pleasant visit last week to Duke's Mill. Mr. Duke has one of the best saw mills now in operation in this part of the country and will be continually adding to his plant during the coming year. We hope to soon see him fully recovered from his serious burning.

New Goods.

W. L. Sampey has been receiving some very nice goods lately and the prices are very reasonable Shoes are crowded and need to be sold to get them out of the way. Some nice saddles are priced at very low figures. A few suits of Spring clothing will be sold at cost to make them go. Lots of little things have been added to the stock.

Clanton, Aug. 14, 1889.

Mr. J. A. Forsyth, of Jasper, Ala., has been visiting friends in Clanton this week.

Mr. Lee Bivings, of Birmingham, visited relatives in Clanton Sunday. He has lately moved into Tuskaloosa county.

Unity association meets at Stanton Wednesday, the second day of October instead of Friday before the fifth Sunday.

Mr. J. H. Aldridge's new building is going up with a rush. It will be a considerable improvement to this end of town.

Rev. J. P. Sanders, the pastor, is conducting a protracted meeting at the Clanton M. E. Church, Go out to hear him. Services morning and night.

Mr. John M. Scott was examined last week and admitted to the bar. He will enter upon the practice of his profession at once. We wish him much success.

Hon. Boling Williams, of Louisiana, formerly a State Senator, has been on a brief visit to relatives in Clanton, he is accompanied by his daughter, Miss Lucile Williams.

A call for a meeting of the Confederate Veterans of Chilton county is made in this issue. We would like to see them make a full turn out. The old soldiers of the Confedracy, as a rule, are the best citizens that our country holds, and we sympathize heartily with their every effort for their own advancement and the country's good.

The officers of Cherokee county seem to be in a bad way. The probate judge is likely to be impeached for drunkenness. The treasurer died not long ago, and his accounts are said to not be exactly square. Gov. Seay recently removed the Sheriff for not paying over money due the State. The Sheriff now claims he paid $2,000 to the deceased treasurer to transmit to the auditor.

W. W. C.

The great Blood Purifier, is now on sale in Clanton for the first time, by the old reliable house of A. E. Bivings. This truly wonderful medicine has never yet failed to cure Blood Poison in any form. If you suffer from Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Liver complaint Kidney or Bladder Troubles, W. W. C. will cure you. Try it.

The following items are clipped from the last issue of the Shelby Chronicle:

Mr. Benj Cardwell is preparing to build a large and commodious dwelling on his farm in Chilton county

The possibility of a semi-weekly mail route from the Talladega Springs, in Talladega county, to Spring Creek via Bell's old ferry, and thence to T. W. Shrader's mill and thence on to Jemison, in Chilton county, is being discussed by some of our citizens, The establishment of such a mail route would be a great convenience to the people of this section.

CONFEDERATE VETERANS

To Meet in Clanton Sept. 28.

STRASBURG, ALA, Sept. 8, 1889.

EDITOR CHILTON VIEW: Dear Sir —In the Montgomery Advertiser, of yesterday, I find a call from Capt. Jos. F. Johnston for counties to organize County Confederate Veterans Associations and to send delegates to Birmingham during the fair for the purpose of forming a State organization looking to the end of providing (as one of its features), for those who are unable to work, and the widows and children of our dead heroes.

Feeling that this matter has been delayed too long already, I hereby request all volunteer Confederate soldiers no matter what political party to which they belong, to meet me in Clanton, Saturday, September 28th for the purpose of organizing a county association, that we may send delegates to Birmingham as requested by Capt. Johnston.

Comrades, while we belong to a great, and are a part and parcel of the greatest, while we are paying a large tax to the grandest government the world ever saw, and while this same government is paying out large bounties to its old veterans, which is its duty to do, there is no law, nor do we expect any to help the helpless Confederates or their families in need. Fellow soldiers, you who suffered cold, hunger, feet blistered, who went through snow, you who have been with these poor fellows when it looked like almost death for them to have to get up to march, you who have seen the fire in their eyes; who have seen their eager faces and have heard the glorious rebel yell in union with your own, you who have seen their death, their limbs shot and mangled, how can you feel that it is not your duty to come out and add something to help the helpless, and do what it is your duty for the widows and orphans of these heroes, who lost their lives and their all for the lost cause.

Comrades, Providence was good to us and lots of us came out not only with good health, but our limbs sound and able to work. We were fortunate indeed. Let us meet together and do our duty to our fallen heroes' helpless ones and the helpless soldiers. Come out and let us do our duty in full.

J. F. MAULL,
Jeff. Davis Artillery, Army N. Va.

HERMAN HERZFELD,

—DEALER IN—

All Kinds of Furniture at all Prices.

Parlor and Bed-Room Suits, Carpets, Oil Cloths, Mattings, Blankets, Comforts and Lace Goods.

☞ Everything necessary in the House-Furnishing Goods Line. ☜

NINETEENTH STREET, BETWEEN FIRST AND SECOND AVENUES

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

PROGRAM

Of County Teacher's Institute to be Held in Verbena, September 27th and 28th.

FRIDAY.

10 a. m., Welcome Address by Prof. Stott.

10:30 a. m., G. L. Speer, "Relations of Parents and Teacher.

11 a. m., Mrs. M. A. Bowden, Paper, "A Model Country School."

12 m.—Recess.

2 p. m. W. H. Strock, "How to Teach Algebra."

3. p. m. "Educational Entertainments."

SATURDAY.

9 a. m., J. W. Moore, "Teacher's Influence in a Community."

9:30 a. m., J. W. Kemp, "Helps in Country Schools."

10 a. m., J. L. Ruffin, Jr., "How to Teach the First Four Rules in Arithmetic."

11 a. m., A. J. Scott, "Classifications of an Ungraded School"

12 m.—Recess.

2 p. m., J. A. Harwood. "How Much Should the State Educate."

3 p. m., Miss E. B. Bonham, Paper, "Teacher's Progress."

3:30 p. m., Miss Edna Wilson, "How Should Ladies Manage Large Boys."

4. p. m., Mrs. V. Z. Palmer. School Entertainments. Closing speeches.

The law requires the teachers to attend the Institutes held in the county. This is the last opportunity that teachers will have in this scholastic year.

Everybody is invited.

Respectfully,
R. E. R. HICKS,
Supt. of Education.

THE INCURABLE CURED.

A Remarkable Statement from a Well-known Citizen of South Carolina.

Cancer is hereditary in my family, an aunt on each side having died from this dreadful disease. In each instance the cancer was located in identically the same position that mine first made its appearance—just below the left eye and extending down the left cheek bone and nose. I was attended by the best physicians, but the case continued to grow worse under their treatment, and no hope of a cure could be given by them; they said: "I had better have my affairs for this life and the next arranged, for the cancer was liable to strike a vital organ at any moment, and at once bleed me to death." About this time, 1886, I met with Mr. Shirley, living near Due West, whose cancer was being rapidly cured by using Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) I then gave up the doctors and all medicines I had heretofore been using, and commenced taking S. S. S., and after using the third bottle, I discovered that the scab had fallen off, and that those sharp darting pains, so characteristic of the cancer, had ceased, and the discharge was very profuse. In a few days it began to heal rapidly, and soon dried up. By the time I had exhausted the fifth bottle there was nothing left but the scar where the cancer had been, and I was a well man. The cure effected in my case is considered by my neighbors a most remarkable one, and clearly demonstrates the fact that S. S. S. does cure cancer. Swift's Specific is a boon to suffering humanity, and all I ask is that those afflicted with cancer give it a trial, and like myself will be convinced of its virtues."

JAMES B. ARNOLD,
Greenwood, S. C.

Treatise on Cancer mailed free.
SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

For Sale.

—:o:—

TWO DESIRABLE HOMES.

If you would like to purchase a lovely cottage home or splendid residence, both well finished, well painted, and nearly new, with new outhouses, gardens, young orchards, etc., in one of the most quiet and moral communities, and within a stone's cast of one of the best high schools in the State AT A SPLENDID BARGAIN. Call on or address,

A. E. BURNS,
sep 5 tf Jemison, Ala.

ALABAMA CENTRAL FEMALE COLLEGE.

While the patronage of many other schools in the South and State has diminished, the attendance at this College has increased 25 per cent. during the past Session. Literary, Scientific, Music and Art Departments under the direction of skillful teachers. Send for catalogue.
32nd Session opens September 25, 1889.
S. R. FOSTER, President, Tuskaloosa, Ala.

Bring your job printing to this office.

Sheriff's Sale.

Under and by virtue of an execution issued out of the Chancery Court of Chilton county, Alabama in favor of Jonce L. Gardner et als., and against B. V. Washburne, Rebecca Jane Smitherman, et als., I will proceed to sell before the courthouse door in Clanton, Ala., between the legal hours of sale at public outcry to the highest bidder for cash, on

Monday, October 21, 1889,

the following described real estate, to-wit: S W ¼ of S E ¼ of Section 28, N ½ of N E ¼ of section 33, and all that part of N W ¼ of section 33, lying south of the Selma and Montevallo Road and East of Mulberry Creek, all in township 22, range 12, and lying and being in Chilton county, and levied upon as the property of Rebecca Jane Smitherman, James Nix and Ezekiel Nix

LEE HAYES,
Sheriff Chilton County
Clanton, Ala., Sept. 19, 1889.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 26, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence, the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., October 7th, 1889, viz: Coldwell Choate, Homestead 13704 for the e ½ of s w ¼ sec 34 township 21 n range 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Thomas Jackson, Sr., Allen Jackson, Dennis Green, and J. P. Haley, all of Dixie, Ala.

aug29o J. G. HARRIS, Register.

FINAL PROOF EOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 21, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on September 28, 1889, viz: Ephram Vasser, homestead 14371 for the n e ¼ of section 28 township 21 n, range 11 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Coldwell Choate, Chambers Young, Fed Latham, and Anderson Peoples, all of Maplesville, Ala.

aug22o J. G. HARRIS, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Sep. 10, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 26, 1889, viz: John D. Campbell, Homestead entry 19401 for the s e ¼ of sec 32 t 21 n r 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: James I. Cox, E. J. Milling, Frank Harris and Henry Friday, all of Dixie, Ala.

sep19o J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
September 10, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the Circuit Court, Clanton, Ala., on October 26, 1889, viz: Francis Peeples, Homestead 21353 for the s ½ of n w ¼, n ½ of s w ¼ sec 34 t 21 n, r 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: Delson Driskill, Abraham Moore, Caldwell Choate, Mass Goodwin, all of Dixie, Ala.

sep19o J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
August 26, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 7th, 1889, viz: Daniel Martin, Homestead 14614 for the e½ of n w ¼ and e ½ of s w ½ sec 20, t 21 n, range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Ben Brown, Charles Jackson, Madison Popwell, James Headley, all of Kincheon, Ala.

aug29o J. G. HARRIS, Register.

State Normal College,

FLORENCE, ALA.

JAS. K. POWERS, A. M. President.

THE COURSE OF STUDY embraces all the branches required in the public schools of the State.

THE THEORY AND PRACTICE of teaching receive careful attention throughout the course.

DRAWING, VOCAL MUSIC AND CALISTHENICS are taught. No teacher is thoroughly equipped for his work without training in these branches.

STATE CERTIFICATES are granted to graduates, entitling them to teach in any public school in Alabama, without further examination.

TUITION IS FREE

to teachers and those preparing to teach and good board costs only ten to fourteen dollars a month.

Fall Term Opens Sept. 17, 1889.

For catalogue or further information, apply to the President.

A. E. BIVINGS,

—DEALER IN—

DRUGS, AND Medicines,

FAMILY Groceries, ETC.

Clanton, Alabama.

I can furnish you anything you may wish in the way of DRUGS AND MEDICINES. I also handle THE BEST GROCERIES TO BE HAD, and you will find my prices to suit the times. [mar20]

BUY YOUR PIANOS and ORGANS

—FROM—

GRAMBS & BUCHANAN,

—2107 SECOND AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—

—:o:—

THE VERY LOWEST CASH PRICES, or on easy installments. Sohmer Cranich & Bach, Gabler, Wheelock and Newby & Evans Pianos, and the world renowned Wilcox & White organs. Mail orders for sheet music or musical merchandise given prompt attention.

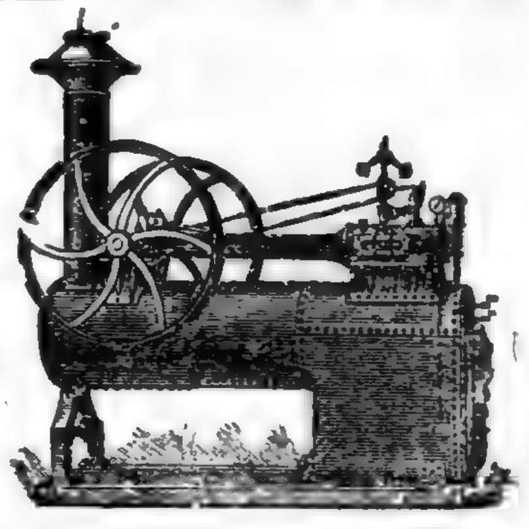
☞ Write for Catalogue. ☜ jul18

When ordering please state in what paper you saw our advertisement.

CRELLIN & NALLS,

BOILER MAKERS

Copper and Sheet Iron Workers



Chimneys, Tanks, and Repairing of All Kinds.

Saw Mill Work a Specialty.

☞ AVENUE C AND TWENTY-SECOND STREET, SOUTHSIDE, ☜

Birmingham, Ala.

mar21 y

I. N. Langston & Co.

—DEALER IN—

Dry Goods, Groceries, Family Supplies, &c.

(Contractor for Cross Ties for the L. & N. R. R..)

—JEMISON, CHILTON COUNTY, ALA.—

I have been out of business for the past year, but I am now before the public with a full and Complete Line of Goods for the General Trade. I invite the Farmers of Chilton county as well as my old customers, to give me a call and examine my stock. I will please you every time both in quality of goods and low prices.

☞ Highest market price paid for Cross Ties, Cotton and Country Produce.

oct 18-y I. N. LANGSTON.

MONTGOMERY IRON WORKS.

MACHINISTS & FOUNDERS

Dealers in Fittings, Supplies and Machinery OF ALL KINDS.

MAKERS OF ENGINES, CANE MILLS, COTTON SEED CRUSHERS, SAW MILLS, LIVE ROLLS, LOG HAULUPS, &c.

☞ ESPECIAL ATTENTION TO WANTS OF SAW MILL MEN ☜

nov 8-y

INSURE WITH

The Commercial Fire Insurance Company,

Montgomery, Alabama.

Capital $100,000. Surplus $146,578.

Directors:—P. J. Anderson, C. A. Lanier, H. C. Tompkins, A. M. Kennedy, M. P. LeGrand, S. C. Marks, J. H. Clisby, C. W. Buckley, Frank Duncan.

W. H. Lawrence, Agt., Clanton.

Roberts & Son,

Steam Printers and Binders,

1918 FIRST AVENUE, BET. 19th & 20th STREETS,

Birmingham, Ala.

BLANK BOOKS TO ORDER. WORK PROMPTLY DELIVERED.

dec5 ay

1889 1890

S. C. MARKS, P. H. S. GAYLE, WM. A. GAYLE.

MARKS & GAYLE,

The Montgomery Warehouse.

Just back of the Exchange Hotel. Very convenient to the business centre, and close to the Fire Department.

ALL COTTON CAREFULLY WEIGHED & HANDLED.

Bagging and Ties at Lowest Rates.

We will take pleasure in forwarding orders for Cotton Bagging for our customers, charging them actual cost for same, free from any profit whatever to ourselves.

Montgomery, Ala.

☞ FREE WAGON YARD THE YEAR ROUND. ☜

A. M. RAMBO,

DENTIST.

VERBENA, ALA.

Will respond to calls along railroad between Calera and Deatsville

[ma15 y]

S. P. TRESSLAR,

Photographer,

10 COURT SQUARE,

Montgomery.

Photographs on Silk, Satin and Linen. Photographs on watch dials.

Portraits in Crayon, Pastile, India Ink and Water Colors.

All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.

☞ Correspondence solicited. ☜

Always glad to have you call at the gallery, and examine specimens of the work on exhibition.

[jan21-tf]

J. H. SHEPHERD

THE LEADING

PHOTOGRAPHER,

—OF—

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE

(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)

Photographs of All Kinds Work Done in the BEST STYLE.

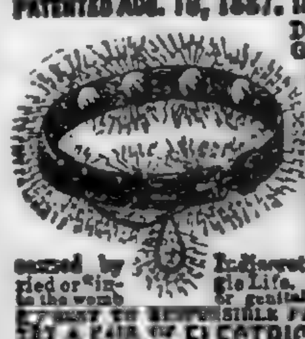
Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

DR. OWEN'S

ELECTRIC BELT

AND SUSPENSORY.

PATENTED AUG. 16, 1887. IMPROVED JULY 30, 1888.



DR. OWEN'S ELECTRO-GALVANIC BODY BELT AND SUSPENSORY are guaranteed to cure the following diseases, namely: All Rheumatic Complaints, Lumbago, General and Nervous Debility, Costiveness, Kidney Diseases, Nervousness, Trembling, Sexual Exhaustion, Wasting of Body, Diseases caused by Indiscretions in Youth, Age, Married or Single Life. In fact all diseases pertaining to the womb or genital organs of male or female. [illegible] ELECTRIC INSOLES [illegible] PER PAIR. DR. OWEN'S [illegible] Illustrated pamphlet, which will be sent you in plain sealed envelope. [illegible] address

OWEN ELECTRIC BELT & APPLIANCE CO.
306 North Broadway, ST. LOUIS, MO.

RUPTURE!

ELECTRIC BELT AND TRUSS COMBINED.

DR. ISRAEL'S ELECTRO-GALVANIC TRUSS, with Dr. Owen's Electric Belt Attachment. This truss is worn with ease and comfort. The current can be made mild or strong. This is the only combined electric truss and belt ever made. It will CURE Rupture in from 30 to 90 days. For full description of Dr. Owen's Electro-Galvanic Belts, Spinal Appliances, Trusses and Insoles send 6c. for FREE illustrated pamphlet which will be sent you in plain sealed envelope. Sold only by the

OWEN ELECTRIC BELT & APPLIANCE CO.
306 North Broadway, ST. LOUIS, MO.

sep 5

HERBINE

TRADE MARK

After ten years exclusive sale, can now be obtained of all Druggists and Dealers in Medicines. It CURES-take notice-not simply helps but CURES LIVER COMPLAINT, Biliousness and Dyspepsia.

Is a strictly vegetable preparation and will CURE MALARIA, and all MALARIAL troubles.

Dr. S. H. Wise, of Boston, Ky says: "Have practiced medicine 15 years, and find no equal to HERBINE as a Liver Regulator."

Dr. W. A. Baker, of Madison, Fla., says: "A bottle of HERBINE is worth more than $5.00 worth of Quinine in any family"

Acting on the Liver in a different way from any other medicine; it is a positive cure for Chronic Constipation and is cheaper than [illegible].

Its peculiar composition is such, that we guarantee to cure any case of Chills and Fever or Bilious Fever with one bottle.

It costs but 75 cents and each bottle contains over 40 average doses, making the cost less than two cents a dose. Would you ask for cheaper medicine? It is not a cure-all. But will cure any Liver, Bilious or Malarial Complaint. Manufactured by

The Herbine Co.,
(Successors to Wm. Condell.) St. Louis, Mo.

mar 14-y

PISOS CURE FOR

TWENTY-FIVE CENTS

Piso's Cure for Consumption is also the best Cough Medicine. If you have a Cough without disease of the Lungs, a few doses are all you need. But if you neglect this easy means of safety, the slight Cough may become a serious matter, and several bottles will be required.

CONSUMPTION.

PISO'S REMEDY FOR CATARRH gives immediate relief. Catarrhal virus is soon expelled from the system, and the diseased action of the mucous membrane is replaced by healthy secretions.

The dose is small. One package contains a sufficient quantity for a long treatment.

CATARRH

A Cold in the Head is relieved by an application of Piso's remedy for Catarrh. The comfort to be got from it in this way is worth many times its cost.

Easy and pleasant to use.

Price, 50 cents. Sold by druggists or sent by mail.

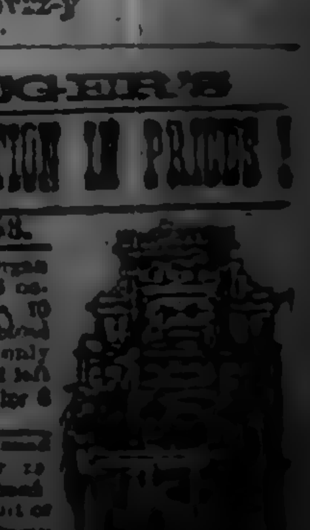
E. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.

nov22-y

ALLEGER'S

GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES!

FROM $8[illegible] to $53.



This Elegant Parlor Organ style [illegible] containing 5 octaves, 4 sets of reeds, 10 stops, 2 knee swells. Stool and Book free. The only $53.00. With right and left coupler. "Warranted for 6 years."

[illegible]

H. W. ALLEGER,
[illegible]

AGRICULTURAL.

TOPICS OF INTEREST RELATIVE TO FARM AND GARDEN.

PACKING BUTTER FOR WINTER.

In putting down butter for winter use in a small way there is nothing better than large, well-glazed crocks, with covers close-fitting, and glazed inside as well as outside. Glazing on the inside of the covers is often neglected, and when it is, the porous earthen, which is a powerful absorbent, soon becomes loaded with foul matter that gives off bad odors and spoils whatever the crock may contain. The packing should be solid and the butter reach to one inch of the top of the crock, and the butter covered with the bleached muslin free from any starch or sizing. The jar should then be filled with all the salt it will hold and snugly pressed down. Then turn on a little pure water, just enough to rise to one-half the depth of the salt and no higher. Brine on the butter with dry salt on top makes a better protection than all brine or all dry salt. Then cover as closely as possible and set in a cool, dry cellar—not on the ground, but up a little from the ground—and if the butter is all right when it is packed it may reasonably be expected to be sound next winter. In a larger way 100-pound white oak firkins, after being thoroughly cleaned of sap and all liability to imparting woody flavor by soaking in boiling water, may be used in the same way as crocks.—Practical Farmer.

EXTRACTED OR COMB HONEY.

The greatest yield of honey can be obtained by extracting, as it can be extracted from the combs without awaiting their sealing up. It seems to take the bees about as long to seal over the combs as to fill them with honey. We can, therefore, get double the number of pounds of extracted honey that we can of comb. Beside keeping the combs emptied of their contents, there is the additional advantage of keeping the bees working right along filling the combs. Bees thus treated are not so liable to swarm, as they have at all times abundance of room for storing honey. It is true we may give them large surplus room, but when this is filled with comb honey it is not completed. Several days are necessary to ripen the honey and seal the cells. With limited storage they make preparations to swarm, and then plentiful storage room will not prevent it. Of the two methods of producing honey, comb and extracted, the latter does not require more than half the labor. It has been said that extracted honey does not bring as high a price. But in the majority of cases the apiarist is making more money from extracted honey, because he is producing three or more pounds to one. True, there are a few specialists who make the raising of comb honey a study, and those probably receive the greatest profits. But the masses find much difficulty in producing comb honey, when they can easily produce large crops of extracted. To succeed properly in raising profitable crops of honey requires the greatest skill and study of anything connected with the apiary. It is beginning at the wrong end to raise comb honey first, instead of the more simple and easy method of using the extractor.—American Agriculturist.

HOW TO MAKE A GOOD WALK.

Farmers, as a rule, do not spend enough time in making and improving walks in front of and around their homes. A good walk in the winter time is a necessity for comfort. One does not like to step out of doors into several inches of mud, nor is it much more satisfactory to have boards slipping and sliding from under your feet. Asphalt walks are so cheap that most farmers can afford to have one running around the house and leading to the principal out-buildings. To make a sound walk, cheap to make and maintain and alike in all weather, select a stone of a flinty nature and burn it before putting it on the walk. This can be easily done with charcoal. After the stones are burnt sift them into two sizes, one for the foundation of the walk and the other for the top. Then mix the stones with boiling coal tar. The foundation of the walk should be prepared beforehand and made perfectly solid and not liable to sink. The larger stone, mixed with the tar, should be laid on first to a depth of about two inches. Then roll thoroughly, going over all of it several times. Then lay on the finer coating about an inch in thickness. Sprinkle the surface over with coarse grit, crushed shell or spar, and roll once more. To prevent the sides from crumbling edgings of wood, tile or bricks should be made. One should not forget to burn the stones before mixing them with the tar, as this is one of the most important features of a good, solid walk. The only work to maintain the walk then is annually to brush hot tar over the surface, sprinkle on it some grit and roll it as before. No kind of walk will last longer or prove more satisfactory for a country home than such a one described. Weeds will have no chance to grow up in it.—Washington Star.

FARM AND GARDEN NOTES.

Ducks when properly handled pay even better than chickens.

When you wean the lambs give them a rich grass or clover pasture.

The farmer is harvesting his wheat and oats. The hens will help him clean up stray grain.

Land plaster is a cheap absorbent, and renders the stable much purer and the manure much more valuable.

Do not invest too largely in new, untried varieties. There is no harm in testing them on a small scale, but use a standard variety for the main crop.

Be sure that the seed wheat does not contain cheat, rye, cockle, or other fine seeds. There is usually a sufficient quantity in the soil without sowing.

The custom followed by a great many farmers of using a spring pig in November and December to sire their next spring crop of pigs is not to be commended.

The day of stockers, kept on the farm as such, is gone by, or at least should be; from the teat to the shambles every pig should be considered a fattening animal.

To produce good wool, the sheep must have the proper food. There is no better hay than clover for sheep, and no better grain than oats and bran with a little oil meal.

Poultry culture is one of the most healthy employments that any one can be engaged in. If you want exercise and pleasure combined, try a flock of nice fowls.

HOUSEHOLD MATTERS.

TO WASH MUSLINS.

Some of these wash admirably with a little care in the laundry. If the colors are not fast, add a handful of salt to each gallon of rinsing water. It is best to try a small piece first if possible. Lay them in cold water to soak, to get the worst of the dirt out of them, then soap them lightly and put them in tepid water, and wash them thoroughly with good soap; rinse them through cold water (with salt, if needed) and dry quickly. Use no starch, and fold them before they are quite dry, ironing them lightly with a not too hot iron. Washed in this way whenever they get to look soiled they should look as good as new.—Washington Star.

ART OF COOKING VEGETABLES.

Vegetables form a most agreeable and useful part of our daily food, and they should be made the object of greater study than they usually are. They should be dressed with taste as well as care. The fresher all green vegetables are the more wholesome. When they are so they break or snap crisply, but should they bend without breaking, or have a wilted appearance they are stale.

Soft water is much the best to use for cooking vegetables, if pure and clean, but if hard water is used have it freshly drawn and put in a little soda to soften. Nearly all vegetables should be thoroughly cooked and are spoiled if either over or under done. Those young and tender require less time than those more matured.

Green vegetables with some exceptions should be cooked in plenty of salted water, putting them in at its first boil. The quantity of salt to be used is a large tablespoon to one gallon of water. All vegetables are done as soon as tender and should be immediately taken up and drained in a colander.

Onions should be soaked in salted warm water previous to cooking to partly remove any strong odor they may possess. Peas, string-beans and green corn should not be prepared for cooking until about ready to be used.

Turnips, carrots and onions should not be split, but sliced in rings across, as they cook thus sooner.

A very small bit of red pepper put in the water in which either meat or vegetables are boiled will, to some extent, deodorize the steam and save the disagreeable odor arising from cabbage, onions, etc.

Potatoes should be pealed as thinly as possible, as the better part lies nearest the skin.—New York Press.

HOW TO MAKE STARCH.

There are very few housekeepers who do not admire the "laundry finish" on shirts and collars, etc., and wish they could equal the stiffness and gloss at home. There's a great deal in the starch. Take the required amount of the best quality and mix it with a little cold water; take out a fourth of it, and cook the rest, stirring to keep it from being lumpy; let it cool a little, when it has cooked enough—ten minutes, perhaps—then stir in the rest, which both whitens and stiffens the cooked starch. It should now be very thick, as thick as you can rub it into the clothes, which of course must be dry.

Rub the starch into the clothes while it is as hot as you can handle it, rubbing well with the hands, straighten out the garment and rub well with the ball of the hand, using a little fresh starch to rub in, then roll up and let lie about ten minutes. The shirt is then ready to iron.

You want hot flatirons, as hot as you can use them, so hot they will scorch dry cloth if left on it. Iron the body of the shirt rapidly; this will make the heat just right for the cuffs. Rub them over lightly on the wrong side, then a little harder, then turn and finish on the right side with pressure, then iron the band. Get another hot iron for the bosom, cool it by ironing a rag or a towel. See there are no wrinkles in the bosom or in the back under it, turn it on your table so the centre of the bosom is parallel with the edge of the table, rub quickly but lightly once or more, then "go for it" with all the muscle you have; then the other half. Put in your shirt board; dampen about half of one side of the bosom, and with your polishing iron press as heavily as you can and iron it fast. That brings the polish—and the perspiration.

You cannot do fine work without a polishing iron. With it and plenty of elbow grease you can. And you don't want wax, tallow, spermaceti or anything else in your starch.—Michigan Farmer.

RECIPES.

Coffee Jelly—Take two tablespoonfuls of gelatine and pour it over one pint of good coffee. When dissolved strain and set away in the ice chest to cool and thicken. Serve with sweetened cream flavored with vanilla.

Fricandeau of Veal—The part of the leg of veal which is called fricandeau, is used for this purpose. Lard the veal the same as a fillet of beef; roast in medium hot oven; baste frequently and cook through, but not too well done; make a nice sauce in pan and serve with the veal.

Lettuce Salad—Take lettuce, washed well and chopped coarse, and make a dressing as follows: Mix one saltspoonful of salt and one-half saltspoonful of pepper in a cup. Add one tablespoonful of oil. When thoroughly mixed add one tablespoonful of vinegar and two more tablespoonfuls of oil. Pour over lettuce and serve.

Fruit Tapioca—Pick over and wash three-quarters of a cup of pearl tapioca. Put it in a double boiler with a pint and a half of boiling water. Cook till soft and transparent, stirring often. Add nearly a saltspoonful of salt, a quarter of a cup of sugar, one good sized banana, and one large, juicy, sweet orange, cut in thin slices. Serve with cream.

Cauliflower au Gratin—Boil cauliflower well done in salted water, then put in plain vegetable dish a ladleful of cream sauce; put in cauliflower; arrange so to fill dish nicely; cover the top with cream sauce; sprinkle over that fine bread crumbs mixed with a little parmesan cheese; besprinkle with melted butter, and brown in oven; serve very hot.

Egg Bread—Beat four eggs very light and stir into a pint of sweet or sour milk; if sour milk is used add a little soda; mix in a large spoonful of butter, take a quart of sifted Indian meal and pour over it sufficient boiling water to scald it, stirring it to a stiff, smooth mass; add the milk and tablespoonful of sugar; beat well and bake in a pan or muffin rings. More eggs can be added if desired. Sweet milk is better to use than sour.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

PLEASANT LITERATURE FOR FEMININE READERS.

FAIR BATHERS WITH DIAMONDS.

And now, at Long Branch, N. J., they bathe in diamonds.

Pray hold your breath yet a moment. The votaries of folly have not as yet, followed their Egyptian prototype to the length of melting down their gems.

On the contrary they cling to them so tenaciously that they have adopted the fad of wearing them, even when they lie down by the surf and take a sun bath on the beach. They get the credit of prudence, too.

In former seasons robberies of bath houses have been numerous. This year a sagacious belle, with a pint of jewels, evolved the idea that her gems would be safer on her person than if left in the bathroom, or even given into the custody of the bath house keeper. She might have left them in the safe in the hotel office, to be sure, but in charity it may be assumed that this simple idea never entered her head. In any event, the spectacle that she presented on the sands, with the limitations of her red-barred bathing dress, eked out in splendor at least, with diamonds and sapphires, struck the rest of femininity as so attractive that in just bout two days she had a score of companions.

Any of these heavy breakers that plunge upon the steep beach would make short work of a diamond necklace or sapphire earrings or a turquoise bracelet if it were given half a chance, but it isn't. The lovely creatures are wise in their day, and the furthest any of them will dare go in her coquetry with Neptune is to permit the playful foam to run up over her dainty bathing slippers. But they make a picturesque exhibition posing on the sands, with gems sparkling in their ears and round their throat and on their fingers. They know the value of their stage, too, and are making the most of it.—New York Mail and Express.

THE DUENNA IN FRANCE.

The relations of the sexes in France have been deranged ever since the French race was formed, writes Gath in the Cincinnati Enquirer. Mr. Shackleford, our Consul at Nantes, says that the enforced separation of the sexes before marriage works the greatest evil to the young men. As they cannot visit respectable girls under the jealous custody of parents and duennas, the youths go to the licensed bordels or pick of the peasant and working class females, and thus are made false to the marriage they subsequently made. An unmarried French woman or virgin over forty years of age dare not walk in the streets in the daytime lest the tender young thing would be spoken to by a bold man.

She still walks out with a duenna and looks down, as if glances might be her demolition. I sat before the cafe of the Hotel de France, looking at the old French duennas accompanying the French old maids across the square—tittering things, with low-quartered shoes, who would not now recognize a husband's tones, so battered have they become in preparation, so low the oil in their virgin lamps—foolish, unnatural virgins, who faint at the cry: "Behold, the bridegroom cometh!" That is to say, they faint on false claims, for he does not mean to come. Family suspicion, the result of the false-heartedness of French marriage, regards the heart of man and woman not to be trusted. Hence, they do not meet with the freedom of innocence. The girls, kept in a dungeon at the time they dream of "keeping house," like other children, marry any man presented, that they may get out of jail; then they regard the marriage as not binding on the heart or the habits. The constraint of systems poisons nature at the fountain; love is the mighty tide of life, bearing on its bosom the passion and destiny of species, and false is the man or king to nature and her sway who reduces it to bondage that gives the heart no choice and the birds of the air not the affinities of selection.

France is a suspected country, and it suspects everybody else; it is a country where the maids are not permitted to know without what they learn from within, and the wives do not inform within what they learn without. The worst of it is that this corrupt condition, being in the hands of a restless, artistic, vivacious people, is contaminating the surrounding nations. Thus hypocrisy, the formal verisimilitude of conformity of one faith and innocence in one marriage, has devoured France.

FASHION NOTES.

White hats are in great favor.

Tan and russet shoes grow in fashionable favor.

The yoke bodice is the favorite for white wash goods.

Red is a favorite color for country costumes this year.

Flower designs ornament the newest silver belt buckles.

Soft felt hats are chosen for wear with mountain costumes.

A fan of latest importation forms a large rose when closed.

The name given to the dull red now so popular is "rouge Eiffel."

White waistcoats are particularly popular with all sorts of gowns.

Some of the newest evening shoes have two straps coming from the back of the heel and crossing in sandal fashion.

Unique belt buckles show twisted designs of ropes and cords in silver, and others are merely large initial letters.

Shot silk is much in favor for mantles, dresses, morning robes and skirts, or as a conspicuous lining for morning robes.

Prominent among the season's novelties in fans are some very beautiful ones, which are mounted upon sticks of carved coral.

White ulsters of rough twilled cloths, with a belt at the back and loose double breasted front, are made for driving or sailing.

Blouses are a conspicuous feature of toilets, being made as a part of a dress, or to be worn independently with various skirts.

White Victoria lawn blouses extend below the waist line, and are snugly belted with an old fashioned belt ribbon fastened by a silver buckle.

Red is a favorite color for country costumes, and is worn in all wool fabrics, such as challi, cashmere or serge; in cotton stuffs, especially in striped or plaid ginghams, and in thick percales, with borders of white, cream or black figures.

President Harrison is a physiognomist.

WORDS OF WISDOM.

Man is a book without an index.

Women carry the powder and man the matches.

One need not live high to be above suspicion.

A friend is a man who hunts you when you are lost.

Never covet that which cannot possibly be obtained.

Where much is sought for little is often to be found.

Hoping for the best will make the worst none the easier to bear.

A wise man embraces an opportunity; the fool hugs a delusion.

The happier one's thoughts the pleasanter will be his reverie.

Every man who dislikes to drink water has not been bitten by a mad dog.

Perseverance, to receive a rich reward, must have an object worthy of it.

Those who follow will always be flattered by the other end of the string.

Ten people say that a thing ought to be done where one will propose to do it.

One may ruin himself by frankness, but one surely dishonors himself by duplicity.

A woman whose ruling passion is not vanity, is superior to any man of equal capacity.

The man who has reached a condition of perfection must suffer for room to develop in.

It is a great misfortune not to have enough wit to speak well, or not enough judgment to keep silent.

Good qualities are the substantial riches of the mind, but it is good breeding that sets them off to advantage.

Of all the gifts that nature can give us the faculty of remaining silent or of answering apropos is perhaps the most useful.

Receive no satisfaction for premeditated impertinence. Forget it, forgive it, but keep him inexorably at a distance who offered it.

A Monarch of the Air.

The king bird is a monarch of the air. Small of form and swift of flight, he ruffles up his feathers and attacks the mighty hawk with as little fear as he would a harmless robin. He sounds his warning rattle as he swoops toward some feathered rival, and twists and turns, driving his strong bill into some vulnerable part, and keeping up the warfare until he tires of it. Near Spruce cabin a big speckled hen is busy with a chirping brood of little chickens. The mother has a vagrant spirit, and persists in roaming out of the barnyard and wandering in the outlaying fields with her fluttering family. A few days ago a hawk came down from the peak of Goose Pond Mountain, and swooping upon one of the little chicks rose into the air with it, leaving the old hen in a state of squawking terror. The hawk, to show its fearlessness, flew with great deliberation toward a big oak, with the evident intention of devouring its prey upon the stalwart branches. A dark speck came out of the tree, and with many a dart and curve rose high in the air.

The hawk recognized it as the king bird, about the only bird that is capable of filling him with fear, and making him swerve from his course and halt in his masterful flight. He showed his fear by increasing his speed and turning about as though to retreat. The king bird pursued his upward flight until he could look down upon the broad back of the hawk, and then, like an arrow from its bow, he shot down and lit upon it—a fluttering bit of concentrated rage. The hawk darted, poised and swooped, but that mite upon him clung, jabbing its bill again and again into the tender flesh near its wings. The pain was too great to bear, and so he folded his powerful wings and dropped like a shot toward the earth. But the king bird was not yet weary, and he swiftly followed, fighting all the time like a demon. The old hen had been an interested spectator of the fight, and when she saw the hawk descend she spread out her wings and flew heavily toward him to fight him away from her young. But the hawk was too wary to permit her to reach him, and before he had dropped within the range of her power of flight he spread out his wings again and shot upward.

The chicken which he still held in his claws, small as it was, hampered him a trifle, and he dropped it when near the earth and devoted all his attention to ridding himself of the little tormentor that was still fighting him with claws and beak. He sped away to his mountain home, and was nearly there before the king bird ceased his attack. The old hen ran with many an encouraging cackle to its injured little one that was lying, a downy ball, upon the spot where the hawk had dropped it. It was still alive, but it died the next day from the wounds in its back made by the hawk's claws.—New York Sun.

A Big Turtle Slaughtered.

The mammoth forty-pound turtle captured by Drew and Baldwin, drawbridge tenders at the Housatonic River for the Consolidated road, was slaughtered a few days ago in Stratford, Conn., and twenty-five pounds of solid meat taken from the shell. Thirty men feasted on turtle soup next day, and after the repast there were taken up of the fragments twelve basketfuls. The head is being prepared by Thomas Fairchild, of Stratford, to be presented to Peabody Museum of New Haven. The hide is being tanned by Station Agent Beardsley at Nang Junction, and is to be made into a pair of shoes. The shell he has taken home for a roof to his chicken-house. The claws are to be used for clam rakes, and other important parts are preserved in alcohol. This is the largest turtle ever known to have been caught in that part of the country.—New York Sun.

Merchant Princes Who Eat Candy.

"You would be surprised," said the man behind the counter of a Chestnut street confectionery store, "at the number of wealthy men who buy candies of various kinds to nibble during office hours. One banker, who is worth almost a million, buys five cents' worth of peppermint almost every morning. That is his usual limit. A prominent editor invests the same in cocoanut candy and eats it with as much relish as any school girl. There is a drygoods merchant near Eighth and Chestnut streets who invests the enormous sum of one cent in a plain mint stick, wrapping it up carefully in a piece of paper and carrying it carefully in his vest pocket.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Slate of the very best variety is found in Wales, where it has been mined for many years.

POPULAR SCIENCE.

An electric motor has been applied in Chicago for running brushes used in grooming horses.

The assertion is made that the Americans—a pre-eminently mixed race—are fast becoming a dark haired and blue eyed nation.

A Russian mineralogist, K. D. Chrustschoff, claims to have discovered a new metal, which he proposes to name "Russium." It resembles thorium.

A paper on the sardine read by M. Boucher before the Paris Academy of Science expresses the opinion that it is a young fish which has not attained its full development.

A citizen of Winnemucca, Col., while making some changes in his well, discovered that trees 100 feet away had sent roots to and down into the well. How did the trees discover the well?

Dr. Foster, director of the University Ophthalmic Clinique at Breslau, believes that a common cause of short sightedness in the young is restriction of the circulation produced by the wearing of tight fitting collars.

The population of Norway exhibits a higher percentage (97.25) of light eyes than any other country in Europe. Flaxen hair occurs in 57.5 per cent., while absolutely black hair is only found in the ratio of two per cent.

The danger to life and property from sparks emitted from electric light wires has been so well recognized in London that it is recommended that the city authorities take the matter in hand and see that the wires are properly insulated.

From a recent study of the bones of anthropoid apes it appears that the gorilla and chimpanzee approach nearest to man, but in different degrees, orang-outang holding the third place. But great differences exist between the proportions of the human frame and those of all the apes.

Probably the most important invention shown at the Paris Exposition is a new railway, to be run by water power at a speed from eighty-seven to 124 miles an hour with absolute safety. It promises to revolutionize the railway system, doing away with the locomotive engine and dispensing with coal.

The floods of the summer have shown how great a protection against the inroads of water a row of willow trees may be. The engineer in charge of the Potomac River improvements says that where willows were planted the land was protected from washing, and practically no damage was done, while in the improved land not so protected there was great loss.

The Indian Planter's Gazette says that "Dr. Lazarus, the well-known occulist, has invented a shooting spectacle made with adjustable shutters for use as ordinary distant spectacle for target shooting, and which modified will be found most useful to target shooters. This useful invention will be found a God-send to near-sighted soldiers and sportsmen."

It is stated that about five hundred veterinary surgeons in Great Britain have signed a paper condemning overhead check reins as painful to horses and productive of disease. It distorts the wind-pipe, and is liable to cause paralysis of the muscles of the face, apoplexy, coma and inflammation of the brain, all these resulting in shorting the life of the horse.

President Diaz, during the four years of his administration in Mexico, has rendered substantial services to science by encouraging archæological investigation and taking measures for the preservation of ancient monuments and historical remains. The ruins of Xochicalco and the pyramids of Teotihuacan have been explored, and the searchers rewarded by many interesting discoveries. An archæological map of the republic has been made, and the palaces of Mitla inclosed, for their preservation, by a great wall.

The Russian Cavalry.

The material of the Russian cavalry relatively to that of the German army still leaves much to be desired, says a writer in the Militarisches Wochenblatt. Though, according to census returns, the number of horses actually existing in the country reaches the imposing total of 20,000,000, yet eighty-six per cent. of these are undersized village ponies unsuited for military purposes; and of the remaining 4,000,000, which are for the most part reared in breeding establishments, 3964 of which exist scattered about the empire, many in the steppe, only eighteen per cent. breed riding horses, the remainder only draught animals. These stud-breds hardly suffice to meet the requirements of the officers and of the guard regiments, and the latter are being compelled more and more to have recourse to the horses coming from the south, to so-called "improved" country-breds, which also supply the needs of the line cavalry almost entirely. These animals possess considerable endurance, but are not well shaped for cavalry purposes, and owing to their badly set-on heads and necks, the narrowness between the cheek-bones, and their deficient quarters, it is difficult to teach them a proper galop; and these defects are even more conspicuous in the Cossack horse, which is yearly deteriorating. Nevertheless, and in spite of the unpromising nature of the material, the attempt is made to attain the same proficiency in the old-fashioned manege traditions as was formerly achieved with better stock and longer service.

Alaska Not a Farming Country.

Alaska is no farming country and never will be to any appreciable extent. The climate is too moist to encourage any prospect of that kind. The country, both on the islands and on the mainland, is too rough to be ever reduced to a condition for agriculture. Certain root crops, such as potatoes, turnips, and beets, together with cabbages, can be raised with fair success. Almost anywhere in the neighborhood of the native villages a few acres can be reclaimed from the rough and rugged surroundings for gardening purposes. All the Russian and Creole residents of Southeastern Alaska cultivate gardens, in which they raise all the potatoes, cabbages, and vegetables that need only a meagre amount of sunshine, and while about ten acres of land, reclaimed during Russian occupation, lie idle, no effort has been made by the mission authorities to establish any kind of gardening for the use of the institution and for the instruction of the pupils.—New York Times.

One of the principal operations during the British naval maneuvers is to be an attempted forcing of the Straits of Gibraltar.

Antiquity of the Glove.

No article of attire has more of interest in its associations and history than gloves; for while the interest attaching to other garments has been mainly that of utility, to gloves has been attached a varied and wide spread symbolism, giving them an exalted place and linking them with many curious observances, regal, ecclesiastical, military and social.

The glove has been the emblem of power and of purity, of defiance and subjection. Lands and personal property were once conveyed by the delivery of a glove; the authority of kings over provinces was attested by presenting a glove; kings invested barons with dominion by bestowing on the favorite one of the kingly gloves; and many ecclesiastical and legal ceremonies could only be performed with white gloves, the emblems of purity.

The antiquity of gloves is very great; they doubtless antedate history, for the earliest literature alludes to them, and they have been known and worn from the earliest ages of which we have any knowledge. Homer, in the "Odyssey," describes Laertes, the farmer-king, the father of Ulysses, in his retirement: "While gloves secured his hands to shield them from the thorns." Xenophon jeers at the Persians for wearing gloves as a protection from the cold; not only did they have umbrellas borne over them in summer, not being content with the shade of the trees and rocks, but in the winter it is not sufficient for them to clothe their heads, and their bodies, and their feet, but they have coverings made of hair for their hands and their fingers. In their earlier days the Greeks and the Romans scorned such effeminacy, but at a later day, in the time of Pliny, the uncle of that lively historian is described as traveling with an amanuensis "who wore gloves upon his hands in winter lest the severity of the weather should make him lose any time" in writing.

From time immemorial the glove has had a legal significance in oriental countries in the transfer of property, just as the "God's penny" was formerly used to "bind a bargain" in the west. A disputed passage in the Old Testament—Ruth iv. 7 and 8—reads: "Now this was the manner in former time in Israel, concerning redeeming and concerning changing, for to confirm all things; a man plucked off his shoe, and gave to his neighbor; and this was a testimony in Israel." It is now commonly agreed by scholars that the word shoe should be rendered glove, for in the Chaldaic paraphrase the word is rendered "the case or covering of the right hand;" and accepting this view, it appears that among the Israelites the passing of a glove was the method of transferring property.

Later the glove, as a pledge or emblem of conveyance, came into use among the Romans, whose ancient law held property to have passed with its literal transfer, or of part of it, into the hand of the purchaser; and the glove, doubtless as a matter of convenience, took the place of and symbolized this actual transfer.—[The Haberdasher.

Stupidly Conservative Venezuelians.

The native farmers of Venezuela plow with a crooked stick with one handle, just as the Egyptians did in the days of Moses, and no thing can induce them to adopt the modern two-handled steel affair. They simply can't do it, and they won't. General Guzman-Blanco, who was always favorable to the introduction of labor-saving machinery and methods, at one time attempted to enforce the use of improved implements, but he was compelled to give it up as a bad job. The productiveness of the republic might be enormously increased, as Guzman realized, by enabling one man to do the work of two, or six, or ten, for the great drawback is scarcity of labor; but the peons are stubborn, more stubborn than stupid, and will insist upon doing everything just as their fathers did, and their great grandfathers for that matter. It is the same spirit, the same resistance to innovations, that causes them to ship their coffee and sugar upon the backs of donkeys instead of the railroad; that requires the payment for produce in coin instead of checks, and causes that coin to be hidden away under an old stump or a crack in the roof instead of being deposited in a bank to draw interest and increase the circulating medium.

The workingmen, the mechanics, know nothing of labor-saving machinery. All the timber and woodwork for house-building is dressed by hand. There is not such a thing as a planing-mill or a sash factory in the whole country, and all the furniture and cabinet work is made the same way. You will always find locks placed upon the door-casings and the socket for the bolt screwed upon the door, and the locks are invariably upside down. When you call attention to it you are told that it is the custom of the country. When a house is being erected, whether it is one story or two, the solid walls are first raised to their full height, and then holes are chiseled out to admit the ends of the rafters and timbers for the floors. It never occurs to the builder that an easier way would be to set the timbers in the walls as he lays the bricks.—[Chicago News.

A Pet Illusion Dispelled.

One often reads pathetic stories of pet birds that die simultaneously with, or shortly after, their child owners. It sounds pretty, but the simple prose of the matter often is that the owners infected the birds. Canaries and other songsters will catch scarlet fever, measles, diphtheria, or almost any other human disease, and if left in the sick-room they are almost sure to be infected. Pet cats and small dogs, too, are often sacrificed in the same way, and in their cases there is also the risk that they will go out and become the unwitting instruments of disseminating disease.

An authentic silver dollar, of the Confederate States, is valued by coin collectors at $1,000. Only a few were coined before the Confederate mint ran out of silver.

[illegible]

A WET HEN

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

Best Cough Medicine. Recommended by Physicians. Cures where all else fails. Pleasant and agreeable to the taste. Children take it without objection. By druggists.

BRYANT & STRATTON

A wholesale coffee firm in New York is represented by a woman drummer. She was formerly employed in the store, but proved to be such a good judge of coffee, that the firm sent her out on the road. She carries her samples and takes orders the same as her male competitors, and often succeeds in getting orders where they have failed.

The Best Testimonial

Yet published for any blood medicine is the printed guarantee of the manufacturers of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which warrants that wonderful medicine to benefit or cure in all cases of those diseases for which it is recommended, or money paid for it will be returned. It cures all diseases arising from torpid liver and impure blood and their numerous legion. All Skin, Scalp and Scrofulous affections, Eruptions, Sores and Swellings, Salt-rheum, Tetter, Erysipelas and kindred diseases, are among those in which the "Discovery" effected marvelous cures.

When everything else fails, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures. 50 cents, by druggists.

According to a late treasury statement, the amount of money circulation of the United States is about $1,410,000,000.

Shortest, Quickest and Best.

The CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY constitutes the short, direct line between Kansas City and Denver, and all points in Kansas, Colorado and the Indian Territory. Its SOLID VESTIBULE EXPRESS TRAINS leave Kansas City daily on arrival of trains from Memphis, St. Louis and eastern and southeastern points, running through without change to Denver, Colorado Springs and Pueblo, where they connect with outgoing trains of all diverging lines, offering a choice of routes to Salt Lake, Ogden, Helena, Portland, Los Angeles and San Francisco. These vestibule trains consist of elegant Day Coaches, Pullman Palace Sleepers and FREE Reclining Chair Cars, leading all competitors in splendor of equipment, and having all those "modern improvements" which add to safety, comfort and luxurious enjoyment. If going to Denver or the Pacific coast, secure tickets over the ROCK ISLAND via Kansas City, and you will never regret it. For further information apply or write to G. D. Bacon, Gen. Ag't Pass. Dept., Chamber of Commerce Building, Cinn., Ohio; P. P. Young, Trav. Pass. Ag't, 103 West 9th St., Chattanooga, Tenn., or U. S. G. Hough, Trav. Pass. Ag't, 100 North Third St., St. Louis, Mo.

Sarah Bernhardt.

is coming to America, and great will be the enthusiasm aroused amongst her admirers. But, we have our own bright star, Mary Anderson, who will continue to bear off the palm in the dramatic, as does Lucy Hinton in the great tobacco world.

We recommend "Tansill's Punch" Cigar.

Salt Rheum

Often causes great agony with its intense itching and burning. Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier, cures salt rheum and all skin diseases. It thoroughly cleanses, renovates and enriches the blood. Give it a trial.

"After the failure of three skillful physicians to cure my boy of salt rheum, I tried Hood's Sarsaparilla and Olive Ointment. I have now used four boxes of Ointment and one and a half bottles of Sarsaparilla, and the boy is to all appearances completely cured. He is now four years old, and has been afflicted since he was six months of age." Mrs. B. Sanderson, 56 Newhall Street, Lowell, Mass.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

Ely's Cream Balm
WILL CURE
CATARRH
Price 50 Cents.
Apply Balm into each nostril.
ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N.Y.

THE CURE FOR CATARRH COLD in HEAD HAY FEVER ELY'S CREAM BALM

ARE YOU THINKING OF BUYING A
Cotton or Hay Press
We manufacture a Cotton Press and two Hay Presses. Will send Circulars and Price List upon application.
ROANOKE IRON AND WOOD WORKS.
CHATTANOOGA, TENN.
P. O. Box 283.

Dr. Lobb, 329 N. 15th St. PHILA., PA.
After ALL others fail, consult
Twenty years' continuous practice in the treatment and cure of the awful effects of early vice, destroying both mind and body. Medicine and treatment for one month, Five Dollars, sent securely sealed from observation to any address.
Book on Special Diseases free.

RUPTURE
A written guarantee to ABSOLUTELY CURE. No detention from business. Endorsed by the leading physicians of the United States. Write for circulars.
DR. C. B. McCANDLISS, ATLANTA, GA.
Office 30½ Marietta Street, corner Broad.

THE HARVEST IN TEXAS.
[illegible]

YOU CAN MAKE $100 A MONTH [illegible]

$75 TO $250 A MONTH can be made working for us. [illegible] JOHNSON & CO., 1009 Main St., Richmond [illegible]

OPIUM [illegible] B. M. WOOLLEY [illegible]

HOME STUDY. [illegible] thoroughly taught by MAIL. [illegible] Bryant's College, 457 Main St., Buffalo, N.Y.

$25 AN HOUR [illegible] MEDICAL CO., Richmond [illegible]

FARMS [illegible]

AGENTS [illegible]

[illegible] BUS. COLLEGE, Philadelphia [illegible]

PEERLESS DYES Are the BEST. [illegible]

G [illegible]

A. N. U. Thirty-[illegible]

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per Square, of one inch space or less, for the first, and Fifty cents for each subsequent insertion.

INCHES.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
1 Inch	$5 00	$7 00	$11 [illegible]
2 Inches	7 00	11 25	16 [illegible]
3 Inches	10 00	15 00	22 [illegible]
4 Inches	12 50	20 00	27 [illegible]
5 Inches	15 00	22 50	33 [illegible]
¼ Column	18 00	27 00	40 [illegible]
½ Column	27 00	40 00	60 [illegible]
1 Column	40 00	60 00	100 [illegible]

The Chilto

W. H. LAWRENCE, Editor and Publisher. "WISDOM, JUSTICE,

VOLUME VIII. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDA

Caheen's Grand I

NEW FAL

EVERYTHING NEW, BRIG

New Silks, New Velvets, New Trimmings, New Henrietta

Fringes and New High Art Productio

Early as it is, we are selling quantities of Fall Dress Goods, probably because we now h daily and we will beyond the slightest shadow of a doubt have the largest, finest and best

The Reapers.

When o'er the broad, fair meadows
  The westward sun sinks low,
Slowly through deep'ning shadows,
  Homeward the reapers go,
Where the little babe lies sleeping,
  Safe in his simple bed,
And waiting children listen
  Their father's sturdy tread.

Where the little wife is singing,
  The firelight loops and falls,
No purer songs are ringing
  Through gilded palace halls.
If the nation seeketh keepers,
  Brave hearts and mighty hands,
Let it turn to the toil-worn reapers,
  Who garner the harvest lands.

There are those who, toil forsaking,
  May dream of kingly state,
Where the sword its power is making,
  And pampered vassals wait.
The king is a restless sleeper,
  His throne may rise or fall,
The lot of the sturdy reaper
  Is surest of them all.

—J. B. M. Wright in American Cultivator.

COOK AND COUNTESS.

Patty Cowslip, the only daughter of the Rev. Peter Cowslip, Vicar of Muddesworth-in-the-Marsh, was a pretty girl. She was so pretty that she might have actually aspired, though she hadn't a penny in the world, to marrying a fashionable curate. But though Patty was penniless, she was ambitious, and she hadn't the slightest idea of marrying the most fashionable of curates.

It is not necessary to describe what Patty was like. "Rather above than below the ordinary height," as novelists say, rich chestnut hair with a glint of gold in it, an excellent figure, small ears, brown eyes with dark eyebrows and lashes, pearly teeth set in the rosy frame of a pair of lips arched like Cupid's bow, a round and dimpled chin, a swan-like neck—Bah! we have all once in our lives met somebody as charming as Miss Patty Cowslip; but as a rule the experience has not been repeated. We must not forget, though, that Miss Patty's arms and hands were her strong point. A queen might have envied them, for they were absolutely perfect.

Miss Patty Cowslip had had a decent education, but beyond the annual subsidy of £10 a year, which the parish paid her for playing the organ, she hadn't a penny in the world.

The Rev. Peter Cowslip was as poor as a rat. With considerable difficulty he managed to pay his tradesmen at the year's end; but the Rev. Peter dined every day much better than many millionnaires. Any why? Was it on account of the poor clergyman's wicked extravagance? Not a bit of it; the fact is that Patty was a spendid cook—a born genius for the noblest of the arts.

Many modern young ladies, having purchased a terra cotta jar and rendered it hideous with daubs of paint, compel their friends to fall down and worship it, and call it art; other girls torment us with the piano, violin, banjo, harp, sackbut, psaltery, dulcimer, and all kinds of music; other girls sing. All these people work their wicked wills upon us with impunity. We grin; we say, "Oh, thank you so much," because we are obliged to do that; and our politeness is treated as an encore, and then our sufferings recommence.

Pretty Patty Cowslip did none of these dreadful things; but she could cook like Ude, Francatelli and Soyer rolled into one. And pretty Patty went up to town and entered the School of Cookery and came out as the senior wrangler of the year. It was Patty first, the rest nowhere. M. Caramel, the Professor of Ornamental Pastry, proposed to her at once; but Patty refused him, for as we have said, she was ambitious. And then Miss Cowslip issued a neat little advertisement, took modest lodgings in a modest West End street, and began to teach on her own account.

Lord Fleshpotts was a widowed nobleman. He had three unmarried daughters—the Ladies Gwendoline, Ermyntrude, and Ermyngarde Casserole. His lordship was a great sufferer from indigestion, and he was dying of bad dinners. No cook ever stayed more than a month in his house; each of his daughters ruled the roast for a week, and generally the particular young lady who happened to be responsible for the dinner on any given evening left the room in tears before the dessert was put upon the table. If Lord Fleshpotts would only have dined at his club, all might have been well; but he persisted in dining at home, and the lives of his three daughters were slow martyrdoms.

It chanced one day that they saw Miss Cowslip's advertisement in the St. James's Gazette. Lady Gwendoline pointed it out to her sisters. They ordered the carriage early the next morning, and they were ushered into Miss Patty's neat little sitting room in Park street. "We don't want to take lessons, Miss Cowslip," said Lady Gwendoline. "We're two stupid," said Lady Ermyngarde. "And it would be no use," said Lady Ermyntrude. "But, oh! Miss Cowslip, couldn't you come every morning and give us a few hints, for Pa is wasting visibly!" cried the eldest girl.

"It's novelty that poor papa requires," sobbed the second daughter—"refreshing novelty and perpetual change. Those are his very words, Miss Cowslip; his cruel, heartless words."

"Has Lord Fleshpotts ever tasted apple dumplings?" asked Patty Cowslip solemnly.

"It's a plate I never heard of," exclaimed Lady Gwendoline.

"They were a favorite dish with his Majesty King George the Third," remarked Patty the historian.

"And we've never even heard of them!" sighed Lady Ermyntrude.

So it was arranged that Patty was to come the next day and teach them how to make apple dumplings, for which she was to receive a fee of one guinea, and as a personal favor she wrote them a charming little menu, in which among the sweet dishes appeared the item, "Apple dumplings a la George Trois."

At 2 o'clock the next day Miss Cowslip was shown into their ladyships' boudoir. A clean white cloth, by Patty's direction, was laid upon the round table in the centre of the room; flour, water, a dish of apples, some brown sugar, some cloves, a pastry-board and a basin were brought in by Adolphus John, the six-foot footman, and then each of the Ladies Casserole, provided with a silver knife, began to peel an apple.

Poor things, they couldn't even do that properly. But Patty Cowslip, who had taken off her hat and gloves, laid aside her jacket and donned a natty little Swiss apron trimmed with Russian embroidery, rolled up her sleeves and displayed her magnificent arms and demonstrated the proper way to peel an apple, to the delight, astonishment and admiration of the Ladies Casserole and when she was in the middle of the process the door opened and Lord Fleshpotts entered the room.

"Pa," said Lady Gwendoline, "allow me to introduce to you Miss Cowslip, who has kindly consented to give us a few lessons."

"My dear young lady!" cried his lordship, "do I speak to the talented authoress of the charming menu I hold in my hand? Ever since it met my eyes I have felt a new sensation. I've eaten no lunch. I am reserving myself for your most delectable little dinner. But you have aroused my curiosity as well as my appetite. What on earth are apple dumplings a la George Trois? It is a dish I have never met in the whole course of my vast experience." ("She's got the most lovely arms and hands," he thought, "that I ever saw in my life!)"

Patty smiled. ("What teeth!" thought his lordship.)

"You shall see them made, Lord Fleshpotts," said Patty, "if you care to look on."

"If I care! It will be the proudest privilege of my life. My dear Gwendoline," said the Earl. I could watch the movements of your charming friend forever."

"Pa!" cried the Ladies Casserole, in an astonished and indignant chorus.

And then Prof. Patty divided her apples into quarters, and then she made the paste and cut it into the requisite sized squares. And Lord Fleshpotts looked on with respectful admiration, for he couldn't take his eyes off her magnificent hands and arms. "If," he thought, "that shapely creature would only prepare my meals forever life would still have charms. I can't ask her to be my cook, for she's a lady. When I look at her I feel myself growing young again."

Just then Patty completed the first dumpling.

"What do you think of that, Lord Fleshpotts?" she said as she displayed the little white sphere on her extended palm.

"My dear young lady," said Lord Fleshpotts, gazing at her arm and hand, "it's a dream of loveliness."

"Your lordship is laughing at me," said Miss Patty.

"I'm not, I assure you!" burst in the enamored peer; "I could eat it raw!"

And then the three Ladies Casserole simultaneously began to hate Prof. Patty with a deadly hatred.

But Miss Cowslip hadn't come to Eaton square to waste her time. She turned out the rest of the apple dumplings with the celerity of a practiced hand. She took no further notice of his lordship, but she pocketed her guinea, which Lady Gwendoline tendered wrapped in the conventional piece of tissue paper, and took her leave.

The dinner that evening in Eaton square was for once a success, and Lord Fleshpotts was helped three times to apple dumpling a la George Trois.

The next day, when Miss Cowslip arrived at Eaton square, she was shown into his lordship's study.

"My dear young lady," cried Lord Fleshpotts, as he advanced with extended hands, "I'm delighted to see you! Words fail me," he added, in a broken voice, "to sufficiently express my appreciation of your beauty and accomplishments. The crispness of the crust, my dear madam (they were baked dumplings), was indescribable. I have one question to ask you, Miss Cowslip. Will you be my wife?"

"Patty Cowslip felt as if the room was going round with her.

The enamored peer dropped upon his knees.

"If the devotion of a lifetime," he began.

"Don't, Lord Fleshpotts!" said Patty.

"You've found the way to my heart, my darling—"

* * * * * *

The second Lady Fleshpotts is a very popular person, and her dinners are celebrated. She has married off her three step-daughters to Mustard, Soap and Furniture respectively, and she takes the most dutiful care of her husband.

His lordship's bill, the British Cooks' Compulsory Education Act, comes on for first reading at an early date; and the young Countess of Fleshpotts has promised to give evidence at the Royal Commission which is expected to be appointed upon the subject.—St. James's Gazette.

The Ruling Passion.

Wild-Eyed Lover—"This is your last chance, cold beauty. Speak quickly. Do you see that can? It's full of dynamite. Promise to marry me, or I will touch it off."

Cold Beauty—"Will you promise to keep me in better style than that horrid Miss Part is going to live in when she marries Mr. De Rich?"

"Impossible."

"Touch it off."

PEARLS OF THOUGHT.

An idle reason lessens the weigh the good ones you gave before.

Who never walks save where he men's tracks, makes no discoveries.

"Performers" are necessarily trai but real manhood is only develope self-culture.

No man can deprive another of liberty without parading his own sition to steal.

The man who yields to the of others will find peace at t of the procession.

The man who exerts h right in the presence of lax when he is alone.

The man who needs
by others is braced up earns his own living.

Not the cry, but the duck, says a Chinese flock to fly and follow.

One can always kno way is by determinin need to disguise it or

The art of training
vidual responsibility may be trained to p

People don't grow and it takes a deal earn your bread and

It is a deplorable
ple so conceited tha to point out those w

Lances for

A general order h
the German light c armed with lances.
ans alone carried them rassiers were obliged the rule extends to dragoons. Aside fr usefulness of the w general effect of the is rather imposing.
some difficulty in get of a lance. The French use a lance with a metallic point. Some of the German cavalry are armed with lances made entirely of some light metal. But, as some of the infantry and artillery officers here say, "good rifles and cannon are worth all the lances and swords in the world, except on parade and in society."

A Tall and Large Family.

Whenever there is offered in the United States a prize open to the whole country for the family that has the greatest length, breadth and thickness, Walker County, through the Coulter boys, will be sure to take it. Of the six boys, going up by steps and commencing at the lowest, Jim is 6 feet 4 inches, Mac 6 feet 6 inches, Will 6 feet 6 inches, Tom 6 feet 7 inches, Oscar 6 feet 8 inches, and Richard 6 feet 11 inches. The parents were 6 feet 4 inches and 5 feet 9 inches, respectively. The boys' weights run from 200 to 262 pounds, making a total of 1367 pounds—an average of 228 pounds.—Lafayette (Ga.) Messenger.

The "Last Man's Club."

The "Last Man's Club," composed of survivors of a Minnesota regiment, celebrated as usual this year the twenty-eighth anniversary of the battle of Bull Run. The club was organized with thirty-two, but now contains twenty-one members. But twenty-one plates will continue to be laid at each annual banquet until the last man is seated alone to partake of a bottle of wine which was presented to the club at its foundation. This is placed on the table at each banquet, but it is to remain untouched until twenty-one of the banqueters are dead.—New York Witness.

Saving His Trousers.

Bobby—Who blowed to the police about your father allowing his dog to go round without a muzzle?

Tommy—Sister's beau.

Snakes abound in some curious specimens are met
The chicken snake is one of them. His habits are very peculiar. His occupation is mainly to rob the nests of innocent barn-yard fowls and swallow eggs for nourishment. It is difficult for even a snake to digest an egg in its natural shape, and this serpent resorts to a novel expedient to assist him to perform this useful operation. After swallowing a number of eggs he climbs into the branches of a tree or crawls to the top rail of a neighboring fence and falls off in order to break them. Another snake inhabiting that section, it is claimed, will swim across a river to bite any one it may suspect is on the opposite side.

Good Singing Impossible on a Carpet.

A former operatic singer, now a teacher of singing, says that it is impossible to stand on a carpet or rug and sing one's best. Bare boards make a good floor to stand on when you sing. Stone is just as good, and glass is better, but carpets deaden the voice and make a trained singer feel choked and suffocating. To sing well one must not have anything above or in front to catch the voice. Even the brim of a derby hat will impair the voice of a man who wears it while he sings. That is why singers stand far out by the footlights to sing, and because the stage of the New York Academy of Music projects far beyond the proscenium arch vocalists always will love that old theatre.

Mercenary.

"Pa, I'll be right sorry when you get well," said a little Austin boy to his sick parent.

"Why, my son?"

"Because I won't get any more empty medicine bottles to sell. I sell 'em for five cents apiece to the drug store."

eggs representencroachers which the scare-crow would take no part in frightening away from his fruit orchards.

The enterprising little tradeswoman lives, moves and has her being in a contented way, giving no sign of nervousness through being haunted by visitants from the world of the departed spirits of birdlings. Carriages of wealthy women roll up to the small shop where her merchandise is, and, without hesitation, leave the $3 which is her price for her nest with eggs, and, being tastefully mounted on a pile of stones or rustic branches in the shape of a corner piece, they make a unique decoration for a home, and bid fair to be one of the most popular articles for sale in the fall. In this greed for gain on one hand and a desire to have beautiful, if forbidden, fruit on the other no note of the robin's song, which has changed from merriment to woe. No one thinks of her as she reaches the home tree and finds her nest gone and her hopes blasted.

"Taken From the German."

—Life.

ANOTHER PROFESSION.

"Let's see," said Mrs. B., "she married a Thompson, didn't she?"

"Hey?" exclaimed Mr. B., who is slightly deaf, pausing, with a potato held in air on his fork.

"She married a Thompson, didn't she?" asked Mrs. B. in a louder voice.

"No," said Mr. B. gravely, "she married a [illegible]."

eyebrows.
are of classic Grecian cast. In stature she is above the medium height, and connoisseurs have said that her figure is faultless, neither spare nor stout, but symmetrically rounded.

The bride inherits her good looks and gentle manners from a father who is a man of culture, and a mother of handsome countenance, which is stamped with tokens of amiable disposition and intellectual force. The Chamberlains have resided off and on in England for nearly a dozen years. The American beauty, as Miss Chamberlain was well known, and her people have been frequent guests at Sandringham, the home of the heir to the English throne. Her portrait has been hung in the Grosvenor Gallery, and an exquisite bust in marble by the sculptor D'Epigny has been exhibited in Rome as a companion piece to the bust of the Empress of Russia.

A Bull-Fighter Killed.

A bull-fighter who was displaying his skill in the Madrid arena but a fortnight ago was mortally wounded in a small provincial town while in the act of casting his red cloak before a bull to save his own nephew, a promising young torreador. He died the day after receiving his wound. Old Bocanegra had been famous in his day for his agility and daring, especially in Andalusia. Sorely pressed by poverty, this old man still handled the sword and red cloak, though his failing sight and growing weakness exposed him to many perils. But when he was told to take care, because bull's horns were often wont to give a hard pinch, he replied: "Ah, friend, hunger pinches hardest."

ENGLAND, BEWARE!

"William!" exclaimed Mrs. Highstrung, as she laid down the paper. "There's likely to be a war with England over Behring Sea."

"What do I care!" growled her spouse, who took no interest in military matters.

"I don't care what you care [illegible] care," returned Mrs. Highstrung, with some vehemence. "This war [illegible] seals, and if England wins [illegible] charge any price they please [illegible] sacques, and I ain't got one [illegible] war broke out [illegible] for the country, [illegible] Wash'n.

haracteristic of the African, changed the tone of its headlines, and presented the affair as merely "A Flash in the Pan." Really it came as near being a serious collision as anything we have noticed right recently.

Since the war there has been but one occasion in the south when the negroes held out any considerable time against the whites. This was the occasion of the Brooks-Baxter contest over the governorship of Arkansas about 1873, and at that time there was in Little Rock a garrison of Federal soldiers that sympathized with Brooks and his negro legions and these troops were expected to assist the negroes in the event of a conflict. The trouble was ended with but one or two killings and the whites were successful in placing Baxter in the Governor's office. This trouble lasted a week or more, during which time more than a thousand negroes were under arms and nearly as many whites—the negroes endeavoring to hold the capitol for Brooks, who was then in possession and the whites determined to oust him, claiming the election of Baxter. The radical leaders seeing that the whites meant bloodshed and plenty of it, and that they were steadily gaining the advantage in numbers and resources, quitted the capitol, and Baxter was seated without a collision of arms.

Uprisings have often occurred over the South, but they have been of short duration and have invariably ended with the negroes worsted.

It is bad logic for a paper that broken in ... on the 27th ult.

Notwithstanding the abundance of good water at Jemison and the healthful locality some sickness will intrude. Two young men have fever, Mr. R. Durham and Mr. Wm. Adkins. It is hoped that the worst is over with.

The camp meeting a few miles north of this place will begin next Friday evening, Oct, 4th.

The gathering of corn, cotton, peas, pinders, pumpkins, and potatoes, will be pushed this week.

In conclusion let us not forget to say that last week we had the pleasure of seeing the editor, his wife and mother, in their nice, cosy home, the remembrance of which is a social pleasure.

A MOTHER.

Protracted meetings have recently closed at the Methodist and Presbyterian churches. As a result there have been more than forty accessions to the three churches here. The Baptists propose to protract a meeting at their church, beginning on Saturday before the third Sunday in October, and we hope to see still others added to the churches.

Jemison High School now has enrolled 80 pupils and the school is still growing.

Messrs. J. M. and D. M. Hand are still prospecting in the "Lone Star State," and we hear they are well pleased. We will regret to give them up as citizens of our town.

Mr. G. H. Gilliam, of Stanton,

...way ... dissipa- ... his career in poverty.

The extravagance and folly of children bringing their parents to poverty and themselves into disgrace.

A farmer too self-conceited to amend his way, and too obstinate to retrace his footsteps.

A poor boy grow rich by industry and good management, and rich boys become poor by idleness and dissipation.

A man spend more of his time and money in first class folly than would support his family in comfort and independence.

A farmer deliver a fine oration at the agricultural fair with his fences all down, his fields overgrown with weeds, his stock foraging on his neighbor's field and his taxes unpaid.

A farmer build a dwelling so large and fine that the sheriff was the first man to occupy it.

Hundreds of farmers trying to do business with a large auger when a gimlet would answer their purpose a great deal better.

Many young children become positively repulsive with sore eyes, sore ears and scald head. Such associations may be speedily removed by the use of Ayer's Sarsaprilla. Young and old alike experience the wonderful benefits of this medicine.

Sullivan says that the letter announcing that he would be a candidate for congress was a put up job on him to make him appear ridiculous.

...h Can't be Cured
...APPLICATION, as they ... the seat of the disease. ...blood or constitutional disorder to cure it you have ...al remedies. Hall's Ca... ...aken internally and acts ...e blood and mucus sur... Catarrh Cure is no quack ...t was prescribed by one of ...sicians in this country for ...s a regular prescription. It ...l of the best tonics known, with the best blood purifiers, ...ctly on the mucus surface. ...t combination of the two in... ...is what produces such won... ...lts in curing catarrh. Send ...onials free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO.,
Prop., Toledo, O.
...ggists, price 75c.

...ry atmosphere of Tuska... ...lolent with the fragrance ... news. The Midland, the ... the Sheffield, the Gulf ...ago, the Memphis & At... ...and the Macon & Tuska... ...e all apparently determin... ...ake the Oak City a rail... ...ter and the metropolis of ...abama.—Gazette.

... Years On Crutches.

...teen years I was afflicted with ...ism, four years of which I was ...ed to go on crutches. Words ...lequate to express the suffering ...red during that time. During ...fifteen years of existence (it was ...ving), I tried every known remedy ...without receiving any benefit. I began on Swift's Specific (S. S. ...ch from the first gave me relief, ...-day I am enjoying the best of ..., and am a well man. I candidly ...e that S. S. S. is the best blood ...er on the market to-day.

J. D. TAYLOR, Cuba, Mo.

...eatise on Blood and Skin Diseases ...ed free.

...FT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

WANTED,
...ogging Teams!

...od Teams can get steady em... ...once. None but thorough... ...ties need apply

...TON LUMBER CO.
Dixie, Alabama.

...Notice!

...T ROUND.

...t the following times ... purpose of collecting ...unty taxes of Chilton ...r 1889.

October 30
" 31
" 29
November 4
" 5
" 6
" 7
" 8
" 12
" 13
" 14
" 15
" 16
...ch " 9
" 11

... ROUND.

December 6
" 7
" 8
" 9
" 10
" 11
" 12
" 13
" 17
" 18
" 19
...rch " 14
" 16
" 4
" 5
...use " 21

..., December 23, 24, 26, 27, 28, 30 and 31.

B. M. GENTRY,
Tax Collector Chilton Co.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

Land Office, Montgomery, Ala.,
Sept. 12, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 28th, 1889, viz: Jeffie J. Scoggins, widow of Emsley Bearden, deceased, Homestead 14401 for the n e ¼ of s w ¼ and s e ¼ of n w ¼ sec 14, t 21 n, r 11 e. She names the following witnesses to prove her continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Ambrose Kiener, Calvin Hall, William S. Lawrence, and James D. McGee, all of Maplesville, Ala.

J. H. BINGHAM,
Register.

sep19o

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.
August 22d, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 5th, 1889, viz: Calvin Hall, Homestead entry 15640, for the n ½ of n w ¼ sec 28, tp 21 n, r 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Ambrose Kiener, Daniel Scoggins, William S. Lawrence, Jeffie J. Scoggins, all of Maplesville, Ala.

aug29o J. G. HARRIS, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
Aug. 22, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 5th, 1889, viz: William S. Lawrence, Homestead entry 14698 for the s e ¼ of n w ¼ sec 2, tp 21 n, range 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Ambrose Kiener, Jeffie J. Scoggins, Calvin Hall, and Daniel Scoggins, all of Maplesville, Ala.

aug29o J. G. HARRIS, Register

Constipation,

If not remedied in season, is liable to become habitual and chronic. Drastic purgatives, by weakening the bowels, confirm, rather than cure, the evil. Ayer's Pills, being mild, effective, and strengthening in their action, are generally recommended by the faculty as the best of aperients.

"Having been subject, for years, to constipation, without being able to find much relief, I at last tried Ayer's Pills. I deem it both a duty and a pleasure to testify that I have derived great benefit from their use. For over two years past I have taken one of these pills every night before retiring. I would not willingly be without them."—G. W. Bowman, 26 East Main st., Carlisle, Pa.

"I have been taking Ayer's Pills and using them in my family since 1857, and cheerfully recommend them to all in need of a safe but effectual cathartic."—John M. Boggs, Louisville, Ky.

"For eight years I was afflicted with constipation, which at last became so bad that the doctors could do no more for me. Then I began to take Ayer's Pills, and soon the bowels recovered their natural and regular action, so that now I am in excellent health."—S. L. Loughbridge, Bryan, Texas.

"Having used Ayer's Pills, with good results, I fully indorse them for the purposes for which they are recommended."—T. Conners, M. D., Centre Bridge, Pa.

Ayer's Pills,

PREPARED BY
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Sold by all Druggists and Dealers in Medicine.

tma16

Jemison High School.

:of

Good House, Well Furnished, Healthful Locality, Dry Sandy Roads. Good Board Cheap, Tuition Low, Maps, Globes, Charts, etc., Moral Community, Three Churches, No Whisky, Well Trained Teachers, Fine Success, Teachers Re-elected without a Dissenting Voice. Session opens Sept. 2d, 1889.

Apply to J. L. RUFFIN, JR.,
aug29 Principal.

PLEASANT GROVE
MALE and FEMALE ACADEMY.

—,o:—

The second session of this school will open Oct. 21st 1889. This Academy is situated about four miles southeast of Montevallo, in the most healthful portion of the county, above malaria and free from epidemic diseases. No sale of intoxicating liquors anywhere within reach of the Academy. Church advantages good. Board for pupils at from $6 to $8 per month. Conveyance from railroad to boarding houses free of charge. For further information address

R. E. R. HICKS,
sep12 Montevallo, Ala.

CLANTON
HIGH SCHOOL.

—:o:—

This School will open Monday, Sept. the 2nd, 1889. Advantages the best in the county. Rates low, board and tuition $10 per month. Patronage is earnestly desired. For further information address me at Clanton, Ala.

Respectfully,
A. J. SCOTT, Principal.

W. W. C.
(Wooldridge's Wonderful Cure)

Is the greatest Blood Purifier ever yet discovered. It never fails to cure when taken according to directions. Read what is has done for Mr. A. Kimbrough:

COLUMBUS, GA., July 15, 1889.

Wooldridge Wonderful Cure Co., Columbus, Ga.

GENTS:—After suffering for twenty years with my kidneys, and finding only temporary relief, after taking various remedies, and consulting some of the most noted physicians in the country, at a cost of hundreds of dollars, for no good, I decided to try W. W. C., and I must confess that I am to-day as well as I ever was, and that I suffer no pain whatever from my kidneys, and am feeling better in every respect than I have for years, and I attribute it all to two bottles of W. W. C.; and I would advise all who suffer in the least with kidney or bladder troubles to give W. W. C. a trial. Yours truly,

A. KIMBROUGH.

WOOLDRIDGE'S WONDERFUL CURE is a sure Remedy for Syphilis, Syphilitic Rheumatism, Chronic Rheumatism, Skin Diseases, Bone Diseases, Old Sores, Bilious Troubles, Liver Diseases, Jaundice, Bilious Headache, Dyspepsia, and all Diseases caused from Impure and Poisoned Blood or Hereditary Diseases.

For sale by all Druggists.

Manufactured by
Wooldridge Wonderful Cure Co.,
COLUMBUS, GA.
sep19-y

Wool Carding.

Our Cards are now running and doing good work. Bring or send your work to E. G. WALKER,
sep19 2m Montevallo, Ala.
Highest cash price paid for wool.

ALABAMA CENTRAL
FEMALE COLLEGE.

While the patronage of many other schools in the Town and State has diminished, the attendance at this College has increased 25 per cent. during the past Session. Literary, Scientific, Music and Art Departments under the direction of skillful teachers. Send for catalogue.
32nd Session opens September 18, 1889.
S. B. FOSTER, President, Tuskaloosa, Ala.

Legal Notice.

W. M. Moore vs. G. H. Fisher. Attachment before A. A. Dyer, a Notary Public and ex-officio Justice of the Peace for Chilton County, Alabama.

The defendant in the above stated case, whose residence is not known will take notice that an attachment has been issued in said case and levied upon one ox the property of defendant, and that the trial of said case will be had before me at my office in Stanton, Ala., on the 12th day of October, 1889.

This September 7th, 1889.

A. A. DYER,
sep12-4 N. P. & Ex-Officio J. P.

Barber Shop.

Mr. H. A. Dogan, who has his barber shop in the Farmer's Alliance Building, solicits the patronage of the good people of Clanton. He does good work and is well fixed up for the business.

The Lawson Carpet Co.

Birmingham, Ala.

Take pleasure in directing the attention of the people of Chilton county to their large and attractive stock of

Carpets, Oil-cloths, Window Shades,

Curtains & Household Novelties.

The Stock represented is the finest in Alabama, and prices are guaranteed as low as similar goods are offered in any of the eastern markets.

All communications answered by return mail. Respectfully,
ma30-y THE LAWSON CARPET CO. (WM. LAWSON.)

BAINS & PORTER.
(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & PEEBLES.)
WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.

Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.

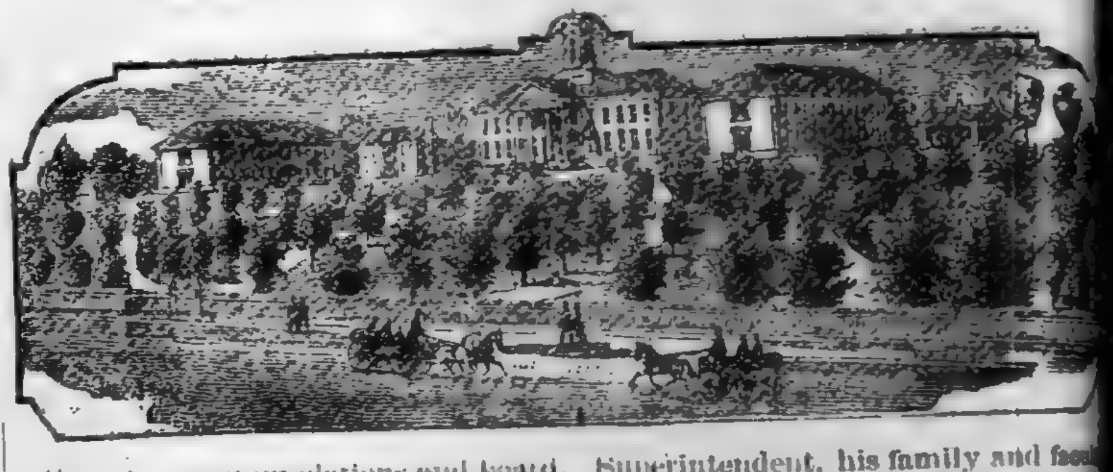
FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY

1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS

Birmingham, Ala.

Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices.
P. O. BOX 570. June 19 y

Marion Military Institute.



Superior accommodations and board. Superintendent, his family and fac... live in buildings with cadets. Specially suited to boys who need family w... care, to young men who need business education, and to all who wish prac... and thorough training. Terms moderate.

J. T. MURFEE, Sup't.,
Marion, Alabama

THOMAS FOSHEE,

(SUCCESSOR TO N. W. FOSHEE,)

—DEALER IN—

Dry Goods, Groceries

—AND—

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

Maplesville, Alabama.

I solicit a continuance of the liberal patronage heretofo... extended our house. Respectfully,
feb 28-y THOMAS FOSHEE

B. WOLFF'S
FURNITURE EMPORIUM,

20 and 22 Commerce and Corner Court and Coosa Streets.

—MONTGOMERY, ALA.—

CARRIES

The Largest and Cheapest Stock of Furnitu...

IN THE STATE.

sep11-6 When you come to the city, give me a call.

WALL PAPER,

WINDOW SHADES,

MOULDINGS

—AND—

PRACTICAL PAPER HAN...

H. M. MANCHA,

204 DEXTER AVENUE, MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA.

Papers furnished at any price from 10 cents up. Will ... samples on application. apr 11-...

BIRMINGHAM MARBLE WORKS.

THOS. H. HOLT,

PRACTICAL WORKMAN

—AND DEALER IN—

American and Italian Marbl...

—Manufacturer of all kinds of—

CEMETERY MARBLE AND STONE WO...

Cor. Second Avenue and Twenty-Fourth Street,

Birmingham, Alaba...

rpet Co.

Ala.

the attention of to their large ck of

dow Shades,

d Novelties.

and prices are guaranteed at n markets.
ll. Respectfully,
ET CO. (WM. LAWSON.)

RTER.
PEEBLES.)

GGISTS.

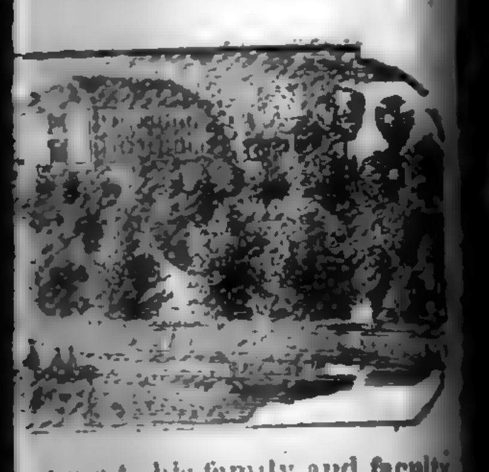
Receive Prompt At-

S A SPECIALTY

and 20th STREETS
Ala.

Company's Prices.
June 19 y

Institute.



ement, his family and faculty
boys who need family watch and to all who wish practical
J. T. MURFEE, Sup't.,
Marion, Alabama.

OSHEE, OSHEE.)

roceries

CHANDISE.
labama.

ral patronage heretofore
lly.
THOMAS FOSHEE.

LF'S MPORIUM,
urt and Coosa Streets.
ALA.
ES
Stock of Furnitur
TATE.
give me a call.

APER,
WINDOW SHADES,
MOULDINGS
—AND—PRACTICAL PAPER HANG NCHA,
GOMERY, ALABAMA.
from 10 cents up. Will
apr 11-y

RBLE WORKS.
HOLT,
WORKMAN ER IN—talian Marble all kinds of
ND STONE WO
Twenty-Fourth Street,
Alaba

THE VIEW is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

A cross mark (X) after your name means that your subscription is due and that we would be glad to have you renew.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the second Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—On the eleventh Monday after the fourth Monday in February, and on the thirteenth Monday after the fourth Monday in August, and may continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD. Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.

No. 1 Express at	5:55 a. m.
No. 3 Mail	5:37 p. m.
No. 5 (Passenger)	6:17 p. m.
No. 9 Accommodation	6:45 a. m.
GOING NORTH.
No. 2 Fast (Don't Stop)	2:20 a. m.
No. 6 Mail	9:13 a. m.
No. 4 Express	7:55 p. m.
No. 10 Accommodation	1:22 p. m.

LOCAL LACONICS.

Mr. L. Holt will move to the McNeil residence.

Mr. Danforth, of Providence, has moved to Clanton.

Miss Anna Lou Duke has returned from Nashville.

Miss Gamma Midleton has taken a school in Lowndes.

Mrs. J. L. Harrell, of Birmingham, is visiting Clanton.

Some Subscribers Show Solid Substantial Sympathy. Sabbe?

Mrs. Ira Campbell, of Jemison, visited friends in Clanton the past week.

Mr. W. A. Collier attended Bibb circuit court at Centerville this week.

Mr. M. DeJarnette came up Monday to move his family to Montgomery.

Miss May Bell Scott, of Montgomery, has been visiting friends in Chilton.

Clanton High School is flourishing and the worthy principal feels encouraged.

Our good friend, Mr. D. A. White, was in town Saturday. He is one of the veterans.

The Chilton Lumber Co., of Dixie, advertise for log teams in another column.

Mr. O. H. Gilliam was in town Tuesday. He has moved from Dixie to Jemison.

Mrs. Johnston, of Marion, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Dr. Matthews in Clanton.

Mrs. Matthews, mother of Dr. Matthews, is visiting the latter's family in Clanton.

Mr. John Garner's family is visiting the family of Mr. R. L. Woolley near Montevallo.

Tip Mullins was in town Thursday, on his way to Nashville to re-enter the Normal Institute.

Mrs. DeJarnette and Mrs. McNeil will this week move to Montgomery, where they will reside this winter.

"Sam Ming," let us hear from him again last week. We would like to hear from the kind hearted gentleman often.

Dick Midleton is behind the counter at Callen's. Dick is a hustler and we wish him success in his new work.

The county teachers institute at Verbena on Friday and Saturday was well attended. A number went down from Clanton.

We sympathize with our friend Tom Foshee, of Maplesville. He met with a serious fire the past week, as noted in Maplesville dots.

New Goods.

W. L. Sampey has been receiving some very nice goods lately and the prices are very reasonable. Shoes are crowded and need to be sold to get them out of the way. Some nice saddles are priced at very low figures. A few suits of Spring clothing will be sold at cost to make them go. Lots of little things have been added to the stock.

Clanton, Aug. 14, 1889.

Rev. J. L. Sampey, who has been visiting relatives at this place, left last week for his new home in Louisville.

Ex-Senator Falkner came up Saturday to attend the meeting of Confederates. He is nearing eighty years of age, and is a veteran in more than one particular.

Our young friend, Eugene Bivings, met with a serious accident Thursday. He jumped out of his goat wagon and fell upon one of his legs in such a way as to break it above the knee.

We hope to see our farmers and lumbermen make a good exhibit at the Montgomery Exposition. Mr. Brittle will probably make a good show for the Pratt Saw Mill both at the State Fair and at the Exposition. An exhibit of our farm products is desirable above other things.

A series of meetings at the Baptist Church will begin next Sunday night. The pastor will be assisted by Rev. Catt Smith, of Childersburg, Ala. Mr. Smith is an evangelist of state wide reputation. It is sincerely hoped that everybody will turn out to these meetings and that much and lasting good may be accomplished.

The Veterans Meet and Organize.

According to announcement a County Confederate Veterans Association was organized at the Courthouse on last Saturday. The meeting was called to order by Mr. J. F. Maull, who explained its object. On motion Mr. Maull was elected President of the Association and Wm. J. Lambert was elected Secretary and Treasurer. All old Confederate soldiers were requested to come up and enroll their names, giving company and regiment, and the following is the list:

PRIVATES.

L. A. Thornton, Co. A. Waddell's Art.
R. H. Knox, 2d Co., Washington Art.
H. W. Herbert, Hughes' Battery.
D. A. White 56th Ala. Cavalry.
Willis Lowe, Home Guards.
J. M. Dawson Co. K. 5th Alabama.
M. A. Watts, Co. F, 2d Ala. Cavalry.
S. F. Devins,	"	"
J. W. Cottingham, Co. A, 17th Ala.
Isaac B. Bowden, Co, K, 24th Ala.
G. W. Mims, Co. B. 44th	"
J. J. McKee, Co. C, 31st	"
W. D. Sartor, Co. K, 24th	"
A. C. Pool "	"
J. F. Stevens Co. H, 34th	"
R. C. Lenoir, Co. B, 20th	"
B. F. Robinson Co. C, 25th	"
B. W. Willis, Co. F, 39th	"
J. D. Maxwell, Co. G, 6th	"
J. T. Foshee, Co. E, 53d	"
W. M. Littlejohn, Co. D, 2d	"
R. M. Arvick, Co. I, 8th	"	Cav'y
Ira Campbell, Co. C, 31st	"
M. M. Gore, Co. "	"
J. M. Jarrold, Co. H, 14th	"
H. C. Young, Co. B, 1st	"
J. R. Kemp, "	"	"
W. R. Burnett, "	"	Bat'y
Isaac Littleton, Co. C, 23th	"	"
W. A. Wells, Co. A, 12th Ga.		"
W. M. Willis, Co. I, 40th Ga.
Oliver Mullins, Co. D, 6th	"	Cav'y
Edmond Hayes Co. H, 29th	"
J. A. Rollinson, Co. G, 44th	"
O. M. Mastin, Co. G, 53d	"
Andy Smitherman, Co. D, 29th	"
J. O. Rutherford, Co. E, 34th	"
S. B. McCary, Co. H, 63d	"
T. J. Bolton, Selden's Battery,
James Lolly, Co. H, 24th	"
A. J. Marcus, Co. E, 44th	"
J. J. Green, Co. D, 30th	"
John Hult, Co. K, 12th	"
J. L. Knox, Virginia Afnty,
G. W. Jones, Co. E, 44th	"
F. J. Smith, "	"
V. J. Giagg, Western Afnty.
Lee Hayes, Co. D, 62d	"
William Cass, Co. G, 53d	"
William Lambert, Co. — 6th	"
A. J. Brooks, Wetumpka Light Guards

OFFICERS.

Lt.-Col. Jefferson Falkner 8th Ala. Cav.
Lt. Wiley Foshee, Co. D, 29th Ala.
Sergeant J. F. Maull, Jeff. Davis Artillery, Virginia Army.

The total enrollment is 54.

The following committee on permanent organization was selected: Jefferson Falkner, Oliver Mullins, Martin Gore, R. M. Williamson, W. D. Sartor, Lee Hays.

A motion was made and carried that the President appoint ten delegates to go to Birmingham to meet the delegates to the State Fair on the 28th of October next. The following were appointed: Jefferson Falkner, Oliver Mullins, Martin Gore, R. M. Williamson, W. D. Sartor, Lee Hays, J. R. Kemp, H. C. Young, A. C. Pool, B. F. Robinson. On motion, the President was added to the list.

A motion to adjourn to the 2d Saturday in November next was carried.

The postoffice at Luverne Crenshaw county, Ala., has been discontinued because the white people treated the negro postmaster too bad to please the "loil" men who never give a nigger a post office or anything else in a State north of the Ohio.

Now is the time to subscribe for your county paper.

All Kinds of Furniture at all Prices.

Parlor and Bed-Room Suits, Carpets, Oil Cloths, Mattings, Blankets, Comforts and Lace Goods.

Everything necessary in the House-Furnishing Goods Line.

NINETEENTH STREET, BETWEEN FIRST AND SECOND AVENUES
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Office of

FARMERS' Alliance Exchange UNION WAREHOUSE.

MONTGOMERY, ALA., Sept. 10, 1889.

DEAR SIR:—We invite your attention to our large and commodious Warehouses near the Union Passenger Depot in rear of the Windsor Hotel in this city. We are prepared to store or sell cotton to the best advantage and to fully protect the planters' interest by always obtaining the highest market price on day of sale. Our rates of storage are cheaper than any other Warehouse in the city from the fact that we charge no drayage where cotton is shipped by rail or boat.

We have every protection against fire that is possible to be had, and are above high water. We make liberal advances on cotton in store.

Your patronage is respectfully solicited.

JNO. S. BIRD, Business Manager.

Cancer of the Nose.

"My father had cancer and my husband died of cancer. In 1875 a lump appeared on my nose, and from its appearance and rapid growth I became alarmed with the idea that I, too, had cancer. I consulted my physician about it, and he gave me an ointment to put on it, when this did not relieve me, he then burnt it out, but the place would not heal. It gradually grew longer and worse, and I had fully made my mind up that I must also die of cancer. Friends prevailed on me to try Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) This I finally consented to do. After taking a few bottles I was entirely cured. Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) cured me when the doctors and all other medicines failed."

MRS. M. T. MABRY,
Woodbury, Hall County, Texas.

Queen Victoria has a remarkably fine head of hair for a lady of her age; but her son, the Prince of Wales, is quite bald. Had he used Ayer's Hair Vigor earlier in life, his head might to-day have been as well covered as that of his royal mother. It's not too late yet.

The Alliance contemplates building a warehouse in Oxford.

BUSINESS LOCAL NOTICES.

Insure in the Commercial Fire Insurance Co. of Montgomery.

The VIEW job office is prepared to do all kind of job work at short notice. Let us know what you want and we will give you extra low figures.

Go to Blank Brothers, Leading Clothiers, 2112, 2nd Avenue, Birmingham, Ala., to buy anything you need in the way of clothing and gent's furnishing goods.

For Sale.

—:0:—

TWO DESIRABLE HOMES.

If you would like to purchase a lovely cottage home or splendid residence, both well finished, well painted, and nearly new, with new outhouses, gardens, young orchards, etc., in one of the most quiet and moral communities, and within a stone's cast of one of the best high schools in the State AT A SPLENDID BARGAIN. Call on or address,

A. E. BURNS,
Jemison, Ala.
sep 5 tf

Sheriff's Sale.

Under and by virtue of an execution issued out of the Chancery Court of Chilton county, Alabama in favor of Jones L. Gardner et als., and against B. V. Washburne, Rebecca Jane Smitherman, et als., I will proceed to sell before the courthouse door in Clanton, Ala., between the legal hours of sale at public outcry to the highest bidder for cash, on the following described real estate, to-wit: S W ¼ of S E ¼ of Section 28, N ½ of N E ¼ of section 33, and all that part of N W ¼ of section 33, lying south of the Selma and Montevallo Road and East of Mulberry Creek; all in township 22, range 12, and lying and being in Chilton county, and levied upon as the property of Rebecca Jane Smitherman, James Nix and Ezekiel Nix.

Monday, October 21, 1889,

LEE HAYES,
Sheriff Chilton County.
Clanton, Ala., Sept. 19, 1889.

Bring your job printing to this office.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 26, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence, the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., October 7th, 1889, viz: Coldwell Choate, Homestead 13704 for the s ½ of s w ¼ sec 34 township 21 n range 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Thomas Jackson, Sr., Allen Jackson, Dennis Green, and J. P. Haley, all of Dixie, Ala.

aug29o J. G. HARRIS, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Sep. 10, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 26, 1889, viz: John D. Campbell, Homestead entry 19101 for the s e ¼ of sec 32 t 21 n r 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: James I. Cox, E. J. Milling, Frank Harris and Henry Friday, all of Dixie, Ala.

sep19o J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
September 10, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the Circuit Court, Clanton, Ala., on October 26, 1889, viz: Francis Peeples, Homestead 21353 for the s ½ of n w ¼, n ½ of s w ¼ sec 34 t 21 n, r 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: Delson Driskill, Abraham Moore, Caldwell Choate, Mass Goodwin, all of Dixie, Ala.

sep19o J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
August 26, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 7th, 1889, viz: Daniel Martin, Homestead 14614 for the e ½ of n w ¼ and e ½ of s w ¼ sec 20, t 21 n, range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Ben Brown, Charles Jackson, Madison Powell, James Headley, all of Kincheon, Ala.

aug29o J. G. HARRIS, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 27, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 4th, 1889, viz: William E. Culp, Homestead 14722 for the s ½ of n e ¼ and e ½ of s e ¼ sec 18 t 21 n r 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Albert Headley, Willis Barber, Ira Headley, Dan Barber, all of Clanton, Ala.

aug29o J. G. HARRIS, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 22, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 5th, 1889, viz: Ambrose Hieuer, Homestead entry No. 16880 for the n w ¼ of n e ¼ sec 14 tp 21 n, range 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: William S. Lawrence, Calvin Hall, Daniel Spurgins and Jesse J. Spurgins, all of Maplesville, Ala.

aug29o J. G. HARRIS, Register.

DRUGS, AND Medicines, FAMILY Groceries, ETC.

Clanton, Alabama.

I can furnish you anything you may wish in the way of DRUGS AND MEDICINES. I also handle THE BEST GROCERIES TO BE HAD, and you will find my prices to suit the times.

[mar29]

BUY YOUR
PIANOS and ORGANS
—FROM—
GRAMBS & BUCHANAN,
—2107 SECOND AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—

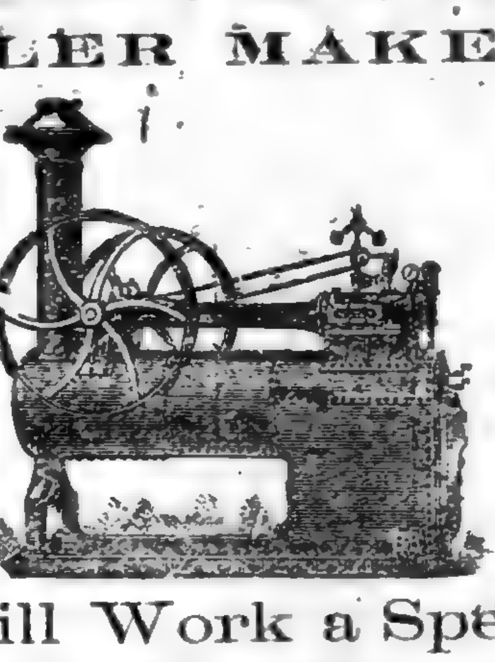
THE VERY LOWEST CASH PRICES, or on easy installments. Sohmer, Cranich & Bach, Gabler, Wheelock and Newby & Evans Pianos, and the world renowned Wilcox & White organs. Mail orders for sheet music or musical merchandise given prompt attention.

Write for Catalogue.

jul18

When ordering please state in what paper you saw our advertisement.

CRELLIN & NALLS,
BOILER MAKERS



Copper and Sheet Iron Workers

Chimneys, Tanks, and Repairing of All Kinds.

Saw Mill Work a Specialty.

AVENUE C AND TWENTY-SECOND STREET, SOUTHSIDE,
Birmingham, Ala.
mar21 y

I. N. Langston & Co.

—DEALER IN—

Dry Goods, Groceries, Family Supplies, &c.

(Contractor for Cross Ties for the L. & N. R. R.)

—JEMISON, CHILTON COUNTY, ALA.—

I have been out of business for the past year, but I am now before the public with a full and Complete Line of Goods for the General Trade. I invite the Farmers of Chilton county as well as my old customers, to give me a call and examine my stock. I will please you every time both in quality of goods and low prices.

Highest market price paid for Cross Ties, Cotton and Country Produce.

oct 18-y I. N. LANGSTON.

MONTGOMERY IRON WORKS.

MACHINISTS & FOUNDERS

Dealers in Fittings, Supplies and Machiner

OF ALL KINDS.

MAKERS OF ENGINES, CANE MILLS, COTTON SEED CRUSHERS, SAW MILLS, LIVE ROLLS, LOG HAULUPS, &c.

ESPECIAL ATTENTION TO WANTS OF SAW MILL MEN

nov 8-y

INSURE WITH

The Commercial Fire Insurance Company,

Montgomery, Alabama.

Capital $100,000. Surplus $146,578.

Directors:—P. J. Anderson, C. A. Lanier, H. C. Tompkins, A. M. Kennedy, M. P. LeGrand, S. C. Marks, J. H. Clisby, C. W. Buckley, Frank Duncan.

W. H. Lawrence, Agt., Clanton.

Roberts & Son,

Steam Printers and Binders,
1918 FIRST AVENUE, BET. 19th & 20th STREETS,
Birmingham, Ala.

BLANK BOOKS TO ORDER. WORK PROMPTLY DELIVERED.

dec5 ay

1889 1890

S. C. MARKS, P. H. & GAYLE, WM. A. GAYLE.

MARKS & GAYLE,

The Montgomery Warehouse.

Just back of the Exchange Hotel. Very convenient to the business centre, and close to the Fire Department.

ALL COTTON CAREFULLY WEIGHED & HANDLED.

Bagging and Ties at Lowest Rates.

We will take pleasure in forwarding orders for Cotton Bagging for our customers, charging them actual cost for same, free from any profit whatever to ourselves.

Montgomery, Ala.

COTTON WAGON YARD THE YEAR ROUND.

---

between Calera and Deatsville
[mar18 y]

S. P. TRESSLAR,
Photographer,
10 COURT SQUARE,
Montgomery,

Photographs on Silk, Satin and Linen; Photographs on Watch dials.
Portraits in Crayon, Pastel, India Ink and Water Colors.
All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.
Correspondence solicited.
Always glad to have you call at the gallery, and examine specimens of the work on exhibition.

[jan21-tf]

J. H. SHEPHERD
THE LEADING
PHOTOGRAPHER,
—OF—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE
(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)

Photographs of All Kinds
Work Done in the
BEST STYLE

Call on him and have your picture taken.

[mar24-y

DR. OWEN'S
ELECTRIC BELT
AND SUSPENSORY.

PATENTED AUG. 16, 1887. IMPROVED JULY 30, 1888.

DR. OWEN'S ELECTRO-GALVANIC BODY BELT AND SUSPENSORY guaranteed to cure the following diseases, namely: All Rheumatic Complaints, Lumbago, General and Nervous Debility, Costiveness, Kidney Diseases, Nervousness, Trembling, Sexual Exhaustion, Wasting of Body, Diseases caused by Indiscretions in Youth, Age, Married or Single Life. In fact all diseases pertaining to the womb or genital organs of male or female.

SENT TO RESPONSIBLE PARTIES ON 30 DAYS TRIAL.

A PAIR OF DR. OWEN'S ELECTRIC INSOLES

Send 6c. postage for free illustrated pamphlet, which will be sent you in plain sealed envelope. Mention this paper.

OWEN ELECTRIC BELT & APPLIANCE CO.
306 North Broadway, ST. LOUIS, MO.

RUPTURE!

ELECTRIC BELT AND TRUSS COMBINED.

DR. ISRAEL'S ELECTRO-GALVANIC TRUSS, with Dr. Owen's Electric Belt Attachment. This truss is worn with ease and comfort. The current made mild or strong. This is the only electric truss and belt ever made. It will cure Rupture in from 60 to 90 days. For full description of Dr. Owen's Electro-Galvanic Belts, Spinal Appliances, Trusses and Insoles send 6c. for free illustrated pamphlet which will be sent you in plain sealed envelope. Sold only by the

OWEN ELECTRIC BELT & APPLIANCE CO.
306 North Broadway, ST. LOUIS, MO.

sep 5

HERBINE

After ten years exclusive sale, can now be obtained of all Druggists and Dealers in Medicines. It CURES—take notice—not simply helps but CURES LIVER COMPLAINT, Biliousness and Dyspepsia.

Is a strictly vegetable preparation and will CURE MALARIA, and all MALARIAL troubles.

Dr. S. H. Wise, of Boston, Ky. says: "Have practiced medicine 15 years, and find no equal to HERBINE as a Liver Regulator."

Dr. W. A. Baker, of Madison, Fla., says: "A bottle of HERBINE is worth more than $5.00 worth of Quinine in any family."

Acting on the Liver in a different way from any other medicine; it is a positive cure for Chronic Constipation and is cheaper than a pill.

Its peculiar composition is such, that we guarantee to cure any case of Chills and Fever or Billious Fever with one bottle.

It costs but 75 cents and each bottle contains over 40 average doses, making the cost less than two cents a dose. Would you ask for cheaper medicine? It is not a cure-all. But will cure any Liver, Billious or Malarial Complaint. Manufactured by

The Herbine Co.,
(Successors to Wm. Condell,) St. Louis, Mo.

mar 14-y

PISO'S CURE FOR

TWENTY-FIVE CENTS

Piso's Cure for Consumption is also the best Cough Medicine.

If you have a Cough without disease of the Lungs, a few doses are all you need. But if you neglect this easy means of safety, the slight Cough may become a serious matter, and several bottles will be required.

CONSUMPTION

Piso's REMEDY FOR CATARRH gives immediate relief. The virus is soon expelled from the system, and the diseased action of the mucous membrane is replaced by healthy secretions.

The dose is small. One package contains a sufficient quantity for a long treatment.

CATARRH

A Cold in the Head is relieved by an application of Piso's remedy for Catarrh. The comfort to be got from it in this way is worth many times its cost.

Easy and pleasant to use.

Price, 50 cents. Sold by druggists or sent by mail.

E. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.

nov22-y

ALLEGHER'S

GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES!

FROM $5 to $3.

[illegible]

A LEMON PARTY AT LAKE GEORGE.

Lemon parties, which were somewhat in vogue last winter in Washington society, were popular during the season at the watering places. One given at a Lake George cottage was exceptionally fetching. The hostess hung her rooms with delicate yellow crepe. Yellow shades were on the lamps, and innumerable fairy lamps shining through yellow porcelain added their mite to the golden effect. On the piazzas and grounds were Chinese lanterns, all swinging in yellow bags.

Every guest, as is required, gave a lemon to a servant posted at the entrance. These were subsequently taken to the kitchen, and all the seeds carefully taken out and collected in a small glass jar. When the hostess signaled the jar was brought in and passed in review before every guest, who made a mental estimate of the number of seeds it contained, and recorded his or her opinion upon a small yellow tablet already furnished, endorsing his or her count by signature. The tablets were afterward collected and the results announced. The winner, who was the one of course whose guess came nearest the number of seeds, received a pretty lemonade set, and the "booby" a lemon squeezer ornamented with a bow.

Lemon cake, lemon jelly, lemonade, and lemon ices constituted the refreshments, and every guest on leaving was presented with a box of lemon drops tied with yellow ribbons.—Once-a-Week.

MISS VAN ORDEN'S GIRDLE.

Not many rattlesnakes have been encountered in Passaic County, N. J., this season, because it has been so wet on the mountains that they have had no occasion to come down to the streams or lakes in the valleys. One was killed the other week by Miss Cece Van Orden, of Paterson, who, with Irwin A. Ball, of Newark, and Mr. and Mrs. Abner Camp, of Paterson, went up on the mountain from the Lakeside Hotel to visit the mountain lake and get some water lilies.

Miss Van Orden strayed from the rest of the party on reaching the rock plateau at the summit, and while trying to rejoin them she heard the warning rattle of a snake. She did not know what it was, and pressed on until the sight of a black and yellow reptile coiled upon a rock almost level with her face suddenly arrested her course. She did not scream or run. She had in her hand an alpenstock cut by Mr. Ball, and without a moment's hesitation she twirled it into the air and brought it down with all her strength upon the elevated head of the snake, killing it with one blow.

Then he called her companions, and Mr. Ball skinned the snake on the spot and sent the skin to Newark to be tanned and made into a girdle for the plucky young woman. The snake was forty-two inches long. It had three rattles, the others having evidently been broken off recently. Miss Van Orden said she knew it was a rattlesnake the moment she saw it, and realized that it would spring at her if she made a step in either direction. There was nothing to do but kill it, and she struck instantly. She thinks the snake was leaping at her when she hit it. —New York Sun.

A PRINCESS REJECTED FOR A COMMONER.

The story which comes from London to the effect that the Duke of Portland was first selected by the Prince of Wales for his daughter, and that the Earl, now the Duke, of Fife was taken only as a second choice, would seem to show that royalty is not all exempt from the petty jealousies of the common herd. At all events the Prince and Princess of Wales acted precisely as a great many hundred thousand other people have acted under similar circumstances. They felt that they could not very well snub the Duke of Portland, because he chose a commoner for his wife and did not accept their far from pretty daughter, and so they went to Paris and stayed until the wedding was over. Then they returned and threw all of their energy into making their daughter's wedding a far more brilliant one than that of the Duke of Portland.

There is no doubt that Portland would have been a much more acceptable son-in-law than the Duke of Fife. In the first place there has been a great deal of scandal in the Duke of Fife's family (both of his sisters are at the present time divorced), and in the second place the Duke of Fife has the beggarly pittance of only $80,000 a year, whereas the Duke of Portland's income is considerably over $400,000 a year. There are many other advantages, for Portland is young, handsome and amiable, while the Duke of Fife is lacking in all three of these requisites of an ideal bridegroom. It is said, by the way, in London, that very strong pressure was brought to bear upon Fife before he could be brought to look upon the match with favor, and that the Dukedom was the bonus. The wretched and unhappy position of the Marquis of Lorne has been a severe lesson to British noblemen who might otherwise have aspired to marrying the Princess of the Royal House.—Once-a-Week.

FASHION NOTES.

Curb bracelets are again popular.

The Directoire style is still used for bridemaids' dresses.

The fancy for bangle bracelets has developed into a craze.

Lace and muslin frills have taken the place of linen collars.

Handkerchiefs are tiny, dainty marvels of color and embroidery.

There is a division of opinion as to whether skirts are to be made to escape or to trail on the ground this season.

Entire dresses of red sateens, trimmed with ecru laces, are worn at French country houses and on the seashore.

Pale silver gray gowns with panels, surplice waistcoats and revers, cuffs and collars of tan color, are very effective.

Seaside parasols are large and mostly in bright colors, sometimes softened with covers or falls of ecru and cream lace.

The costume for "lady cyclers" is a dress of simple draperies, linen collars and cuffs, black stockings, low shoes and a hat with a brim.

A favorite hat is the "Mercutio," of black rice straw, the broad brim turned up both sides and lined with velvet, the crown very low, and for trimming a band and bows of ribbon in front, and on each side a fancy, wing-like metal ornament, or two real wings of feathers simulating those on the cap of Mercury.

cover our ignorance.

He who has no silver in his purse should have silver on his tongue.

One man's charity for another's faults is sometimes a cloak for his own.

All men have peculiarities, but they are worse in some men than in others.

Every duty which is bidden to wait, returns with seven fresh duties at its back.

When a man wants to find fault he will do so if he has to be up all night looking for it.

As man gets older he knows more, but he does not get any more attractive in learning it.

Most people would succeed in small things if they were not troubled with great ambitions.

In finding one man who can be depended upon, you will become acquainted with a thousand that cannot be.

The man who boasts that he is ready to shed his last drop of blood is apt to be particular about the first drop.

When a bigger man than you are kicks you the most dignified thing to do is to treat him with silent contempt.

Some men pay their debts only with the intention of deceiving the creditors into trusting them for larger ones.

Seest thou a man rosy in his cheek, joyful in spirit and amiable in all his ways? He hath taken a good cook to wife.

Be it true or false, what is said about men often has as much influence upon their lives, and especially upon their destinies, as what they do.

Candor is the seal of a noble mind, the ornament and pride of man, the sweetest charm of woman, the scorn of rascals and the rarest virtue of sociability.

Discretion of speech is more than eloquence; and to speak agreeably to him with whom we deal, is more than to speak in good words, or in good order.

Our National Snake Charmer.

Perhaps it is not generally known that this country has a national charmer, who is paid a good round salary by the Government. But such is the fact. The charmer in question is Professor A. Zeno Shindler, a bustling little German, whose headquarters are in the National Museum, at Washington. His principal duty is to make casts and drawings of all specimens of the snake family received by the Museum authorities. Some of the snakes are received in alcohol, but many of them are boxed up and sent here alive. The Professor has a large wooden cage in his room in which there is a collection of dangerous and venomous reptiles. A number of these he has succeeded in taming and he runs his hand in among them in a manner that caused cold chills to chase each other up and down my spinal column. Although he has been handling snakes for several years Professor Shindler has been bitten only once. He had received a queer looking little fellow from Mexico, which somewhat resembled a garter snake. Being afraid that his snakeship might escape, owing to the smallness of its size, the professor decided to put it into a jar of alcohol and thus preserve it until he was ready to make a plaster cast. He seized the little striped reptile by the neck as he had done "many a time" before and dexterously dropped him into the bottle. Upon touching the liquid the snake sprang suddenly upward and fastened his fangs in Shindler's forefinger. The latter quickly seized a knife and cut the fangs loose, and then, placing the finger in his mouth, vigorously sucked at the poison, while he made tracks to the nearest barroom. There he drank a large quantity of whisky, and was afterward taken to his home in a carriage and a physician was summoned. He remained on the sick list for three months, during which time he was twice or thrice near the point of death. The snake, he says, must have been fully as poisonous as a rattler, as the wound has never fully healed, and occasionally breaks out into a virulent sore.—New York Star.

The Making of Hangmen's Nooses.

I dropped into an up-town stationery store the other day. It was one of these stores that outfit banks and county offices throughout the country, a store where everything from a steel pen to a forty quire blank-book is kept for sale. The house has a dozen traveling salesmen on the road. A clerk in the store was filling an order just received from one of the salesmen. Going to the elevator chute in the rear of the store he yelled to a clerk or porter on one of the upper floors: "Jimmy, send me down two hangmen's ropes." Jimmy responded, and in a few minutes down he came with the ropes.

"Now those are daisies," he said, turning to The Man About Town. "You wouldn't have thought that we sold ropes to hang men, would you? See here," and he took one of the ropes from a neat little paper box in which it was coiled, "it has the regulation knot already tied in it, so that all the Sheriff has to do is to adjust the noose to fit the neck of his victim. The ropes are made in this city out of a superior quality of hemp, and they are sold for $9 each, which is a very low price for them, considering the fact that they are absolutely safe. Everyone we sell has the guarantee of the manufacturer on the box that it has been tested by dropping a iron weight. If the Christian County Sheriff, who made such a diagraceful scene at the hanging of the Bald Knobbers, had hanged his men with ropes like these he would have saved the State from disgrace."—St. Louis Republic.

Remnants of a Glacier in Idaho.

The Oregonian published particulars of the discovery of remnants of a glacier in Latah County, Idaho, 2000 feet above sea level. It is in Pine Creek Canon, between Big Bear and Texas ridges, on the homestead of George Walker. Attention was attracted by a cold current of air, rushing from the earth's surface at from beneath a moss bed several inches in thickness. The adjacent surface was covered with verdure. The moss was pushed aside and a few boulders removed, disclosing an ice vein several inches in thickness. Alternate layers of gravel and ice were found to a depth of several feet, cold currents of air still rising therefrom. Walker thinks the ice is practically unlimited and he proposes further development, with a view of marketing the product.

Reversible trousers, to correct the "bagging," are proposed by a beneficent tailor of Akron, Ohio.

SALTING STOCK.

Too many farmers salt their stock on the "impulse, or spasmodic plan." That is, they give them an extra allowance one day, and in perhaps a week or fortnight, according to the urgency of farm operations or the importance they attach to this matter, deal out another supply. This is certainly a wrong practice, as stock should be salted at least twice a week and regularly. I am positive that if the housewife knew what an important factor this salting of cows is in butter-making, some one would attend to it in a more systematic manner.

This can be done by providing "salt boxes" attached to a fence, building or post, provided either with a hinge cover or a swinging door in front, in which is kept a supply of salt. In either case leave the door open for several days, and when closed you will be surprised to see how quickly cattle, horses and sheep learn to open it. You will also learn that by the old plan you have failed to give them an adequate supply. If possible, have the cattle box separate from that for the horses, as the former are rather dainty on this point.—New York Examiner.

EVAPORATING FRUIT.

An authority advises that with small fruits, especially, care should be taken not to allow them to get too ripe, and in handling not to mash or bruise. Mushy fruit will not evaporate in as good condition as that which is more solid. The heat should be given gradually, taking care at all times not to get too hot. It is an easy matter to burn the fruit, or dry it so that the natural juices are all extracted, and the fruit will be nearly or quite all seed and almost tasteless. After securing the right temperature to dry rapidly, keep it so as nearly as possible. The damper can be used to advantage. After a start is made usually the lower trays will dry faster, and it will be a good plan to change, and then the trays can be doubled up; that which is in two trays can be put into one and the empty one be filled with fresh fruit, and in this way a system of emptying and filling can be kept up, and with a fair-sized evaporator it will require the steady work of one person at least to keep it going. A good plan after it has dried is to put it in muslin sacks without starch and lay in the sun for two or three days. The fruit will keep better than if it is sorted in boxes or barrels.

MULCHING TREES.

Mulching is generally applied to trees for one of two objects; late in the fall or early in winter as a protection against thawing and freezing during the winter. And in the latter part of spring or early summer as an aid in retaining moisture in the soil. By its aid a better growth and development is secured, but at this time it is possible to allow it to remain too long, and cause as much injury to result as benefit has been derived.

Time must be given for the new growth of wood to fully mature and harden before freezing weather sets in. If not matured, the liability of being injured by freezing is considerably increased. Allowing the mulch to remain around the trees too long, or continuing the cultivation too late, will aid to keep the plants growing and lessen the time for the wood to mature. This is especially the case where the trees are growing in good, rich soil, and good cultivation has been given early in the season in order to induce a thrifty and vigorous growth.

If the trees keep on making new growth, the better plan is to remove the mulch and not stir the soil. In many cases this will check the growth sufficiently to induce a proper hardening. Young trees are often severely injured by freezing the new growth of wood, often so severely that they never fully recover from the effects, and it is certainly advisable to avoid this as much as possible.

After the ground freezes hard, the mulch can be applied again in order to prevent injury from thawing and freezing. But early in the fall and until the ground freezes hard, and then again after settled weather in the spring until early in the summer, the mulch should be removed from around the trees.—Farm, Field and Stockman.

FARM AND GARDEN NOTES.

Onions keep best in barn lofts, where they freeze.

If mildew appears on the rose bushes dust them with sulphur.

Chop up grass for the confined poultry, and they'll thank you for it.

Where it is desired to produce the best possible results in gardening we would advise watering just before sundown.

Geese prefer parsley and plantain to grass, and their aid in killing these weeds out is valuable in both garden and pasture.

If you have any coal ashes, give the currant patch a good dressing, it will keep down the weeds and save much hard work.

A farm horse well treated should be, and really is, good for many more years of full service than another, subject to abuse and neglect.

Farmers who have silos to fill will do well to remember that full development of the crop, if of corn, will insure greatest feeding value of the ensilage.

"Make hay while the sun shines." Yes, to be sure; but the work is somewhat difficult when sunshine and rain alternate in quick succession every day in the week.

Planting of young trees is to be urged, because they grow more rapidly than old ones, as their roots are comparatively much less injured in taking up and resetting.

Heifers coming in at two or thereabouts, who were not fresh again for a year or more did as well as those which came in at three or thereabouts, and were fresh again inside of a year.

Success in farming comes principally from learning how to do everything and the exact time when it should be done, adding the not extravagant presumption that the farmer is industrious and frugal.

The importation of dairy breeds of cattle has been much better sustained in the last few years, than that of the beef breeds. Importations of all kinds have fallen off, but of the latter more largely than of the former.

The new city of Tai-pei Fu in Formosa is lighted electrically, the plant being in charge of native workmen.

It calls for one peck of green tomatoes sliced very thin and thickly sprinkled with salt. Let them stand all night. In the morning squeeze them out, slice a quarter of a peck of onions, lay them in a porcelain-lined kettle, tomatoes and onions alternately; add one pound of the best yellow mustard and cover them with vinegar. Boil steadily one hour and pack it away in stone jars. —Washington Star.

CLEANING GREASY BOTTLES.

The easiest manner of cleaning oily or greasy bottles is to pour into them a little strong sulphuric acid, after they have been allowed to drain as much as possible. The bottle is then corked, and the acid caused to flow into every portion of it for about five minutes or so. It is then washed with repeated rinsings of cold water. All traces of oil or grease will be removed in a very expeditious manner, and no odor whatever will be thus in the bottle after rinsing.

NOVEL DRAPERIES.

Scraps of silk, satin and velvet will make lovely portieres, table-covers and quilts, when sewed in rag-carpet style, and woven according to the new process done by a weaver in New York only. A fine linen warp, Turkey-red in color, is used, and hardly shows from the manner in which the silk is arranged over it. The curtains do not sag, and are finished with a plain border if the material is mixed, or vice versa, a band of plush crazy-work, or a Roman striped woven border. —Courier-Journal.

PEACH FRITTERS.

Peel four large peaches, split each in two, and take out the stones; dust a little powdered sugar over them; dip each piece in the batter and fry in hot fat. Put an ounce of butter in a saucepan and whisk it to a cream; add four ounces of sugar gradually. Beat the yolks of two eggs; add to them a dash of nutmeg and a gill each of cold water and rum; stir this into the lukewarm batter and allow it to heat gradually. Stir constantly until of a smooth, creamy consistency, and serve. The batter is made as follows: Beat the yolks of three eggs; add to them a gill of milk, a saltspoonful of salt, four ounces of flour; mix. If old flour is used a little more milk may be found necessary.—New York Sun.

CHICKEN SALAD.

Our chicken salad was pronounced excellent, boasts a lady in the Prairie Farmer. For one chicken we used an equal bulk of celery, four eggs, one tablespoonful of mixed mustard, one teaspoonful of salt, two tablespoonfuls of butter, two-thirds of a teacupful of vinegar, and two-thirds of a cupful of sweet cream. Season the chicken in cooking. Cut the chicken and celery with shears—you will find this a better way than using a knife, and it can be more quickly done. We used both light and dark meat. Beat the eggs, and stir the butter in gradually; then mix together the other ingredients, except the cream, and place them on the stove, in a granite or earthen dish, and allow it to cook until it is as thick as pound cake. When it is cold, add the cream, stirring it thoroughly in, and pour over the chicken and celery. This should be poured over about an hour before serving. We prepared the chicken, celery and dressing, all but the cream, the day before the picnic. In the morning, before starting, we added the cream to the dressing, poured it over the chicken, and found it very nice at lunch time. Some lettuce leaves, washed, sprinkled, carried in a tin box and spread on the regulation wooden picnic plates, made a very pretty foundation for our salad. We carried a few hard boiled eggs, and arranged a few slices around each plate, on the lettuce leaves.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Use lemon juice and salt to remove iron rust.

A solution of pearlash thrown upon a fire will extinguish it.

Don't forget the salt in water in which the potatoes are put to boil.

To carve a loin of veal, begin at the small end and cut the ribs apart.

When a hinge creaks put a little graphite or soft lead pencil on the place of friction.

Sweet potatoes require nearly twice the time that white potatoes do, either to bake or boil.

If by chance a fishbone lodges in the throat a raw egg immediately swallowed will usually detach it.

A teaspoonful of ammonia in the water in which silver is washed reduces the labor of keeping it bright.

Milk curdled with rennet and served in pretty cut glass dishes with sugar is an easily prepared dessert in hot weather.

An authority says that fish sauce should always be thick enough to adhere to the fish. It is better to be too thick than too thin.

A silver spoon put into a glass jar will temper it so that it can at once be filled with anything hot, even to the boiling point.

To take ink out of linen, dip the ink spot in pure melted tallow, then wash out the tallow and the ink will come out of it.

To remove tar, rub well with clean lard; afterward wash well with soap and water; apply this to either hands or clothing.

White zephyr articles, if but slightly soiled, are readily cleansed by rubbing with dry flour and hanging out of doors on a clear, breezy day.

In mixing mustard for table use never add vinegar, which destroys its life and flavor. Boil water for moistening it and let the water become bloodwarm.

The best way when hot grease has been spilled on the floor is to dash cold water over it, so as to harden it quickly and prevent it striking into the boards.

A simple way of testing the quality of soap is by roughening it with a nail. If it flakes off it is of inferior make, but if it falls in light powder it is of superior grade.

Equal parts of ammonia and turpentine will take paint out of clothing no matter how dry or hard it may be. Saturate the spot two or three times and then wash it out in soapsuds.

It is declared that 3,265,230 bushels of peanuts are consumed by this country yearly.

Bull fighting is getting a foothold among French amusements.

A five-year-old child in Monson, Me., is said to speak three languages.

The practice of feasting at funerals is still in vogue at Lancaster, Penn.

A tree was cut down at Orting, Washington, that measured $10 feet long.

At Huntsville, Ala., a pink and white chicken was hatched a short time ago.

Old Mrs. Sidner, who died at Deckertown, N. J., the other day, aged 105, had smoked a clay pipe for forty years.

A strange and fatal disease has appeared in Guayaquil, Ecuador. Victims fall in the street, vomit foam and blood, and die.

They have a trained lion at the Paris circus that rides on the back of a horse around the ring and does all the customary feats.

General Charles Williams, of Manchester, N. H., will give a fine park to that city, to be enjoyed especially by poor children.

Large land owners in Scotland are importing reindeer from Norway, in the hope that they may become acclimatized and increase.

A swarm of butterflies, so thick as to almost obscure the rays of the sun, passed through Mott, Cal., recently. There were myriads of them.

A rustic bridge just completed in Houston County, Ga., contains fifty-seven different kinds of wood and vines, and all were grown in the county.

It is claimed for the Mitre Hotel, Oxford, England, that it was first opened as a public house in 1400. No one to look at it can doubt the statement.

The California State Board of Trade reports that there are 13,000,000 acres of arable land in that State capable of being rendered productive by irrigation.

The cemetery at Sea Cliff, N. Y., has been closed because there is so little use for it—only fifteen burials in four years, and the receipts not equal to the expenditures.

James Buchanan, of Ashtabula County, Ohio, cuts his hair in a very peculiar manner. He shaves all his forehead short, except a ridge from his forehead to the back of his neck.

The latest fad in mechanism is an ingenious contrivance in the form of a large ice-cooler, from which, if one drops a penny in the slot, he can obtain a cupful of ice-cold Hygeia water.

A consignment of 600,000 kilogrammes of terra alba which arrived at New York on a British steamer a few days ago will be converted into candy for the delectation of the American people.

A novel idea in church building has been started in the neighborhood of Dawlish, England, where it is proposed to raise funds for a new church by debentures bearing interest at four per cent. secured as a first mortgage on the offertories.

Azoth, which was besieged by Psammetichus, the Powerful, held out, according to Archbishop Usher, for nineteen years, and according to Herodotus for twenty-nine years. Troy held out for ten years. These are the two longest seiges of which there is any record.

The latest and newest thing in New York shop windows is a huge spider web made of fine twine and remarkably natural. It is at least four feet high and is as true to nature as though a Gulliver-like spider had used the window for a home. To intensify the illusion a spider as big as a man's fist, cleverly manufactured, has been placed in the centre of the web, while artifical butterflies are scattered promiscuously about.

Causes of Impaired Sight.

1. Sudden changes from very light rooms to dark ones, or the reverse, causing more or less pain, which is always an indication that something is wrong. 2. The flickering of gas-lights and the instability of all lights since the sight is more or less labored. 3. Reading in the cars, or when the body is not at rest, as well as in a recumbent posture. 4. The use of tobacco, especially chewing, except so far as the smoke particles of tobacco gets into the eyes, tobacco poisons the whole system, seriously affecting the optic nerve. 5. The intense light of the kerosene lamp, the same being true, in some degree, of all artificial lights. 5. The use of the eyes at the twilight hour, in moonlight, or any imperfect light, when an effort is made to see. 7. The exposure of the eye to the bright light of a fire, etc., with the added heat. 8. Reflected light, as from the snow, on a very bright day. 9. Long-continued darkness, the result of which is the same, to the sight, as fasting till one becomes very weak, is to the powers of the body. (The fishes of the Mammoth Cave have been so any great time, therefore, produces a debilitating effect). 10. Gluttony, debauchery, intemperance in any respect, especially the use of ardent spirits, gross living and venery, the latter particularly. (The ness of eyes?") 11. All undue effort, all use that produces fatigue or harm, it being always safe to stop at this alarm.—Dr. J. H. Hanaford, in St. Louis Magazine.

The Icelandic Lutheran Church.

The Icelandic Lutheran Church of America consists of twenty-two congregations, and has just held its fifth annual conference at Argyle, in Manitoba. In 1880 the whole number of immigrants from Denmark to the United States was only a little over 64,000, including Icelanders; but since then the total has been about doubled, and among the new settlers are many Icelanders also, though their most numerous colony is in Manitoba. They have established a colony in Dakota, one in Southern Minnesota, and there is a settlement at Green Bay. Although they number as yet only a few thousands in both this country and Canada, with the prospect, however, of a considerable increase, though it can never be great, since the population of Iceland itself is barely 72,000. These immigrants from Iceland come from a region where they have never seen a real tree, a road or a plow, and yet it is remarkable how soon they adapt themselves to their new surroundings. They are of much intelligence, and there are no people among whom education is more generally diffused, the humblest being able to read and write, and being thoroughly conversant with the sagas, and the history and laws of their country.—New York Sun.

never been recognized by intelligent artists or others than a pastime or a harmless delusion, and at the present day the art is used almost entirely in delineation of character, while the fortune-telling feature is left to the ignorant, the curious, and the superstitious. It must not be inferred from this that the fortune-telling palmists, and especially the gypsies read the hand at hazard. This would be very far from the truth, for nearly every one who pays any attention to this line of the art works in accordance with more or less definite rules, so that any fairly experienced palmist—even though mistaken—would read substantially the same fortune from the same pair of hands at different times—not from memory of the hands, but from the application of whatever rules he might be in the habit of using. More than this, any number of well-instructed gypsies would read substantially the same fortune from any pair of hands, within a few days of each other, without any consultation or collusion with each other.

No one has two hands alike. The left hand—that is, the less active hand—shows more nearly than the right hand one's natural or inherited peculiarities, while the right hand, or the one more active, always exhibits more fully the acquired characteristics. This difference in hands, which is universal, informs the palmist as to which way the man or woman is growing, and is therefore one of the keys by which to unlock many of the less easily solved mysteries of the soul. Hands differ indefinitely in size, ranging from the extremes of large and small, and this difference extends to the three dimensions, so that hands may be anywhere from long to short, from broad to narrow, and from thick to thin, and usually each pair of hands differ one from the other in these three particulars.

On Pike's Peak.

A traveler who climbed the snow-covered mountain one day in July, found the officer in charge of the Signal Service station melting snow. "Even in the heat of summer," he said, "there is always enough snow to furnish all the water needed." "Does not life become weary and desolate here, so far from the world?" "So much so that I sometimes fear it will drive me crazy. My duties are light; they require only an occasional inspection of the instruments. The rest of the time I can only read. Too much reading becomes wearisome. Sometimes I stand at the window with my telescope. The wind without is keen and cutting as a knife. I can see the houses of Colorado Springs, twenty miles away, the visitors sitting in their shirt-sleeves, sipping iced drinks to keep cool, and ladies walking about in white summer robes. I lower the glass; the summer scene is gone. Green trees, animal life, men and women, fade away like creatures in a dream, and I am the only living thing in a world of eternal ice and snow and science."

ONE DOLLAR will pay for WEEKLY NEW ORLEANS PICAYUNE for a year. It is a 16-page, 112 column paper, filled with interesting and valuable matter for Southerners. Complete, reliable cotton and other market reports in each number, and more Southern news than any rival paper. Issued Thursdays to reach subscribers for Sunday reading. No other way will $1 yield such good returns as securing 52 issues of this splendid paper.

WITH smokeless and noiseless powder, such as, it is claimed, has been invented in England, in the wars of the future that are to be, death will take on still more terrors. The first notice of the presence of an enemy will be in the sudden sinking down of men as though smitten by a pestilence. The sentry will die at his post and give no sign. The sun will shine down serenely while the battle rages, and no canopy will obscure the butchery.

THE ice-water cart of New York, a summer charity, consists of a large barrel fastened to a running gear in something the same fashion as the watering carts are arranged, and being provided with, instead of a sprinkler, a faucet and tin cup, from which any one who wishes is at liberty to drink.

No Cure No Pay.

It is a pretty severe test of any doctor's skill when the payment of his fee is made conditional upon his curing his patient. Yet after having, for many years, observed the thousands of marvelous cures effected in liver, blood and lung diseases, by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, its manufacturers feel warranted in selling it, as they are now doing, through all druggists, the world over, under a certificate of positive guarantee that it will either benefit or cure in every case of disease for which they recommend it, if taken in time and given a fair trial, or money paid for it will be promptly refunded. Torpid liver, or "biliousness," impure blood, skin eruptions, scrofulous sores and swellings, consumption (which is scrofula of the lungs), all yield to this wonderful medicine. It is both tonic or strengthening, and alterative or blood-cleansing.

Chronic Nasal Catarrh positively cured by Dr. Sage's Remedy. 50 cents, by druggists.

It is advisable to put our hearts into whatever work we may have to perform, but it is wise to think well before we put our money in.

Sick Headache

Is a very distressing affection, generally arising from stomach troubles, biliousness and dyspepsia, and we frequently find persons of both sexes subject to periodic headaches for which they can ascribe no direct cause. But the headache is a sure indication that there is something wrong somewhere, and whatever the cause Hood's Sarsaparilla is a reliable remedy for headache, and for all troubles which seem to require a corrective and regulator. It cures dyspepsia, biliousness, malaria, tones the stomach, creates an appetite, and gives strength to the nerves.
N. B. Be sure to get

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

FINE BLOODED Cattle, Sheep, Hogs, Poultry, Sporting Dogs for sale. Catalogues with 150 engravings free. N. P. Boyer & Co., Coatesville, Pa.

The man who has invested from three to five dollars in a Rubber Coat, and at his first half hour's experience in a storm finds to his sorrow that it is hardly a better protection than a mosquito netting, not only feels chagrined at being so badly taken in, but also feels if he does not look exactly like

A WET HEN

We offer the man who wants service (not style) a garment that will keep him dry in the hardest storm. It is called TOWER'S FISH BRAND "SLICKER," a name familiar to every Cow-boy all over the land. With them the only perfect Wind and Waterproof Coat is "Tower's Fish Brand Slicker."

BRYANT & STRATTON Business College, LOUISVILLE, KY.

PISO'S CURE FOR

great tobacco world.

America's finest—"Tansill's Punch" Cigar.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE GREAT WAR STORY

SURRY of Eagle's Nest

—BY—

John Esten Cooke.

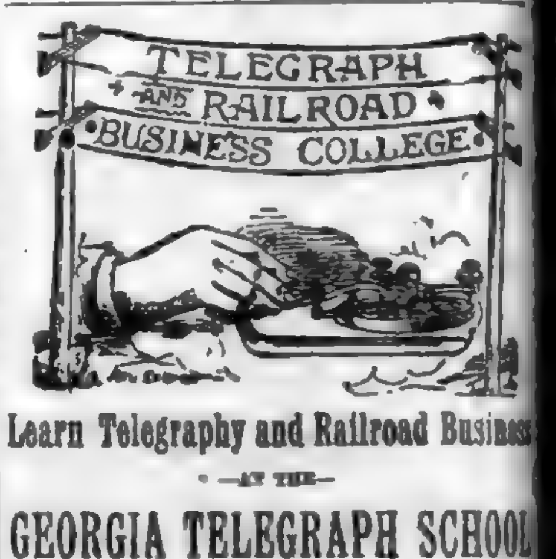
This thrilling historic story, which has been out of print, and for which there has been such great demand is now issued as a SUBSCRIPTION BOOK, with many new original illustrations. There has never been a more popular book throughout the Southern States than "SURRY OF EAGLE'S NEST." Many years have passed since the thrilling scenes herein recounted of the deeds of valor of the Confederate Soldier, yet the interest, by those who fought with Ashby, Stuart, Johnston, Beauregard, Jackson and Lee, in the cause for which they so desperately and bravely battled, will never grow less. This thrilling story pictures not alone joy and sorrow, and a love sweetly told, but is filled with historic incidents of the great contest between the South and the North. Here is a book for the old Ex-Confederate, to recall to him the vivid scenes of the greatest Civil War ever known, to call back his own campaigns, and tell him of the mighty Chieftains, dear to the memory of every one who wore the Gray.

"Surry of Eagle's Nest" will find a welcome in every Southern home. That it may be within the reach of every one, it is published at the low PRICE OF $2, though a LARGE, HANDSOME VOLUME, BEAUTIFULLY ILLUSTRATED AND ELEGANTLY BOUND.

SOLD ONLY BY SUBSCRIPTION.

As the demand for this OLD FAVORITE BOOK which has been out of print so long, will be large, and applications for agencies very numerous, all who desire to act as Agents should write for terms and quickly secure choice of territory.

G. W. DILLINGHAM, Publisher,
33 West 23d St., New York.



Learn Telegraphy and Railroad Business

—AT THE—

GEORGIA TELEGRAPH SCHOOL

Young men, this is a rare opportunity for you. If you want a situation that pays well, you can get it if you will learn telegraphy at our school. The best equipped and most popular school in the South. Endorsed by railroad officials. Send for circular.

COUCH & LUGENBEEL,
Senoia, Georgia.

THE BEST REMEDY FOR CHILDREN SUFFERING FROM COLD in HEAD SNUFFLES OR CATARRH

CATARRH

HAY-FEVER

A particle is applied into each nostril and is agreeable. Price 50 cents at Druggists; by mail, registered, 60 cts. ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York.

SMITH'S BILE BEANS

Act on the liver and bile, clear the complexion, cure biliousness, sick headache, costiveness, malaria and all liver and stomach disorders. The small size are most convenient for children—very small and easy to take. Price of either size 25c. per bottle.
A panel size PHOTO-GRAVURE of the above picture, "Kissing at 7—17—70," mailed on receipt of 2c. stamp. Address the makers of the great anti-Bile Remedy—"Bile Beans."
J. F. SMITH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

Dr. Lobb, 329 N. 15th St. PHILA., PA. After ALL others fail, consult
Twenty years' continuous practice in the treatment and cure of the awful effects of early vice, destroying both mind and body. Medicine and treatment for one month, Five Dollars, sent securely sealed from observation to any address.
Book on Special Diseases free.

$75 TO $250 A MONTH can be made working for us. Agents preferred who can furnish a horse and give their whole time to the business. Spare moments may be profitably employed also. A few vacancies in towns and cities. B. F. JOHNSON & CO., 1009 Main St., Richmond, Va. N. B.—Please state age and business experience. Never mind about sending stamp for reply. B. F. J. & Co.

OPIUM and Whiskey Habits cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE. B. M. WOOLLEY, M.D. Atlanta, Ga. Office 65½ Whitehall St.

HUGHES' TONIC. FOR OBSTINATE CASES Chills and Fever, Bilious Fever, Swamp Fevers. More effective than quinine. Try it. Druggists have it. Insist on having this tonic.

FARMS Do you want to buy or sell? LANDS If so send stamp for circular to Curtis & Buffett, 233 Broadway, N. Y.

OPIUM HABIT. Only Certain and easy CURE in the World. Dr. J. L. STEPHENS, Lebanon, O.

HOME STUDY. Book-keeping, Business Forms, Penmanship, Arithmetic, Short-hand, etc., thoroughly taught by MAIL. Circulars free. Bryant's College, 457 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y.

PALMS BUS. COLLEGE, Philadelphia, Pa. Scholarship and positions, $50. Write for circulars.

PEERLESS DYES Are the BEST. SOLD BY DRUGGISTS.

Cures in 1 TO 5 DAYS. Guaranteed not to cause Stricture. Mf'd only by the Evans Chemical Co. Cincinnati, Ohio.
I prescribe and fully endorse Big G as the only specific for the certain cure of this disease.
G. H. INGRAHAM, M. D., Amsterdam, N. Y.
We have sold Big G for many years, and it has given the best of satisfaction.
D. R. DYCHE & CO., Chicago, Ill.
Trade Mark. $1.00. Sold by Druggists.

A. N. U. .... Thirty-nine, '90

Sarah Bernhardt.

to America, and great will be the n aroused amongst her admirers.
ve our own bright star, Mary Ander will continue to bear off the palm of tic, as does Lucy Hinton to the cco world.

's finest—"Tansill's Punch" Cigar

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE GREAT WAR STORY

SURRY of Eagle's Nest

John Esten Cooke.

This thrilling historic story, which has been out of print, and for which there has been such a great demand is now issued as a SUBSCRIPTION BOOK, with many magnificent illustrations. There has never been a more popular ughout the Southern States than "Surry
's Nest." Many years have passed since ing scenes herein recounted of the valor of the Confederate Soldier, yet nat, by those who fought with Ashby, hnston, Beauregard, Jackson and Lee, se for which they so desperately and battled, will never grow less. This tory pictures not alone joy and sorrow, o sweetly told, but is filled with historic of the great contest between the South orth. Here is a book for the old Exnte, to recall to him the vivid scenes of st Civil War ever known, to call back mpaigns, and tell him of the mighty
, dear to the memory of every one who Gray.
y of Eagle's Nest" will find a welcome Southern home. That it may be within of every one, it is published at the Low
$3, though a LARGE, HANDSOME VOLUME,
LLY ILLUSTRATED AND ELEGANTLY BOUND.
D ONLY BY SUBSCRIPTION.
e demand for this OLD FAVORITE BOOK been out of print so long, will be large, rations for agencies very numerous, all to act as Agents should write for terms ckly secure choice of territory.
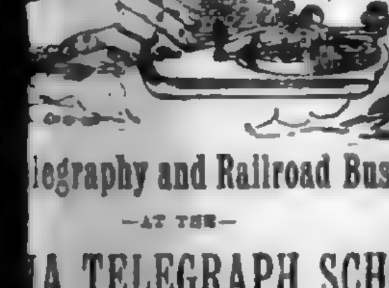
DILLINGHAM, Publisher,
33 West 23d St., New York.



legraphy and Railroad Business
—AT THE—
A TELEGRAPH SCHOOL
this is a rare opportunity for you. If you tion that pays well, you can get it if you graphy at our school. The best equipped pular school in the South. Endorsed by als. Send for circular.
OUCH & LUGENBEEL,
Senoia, Georgia.

HE ST
EDY
DREN NG FROM n HEAL
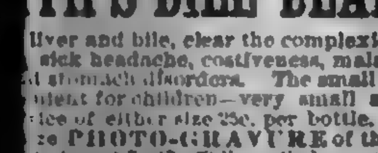
FLES
RRH

applied into each nostril and is agreeable.
at Druggists; by mail, registered, 60 cts.
THERS, 56 Warren Street, New York.



TH'S BILE BEANS
liver and bile, clear the complexion, cure sick headache, costiveness, malaria and stomach disorders. The small size are tent for children—very small and easy ice of either size 25c. per bottle.
ze PHOTO-GRAVURE of the above ising at 7—17—70," mailed on receipt of Address the makers of the great Anti y—"Bile Beans."
. SMITH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

Lobb, After ALL others fail, consult 329 N. 15th St. PHILA., PA. ears' continuous practice in the treat cure of the awful effects of early troying both mind and body. Medicine ent for one month. Five Dollars, sent ealed from observation to any address.
on Special Diseases free.

$250 A MONTH can be made working us. Agents preferred who can furnish d give their whole time to the business.
ments may be profitably employed also.
ancies in towns and cities. B. F. JOHN-
O., 1009 Main St., Richmond, Va. N. B.— te age and business experience. Never t sending stamp for reply. B. F. J. & Co.

PIUM and Whiskey Habits cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE. B. M. WOOLLEY, M.D. tlanta, Ga. Office 65½ Whitehall St.

S' TONIC. FOR OBSTINATE CASES Chills and Fever, Bilious mp Fevers. More effective than quinine.
ruggists have it. Insist on having this tonic.

S Do you want to buy or sell? LANDS If so send stamp for circl'r to Curtis & Buffett, 233 Broadway, N. Y.

UM HABIT. Only Certain and easy CURE in the World. Dr. J. L. STEPHENS, Lebanon, O.

STUDY. Book-keeping, Business Forms, Penmanship, Arithmetic, Short hand, etc., ughly taught by MAIL. Circulars free. e College. 457 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y.

'S BUS. COLLEGE, Philadelphia, Pa. ralsip and positions, $50. Write for circular.

RLESS DYES Are the BEST. SOLD BY DRUGGISTS

Cures in TO 5 DAYS. Guaranteed not to cause Stricture.
d only by the s Chemical Co. Cincinnati, Ohio.

I prescribe and fully endorse Big G as the only specific for the certain cure of this disease.
G. H. INGRAHAM, M. D., Amsterdam, N. Y.
We have sold Big G for many years, and it has given the best of satisfaction.
D. R. DYCHE & CO., Chicago, Ill.
$1.00. Sold by Druggists.

U ....Thirty-nine,

We offer the man who wants service (not style) a garment that will keep him dry in the hardest storm. It is called TOWER'S FISH BRAND
SLICKER," a name familiar to every Cow-boy all over the land. With them the only perfect Wind and Waterproof Coat is "Tower's Fish Brand Slicker." and take no other. If your storekeeper
. TOWER, 20 Simmons St., Boston, Mass.

N Business College
LOUISVILLE, KY.

RE FOR
nded by Physicians,
t and agreeable to the ojection. By druggists.

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per square, of one inch or less, for the first, and fifty cents for each subsequent insertion.

Inches.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
[illegible]	$ 5 00	$ 7 00	$ 11 25
[illegible]	7 00	11 25	15 00
[illegible]	10 00	15 00	22 50
[illegible]	12 50	20 00	27 00
[illegible]	15 00	22 50	33 00
[illegible]	18 00	27 00	40 00
[illegible]	27 00	40 00	60 00
[illegible]	40 00	60 00	100 00

The Chilton View.

W. H. LAWRENCE, Editor and Publisher. "WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION." TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME VIII. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 17, 1889. NUMBER 51.

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line each insertion.

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be headed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

☞ The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

Cahen's

Grand Introductory Sale

OF

NEW FALL DRESS GOODS!

EVERYTHING NEW, BRIGHT AND SPARKLING.

New Silks, New Velvets, New Trimmings, New Henriettas, New Brilliantes, New Drap D'Almas, New Dress Fringes and New High Art Production Novelty Combination Suits.

Early as it is, we are selling quantities of Fall Dress Goods, probably because we now have a great assortment at very attractive prices. New goods are arriving daily and we will beyond the slightest shadow of a doubt have the largest, finest and best assorted stock ever shown in Birmingham.

A Newspaper Clipping.

'Twas a clipping from the paper,
Telling of some funny caper
On the stage;
So I read it, every letter,
Saying that I'd seen no better
For an age.

Then I turned the clipping over,
With no purpose to discover
What was there;
But in smiling contemplation
Of the humorist's creation,
Rich and rare.

As I looked I know I started,
And the smile from lip departed,
For I saw,
Printed there in uncut column,
Notices of death, sad, solemn,
Full of awe.

So, I thought, come grief and pleasure,
Meted out with equal measure;
You may laugh,
For some other one is wailing,
For the tear is smile's unfailing
Other half.

—Columbus Dispatch.

OLD COOL.

BY ROSE TERRY COOK.

He wasn't old at all, not a day over twenty when he joined the regiment; a great, tall, hulking fellow, with a big, honest face like a boy's, weighed one hundred and seventy-five pounds if he did an ounce, and answered to the name of Joseph Cooley. We all called him Joe, to begin with, and this yarn is to tell how he got his other name.

We shipped aboard a river steamer at New York for Ship Island, fifteen hundred of us; maybe you boys don't know what that means—aboard of a river steamer? It means that every birth had two men in it, lyin' heads and p'ints, and glad to get one at that; the unlucky ones lyin' side by side on the floor, like herring in a box, thick as they could lie.

Lots of 'em were dreadful sick, to begin with, some for one day, some for two, some all the way. You can guess if 'twas pleasant.

We were all in for it, goin' to fight. We'd hollered, and waved flags, and had speeches made to us, and felt considerable good about it; that was the top-dressin'. Now we began to strike hard pan, and I tell you we didn't think about our country every minute, not much.

Well, Joe he wasn't sick a minute; he'd go steppin' round amongst the fellers as softly as a girl, grinnin' at one, givin' water to another, fixin' this one's head up onto a knapsack, and proppin' that one up ag'inst a mast, as ef he'd been a hospital nurse all his days.

When some of the men would groan he'd say, "'Tis ruther onpleasant, aint it? Scold away; it'll do ye good to spit it all out;" and they'd have to grin.

When we'd got about abreast of Hatteras, there come up about five o'clock one of the high old reg'lation kind of storms, a buster. I can't begin to tell how the wind blowed; it come solid, as if you was struck with something steady that pressed you down; we couldn't stan' up against it. They talk about waves rollin' mountain-high, that's poetry; but I'd be willin' to make my affidavit in court that they did run all of sixty feet high each side of us.

The steamer couldn't make a mite of headway, nor wouldn't answer to her hellum, and there we lay, side on, in the trough of the sea, like a fly in a hammock, swingin' to and fro sideways. Every now and then a big sea'd come slap down, like close-to thunder, onto the deck and sweep everything off her. There was a hundred barrels of beef went to feed the fishes that night.

I lay in my berth a-lookin' out of the winder—five of us had that state-room, four in the berths, one on the floor. Joe Cooley had the floor; right outside there was a lifeboat lying, geared onto the deck, and all around it was a thick row of men holdin' on to her gunnel with both hands, so's to get the first chance.

"Well!" says I, kind of disgusted.

"What's up!" says Joe, lookin' up at me. So I told him.

"H'm," says he. "I guess I'd jest as lives be drowned in bed as outdoors." So if he didn't draw up his blanket and go to snorin' ag'in!

You see, just a minute before, the cap'en of the boat had come through the deck cabin where we was, and one of the fellers sung out to him, "Call this a consider'ble of a storm, don't ye, cap'en?"

He ripped out some big words, I tell ye, the sense of 'em being that we was going to the bottom inside of an hour, and Joe heered him.

Sure enough, there was no chance for the men hangin' on to that boat, their faces white as death, and their fingers gripped into that gunnel till they bled; for if the ship had gone to the bottom, that boat would have crackled like an egg-shell the first wave that gin it a blow. It was a scary time for all of us.

Some of the fellers took it one way and some took it another; people aint jest alike. Some prayed, and some grit their teeth and kept still. Joe was the only one that went to sleep and slep' through.

However, we didn't go down, for about two o'clock in the morning there come the biggest kind of a thunderstorm against the big blow, and the wind and rain out of that killed those great waves flat. In 20 minutes after it set in, the sea was ordinarily peaceable, the boat got so't the hellum steered her, and we went right along; and come morning, Joe got up from his bed on the floor, shook himself, rubbed his eyes, looked round and grinned at us.

"Well, fellers!" says he, "we ain't drownded, be we?"

"Not as we're sensible of," says Chapin, a dry sort of a chap in the bunk below me.

"You took it rather cool," says I to Joe.

"Name's Cooley," says he, laughin'. And after that we called him "Cool," or "Old Cool," just as it happened.

We got to land after awhile, as dirty and water-tired a lot as ever you see; quite certain that soldierin' wasn't neither fun nor play; but, bless you! we hadn't but just said A. There was the hull alphabet to come.

There was one colonel had a regiment in camp along of us who was the greatest hand to nag the men you ever see. He was as pernickity as an old maid, and as notional as an old bachelor. He kep' the men up to drill as though 'twas salvation, and inspected them within an inch of their lives, and called that discipline; and p'rhaps it was.

But he done worse; he kep' settin' traps for to ketch the men nappin'. He'd travel outside the videttes and pickets, so's to see if they was awake and alert; and if they wasn't then they had to take it.

There we was, a parcel of volunteers, doing nothing but drill, in a new, lazy, sloppy kind of a climate, with nothing but meat victuals and hard bread—I tell ye we pined after onions and sech truck worse'n them old Isr'elites in the hymn-book did!

I well remember how one day Charley Bliss was roarin' out that old hymn.

"The way is all new, as it opens to view,
An' behind is the foamin' Red Sea,
So none now need to speak of the onions and leeks,
And don't talk about garlic to me."

Chapin stepped up, as solemn as a clam, and threatened to punch his head.

"Stop that blarsted tune!" says he. "I'm nigh about ready to desert for a head o' cabbage, and I can't bear to hear onions made light of."

Well, as I was sayin', we were new to the business, and to be spied on and roared at and ketched nappin' made us all pretty snappish, and Cool himself, who was ordinarily as clever as could be, was stirred up.

"I'll fix him!" says he one night, when we was talking it over by the fire. "Wait till my turn comes."

Sure enough, the next night he was on vidette duty, and he heerd a noise in the bushes. Up went his musket.

"Who goes there?" he roared.

"Officer, of the day," says the colonel.

"I know no officer of the day outside the lines; throw up your hands, dismount and surrender!" yelled Cool.

"I tell you I'm officer of the day," says the colonel madder'n a yeller hornet.

"I know no officer of the day outside the lines; dismount or I fire," repeated Cool. Well, the colonel r'ared and sputtered, but Cool never lowered his gun, and finally the colonel had to dismount and come along towards Cool.

"I tell you, you blockhead, I'm Colonel Blank, officer of the day."

Cool cocked his gun and levelled it at the feller's head, sayin' agin:

"I know no officer of the day outside the lines; give up your side-arms or I shall shoot you through the head."

Well, the colonel reely b'lieved Cool didn't reco'nize him, so he handed over his side-arms, and Cool marched him in clear through the camp to headquarters, an' handed him over to the General.

I tell you Mister Blank got a chrge o' cold shot in the line o' tongue-lashin' that time, for the General was full o' steel; but Cool got promoted for bravery.

When we got to Port Hudson, one night before the battle we was lyin' round on the ground, and Cool he was stretched out on his back, sort of tilted up against a little stump, fast asleep. I lay about twenty feet off, and we had a fire goin', so't I could see him layin' there like a big log, mouth wide open and big feet turned toes up jest though the' wa'n't nothin' goin' on.

Pretty soon I heard "z-zip!" and a minie bullet just took off the toe of one of those great army shoes, and then buried itself in the stump close to his ear; just shaved it! He riz up a little.

"What's go'n' on?" says he.

"Why," says I, "there's some bullets a-flyin' round here and one nigh about shot off your ear. You'll find it in that stump."

He looked round, as quiet as Sunday.

"Well, I'll get a leetle out o' their way," says he, and with that rolled over about a foot to the left, shut his eyes and was snorin' inside of three minutes.

After the battle was over we had to stay on the field pretty much all night. When we begun to fall back next morning there wasn't any way to get to camp but through a ravine that the enemy's guns raked—and they kept rakin' of us into another world pretty spry as we went through the gulley.

We couldn't take along the wounded, so they crept into the bushes the best they could, and there they had to lie all day before we could go after 'em and fetch 'em out. It was hard, but that's war.

But we couldn't let 'em lie there all through that hot day, with no water and nothin' to stanch their wounds, so about noontime we got leave to call for a volunteer to go over to 'em.

Now betwixt us and that ravine there was about forty rod of old field, as bare as a brick, right in the enemy's range. It was a pretty smart risk to run to cross that field with water and cotton, and we all knew it; but the word for a volunteer wasn't out of the cap'en's mouth before old Cool jumped up.

"I'll go, sir!" says he. "I haven't got no incumbrances to home," and he grinned. So he started out with ten canteens full of water slung onto him and a bundle of cotton under his arm.

"Cool," says I, tryin' to act as though I b'lieved he was cert'in sure to get there, "you be real economical about distributin' that water, because it's got to last 'em all day."

"You go 'long!" says he, showin' his white teeth, and off he went.

Then the balls begun to sing. We dursn't go up the rise of ground for to watch him, but after half an hour one man did venture to reconnoitre that old field, and reported there wasn't anybody lyin' there, so we knew he'd got to the ravine-like place where the men was. After he'd been away a couple of hours he come back, Cool did, as cool as ever.

"Didn't hit ye, did they?" says Chapin.

"You bet they did, though!" says Cool. "They put two ventilatin' holes through the legs o' my boots goin' over, and tore a hole in my trousers and one in my jacket sleeve a-comin' back; but mebbe you don't call that hittin' me, an' I dono as 'twas," says he laughin'. For true, not one of them bullets had so much as drawed a drop of blood!

'Twasn't very long after that we was sent into the rifle-pits, some of us, with rations for twenty-four hours. How'd you like that, boys, spendin' a day and a night into a hole in the ground, with chunks of salt beef—"old hoss," we called it—and tough, dry hard-tack to chaw on?

'Twas ruther unpleasant; no way to sleep exceptin' up, and finally nothin' to eat. I didn't blame the men; in fact, I was quite a little riled myself. But Cool was as cool as a cucumber. He joked and laughed, and sang, and held up on his broad shoulders more'n one sleepy, tired-out head.

When some of 'em would make disparaging remarks, he'd holler out, "Come, boys, stop growlin'! We're in for the whole war; hooray!" and so he'd kind of heart us up.

He was always doin' that; he was as clever as a bobolink. Nobody was sick or wounded but he was the first to help. I've seen him give up his blanket many a time to some poor fellow shakin' with a chill, and let another, burnt up with wound-fever, drain the last drop out of his canteen, when nobody knew if we should get any more water for a hull day. And he always made as though he hadn't done nothin'.

Well, "when this cruel war was over," as the song says, and the regiment was mustered out, it come about that Cool and I took the same train to go home, though I lived 'way up in Vermont, and he was a Connecticut boy; and we sat together, I next to the window.

He'd been as composed as a chaplain at a funeral all those years, but he seemed now as though he was on tenter-hooks all the way. He wrastled about, and got up and sot down more'n forty times, and never said two words all the way; but when we slacked up, and a brakeman hollered out, "Silverbridge!" he give me a grip, froze on to his knapsack, and give a rush.

I looked out of the window, for thinks I, "There's a girl waitin' for him, and he hasn't never let on about her."

Sure enough, there he was, his face all broke up, as you may say, red as a beet, holdin' out his arms to—a gray, old woman, tears runnin' down her face like a freshet. 'Twas his mother!

That was the last I see of Old Cool.—Youth's Companion.

Slippers of Tanned Human Hide.

In the Smithsonian institution in Washington city is a pair of slippers made from the tanned hide of a human being. These slippers were on public exhibition until recently, I am informed, when a party of visitors who were shocked at the sight wrote to the superintendent protesting against such a display in a Government museum. The result of this, it is said, was the removal of the uncanny slippers from their place of exhibition, and they are now only shown in special cases.—New York Star.

A Poser.

Oreide—Gilpin, why is a clock like a base ball player?

Gilpin—I give it up.

Oreide—Because it can't strike when it's run down.

MONEY-MAKERS.

THE MEN WHO COIN UNCLE SAM'S GOLD AND SILVER.

A Visit to the Largest Mint in the World—The Processes of Turning Gold and Silver Into Coin —How It Is Milled.

The handsome structure at Fifth and Mission streets in which Uncle Sam's current coins are turned out, in co-operation with the establishments at New Orleans and Philadelphia, has attracted renewed interest since the appointment of General Dimond as Superintendent inaugurated a new regime by which a number of patriotic San Franciscans hope to be furnished with an office at the earliest possible date. To these and to the public generally it will be a matter of profit and useful information to repair to the mint about 9:30 A. M. The waiting-room is by this time pretty well filled and the early visitors have fully satisfied their curiosity in regard to the collection of coins and metals belonging to the State of California pioneers, and formerly known as Dr. Spiers's collection. Among the contents of the cases is a complete set of United States dollars, fifty-two in number, one for every year in which they were coined.

THE SAN FRANCISCO MINT.

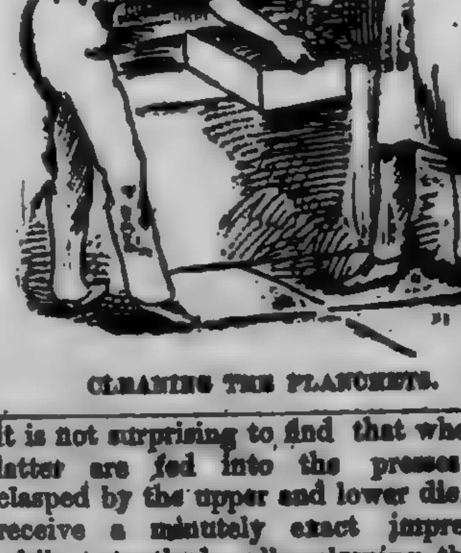
The conductor having satisfied himself that he has as large a party as he can conveniently take in charge, gives the signal and descends to the basement with the preliminary remark for the visitor: "You are now in the largest mint in the world." There is a heavy sound of rolling wheels as the engine-room is entered. The motive power for the immense wheels and machinery is furnished by two engines, one for the coining presses, the other for the rollers. There is also a smaller engine for general purposes, which is constantly working. After a brief glance at the fires and huge boilers, the visitors pass on to the deposit and melting room. In this department the uncoined gold brought by private holders is taken in and receipted for. Each deposit is melted separately and on the following day the value in coin is paid by the Treasurer.

Gold requires a tolerably intense heat for fusion, though not nearly so great as in the case of iron or steel. Yet the visitor is able to convince himself by a passing glance at the crucibles in the furnace that the temperature approaches a white heat. When perfectly fluid the metal is run into steel molds, whence it comes forth as bars or ingots. A fragment of each ingot is removed and sent to the assaying department, where the percentage of pure gold is determined by cupellation. The value of each ingot is about $1700, and it should be mentioned that ten per cent. of copper alloy enters into the composition of both silver and gold ingots that are to be used for currency. The ingots are taken to the rolling mill, where they are repeatedly put through steel rollers until the original short bar becomes a long strip of the width of the desired coin, and by reason of the rolling assumes a very dense, hard and brittle condition. During these operations the visitor's attention is drawn very strongly to the explanation that with all precautions to prevent waste, such as greasing the gold with beeswax and the silver with tallow, a considerable amount of dust is carried about the operating-room and a periodical sweeping is resorted to with surprising results. The guide intimates in a matter-of-fact way that the sweepings of the Mint are worth from $30 to $40 a day, and that in carpeted rooms enough gold dust is entangled in the fibres of the old carpet to more than pay for a new one. The sweepings contain of course silver and copper as well as gold, the copper by cupellation and the silver by the action of the nitric acid, in which gold is insoluble. The nitrate of silver is subsequently converted into chloride by the action of common salt and the chloride into pure silver by an easy chemical process.

After the bars have been annealed to get rid of the hardness and brittleness, the strips of gold with their coating of beeswax are passed through the cutting machine and then punched into blank coins or "planchets," which exactly resemble the future coin without the design and the milling at the edges. The strips, after the blanks have been punched out at the rate of 180 a minute, are sent back to be remelted into ingots. The sight of these bars never fails to make the visitor's eyes flash with cupidity.

The next operation is the washing of the planchets in hot water and soap to get rid of the beeswax, after which they are sent to the adjusting-room to be weighed. Each blank or planchet is passed upon most carefully in this particuliar; if too heavy it is filed down to standard weight, if too light it is remelted and recoined. When the machines are in active operation gold coin can be turned out at the rate of $450,000 an hour. The milling of the coins is effected by raising an edge on them, with a suitable machine, for the purpose of protecting the face of the coin, for in a well-worn specimen it will be noticed that the milling disappears first, and when this has happened the inscription, effigy and date quickly follow suit.

When the milling has been completed, the blanks go through another annealing process to soften them for the final impression which is to convert them into Uncle Sam's currency. The stamping is an operation requiring a pressure equal to 150 tons on every part of the blanks, and it is not surprising to find that when the latter are fed into the presses and clasped by the upper and lower die, they receive a minutely exact impression, while a toothed collar clasping them at the same moment, produces the reeded edge. After being once more individually weighed the coins are piled up in trays by an ingenious method which does the work almost automatically. The workman plunges his arm into the heap of coins, gives the tray a shake, and "hey, presto!" in less than a minute the bright gold "twenties" are neatly piled away in rows, ready for circulation.



CLEANING THE PLANCHETS.

By this time the party is on the way out, and the conductor begins to count noses in the visitors' waiting-room, to see if the arrivals are numerous enough to form a new party. The survey thus described and concluded is that which falls to the lot of the routine visitor, but it cannot be said to be in any sense a complete inspection of the multifarious operations in progress at the Mint. Presumably the complete elucidation of the processes would merely weary the average curiosity seeker, besides consuming so much time that but one batch of visitors could be taken through in the brief two hours and a half allowed for daily inspection by the outside world.

Among the departments not usually shown is that devoted to refining. California gold contains from three to twelve per cent. of silver, and this has to be separated. For this purpose the crude product is melted, more silver is added so as to enable acid to act on the alloy, and the metal is "granulated" by being poured into cold water while still in a fluid state. The effect of this granulation is to convert the metal into a [illegible] [illegible] [illegible], so that a large surface is exposed to the action of the acid. After being boiled for some hours in porcelain pots the silver and baser metals are taken up by the acid, while the gold remains as a dark powder at the bottom of the vessels. It is collected and taken to the melting-room, while the silver is easily recovered from the acid solution.

The gold having been tested for purity in the assaying room, is melted with sufficient copper to reduce the standard from 1000 to 903, the precise standard of ten per cent. being obtained by a subsequent addition of copper, according to the proportion indicated by the assay. There are usually from thirty-six to forty ingots of gold, weighing sixty ounces each, in one melt.

A question which hovers on the lips of every visitor to the Mint, but which is, for obvious reasons of courtesy and propriety, rarely asked, is this: Where so valuable a substance as gold is freely handled by so many persons, how is it possible to prevent peculation and loss?

The answer is found in the fact that gold is so heavy a metal that it is easy to keep a check or tally on all who handle it by the simple expedient of weighing, as it passes from hand to hand and from department to department. Gold is nineteen times heavier than water. No other metal, except platinum, could be used affectively as a substitute or imitation for it; and it so happens that platinum is itself very scarce, very valuable, and from its extremely high melting point, altogether useless for the purpose of fraudulent substitution of alloys for gold. The weight test is therefore an effectual check, and as each employe is interested in conserving his own reputation for integrity, he cannot afford to overlook any shortcomings on the part of the gold received from his neighbor. Whenever a bar or other portion of uncoined gold passes from one department to another it is checked and receipted for. Thus after the annealing process is completed the ingots or bars are delivered to the melter and refiner, and in turn to the treasurer, who weighs them accurately and then delivers them to the coiner. Ingots thus delivered for $20 pieces are about twelve inches long, one and seven-sixteenths wide, and nearly half an inch thick.

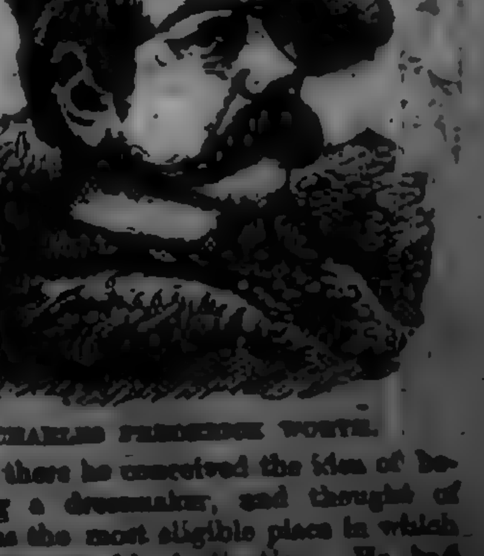
The work of adjusting the planchets is done by females, each of whom sits in front of a little pair of scales and weighs every planchet without fear or favor. In consequence of the great specific gravity of gold, a difference altogether inappreciable to the eye is readily detected by the scales, and, as before explained, in those planchets which are too heavy, the superfluous gold is filed off, while the light ones are set aside to be remelted. Not only is a careful tally kept of everything which passes through the hands of the "scales-ladies," but there is a periodical house-cleaning, in the course of which the carpets and the gloves worn by the operators are burned to ashes for the sake of the precious dust which clings to them.—San Francisco Chronicle.

MILLING THE PLANCHETS.

to the fact that he is [illegible] on a floor [illegible] consisting of [illegible] [illegible] gratings [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

King of the Dressmakers.

The greatest of dressmakers is Charles Frederick Worth, an Englishman by birth, but his fame was made in Paris during the second empire. He was born at Bourne, Lincolnshire, and his parents apprenticed him to a printer. Worth disliked the business exceedingly and seven months after entering it abandoned the printing office and went to London. He had secured employment in a dry goods store, where he remained six years.



CHARLES FREDERICK WORTH.

While there he conceived the idea of becoming a dressmaker, and thought of Paris as the most eligible place in which to follow out his inclination. He had learned the French language before going to Paris, where, when he was about twenty-two years old, he found employment. After a few years he and a partner began business for themselves. The partnership continued until 1870, in which year Worth became the sole proprietor of the establishment. Worth had received medals for designs at the exhibitions of London and Paris [illegible]

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., OCT. 17, 1889.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year	$1.50
One copy six months	75
One copy four "	50

W. A. Hull, a young man in Birmingham, committed suicide on the 12th inst., on account of an unfortunate love affair.

James Hillery, a detective, was shot and killed on the streets of Birmingham Saturday by Albert B. J. Stansell. Stansell made his escape.

Marks & Gayle's warehouse in Montgomery had a big fire Monday. About 1,000 bales of cotton were damaged. Loss covered by insurance.

President Harrison the 12th inst., appointed Benj. W. Walker of Alabama, to be marshal of the United States for the Southern district of Alabama.

The Alabama Baptist is succeeding well under the management of Messrs. Hare & Pope. They have purchased a new outfit, and the paper has been much improved since they took charge.

In the Hillery shooting at Birmingham Saturday, a stray ball struck Mr. H. T. Beggs, who was standing nearly 100 feet away, inflicting a painful wound in the lower part of the face.

The Age-Herald wrote up the rich bachelors of Birmingham for Sunday's paper in such a manner that it is probable the gentlemen had numerous calls from bill collectors bright and early Monday morning.

With no reflection upon the lamented Clayton we hope the next President of the State University may be noted for scholarship rather than soldiership. The University should likewise be kept out of politics.

A difficulty occurred between Alliance men and the town authorities of Dothan, Ala., on Tuesday, concerning the collection of license on the Alliance warehouse. Two Alliance men and the marshall killed. More trouble is expected, as the warehouse men refuse to pay town license.

Houston's letter of dismissal to the white mail carriers of Birmingham will add thousands of votes to the Democratic party in the next election. It is a document that will not wear out and will grow stronger with age. Houston is certainly a fine, nice young man.—Mountain Home.

Here is another feather in the cap of that liberal corporation, the L. & N. R. R. Co. Conductor J. F. Lemon was murdered by one Brame, whilst performing his duty. The management will place Mrs. Lemon in a position in the company's service where she will be able to make a comfortable support. Pending the time that her physical condition will admit o her taking charge, the directors made up a purse of $1,000 for her immediate needs.

Two men were shot down in Birmingham the past week in street difficulties. In both cases the men who were shot were unarmed. Here is chivalry and courage for you with a vengeance. Will the murderers be hung? The rest of the State is never surprised when a lynching occurs in Birmingham. There is never a legal hanging there, and the daily record of murder and crime goes on. The Age-Herald deserves credit for its able editorial on this subject.

Up to last Saturday Montgomery had sold $3,000,000 worth of cotton (nearly 60,000 bales) thus far this season. We endorse what the Advertiser has to say in advising that this money be kept at home for legitimate investment in Montgomery and the black belt. The territory and natural advantages surrounding Montgomery ought to build a city of twice its population, but this will not be done until her monied men show a greater appreciation of her advantages by investing their capital in home industries. Montgomery should have another cotton factory, a farm implement factory, a large wagon factory, a cotton bagging factory and several new lines of street railroads with dummies. We mention these as some of the enterprises in which we would like to see that $3,000,000, and more, invested.

Bishop H. M. Turner says in the New York Age, referring to the colored people:

"Our condition as a race, up to the present, was far better under Cleveland than it is under Harrison. Harrison is giving as much attention to the wails and groans of the dying negro, South and West, as he is to the bark of a dog. Say what you will about the impotency of the Hayes administration and the general weakness of the man, but unless President Harrison changes soon, President Hayes will stand in his history, compared with Harrison as a giant compared with a lilliputian. Harrison, by odds is the weakest man that ever sat in the Presidential chair, and will receive the curses of millions at the rate he is now bestiring himself."

Chicago is pleading manfully for the location of the three Americas Exposition within her walls, and in her great struggle to accomplish such an end, the Chicago papers chip in with great zeal. Among them most prominently appears the Chicago Daily News, an inveterate waver of the bloody shirt. Before Chicago began to aspire to such greatness the Times never missed an opportunity to flaunt the tattered old garment proverbially known as the bloody shirt, in the face of the Southern people. But now the Times sees where the dear people of the "beautiful, new progressive south" could promote the interests of Chicago in the matter of procuring for her the location of the exposition, and it lays aside, for the present the malice long pent up against us, and stops to utter a few words of truth in praise of this section of the United States.—Exchange.

It may entertain our readers to see how our State credit stands. The total debt of the state of Alabama is nine and three-fourth millions. Ten years since the tax rate was seven mills and the total tax values reached one hundred and twenty-three million seven hundred thousand. This year the tax values exceed two hundred and thirty million with a five mill rate of taxation. The tax values increased fifteen million dollars during the year 1889. Ten years ago our total income from taxation at a seven mill rate was less than eight hundred and sixty-seven thousand dollars. This year with a rate two mills less the total income was over one million two hundred thousand dollars. The tax rate has been steadily reduced during the ten years past, but the increase in tax values has kept the state's income increasing. Our treasury can meet every demand on it and have some left for a rainy day.—Exchange.

Cotton Bagging.

The following cheerful intelligence is from the Augusta Chronicle:

There is no doubt about our mills being able to make bagging to cover the cotton crop. By the 15th of this month the Sibley mills will be making 15,000 yards of bagging per day, or enough to cover 25,000 bales of cotton. This is only about one sixth of the capacity of this factory alone. The mills in Augusta, if they had the time and their product would be purchased, could make enough of cotton bagging to cover the entire crop.

It was stated at first that the mills could not make cotton in competition with jute bagging. But this assertion seems not to have been well founded, as we are authoritatively informed that the Sibley mills are now profitably employed in the manufacture of cotton bagging.

This is encouraging, and should stimulate the farmers in their determination to use only cotton bagging. As to the pleasure of New York and Liverpool in the matter, what can they do, but accept the cotton in whatever covering the planters choose to wrap it if the entire crop be sent that way.

Cotton is commanding a good price now, and the farmers should not hesitate to avail themselves of it, without regard to the bagging question, but as long as any cotton bagging is to be had, boycott the jute article.

What a Whopper.

In Elbert county, Ga., lives a negro man who goes by the name of "Sheep Jess," who is a curiosity. His hair and whiskers are perfectly white, and cover his head and face, leaving only small patches of dark skin around his eyes and nose, and is a perfect imitation of sheep's wool. His wife shears him every two weeks, thereby realizing enough wool to supply Jess, his wife, and five children with sockings the year round and sells enough socks to supply them in sugar and coffee. His wife has nearly enough of the wool saved up to make cloth sufficient for a suit of clothes for Jess the coming winter.—Ex.

From Jemison.

The campmeeting at Rockymount closed, 11 inst. The ministerial help was scarce but zealous and untiring, the fruits thereof we hope will develop and ripen to the glorifying of the master.

Miss Candis Ganey who has been teaching in our neighborhood was, on the 12th of September, married to Mr. John Glasscock. The groom was raised in our midst, and we cannot better give his estimate than that he is the worthy Vice President of his Alliance. In short we think they are quite fortunate in gaining each others affections. May their pious lives be a shining light for others to walk by. They are both members of the M. E. church.

Mrs. Lydia Smith residing several miles east of here, will soon be eighty five years old, and enjoys good health to attend the campmeeting.

So far as we hear the health of our community is excellent, considering the cool nights and warm days.

Mr. J. J. Honeycutt, who has been so low, is convalescing.

A MOTHER.

The Secret of Health.

Woman's Magazine.

Don't worry.

Don't hurry. "Too swift arrives as tardy as too slow."

"Simplify! Simplify! Simplify!"

"Don't overeat. Don't starve. Let moderation be known to all men.

Court the fresh air day and night.

"Oh if you knew what was in the air!"

Sleep and rest abundantly. Sleep is nature's benediction.

Spend less nervous energy each day than you make.

Be cheerful. "A light heart lives long."

Think only healthful thoughts. "As a man thinketh in his heart so is he."

"Seek peace and pursue it."

"Work like a man, but don't be worked to death."

Avoid passion and excitement. A moment's anger may be fatal.

Associate with healthy people; health is contagious as well as disease.

Don't carry the whole world on your shoulders, far less the universe. Trust the eternal.

Never despair. "Lost hope is a fatal disease."

"If ye know these things, happy are ye if ye do them."

It seems that the Alliance down at Dothan propose fight it out on the "blood and thunder" line. This will prove bad for all concerned. Peace is best, even though it may cost the worth of a license. The trouble is to be deplored, and we trust it is ended.

Complete and Permanent.

In the early part of last year I had a violent attack of rheumatism, from which I was confined to my bed for over three months, and at times was unable to turn myself in bed, or even raise the cover. A nurse had to be in constant attendance day and night. I was so feeble that what little nourishment I took had to be given me with a spoon. I was in constant agony, and sleep was entirely out of the question except when I was under the influence of opiates.

After calling in the best local physicians, and trying all other medicines without receiving any benefit, I was induced by friends to try Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) I discontinued all other medicines, and took a course of S. S. S.—thirteen small bottles—which effected a complete and permanent cure.

L. C. BASSET, Eldorado, Kan.

An Eating Sore.

Mr. C. B. McLemore, a prominent and influential citizen of Henderson, fluential citizen of Henderson, Texas, writes under date of August 28, 1889, as follows:

"For eighteen months I had an eating sore on my tongue. I was treated by the best local physicians, but obtained no relief, the sore gradually growing worse. I concluded finally to try S. S. S. and was entirely cured after using a few bottles.

You have my cheerful permission to publish the above statement for the benefit of those similarly afflicted."

C. B. McLEMORE, Henderson, Tex.

Treatise on Blood and Skin Diseases mailed free.

SWIFT SPECIFIC CO.,
Atlanta, Ga.

Not Interested.

Take an interest in what you do. Whether you work at forge or in the field, whether a mechanic or farmer, remember that the battle is half won to him who goes into it with a spirit and determination to win. Don't be like the horse at the old mill.

"Your horse don't go," said a stranger to a boy whom he saw trying to urge a lazy horse 'round an old cider mill. "what ails him?"

"Nothin' ails him," replied the boy, hurling a stone at him to start him forward."

"But he don't go now," continued the man, "what's the matter with him?"

"Nothin's the matter with him," rejoined the boy, "he ain't interested in the business."

The boy was right, but alas, if he was to start through the average community to whoop up people who "didn't take an interest in the business," at which nevertheless they are engaged, how long would a pocket of stones last him?

The State Sheriff's Association will meet in Montgomery, November 7th.

Register's Sale.

M. V. Northcut, Complainant vs. John W. Allen, Defendant. Chancery Court.

By virtue of a decree rendered at the Fall Term A. D. 1889, of the Chancery Court at Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama, in said cause, I shall proceed to sell to the highest and best bidder, for cash, at Public Auction at the Courthouse door in Clanton, within the legal hours of sale

On Monday, the 18th of November, 1889

the following described real estate to-wit: The n w ¼ of section 8, and the n e ¼ of s w ¼ of section 8, all in township 23, range 14 east, lying and being in the county of Chilton, State of Alabama, to satisfy said decree.

W. E. STEWART,
Oct 16th, 1889. Register.

Register's Sale.

Mary C. Gammon, Adm'r, &c., Complainant, vs. George Martin, Defendant. Chancery court.

By virtue of a decree rendered at the Fall Term A. D., 1889, of the Chancery Court, at Clanton, Chilton County, Alabama, in said cause, I shall proceed to sell to the highest and best bidder for cash, at Public Auction, at the Courthouse door in Clanton, within the legal hours of sale

On Monday, the 18th of November, 1889

the following described real estate to-wit: The s w ¼ of s e ¼ of section 11, township 23 range 13, lying and being situated in Chilton county, Alabama, to satisfy said decree.

W. E. STEWART,
Oct. 16th 1889. Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 11, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver of the U. S. Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., on December 12, 1889, viz: John Burmister, homestead 16141, for the s e ¼ of n e ¼, e ½ of s e ¼, n w ¼ of s e ¼ sec 26 t 20 n r 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: E. H. Smith Thomas Cox, G. C. Carwile and C. D. A. Deramus, all of Verbena, Ala.

oct 17o J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
September 10, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the Circuit Court, Clanton, Ala., on October 28, 1889, viz: Francis Peeples, Homestead 21353 for the s ½ of n w ¼, n ½ of s w ¼ sec 34 t 21 n, r 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: Delson Driskill, Abraham Moore, Caldwell Choate, Mass Goodwin, all of Dixie, Ala.

sep19o J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

Tax Notice!

FIRST ROUND.

I will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and county taxes of Chilton county for the year 1889.

Mineral Springs	October	30
Jemison	"	31
Providence	"	29
Macedonia	November	4
Benson	"	5
Maplesville	"	6
R. Latham's	"	7
Dixie	"	8
Kincheon	"	12
Verbena	"	13
Cooper's	"	14
Clanton	"	15
Strasburg	"	16
Valley Creek Church	"	9
Clanton Ford	"	11

SECOND ROUND.

Mineral Springs	December	6
Jemison	"	7
Providence	"	8
Macedonia	"	9
Benson	"	10
Maplesville	"	11
R. Latham's	"	12
Dixie	"	13
Kincheon	"	17
Verbena	"	18
Cooper's	"	19
Valley Creek Church	"	14
Clanton Ford	"	16
Elijah Busby	"	4
John Archer's	"	5
Prim's School House	"	21

Clanton, December 23, 24, 26, 27, 28, 30 and 31.

R. M. GENTRY.
Tax Collector Chilton Co.

Now is the time to subscribe for your county paper.

Coughing

IS Nature's effort to expel foreign substances from the bronchial passages. Frequently, this causes inflammation and the need of an anodyne. No other expectorant or anodyne is equal to Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It assists Nature in ejecting the mucus, allays irritation, induces repose, and is the most popular of all cough cures.

"Of the many preparations before the public for the cure of colds, coughs, bronchitis, and kindred diseases, there is none, within the range of my experience, so reliable as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. For years I was subject to colds, followed by terrible coughs. About four years ago, when so afflicted, I was advised to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and to lay all other remedies aside. I did so, and within a week was well of my cold and cough. Since then I have always kept this preparation in the house, and feel comparatively secure." —Mrs. L. L. Brown, Denmark, Miss.

"A few years ago I took a severe cold which affected my lungs. I had a terrible cough, and passed night after night without sleep. The doctors gave me up. I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which relieved my lungs, induced sleep, and afforded the rest necessary for the recovery of my strength. By the continual use of the Pectoral, a permanent cure was effected."—Horace Fairbrother, Rockingham, Vt.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

PREPARED BY
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

tmal6

Jemison High School.

:o:

Good House, Well Furnished, Healthful Locality, Dry Sandy Roads, Good Board Cheap, Tuition Low, Maps, Globes, Charts, etc., Moral Community, Three Churches, No Whisky, Well Trained Teachers, Fine Success, Teachers Re-elected without a Dissenting Voice. Session opens Sept. 2d, 1889.

Apply to J. L. RUFFIN, JR.,
aug29 Principal.

CLANTON HIGH SCHOOL.

:o:

This School will open Monday, Sept. the 2nd, 1889. Advantages the best in the county. Rates low, board and tuition $10 per month. Patronage is earnestly desired. For further information address me at Clanton, Ala.

Respectfully,
A. J. SCOTT, Principal.

W. W. C.

(Wooldridge's Wonderful Cure)

Is the greatest Blood Purifier ever yet discovered. It never fails to cure when taken according to directions. Read what it has done for Mr. A. Kimbrough:

COLUMBUS, GA., July 15, 1889.

Wooldridge Wonderful Cure Co., Columbus, Ga.

GENTS:—After suffering for twenty years with my kidneys, and finding only temporary relief, after taking various remedies, and consulting some of the most noted physicians in the country, at a cost of hundreds of dollars, for no good, I decided to try W. W. C., and I must confess that I am to-day as well as I ever was, and that I suffer no pain whatever from my kidneys, and am feeling better in every respect than I have for years, and I attribute it all to two bottles of W. W. C.; and I would advise all who suffer in the least with kidney or bladder troubles to give W. W. C. a trial. Yours truly,

A. KIMBROUGH.

WOOLDRIDGE'S WONDERFUL CURE is a sure Remedy for Syphilis, Syphilitic Rheumatism, Chronic Rheumatism, Skin Diseases, Bone Diseases, Old Sores, Bilious Troubles, Liver Diseases, Jaundice, Bilious Headache, Dyspepsia, and all Diseases caused from Impure and Poisoned Blood or Hereditary Diseases.

For sale by all Druggists.

Manufactured by
Wooldridge Wonderful Cure Co.,
COLUMBUS, GA.
sep19 y

Wool Carding.

Our Cards are now running and doing good work. Bring or send your work to E. G. WALKER,
sep19 2m Montevallo, Ala.

Highest cash price paid for wool.

Barber Shop.

Mr. H. A. Logan, who has his barber shop in the Farmer's Alliance Building, solicits the patronage of the good people of Clanton. He does good work and is well fixed up for the business.

Remember
The View Job Office
When you want
First-class Job Printing done.

ALABAMA CENTRAL FEMALE COLLEGE.

While the patronage of many other schools in the Town and State has diminished, the attendance at this College has increased 25 per cent. during the past Session. Literary, Scientific, Music and Art Departments under the direction of skillful teachers. Send for catalogue.

32nd Session opens September 18, 1889.
S. B. FOSTER, President, Tuskaloosa, Ala.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

Land Office, Montgomery, Ala.,
Sept. 12, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 28th, 1889, viz: Jessie J. Scoggins, widow of Emsley Bearden, deceased, homestead 14401 for the n e ¼ of s w ¼ and s e ¼ of n w ¼ sec 14, t 23 n, r 11 e. She names the following witnesses to prove her continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Ambrose Kisner, Calvin Hall, William S. Lawrence, and James D. McGee, all of Maplesville, Ala.

J. H. BINGHAM,
[illegible] Register.

The Lawson Carpet Co.

Birmingham, Ala.

Take pleasure in directing the attention of the people of Chilton county to their large and attractive stock of

Carpets, Oil-cloths, Window Shades,
Curtains & Household Novelties.

The Stock represented is the finest in Alabama, and prices are guaranteed as low as similar goods are offered in any of the eastern markets.

☞ All communications answered by return mail. Respectfully,

ma30-y THE LAWSON CARPET CO. (WM. LAWSON.)

BAINS & PORTER.

(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & PEEBLES.)

WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.

Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.

FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY

1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS
Birmingham, Ala.

☞ Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜

P. O. BOX 570. June 19 y

GEO. W. COOK & CO.,

Wholesale and Retail

Dealers in Staple and Fancy Groceries, Fruits, Produce, Wines, Liquors. Our pure unpainted Roasted Coffee, and Manufacturers of High Grade pure Stick Candy, all of which we sell by the pound, package or car load. Sole agents for the Celebrated Bethesda ☞ Water. ☜

37 COMMERCE STREET,
Montgomery, Alabama.

oct17-tf

THOMAS FOSHEE,

(SUCCESSOR TO N. W. FOSHEE,)

—DEALER IN—

Dry Goods, Groceries

—AND—

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

Maplesville, Alabama.

I solicit a continuance of the liberal patronage heretofore extended our house. Respectfully,

feb 28-y THOMAS FOSHEE.

B. WOLFF'S FURNITURE EMPORIUM,

20 and 22 Commerce and Corner Court and Coosa Streets.

—MONTGOMERY, ALA.—

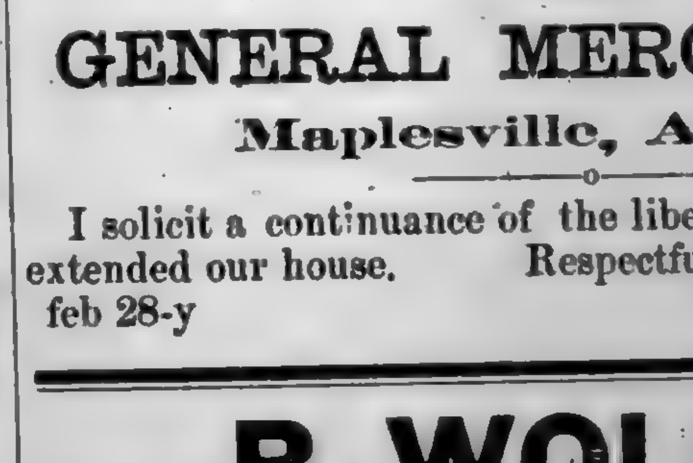
CARRIES

The Largest and Cheapest Stock of Furniture

IN THE STATE.

sep11-6 ☞ When you come to the city, give me a call. ☜

WALL PAPER,



WINDOW SHADES,
MOULDINGS,
—AND—
PRACTICAL PAPER HANGER

H. M. MANCHA,

204 DEXTER AVENUE, MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA.

☞ Papers furnished at any price from 10 cents up. Will send samples on application.

apr 11-y

BIRMINGHAM MARBLE WORKS.

THOS. H. HOLT,

PRACTICAL WORKMAN

—AND DEALER IN—

American and Italian Marble

—Manufacturer of all kinds of—

CEMETERY MARBLE AND STONE WORK

Cor. Second Avenue and Twenty-Fourth Street,

Birmingham, Ala.

et Co.
tention, of ir large Shades,
ovelties,
are guaranteed
ectfully,
Wm. Lawson.)
R.
STS.
Prompt At-SPECIALTY STREETS
Prices.
June 19 y
CO.,
Produce, Wines and Manufacof which
l. Sole ma.
HEE, ries
NDISE.
ma.
onage heretofore
AS FOSHEE.
'S RIUM, en Streets. of Furnitur
E.
call.
PER,
OW SHADES,
ULDINGS,
—AND—
L PAPER HANG
A,
ALABAMA.
ents up. Will apr 11-y
WORKS.
LT, KMAN Marble TONE WO rth Street,
Alaba

GO TO BLANK BROS., LEADING CLOTHIERS, 2112 SECOND AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., OCT. 17, 1889.

THE VIEW is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

A cross mark (X) after your name means that your subscription is due and that we would be glad to have you renew.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the second Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—On the eleventh Monday after the fourth Monday in February, and on the thirteenth Monday after the fourth Monday in August, and may continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD.—Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.
No. 1 Express at	5:55 a. m.
No. 3 Mail	5:37 p. m.
No. 5 (Passenger)	6:17 p. m.
No. 9 Accommodation	6:45 a. m.
GOING NORTH.
No. 2 Fast (Don't Stop)	2:20 a. m.
No. 6 Mail	9:13 a. m.
No. 4 Express	7:55 p. m.
No. 10 Accommodation	7:22 p. m.

LOCAL LACONICS.

Saturday was dry, dull and dusty.

Judge Callen has returned from Texas.

County Treasurer Parish was in town Tuesday.

Mr. S. T. Brittle was in town Monday on business.

Capt. W. A. Smith, of Dixie, was in Clanton Thursday.

Mr. R. Coe, of Stanton, visited our town the past week on business.

Mrs. W. H. Lawrence visited relatives in Montgomery the past week.

Mr. Homer Lowe, of Cooper's, will move his family to Clanton soon.

Mr. Peyton Aldridge was at home looking after a new boy the past week.

Prof. A. J. Scott and Mr. John M. Scott visited their parents at Elmore Sunday.

Rev. Mr. Smith filled his appointment at the Episcopal church on last Sunday.

Mrs. May Dabbs, of Birmingham, is down on a visit to her sister, Mrs. Willis Lowe.

R. S. Wiley, of Jasper, has been visiting the family of Mr. C. R. Bruce, near town.

We are prepared to meet all outside competition on job printing. We want you to keep your money at home.

Mr. J. P. Smitherman, who had the misfortune to break his leg a few week's since, is now getting about on crutches.

Our clever friend, Ned Duke came to town Tuesday without his handsome goatee, and this is the only "local" he brought us.

To answer all at once we will say yes, we can take potatoes, eggs, butter, chickens, etc., etc., if edible on subscription. Give us a call and subcribe.

The weather has been so favorable for the past few weeks that the farmers have kept all hands in the cotton fields, and trade has not been as lively as usual.

Clarence Holt, son of Mr. L. Holt, is still very low with fever, but it is hoped a change for the better has taken place. His condition has given his kind parent's great anxiety the past week.

Charles Single, who had his foot crushed by a freight train last week, is improving slowly. Enough money was raised by voluntary contribution to send him to his home at Opelika.

Mrs. Boykin and her daughter, Mrs. Glover, of Pratt Saw Mill, have been attending the protracted meeting at the Clanton Baptist Church. Their Clanton friends are always glad to see them.

New Goods.

W. L. Sampey has been receiving some very nice goods lately and the prices are very reasonable. Shoes are crowded and need to be sold to get them out of the way. Some nice saddles are priced at very low figures. A few suits of spring clothing will be sold at cost to make them go. Lots of little things have been added to the stock.

Clanton, Aug. 14, 1889.

Prof. R. E. R. Hicks has been re-appointed county superintendent of education to serve another year. A county superintendent will be elected for Chilton county at the regular election next August.

In Montgomery recently we took a stroll through the rooms of the Evening Journal. This bright and sparkling paper has headquarters near the government building. We are pleased to note that it is meeting with marked success.

The annals of Hygiene has discovered there is nothing that so quickly restores tone to exhausted nerves and strength to a weary body as a bath containing an ounce of aqua ammonia to each pail of water. It makes the flesh firm and smooth as marble, and renders the body pure and free from all odor.

Will Chilton county have an exhibit at the State Fair or the Southern Exposition? We havn't heard of it. Can't the Alliance act upon the suggestion of the State Alliance Exchange, recently published, and get up an exhibit of farm products. Mr. Pritchett and Mr. Fountain ought to make an exhibit of their rice. Here are two opportunities to advertise the county that should be seized upon, and the county Alliance could do a good work in this particular.

OVER THE COUNTY.

Neighborhood News Gathered by Our Correspondents.

Maplesville Dots.

We have had most delightful weather for gathering crops. Rather too dry for good sweet potatoes. The dry weather has caused the cotton to open rapidly.

Some knowing ones predict a very hard winter because the persimmon trees are breaking down with loads of their delicious, golden fruit.

The colored association held near Clanton Ford, closed the 13th. It was well attended, and we trust was the means of doing much good.

Our town has sustained a heavy loss in Mrs. McCary and Miss Ella Dudley, going to Birmingham. Mrs. McCary was our peace-maker. No object of charity went unheeded and she was very liberal with the church. Her place was hard to fill.

Mr. Ike Giles family have rented a house here and will remain several weeks in quest of health.

Mrs. N. Goodwin has been suddenly called to see Mrs. F. DuBose, who is dangerously ill.

Some young men are heavy-hearted because of the return of Misses Fannie Foshee and Marion Kelley to Marion to school.

Mr. Goodwin DuBose is able to go hunting again, and we hope will not remind us long of Shakespere's sixth age by the fit of his clothes.

The scent of "orange blossoms" is in the breeze, notwithstanding the chilly weather. REVOLG.

Stanton Notes.

A Mr. Coburn, formerly of this county, who lived in Dallas county, died on the 25th of September last. His remains were carried to his old home near Mulberry church not far from Stanton, for interment, accompanied by his wife and three children.

The wife was taken quite ill while stopping with her husband's mother; and while confined to her bed there, some black-hearted thief broke open her trunk, and stole $1200 in gold, being every cent with the exception of one dollar that Mrs. Coburn and her little orphans had. This money was the hard-earned savings of Mr. Coburn for years. There is no clue to the thief. Surely God will punish severely those who commit such black deeds.

Your correspondent has recently returned from a very pleasant visit to his old home, Canton Bend, Wilcox Co. The crops in the section visited are good and the people are happy.

Mrs. P. P. Thomas and her accomplished daughter, Miss Carrie, have charge of the "Stanton Institute" this session. The school opened on the 7th inst., and the prospects are good for a large patronage.

Mr. A. J. Bethea and his two daughters, Misses Nena and Ella, came up from Faunsdale, last Saturday. Mr. Bethea returned Sunday, leaving his two daughters, who will attend school here.

Rev. J. O. Nobles is holding a protracted meeting at the Methodist church in this place.

Rev. J. M. McCord, the pastor of the Stanton Baptist church, we are sorry to learn, will leave us in November next. We are loath to give Mr. McCord up. He has made many warm friends here and done good work for his church.

Catarrh is in the blood. No cure for this loathsome and dangerous disease is possible until the poison is thoroughly eradicated from the system. For this purpose, Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best and most economical medicine. Price $1. Six bottles, $5. Worth $5 a bottle.

When the hair shows signs of falling, begin at once to use Ayer's Hair Vigor. This preparation strengthens the scalp, promotes the growth of new hair, restores the natural color to gray and faded hair, and renders it soft, pliant and glossy.

HERMAN HERZFELD,
—DEALER IN—
All Kinds of Furniture at all Prices.
Parlor and Bed-Room Suits, Carpets, Oil Cloths, Mattings, Blankets, Comforts and Lace Goods.
☞ Everything necessary in the House-Furnishing Goods Line. ☜
NINETEENTH STREET, BETWEEN FIRST AND SECOND AVENUES
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

LOOK HERE!
New Stock! Low Prices!
—AT—
W. M. Wilson & Bro.'s
CLANTON, ALA.
We have opened a Large Stock of Dry Goods, Groceries and General Merchandise at our old Stand, and we have come to stay. We invite an inspection of our goods and prices.
☞ SHOES AND HATS A SPECIALTY. ☜

—Office of—
FARMERS'
Alliance Exchange
UNION WAREHOUSE.

MONTGOMERY, ALA., Sept. 16, 1889.

DEAR SIR:—We invite your attention to our large and commodious Warehouses near the Union Passenger Depot in rear of the Windsor Hotel in this city. We are prepared to store or sell cotton to the best advantage and to fully protect the planters' interest by always obtaining the highest market price on day of sale. Our rates of storage are cheaper than any other Warehouse in the city from the fact that we charge no drayage where cotton is shipped by rail or boat.

We have every protection against fire that is possible to be had, and are above high water. We make liberal advances on cotton in store.

Your patronage is respectfully solicited.

JNO. S. BIRD, Business Manager.

Attention Farmers!

THIS IS A FARMER'S WAREHOUSE UNDER THE CONTROL OF FARMERS WHO ARE DETERMINED TO HANDLE THEIR OWN COTTON AND TO FREE THEMSELVES FROM THE CHARGES THEY HAVE BEEN COMPELLED TO PAY.

Farmers' Co-Operative Association!

THE CHARGES FOR HANDLING COTTON WILL BE FIFTY CENTS PER BALE FOR THE FIRST MONTH AND TWENTY-FIVE CENTS FOR EACH SUCCEEDING MONTH. CONSULT YOUR INTEREST AND STORE YOUR COTTON IN THE SOUTHERN WAREHOUSE.

NO COMMISSION FOR SELLING, AND NO CHARGES FOR DRAYAGE OR RE-WEIGHING. FREE WAGON YARD. THE ALLIANCE MEN OF CHILTON COUNTY ARE RECOMMENDED TO DEAL WITH US.
W. H. LAWSON, GENERAL MANAGER,

MONTGOMERY, ALA.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Sep. 10, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 28, 1889, viz: John D. Campbell, Homestead entry 19401 for the s e ¼ of sec 33 t 21 n r 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: James I. Cox, E. J. Milling, Frank Harris and Henry Friday, all of Dixie, Ala.

sep19-6t J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

BUSINESS LOCAL NOTICES.

Insure in the Commercial Fire Insurance Co. of Montgomery.

The VIEW job office is prepared to do all kind of job work at short notice. Let us know what you want and we will give you extra low figures.

Go to Blank Brothers, Leading Clothiers, 2112, 2nd Avenue, Birmingham, Ala., to buy anything you need in the way of clothing and gent's furnishing goods.

A. E. BIVINGS,
—DEALER IN—
DRUGS, AND Medicines, FAMILY Groceries, ETC.
Clanton, Alabama.
I can furnish you anything you may wish in the way of DRUGS AND MEDICINES. I also handle THE BEST GROCERIES TO BE HAD, and you will find my prices to suit the times. [mar20]

BUY YOUR
PIANOS and ORGANS
—FROM—
GRAMBS & BUCHANAN,
—2107 SECOND AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—
THE VERY LOWEST CASH PRICES, or on easy installments. Sohmer, Cranich & Bach, Gabler, Wheelock and Newby & Evans Pianos, and the world renowned Wilcox & White organs. Mail orders for sheet music or musical merchandise given prompt attention.
☞ Write for Catalogue. ☜ jul18
When ordering please state in what paper you saw our advertisement.

CRELLIN & NALLS,
BOILER MAKERS
Copper and Sheet Iron Workers
Chimneys, Tanks, and Repairing of All Kinds.
Saw Mill Work a Specialty.
☞ AVENUE C AND TWENTY-SECOND STREET, SOUTHSIDE, ☜
Birmingham, Ala.
mar21 y

I. N. Langston & Co.
—DEALER IN—
Dry Goods, Groceries, Family Supplies, &c.
(Contractor for Cross Ties for the L. & N. R. R.)
—JEMISON, CHILTON COUNTY, ALA.—
I have been out of business for the past year, but I am now before the public with a full and Complete Line of Goods for the General Trade. I invite the Farmers of Chilton county as well as my old customers, to give me a call and examine my stock. I will please you every time both in quality of goods and low prices.
☞ Highest market price paid for Cross Ties, Cotton and Country Produce.
oct 18-y I. N. LANGSTON.

MONTGOMERY IRON WORKS.
MACHINISTS & FOUNDERS
Dealers in Fittings, Supplies and Machinery
OF ALL KINDS.
MAKERS OF ENGINES, CANE MILLS, COTTON SEED CRUSHERS, SAW MILLS, LIVE ROLLS, LOG HAULUPS, &c.
☞ ESPECIAL ATTENTION TO WANTS OF SAW MILL MEN ☜
nov 8-y

INSURE WITH
The Commercial Fire Insurance Company,
Montgomery, Alabama.
Capital $100,000. Surplus $146,578.
Directors:—P. J. Anderson, C. A. Lanier, H. C. Tompkins, A. M. Kennedy, M. P. LeGrand, S. C. Marks, J. H. Clisby, C. W. Buckley, Frank Duncan.
W. H. Lawrence, Agt., Clanton.

Roberts & Son,
Steam Printers and Binders,
1918 FIRST AVENUE, BET. 19th & 20th STREETS,
Birmingham, Ala.
BLANK BOOKS TO ORDER. WORK PROMPTLY DELIVERED.
dec5 ay

1889 1889
S. C. MARKS, P. H. S. GAYLE, WM. A. GAYLE.
MARKS & GAYLE,
The Montgomery Warehouse.
Just back of the Exchange Hotel. Very convenient to the business centre, and close to the Fire Department.
ALL COTTON CAREFULLY WEIGHED & HANDLED.
Bagging and Ties at Lowest Rates.
We will take pleasure in forwarding orders for [illegible] for our customers, charging them actual cost for same, free from any profit [illegible]
Montgomery, Ala.
[illegible]

A. M. RAMBO,
DENTIST,
VERBENA, ALA.
Will respond to calls along railroad between Calera and Deatsville.
[mal5 y]

S. P. TRESSLAR,
Photographer,
10 COURT SQUARE,
Montgomery.
Photographs on Silk, Satin and Linen. Photographs on watch dials.
Portraits in Crayon, Pastile, India Ink and Water Colors.
All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.
☞ Correspondence solicited. ☜
Always glad to have you call at the gallery, and examine specimens of the work on exhibition.
[jan21-tf]

J. H. SHEPHERD
THE LEADING
PHOTOGRAPHER,
—OF—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE
(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)
Photographs of All Kinds
Work Done in the
BEST STYLE.
Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

DR. OWEN'S
ELECTRIC BELT
AND SUSPENSORY,
PATENTED AUG. 16, 1887. IMPROVED JULY 30, 1888.
DR. OWEN'S ELECTRO-GALVANIC BODY BELT AND SUSPENSORY are guaranteed to cure the following diseases, namely: All Rheumatic Complaints, Lumbago, General and Nervous Debility, Costiveness, Kidney Diseases, Nervousness, Trembling, Sexual Exhaustion, Wasting of Body, Diseases caused by Indiscretions in Youth, Age, Married or Single Life. In fact all diseases pertaining to the womb or genital organs of male or female.
SENT TO RESPONSIBLE PARTIES ON 30 DAYS TRIAL.
TRY A PAIR OF DR. OWEN'S ELECTRIC INSOLES PRICE [illegible] PER PAIR.
Send 6c. postage for free illustrated pamphlet, which will be sent you in plain sealed envelope. Mention this paper. address
OWEN ELECTRIC BELT & APPLIANCE CO.
306 North Broadway, ST. LOUIS, MO.

RUPTURE!
ELECTRIC BELT AND TRUSS COMBINED.
DR. ISRAEL'S ELECTRO-GALVANIC TRUSS, with Dr. Owen's Electric Belt Attachment. This truss is worn with ease and comfort. The current can be made mild or strong. This is the only combined electric truss and belt ever made. It will cure a Rupture in from 60 to 90 days. For full description of Dr. Owen's Electro-Galvanic Belts, Spinal Appliances, Trusses and Insoles send 6c. for free illustrated pamphlet which will be sent you in plain sealed envelope. Sold only by the
OWEN ELECTRIC BELT & APPLIANCE CO.
306 North Broadway, ST. LOUIS, MO.
sep 5

HERBINE
After ten years exclusive sale, can now be obtained of all Druggists and Dealers in Medicines. It CURES—take notice—not simply helps but CURES LIVER COMPLAINT, Biliousness and Dyspepsia.
Is a strictly vegetable preparation and will CURE MALARIA, and all MALARIAL troubles.
Dr. S. H. Wise, of Boston, Ky. says: "Have practiced medicine 16 years, and find no equal to HERBINE as a Liver Regulator."
Dr. W. A. Baker, of Madison, Fla., says: "A bottle of HERBINE is worth more than $5.00 worth of Quinine in any family."
Acting on the Liver in a different way from any other medicine; it is a positive cure for Chronic Constipation and is cheaper than [illegible].
Its peculiar composition is such, that we guarantee to cure any case of Chills and Fever or Bilious Fever with one bottle.
It costs but 75 cents and each bottle contains over 40 average doses, making the cost less than two cents a dose. Would you ask for cheaper medicine? It is not a cure-all. But will cure any Liver, Bilious or Malarial Complaint. Manufactured by
The Herbine Co.,
(Successors to Wm. Condell.) St. Louis, Mo.
mar 14-y

PISO'S CURE FOR
TWENTY-FIVE CENTS
Piso's Cure for Consumption is also the best Cough Medicine. If you have a Cough without disease of the Lungs, a few doses are all you need. But if you neglect this easy means of safety, the slight Cough may become a serious matter, and several bottles will be required.
CONSUMPTION
PISO'S REMEDY FOR CATARRH gives immediate relief. Catarrhal virus is soon expelled from the system, and the diseased action of the mucous membrane is replaced by healthy secretions. The dose is small. One package contains a sufficient quantity for a long treatment.
CATARRH
A Cold in the Head is relieved by an application of Piso's Remedy for Catarrh. The comfort to be got from it in this way is worth many times its cost. Easy and pleasant to use. Price, 50 cents. Sold by druggists or sent by mail.
E. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.
nov22-y

ALLEGER'S
GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES!
FROM $65. to $35.
This Elegant Parlor Organ, style 90, containing 5 octaves, 4 sets of reeds, 10 stops, 2 knee swells. Stool and Book free. For only $35.00. [illegible]
[illegible]

AGRICULTURAL.

TOPICS OF INTEREST RELATIVE TO FARM AND GARDEN.

FALL FEEDING OF BEES.

A Western apiarist well says that the average bee keeper does not like the work of feeding sugar syrup to his bees in the fall to ensure them against starvation, because of the attention, and, as usually practised, the puttering work it takes. To any such let this word of caution be dropped; now is the time to prepare against having this to do. While honey is coming in and the surplus being stored, a few brood crumbs filled with honey should be removed from your best colonies and set to one side that they may be ready to give to those light in stores later on. There is probably no more satisfactory way than this method of fall feeding. It is easily and quickly done, and does not incite robbery.—New York Witness.

KEROSENE TO KEEP OFF FLIES.

Dr. Willim Horne, veterinary surgeon, writes to Hoard's Dairyman, under this head, as follows: "Many poor animals suffer the most excruciating torture from the bites and irritation of flies. Some of the thin skinned ones are often all but killed outright. Many are killed in some localities, others are worried so much that they lose the flesh quite often needed for a cold, inclement winter.

"I have experimented with nearly everything I could think of as a remedy for this curse to our poor dumb brutes. I have read of quite a number of sure preventives recommended by others and found but little satisfaction.

"Some eighteen years ago I experimented with kerosene as a preventive of lice upon poultry and in the poultry house. It was—it is a success. Some twelve years ago I tried kerosene to keep off flies from horses, cattle, poultry, etc. It is a success. I use a pint long nozzled oil can. I use the commonest kerosene. I squirt from this quite a liberal spray, as near as I can, of the fluid. I put it upon the youngest chicks, in the laying boxes of the poultry. I squirt the kerosene upon the sides of the stall liberally, upon the floor more liberally. I am not in the least afraid of sprinkling kerosene upon the horses, cattle or poultry. I have never seen the slightest injury done to any of those so treated. I find it a sure preventive against maggots breeding in the barrels of hen manure which I save for sale and use. Kerosene is a disinfectant, too, and it is a positive deodorizer, much pleasanter than the chlorides are."

WEEDS IN LAWNS.

The worst lawn weed of late summer and early autumn is one that the careless observer may not see at all. We refer to the "crab-grass" (Panicum sanguinale digitaria of the older writers). The stems of this grass lie close to ground, taking root at every joint, and crowding out most other grasses. Fortunately this weed is an annual; were it a perennial we might despair of ever getting rid of it. Its flowers (and seeds, of course,) are borne at the top of each stem, which are a foot, more or less, in height; the flowers and seeds are arranged closely upon flat stems or spikes, which are three to six inches long; there are four to fifteen of them near the top of each stem, and spreading in all directions. From this height these flower-stems are caught by the mower. Where this grass is present the mowings should be carefully removed. The stiff stubble broom made from split rattan is better than a rake. The grass being carefully gathered should be removed and burned. If cut when the seeds are but partly ripe they will derive nourishment enough from the stems to carry them on to maturity, and if they were not removed, would seed the ground and prepare for another crop of trouble next year. Many of the coarser weeds of the lawn are perennials; they are sown in the fall, but the thistles, docks, plantains, and many others, in their early state appear so unlike the mature plant that they are not recognized. It is very important that the cultivator should be familiar not only with the appearance of the seeds of weeds, but with the plants themselves in the different stages of their career. These perennial weeds usually sow themselves, or are sown, unintentionally, with the grass seeds in the fall. They germinate, and their young leaves are often much unlike the leaves that will be borne by the same plant the next spring, though they differ greatly in this respect; the seedling weed does not make much show in its first season. It is employed in storing up a supply of food for a vigorous growth next spring, when it usually comes to perfection, flowers, and scatters its seeds.—American Agriculturist.

FARM AND GARDEN NOTES.

Throw plenty of dry dirt into the pig pen and on to the floor of the stalls.

Don't handle a mow of smoking hay if you have some poor, dry fooder to throw on it to take up the moisture.

Farm horses kept in well ventilated stables when not at work will fare better usually than at pasture fighting flies.

There are now about five million owners of farms in the United States. About one million of the farms have been acquired since 1880.

A sealed package all the way from Kraisburg, Austria, in which was a queen bee, arrived lately at Mechanic Falls, Maine. The bee was alive and well.

Clover sown among corn at the last cultivation and plowed down for the next crop is a cheap and practical way of capturing the fugitive nitrogen so much needed.

No gases arise from frozen droppings, but the poultry-house should be cleansed daily, if possible, and dry earth should be sprinkled on the floor, which permits of sweeping the latter with a broom. Cleanliness prevent disease.

"I would recommend to every farmer," says a Country Gentleman correspondent, "who wishes to know which is best—spring or fall plowing—to try both ways on his own land, half and half, instead of reading the arguments of writers who live a hundred or a thousand miles away."

A Western man, sixty-five years old, went to Louisiana a year ago, says the Sugar Bowl, and on thirty-five acres of land, with the help of only a nine-year-old boy, raised nine bales of cotton and 200 barrels of corn; also, aided by a large garden, supporting a family of five at a cost of fifty-eight dollars. Next season he will work fifty acres and aim for fifteen bales.

HOUSEHOLD MATTERS.

PEACH SHORTCAKE.

One quart of flour, one teaspoonful of salt, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, have them heaping; two tablespoonfuls of butter, one pint rich milk; mix this into a smooth dough just soft enough to handle, divide into two equal parts, roll out to the size of an ordinary pie plate and place on buttered tin and bake about twenty minutes; have two dozen peaches peeled and cut in slices, separate the cakes without cutting them, use half of the peaches to cover the bottom halves of the shortcake, sprinkle plentifully with sugar and cream, lay on the top piece, with the crust downward; use the rest of the fruit over them and sugar plentifully.—New York World.

FOR POTATO SALAD.

Nice for tea. Take six large cold, boiled potatoes, three hard-boiled eggs, a few leaves of lettuce or sprigs of parsley, and an onion, if you like (omit the onion if you object to it), chopped up together. Sprinkle celery seed over it and enough salt and pepper to season the salad well; then heat in a stew-pan a tablespoonful of good butter. When it begins to brown add three tablespoonfuls of vinegar and a teaspoonful of sugar. Pour this over the salad and mix thoroughly. Serve on a pretty dish, or heaped on a platter, garnished with alternate slices of hard-boiled egg and pickled beet, or with parsley. I think it quite essential to that desirable sensation we have when we sit at a pretty, well-arranged and well-laden table, that the principal dishes be garnished in some way.—Farm and Fireside.

TWO RECIPES FOR CEMENT.

A French scientific journal gives a recipe for a cement which is coming into use, and which is said to be harder and more enduring than any other known. It is made by mixing glycerine with litharge (oxide of lead). The preparation seems to be very simple; the finely powdered litharge, after being dried at a high temperature, has glycerine added to it until the mixture is of the necessary consistency, that of thick mortar.

Another receipe for a cement for a different purpose, namely for the attachment of paper labels to metal, has also beene lately published. The metal is dipped into a strong solution of soda, and is afterward washed over with the juice of an onion. Paper pasted to a surface so prepared, will, it is said, stick with such tenacity that it is almost impossible to release it without destruction.

FISH CHOWDER.

Take two fine, fresh codfish, weighing six pounds each; clean them well; cut the fish lengthwise from the bone, and cut it into pieces two inches square. Chop up the bones and heads; put them into a saucepan; add three quarts of warm water, one red onion sliced, heaping teaspoonful of salt, a dozen bruised peppercorns and a few stalks of celery. Boil until the fish drops from the bones; then strain into another saucepan. Cut into small squares one peck of small potatoes and a pound and a half of salt pork; arrange the fish, pork and potatoes into mounds; divide each equally into four parts; add one quarter of the fish to the stock, next a quarter of the pork, then a quarter of the potato and three pilot crackers, broken into quarters, salt, pepper and a little thyme. Repeat this process until the remaining three-quarters of pork, fish and potato are used; cover all with warm milk; simmer slowly until the fish is tender, care being taken that the soup does not boil over; now taste for seasoning, serve as neatly as possible. This is the old-fashioned New England fish chowder.—New York Sun.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Baked meat is an abomination. So-called "roast" meat cooked in ovens is a delusion and a snare.

For a black eye: Paint it with a mixture of equal parts of tincture capsici and gum arabic and some glycerine.

Applying kerosene with a rag when you are about to put your stoves away for the summer will help to prevent them from rusting.

Spiced plums: One gallon plums, one pint of vinegar, one quart sugar, cinnamon and cloves whole. Boil several hours and seal.

Delicious waffles: Half a pint of cold boiled farina, half a pint of rice flour, two tablespoonfuls of wheat flour, one pint of milk, one tablespoonful of butter, two eggs, well beaten.

Butter can be kept in good condition in hot weather by placing over it a large unglazed earthenware crock, inverted. Wrap a wet cloth around the crock and set it in a draft of air.

Salt sprinkled on any substance burning on the stove will stop the smoke and smell. Salt thrown upon coals blazing from the fat of broiling chops of ham will cause the blaze to subside.

Lavender water: Put one pound of fresh lavender with one pint of water into a farina boiler, cover and steep slowly for one hour, take from the fire, add two quarts of alcohol, filter, and bottle for use.

Lime and alkali stains may be removed from white goods by simply washing. In the case of colored goods and silks the goods should be moistened and citric acid, much diluted, applied with the finger.

To frost a window tie a piece of putty up in a piece of cheese cloth. Having cleaned the glass perfectly, rub the putty over it in smooth lines, let it dry and then varnish the glass. It will "stand" considerable steam.

To clean porcelain saucepans, fill them half full of hot water and put in the water a tablespoonful of powdered borax and let it boil. If this does not remove all the stains, scour well with a cloth rubbed with soap and borax.

For hard boiled eggs, cook them twenty minutes in water just bubbling. The yolk of an egg cooked ten minutes in rapidly boiling water is tough and indigestible; cooked twenty minutes it is dry, mealy and easily digested.

What Fells a Person Down.

It is not intellectual work that injures the brain, says the London Hospital, but emotional excitement. Most men can stand the severest thought and study of which their brains are capable and be none the worse for it, for neither thought nor study interferes with the recuperative influence of sleep. It is ambition, anxiety and disappointment, the hopes and fears, the loves and hates of our lives that wear out our nervous system and endanger the balance of the brain.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

PLEASANT LITERATURE FOR FEMININE READERS.

HOW TO COAX A MAN TO PROPOSE.

An elderly man was talking to a group of giddy young girls the other day how he proposed to his wife when he was a young man. She was sewing at the time, he said, or he never would have had the courage to do it. If girls would sew more he thinks they would have more matrimonial chances. Sewing he considers the best accomplishment that a woman can have. A woman engaged with a needle has a domestic, homelike air that is irresistible to a man who loves her. It is a picture of what she would be in her own home, and makes him long that it should be his also. How can a man propose to a girl who sits straight up in her chair staring hard at him with a pair of bright eyes? But when she is bending gracefully over a bit of plain or fancy sewing, apparently absorbed in counting the stitches, and the arrows of her eyes are sheathed for a few minutes, he plucks up courage enough to offer her his heart and hand. The average young man is bashful in such affairs, though bold enough at other times, and needs encouragement and opportunities. What sort of encouragement is a pair of bright eyes staring into his, watching his embarrassment? Listen to the advice of an old man, who has been all through it; drop your eyes and give the young man a chance. Remember this, girls, when the favorite young man drops in to make an evening visit, get out your bit of fancy work and look domestic, and with every stitch of your needle you will bind his heart more firmly to your own.—Chicago Herald.

A BONANZA QUEEN AT HOME.

Mrs. Mackay's entertainments, says Marshall Wilder, in his book, are delightful. Although as rich as the richest and the owner of a beautiful house to which the best people in London like to come, she never forgets her nationality to the extent of forgetting Americans—of the right kind—in London. Many of our people get letters of introduction to Mrs. Mackay when going abroad, and it is amusing to note the astonishment of some of them when they meet the lady. Because she is the wife of a bonanza king, they expect to see her home to look like Aladdin's cave and to see her arrayed like an Oriental princess. Well, it would be impossible to find anywhere a house where there is less attempt at display; everything is there which taste and comfort suggest, but nothing designed only for show. As for the warm hearted hostess, I never saw a more unassuming lady, nor did I ever see her wearing jewelry of any kind. She never says or does anything to remind a person that she is richer than any but two or three of Britain's six hundred peers, and that she knows every one in England worth knowing. Beside being a society queen, she is very enterprising and nobly charitable; where some one else hearing of a case of suffering, will sigh "poor thing!" and think her duty done, Mrs. Mackay will have the case looked into, and substantial relief provided at once if really needed. Some Americans seem to think she has become entirely Anglicized, and has cut her native country; but one day I asked her when she would return, and she quickly replied: "I want to go home as soon as my sons complete their education."

ASIATIC CHILD WIVES.

The Indian reformers who have taken in hand the re-marriage of girl widows find no difficulty in obtaining plenty of candidates. Where trouble comes in is as to the disposal of these matrimonally disposed ladies pending the discovery of suitable partners. No sooner does a widow announce her intention of securing another husband if she can than she is disowned by all her kith and kin, cut by her acquaintances, and in some cases sent adrift to pick up a living for herself. The reformers feel under an obligation, therefore, to soften the severity of the martyrdom to the best of their ability, and with that object widow homes have been established here and there. The expedient is, perhaps, as good a one as could be devised, but the managers of the homes are not to be envied. In order to carry out the rest of the scheme, suitors have to be admitted to make choice among the bereaved beauties, and then, of course, a certain amount of philandering must be allowed to enable the high contracting parties to come to terms. All maternal heads of families well know that even when only one affair of this sort is going on in a household, a deal of finesse and circumspection often have to be exercised. Dire, then, must have been the perplexities of the native matron at the Julpigori home lately, when twenty-five amorous youths were daily courting as many skittish widows. The bridegrooms expectant actually had the audacity to apply for lodgings in the house, but this request was, of course, sternly refused. Since, however, the system appears to bring about a considerable number of marriages, these little imperfections in the machinery may be pardoned. There is no fate more terrible than that of the Indian child widow, doomed to an isolated and hopeless existence while yet in her early teens.—London Globe.

FASHION NOTES.

Handsome street costumes of white wool are worn.

The demand for ball screw earrings is considerable just now.

Black and red are combined in many dressy toilets prepared for autumn wear.

Lilac, heliotrope and mauve are with us again, in all the exquisite old-time tints.

The trim velvet pelerine is the favorite wrap to wear with dressy street costumes this fall.

Black and white laces are effectively combined in Marie Antoinette fichus, capes and gowns.

English dressmakers have adopted the fashion of having the seams on the outside of the skirt and binding them with ribbon.

Trade for shoemakers will look up if dresses which show the ankles find favor. They are the latest importations from abroad.

Red, tan-color and pale almond cloths are used for Louis XIV. jackets, Connemara cloaks, and tailor made gowns for autumn wear.

Fancy jackets and sleeves, high revers forming part of the turnover collar, pointed girdles, jaunty silk shirt fronts, are all entirely permissible this season even on a smart out-of-door costume.

WORDS OF WISDOM.

How much the wife is dearer than the bride!

A wise man in his house should find a wife gentle and courteous, or no wife at all.

Nothing flatters a man so much as the happiness of his wife; he is always proud of himself as the source of it.

A right of opinion is not consistent with a dependence upon another to be taught what the opinion shall be.

Don't be afraid of wild boys and girls; they often grow up to be the very best men and women. Wildness is not viciousness.

Man will not obstruct civilization by acting his honest convictions unless they lead him to interfere with another, who, by the same right, chooses to act differently.

Fools with bookish knowledge are children with edged weapons; they hurt themselves, and put others in pain. The half-learned is more dangerous than the simpleton.

In all evils which admit a remedy, impatience should be avoided, because it wastes that time and attention in complaints which, if properly applied, might remove the cause.

Whatever you do, do it well. The slighting of a task because it is apparently unimportant leads to habitual neglect, so that men and women degenerate insensibly into bad workers.

People are not so much taught by the expressions of others as they are encouraged, when such expressions coincide with their own opinion, for a man is a mere machine who depends upon the opinion of another.

The richest genius, like the most fertile son, when uncultivated shoots up into the rankest weeds; and instead of vines and olives for the pleasure and use of man, produces to its slothful owner the most abundant crop of poisons.

I have lived to know that the great secret of human happiness is this: Never suffer your energies to stagnate. The old adage of "too many irons in the fire" conveys an untruth. You cannot have too many, poker, tongs, and all, keep them all going.

Sincerity (according to Tillotson) is the most compendious wisdom and an excellent instrument for the speedy dispatch of business. It is like traveling in a plain, beaten road, which commonly brings a man sooner to his journey's end than by-ways, in which men often lose themselves.

Stalking Deer With Tame Leopards.

The following account of hunting with tame leopards, of the species called the cheetah, at Dhar, in Central India, is contributed to the London Illustrated News by Colonel Ward Bennitt:

"We were staying with the Maharajah of Dhar, and one day he said we should see a cheetah hunt, so we started on horseback about 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The cheetahs looked lovely and seemed quite tame, following the shikaris like dogs. We went about five miles over very bad ground, and it was exceedingly hot.

"At last, to our delight, we saw a herd of deer about a mile off and we at once stopped, while the shikari went forward with two cheetahs. Presently one of the cheetahs stood still, peered about and lay down, slowly whisking his tail from side to side. The men said, 'He has seen the deer.' Soon he got up again and went after his companion and seemed to communicate to him that deer were in sight. Then they both lay down at once.

"After a little time they got up and began stalking the deer through the grass. It was very difficult to distinguish the cheetahs, as they were much the same color as the ground. Presently, the deer became aware something was up, and stopped and looked about; then, suddenly, they all got together, and began trotting off, followed at once by the cheetahs, who, although far behind, gained ground at every stride, and we could see they had each singled out a black buck, taking no notice of the rest of the herd tearing off in all directions. Luckily they came toward us, and we saw one cheetah give a high spring, about fifteen yards, and seize his buck by the throat and roll it over. We did not look any more, we knew nothing would induce the cheetah to leave its prey till the buck's throat was cut and the animal enticed away with a ladleful of blood.

"The other cheetah having missed when it sprang gave up the chase and came straight back to his master with his tail between his legs. We were very lucky to see the hunt, for I find many old Indians have never had the good fortune to witness one, and the Maharajah seldom allows his cheetahs to indulge in the sport."

A Novel Refrigerator.

A young friend of mine, who has for several years each summer gone with his father on a camping trip on the south shore of Lake Superior, tells me of a novel expedient they often employed for preserving their venison in warm weather. In that country some of the streams are flanked by long rows of sandhill, whose composition is so loose that they shift about continually under a wind of any force. In the winter time the high winds often blow the sand over the great snow banks which lie upon the north side of the sand dunes, covering up the snow to a depth of several feet. The snow is thus kept unmelted, and even in the middle of summer one can dig down through the sand to it and find the best imaginable sort of a refrigerator. In this way, said my young friend, they buried their deer and trout, and found they kept fresh so long as they cared to leave them. This is certainly a new instance of nature's bountifulness with the sportsman.—Forest and Stream.

Mothers Should Care for a Child's Eyes.

Dr. Webster Fox, in the journal of the Franklin Institute, maintains that the majority of blind people have lost their sight from want of proper care during infancy, and that nurses or mothers who heedlessly expose an infant's eyes to the glare of the sun for hours, may be laying the foundation for the most serious evils. He protests against permitting young children to use their eyes in study, and declares that the eye is not strong enough for school work until the age of seven to nine. Children should not be allowed to study much by artificial light before the age of ten, and books printed in small type should be absolutely prohibited in the schoolroom.

The commissioners of the Yosemite Valley having ordered the demolition of miles of fences and many unsightly buildings, leaving more spacious [illegible] and [illegible].

POPULAR SCIENCE.

The Imperial University of Tokio has 128 professors and teachers, all but sixteen being Japanese. This year's students number 738.

When a storm is advancing, the wind blows to meet it. Thus a wind blowing from the east or southeast indicates the approach of a storm from the west.

The Belgian Government are now making experiments with a new kind of screw, which enables a vessel to stop or turn instantaneously to avert a collision.

The shortest time occupied by the tornado cloud in passing a given point varies from "an instant" to about twenty minutes, the average being seventy-four seconds.

A remarkable cave has just been discovered on the top of the Taygetus range, in Greece. It is from ten to thirty feet high and from thirty to sixty feet wide, and contains thousands of stalactites in wonderful groups.

From experiments made in Richmond, Va., with electric heaters, it seems probable that a passenger coach can be kept warm at an expense of two cents an hour, the current being supplied by a dynamo on the locomotive or tender.

A French stone-mason has discovered a cement which he claims to be stronger, cheaper, and less liable to damage from the action of the weather than any preparation now in use. It is not a plaster, but a heavy, viscous fluid, and is applied with a brush. Its composition is kept secret.

Some experiments lately made at the Royal Polytechnic School at Munich show that the strength of camel's-hair belting reaches 6315 pounds per square inch, while that of ordinary belting ranges between 2230 and 5260 pounds per square inch. The camel's-hair belt is unaffected by acids.

A sponge is a point of coral rock by the discharge of the earth's electric current through it, and only a few fibres of a coral are left undecomposed. Every sponge will disclose this fact if examined. A part of every sponge is coral and at the bottom of the object the coral still clings to the fibres of the sponge, and is a part of the sponge.

A new shaping tool has been invented—a machine in which two flat surfaces, acting vertically or horizontally and moving in opposite directions, with adjustable dies fitted upon them, roll in one motion a piece of metal, regular or irregular in shape and of almost any desired pattern. At a single stroke of the mechanism may be obtained a sphere, a cone, a chair screw, a bolt with thread and head—in fact, an endless variety of mechanical forms.

Among the latest American patents is one for a process of obtaining dry feed for animals from the refuse of starch and glucose. The coarse refuse is first subjected to pressure to free it from water, and to it is added the fine refuse, containing the glutinous nitrogenous parts of the grain. This combination is subjected to pressure to express the greater part of the moisture, and finally placed under the influence of heat, for the purpose of evaporating the remaining moisture.

A wonderful invention for rapid transit is attracting attention in New York. The invention consists of an elevated railway track of a new design for a car made of demagnetised steel and running upon a single rail. The car will go a distance of 230 miles in an hour. The invention will first be used for transporting small packages and mail matter, but eventually will be adapted for the transportation of passengers. The cost is trivial when compared to that of the regular railroads.

Experts in house building have suggested that grates in second stories are usually less safe than those below, as the narrower joists give little room for the boxing of the hearth. It is also urged that grates be examined carefully, to determine whether the back of the flue is simply of four-inch wall, which is always dangerous at the back of a grate in a frame house. This can be determined by measuring the distance the breast extends out from the wall, and, as sometimes the breast runs through flush with the face of the wall in the next room, the calculation is to be made accordingly.

Why the Leaves Turn.

"Probably not one person in a thousand knows why leaves change their color in the fall," remarked an eminent botanist the other day. "The common and old fashioned idea is that all this red and golden glory we see now is caused by frosts. A true and scientific explanation of the causes of the coloring of leaves would necessitate a long and intricate discussion. Stated briefly and in proper language, those causes are these: The green matter in the tissue of a leaf is composed of two colors, red and blue. When the sap ceases to flow in the fall, and the natural growth of the tree ceases, oxidation of the tissue takes place. Under certain conditions, the green of the leaf changes to red; under different conditions it takes on a yellow or brown tint. This difference in color is due to the difference in combination of the original constituents of the green tissue and to the varying conditions of climate, exposure and soil. A dry, cold climate produces more brilliant foliage than one that is damp and warm. This is the reason that our American autumns are so much more gorgeous than those of England. There are several things about leaves that even science cannot explain. For instance, why one of two trees growing side by side, of the same age and having the same exposure, should take on a brilliant red in the fall, and the other should turn yellow; or why one branch of a tree should be highly colored and the rest of the tree have only a yellow tint, are questions that are as impossible to answer as why one member of a family should be perfectly healthy and another sickly. Maples and oaks have the brightest colors."—Field and Forest.

The Care of Umbrellas.

Umbrellas should be placed handle downward to dry. The moisture falls from the edges of the frame, and the fabric dries uniformly. If stood handle upward, as is commonly the case, the top of the umbrella holds the moisture, owing to the lining underneath the ring, and it takes a long time to dry, thereby injuring the silk or other fabric with which it is covered. This is the main cause of the umbrella wearing out so soon at the top. Umbrella cases are responsible for the wear of the silk. The constant friction causes they [illegible] to appear so provokingly early. When not in use the umbrella should be left loose, and when wet left loose to dry.—Men's Outfitter.

The World's Wheat.

The earlier expectations regarding the probable size of the domestic wheat crops have been found to be too small, and the total is now estimated at from 485,000,000 to 500,000,000 bushels. One journal which has given careful attention to the subject believes that the harvest will amount to 498,000,000 bushels (333,000,000 winter and 165,000,000 spring wheat), as compared with 415,868,000 bushels in 1887-'88 and with 456,329,000 bushels in 1886-'87. If reserve stocks of wheat in the United States are about 20,000,000 bushels smaller than they were one year ago, as has been estimated, and visible stocks (as above) 18,000,000 bushels, less the total deficiency of about 30,000,000 or 33,000,000 bushels as compared with one year ago, is offset here by more than 82,000,000 bushels increased production. The London Miller, after an elaborate and not altogether satisfactory calculation, estimates that the "net export surplus" of American wheat "for the new cereal year looks, therefore, like being 135,320,000 bushels, as compared with 94,920,000 bushels," which appears quite likely. A recent estimate of the increased and of the decreased quantities of wheat grown this year, compared with last, is as follows: Increase—United States, 82,000,000; Canada, 8,000,000; England and France, 32,000,000, and in Italy, Spain, Belgium, Holland, and Algeria, 32,000,000 bushels; in all 154,000,000 bushels. Decreases—Russia, 72,000,000; Hungary, 36,000,000; Roumania, 8,000,000; Germany, 8,000,000; India, 18,000,000, and Argentine Republic, Australasia, and Chili, 24,000,000 bushels, a total of 166,000,000 bushels. This, if verified, will point to a decreased output of about 12,000,000 bushels in the country named, which, if true, should be construed, taking the year through, in favor of the United States, as they have grown over 80,000,000 bushels more wheat than a year ago, and at least 45,000,000 bushels more for export, even after supplying all deficiencies in the reserves. As has been pointed out, during July few important autumn export contracts were negotiated. France was satisfied with the situation, Germany doubtful, Austria-Hungary more so, India shipments were light, Russia did not ship freely, and the United States were enacting the role of Micawber. Our export surplus is large, and the Pacific States, as in the past, are inclined to sell freely. They are satisfied to sell, and three months from now arrivals out of Pacific Coast wheat may be found to have some influence on the world's markets irrespective of the price at New York or Chicago.—[Bradstreet's.

Women Who Buy Men's Hats.

"It is not perhaps just the thing in point of good manners and social etiquette to allow a woman to wait while you attend to the wants of a man," said a local hat dealer the other day. "But when a woman comes in to buy a hat for a child of one of the late 'man's straw hat fad,' and a masculine comes in behind her we always wait on him first. Why? Well, for various reasons. The man as a rule buys a hat costing him all the way from $3.25 to $5, while the woman seldom wants more than $2 worth of a hat. Then again it is easier and more satisfactory to try to sell hats to a dozen men than try to get a woman to invest $1.75 in a straw hat for herself or 75 cents in head-gear for a child. They will come in with one or two friends," continued the loquacious dealer, "and try on about every hat in the store before they decide to take the first they looked at, or decide to go elsewhere. Then, after the imagine they have selected the best and most becoming style, and they are generally very sure to do that, they put it down and take up another with, 'Now, Julia, I don't know but this would look as well on me. What do you think?' Then follows an animated discussion, broken by various lapses into comments on outside matters till the hat clerk begins to grow dizzy. He has not been used to that sort of thing, poor fellow, till within the last two seasons, and it wears on him. The woman about to purchase a hat for Johnnie is a bother, but she does not become such an unmitigated nuisance as the woman buying a hat for herself. I hope the rage for men's hats among the fair sex will soon disappear. I do not wonder that dry goods clerks and those who have constantly to minister to a woman's vagaries are bald-headed.—[New York Star.

Voluntary Scavengers.

The city of Omaha, Nebraska, has in its service a force of thousands of scavengers who draw no pay, report to no official, but are protected by law from molestation. They are the crows, who flock into town as soon as cold weather comes, stay during the winter, and vanish in the spring. Collecting in small groups, they alight here and there on the tree tops and survey the back yards and alleys until they can pick out foraging places. Then they descend, and in short order the remains from breakfasts, the scraps of meat form markets, and the rats killed by household dogs and cats, are gobbled up. Some crows do scavenger work about the residences. Others alight cautiously in the alleys, and others are attracted to the stock yards and packing houses.

An Absorbing Amusement.

Pigeon flying is growing to be an absorbing amusement in England, particularly among the Birmingham laborers. The spread of the sport has developed quite a new branch of railway traffic. It is the practice of flyers to send their birds in baskets, addressed to the station master at a particular station, with the request that he release them, mark on a label the time that they were released, and return the basket. This request is regularly granted. The officials rather like the work. In cloudy weather porters have been known to feed birds for three days before setting them free.

ELECTRICITY is now employed in India to prevent snakes from entering dwellings. Before all the doors and around the house two wires are laid, isolated from each other, and connected with an induction apparatus. When the snake attempts to enter the house, he completes the circuit and is killed by the shock.

A New Departure

From ordinary business methods is made by the manufacturers of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, in guaranteeing their world-famed remedy to cure all diseases arising from derangements of the liver or stomach, as indigestion, or dyspepsia, or biliousness or "liver complaint," or from impure blood, as boils, blotches, pimples, eruptions, scaly tetter, salt-rheum, scrofulous sores and swellings, and kindred ailments. Money paid for "Discovery" promptly returned if, on fair trial, it don't cure.

Don't hawk, hawk, blow, spit and disgust everybody with your offensive breath, but use Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy and end it.

One strong, well directed blow sends the nail truer to its home than do a dozen coaxing taps. One fit and earnest word carries more weight than does a yard of high flown eloquence.

Sarah Bernhardt

is coming to America, and great will be the enthusiasm aroused amongst her admirers. But, we have our own bright star, Mary Anderson, who will continue to bear off the palm in the dramatic, as does Lucy Hinton in the great tobacco world.

Oregon, the Paradise of Farmers.
Mild, equable climate, certain and abundant crops. Best fruit, grain, grass and stock country in the world. Full information free. Address Oreg. Im'igra'tn Board, Portland, Ore.

Old smokers prefer "Tansill's Punch" Cigar.

Weak Women

Owe to themselves a duty to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, in view of the great relief it has given those who suffer from ailments peculiar to the sex. By purifying the blood, regulating important organs, strengthening the nerves and toning the whole system, it restores to health.

"I have been for years trying to get help for that terrible general debility and weakness so common to women. Within a year I have taken ten to twelve bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and the benefit derived from its use has been very great. I am now feeling like a new creature."—Mrs. F. B. Ross, Martin, Texas.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

BUGGIES ROAD CARTS HARNESS FREE

No ½ Price or 50% but Free.

We manufacture none but the best, and sell to CONSUMERS ONLY. Write us for full particulars how to get these articles free of cost.

CONSUMERS' CARRIAGE CO., CINCINNATI, O.

SMITH'S BILE BEANS

Act on the liver and bile, clear the complexion, cure billiousness, sick headache, costiveness, malaria and all liver and stomach disorders. The small size are most convenient for children—very small and easy to take. Price of either size 25c. per bottle.

A panel size PHOTO-GRAVURE of the above picture, "Kissing at 7—17—70," mailed on receipt of 2c. stamp. Address the makers of the great Anti-Bile Remedy—"Bile Beans."

J. F. SMITH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

For Dairy, Farm & Household

Frank's American Wonder Machine awarded highest medals. Approved of and found O K by the highest dairy faculties. A child can use it. Always produces finest grade butter (the very gilt edged) from sweet milk or cream in 2 minutes. Works from one pint up to the largest quantity. Makes more butter. Clear profit 30 to 120 per cent. Buttermilk remains perfectly sweet for coffee, &c. Is also recommended by children's physicians as best baby food. Machine also makes finest ice cream in 4 minutes. Five quarts, $3.50; 14 quarts, [illegible]; 60 quarts, $23, &c. Send for testimonials and circulars to F. A. Frank & Co., Patentees & Sole Mfrs., 310 E. [illegible] St., New York. Reliable agents wanted.

Ely's Cream Balm WILL CURE CATARRH

Price 50 Cents.

Apply Balm into each nostril. ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N.Y.

Dr. Lobb, 329 N. 15th St., PHILA., PA.

After ALL others fail, consult

Twenty years' continuous practice in the treatment and cure of the awful effects of early vice, destroying both mind and body. Medical advice and treatment for one month, Five Dollars, sent securely sealed from observation to any address. Book on Special Diseases free.

TOWER'S FISH BRAND

This Trade Mark is on The Best Waterproof Coat in the world. A. J. Tower, Boston.

$7 FOR A Double Breech-Loader

Breech-Loaders, $4 to $60. Winchester 16-shot Rifles, $11 to $16. Breech-loading Rifles, $2.65 to $12.00. Self-cocking Revolvers, Nickel-plated, $1.00. Send 2c. stamp for 60-page Catalogue and save 25 per cent. GRIFFITH & SEMPLE, 512 W. Main, Louisville, Ky.

$75 TO $250 A MONTH can be made working for us. Agents preferred who can furnish a horse and give their whole time to the business. Spare moments may be profitably employed also. A few vacancies in towns and cities. B. F. JOHNSON & CO., 1009 Main St., Richmond, Va. N. B. Please state age and business experience. Never mind about sending stamp for reply. B. F. J. & Co.

OPIUM and Whiskey Habits cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE. B. M. WOOLLEY, M.D. Atlanta, Ga. Office 65½ Whitehall St.

HOME STUDY. Book-keeping, Business Forms, Penmanship, Arithmetic, Short-hand, etc., thoroughly taught by MAIL. Circulars free. Bryant's College, 457 Main St., Buffalo, N.Y.

FARMS Do you want to buy or sell? If so send stamp for circular to Curtis & Duffett, 233 Broadway, [illegible]

OPIUM HABIT. Only Certain and easy CURE in the World. J. L. STEPHENS, Lebanon, [illegible]

PALMS BUS. COLLEGE, Philadelphia. Scholarship and positions. $40. Write for circulars.

PEERLESS DYES Are the BEST.

Cures in 1 to 5 DAYS. Guaranteed not to cause Stricture. Mf'd only by the Evans Chemical Co. Cincinnati, Ohio.

I prescribe and fully endorse Big G as the only specific for the certain cure of this disease. G. H. INGRAHAM, M.D., Amsterdam, N.Y.

We have sold Big G for many years, and it has given the best of satisfaction. D. R. DYCHE & CO., Chicago, Ill. $1.00. Sold by Druggists.

A. N. U. [illegible] Forty-[illegible]

BRYANT & STRATTON Business College LOUISVILLE, KY.

Book Keeping, Short Hand, Telegraphy, &c. Write for Catalogue and full information.

PISO'S CURE FOR [illegible]

Best Cough Medicine. Recommended by Physicians. Cures where all else fails. Pleasant and agreeable to the taste. Children take it without objection. By druggists.

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per Square, of one inch or less, for the first, and fifty cents for each subsequent insertion.

Space.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
[illegible]	$5 00	$7 00	$11 25
[illegible]	7 00	11 25	16 00
[illegible]	10 00	15 00	22 50
[illegible]	12 50	20 00	27 00
[illegible]	15 00	22 50	[illegible]
[illegible] Column	18 00	27 00	40 00
[illegible] Column	27 00	40 00	60 00
[illegible] Column	40 00	[illegible]	100 00

The Chilton View.

W. H. LAWRENCE, Editor and Publisher. "WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION." TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME VIII. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1889. NUMBER 52.

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line each insertion.

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be headed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

☞ The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

Caheen's Grand Introductory Sale

OF

NEW FALL DRESS GOODS!

EVERYTHING NEW, BRIGHT AND SPARKLING.

New Silks, New Velvets, New Trimmings, New Henriettas, New Brilliantes, New Drap D'Almas, New Dress Fringes and New High Art Production Novelty Combination Suits.

Early as it is, we are selling quantities of Fall Dress Goods, probably because we now have a great assortment at very attractive prices. New goods are arriving daily and we will beyond the slightest shadow of a doubt have the largest, finest and best assorted stock ever shown in Birmingham.

If Only!

en we have sat awhile in hopeless gloom ore the scarce shut door of some new tomb, drained our hearts of that hot gall that sears
The very source of tears;
en we have dared to lift our blinded eyes where yon white, untroubled glory lies vast infinitude of stars, between The seen and the unseen en we have found some little broken key at hath unlocked our speechless agony, voiced our soul in that appealing cry:

"Dear God, Thou knowest why!"
en by and by, still dazed and numb with pain, look abroad upon the world again, find, in some dread sense, unreal and strange,
All things have suffered change.

mother loved and lost! It cannot be se are the scenes that gladdened you and me!
cannot be the green and pleasant ways
We trod in other days!
ithout your window, on the woodbine spray,
e robin chants her sweet, familiar lay,
t ah! the joy, that once her song possessed,
Lies dead within my breast.

o long together you and I have fared, doing our every task and burden shared, as! I cannot learn to bear alone
The crosses we have known.
d yet, if I could only see aright,
How thin the veil that hides you from my sight!
ow clear the voice that calls to me—how near,
If I could only hear!

I could only clasp the loving hand ched to me from that fair, invisible land, d know, however long the road may be,
We still keep company!
r death is but a narrow curtain, drawn fore the face of God's eternal dawn, d His tomorrow lies but little way
Beyond our dim today?

ANNETTE.

When Annette came, Soyers was an er and a drunkard. With the com- g of the little stranger, however, a ppy change brightened his home and e.

It is true he was only a poor shingle er, living in a tumble-down shanty to the river, depending on floods d freshets for drift logs to supply with the material to ply his trade, ich, at its best, was never very re- erative. Soyers, however, was not y worse off than were the many others o followed the same occupation and d along the river, above and below and who were his constant com- ions. In fact, Soyers was their su- r in the attributes that make a ; for there were moments in his life something within him revolted st the conditions that bound him their level and to the miserable life was leading.

When these thoughts took possession him he generally sought consolation forgetfulness in drink, or lacking wherewithal to procure it he would down to the shed on the river's bank work with a will until he had ed enough to buy the liquor for ich he longed.

Soyers had one of his moody spells day that little Annette came to his e. He had been down on the river til late that day. It had rained and led all the afternoon, and the sky, the water, and the earth, and the had looked dark and sorrowful, the birds, with drooping plumage, twittered and complained sadly as hopped from bough to bough. scene had brought dark thoughts oyers, and his heart was heavy and of discontent.

When he neared his house, however, evening, the last rays of the setting burst through the clouds and were cted against the one window of his ble home. The light was so bril- t that it blinded him for a moment, caused him to put his hands to his hen he looked again the last rays just leaving the upper panes of the ow, and in a moment more were gone. But they yet flashed in the tops of the tall magnolias, and sparkled in the raindrops that hung to the edges of the smooth, green leaves, until they seemed as if bespattered with brilliant jewels.

Soyers saw it all. His soul drank in the beauty of the scene; for, together with his faults and failings, he was furthermore afflicted with an appreciation of the splendor that nature takes on in joyous moments.

For a minute he stood motionless, with his eyes on the ground. Then he shook his head sadly and muttered: "It is no use. I am only Soyers, and haven't a right to look for anything better and brighter than what I am enjoying from day to day."

And so he walked slowly toward the house. When he reached it the clouds in the west were tinted with gold and crimson, and were filled with bright promises of a glorious morrow.

That evening Annette was born. When the little one was placed in Soyers's arms, his lips quivered with emotion. He bent to kiss the little face, but checked himself in a moment, and hastily putting the baby back into her mother's arms he left the room.

He betook himself to the place where he kept a small jug stowed away in the outer room. He shook it and found that it was empty. Then, pulling the hat down over his face, and with the jug in his hand, he walked to the door. Then he placed his foot on the outside the steps gave away and he was precipitated to the ground. As he fell the jug flew out of his hand and rolled away into the darkness. But Soyers got to his feet again, and finding the jug he started for the rumseller's. When he arrived there and presented the jug to be filled he found that the bottom of it, somehow, had been knocked out.

They offered to fill a new jug for him, for he had been a good customer, but he only shook his head, and taking the bottomless jug with him, he left the place and trudged away to his home.

That night he stole into the room where his wife and baby were sleeping and kissed them both.

It was on a July day, three years later, that Soyers's home was the scene of a great excitement. But what a change the three years had made in that humble house. The tumble-down shanty had vanished, and a neat cottage had been built in its place, surrounded by flowers and shrubs, and having the appearance of thrift and happiness. The air was filled with the fragrance of roses and honey-suckles, and the ground, with narrow walks between, was covered with bright flowers. Mrs. Soyers, in the new and happy home, was often heard singing gay little snatches of songs, and her merry laughter, mingling with that of little Annette, rang upon the air with a melody as soft and sweet as that which we dream the angels make. And down by the river, where the old shingle shed used to be, was a long row of sheds, where men were busy at work, and Soyers, the busiest of them all, superintending the making of shingles, posts, palings and boards, of which a large supply was piled and stacked all ready for the market. Everything was moving along merrily.

It was toward noon when Soyers left his work and went to the house. Half way between the gate and the porch he stopped beside a frame supporting a flower pot of unique design, in which was growing a blooming geranium. The pot was artistically draped in cool, gray Spanish moss, but peeping under this one could see that the vessel was an old, bottomless, jug turned upside down. Soyers touched the leaves tenderly, for it was a favorite flower with him and belonged exclusively to Annette.

Just then Mrs. Soyers came out on the porch, and when she saw her husband she greeted him with a glad smile. Her face, however, in a moment took on a look of anxiety as she asked: "Did you leave Annette at the river?"

"I have not seen her. Is she not at home?"

"No. She asked me nearly half an hour ago if she could go down and call you to dinner, as she usually does, and I gave her permission to go."

"My God!" exclaimed Soyers, "where can she have gone?"

With that he turned and ran toward the river, his wife following close behind him.

The men were still at work, but when they saw Soyers running they stopped, for they felt intuitively that something had happened.

"Have any of you seen little Annette?" shouted Soyers.

They all shook their heads.

"She is lost. Hurry up, friends, and help me to find her."

They left their work and scattered in every direction, searching eagerly in every place that could possibly be a hiding place for the little one, or where there could have been any danger along the path.

Soyers followed the bank of the river. He had not gone far when he saw floating upon the water Annette's little bonnet, and close beside it a bunch of flowers. His heart stood still for a moment, and he gasped hard for breath. But it was for a moment only that he thus staggered, for the next he plunged into the water and swam with all his strength to where the little bonnet and flowers were whirling around and around, the playthings of a small eddy. He reached the place and grasped the articles with nervous fingers. Then he looked around to see if he could find any sign of her he loved above anything else on earth, but he looked in vain. The water flowed along smoothly, with not even a breath of wind just then to ripple the bright surface. Soyers's heart sank within him. A sense of irreparable loss took possession of him, and he floated with the current, holding Annette's bonnet and flowers clasped closely to his breast, caring not if he ever trod the green earth again.

Then came a shout from the shore. Soyers looked, and there, held high in the air, in the strong arms of one of the men, was Annette.

At the sight Soyers roused himself and swam eagerly to the bank. When he reached the bank, wet as he was, he clasped his darling in his arms and the glad tears came to his eyes. "God is good," he muttered, as he tenderly kissed Annette again and again.

Annette had been found asleep in a skiff tied to some low bending willows on the bank. She was sitting down in the bottom of the boat when found, her head resting on her arms folded on the stern sheets, where she very likely had placed her bonnet and flowers also, and where some passing gust of summer wind had swept them into the river.

May heaven always keep and guard and guide thee, sweet Annette!—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The Alligator is a Cannibal.

William Chandler has sent the editor of the Waynesboro (Ga.) Citizen an alligator egg. Just now he has the alligator hobby bad, and he is riding it as though there were millions in it. He has evidently spent much of his valuable time in studying the ways of this lovely member of the saurian family. They deposit their eggs in a nest composed of sand and debris and the heat of the sun hatches them. They lay from fifty to sixty eggs. The female watches her nest and displays the most commendable maternal anxiety in leading her young from the sand bank nest to the waters of the swamp. The male alligator has all the depraved instincts of the cannibal, and eats his young with the greatest avidity. They have a peculiar fondness for the flesh of the colored man, and will give it the preference over all other food.

Learn to say no. No necessity of snapping it out dog fashion, but say it firmly and respectfully.

Knows All About Corks.

The queerest hobby on record is that in which Dr. Hammond interested an indolent patient in order to occupy his mind.

"A man once came to me," said the Doctor, "who was suffering very severely from having nothing to do. He came to me bewailing his state of mind. 'I have nothing to interest me in life' he complained. 'I have an abundance of means and my money is so invested that I have nothing to do but cut the coupons off my bonds and there is no trouble to take care of it. I have nothing in the world to interest me or occupy my time. I have been gradually becoming low-spirited and melancholy, and I shun society. If you can give me something to live for I will be greatly indebted to you.

"I told him to collect bottle corks, and he took to the suggestion at once, and now owns the most wonderful collection of corks of anybody in the world probably. He classifies the corks according to the character of liquor their bottle contained and the countries from which they come. He has become a marvellous expert and his collection deserves to be exhibited in the national museum. He will pick up a cork in the street and at once tell that it came from a bottle containing such and such a wine and from such and such a country.

Of course that man's mind cannot be of a very high order to be satisfied with doing nothing but collecting bottle corks but the occupation is sufficient for him. What he has accomplished, however, is really remarkable, and he has the satisfaction of knowing that he knows more about this line of study than any other living man."—Washington Star.

Cost of the Paris Exposition.

Many strangers have been speculating upon the cost of the Paris exposition. It amounts to $7,600,000; but when to this is added the various amounts expended by the French ministerial department from the funds placed at their disposal for the purpose of entertaining foreign guests, and for other incidental outlays, and those by foreign governments and individual exhibitions, the total, according to a rough estimate of the department of public works, can not fall far short of $30,000,000. The expense of the glittering exhibition on the Champs de Mars in money was large and so was its cost in life and limb. It is calculated that during its construction 6350 men were treated for injuries or for illness resulting from exposure; 800 workmen hurt their legs; 260 received severe injuries in their eyes from projecting timbers, or bars of iron; 114 were scalded or severely burned and 50 had their fingers cut off. The deaths from falls are put down at the modest figure of 24, but it is believed that they were far more numerous, and that the correct number was not given by the promoters of the exhibition.—Drovers' Journal.

Nevada's Rival to the Eiffel Tower.

The people of Paris continue to rave about their Eiffel Tower—a little iron trestlework stood on end that measures only 1000 feet in height, says the Virginia City (Nev.) Enterprise. Counting the elevation of the ground on which it stands, its height is only 1300 feet above the level of the sea. Here we have a pyramid of solid syenite that rises directly from our streets to a height of 1900 feet. The little iron Eiffel wouldn't make a ramrod for our tower. They are now boasting at Paris that with a 700,000 candle power light, in clear weather, and all else being favorable, the tower lantern may perhaps be distinguished a distance of 127 miles. In former times the Indians—during the wars between the Piute and Washoe tribes—were wont to telegraph to a distance of from 150 to 200 miles from the top of our tower, using only an armful of sage brush for their signal fire.

BIG GAME.

HUNTING THE GIANT MOOSE IN CANADA.

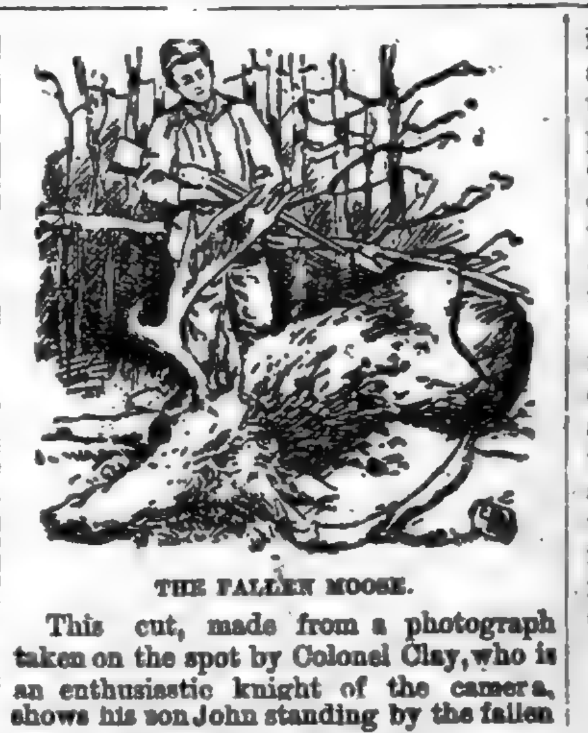
Characteristic of the Animal—How He is "Called" by Indians—Chasing a Big Bull in a Canoe.

MOOSE hunting! And as one speaks the words in the hearing of an inhabitant of the far north his eyes begin to kindle, his hand seems to be involuntarily clasping an invisible rifle; he is carried in a fancy by the mystic charm of the words from the haunts of the civilized man back into the wilderness of woods, where the wild beasts and the untamed birds dwell in tangled mazes seldom desecrated by the foot of man. He sees himself as he stood years ago with every sound about him hushed in expectancy, his ears strained to catch the first note of warning that tells of the approach of a moose, the king of the northern forests. The sport is fascinating, exhilirating, tempting, involving an amount of pleasure and hardship mingled in that delightful combination that make the blood of the true hunter of large game leap more quickly at its mention.

Colonel Cecil Clay, of this city, the chief clerk of the Department of Justice, is a hunter such as this, and his home is filled with trophies of his warfare on the moose family. For several years back he has gone to Canada each summer and, after providing himself with Indian guides and the paraphernalia necessary for a month's sojourn in the woods, he plunges into the forest. If there should be navigable waters the party ascends them in canoes, but sometimes the spot selected for the hunt is accessible only by land, and then the good muscle of every man is tried to the utmost. Colonel Clay's favorite hunting ground is among the lakes and streams forming the headwaters of the Ottawa River, some distance into the Dominion of Canada, although he has gone to several places during his hunting experiences. But it is altogether likely that he will not kill any more moose for a long time, a prohibitory law having been put in force in the Dominion which make it an offense to shoot moose until the year 1896. This was done in order to prevent the annihilation of the animals altogether.

A MOOSE HUNTER'S TENT.

Two or three years ago Dr. Goode of the National Museum requested the Colonel to secure the skins of a number of moose for mounting in the museum, to make a group of the finest animals in the American forest. He wanted a bull, a cow and a calf, a complete family. Bulls are considered a legitimate prey for a sportsman, but Colonel Clay shrunk from the idea of shooting a cow and calf, which are usually exempt from a hunter's rifle. He promised, however, to provide the skins for a scientific purpose. So, swallowing his scruples, he killed the cow and calf during the summer of 1886 in the Province of Ontario. The cow was six feet four inches at the withers, or shoulders, and seven feet three inches from the ears to the end of the backbone, the girth being equal to this last dimension. This is a good size for a cow, but he had poorer luck in shooting the bull, which he did last summer. The prohibitory law was then in force, but he was given an intimation by the Canadian authorities that if the bull was wanted for scientific purposes the eye of the law would be closed for the moment, and when a young bull, rather smaller than he might have obtained, came stalking up to his tent one morning, waiting to be sacrificed on the altar of science, he could not withstand the temptation, and pointing his Winchester at the beast's withers he let the hammer fall incidentally and the great creature, with his magnificent antlers, fell crashing to the [illegible]



THE FALLEN MOOSE.

This cut, made from a photograph taken on the spot by Colonel Clay, who is an enthusiastic knight of the camera, shows his son John standing by the fallen beast, and gives a good idea of the comparative size of the animal. He measured six feet two inches at the withers, this being rather under the size for a full-grown bull. Colonel Clay has shot moose six feet eight inches in height, and feels that the group to be placed in the museum is not as characteristic as it might be.

"The moose is a queer animal," said Colonel Clay the other evening to a Star reporter as he sat in his cozy parlor surrounded by his trophies and scores of excellent photographs. "He will not leave a place until he knows why he should go. He is not afraid of anything, but he is generally good natured. He is not an aggressive animal, but is inclined to be curious. I have seen them come stepping softly through the woods headed for our clearing, with curiosity written in every line. When he is satisfied he turns around and walks away, but if you give chase or wound him he goes plunging through the forest at a remarkable rate when one considers the immense antlers with which his head is crowned, which sometimes grow to be six feet from tip to tip.

"The moose sheds his horns each year. When the snow comes they are still on, but about January they begin to drop off, first one and then the other. The wound left by the horn soon heals over. The horns do not lie on the ground long. They disappear in a most remarkable manner. The ants and other ground insects probably destroy them, for one seldom sees a perfect moose horn in the woods in summer time. The new horns begin to grow late in the spring and develop very rapidly, first appearing as a little knob and then branching out into those peculiar spade-like masses that distinguish the moose. They are then covered with a soft, velvety skin, and they are pliant and fleshy. The blood circulates freely through them and they bend quite easily, but during the latter part of

HUNTING IN A CANOE.

August the velvet begins to rub off on the trees, the blood vessels to close and the horns gradually turn into bone. This period is one of irritation to the moose, for the horns itch furiously and he goes clashing around among the trees, rubbing his antlers against the bark until the velvet hangs in shreds from them and they present a most disreputable appearance. Then in a few days more he has rubbed all the velvet off and bears a pair of fine, hard horns, after which he is game for the hunter, who scorns to shoot a moose with the velvet on his horns. This is the mating season and the bulls go hunting for the cows, coming down to the streams most frequented. During the day time they lie in the thickets on the hills to avoid the flies and in the evening they begin their ramblings. An old bull will get up and stretch out his great long legs, giving a peculiar grunt—hoh! hoh!—that sounds afar off as a warning to the hunter. Then the animal goes stepping awkwardly down hill through one of the paths they have beaten, followed by others, his great horns clashing here and there among the trees.

"I have often spent hours in my canoe with my rifle over my knees waiting for moose to appear. Still hunting is probably the most sportsmanlike way to take moose, but this takes time and lots of patience. One would have [illegible] run and wait. Some hunters who are in a hurry call their game to them by imitating the bellow of a cow, which is probably one of the most hideous noises ever produced, and is done by shouting or calling in a peculiar manner through the hands, or, better still, through a roll of birch bark. This is a great Indian trick, but I do not like it."

The Colonel paused and reached over for his gun, a light Winchester rifle incased in a yellow cover made of moose skin. It was made light to accommodate the strength of the hunter, whose left arm was lost during the Civil War. On the stock were a number of notches cut into the wood. The reporter was examining these silently, counting them, when Colonel Clay explained: "That is my tally for that gun. Eleven, are there not? yes. I have brought down eleven moose with this rifle, and then I once shot another with John's gun. Those twelve moose have kept us in meat many a day. Good to eat? Why of course moose meat is good. It is very fine," and the Colonel smacked his lips in remembrance. "It makes a good steak and also dries up into fine material for future use. A large hunk of moose meat, several inches square, is taken and worked round and round with a knife until it is laid out flat, a strip of flesh several feet long. This is hung over a fire and dried, and then we are provided with food for a long time.

SURPRISED IN THE WATER.

"One morning," continued the Colonel, his eyes showing the depth of his reflections, "I was up early getting some trout I had caught the day before ready for breakfast and had sent my companion down to the lake for some more, when all of a sudden here he came back, breathless, his hand up to his mouth, tiptoeing over to where I was. He finally managed to whisper that there was a moose in the water, and so, without another word, I grabbed my rifle and we stole down to where our canoe was moored. The mist was just rising from the water. The sun was not up, but there was a glint and a spirit in the atmosphere that gave promise of a beautiful day. There he stood, a magnificent beast, one of the largest I had ever seen, some rods out from shore, wading across the lake. The cold water was up to his withers and at every step he took into the almost icy depths he shivered and gave that hoh! in the characteristic language of the moose. He would put a foot forward and then stop and shrug his shoulders, grunting. It was cold and he did not like the prospect of swimming across the lake. We got into the canoe softly and paddled out toward him. For some time he went on stepping and grunting, never noticing us until we were about a hundred yards from him, when his quick ear caught the sound of our paddles and he turned full upon us.

"It was, I think, the finest sight I ever witnessed. We paddled ahead and I raised my rifle ready to shoot. As I did so the moose turned to the shore from which he had just come, but before he could get started I had fired, hitting him, I think, somewhere in the side. Then he plunged on at a terrific rate, his great legs rising and falling like the fans of a wind-mill, churning the water into foam and scattering the spray, so that all we could see was a dark center in a mass of flying water. We forged on after him, but only at a comparatively snail's pace, I pumping lead into the flying mass all the time, until about 200 feet from the shore, he gave a great leap into the air and fell, never to rise. We had a frightful time getting him ashore, I tell you, and it took us all the morning. He was a monster," and the Colonel fondly patted the stock of his Winchester and a wistful, longing look came into his eyes.

The Pennsylvania Railroad is making experiments to mitigate the horrors of burning trains. It is proposed to place on the engines a connection with the steam-pump, by which a hose can be attached and used to quench fire. A trial was made the other day in West Philadelphia, and the [illegible]

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., OCT. 24, 1889.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year	$1.50
One copy six months	75
One copy four "	50

"Are you going away for a vacation?" said one merchant to another.

"No; I am going to the store every day; but I have made arrangements to take a rest."

"How?"

"I took my advertisement out of the paper."

The murders and street fights in Birmingham are nearly all due to either whiskey or cards, generally to both. The courts of Jefferson county are crowded with prisoners. Shut up the saloons of the town and the criminal court would soon be like that of Chilton, have comparatively little to do. Certainly Birmingham's condition in this particular is not to be envied.

To see a local paper trying to puff and boom a town with its columns barren of local advertising, is about as thin as trying to convince a sensible man that the moon is made of green cheese. The paper is the index to the town's energy and prosperity. The paper and the town should work in unison—the town building the paper and the paper building the town.—Decatur Times.

We think it was the Birmingham Chronicle which some time since advanced the idea that if those who hold that prohibition is a failure and can so readily cite instances of the violation of the prohibition law would fulfil their obligations to the country as good citizens and cite these instances to the grand jury, prohibition might not be such a failure after all. This would be a good remedy and offers an opportunity for those who know of such instance to prove themselves good citizens. But, would not the majority of those who have any information in such matters prefer to prove that prohibition is a failure if they could. Fact is everything that is human is to some extent a failure.

Here's a heap of "fuss and feathers" for you. The Age-Herald expresses the opinion that the press of Alabama is lacking in original humor. This is a truth. The Troy Enquirer thinks the deficiency complained of is due to the fact that the daily press does not encourage a display of talent of this kind on the part of their weekly contemporaries, by republishing the effusions of the latter. This is merely a supposition founded upon the experience of one man, perhaps—the editor of the Enquirer. The Eufaula Times thinks the daily press is also wanting in humor. This is another truth. Generally whatever the daily press contains in this line is borrowed from the weeklies. And now the Mobile Register warns the brotherhood of the fate of Sunset Cox, who might have been President if he had not been so witty. This reminds us of the fate of three of the brightest journalistic ventures in our observation in this State—the Tuskaloosa Blade under Maj. Randolph, the Uniontown Press under the irrepressible Bones Hudson, and the Montgomery Dispatch under the guidance of the artist who advocated bull-fights and caricatured the Alabama flunkies in their caterwauling over northern "money bags." These three ventures are dead, dead, dead. The rest of us can take warning, and console ourselves with the conceit that it is better to be born wise than witty.

Gov. Hill's Speech.

Gov. David B. Hill, of New York, made a notable speech at the Atlanta Exposition. He poured out "taffy" upon the South in the following fashion:

"I believe that the South is to play a great part in working out the destiny of our reunited nation. In her courage, in her hopefulness, in her integrity, in her loyalty, in her enthusiasm, in the public spirit of her statesmen, in their faithful adherence to political conviction and in their deep sense of duty to public trusts, I behold qualities which will preserve intact the theory of our governmental system, strengthen our institutions and redound to the prosperity of our country. It is sometimes said in the North that the South is solid. So it is—solid for good government, solid for the welfare of its people, solid for integrity in private and official life, solid in its opposition to a paternal administration of public affairs, solid against congressional extravagances, solid in its renunciation of the errors of the past, solid for American ideas, solid in its devotion to the new nation, solid in its aspirations for a higher civilization, and solid for all that would make us a prosperous and powerful republic. Of such solidity I am not afraid. I see no danger in such unity as springs from the noblest motives and subserves the most exalted patriotism."

This is to reward Henry Grady for slobbering over the North in his New England club speech in Boston a few years since. But aren't these big politicians nice, sweet fellows?

Was Hickey Lynched?

The Age-Herald contained the following account of the lynching of Jim Hickey on Mulberry, this county:

MONTEVALLO, Oct. 16.—[Special.] Mr. Latham has just received news of the lynching of James Hickey, a white man, on Mulberry Creek, below Maplesville. He was caught on another charge, and not knowing for what, it was soon discovered that he was concerned in the murder of John Lawrence at this place several weeks ago. He finally acknowledged it and said he was in the crowd, and also with Big Six when he killed Levi Tally near here last year. He said there were three negroes in the crowd when Lawrence was killed. Hickey was hung and was shot while swinging.

The correspondent of the VIEW at Stanton furnishes us the following:

STANTON, Oct. 18, 1889.

EDITOR CHILTON VIEW:

In response to your request, will say that I cannot hear anything of a lynching in this part of the county. If such has occurred it has been kept very secret. Hickey's mother lives within two miles of Stanton. The Age-Herald's Montevallo correspondent must be mistaken in name of place the lynching occurred, as I should have certainly heard something of it had it happened here.

OVER THE COUNTY.

Neighborhood News Gathered by Our Correspondents.

Stanton Notes.

A meeting of the Baptist Church members was held at Ebenezer church the 19th inst., for the purpose of calling a minister to fill the vacancy caused by Rev. J. M. McCord's resigning. Rev. Dr. Cleveland, of Montevallo, received the call. Rev. J. M. McCord will go to Orrville, Ala. Resolutions of regrets, &c., were offered by the church expressing feelings of sorrow at Rev. McCord's resignation.

Rev. George Mills filled the pulpit at Ebenezer church yesterday.

Messrs. Chas. Parnell and Will McGee boarded the south bound train this a. m. for Mobile, where they go to attend the medical college.

An oyster supper was given at the residence of Mr. R. Coe, Friday night for the purpose of raising funds for missionary causes. Eighteen dollars was the amount taken in.

A good rain is badly needed in this section.

Maplesville Dots.

Phœnix like, Tom Foshee's new steam gin, is at work.

Ike Giles and family are stopping here a few weeks for health.

Mr. Frank Kelley and Ben Glover have been here again, and have been seen casting sheep-eyes at certain fair ones.

Mrs. Frank DuBose, of Orrville, is quite sick.

"ORANGE BLOSSOMS."

Married, on the 20th inst., by the Rev. George Mills, at the residence of the bride's mother, Mr. Thos. U. Crumpton and Miss Lula DuBose. Immediately after the ceremony they repaired with a number of friends to Ebenezer church. After services the party returned to the bride's mother's, where a sumptuous dinner was spread, of which fifty-five guests partook, among whom were the groom's affable father and handsome mother. The guests greatly enjoyed the wit and humor of Mr. Jim DuBose and the courtesies extended by his lovely wife. Mr. L. H. DuBose moved gracefully among the happy guests, looking taller than ever. Presents were elegant and useful. A handsome Marseilles quilt and lace pillow shams by Mrs. Crumpton, a handsome rug and silver waiter by Miss Lou Clayton, a handsome present by Dr. Frank DuBose, a handsome present by Mrs. Jim DuBose, a pair of lovely satin finished vases from Mrs. Pritchard, a fine present from Mrs. Robert Walker, a most serviceable present from Mr. and Mrs. Thos. DuBose, a beautiful present by the Misses Glover, a gorgeous box of flowers by Mrs. Douthitt, a handsome present from Miss Sallie Liles, of Birmingham, a pair of Berkshire pigs by Mrs. Glover, a present from Mr. Tom Foshee, and many other very serviceable presents too numerous to mention. This popular couple begans life with congratulations from a multitude of friends.

OBSERVER.

Ayer's Pills, being convenient, efficacious, and safe are the best cathartic, whether on land or sea, in city or country. For constipation, sick headache, indigestion and torpid liver, they never fail. Try a box of them; they are sugar-coated.

The Power of the Press.

"Up in my country," said a Congressman, "there is an old chap who lives on a farm three miles out. It was a nice farm, and old Hoxey had a tidy penny put by. But he has an overweening ambition to be a politician. Last fall he was nominated for county surveyor. As soon as the nomination was made he proceeded to fill up himself and the crowd. About 10 o'clock in the evening he announced his departure.

"Mush go home," he said. "Hic—'portant business to home. Good—hic—good even,' boyish. Mush tell M'ria of this nomination. Mee—hic—meecher on 'lection day. Whazzer mazzer wiz Hoxey? 'He's a'ri."

"He unhitched his span and after several futile efforts climbed into the Jackson wagon and started home. The docile horses knew the way and when he pulled them into the ditch in his weary efforts to increase their speed, would patiently climb back into the road and go on. Finally they wheeled into his yard and stopped by the kitchen door. Hoxey promptly tumbled out and crawled into the house where he called his wife. She had retired, but came out with candle in hand.

"M'ria," said he gravely, steadying himself by the table, "was ever any yer folks in prison?"

"Why, no, John. What's the matter?"

He waved her into silence.

"Washer—hic—washer fazzer hung?"

"No, indeed. He was as respec—"

"Jew ever—hic—M'ria—jew ever do anything wrong, for I—hic—'fore I married you?"

"Certainly not. Why do you ask such questions?"

"M'ria, I've been nominated for county surveyor, an' if you've ever done—done anything wrong it'll all be in the papers in sh' morning."—Washington Post.

Secrets.

Why is Westminster Abbey like a fire-place. It contains the ashes of the great.

What is it that will give a cold, cure a cold and pay the doctor's bill? A draught.

When should we read the book of nature? When Autumn turns the leaves.

If thirty-two is the freezing point, what is the squeezing point? Two in the shade.

Why are ships always called "shes?" Because the rigging costs more than the hull.

What two cities in France remind one of the trousers worn by dudes? Toulouse and Toulon.

Why was Noah like a hungry cat? He went forty days and forty nights without finding Ararat.

Why does a man's hair turn gray sooner than his moustache? Because it is about twenty-one years older.

What is the difference between a dog's tail and a rich man? One keeps a wagging and the other keeps a carriage.

How did Henry VIII. differ from other men as a suitor? He married his wives first and axed them afterwards.

Food For Thought.

Human happiness does not result from bodily excellence or riches, but is founded on uprightness of conduct.

You cannot prevent the birds of sadness from flying over your head, but you may prevent them from stopping to build their nests there.

Only the few favored by fortune can scale the rock of fame, but there is plenty of other work to be done by the multitude as good and true in its own way, if not so enduring.

Smile when you can, it may lighten a burden; you know not how many your brother must bear; know not how oftimes a bright smile may soften a heart that is ready to yield to despair.

What A Woman Can Do.

Some unknown philosopher thus essays to tell us what a woman can do, which a man need not essay or attempt, viz:

She can come to a conclusion without the slightest trouble of reasoning on it, and no sane man can do that.

Six of them can talk at once and get along first rate, and no two men can do that.

She can safely stick fifty pins in her dress while he is getting one under his thumb nail.

She is as cool as a cucumber in half a dozen tight dresses and skirts, while a man will sweat, and fume and growl in one loose shirt.

She can talk as sweet as peaches and cream to the woman she hates, while two men would be punching each other's heads before they had exchanged ten words.

She can throw a stone with a curve that would be a fortune to a base ball pitcher.

She can say "no," and stick to it for a time. She may also say "no" in such a low tone of voice that it really means "yes."

She can sharpen a lead pencil if you give her plenty of time and plenty of pencils.

She can dance all night in a pair of shoes two sizes too small for her and enjoy every minute of the time.

She can appreciate a kiss from her—husband seventy-five years after the marriage ceremony is performed.

She can go to church and afterwards tell you what every woman in the congregation had on, and, in some instances, can give you some faint idea of what the text was.

She can walk half the night with a colicky baby in her arms without once expressing the desire of murdering the infant.

She can—but what's the use? A woman can do anything or everything, and do it well.

Be Cheerful.

Laugh, and the world laughs with you;
Weep, and you weep alone.
This grand old earth must borrow its mirth—
It has trouble enough of its own.

Sing, and the hills will answer;
Sigh, it is lost on the air.
The echoes bound to a joyful sound,
But shrink from a voicing care.

Be glad, and your friends are many;
Be sad, and you lose them all.
There are none to decline your nectard wine,
But alone you must drink life's gall.

There is room in the halls of pleasure
For a long and lordly train;
But one by one we must all file on
Through the narrow aisles of pain.

Feast, and your halls are crowded;
Fast, and the world goes by.
Succeed and give—it will help you live,
But no one can help you die.

Rejoice, and men will seek you;
Grieve, and they turn and go.
They want full measure for all your pleasure,
But they do not want your woe.

Scrofula in Children.

The following is taken from a letter written under date of July 1, 1889, by Mrs. Ruth Berkley, a most charitable and Christian lady of Salina, Kan.: "In the early part of 1887, scrofula appeared on the head of my little grandchild, then only eighteen months old. Shortly after breaking out it spread rapidly all over her body. The scabs on the sores would peal off on the slightest touch, and the odor that would arise would make the atmosphere of the room sickening and unbearable. The disease next attacked the eyes and we feared she would lose her sight. Eminent physicians from the surrounding country were consulted, but could do nothing to relieve the little innocent, and gave it as their opinion, 'that the case was hopeless and impossible to save the child's eyesight.' It was then that we decided to try Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) That medicine at once made a speedy and complete cure. For more than a year past she has been as healthy as any child in the land."

FINAL PROOF NOTICE

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
September 10, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the Circuit Court, Clanton, Ala., on October 26, 1889, viz: Francis Peeples, Homestead 21358 for the s ½ of n w ¼, n ½ of s w ¼ sec 34 t 21 n, r 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Delson Driskill, Abraham Moore, Caldwell Choate, Mass Goodwin, all of Dixie, Ala.

sep19o J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

Tax Notice!

FIRST ROUND.

I will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and county taxes of Chilton county for the year 1889.

Mineral Springs	October	30
Jemison	"	31
Providence	"	29
Macedonia	November	4
Benson	"	5
Maplesville	"	6
R. Latham's	"	7
Dixie	"	8
Kincheon	"	12
Verbena	"	13
Cooper's	"	14
Clanton	"	15
Strasburg	"	16
Valley Creek Church	"	9
Clanton Ford	"	11

SECOND ROUND.

Mineral Springs	December	6
Jemison	"	7
Providence	"	8
Macedonia	"	9
Benson	"	10
Maplesville	"	11
R. Latham's	"	12
Dixie	"	13
Kincheon	"	17
Verbena	"	18
Cooper's	"	19
Valley Creek Church	"	14
Clanton Ford	"	16
Elijah Busby	"	4
John Archer's	"	5
Prim's School House	"	21

Clanton, December 23, 24, 26, 27, 28, 30 and 31.

B. M. GENTRY,
Tax Collector Chilton Co.

Catarrh

Is a blood disease. Until the poison is expelled from the system, there can be no cure for this loathsome and dangerous malady. Therefore, the only effective treatment is a thorough course of Ayer's Sarsaparilla—the best of all blood purifiers. The sooner you begin the better; delay is dangerous.

"I was troubled with catarrh for over two years. I tried various remedies, and was treated by a number of physicians, but received no benefit until I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. A few bottles of this medicine cured me of this troublesome complaint and completely restored my health."—Jesse M. Boggs, Holman's Mills, N. C.

"When Ayer's Sarsaparilla was recommended to me for catarrh, I was inclined to doubt its efficacy. Having tried so many remedies, with little benefit, I had no faith that anything would cure me. I became emaciated from loss of appetite and impaired digestion. I had nearly lost the sense of smell, and my system was badly deranged. I was about discouraged, when a friend urged me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and referred me to persons whom it had cured of catarrh. After taking half a dozen bottles of this medicine, I am convinced that the only sure way of treating this obstinate disease is through the blood."—Charles H. Maloney, 113 River st., Lowell, Mass.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Price $1; six bottles, $5. Worth $5 a bottle.

tma16

Jemison High School.

—:o:—

Good House, Well Furnished, Healthful Locality, Dry Sandy Roads, Good Board Cheap, Tuition Low, Maps, Globes, Charts, etc., Moral Community, Three Churches, No Whisky, Well Trained Teachers, Fine Success, Teachers Re-elected without a Dissenting Voice. Session opens Sept. 2d, 1889.

Apply to J. L. RUFFIN, JR.,
aug29 Principal.

CLANTON
HIGH SCHOOL.

—:o:—

This School will open Monday, Sept. the 2nd, 1889. Advantages the best in the county. Rates low, board and tuition $10 per month. Patronage is earnestly desired. For further information address me at Clanton, Ala.

Respectfully,
A. J. SCOTT, Principal.

W. W. C.
(Wooldridge's Wonderful Cure)

Is the greatest Blood Purifier ever yet discovered. It never fails to cure when taken according to directions. Read what it has done for Mr. A. Kimbrough:

COLUMBUS, GA., July 15, 1889.

Wooldridge Wonderful Cure Co., Columbus, Ga.

GENTS:—After suffering for twenty years with my kidneys, and finding only temporary relief, after taking various remedies, and consulting some of the most noted physicians in the country, at a cost of hundreds of dollars, for no good, I decided to try W. W. C., and I must confess that I am to-day as well as I ever was, and that I suffer no pain whatever from my kidneys, and am feeling better in every respect than I have for years, and I attribute it all to two bottles of W. W. C.; and I would advise all who suffer in the least with kidney or bladder troubles to give W. W. C. a trial. Yours truly,

A. KIMBROUGH.

WOOLDRIDGE'S WONDERFUL CURE is a sure Remedy for Syphilis, Syphilitic Rheumatism, Chronic Rheumatism, Skin Diseases, Bone Diseases, Old Sores, Bilious Troubles, Liver Diseases, Jaundice, Bilious Headache, Dyspepsia, and all Diseases caused from Impure and Poisoned Blood or Hereditary Disease.

For sale by all Druggists.

Manufactured by
Wooldridge Wonderful Cure Co.,
COLUMBUS, GA.
sep19 y

Wool Carding.

Our Cards are now running and doing good work. Bring or send your work to E. G. WALKER,
sep19 2m Montevallo, Ala.

Highest cash price paid for wool.

Barber Shop.

Mr. H. A. Logan, who has his barber shop in the Farmer's Alliance Building, solicits the patronage of the good people of Clanton. He does good work and is well fixed up for the business.

Remember
The View Job Office
When you want

First-class Job Printing done.

ALABAMA CENTRAL
FEMALE COLLEGE.

While the patronage of many other schools in the Town and State has diminished, the attendance at this College has increased 33 per cent. during the past Session. Literary, Scientific, Music and Art Departments under the direction of skillful teachers. Send for catalogue. 32nd Session opens September 18, 1889.
S. B. FOSTER, President, Tuskaloosa, Ala.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

Land Office, Montgomery, Ala.,
Sept. 12, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 28th, 1889, viz: Jeffie J. Scoggins, widow of Kinsley Bearden, deceased, homestead 14401 for the n e ¼ of s w ¼ and s e ¼ of n w ¼ sec 14, t 21 n, r 11 e. She names the following witnesses to prove her continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Ambrose Kinney, Calvin Hall, William H. Lawrence, and James D. McGee, all of Maplesville, Ala.

J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

The Lawson Carpet Co.

Birmingham, Ala.

Take pleasure in directing the attention of the people of Chilton county to their large and attractive stock of

Carpets, Oil-cloths, Window Shades,
Curtains & Household Novelties.

The Stock represented is the finest in Alabama, and prices are guaranteed as low as similar goods are offered in any of the eastern markets.

☞ All communications answered by return mail. Respectfully,

ma30-y THE LAWSON CARPET CO. (WM. LAWSON.)

BAINS & PORTER.

(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & PEEBLES.)

WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.

Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.

FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY

1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS

Birmingham, Ala.

☞ Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜

P. O. BOX 570. June 19 y

LOOK HERE!

New Stock! Low Prices!

—AT—

W. M. Wilson & Bro.'s

CLANTON, ALA.

We have opened a Large Stock of Dry Goods, Groceries and General Merchandise at our old Stand, and we have come to stay. We invite an inspection of our goods and prices.

☞ SHOES AND HATS A SPECIALTY. ☜

THOMAS FOSHEE,

(SUCCESSOR TO N. W. FOSHEE,)

—DEALER IN—

Dry Goods, Groceries

—AND—

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

Maplesville, Alabama.

I solicit a continuance of the liberal patronage heretofore extended our house. Respectfully,

feb 28-y THOMAS FOSHEE.

B. WOLFF'S
FURNITURE EMPORIUM,

20 and 22 Commerce and Corner Court and Coosa Streets,

—MONTGOMERY, ALA.—

CARRIES

The Largest and Cheapest Stock of Furniture

IN THE STATE.

sep11-6 ☞ When you come to the city, give me a call. ☜

WALL PAPER

WINDOW SHADES

MOULDINGS

—AND—

PRACTICAL PAPER HANGING

H. M. MANCHA,

204 DEXTER AVENUE, MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA.

☞ Papers furnished at any price from 10 cents up. Will send samples on application.

apr 11-

BIRMINGHAM MARBLE WORKS.

THOS. H. HOLT,

PRACTICAL WORKMAN

—AND DEALER IN—

American and Italian Marble

—Manufacturer of all kinds of—

CEMETERY MARBLE AND STONE WORK

Cor. Second Avenue and Twenty-Fourth Street,

Birmingham, Ala.

rpet Co.

Ala.

e attention of o their large

k of ow Shades,

l Novelties.

nd prices are guaranteed as markets.

Respectfully,

T CO. (Wm. Lawson.)

RTER.

EEBLES.)

GGISTS.

eceive Prompt At-

S A SPECIALTY

and 20th STREETS

Ala.

Company's Prices.

June 19 y

ERE!

ow Prices!

& Bro.'s

ALA.

, Groceries and General Me me to stay. We invite an d prices.

PECIALTY.

OSHEE,

FOSHEE,)

Groceries

CHANDISE

Alabama.

eral patronage heretofo fully,

THOMAS FOSHEE.

LLF'S

EMPORIUM,

Court and Coosa Streets.

, ALA.

IES

t Stock of Furnitu

STATE.

ty, give me a call.

PAPER,

WINDOW SHADES,

MOULDINGS

—AND—

PRACTICAL PAPER HA

ANCHA,

NTGOMERY, ALABAMA.

ice from 10 cents up. Will apr 11-

MARBLE WORKS.

I. HOLT,

WORKMA

ALER IN—

Italian Marb

of all kinds of —

AND STONE W

and Twenty-Fourth Street,

Alab

HILTON VIEW.

ANTON, ALA., OCT. 24, 1889.

View is published every Thurs- ...ning, and will endeavor to cov- the field of reputable country journ- It will show no quarter to the ...ful, the immoral or the ungodly. will always be good natured, al- ...gh it can bite if necessary.

...e answering advertisements will ...r a favor by mentioning this paper.

A cross mark (X) after your name ...s that your subscription is due and we would be glad to have you re-

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the ...d Monday in March and September continue three days.

Circuit—On the eleventh Monday ...r the fourth Monday in February, ...d on the thirteenth Monday after ...fourth Monday in August, and may ...tinue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term sec- ...d Monday in February and August, ...d first Monday in April and Novem- ... Special term second Monday in ...ly.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD. Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.
No. 1 Express at	5:55 a. m.
No. 3 Mail	5:37 p. m.
No. 5 (Passenger)	6:17 p. m.
No. 9 Accommodation	6:45 a. m.
GOING NORTH.
No. 2 Fast (Don't Stop)	2:20 a. m.
No. 6 Mail	9:13 a. m.
No. 4 Express	7:55 p. m.
No. 10 Accommodation	7:22 p. m.

LOCAL LACONICS.

Mr. W. ... Hanley will move his ...ily to Russelville, Ky.

Mr. A. C. Mims, of Kincheon ...ited Clanton last week.

Mrs. Yancey, of Georgia, is vis- ...ing relatives in Clanton.

Miss Burrows, of Sumter is vis- ...ing her sister, Mrs. L. Holt.

Mr. W. A. Collier was in Bir- ...ingham last week on business.

Mrs. A. F. Lewis, of Birmingham, visiting relatives in Clanton.

Miss Mary Brushwood, of Selma, visiting Mrs. Ehrman, of this place.

Mrs. H. M. Martin, of Union ...prings, is visiting relatives in Clanton.

Mr. Adam Schuessler, of Mont- ...omery, has been in town this week.

Mrs. Lou Nix and daughter, of Verbena, visited our town last Monday.

Miss Mattie Wright is visiting The Magic City and will be there some time.

Mrs. F. A. Hannon is visiting friends and relatives in Mont- gomery.

Miss Camilla Reid, of Mont- gomery, is visiting her sister, Mrs. W. H. Lawrence.

Mrs. W. L. Sampey has return- ed home after spending a pleasant week in Tuskegee.

Mr. A. A. Dyer, of Stanton, was in town Thursday last on busi- ness at the Probate office.

Little Wallace Simpson who suf- fered a great deal with an abscess on his side is improving.

Mr. Joe Davis, who has been very low at the residence of Mr. Wm. Wright, is improving.

Every bale of cotton brought to Clanton one day last week was wrapped in cotton bagging.

Rev. J. P. Sanders remained in Clanton until Monday night to visit members of his church.

Mr. Jonse L. Gardner, of Bibb, was in town Monday buying some Chilton county lands at Sheriff's sale.

Henry Williams and Miss Pool were married by Judge Callen at the Courthouse on Sunday night last.

The new lock boxes have been placed in position at the postoffice and the postmaster will soon get rich collecting rents at 50 cents a quarter.

The View is under obligations to Manager J. H. Harris for a sea- son ticket to the State Fair. The State Fair will this year eclipse all of its predecessors. It opened October 21.

New Goods.

W. L. Sampey has been receiv- ing some very nice goods lately and the prices are very reasonable. Shoes are crowded and need to be sold to get them out of the way. Some nice saddles are priced at very low figures. A few suits of Spring clothing will be sold at cost to make them go. Lots of little things have been added to the stock.

Clanton, Aug. 14, 1889.

Judge Dowdell is at his home at Lafayette prostrated with scarlet fever. The fall term of Coosa Circuit Court was postponed on that account.

Mr. J. E. Evans has purchased Miss Mary Brushwood's house and lot in Clanton. The next step on the program it is said will be even a better one.

We always enjoy stopping and having a chat with such an intelligent and accommodating gentleman as Dr. Caffey, of Jemison, as we did last Friday.

The Farmers Alliance and Knights of Labor will have a public dinner at Pleasant Grove M. P. Church, seven miles west of Clanton, to-morrow, the 26th inst.

Rev. Thos. H. Prim, of this county has gone to Indian Territory, as a missionary for the M. E. church. His address is Cameron, Choctaw Nation, Indian Territory.

In Mr. O. A. Duke's front yard just in rear of the View office is a young Japan persimmon tree. The fruit resembles the common persimmon very much but is as large as an apple.

The delegation of Confedeate Veterans from Chilton county will leave Clanton on the 28th so as to be at the first of the meeting in Birmingham on the 29th, and assist in the organization of the State Association.

The Baptists had a very success- protracted meeting, which lasted more than a week. Rev. A. E. Burns was assisted by Rev. Catt. Smith. The meeting was closed last Thursday night. It is to be hoped that all of the members have been revived.

Messrs. Geo. W. Cook & Co., the Montgomery wholesale and retail grocers, have a card in the View. Their groceries are the best that can be had. They are now on commerce street, convenient to the Union depot, and parties visiting the city will find this the place to buy good groceries, either by wholesale or retail.

One of the secrets of successful living is the steadiness of aim and and the resolution of will by which one bends circumstances or events to the working out of his own purpose; the other great secret of life is hearty, intelligent and complete submission to its conditions and to all that it brings.

Married, at the residence of the bride's parents, in Clanton, on the 23d inst., by Rev. J. P. Sanders, Mr. J. A. Forsyth, of Jasper, Ala., and Miss Dalee Thornton, of Clanton. Immediately after the ceremony the young couple took the train for their new home at Jasper. The View tosses the customary old shoe after them, and wishes them all manner of prosperity.

A negro was brought to Clanton on Monday charged with threatening to rape a young white woman, daughter of Mr. Henry Mahan, in the Jumbo neighborhood. He was committed to jail. It appears that he disclosed his hellish designs to another negro whose aid he hoped to obtain, telling him that the young lady would pass through the woods in company with another lady at a certain time. The second darkey reported the matter to Mr. Davis, Mr. Mahan's partner, and negro number one was soon under arrest. Mr. Mahan says his first impulse was to let the negro attempt to carry out his threat and kill him on the spot, but this was abandoned and the scoundrel arrested and brought to jail.

Notice.

Notice is hereby given to all interested in schools in township 22, range 14, to meet at the courthouse in Clanton on Monday the 28th inst., at 10 o'clock a. m. to determine the number of school in the township and the location.

W. E. STEWART,
Township Superintendent.

Cured His Little Boy.

My little boy had impurities of the blood that were of a scrofulous nature, which resulted in the breaking out of an abscess on the hip. I gave him Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) It purified his blood and restored his health. As a blood purifier it certainly has no equal.

FELIX SINK, Salem, N. C.

Treatise on Blood and Skin Diseases mailed free.

SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

Success in life is the result of push and energy. If the blood is impure and sluggish, both body and mind lack vigor. To cleanse and vitalize the blood and impart new life to the system, nothing else has such a marvelous effect as Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Bring your job printing to this office.

HERMAN HERZFELD,

—DEALER IN—

All Kinds of Furniture at all Prices.

Parlor and Bed-Room Suits, Carpets, Oil Cloths, Mattings, Blankets, Comforts and Lace Goods.

Everything necessary in the House-Furnishing Goods Line.

NINETEENTH STREET, BETWEEN FIRST AND SECOND AVENUES

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

—Office of—

FARMERS'

Alliance Exchange

UNION WAREHOUSE.

MONTGOMERY, ALA., Sept. 16, 1889.

DEAR SIR:—We invite your attention to our large and commodious Warehouses near the Union Passenger Depot in rear of the Windsor Hotel in this city. We are prepared to store or sell cotton to the best advantage and to fully protect the planters' interest by always obtaining the highest market price on day of sale. Our rates of storage are cheaper than any other Warehouse in the city from the fact that we charge no drayage where cotton is shipped by rail or boat.

We have every protection against fire that is possible to be had, and are above high water. We make liberal advances on cotton in store.

Your patronage is respectfully solicited.

JNO. S. BIRD, Business Manager.

Attention Farmers!

THIS IS A FARMER'S WAREHOUSE UNDER THE CONTROL OF FARMERS WHO ARE DETERMINED TO HANDLE THEIR OWN COTTON AND TO FREE THEMSELVES FROM THE CHARGES THEY HAVE BEEN COMPELLED TO PAY.

Farmers' Co-Operative Association!

THE CHARGES FOR HANDLING COTTON WILL BE FIFTY CENTS PER BALE FOR THE FIRST MONTH AND TWENTY-FIVE CENTS FOR EACH SUCCEEDING MONTH. CONSULT YOUR INTEREST AND STORE YOUR COTTON IN THE SOUTHERN WAREHOUSE.

NO COMMISSION FOR SELLING, AND NO CHARGES FOR DRAYAGE OR RE-WEIGHING. FREE WAGON YARD. THE ALLIANCE MEN OF CHILTON COUNTY ARE RECOMMENDED TO DEAL WITH US.

W. H. LAWSON, GENERAL MANAGER,

MONTGOMERY, ALA.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 11, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver of the U. S. Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., on December 12, 1889, viz: John Burmister, homestead 10141, for the s e ¼ of n e ¼, e ½ of s e ¼, n w ¼ of s e ¼ sec 28 t 20 n r 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: E. H. Smith Thomas Cox, G. C. Carwile and C. D. A. Deramus, all of Verbena, Ala.

oct 17o J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

Register's Sale.

M. V. Northcut, Complainant vs. John W. Allen, Defendant. Chancery Court.

By virtue of a decree rendered at the Fall Term A. D. 1889, of the Chancery Court at Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama, in said cause, I shall proceed to sell to the highest and best bidder, for cash, at Public Auction at the Courthouse door in Clanton, within the legal hours of sale

On Monday, the 18th of November, 1889

the following described real estate to-wit: The n w ¼ of section 8, and the n e ¼ of s w ¼ of section 8, all in township 23, range 14 east, lying and being in the county of Chilton, State of Alabama, to satisfy said decree.

W. E. STEWART,
Oct. 16th, 1889. Register.

Subscribe for the View.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Sep. 10, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 26, 1889, viz: John D. Campbell, Homestead entry 19401 for the s e ¼ of sec 32 t 21 n r 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: James I. Cox, E. J. Milling, Frank Harris and Henry Friday, all of Dixie, Ala.

sep19c J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

Register's Sale.

Mary C. Gammon, Adm'r, &c., Complainant. vs. George Martin, Defendant. Chancery court.

By virtue of a decree rendered at the Fall Term A. D., 1889, of the Chancery Court, at Clanton, Chilton County, Alabama, in said cause, I shall proceed to sell to the highest and best bidder for cash, at Public Auction, at the Courthouse door in Clanton, within the legal hours of sale

On Monday, the 18th of November, 1889

the following described real estate to-wit: The s w ¼ of s e ¼ of section 11, township 23 range 13, lying and being situated in Chilton county, Alabama, to satisfy said decree.

W. E. STEWART,
Oct. 16th, 1889. Register.

Insure in the Commercial Fire Insurance Co. of Montgomery.

A. E. BIVINGS,

—DEALER IN—

DRUGS, AND Medicines,

FAMILY Groceries, ETC.

Clanton, Alabama.

I can furnish you anything you may wish in the way of DRUGS AND MEDICINES. I also handle THE BEST GROCERIES TO BE HAD, and you will find my prices to suit the times. [mar20]

BUY YOUR

PIANOS and ORGANS

—FROM—

GRAMBS & BUCHANAN,

—2107 SECOND AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—

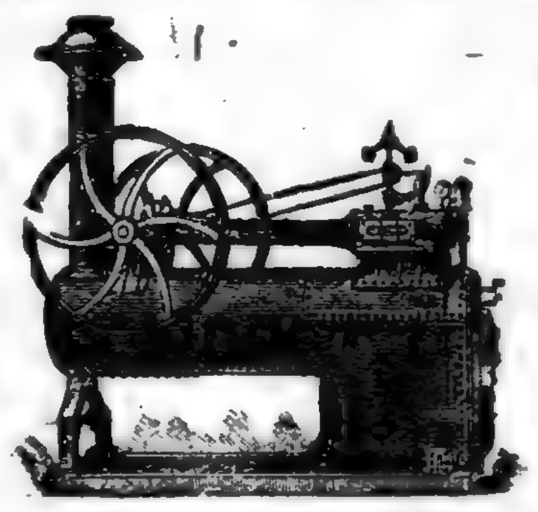
THE VERY LOWEST CASH PRICES, or on easy installments. Sohmer, Cranich & Bach, Gabler, Wheelock and Newby & Evans Pianos, and the world renowned Wilcox & White organs. Mail orders for sheet music or musical merchandise given prompt attention.

Write for Catalogue. jul18

When ordering please state in what paper you saw our advertisement.

CRELLIN & NALLS,

BOILER MAKERS



Copper and Sheet Iron Workers

Chimneys, Tanks, and Repairing of All Kinds.

Saw Mill Work a Specialty.

AVENUE C AND TWENTY-SECOND STREET, SOUTHSIDE,

Birmingham, Ala.

mar21 y

GEO. W. COOK & CO.,

Wholesale and Retail

Dealers in Staple and Fancy Groceries, Fruits, Produce, Wines, Liquors. Our pure unpainted Roasted Coffee, and Manufacturers of High Grade pure Stick Candy, all of which we sell by the pound, package or car load. Sole agents for the Celebrated Bethesda Water.

37 COMMERCE STREET,

Montgomery, Alabama.

oct17-tf

MONTGOMERY IRON WORKS.

MACHINISTS & FOUNDERS

Dealers in Fittings, Supplies and Machinery OF ALL KINDS.

MAKERS OF ENGINES, CANE MILLS, COTTON SEED CRUSHERS, SAW MILLS, LIVE ROLLS, LOG HAULUPS, &c.

ESPECIAL ATTENTION TO WANTS OF SAW MILL MEN

nov 8-y

INSURE WITH

The Commercial Fire Insurance Company,

Montgomery, Alabama.

Capital $100,000. Surplus $146,578.

Directors:—P. J. Anderson, C. A. Lanier, H. C. Tompkins, A. M. Kennedy, M. P. LeGrand, S. C. Marks, J. H. Clisby, C. W. Buckley, Frank Duncan.

W. H. Lawrence, Agt., Clanton.

Roberts & Son,

Steam Printers and Binders,

1918 FIRST AVENUE, BET. 19th & 20th STREETS,

Birmingham, Ala.

BLANK BOOKS TO ORDER. WORK PROMPTLY DELIVERED.

dec5 ay

1869 1890

S. C. MARKS, P. H. S. GAYLE, WM. A. GAYLE.

MARKS & GAYLE,

The Montgomery Warehouse.

Just back of the Exchange Hotel. Very convenient to the business centre, and close to the Fire Department.

ALL COTTON CAREFULLY WEIGHED & HANDLED.

Bagging and Ties at Lowest Rates.

We will take pleasure in forwarding orders for Cotton Bagging for our customers, charging them actual cost for same, free from any profit whatever to ourselves.

Montgomery, Ala.

FREE WAGON YARD THE YEAR ROUND.

A. M. RAMBO,

DENTIST.

VERBENA, ALA.

Will respond to calls along railroad between Calera and Deatsville

[mal5 y]

S. P. TRESSLAR,

Photographer,

10 COURT SQUARE,

Montgomery.

Photographs on Silk, Satin and Linen, Photographs on watch dials.

Portraits in Crayon, Pastile, India Ink and Water Colors.

All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.

Correspondence solicited.

Always glad to have you call at the gallery, and examine specimens of the work on exhibition.

[jan21-tf]

J. H. SHEPHERD

THE LEADING

PHOTOGRAPHER

—OF—

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE (Between 19th and 20th Sts.)

Photographs of All Kinds Work Done in the BEST STYLE.

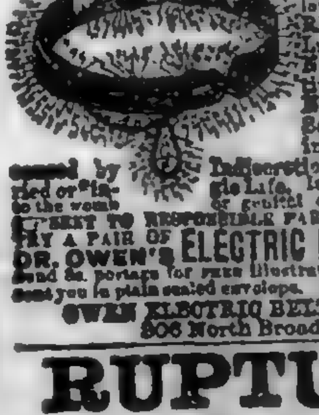
Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

DR. OWEN'S

ELECTRIC BELT

AND SUSPENSORY.

PATENTED AUG. 16, 1887. IMPROVED JULY 30, 1889.



DR. OWEN'S ELECTRO-GALVANIC BODY BELT AND SUSPENSORY are guaranteed to cure the following diseases, namely: All Rheumatic Complaints, Lumbago, General and Nervous Debility, Costiveness, Kidney Diseases, Nervousness, Trembling, Sexual Exhaustion, Wasting of Body, Diseases caused by Indiscretions in Youth, Age, Married or Single Life. In fact all diseases pertaining to the womb or genital organs of male or female. SENT TO RESPONSIBLE PARTIES ON 30 DAYS TRIAL. TRY A PAIR OF DR. OWEN'S ELECTRIC INSOLES. Send 6c. postage for free illustrated pamphlet, which will be sent you in plain sealed envelope. Mention this paper. Address OWEN ELECTRIC BELT & APPLIANCE CO., 306 North Broadway, ST. LOUIS, MO.

RUPTURE!

ELECTRIC BELT AND TRUSS COMBINED.

DR. ISRAEL'S ELECTRO-GALVANIC TRUSS, with Dr. Owen's Electric Belt Attachment. This truss can be worn with ease and comfort. The current can be made mild or strong. This is the only combined electric truss and belt ever made. It will cure Rupture in from 30 to 90 days. For full description of Dr. Owen's Electro-Galvanic Belts, Spinal Appliances, Trusses and Insoles send 6c. for free illustrated pamphlet which will be sent you in plain sealed envelope. Sold only by the OWEN ELECTRIC BELT & APPLIANCE CO., 306 North Broadway, ST. LOUIS, MO.

sep 5

HERBINE

After ten years exclusive sale, can now be obtained of all Druggists and Dealers in Medicines. It CURES—take notice—not simply relieves but CURES LIVER COMPLAINT, Biliousness and Dyspepsia.

Is a strictly vegetable preparation and will CURE MALARIA, and all MALARIAL troubles.

Dr. S. H. Wise, of Boston, Ky., says: "Have practiced medicine 15 years, and find no equal to HERBINE as a Liver Regulator."

Dr. W. A. Baker, of Madison, Fla., says: "A bottle of HERBINE is worth more than $5.00 worth of Quinine in any family."

Acting on the Liver in a different way from any other medicine; it is a positive cure for Chronic Constipation and is cheaper than [illegible]

Its peculiar composition is such, that we guarantee to cure any case of Chills and Fever or Bilious Fever with one bottle.

It costs but 75 cents and each bottle contains over 40 average doses, making the cost less than two cents a dose. Would you ask for cheaper medicine? It is not a cure-all. But will cure any Liver, Bilious or Malarial Complaint. Manufactured by

The Herbine Co.,

(Successors to Wm Condell.) St. Louis, Mo.

mar 14-y

PISO'S CURE FOR

TWENTY-FIVE CENTS

Piso's Cure for Consumption is also the best Cough Medicine.

If you have a Cough without disease of the Lungs, a few doses are all you need. But if you neglect this easy means of safety, the slight Cough may become a serious matter, and several bottles will be required.

CONSUMPTION

Piso's Remedy for Catarrh gives immediate relief. Catarrhal virus is soon expelled from the system, and the diseased action of the mucous membrane is replaced by healthy secretions.

The dose is small. One package contains a sufficient quantity for a long treatment.

CATARRH

A Cold in the Head is relieved by an application of Piso's remedy for Catarrh. The comfort to be got from it in this way is worth many times its cost.

Easy and pleasant to use.

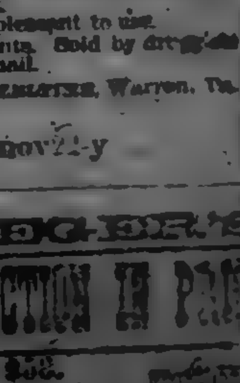
Price, 50 cents. Sold by druggists or sent by mail.

E. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.

nov22-y

ALLEGER'S

GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES!



FROM $85. to $50.

This Elegant Parlor Organ, style 56, containing 5 octaves, 4 sets of reeds, 10 stops, 2 knee swells, Stool and Book free. For only $42.00. With right and left coupler. "Warranted for 6 years."

[illegible]

H. W. ALLEGER,

[illegible]

WOMAN'S WORLD.

PLEASANT LITERATURE FOR FEMININE READERS.

THINGS A WOMAN CAN DO.

The Boston Times in a spirit of fairness admits and even proclaims that there are some desirable things a woman can do. Here is a sample batch:

She can come to a conclusion without the slightest trouble of reasoning on it, and no sane man can do that.

Six of them can talk at once and get along first rate and no two men can do that.

She can safely stick fifty pins in her dress while he is getting one under his thumb nail.

She is cool as a cucumber in a half-dozen tight dresses and skirts, while a man will perspire and fume and growl in one loose shirt.

She can throw a stone with a curve that would be a fortune to a baseball pitcher.

She can say "no" in such a low voice that it means "yes."

She can sharpen a lead pencil if you give her plenty of time and plenty of pencils.

She can dance all night in a pair of shoes two sizes two small for her and enjoy every minute of the time.

She can appreciate a kiss from her husband seventy-five years after the marriage ceremony is performed.

She can go to church and afterward tell you what every woman in the congregation had on, and in some rare instances can give you some faint idea of what the text was.

She can walk half the night with a colicky baby in her arms, without once expressing the desire of murdering the infant.

She can do more in a minute than a man can do in an hour and do it better.

She can drive a man crazy in twenty-four hours and then bring him to paradise in two seconds by simply tickling him under the chin, and there does not live that mortal son of Adam's misery who can do it.

SOME NOTED WOMEN.

Blakely Hall in Once a Week, says: It is rather odd to note how few women in the world attain fame, considering the capabilities of the sex in mental equipment and the wide field now open to feminine endeavor. I do not mean to use the word fame as illustrated by such names as Milton, Shakespeare, or Cæsar, but in the more modest acceptation—the five B's, for instance, Blaine, Bismarck, Balfour, Battenberg, and Boulanger. The names of a lot of women who enjoy, or have enjoyed, a species of young notoriety, turn up at the moment. But there is nothing substantial about them. Take the whole school of female novelists who have been turning out absurd and nervous summer books of late as an illustration. The latest news from Gertrude Atherton is that she has entered a convent at Boulogne, while Amelia Rives, since the comparative failure of her absolutely pure book, is giving her attention to society in France, and has dropped out of sight. The Laura Danitrys and Laura Jean Libbys continue to turn out hysterical effusions, but they occupy the same place in literature that Belva Lockwood does in politics, and that Dr. Mary Walker has achieved in medicine. I refer now only to women who are alive to-day, and who may be said to play an active part in the work of the world.

New York is not well supplied with feminine celebrities, though women of more or less notoriety occasionally attract the gaze of an eye or two at the theatre or in the street. The publisher of a newspaper recently decided to give sketches of the lives of ten famous men and ten famous women of America. He showed me the list, consisting of the names of Blaine, Lowell, Edison, Gould, Harrison, Cleveland, Jefferson Davis, Bancroft, Vanderbilt, and Edwin Booth. It struck me as being a rather faulty collection of names, but there were long arguments in support of every one. On the woman's list the only names were Harriett Beecher Stowe, Mary Anderson, Ella Wheeler Wilcox, and Mrs. Mackay. He could get no further than this.

FASHION NOTES.

Gloves are in great variety this season, not so much in material as in shape and style.

Despite all predictions to the contrary, the Directoire redingote will be as popular as ever.

White silk and lace parasols have an air that is not truly rural, but which is becoming to light and jaunty costumes nevertheless.

Very striking plaids have a silk surface thrown up above a soft wool foundation, most of them in Madras colors.

Barbe de Cluny is a new lace for trimming dresses. It may be had in black or white, heavy or light. It has not straight edge but is scalloped on both sides.

Black gowns are generally relieved with touches of color here and there. Embroidery in soft, dull cashmere tints is the best thing wherewith to brighten them.

A foreign contemporary makes note of a Directoire costume of stone gray cloth, on which a hundred yards of real silver braid had been worked up in floral designs.

The Watteau flat of fine, yellow Leghorn, shaped wide in front and narrow at the back, with many dents and bends and a big wreath of flowers, is the hat of the season.

Where well used, trimmings are as effective as the narrow feather edge, baby ribbon so much used upon lace hats and bonnets. It needs light, yet firm handling, lacking which the result is fairly appalling.

Of the fifty white stuffs now to be found on the counters of large houses, quite the newest and most unique is silk muslin enwoven with single threads of white wool, or else embroidered with the same substance.

A carriage road to the top of Pikes Peak has just been completed. It begins at Cascade Cañon, and extends sixteen miles, until it reaches the very summit of the mountain, 14,147 feet above the level of the sea. There is one point, Grand View, where at an altitude of 10,000 feet one can see the smoke of [illegible] Manitou Pass [illegible]

GEMS OF WISDOM.

Life is a crucible; we are thrown into it and tried.

Labor rids us of three evils—tediousness, vice and poverty.

Quarrels would never last long if the trouble was only on one side.

The man who can support himself is always on top of his obligations.

Remember impertinence isn't wit, any more than insolence is brilliancy.

Our greatest glory is not in never falling, but rising every time we fall.

That action is best which procures the greatest happiness for the greatest numbers.

Our grand business is not to see what lies dimly at a distance, but to do what lies clearly at hand.

We go and fancy that everybody is thinking of us, but he is not; he is, like us, thinking of himself.

It requires great talent to affect extravagant, manners, but the gem of originality is simplicity, which no talent can imitate.

Some one has well said that while we can not control our circumstances, yet we can control what we shall do in the circumstances.

Pride, like the magnet, constantly points to one object, self; but, unlike the magnet, it has no attractive pole, but at all points repels.

Men do things which their fathers would have deprecated, and then draw about themselves a flimsy cordon of sophistry, and talk about the advance of humanity and liberal thought, when it is nothing after all but a preference for individual license.

A certain amount of opposition is a great help to a man. Kites rise against, and not with the wind. Even a head wind is better than none. No man ever worked his passage anywhere in a dead calm. Let no man wax pale, therefore, because of opposition.

Antiquity of Irrigation.

Irrigation, it need scarcely be said, is no new thing. Tradition asserts that Noah constructed a zanja from Mount Ararat to water his vineyard, and it is probably true that in nearly all Oriental countries, extending far back into prehistoric times, canals and aqueducts were built to convey water long distances to fertilize extensive desert wastes. This part of the subject, indeed, is very extensive, not merely because it deals with a very ancient art, and one very widely practiced, but because the materials are very varied, and in many cases difficult of interpretation.

We know little of the history of the extinct civilizations which preceded the culture of the classic ages, says Professor Marsh, and no nation has in modern times spontaneously emergrd from barbarism and created for itself the arts of social life. The improvements of the savage races whose history we can distinctly trace are borrowed and imitative, and our theories as to the origin and natural development of industrial art are conjectural. Of course, the relative antiquity of particular branches of human industry depends much upon the natural character of soil, climate and spontaneous vegetable and animal life in different countries; and while the geographical influence of man would, under given circumstances, be exerted in one direction, it would, under different conditions, act in an opposite or diverging line. Man's first interference with the natural arrangement and disposal of the waters of this world was in all probability, in the way of drainage of surface. But if we are to judge from existing remains alone, we should probably conclude that irrigation is older than drainage; for, in the regions regarded by general tradition as the cradle of the human race, we find traces of canals evidently constructed for the former purpose at a period long preceding the ages of which we have any written memorials. There are in ancient Armenia extensive districts which were already abandoned to desolation at the earliest historical epoch, but which in a yet remote antiquity had been irrigated by a complicated and highly artificial system of canals, the lines of which can still be followed; and there are in all the highlands where the sources of the Euphrates rise, in Persia, in Egypt, in India and in China, works of this sort which must have been in existence before man had begun to record his own annals.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Mending Extraordinary.

In these days stockings cost so little, and time has become so valuable that it pays better to replace the old with new as soon as the former begins to show signs of wear; and so, stocking mending has nearly gone out of fashion. But there are still situations where it may be necessary. Listen to the ingenious way in which a South American traveler contrived to mend his hose without taking a stitch. In the Brazilian woods are quantities of a tree called the Mangaba, the milk or sap of which has many of the properties of that of the true India rubber tree, and may some day be used in its place. By spreading some of this thick milk on a piece of cloth slightly larger than the area of the hole to be repaired, filling the stocking with sand or sticking the prepared cloth over the hole, and then coagulating the milk by the addition of a little acid, the rent place has been rendered stronger than any other part of the stocking, for it will never come off. Clothes of all kinds, including boots and rubber cloaks, are patched in the same ready and serviceable way.—American Agriculturist.

Flapping of Insect Wings.

The slow flapping of the butterfly's wings is perfectly noiseless, but more rapid movements of insect wings produce sounds increasing in shrillness with the number of vibrations. Sir John Lubbock has shown by some of his later observations that the wings of the housefly give the sound F, and vibrate 20,100 times a minute, or 335 times a second; and those of the bee yield the sound A, vibrating as many as 26,400 times a minute, or 440 times a second, though a tired bee may hum on E, making only 330 vibrations a second. Marey has confirmed these theoretical numbers by placing a fly so that at each vibration the tip of his wing made a mark on a moving cylinder, the actual record being 330 strokes a second.

In consequence of the decline in the supply of gum arabic the postoffice department has been obliged to abandon its use on a number of letter envelopes. In lieu of gum arabic a [illegible] tasting compound has been substituted.

AGRICULTURAL.

TOPICS OF INTEREST RELATIVE TO FARM AND GARDEN.

THE HARVEST HOME.

There's a fragrance in the air,
Distilled from new mown hay,
There are notes of music rare
From feathered songsters gay.

All nature now is teeming
With busy, active life—
No time for idle dreaming
While harvest time is rife.

The reaper and the mower
A merry chorus sing,
As now the erstwhile sower
The "Harvest Home" doth bring.

So day by day we're sowing here
Seeds for the harvest time.
If wisely, surely will appear
Fruitage, in deeds sublime!

But if in sinful pleasure
Our early lives are passed
Sorrow, in deepest measure,
Will fill our cup at last.
—A. M. Waldron, in Western Rural.

COMPACT THE WHEAT GROUND.

Wheat succeeds best in a compact seed bed; one in which the particles are not fused into masses, but in which they are distinct and in close contact. Hence, in the preparation of ground for wheat, the roller and harrower should be used as much to compact the seed bed as to pulverise the clods. In such a seed bed there is greatest capillarity; moisture and heat are most generally and equably diffused through the ground. Each grain of seed is likely to find those conditions essential to germination, and the plants those favorable to growth. When the wheat is sown there is often a deficiency of moisture in the upper soil; but if the seed bed has great capillarity, moisture will be lifted from it. In a compact seed-bed there are no holes in which water can collect, and the capillary condition prevents an excess of moisture about the roots. The wheat plant is doubtless injured by stagnant water about its roots, and this is also chiefly responsible for the serious heaving out of wheat by frost. In a compact seed bed the roots also get a surer hold than when they must cling to the sides of holes or crevices. Finally, such a seed bed most readily yields plant food, and the plant can make a stronger growth against frost and insects, or more readily recover from their attacks.—American Agriculturist.

APPLES FOR FEEDING STOCK.

The use of apples for feeding stock was more general last year than ever before, because there was no other way to dispose of them. Farmers have in most cases believed that apples had little or no feeding value, and thousands of bushels have gone to waste on the ground when the owners had abundant stock to consume them. There have been instances, of course, where cows have broken into orchards and gorged themselves with unripe fruit, and the same is true of grain chests; but that does not prove that either are not useful when used in moderation. One man in town fed a colt all last fall principally on apples. No grain was used, and it was estimated that this colt made a gain of 100 pounds in weight. Other farmers found nothing increased the flow of milk so much as a moderate supply of apples. One man says he made a gain of ten quarts of milk per day by feeding four and a half bushels of apples to eight cows, which makes a gain of forty-six quarts to the cow. Dr. Goessmann finds that the analysis of apple pomace indicates a feeding value nearly equal to that of corn ensilage.

Has not the time arrived when apple pomace will have a value as certain as any other feeding material? To those who never fed their stock apples, I would say try it and see if you cannot get as good results as you can by carrying them to the cider mills.—New England Homestead.

DON'T FEAR THE BEES.

Just before swarming bees fill themselves with honey, which supports them in their new home until they get to work again. This is an exceedingly fortunate thing for the beekeeper, as it makes them much more kindly and easily handled than they otherwise would be. With bees, as with men, they are best natured when on a full stomach. In the colder portions of the country protecting the hives is necessary, either by placing them in cellars or packing in chaff; in milder sections and in the South they will pass the winter well on the summer stands. In handling bees fearlessness is a wonderful protection. A person who fights them or tries to drive them away is quite sure to be stung. Still, it must be admitted that there is something about persons that gives to a few immunity from bee sting that others cannot obtain.

The safest way for the average beekeeper is to protect one's self as well as possible by the dress. Use a smoker and proceed as you would about any other work, taking care not to crush or injure a bee. Occasionally a colony will attack a horse that has been driven or led too near their stand. When this occurs they often exhibit a vindictiveness and perseverance that is not only wonderful but dangerous. Horses that have been heated by driving and become sweaty are more obnoxious to them than the same animals would be when in their normal condition, grazing near the hive.

FARM AND GARDEN NOTES.

Don't forget to fix that hinge to the pasture gate.

It takes a man, in the strongest sense of the word, to be a farmer.

Remember that an extra girl in the kitchen for a few days, often prevents the doctor from calling for several days.

How much more delightful rural life would appear, and how much the drudgery of farming would be lightened, if only the outward surroundings of the home were made attractive.

Peter Henderson said in a recent public address that no one should engage in market gardening after passing middle life, nor one who has a feeble constitution, for to be prosecuted successfully the owner must put his own shoulder to the wheel.

This demon of waste is the fiend that is eating out the profits of our farmers. Keeping unprofitable cows, feeding weather-beaten fodder, and doing everything in the most expensive manner, and then wasting their breath, calling themselves practical.

Early hatched pullets will soon be laying, and will be laying steadily all winter with proper attention. As they are now growing they require more food than old hens. Feed them separately; if allowed to run together the old stock will [illegible] too [illegible] the pullets too [illegible]

HOUSEHOLD MATTERS.

RICE CREAM PUDDING.

Put half a cup of rice on to boil in a pint of cold water, boil twenty minutes, drain, cover with a pint of milk, and boil half an hour longer. Whip a quart of cream, and stand in a cold place until wanted. Press the rice through a wire sieve and put back in the saucepan. Beat the yolks of four eggs with a cup and a half of sugar until light, then mix with the rice, stir well and set on the stove until it begins to thicken. Take from the fire, flavor with vanilla, and pour out to cool. When cold, put into a freezer and freeze. When frozen, stir in the whipped cream, remove the dasher, pack in ice, and stand away to harden. Serve in saucers with sugared oranges or soft peaches.

PUREE OF STRING BEANS.

Make a strong stock the day before it is needed of a knuckle of veal, three quarts of water, a generous slice of salt pork, and two or three slices of onion. Let it simmer for five hours; then pour it through a sieve into a jar; before using scrape off all the fat. Ten minutes before dinner, put into a saucepan two ounces of butter, and when it bubbles sprinkle in two heaping tablespoonfuls of flour; let this cook without coloring; then add a cupful of hot cream, one pint of the heated stock, and one pint of green string bean pulp; i. e., either fresh or canned string beans, boiled tender with a little pork, then pressed through a colander and freed from juice. After mixing all together, do not let the soup boil, or it will curdle and spoil. Stir it constantly while on the fire.

POACHED EGGS WITH SAUCE.

Eggs are best poached in a deep frying pan three parts full of boiling water, to which a tablespoonful of strong vinegar and a teaspoonful of salt has been added; small muffin rings may be laid in the pan and each egg carefully broken into it. Three minutes are usually enough to cook them in gently boiling water. Slip a perforated skimmer or cake turner under the muffin ring and egg, lift both out together, and slip both on a half slice of buttered toast, then remove the ring; no attempt should be made to poach more than three or four at a time, nor any but very fresh eggs to be used.

Make a sauce as follows: Melt a tablespoonful of butter and one of flour over the fire till they bubble; pour half a pint of hot milk quickly to it, stirring well all the time till it boils; have ready a teaspoonful of finely chopped parsley and a half one of chives or a young spring onion; add to the sauce with a saltspoonful of salt; let them boil five minutes and pour it over the eggs and toast.

MAYONNAISE DRESSING.

The first requisite for making mayonnaise is perfect coldness of utensils and materials. The eggs, oil, vinegar, bowl and egg-beater should be on the ice for an hour or more before they are used. When the work is begun, the bowl in which the mixing is to be done should be set in a pan of ice-water, in the coolest corner of the kitchen. The yolks of two eggs, drained clear of the whites, should be dropped into the bowl, and mingled with a few turns of the egg-beater. To these must now be added a couple of drops, no more, of the best salad oil, and these must be stirred in with a full minute's revolution of the beater. Two more drops, another minute's whipping, and so on for ten minutes. Then the quantity of oil may be increased to five or six drops at a time. Be careful to beat vigorously between these additions. Soon the mixture will begin to thicken, and now the oil may be put in by the teaspoonful, whipping it thoroughly, until the mayonnaise has reached such a consistency that the egg-beater moves with difficulty. A teaspoonful of vinegar thins it a little, and then more oil is added. Thus the work goes on until the requisite amount of dressing; of the thickness of very rich cream; is ready. A pint of oil may be used to every egg, and vinegar enough to keep the mayonnaise at the desired consistency. At the last, salt to taste, and a little white pepper may be stirred in, and the whole is then to be set on the ice until it is needed.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Ice can be easily broken into bits by using a needle or pin and gently pounding it.

Clean brasses on mahogany or other furniture by rubbing with chamois skin dipped in either powdered whiting or rotten stone mixed with sweet oil.

Willow furniture that has not been stained or painted, can be washed with salt and water and a brush; dry thoroughly before exposing it to dust.

For inexpensive bands for curtains, take strips of cretonne with very pretty vines or figures and outline them with tinsel; it has the effect of old tapestry work.

To set delicate colors in embroidered handkerchiefs, soak them ten minutes previous to washing in a pail of tepid water, in which a dessertspoonful of turpentine has been well stirred.

Salt sprinkled on any substance burning on the stove will stop the smoke and smell. Salt thrown upon coals blazing from the fat of broiling chops or ham will cause the blaze to subside.

An excellent way of cooking eggs is to break them in boiling milk, without beating, cook slowly, stirring now and then. When done soft, pour into a dish and add a little pepper, salt and butter.

Coffee pounded in a mortar and roasted on an iron plate, sugar burned on hot coals and vinegar boiled with myrrh and sprinkled on the floor and furniture of a sick room are excellent deodorizers.

Cleaning-rags, with which metal may quickly be polished, consist of a woolen rag saturated with soap and tripoli. They are prepared in the following manner: Four grains soap are dissolved in water, twenty grains tripoli are added to the solution. A piece of cloth of about twenty-four inches long by four inches broad is soaked in this and left to dry.

When washing windows dissolve a small quantity of washing soda in the water, if the glass is dimmed with smoke or dirt. Do not let the water run on the sash, but wash each pane with a piece of flannel; dry quickly with a soft clean towel and wipe out the corners carefully. Polish with a piece of common chamois skin or newspaper that has been softened by rubbing between the hands.

POPULAR SCIENCE.

There were 13,315 applications for the registration of trade marks in England last year.

The total weight of the great thirty-six-inch telescope at the Lick Observatory is forty tons.

The metre is the French standard of measurement, and is equal to about forty inches; or, to be exact, 39.37079.

Mr. Oscar Montelius estimates that the stone age ended 3500 years ago in Sweden, where it reached a very high development.

Every electric motor manufactory in the United States is said to be crowded to its utmost capacity to meet the demands for electric power.

The transmission of an electric current by an insulated wire was shown by Watson and others as early as 1747, nearly a century before Morse gave to the world the telegraph.

Professor Ayrton says that the power which runs to waste at Niagara Falls exceeds that which could be produced by the annual consumption of 150,000,000 of tons of coal.

An invention has recently been perfected by Professor Thomson whereby rails of street or steam railways can be wielded together by electricity after being placed in position.

In France they now use for steam and water pipe joints, gaskets made of wood pulp, which are boiled in linseed oil. They give satisfactory results, and are not subject to decomposition at high temperature.

M. Courton, a chemist, produced recently at the sitting of the French Academy of Sciences a sealed envelope containing a description of an apparatus by means of which objects may be seen at vast distances, the vibrations of light being transmitted through a wire.

It is affirmed that the large quantities of snails which appear in the chalk pastures after rain, and which are devoured by the sheep along with the short herbage on which both feed, have a considerable share in imparting that peculiar flavor to which South Down mutton owes so much of its celebrity.

Among the latest life-saving devices appears a lifeboat with machinery for hydraulic propulsion. The hull is built of steel and strongly braced, and the total weight of the boat when completed and ready for service will not exceed twenty tons. The boiler is calculated to carry a very high pressure.

The head measurement of 107 students at Cambridge University show a small diminution in the head capacity as the individual grows one year older, but this is so small compared with the probable error that the observations are quite consistent with the hypothesis that the head remains quite stationary.

Accurate observations taken quite recently in England with reference to electric phenomena connected with thunderstorms are said to show that each flash of lightning is in reality made up of three separate and distinct discharges of fluid, though they are so closely connected as to present the appearance of continuity to the naked eye.

A Swiss inventor has perfected a method of making artificial boards, and is advocating their use in building. They are made of a mixture of plaster of paris and reeds pressed into shape by hydraulic process. The material has the advantage of incombustibility and lightness, and will resist the warping action of atmospheric changes.

At the close of June there were twenty-three crematories in Italy, ten in America, one in Germany, one in England, one in France, one in Switzerland, one in Denmark and one in Sweden—a total of thirty-nine. In Italy two corpses were burned in 1876, fifteen in 1877, sixteen in 1878 and 226 in 1888. Since 1876 1177 corpses have been burned in Italy, and 1269 in the other countries. The whole number burned in June was fifty.

Intelligent Horses.

It is a great mistake to imagine that all the best trained and most intelligent horses are to be seen in circuses. I have handled horses all my life, and never saw anything very wonderful in an animal being taught tricks in a ring which is always the same size. There are hundreds of horses which know more and understand signs better than any circus horse I ever saw; and, what is more, they will obey anywhere and under any conditions, which a so-called educated horse probably would not. The fire brigade horses, of course, are illustrations of this, and many express wagon horses are only a degree less intelligent. I make a round of calls every day. At some places there is nothing for us three days out of four, and when there is no card in the window the horse keeps going. But if he sees the card he stops of his own accord and backs up, no matter how heavy the traffic is. And at places where there is no card he will stop and wait while I go in to inquire. If I don't come out at once he concludes there is something and backs up. If that isn't evidence of reason and thought I would like to know what is.—Globe-Democrat.

Tattooing Among Savages.

In a paper in the British Association on "Tattooing," Miss A. W. Buckland said that in Africa, Australia, and the islands of the Indian Ocean, tattooing consists of a series of short cuts, which heal, leaving cicatrices. In New Zealand, America, the Pacific islands, among the tribes of India, and in Burmah, Borneo and New Guinea, patterns are first drawn upon the skin, and then punctured with thorns, needles or splinters of human bones. Color is then rubbed in. The process is very painful, and can only be carried on at intervals, several years being sometimes required for its completion. Among men tattooing is valued as a mark of bravery. In the case of women devices are worked upon the chin to signify marriage.

Dust in Mid-Ocean.

An ocean traveler finds many discomforts aboard ship, but can generally count on fresh and pure air at any rate. Not always, however, it seems; for a German steamer that recently crossed the Atlantic reported that while some hundreds of miles from any land she passed through a cloud of dust, which fell thickly on deck. Strange as it may seem, scientific men tell us that such phenomena have frequently been noticed, and the dust has sometimes been so dense that vessels have run ashore in the obscurity of the atmosphere. It is supposed to be carried by high winds from [illegible]

A Matter of Health.

Almost every branch of gymnastics is employed in one way or another by the doctors, but the simple and natural function of singing has not yet received its full meed of attention. In Italy, some years ago, statistics were taken which proved that the vocal artists were especially long-lived and healthy, under normal circumstances, while of the brass instrumentalists it was discovered that consumption never claimed a victim among them. Those who have a tendency toward consumption should take easy vocal exercises, no matter how thin and weak their voices seem to be. They will find a result at times far surpassing any relief afforded by medicine. Vocal practice, in moderation, is the best system of general gymnastics that can be imagined, many muscles being brought into play that would scarcely be suspected of action in connection with so simple a matter as tone production. Therefore, apart from all art considerations, merely as a matter of health, one can earnestly say to the healthy, "Sing! that you may remain so," and to the weakly, "Sing that you may become strong."

Relief for Lung Troubles.

A Southern lady, having heard that there was peculiar virtue in a pillow made from pine straw, and having none of that material at hand, made one from fine, soft pine shavings, and had the pleasure of noting immediate benefit. Soon all the members of the household had pine shaving pillows, and it was noticed that all coughs, asthmatic or bronchial troubles abated at once after sleeping a few nights on these pillows. An invalid suffering with lung trouble derived much benefit from sleeping upon a mattress made from pine shavings. The material is cheap and makes a very pleasant and comfortable mattress, the odor of the pine permeating the entire room and absorbing or dispelling all unpleasant odors.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Baltimore Manufacturers' Record writes that the okra plant has a fiber better suited for making bagging for cotton bales than jute, and that it can be more easily worked.

IT is stated that over 15,000 horses are slaughtered for food every year in Paris, and of this quantity two-thirds are used for sausages.

Hark, the sound of many voices
Jubilant in gladest song,
And full many a heart rejoices
As the chorus floats along;
"Hail the Favorite Prescription."
How the happy voices blend.
"Wonderful beyond description—
Woman's best and truest friend."

Well may it be called woman's best friend, since it does for her what no other remedy has been able to do. It cures all those delicate derangements and weaknesses peculiar to females. Cures them, understand. Other preparations may afford temporary relief, but Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription effects a permanent cure. It is guaranteed to do this, or the money paid for it will be promptly refunded. It is the great remedy of the age.

The worst Nasal Catarrh, no matter of how long standing, is permanently cured by Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

He who tells a lie is not sensible of how great a task he undertakes; for he must be forced to invent twenty more to maintain one.

"Not enjoyment and not sorrow
Is our destined end or way;
But to act that each to-morrow
Find us farther than to-day."

The sentiment so aptly expressed by the poet ought to sound like a trumpet to every sluggish soul, and animate them to new and vigorous efforts to improve their condition. To all those who have the desire to press forward, but who are not sure of the way, we say, write to B. F. Johnson & Co., Richmond, Va., and they will be of service to you.

"Lucy Hinton."

Hark! the sound of many voices,
Jubilant in gladdest song,
And full many a heart rejoices
As the chorus floats along;
"Hail the Queen of all Tobaccos!"
How the happy voices blend,
"Finest and purest among her fellows—
Man's staunch and true friend."

Oregon, the Paradise of Farmers.

Mild, equable climate, certain and abundant crops. Best fruit, grain, grass and stock country in the world. Full information free. Address Oreg. Im'igra'tn Board, Portland, Ore.

The Mother's Friend, used a few weeks before confinement, lessens the pain and makes labor quick and comparatively easy. Sold by all druggists.

If afflicted with sore eyes use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye-water. Druggists sell at 25c per bottle.

No stranger should visit the city without smoking "Tansill's Punch" 5c. Cigar.

Malaria

is believed to be caused by poisonous miasms arising from low, marshy land, or from decaying vegetable matter, and which, breathed into the lungs, enter and poison the blood. If a healthy condition of the blood is maintained by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, one is much less liable to malaria, and Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured many severe cases of this distressing affection.

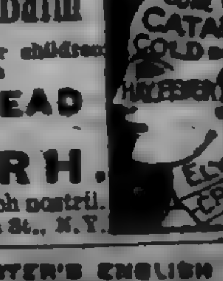
N. B.—If you decide to take Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to buy any other.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

"MOTHERS' FRIEND"
MAKES CHILD BIRTH EASY
SHORTENS LABOR
LESSENS PAIN
DIMINISHES DANGER TO LIFE OF MOTHER AND CHILD
BOOK "TO MOTHERS" MAILED FREE
BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO. ATLANTA GA
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.



THE CURE FOR CATARRH COLD in HEAD
HAY-FEVER
ELY'S CREAM BALM
50c

Ely's Cream Balm

is the best remedy for children suffering from COLD IN HEAD OR CATARRH.

Apply Balm into each nostril. ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y.

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH
PENNYROYAL PILLS
RED CROSS DIAMOND BRAND.
[illegible]

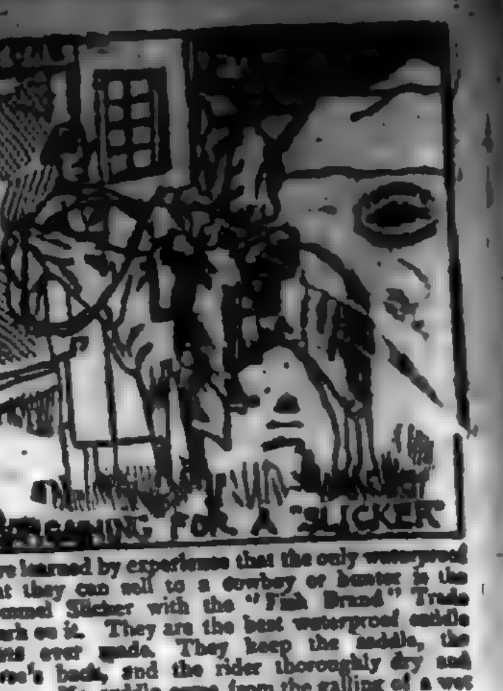
OPIUM and Whiskey Habits [illegible] B. M. WOOLLEY, M.D. Atlanta, Ga. [illegible]

PISO'S REMEDY FOR CATARRH.—Best. Easiest to use. Cheapest. Relief is immediate. A cure is certain. For Cold in the Head it has no equal.

CATARRH

It is an Ointment, of which a small particle is applied to the nostrils. Price, 50c. Sold by druggists or sent by mail. Address, E. T. Hazeltine, [illegible]

WIDE-AWAKE TRADESMEN



have learned by experience that the only waterproof coat they can sell to a cowboy or hunter is the Pommel Slicker with the "Fish Brand" Trade Mark on it. They are the best waterproof saddle coats ever made. They keep the saddle, the horse's back, and the rider thoroughly dry and warm. No saddle sores from the galling of a wet saddle. When used as a walking coat, the extension front buttons back, and the Slicker is changed at once to an ordinary coat. Just try one, they cost but little and will prevent colds, fevers, rheumatism, and other results of exposure to the weather. Beware of worthless imitations, every garment stamped with "Fish Brand" Trade Mark. Don't accept any inferior coat when you can have the "Fish Brand Slicker" delivered without extra cost. Particulars and illustrated catalogue free.

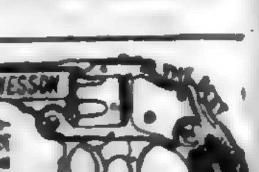
A. J. TOWER, - Boston, Mass.

SMITH'S BILE BEANS

Act on the liver and bile, clear the complexion, cure biliousness, sick headache, costiveness, malaria and all liver and stomach disorders. The small size are most convenient for children—very small and easy to take. Price of either size 25c. per bottle.

A panel size PHOTO-GRAVURE of the above picture, "Kissing at 7—17—70," mailed on receipt of 4c. stamp. Address the makers of the great Anti-Bile Remedy—"Bile Beans."

J. F. SMITH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.



IF YOU WISH A GOOD REVOLVER purchase one of the celebrated SMITH & WESSON arms. The finest small arms ever manufactured and the first choice of all experts. Manufactured in calibres 32, 38 and 44-100. Single or double action, Safety Hammerless and Target models. Constructed entirely of best quality wrought steel, carefully inspected for workmanship and stock, they are unrivaled for finish, durability and accuracy. Do not be deceived by cheap malleable cast-iron imitations which are often sold for the genuine article and are not only unreliable, but dangerous. The SMITH & WESSON Revolvers are all stamped upon the barrels with firm's name, address and dates of patents and are guaranteed perfect in every detail. Insist upon having the genuine article, and if your dealer cannot supply you an order sent to address below will receive prompt and careful attention. Descriptive catalogue and prices furnished upon application.

SMITH & WESSON,

Mention this paper. Springfield, Mass.

BUGGIES
ROAD CARTS HARNESS
FREE

No ½ Price or 50% but Free.

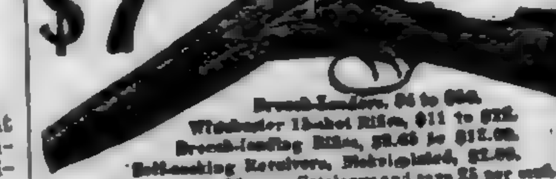
We manufacture none but the best, and for CONSUMERS ONLY. Write us for full particulars how to get these articles free of cost.

CONSUMERS' CARRIAGE CO.,
CINCINNATI, O.

For Dairy, Farm & Household.

Frank's American Wonder Machine awarded highest medal. Approved of and found O K by the highest dairy faculties. A child can use it. Always produces fine class butter from sweet milk or cream in 5 minutes. Works from one pint up to the largest quantity. Makes more butter. Clear profit 10 to 15 per ct. Buttermilk remains perfectly sweet for coffee, etc. Is also recommended by children's physicians as best baby food. Machine also makes finest ice cream in 4 minutes. $2.50, 14 qts., $10; 40 qts., $25, etc. Send for testimonial and circulars to F. A. FRANK & CO., Patentee and Sole Mfrs., 206 East 32d St., New York. Reliable agents wanted.

$7 FOR A Double Breech-Loader



Breech-Loaders, $4 to $60. Winchester 16-shot Rifles, $11 to $22. Breech-loading Rifles, $2.65 to $12.00. Self-cocking Revolvers, Nickelplated, $1.00. Send 2c. stamp for 56-page Catalogue and save 25 per cent. GRIFFITH & SEMPLE, 512 W. Main, Louisville, Ky.

DROPSY
TREATED FREE.

Positively Cured with Vegetable Remedies. Have cured thousands of cases. Cure patients pronounced hopeless by best physicians. From first dose symptoms disappear; in ten days at least two-thirds all symptoms removed. Send for free book testimonials of miraculous cures. Ten days' treatment free by mail. If you order trial, send 10c. in stamps to pay postage. DR. H. H. GREEN & SONS, Atlanta, Ga.

JONES
HE PAYS THE FREIGHT.
5 Ton Wagon Scales,
Iron Levers, Steel Bearings, Brass Tare Beam and Beam Box for $60.
Every size Scale. For free price list mention this paper and address
JONES OF BINGHAMTON,
BINGHAMTON, N. Y.

Dr. Lobb, 329 N. 15th St. PHILA., PA. After ALL others fail, consult

Twenty years' continuous practice in the treatment and cure of the awful effects of early vice, destroying both mind and body. Medicine and treatment for one month, Five Dollars, sent securely sealed from observation to any address.

Book on Special Diseases free.

SOUTHERN PRINTERS' SUPPLY CO.
WE CARRY IN STOCK
Type, Cases, Stands, Presses,
Paper Cutters
AND EVERYTHING USED IN A PRINTING OR PUBLISHING HOUSE.
Call on us and SAVE MONEY!
34 West Alabama Street, ATLANTA, GA.

LADIES
Amenagogue Pills
For Irregularities. Safe and certain. Should not be taken if enciente. Price per box of 100 pills, $1.00. DR. W. C. ASHER, 31½ Marietta St., ATLANTA, GA.

OPIUM HABIT.
A Valuable Treatise Giving full information of an Easy and Speedy cure Free to the afflicted. DR. J. C. HOFFMAN, Jefferson, Wisconsin.

HOME STUDY. Book-keeping, Business Forms, Penmanship, Arithmetic, Short-hand, etc., thoroughly taught by MAIL. Circulars free. Bryant's College, 457 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y.

$25 AN HOUR made by our Agents. THE DR. PERKINS MEDICAL CO., Richmond, Va.

OPIUM HABIT. Only Certain and easy CURE in the World. Dr. J. L. STEPHENS, Lebanon, O.

PEERLESS DYES Are the BEST. Sold by Druggists.

Big G

I prescribe and fully endorse Big G as the only specific for the certain cure of this disease. G. H. INGRAHAM, M. D., Amsterdam, N. Y.

We have sold Big G for many years, and it has given the best of satisfaction. D. R. DYCHE & CO., Chicago, Ill. $1.00. Sold by Druggists.

Cures in 1 TO 5 DAYS. Guaranteed not to cause Stricture. Made only by the Evans Chemical Co. Cincinnati, Ohio.

A. N. U. .... Forty-five.

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per square, of one inch space or less, for the first, and Fifty Cents for each subsequent insertion.

Inches	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
1 Inch	$ 5 00	$ 7 00	$ 11 25
2 Inches	7 50	11 25	16 00
3 Inches	10 00	15 00	22 50
4 Inches	12 50	20 00	27 00
5 Inches	15 00	22 50	33 00
¼ Column	18 00	27 00	40 00
½ Column	27 00	40 00	60 00
1 Column	40 00	60 00	100 00

The Chilton View.

W. H. LAWRENCE, Editor and Publisher. "WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION." TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME IX. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1889. NUMBER 1.

[illegible] Notices Ten Cents per line each [illegible].

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be handed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

☞ The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

Caheen's Grand Introductory Sale OF NEW FALL DRESS GOODS!

EVERYTHING NEW, BRIGHT AND SPARKLING.

New Silks, New Velvets, New Trimmings, New Henriettas, New Brilliantes, New Drap D'Almas, New Dress Fringes and New High Art Production Novelty Combination Suits.

Early as it is, we are selling quantities of Fall Dress Goods, probably because we now have a great assortment at very attractive prices. New goods are arriving daily and we will beyond the slightest shadow of a doubt have the largest, finest and best assorted stock ever shown in Birmingham.

So Let Us Be Joyful.

Come, no more of grief and dying!
Sing the time too swiftly flying:
Just an hour,
Youth's in flower,
Give me roses to remember
In the shadow of December.

When at length the grasses cover
Me, the world's unwearied lover,
If regret
Haunt me yet,
It shall be for joys untasted,
Nature lent and folly wasted.

Feigning age will not delay it,
When the reckoning comes we'll pay it.
Own our mirth
Has been worth
All the forfeit light or heavy,
Wintry Time and Fortune levy.

Feigning grief will not escape it,
What though ne'er so well you ape it,
Age and care
All must share
All alike must pay hereafter,
Some for sighs and some for laughter.

Know, ye sons of Melancholy,
To be young and wise is folly,
'Tis the weak,
Fear to wreak
On this clay of life their fancies,
Shaping battle, shaping dances.

While ye scorn our names unspoken,
Roses dead and garlands broken,
O, ye wise,
We arise,
Out of failures, dreams, disasters,
We arise to be your masters.
—Margaret L. Woods in Albany Journal.

A HASTY CONCLUSION.

"Flossie, what do you think that wretch has done now?" exclaimed Lucy Caslin, bursting into the room where her sister and aunt sat sewing.

"Nothing very dreadful, I hope," replied Flossie, looking up from her work.

"Nothing very dreadful!" echoed Lucy. "That is just like you, Flossie; I really believe you love that black-hearted wretch."

"No, Sue, I cannot say that I have any particular love for him, but I don't want to condemn the man until I know what he has done," returned Flossie, laughing.

"Well, he is driving his tenants from the old shanties by the coal bank."

"Sue, can that be really true?" said Flossie in a shocked voice.

"It must be, for Ted Flynn, whose mother occupies one of the huts, told me so. Mr. Dane said that unless the people vacated at once he would tumble the shanties down on their heads—the brute!"

"Lucy, my dear," interrupted her aunt, "there must be some mistake. I do not believe Mr. Dane would be so cruel; although more grave and silent than most men of his age, he seems kind and courteous to all."

Lucy pursed up her mouth in scorn.

"Now, Aunt Mary, you are always taking that man's part. You think he cannot do wrong."

"Oh, no, Lucy!" smiled Aunt Mary. "But you have taken an unreasonable dislike to Mr. Dane."

"Well, I have. But we won't discuss him further; we must think of the needs of Mrs Flynn. Why can't she move into the storehouse in the corner of the orchard until she can find another home?"

Aunt Mary nodded assent, while Flossie replied.

"An excellent idea, Lucy!"

"Then I'll run over and make her the offer," said Lucy, and hurrying on her hat and shawl she was soon in the midst of the shanties, which consisted of five or six dilapidated old buildings.

She noticed that the men and women all had an anxious look, and that the teams standing there belonged to Mr. Dane, the new owner of the coal bank and factory. And—yes, there was the owner himself hurrying up the moving process. Lucy was too indignant to notice that his face, too, wore an anxious look and that he started at every sound. She only thought of him as a hard-hearted wretch, who was turning poor people out in the cold. Presently he approached her.

"Miss Lucy," he said, "for heaven's sake don't tarry here long; and tell Mrs. Flynn to be reasonable and hurry up, for I will—"

Here Lucy cut him short with a look of scorn as she flashed out:

"You hard-hearted wretch, how dare you speak to me? Don't be afraid—I will not intrude in your precious houses very long, neither shall Mrs. Flynn."

"But, Miss Lucy," he said, "you must have heard—"

"Yes," Lucy interrupted. "Of course I have heard that the wealthy Mr. Dane is turning five or six poor families out of his houses—if they are worthy of that name."

Then she opened the door of Mrs. Flynn's shanty and stepped inside, leaving Mr. Dane with an amused smile on his face. But this soon gave way to a grave expression, which did not leave his face until the last wagon which contained Mrs. Flynn's household goods was loaded and had been driven away. Then, with a sigh of relief, he nailed up a placard inscribed with these words:

ALL PERSONS ARE WARNED TO KEEP AWAY FROM THESE GROUNDS.
DANGEROUS!

Meanwhile Lucy had installed the Flynns in their new quarters, with a good many remarks not very flattering to the new owner, in which she was joined by Mrs. Flynn, who would "like to serve him the same way, the beast!"

The next morning a neighbor dropped into the Caslin cottage, and almost her first words were:

"Was it not a fine thing that Mr. Dane got the people away from over the old mine yesterday?"

"Why?" inquired Flossie.

"Why?" echoed Mrs. Brown. "Have you not heard that the mine fell in last night? The shanties stood right over it."

"No!" exclaimed Flossie and Lucy in the same breath.

"It is true, anyway," replied Mrs. Brown. "The little spot where the shanties stood all caved in, and it looks as if there had been an earthquake there; and I think it was kind of Mr. Dane to take his teams and move the people out, when he told them all a month ago they had better move as soon as possible, for the place was dangerous. And my husband said that yesterday morning when the mine boss sent Mr. Dane word that the old rooms might fall in at any moment he ordered the teams to be got ready, and then told the men at the factory that if some of them would go over and move the people out he would pay them for it, and go with them, too; and then he went and rented that double house of Squire Miles' to move them into."

"I did not know that," said Flossie, while Lucy's face burned at the memory of her hasty words.

"It is strange that Mrs. Flynn did not tell you. She moved into your old storehouse, didn't she?" inquired Mrs. Brown.

"Yes," replied Flossie, "but she did not give us the true facts of the case. We understood that Mr. Dane was ejecting the people, but did not know for what reason."

"Surely," interrupted Mrs. Brown, "you do not think that Mr. Dane would turn his tenants out without notice?"

"I don't know," replied Flossie. "But he looks to me like a hard man to deal with."

"Indeed he is not!" replied Mrs. Brown, warmly. "My husband says that he is both just and generous—a great improvement on old Ripley, the former owner. But there—I must go now. Take my advice, girls—never believe all you hear."

No sooner had the door closed on Mrs. Brown's departing figure than Lucy cried:

"Floss, I can never look that man in the face again!"

"Why, he will never know what we thought of him," laughed Flossie.

"Oh, yes, he will, for I told him yesterday. And—and, Flossie, I said he was a hard-hearted wretch."

Flossie's reply was a burst of laughter.

"Now, don't laugh Floss. And don't you dare to tell Aunt Mary."

Flossie gave the required promise, and Lucy experienced a sense of relief at the thought that her aunt, who liked Mr. Dane would not know what she had said to him.

One evening a few weeks later, as Miss Lucy was hurrying home from the village, Mr. Dane overtook her, and reining up his horse, said pleasantly:

"Good evening, Miss Lucy."

Lucy flushed a rosy red as she returned the salutation, and then in a confused manner, said:

"What must you think of me, Mr. Dane?"

"Why?" asked Mr. Dane, slipping from the saddle and throwing the bridle rein over his arm he walked along beside her.

"Why, stammered Lucy, "for what I said to you that day at the shanties."

Mr. Dane smiled.

"I think you were misinformed."

"Yes, and it was all Ted Flynn's fault." Then she told him what Ted had said, adding: "Now, Mr. Dane, I want to ask your pardon for my rudeness."

Mr. Dane laughed.

"Consider yourself pardoned, Miss Lucy. I too, should have felt like saying 'hard-hearted wretch' if I had been in your place."

Then, changing the subject, he chattered pleasantly until they arrived at Lucy's home, and when she timidly invited him to enter he accepted the invitation.

Of course he was cordially welcomed by Aunt Mary, while Flossie whispered to Lucy:

"I see you have made your peace with that wretch."

Lucy blushed and frowned, whereat Flossie smiled mischievously.

But that was not the last time Mr. Dane stopped at the Caslin cottage; and now Lucy calls that wretch "my husband.—Hartford Times.

The World's Biggest Dams.

A London correspondent of the New York World says: In the Metropole smoking room the other evening a group of engineers and contractors who had called on Michael S. Coleman, one of the contractors on the new aqueduct in New York, were surprised to learn that while over here for rest and enjoyment he had contrived to examine and get a thorough knowledge of the two largest water dams in the world. One of them was right here in England, the new dam building for the Liverpool water works, about 50 miles out of the city. The other dam, which is said to be the largest in the world, is at Lyons, France, and after a quarter of a century of labor is now nearly completed. But even this will be second in point of size if not in engineering skill, to the new Quaker Bridge dam in New York when it is done.

"That big dam at Lyons, France, is certainly a wonderful bit of work," said Mr. Coleman. "I don't remember the exact figures now, but I think it is 175 feet high. The foundations are 100 feet deep. At the summit the wall is about 1000 feet long, though much narrower at the bottom, of course, because the dam is built across a valley, between two steep hills. The body of the dam is of concrete, with solid stone facing. It is a substantial job, good material, good workmanship, no chances taken on anything. The Liverpool dam is smaller, but in every way as fine a bit of work. They have utilized a new idea there by dropping big boulders into the bed of concrete. Nothing short of a miracle is going to make that dam give way."

PEARLS OF THOUGHT.

Humanity is socially equal in the absence of material food.

People who work the least have the most time to complain.

The best ideas are among those that were never heard of before.

Modesty seldoms resides in a breast that is not enriched with nobler virtues.

Those who are really educated are also refined, but the imitation article may satisfy and deceive the possessor. It is, however, more difficult to deceive others.

If all the nations of the earth would disband their armies, no wars would be possible; the same would be true if no other organization than "We, the people," was permitted.

It makes no difference how much money or property a man possesses, he must either work for his living or be dependent upon some one who is willing to work in excess of his own support.

It is a cruel wrong, and none but an ungrateful person would sneer at the very laborers upon whom they depend for the necessities of life. It is but the appearance of culture which is often mistaken for real by the mere affectation of manners.

The faithful endeavor to do right, and to bear quietly and with resignation what must be borne, is of itself a fruitful source of happiness and serenity; but a murmuring and discontented spirit may poison the richest blessings and turn them into bitter evils.

Animals and Earthquakes.

The lower animals are said to be greatly terrified by earthquakes, and their excitement beforehand is sometimes sufficient to foretell the event. No doubt they know well that something terrible is taking place. Professor Milne, a student of volcanic phenomena, has recently given various instances of their behavior at such times.

During the Tokio earthquake of 1880 cats ran about the houses trying to escape; foxes barked, and horses attempted to kick down the boards confining them to their stables. In the London earthquake of 1749 roach and other fish in a canal showed signs of confusion and fright, and fish have been known, after an earthquake, to rise to the surface dead and dying.

Most interesting of all are the observations showing that animals are disturbed just before a shock. So well known is this fact that, for a while after the great Calabrian earthquake, the neighing of a horse or the cackling of a goose was sufficient to send the terrified inhabitants flying from their houses, in expectation of another shock.

Ponies have been known to prance about their stalls, pheasants to scream, and frogs to cease croaking, a short time before the earth trembled. The Japanese say that moles show their agitation by burrowing.

Birds hide their heads beneath their wings, and behave in an unusual manner. Sometimes immense flocks of sea-birds fly inland, as if alarmed by an oceanic disturbance. Before the shock of 1835, in Chili, all the dogs are said to have escaped from the city of Talcahuano.

The most probable explanation of this apparent foreknowledge is that animals are sensitive to the slight tremors which precede nearly all earthquakes. Moreover, in volcanic districts poisonous gases sometimes emanate from the ground, and animals are presumed to be unpleasantly affected by them.—Youth's Companion.

His Idea of It.

Discussing a musical amateur.

She—"Uncle Charles, what should you call Mr. Crossbar, a harper or a harpist?"

Host—"Neither. If I called him anything I should say he was a—nuisance!"—Judge.

Quick Letter Transportation.

It is proposed to establish a pneumatic system for the delivery of letters at the general post office in Philadelphia. "The plans for the new system," says the Philadelphia Record, "have not yet been thoroughly digested, but the general idea is to lay a system of pneumatic tubes in all the main streets of the city and connect them with the letter boxes located on those streets. The connection would be by means of a pipe running underground and up the inside of a lamp post, where it would be fitted to a box of peculiar construction. This would place all parts of the city in direct communication with the general post office, so that a letter dropped in a letter box at Second and Diamond streets, for instance, would be whirled to the post office in a few seconds, cancelled, and if it happened to be train time would be despatched to Bond street station, and on board a train bound for Chicago, almost before the ink had time to dry."

Salmon Fishing.

At Tongas narrows, soon after leaving Metlakahtla, Alaska, we saw a cannery in operation, and all about our ship as she lay at anchor and as far as the eye could reach we saw the salmon jumping clear out of the water, and as they fell back the sound was like the splashing of the rain in a heavy shower. Some of the passengers tried their hands at salmon catching, but not with net or line. They simply stood on the stones on the side of a small stream up which the salmon were crowding to get into fresh water and caught them with their bare hands to the size of from three to six pounds and brought them on board to garnish our table; but salmon have become anything but a rarity, and the flounders and halibut weighing 40 or 50 pounds, caught by passengers over our ship's side, were more highly esteemed.

Covered Rivers.

An apparent disappearance is a phenomenon that seems to have taken place with some rivers. Captain John Page, of the Argentine navy, mentions that the upper Paraguay, as if absolutely lost for many miles, has been known to flow beneath a matted covering of living and dead vegetation several feet in depth. In the year 1858 one of these growths, under the influence of an extraordinary inundation, broke loose and drifted two thousand miles, bringing up at Buenos Ayres with many animals and reptiles that had taken refuge upon it.

Electricity In Surgical Operations.

"Electricity is playing quite an important part among the surgeons nowadays," said the surgeon in charge of a New York city hospital. "One of the innumerable developments of electricity is its growing usefulness in surgical operations. They are now manufacturing spectacles, which are lighted by a small electric lamp, so arranged as to send a beam of cool light on the part to be examined. The spectacles are said to have proved a success, and it may not be many months before every surgeon in the country will be provided with a pair."

Statistics of the Iron Age.

In the decade ending with 1886, the iron production increased 143.80 per cent. in America, 134.99 in Germany, 3.96 in Great Britain. The Bessemer steel increase was about 800 per cent. in the United States, 200 in Germany, 375 in Russia, and a little over 100 in Great Britain.

An Active Sense.

Teacher—How do we tell if anything is sweet or sour?

Pupil—By the sense of taste.

"And how do you distinguish [illegible]?"

"By the sense of touch."

"You can't [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible]

THE RACES OF MANKIND.

There are 72 of them existing now—All came from Asia.

M. de Quatrefages, the leading French ethnologist, in presenting the second part of his "Introduction to the Study of the Human Races" to the Academy of Sciences, has given an interesting summary of his general conclusions with regard to the origin and distribution of mankind.

Neglecting the minor differences, he estimates that there are no fewer than seventy-two distinct races in the human species. All these descend or branch off from three fundamental types—the black, the yellow, and the white—which had their origin at the great central mass of northern Asia, which is thus the cradle of mankind. Representatives of these different types and the races which sprang from them are still to be found there.

The whites, according to M. de Quatrefages, appear to have originated on the west of the central mass, the yellows on the north, and the blacks on the south. The whites extended westward and northward, giving birth to three secondary types, the Finnish, the Semitic, and the Arryan, if we except the Allophyles, which form a separate group. Their area of distribution is continuous, as is that of the yellows, because of the extensive land surface of the Eurasian continent. The yellows spread eastward and crossed into America. The whites and yellows checked or blended with each other, producing many varieties of man. The blacks, or negro type, which originated on the south of the central mass, was forced by the nature of the continent, and probably by the attacks of the whites and yellows, to go south into Africa and east into the Indian Archipelago, or Melanesia. The proto-Semites arrested their distribution in the north of Africa, and the mixture of the two races gave rise to the negroid populations. In the centre and south of Africa the blacks continued in their ethnic purity until the infiltration of other races from Europe and the north of Africa in modern times. Those which remained in their original home became blended with the whites and yellows, giving rise to the dravidian populations which pass by shades into the three fundamental types.

As for the Allophyles, represented by the race of Cro-Magnon, they occupied parts of Europe and North Africa, from which they extended to the Canaries. The three fundamental types also found themselves in Oceania; the Allophylian whites occupying Polynesia, the blacks Melanesia, the yellows Malasia. The latter were, according to M. de Quatrefages, the last to come into the maritime world.

The peopling of America dates from the quarternary period, and is due to migrations of different types—Allophylic white and yellow, blending with the local quarternary races, which also belonged to the yellow type. Europe, since the tertiary ages, has received only Allophylian whites, Finns, and Aryans. The number of races now existing in a pure state is exceedingly restricted, if, indeed, there is a single one which can be accepted as such. Perhaps some little groups, protected by their isolation, such as the Mincopies, may show an identity of characters attesting their ethnic homogenity.—[Sunday Times.]

Snow As a Non-Conductor.

It has been practically shown that in the bad conducting property of snow there is a remarkable protecting power in the economy of nature. However cold the air and the surface of the snow may be, if there is a considerable thickness of snow, the temperature of the surface of the soil underneath does not fall below the freezing point. Thus the snow is actually a warm covering to the vegetation, for on its removal in alpine slopes by the ethereal mildness of the spring, the surface of the earth is seen to be gorgeously verdant and studded with beautiful flower bloom. But, though the snow is a beneficent protection to the plant world in cold climates, it is chilling to the atmosphere. The radiation from the snow in a cloudless sky considerably lowers the temperature of the superincumbent air, and in extensive snow-clad lands, when the winter is protracted, the chilling effect is very manifest. The surface of the snow receives so little heat from the earth that it gets cooled down to hoar frost in a brilliant layer, glistening in the weaker sunlight. Thus the ground may be of a temperature above freezing when the snow surface is bitterly cold. However, animals which live in the air have the power of locomotion to keep up the body's temperature by active work. The plants in a cold winter would die or become stunted without the protection of the snow mantle, whereas animals [illegible]

THE CANAL OF JOSEPH.

A Great Work Still in Use, Although 4,000 Years Old.

How many of the engineering works of the nineteenth century will there be in existence in the year 6,000? Very few, we fear, and still less those that will continue in the far-off age to serve a useful purpose. Yet there is at least one great undertaking conceived and executed by an enginer, which, during the space of 4,000 years, has never ceased its office, on which the life of a fertile province absolutely depends to-day. We refer to the Bahr Jousouf—the canal of Joseph—built, according to tradition, by the son of Jacob, and which constitutes not the least of the many blessings he conferred on Egypt during the years of his prosperous rule.

This canal took its rise from the Nile at Asiut, and ran nearly parallel with it for nearly 250 miles, creeping along under the western cliffs of the Nile valley, with many a bend and winding, until at length it gained an eminence, as compared with the river bed, which enabled it to turn westward through a narrow pass and enter a district which was otherwise shut off from the fertilizing floods on which all vegetation in Egypt depends.

The northern end stood seventeen feet higher than low Nile, while at the southern end it was at an equal elevation with the river. Through this cut ran a perennial stream, which watered a province named the Fayoum, endowing it with fertility, and supporting a large population. In the time of the annual flood a great part of the canal was under water, and then the river's current would rush in a more direct course into the pass, carrying with it the rich slit which takes the place of manure and keeps the soil in a state of constant productiveness.

And this, with the exception of the tradition that Joseph built it, can be verified to-day, and it is not mere supposition or rumor. Until eight years ago it was firmly believed that the design has always been limited to an irrigation scheme larger, no doubt, than that now in operation, as shown by the traces of abandoned canals and by the slow aggregation of waste water which had accumulated in the Birket et Querun, but still essentially the same in character.

Many accounts have been written by Greek and Roman historians, such as Herodotus, Strabo, Mutianus and Pliny, and repeated in monkish legends or portrayed on the maps of the middle ages, which agreed with the folk lore of the district.

These tales explained that the canal dug by the ancient Israelite served to carry the surplus water of the Nile into an extensive lake lying south of the Fayoum, and so large that it not only modified the climate, tempering the arid winds of the desert, and converting them into the balmy airs which nourished the vines and the olives into a fullness and fragrance unknown in any part of the country, but also added to the food supply of the land such immense quantities of fish that the royal prerogative of the right of piscary at the great weir was valued at $250,000 annually. This lake was said to be 450 miles round, and to be navigated by a fleet of vessels, while the whole circumference was the scene of industry and prosperity.—[Engineering.

Raising Kids For Their Skins.

The raising of kids for their skins is a principal industry among the French mountaineers, and it supplies no small part of their subsistence. Softness, delicacy of texture and freedom from blemish are principal factors in the value of kid skins, and to secure these great pains are taken, says the Haberdasher. Diet is the principal thing and mother's milk is what keeps the kid in perfect condition for the use of the glover. As soon as the young animal begins to eat grass the value of its skin declines, for with a grass diet its skin immediately begins to grow coarser and harder in texture, and its chief merit vanishes. It is, therefore, kept closely penned, not only to prevent it from eating grass, but also to secure its skin from accidental injury from scratches, bruises, etc., which are fatal to perfection. When the kids have reached a certain age, at which the skins are in the best condition for the use of the glover, they are killed, and the skins are sold to traveling hucksters through whom they reach the great centres of the tanning industry at Annonay, Millau, Paris and Grenoble.

The superior quality of these French skins, due to climatic causes, [illegible] has given France the [illegible]

[illegible]

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., OCT. 31, 1889.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year	$1.50
One copy six months	75
One copy four "	50

Louisiana is now saying bad, bad, Burke, but Burke has skipped into Belgium and will engage principally in endeavoring to dodge the officers of the law who will no doubt camp on his trail as long as he lives, or until they deliver him into the custody of Louisiana for trial.

The political contests which attract the most attention of the country now are the state elections in Virginia and Ohio. In the first there is hardly any doubt of the result. Mahone will be so badly beaten that he'll never bob up again in the politics of that state. In Ohio, the fight will be a close one, with the chances at present in favor of the Democratic ticket.

An easter school boy, being requested by the teacher to furnish "An Essay on Anatomy," wrote as follows: "The human body is divided into three parts, the head, the chist, and the stummick. The head contains the eyes and brains, if any. The chist contains the lungs and a piece of the liver. The stummick is devoted to the bowels, of which there are five, namely, a, e, i, o, u, and sometimes w, and y."

We hear nothing more of Postmaster Houston and his negro letter carriers. Have the people of Birmingham become reconciled to an evil they cannot remedy? Houston could have made a good point against the administration by refusing to place negroes on the force. But he was afraid of losing his place and his courage quailed. Of him and all other Republicans it might be said as Portia said of Monsieur LeBon: "God made him, therefore let him pass for a man."

"Col." Rube Burrows is hiding out in the hills of Blount county defying the constituted authorities of the great State of Alabama, including the war department. A posse surrounded Burrows in a swamp, but the fugitive and a companion shot their way through the posse killing two and wounding several others, and at last accounts were still on the go. One paper says the Governor has ordered the Birmingham Rifles to capture Rube dead or alive, and the Rifles have since had more sympathizers than men in ranks. When Burrows gets through slaughtering the posse, we will expect to hear of a train robbery on the L. & N. R. R., as he probably had such an enterprise in view when he went to Blount county.

Hancock county, Tenn., is soon to set a good example to the rest of the world in the way of a hanging. Four brothers by the name of Barnard have been sentenced to hang for the murder of a Mr. Sutton. The killing was done from ambush and though only one shot was fired, yet the Supreme Court has affirmed the decision of the lower court in sentencing all of the Barnard's implicated to be hung. Here in this State such a case would in all probability have met with a reversal from our Supreme Court upon some slight error in the trial proceedings, though all the facts in the case clearly proved the guilt of the defendants. This is the way the laws of Alabama hamper the courts, tax the patience of the law-abiding citizens and result in lynchings innumerable. Alabama laws need revising.

Of all those we have seen mentioned for the position of President of the State University our choice, were we permitted to have any, would be Col. J. T. Murfee, of Marion or Col. John W. A. Sanford, of Montgomery. Col. Murfee has the experience that would be an advantage to him and the institution. But he has his heart wrapped up in his institute at Marion, and we doubt whether he would leave it. Gen. Sanford is not lacking in experience, and like Col. Murfee he is a man of such broad and liberal culture that at the head of the University he would be at his best. He would adorn the position and be a practical worker for the advancement of the institution. It is said that a majority of the board of Trustees are candidates for the place, and there is no telling upon whom the lightning will strike.

The VIEW has entered upon its ninth year, and begins a new volume with this issue. It has kept its nose to the grindstone of public criticism, good, bad and indifferent, for eight years past, and has prospered. We look forward to even greater prosperity and usefulness in the future. We have labored under some disadvantages in pumping thunder into the public where a large part of that public could not read our thunder if they would. The success we have met with under such circumstances has been a pleasing surprise. While it is true, that, compared with other callings, our success financially has not been marvelous, yet each year, by small savings, our paper continues to gain strength financially.

Outfit Purchased for the Montgomery, Tuskaloosa & Memphis Railroad.

A special from Montgomery contains the following information concerning the above named road: In the office of the Secretary of State this morning an agreement was filed for record between the New York equipment company and the Montgomery, Tuskaloosa and Memphis railway company for the lease and ultimate pur chase, by the latter from the former, of the following list of rolling stock:

Seven seven wheel locomotives, valued at $8500 each.

Eight ten-wheel locomotives valued at $9500 each.

Eight first-class passenger coaches valued at $4500 each.

Six second-class passenger coaches valued at $4000 each.

Five baggage, mail and express cars valued at $3100 each.

Five cabooses, valued at $900.

Two hundred flat cars, valued at $325 each.

One hundred and fifty box cars, valued at $440 each.

One hundred gondolas, valued at $500 each.

The total value of the property contracted for is $381,500. By the provisions of the contract the locomotives are to be built at Dunkirk, N. Y., the passenger equipment at Hegewisch, Ill., and the freight cars at either Anniston or Decatur. The contract requires that all the equipment shall be first-class and furnished with latest improvements.

OVER THE COUNTY.

Neighborhood News Gathered by Our Correspondents.

Stanton Notes.

The Chilton Lumber Co. of Chilton, 2 miles south of this place, had one of their dry kilns and contents destroyed by fire yesterday evening. Actual loss has not been ascertained, but supposed to be between two and three thousand dollars. Origin of fire is not known.

A. A. Dyer and Sons sustained a $50.00 loss from fire here this morning, by the burning of a pile of dry lumber.

From the Traveler.

A few nights ago, we had the pleasure of enjoying the hospitality of our friend, Mr. J. H. Chandler and his very pleasant wife, in whose company we always feel a polishing influence, and while with them in their new home that shows a father's care and the mother's and children's comfort, we met Miss Annie Mahone, of Loachapoka who is teaching music at Clanton. We congratulate that town in gaining such an affable young lady as teacher.

To complete our pleasure we pushed on to visit our daughter, Mrs. W. W. Jones, seven miles west of Clanton, near Mr. Chandler's busy saw mill. Behold, we found those good people on tip toe of expectation, getting ready to entertain whomsoever might come to their bountiful dinner. The Farmer's Alliance and the Knights of Labor had procured some good speakers, two of whom were from Birmingham. Let the labor ship ride over the waves till the troubled waters shall have ceased to roll up discontent and poverty.

A MOTHER.

Maplesville Dots.

We dislike to talk about snakes but a sense of duty compels us to tell about a rattler that Mr. Frank Kelly killed in Mrs DuBose's yard only a few feet from the house, his snakeship was 7 ft. long, sported 9 rattles, and was eight inches in circumference.

We have had an unusually pleasant autumn which all may enjoy but the farmers appreciate it more than any other class.

Our neighborhood was saddened lately by the death of Mrs Malone, she was living with her only child, Mrs. Tom Lawrence, was in her seventy-fourth year and had been in bad health for some time past.

A young man in our town in describing a bride's dress to his best girl said it was lined in "oh-pass-me-not-by" trimming.

Mr. Will Berry has lately visited his sister, Mrs. Tom DuBose.

Mrs. Quilla Goodwin and her daughter, Mrs. Wilkins, have been visiting Mrs. N. Goodwin. The latter has been called again by the extreme illness of her daughter Mrs. DuBose.

Sanford Is the Man.

Gen. John W. A. Sanford, of Montgomery, fills the requirements for the presidency of the State University. He unites to the precision of a disciplinarian the highest culture as a scholar. His mind is trained to the utmost literary excellence, and his martial experiences round out the measure of an official head of a military institution like that of Tuskaloosa. Is there a man in the State so well equipped as he for the place?

True, his pride forbids him from asking it, as he would not flatter Neptune for his trident, nor button-hole his way to immortality. But he has rendered service to the State of value, in peace and in war, and Alabamians should feel pride in him. Whether he would accept the position we know not, but this should be ascertained. We speak not from partiality, but for the public weal.

In default of such action, it may be that next year "Governor" Sanford would be a sound to conjure up the spirit of Pickens and of Winston and all the past glory of our State. The unexpected is that which happens.—Hayneville Examiner.

A correspondent of the English Mechanic gives the following cure for rheumatism: My wife has suffered occasionally with acute rheumatism in her feet, with painful swelling, completely taking her off her feet for many days at a time.

The following remedy was recommended recently and tried, and took away the agonies of pain in less than fifteen minutes, and she can now walk very fairly, and in a couple of days she will be able to button her boots, and walk without a stick or crutch.

One quart of milk, quite hot, into which stir 1 ounce of alum; this makes curds and whey. Bathe the part affected with the whey until too cold. In the mean time keep the curds hot, and after bathing, put them on as a poultice, wrap in a flannel and go to sleep (you can). Three applications should be a perfect cure, even in aggravated cases.

At a wedding in Arizona recently the bride received, with other gifts, a furnished house, a mule, a heifer, a piano, a barrel of beer, a cask of wine, some whiskey, ten pairs of shoes, fifty five pairs of ladies hose, a rolling-pin, a corkscrew, and five packages of yeast powders.

Painful Boils.

About three years ago I was troubled with poison in my blood; very irritating and painful boils breaking out all over my body. For two years I suffered with them, trying all sorts of remedies, and doctor's prescriptions without avail Becoming disgusted with doctors and medicines I had used up to this time, I concluded to try S. S. S. and the result was far beyond my expectations. A few bottles left me in better health than I had been in since childhood. I consider S. S. S. the only medicine that will thoroughly purify poisoned blood.

T. K. MAYFIELD,
Horse Cove, Ky.

A Valuable Tonic.

I have used Swift's Specific (S.S.S.) with good results. As a tonic, it is valuable; as a blood purifier it is reliable.

REV. J. H. JEFFERSON,
Winston, N. C.

Keep It As a Family Medicine.

Mr. J. J. Bradley, writes from Harrison, Ga., under date of September 22d, 1889. Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) has been freely used by my family with the best and happiest results. A half dozen bottles entirely relieved my sister of a severe case of scrofula. My wife has frequently found her blood purified and her health improved by S. S. S. I also had a scrofulous affection that has been entirely cured by taking a few bottles of Swift's Specific.

Treatise on blood and skin diseases mailed free.

SWIFT SPECIFIC CO.,
Atlanta, Ga.

Physicians prescribe Dr. J. H. McLean's Tar Wine Lung Balm, in [illegible] they find no trace of opium or morphine, while its efficacy in curing all throat and lung diseases is wonderful.

It is the intention of the government to prosecute all persons who solicit assessments from employes for political purposes.

Far better than the harsh treatment of medicines which horribly gripe the patient and destroy the coating of the stomach. Dr. J. H. McLean's Chill and Fever, by mild yet effective action will cure. Sold at 50 cents a bottle.

Fifteen or twenty indictments have been found against Maj. E. A. Burke. They include forgery, embezzlement and breach of trust.

If you suffer from any affection caused by impure blood, such as scrofula, salt rheum, sores, boils, pimples, tetter, ring worm, take Dr. J. H. McLean's Sarsaparilla.

Serious trouble is feared between squaw-men and white settlers near Fort Perry, in South Dakota.

The quality of the blood depends much upon good or bad digestion and assimilation. To make the blood rich in life and strength-giving constituents use Dr. J. H. McLean's Sarsaparilla. It will nourish the properties of the blood, from which the elements of vitality are drawn.

A red haired Englishman says that, in his native country they called him an "hauburn blonde," but over 'ere, in America, they call me a "red-headed son-of-a-gun."

Exposure to rough weather, getting wet, living in damp localities, are favorable to the contraction of diseases of the kidneys and bladder. As a preventive, and for the cure of all kidney and liver trouble, use that valuable remedy, Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm. $1.00 per bottle.

The first successful blood-purifier ever offered to the public was Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Imitators have had their day, but soon abandoned the field, while the demand for this incomparable medicine increases year by year, and was never so great as at present.

As a family medicine, Ayer's Pills excel all others. They are suited to every age and being sugar-coated, are easy to take. Though searching and thorough in effect, they are mild and pleasant in action, and their use is attended with no injurious results.

"It goes right to the spot," said an old man, who was rubbing in Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment to relieve rheumatism. oct31

BUSINESS LOCAL NOTICES.

The VIEW job office is prepared to do all kind of job work at short notice. Let us know what you want and we will give you extra low figures.

Go to Blank Brothers, Leading Clothiers, 2112, 2nd Avenue, Birmingham, Ala., to buy anything you need in the way of clothing and gent's furnishing goods.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of an execution issued out of the Register's office of the Chancery Court of Chilton county, Ala., in favor of Jonce L. Gardner, et. al. and against Maria L. Wilson, et. al., I will proceed to sell, at the courthouse door in Clanton, Ala., between the legal hours of sale, at public outcry, to the highest bidder for cash, on Monday, December 2d, 1889, the following described real estate, levied upon as the property of the said Maria L. Wilson, to-wit: The s e ¼ of the n w ¼ of section 33, township 22, range 12 east, lying south of the Selma and Montvallo road and west of Mulberry creek, and lying and being in Chilton county, Ala.

LEE HAYES,
Sheriff Chilton Co.
Clanton, Ala., October 29th, 1889.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
October 29, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the Circuit Court, Clanton, Ala., on December 14, 1889, viz: William Hendley, Jr., homestead 16165 for the n e ¼ of s w ¼, n w ¼ of s e ¼ and e ½ of s e ¼ sec 18, township 22 n, r 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: Wesley Noah, Sylvester Hendley, James N. Knox, Columbus Rutherford, all of Clanton, Ala.

oct31* J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

Tax Notice!

FIRST ROUND.

I will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and county taxes of Chilton county for the year 1889.

Mineral Springs	October	30
Jemison	"	31
Providence	"	29
Macedonia	November	4
Benson	"	5
Maplesville	"	6
R. Latham's	"	7
Dixie	"	8
Kincheon	"	12
Verbena	"	13
Cooper's	"	14
Clanton	"	15
Strasburg	"	16
Valley Creek Church	"	9
Clanton Ford	"	11

SECOND ROUND.

Mineral Springs	December	6
Jemison		7
Providence		8
Macedonia		9
Benson		10
Maplesville		11
R. Latham's		12
Dixie		13
Kincheon		17
Verbena		18
Cooper's		19
Valley Creek Church		14
Clanton Ford		16
Elijah Berry		5
John Archer's		4
Prim's School House		[illegible]
Clanton, December [illegible] and 31.

[illegible]

Sick Headache

IS a complaint from which many suffer and few are entirely free. Its cause is indigestion and a sluggish liver, the cure for which is readily found in the use of Ayer's Pills.

"I have found that for sick headache, caused by a disordered condition of the stomach, Ayer's Pills are the most reliable remedy."—Samuel C. Bradburn, Worthington, Mass.

"After the use of Ayer's Pills for many years, in my practice and family, I am justified in saying that they are an excellent cathartic and liver medicine—sustaining all the claims made for them."—W. A. Westfall, M. D., V. P. Austin & N. W. Railway Co., Burnet, Texas.

"Ayer's Pills are the best medicine known to me for regulating the bowels, and for all diseases caused by a disordered stomach and liver. I suffered for over three years from headache, indigestion, and constipation. I had no appetite and was weak and nervous most of the time. By using three boxes of Ayer's Pills, and at the same time dieting myself, I was completely cured."—Philip Lockwood, Topeka, Kansas.

"I was troubled for years with indigestion, constipation, and headache. A few boxes of Ayer's Pills, used in small daily doses, restored me to health. They are prompt and effective."—W. H. Strout, Meadville, Pa.

Ayer's Pills,

PREPARED BY
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Sold by all Druggists and Dealers in Medicine.

tma16

Jemison High School.

Good House, Well Furnished, Healthful Locality, Dry Sandy Roads, Good Board Cheap, Tuition Low, Maps, Globes, Charts, etc., Moral Community, Three Churches, No Whisky, Well Trained Teachers, Fine Success, Teachers Re-elected without a Dissenting Voice. Session opens Sept. 2d, 1889.

Apply to J. L. RUFFIN, JR.,
aug29 Principal.

CLANTON HIGH SCHOOL.

This School will open Monday, Sept. the 2nd, 1889. Advantages the best in the county. Rates low, board and tuition $10 per month. Patronage is earnestly desired. For further information address me at Clanton, Ala.

Respectfully,
A. J. SCOTT, Principal.

W. W. C.

(Wooldridge's Wonderful Cure)

Is the greatest Blood Purifier ever yet discovered. It never fails to cure when taken according to directions. Read what it has done for Mr. A. Kimbrough:

COLUMBUS, GA., July 15, 1889.

Wooldridge Wonderful Cure Co., Columbus, Ga.

GENTS:—After suffering for twenty years with my kidneys, and finding only temporary relief, after taking various remedies, and consulting some of the most noted physicians in the country, at a cost of hundreds of dollars, for no good, I decided to try W. W. C., and I must confess that I am to-day as well as I ever was, and that I suffer no pain whatever from my kidneys, and am feeling better in every respect than I have for years, and I attribute it all to two bottles of W. W. C.; and I would advise all who suffer in the least with kidney or bladder troubles to give W. W. C. a trial. Yours truly,

A. KIMBROUGH.

WOOLDRIDGE'S WONDERFUL CURE is a sure Remedy for Syphilis, Syphilitic Rheumatism, Chronic Rheumatism, Skin Diseases, Bone Diseases, Old Sores, Bilious Troubles, Liver Diseases, Jaundice, Bilious Headache, Dyspepsia, and all Diseases caused from Impure and Poisoned Blood or Hereditary Diseases.

For sale by all Druggists.

Manufactured by
Wooldridge Wonderful Cure Co.,
COLUMBUS, GA.
sep19 y

Wool Carding.

Our Cards are now running and doing good work. Bring or send your work to E. G. WALKER,
sep19 2m Montevallo, Ala.

Highest cash price paid for wool.

Barber Shop.

Mr. H. A. Logan, who has his barber shop in the Farmer's Alliance Building, solicits the patronage of the good people of Clanton. He does good work and is well fixed up for the business.

Remember
The View Job Office
When you want
First-class Job Printing done.

ALABAMA CENTRAL FEMALE COLLEGE.

While the patronage of many other schools in the Town and State has diminished, the attendance at this College has increased 37 per cent. during the past Session. Literary, Scientific, Music and Art Departments under the direction of skillful teachers. Send for catalogue.

32nd Session opens September 12, 1889.
S. B. FOSTER, President, Tuskaloosa, Ala.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

Land Office, Montgomery, Ala.,
Sept. 12, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 28th, 1889, viz: Jeffie J. Scoggins, widow of Emsley Bearden, deceased, homestead 14401 for the n e ¼ of s w ¼ and s e ¼ of n w ¼ [illegible]

The Lawson Carpet Co.

Birmingham, Ala.

Take pleasure in directing the attention of the people of Chilton county to their large and attractive stock of

Carpets, Oil-cloths, Window Shades,

Curtains & Household Novelties.

The Stock represented is the finest in Alabama, and prices are guaranteed as low as similar goods are offered in any of the eastern markets.

☞ All communications answered by return mail. Respectfully,

ma30-y THE LAWSON CARPET CO. (WM. LAWSON.)

BAINS & PORTER.

(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & PEEBLES.)

WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.

Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.

FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY

1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS

Birmingham, Ala.

☞ Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜

P. O. BOX 570. June 18 y

LOOK HERE!

New Stock! Low Prices!

—AT—

W. M. Wilson & Bro.'s

CLANTON, ALA.

We have opened a Large Stock of Dry Goods, Groceries and General Merchandise at our old Stand, and we have come to stay. We invite an inspection of our goods and prices.

☞ SHOES AND HATS A SPECIALTY. ☜

THOMAS FOSHEE,

(SUCCESSOR TO N. W. FOSHEE.)

—DEALER IN—

Dry Goods, Groceries

—AND—

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

Maplesville, Alabama.

I solicit a continuance of the liberal patronage heretofore extended our house. Respectfully,

feb 28-y THOMAS FOSHEE.

B. WOLFF'S

FURNITURE EMPORIUM,

20 and 22 Commerce and Corner Court and Coosa Streets.

—MONTGOMERY, ALA.—

CARRIES

The Largest and Cheapest Stock of Furniture

IN THE STATE.

sep11-6 ☞ When you come to the city, give me a call. ☜

WALL PAPER,

WINDOW SHADES,

MOULDINGS,

—AND—

PRACTICAL PAPER HANGER.

H. M. MANCHA,

204 DEXTER AVENUE, MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA.

☞ Papers furnished at any price from 10 cents up. Will send samples on application. apr 11-y

BIRMINGHAM MARBLE WORKS.

THOS. H. HOLT,

PRACTICAL WORKMAN.

—AND DEALER IN—

American and Italian Marble.

— Manufacturer of all kinds of —

CEMETERY MARBLE AND STONE WORK.

[illegible]

rpet Co.
Ala. he attention of
to their large ck of low Shades,
l Novelties.
d prices are guaranteed as markets.
Respectfully,
T CO. (Wm. Lawson.)

TER.
EBLES.)
GISTS.
ceive Prompt At-
A SPECIALTY
d 20th STREETS
Ala.
pany's Prices.
June 19 y

RE!
y Prices!
& Bro.'s
LA.
roceries and General Mer-stay. We invite an ces.
CIALTY.

SHEE, IEE,) ceries
ANDISE.
bama.
atronage heretofore
OMAS FOSHEE.

F'S ORIUM,
Coosa Streets.
ck of Furniture
TE.
e a call.

PER,
DOW SHADES,
ULDINGS,
—AND—
AL PAPER HANGER.
HA,
Y, ALABAMA. cents up. Will send apr 11-y

WORKS.
OLT, RKMAN.
n Marble.
TONE WORK.
rch Street,
Alabama.

CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., OCT. 31, 1889.

THE VIEW is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

A cross mark (X) after your name means that your subscription is due and that we would be glad to have you renew.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the second Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—On the eleventh Monday after the fourth Monday in February, and on the thirteenth Monday after the fourth Monday in August, and may continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD. —Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.
No. 1 Express at	3:55 a. m.
No. 3 Mail	5:37 p. m.
No. 5 (Passenger)	6:17 p. m.
No. 9 Accommodation	6:45 a. m.
GOING NORTH.
No. 2 Fast (Don't Stop)	2:20 a. m.
No. 6 Mail	9:18 a. m.
No. 4 Express	7:55 p. m.
No. 10 Accommodation	7:22 p. m.

LOCAL LACONICS.

Mr. Canty Brown was in Clanton Tuesday on business.

Mr. B. H. Chestnut spent Sunday with his family in Clanton.

Mr. Berry Cast has been at home the past week on the sick list.

Mrs. Hannon has returned from a pleasant visit to Montgomery.

Go out to the oyster supper tomorrow night at the Courthouse.

Grandma Sexton has been visiting Birmingham the past week

Miss Frenchie Evans has been visiting friends in Birmingham.

Mr. Green Jones, from near Sylacauga, visited our town the past week.

When nature falters and requires help recruit her enfeebled energies with Dr. J. H. McLean's strengthening cordial and blood purifier. $1.00 per bot.

Col. Virgil Murphy, of Jemison, paid Clanton a brief visit Friday.

An excellent stock of new job printing stationery just received at the VIEW office.

A child of Mr. J. H. Aldridge was severely burned one day during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Phillips have removed to Montgomery and are domiciled at 319 Goldthwaite Street.

Sick headace, wind on the stomach, billiousness, nausea, are promptly and agreeably banished by Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pillets. 25 c a vial.

Mr. Lucien Day has recovered from an attack of fever and is at work again.

Mr. W. H. Foshee has returned from his Texas trip, and seems to have enjoyed the recreation.

Mr. Shep Allen was in town Saturday. He hopes to open his store here about Christmas.

Rev. and Mrs. Duval, of Missouri, have been visiting relatives near Clanton, Mr. O. A. Duke's family.

Mr. John Frymire has taken Mr. Hanley's place as railroad supervisor, and will move his family to Clanton.

Mr. J. I. Cox, one of Dixie's fat and jolly farmers was in town Saturday and gave the VIEW a pleasant call, leaving with us a few dollars of his wealth on suscription. We appreciate the kind words which he had for the VIEW.

We received a pleasant call from Mr. Jno. F. Estes traveling representative of Dr. J. H. McLean, of St. Louis, Mo. It is always a pleasure to meet a gentleman who displays so much courtesy in business transactions, and one who appreciates a good advertising medium when he finds it.

Notice to the Public.

From November 1st to January 1st, no goods will be sold on credit at my store, and I hope no one will get their feelings hurt by failing to get credit. I intend to meet any competition in this market, and in order to do so I must sell for the money down.

All parties who have not yet paid their accounts for this year are earnestly requested to call and settle at once.

Respectfully,
W. C. [illegible]

Public school patrons turned out very well Monday in response to Dr. Stewart's call.

Mrs. J. T. B. Chandler leaves to-morrow for Georgia, where she will visit relatives.

Mr. Harry Herbert visited friends in Clanton, Saturday. He has moved from Jemison to Anniston.

Mr. A. C. Pool brought to our office yesterday three stalks of cane, of three varieties, one stalk being blue, another green and a third striped blue and green.

Mr. John N. Thornton was brought home from Sheffield last Thursday morning. He is still weak, but is gaining strength steadily and we hope to see him out again soon.

Rev. A. E. Burns has resigned the pastorate of the Clanton Baptist Church. We have not learned who will be called to fill his place, but have heard that Rev. Catt. Smith will be.

Oyster Supper.

To-morrow (Friday) night at the Courthouse for the benefit of the Baptist Church. Every body is invited to attend and aid a worthy cause.

The Southern Building and Loan Association of Huntsville have organized a branch board here. The officers of the local board are: W. L. Sanfpey, President; Dr. A. E. Bivings, Sec'y and Treas.; W. A. Collier, Attorney. Those desiring information can call upon the Secretary.

If you suffer pricking pains on moving the eyes, or cannot bear bright light, and find your sight weak and failing, you should promptly use Dr. J. H. McLean's Stregthening Eye Salve. 25 cents a box.

There are many accidents and diseases which affect stock and cause serious inconvenience and loss to the farmer in his work, which may be quickly remedied by the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment.

MR. EDITOR:—Many are the individuals now being suggested for the next Governor of Alabama, perhaps all of whom are good and true men, and while we have no disposition to disparage the claims of any, yet when we cast our eyes around for some one who has all the attainments necessary to fill so important a position there is no name that looms up with more brilliancy than that of Gen. Geo. P. Harrison, of Lee.

Gen. Harrison from his earliest manhood has been a success. Being a man of indomitable will and untiring energy, coupled with a giant intellect, he has filled with honor every position with which he has been intrusted. As a soldier in the late war he rose to the rank of Brig. General, and his record is bright, glorious and imperishable, and his name will ever shine with a lustre worthy of the cause for which he battled. As President of the State Senate his services are known to the State, and no predecessor reflected more credit upon himself or the body over which he presided; as a lawyer he stands in the front ranks of the profession, as a Democrat he has ever been found battling for the best interest of the party, and his untiring efforts in its behalf are not forgotten by the people who would be proud to honor him. [illegible]

HERMAN HERZFELD,
—DEALER IN—
All Kinds of Furniture at all Prices.
Parlor and Bed-Room Suits, Carpets, Oil Cloths, Mattings, Blankets, Comforts and Lace Goods.
Everything necessary in the House-Furnishing Goods Line.
NINETEENTH STREET, BETWEEN FIRST AND SECOND AVENUES
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

—Office of—
FARMERS'
Alliance Exchange
UNION WAREHOUSE.

MONTGOMERY, ALA., Sept. 16, 1889.

DEAR SIR:—We invite your attention to our large and commodious Warehouses near the Union Passenger Depot in rear of the Windsor Hotel in this city. We are prepared to store or sell cotton to the best advantage and to fully protect the planters' interest by always obtaining the highest market price on day of sale. Our rates of storage are cheaper than any other Warehouse in the city from the fact that we charge no drayage where cotton is shipped by rail or boat.

We have every protection against fire that is possible to be had, and are above high water. We make liberal advances on cotton in store.

Your patronage is respectfully solicited.

JNO. S. BIRD, Business Manager.

Attention Farmers!

THIS IS A FARMER'S WAREHOUSE UNDER THE CONTROL OF FARMERS WHO ARE DETERMINED TO HANDLE THEIR OWN COTTON AND TO FREE THEMSELVES FROM THE CHARGES THEY HAVE BEEN COMPELLED TO PAY.

Farmers' Co-Operative Association!

THE CHARGES FOR HANDLING COTTON WILL BE FIFTY CENTS PER BALE FOR THE FIRST MONTH AND TWENTY-FIVE CENTS FOR EACH SUCCEEDING MONTH. CONSULT YOUR INTEREST AND STORE YOUR COTTON IN THE

SOUTHERN WAREHOUSE.

NO COMMISSION FOR SELLING, AND NO CHARGES FOR DRAYAGE OR RE-WEIGHING. FREE WAGON YARD.
THE ALLIANCE MEN OF CHILTON COUNTY ARE RECOMMENDED TO DEAL WITH US.
W. H. LAWSON, GENERAL MANAGER,

MONTGOMERY, ALA.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 11, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver of the U. S. Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., on December 12, 1889, viz: John Burmister, homestead 16141, for the s e ¼ of n e ¼, e ½ of s e ¼, n w ¼ of s e ¼ sec 26 t 20 n r 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: E. H. Smith Thomas Cox, G. C. Carwile and C. D. A. Deramus, all of Verbena, Ala.

oct 17o J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Sep. 10, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 26, 1889, viz: John D. Campbell, Homestead entry 19401 for the s e ¼ of sec 32 t 21 n r 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: James I. Cox, E. J. Milling, Frank Harris and Henry Friday, all of Dixie, Ala.

sep19c J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

Register's Sale.

M. V. Northcut, Complainant vs. John W. Allen, Defendant. Chancery Court.

By virtue of a decree rendered at the Fall Term A. D. 1889, of the Chancery Court at Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama, in said cause, I shall proceed to sell to the highest and best bidder, for cash, at Public Auction at the Courthouse door in Clanton, within the legal hours of sale

On Monday, the 18th of November, 1889

the following described real estate to-wit: The n w ¼ of section 8, and the s e ¼ of s w ¼ of section 8, all in township 2[illegible], range 1[illegible] east, lying and being in the county of Chilton. [illegible]

[illegible]

Register's Sale.

Mary C. Gammon, Adm'r, &c., Complainant. vs. George Martin, Defendant. Chancery court.

By virtue of a decree rendered at the Fall Term A. D., 1889, of the Chancery Court, at Clanton, Chilton County, Alabama, in said cause, I shall proceed to sell to the highest and best bidder for cash, at Public Auction, at the Courthouse door in Clanton, within the legal hours of sale

On Monday, the 18th of November, 1889

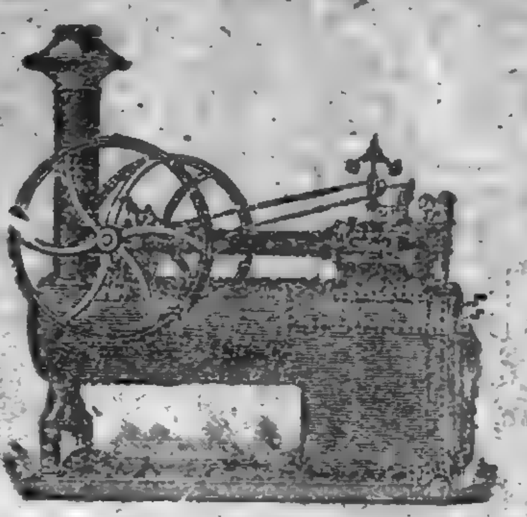
the following described real estate to-wit: The s w ¼ of s e ¼ of section 11, township [illegible] range [illegible], lying and being situated in Chilton county, Alabama, to satisfy said decree.

[illegible]

A. E. BIVINGS,
—DEALER IN—
DRUGS, AND Medicines, FAMILY Groceries, ETC.
Clanton, Alabama.
I can furnish you anything you may wish in the way of DRUGS AND MEDICINES. I also handle THE BEST GROCERIES TO BE HAD, and you will find my prices to suit the times. [mar29]

BUY YOUR
PIANOS and ORGANS
—FROM—
GRAMBS & BUCHANAN,
—2107 SECOND AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—
THE VERY LOWEST CASH PRICES, or on easy installments. Sohmer, Cranich & Bach, Gabler, Wheelock and Newby & Evans Pianos, and the world renowned Wilcox & White organs. Mail orders for sheet music or musical merchandise given prompt attention.
Write for Catalogue. jul18
When ordering please state in what paper you saw our advertisement.

CRELLIN & NALLS,
BOILER MAKERS



Copper and Sheet Iron Workers
Chimneys, Tanks, and Repairing of All Kinds.
Saw Mill Work a Specialty.
AVENUE C AND TWENTY-SECOND STREET, SOUTHSIDE,
Birmingham, Ala.
mar21 y

GEO. W. COOK & CO.,
Wholesale and Retail
Dealers in Staple and Fancy Groceries, Fruits, Produce, Wines, Liquors. Our pure unpainted Roasted Coffee, and Manufacturers of High Grade pure Stick Candy, all of which we sell by the pound, package or car load. Sole agents for the Celebrated Bethesda Water.
37 COMMERCE STREET,
Montgomery, Alabama.
oct17-tf

MONTGOMERY IRON WORKS.
MACHINISTS & FOUNDERS
Dealers in Fittings, Supplies and Machinery
OF ALL KINDS.
MAKERS OF ENGINES, CANE MILLS, COTTON SEED CRUSHERS, SAW MILLS, LIVE ROLLS, LOG HAULUPS, &c.
ESPECIAL ATTENTION TO WANTS OF SAW MILL MEN
nov 8-y

INSURE WITH
The Commercial Fire Insurance Company,
Montgomery, Alabama.
Capital $100,000. Surplus $146,578.
Directors:—P. J. Anderson, C. A. Lanier, H. C. Tompkins, A. M. Kennedy, M. P. LeGrand, S. C. Marks, J. H. Clisby, C. W. Buckley, Frank Duncan.
W. H. Lawrence, Agt., Clanton.

Roberts & Son,
Steam Printers and Binders,
1918 FIRST AVENUE, BET. 19th & 20th STREETS,
Birmingham, Ala.
BLANK BOOKS TO ORDER. WORK PROMPTLY DELIVERED.
dec5 ay

1889 1890
S. C. MARKS, P. H. S. GAYLE, WM. A. GAYLE.
MARKS & GAYLE,
The Montgomery Warehouse.
Just back of the Exchange Hotel. Very convenient to the business portion and close to the Fire Department.
ALL COTTON CAREFULLY WEIGHED & HANDLED.
Bagging and Ties at Lowest Rates.
[illegible]

A. M. RAMED,
DENTIST.
VERBENA, ALA.
Will respond to calls along railroad between Calera and Deatsville
[mar15 y]

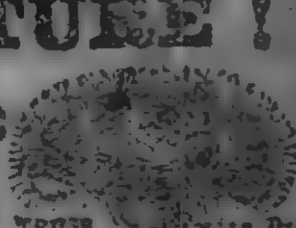
S. P. TRESSLAR,
Photographer,
10 COURT SQUARE,
Montgomery.
Photographs on Silk, Satin and Linen. Photographs on Watch dials.
Portraits in Crayon, Pastile, India Ink and Water Colors.
All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.
Correspondence solicited.
Always glad to have you call at the gallery, and examine specimens of the work on exhibition.
[jan21-tf]

J. H. SHEPHERD
THE LEADING
PHOTOGRAPHER.
—OF—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE
(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)
Photographs of All Kinds
Work Done in the
BEST STYLE.
Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y]

DR. OWEN'S
ELECTRIC BELT
AND SUSPENSORY.
PATENTED AUG. 16, 1887. IMPROVED JULY 30, 1889.

DR. OWEN'S ELECTRIC INSOLES
OWEN ELECTRIC BELT & APPLIANCE CO.
306 North Broadway, ST. LOUIS, MO.

RUPTURE!
ELECTRIC BELT AND TRUSS COMBINED.
DR. ISRAEL'S ELECTRO-GALVANIC TRUSS, with Dr. Owen's Electric Belt Attachment.



For full description of Dr. Owen's Electro-Galvanic Belts, Spinal Appliances, Trusses and Insoles send 6c. for free illustrated pamphlet which will be sent you in plain sealed envelope.
OWEN ELECTRIC BELT & APPLIANCE CO.
306 North Broadway, ST. LOUIS, MO.
sep 5

HERBINE
After ten years exclusive sale, can now be obtained of all Druggists and Dealers in Medicines. It CURES—take notice—not simply helps but CURES LIVER COMPLAINT, Biliousness and Dyspepsia.
Is a strictly vegetable preparation and will CURE MALARIA, and all MALARIAL troubles.
Dr. S. H. Wise, of Boston, Ky. says: "Have practiced medicine 15 years, and find no equal to HERBINE as a Liver Regulator."
Dr. W. A. Baker, of Madison, Mo., says: "A bottle of HERBINE is worth more than $5.00 worth of Quinine in any family."
Acting on the Liver in a different way from any other medicine; it is a positive cure for Chronic Constipation and is cheaper than a doctor.
Its peculiar composition is such, that we guarantee to cure any case of Chills and Fever or Bilious Fever with one bottle.
It costs but 75 cents and each bottle contains over 40 average doses, making the cost less than two cents a dose. Would you ask for cheaper medicine? It is not a cure-all. But will cure any Liver, Bilious or Malarial Complaint. Manufactured by
The Herbine Co.,
(Successors to Wm. Condell,) St. Louis, Mo.
mar 14-y

PISO'S CURE FOR
TWENTY-FIVE CENTS
Piso's Cure for Consumption is also the best Cough Medicine.
If you have a Cough without disease of the Lungs, a few doses are all you need. But if you neglect this easy means of safety, the slight Cough may become a serious matter, and several bottles will be required.
CONSUMPTION
PISO'S REMEDY FOR CATARRH gives immediate relief. Catarrhal virus is soon expelled from the system, and the diseased action of the mucous membrane is replaced by healthy secretions.
The dose is small. One package contains a sufficient quantity for a long treatment.
CATARRH
A Cold in the Head is relieved by an application of Piso's Remedy for Catarrh. The comfort to be got from it in this way is worth many times its cost.
Easy and pleasant to use.
Price, 50 cents. Sold by druggists or sent by mail.
E. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.
nov22-y

ALLEGER'S
GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES!
FROM $35, to $65.
[illegible]

AGRICULTURAL.

TOPICS OF INTEREST RELATIVE TO FARM AND GARDEN.

THE ADVANTAGES OF ENSILAGE.

The advantages of the process of ensilage are gradually becoming realized, as experience and adaptation of it to new uses are extending. It has been found that it is a substitute for summer soiling crops, the use of which has been objected to on the score of the great cost of cutting and carrying the heavy fresh fodder, in detail, day by day to the stock. By means of ensilage all this work is done at once, and the fodder is stored in mass in the silo, where it is preserved for use, and thus the enorous daily labor of cutting the fodder is dispensed with. It has been found that the ensilage may be kept over the winter into the next summer in perfectly good condition for feeding cows, up to the time when the new crop of clover is ready to be cut and put away in the silo. Thus there is the regular rotation of crops grown, as under the ordinary system of soiling, but the labor of daily cutting and carting is done away with, and the sole work consists in distributing the fodder as it is wanted. This very much reduces the cost of feeding the cows, and removes the only objection which, by the way, has always been considered futile by those who have skillfully practiced it, against the ordinary method of soiling. Thus the use of silo has been greatly extended with a corresponding saving of labor in the work of the dairy. —New York Times.

THE COWS OVER NIGHT.

The stable has many advantages—provided it is kept clean, sweet and thoroughly ventilated. These are three essential conditions. Without them the stable is about the worst place in which a cow can be kept over night during hot weather. A close, foul stable taints the milk and enfeebles the cow. But the stable affords protection from storms and insects and keeps the cows quiet. They are there ready for milking in the morning, but unless milked early they are deprived of the early morning bite, when the grass is cool and sweet.

Few barnyards are fit for cows to lie down in over night. In case of rain they are pretty sure to be muddy, and unless great pains are taken to keep them clean the cows will get besmeared with filth and present anything but a pleasing appearance to a tidy milker. The air of the barnyard is not usually the sweetest possible for cows to inhale, while little or no protection is afforded, unless sheds are provided. These are of but partial utility, as they are pretty sure to be monopolized by a few of the strongest animals, but would be more useful if the cows were without horns. Then they are apt to get filthy, like the yard which they face, and too often the water settles under them when it rains hard.

A night pasture, close by, is a good thing. Cows do not suffer much from exposure in hot weather and such a pasture gives room to move around and keep clean. The air is sweet and there may be grass enough to give the cows a chance to crop a little, early and late, if they choose, and it is not much trouble to get at them for milking.—Indiana Farmer.

SKIM MILK FOR HEIFERS.

Many persons are deterred from keeping a dairy or even one cow because in the profitable disposal of the skim milk it has seemed necessary to keep a pen of pigs. The ill odors of the pen, and a dislike for the animals themselves, seem to be the usual grounds of opposition. The Observer commends to the swine haters the following communication which appears in Hoard's Dairyman:

"Mr. L. T. Abbott, of Lewiston, Maine, thinks he has found a more economical way to dispose of the skim milk of the dairy farm than to feed it to swine exclusively. He says:

"'From some experience in feeding skim milk to young stock of the bovine tribe, I am inclined to accord to the practice better results than when fed exclusively to swine. It has a twofold value fed to young stock, especially heifers. It is the natural food of the young animal, and to give them the food nature designed they should have till twelve or fifteen months or more of age, tends to better development of the whole system, including the lacteal organs and those organs more immediately connected with the udder, the vascular system which supplies through the so-called milk veins the blood to the inguinal vein.

"'For the past four years I have made a practice of feeding the skim milk to heifers till a year or more old. I have one now that has had it daily for twelve months. This has been her only extra food besides hay since four months old. Whether sweet or sour it is eaten with as keen a relish as though just from the cow. A heifer three years old in March was fed the same way. She came in when two years old. She averaged a pound of butter a day after the calf was weaned, April 15, till December, and six pounds a week through the winter, and gave two quarts of milk a day till she calved, the present month. The other heifer, now a yearling, has every indication that she will develop into as good a butter maker. These heifers retain their appetite for skim milk after they come into the dairy themselves, and the question whether skim milk might not be fed to cows to advantage, is an open one. From my experience in this line I can confidently expect to see this method of disposing of a portion of the skim milk on our dairy farms adopted and favorable results accrue from it.'"

FARM AND GARDEN NOTES.

The cows need salt, shade and pure water these hot days.

To churn with a steady motion makes the butter come quicker.

When labeling the garden seeds do not forget to mark them 1889.

There is no better time for putting in tile draining than during the fall.

Can you give any reason why your horse should not have a warm house as well as your cattle and horses?

Better and more vigorous plants can be secured if the runners are kept off strawberry plants. After the plants have fruited they usually start out runners.

Does the farmer give the same attention to his poultry as he does to his horses, cattle and sheep? If not, should he complain that his poultry is not profitable?

On threshing day see that the good wife has a bountiful supply of good dry wood, neatly cut and handy to get at. [illegible] and don't [illegible] to dig the potatoes.

HOUSEHOLD MATTERS.

HOW TO MAKE AN OMELET.

First open out two nice fresh eggs
Be careful not to spatter;
Whip up the whites to a stiff foam,
The yolks to a stiff batter.
Add to the yolks a little milk,
About a gill you'd better;
Then season as you have been taught
With salt and pepper.

Then lastly add the beaten whites,
And stir in very lightly;
Unless you heed with care this rule,
Your dish may be unsightly!
Have ready in a frying-pan
A good-sized piece of butter,
Put on the stove and wait until
You hear it sputter!

When this shall hiss, you'll know it's hot
And for the mixture ready;
So put it in, and do not spill—
Your hand you must keep steady.
Now watch it till the foam is set,
Then place in a warm oven;
Be careful not to let it scorch,
That would look sloven.

This omelet I think should cook
Ten minutes to the letter;
And when it's done should look like gold,
And taste very much better!
Reverse upon a nice warm plate,
Be sure you do not break it;
With pleasure to the dining-room
Now you may quickly take it.

BRONZING.

Many articles about the house may be brightened wonderfully by the application of bronzing. If you depend on the liquid bronze sold in small bottles you will find that it costs considerable to cover much surface, but if you buy bronze powder such as gas-fitters use on pipes, and mix it with a size of two parts linseed oil and one part coach varnish, you will find that a great deal may be done at little cost. To use it, pour some of the size into a shallow dish—a sauce plate is good—being sure to shake it up well first, so that the oil and varnish will mix. Put some of the powder into another plate. Dip your brush in the size, and mix up a little of the powder at a time. It should be thick enough to form a good body, and must not run. It dries rapidly. If the lustre is not enough after once going over the article, give it a second coat. Old frames can be made to look like new in this way. It can be applied to metal or wood. Anyone who can use a brush can apply it satisfactorily.—American Agriculturist.

THE CHRONIC BORROWER.

A woman who is always "just out" of the small wares of the kitchen is a nuisance to the community. She will run in on you at any and all hours, and want to borrow just a little sugar, or spice, till she can send to the grocer's. She really did not know she was anywhere near out, till she was about her cooking, and then she found she hadn't a dust of sugar in the house, and not a soul around anywhere that she could send out after any. And she will tell you that she does so hate to trouble you; for if there is anything on earth she dislikes to do it is to borrow—and she never does it when she can help it; but now her piecrust is all on the plates, and she was obliged to, because she could not spare time to run to the grocer's. And she will sit down in your kitchen half an hour, and talk about everybody in town; and, meanwhile, she will take an account of everything her eye falls on, and collect capital for endless gossip as to your habits and methods.

When the borrower returns what she borrows it is always in a little smaller measure, if, indeed, she returns it at all. And you may congratulate yourself if you get half what belongs to you. A regular borrower will borrow everything, from a piece of salt fish for breakfast down to your boy if you have one.

The book borrower is even a greater nuisance than the woman who borrows household supplies. She never hesitates to ask for the choicest or costliest books in your house. And she seems to think that she confers a favor on you by so asking. And if you are foolish enough to lend, the possibility is that you will have to go after the books in question, and will find on doing so that she has lent them to some friend of hers, who wanted to read them, and she will tell you that she knew you would be willing—for you are so good-natured. Never have a borrower for a neighbor—if you can help it.—Yankee Blade.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Cups and saucers stained with tea may be made bright again by using damp salt.

If the surface of fine wood cabinets has grown dull go over it with a very little linseed oil on a soft woolen rag.

An authority says that fish sauce should always be thick enough to adhere to the fish. It is better to be too thick than too thin.

Willow furniture should be scrubbed well with salt and water, applied with a nail brush, to clean it. Dry it thoroughly.

In putting down carpets if care is exercised in thoroughly drying the floors beforehand, the moths will not be so liable to bother in the house.

Two tablespoonfuls of washing soda in a gallon of boiling water makes a good disinfectant for the kitchen sink. Pour it in at night, while it is still at boiling heat.

To set colors in embroidered handkerchiefs, soak them ten minutes previous to washing in a pail of tepid water, in which a dessertspoonful of turpentine has been well stirred.

After beating an egg thoroughly in a bowl, add a cup of cold water and use enough of this to wet your coffee when making. Keep it in a cool place and so waste no more egg by drying.

Make a list, in the order in which you pack them, of the contents of your woolen chest, and paste it on the outside. Then the articles at the head of the list will be in the bottom of the box.

An excellent way of cooking eggs is to break them in boiling milk, without beating; cook slowly, stirring now and then. When done soft, pour into a dish and add a little pepper, salt and butter.

When you boil a cabbage tie a bit of dry bread in a bag and put it in the kettle. French cooks say that all the unpleasant odor, which makes the house smell like an old drain, will be absorbed by the bread.

No matter how large the spot of oil, any carpet or woolen stuff can be cleaned by applying buckwheat plentifully and faithfully, brushing it into a dustpan after a short time, and putting on fresh until the oil has all disappeared.

It is a great help to have a kitchen table covered with a piece of zinc, smoothly nailed over the edges. It saves the time and labor spent in continually scouring the table, for it can be thoroughly cleaned in a few seconds by wiping it with a wet cloth.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

PLEASANT LITERATURE FOR FEMININE READERS.

CARE OF THE HANDS.

One who has suffered from chapped hands says: With care the hands may be kept smooth, even by those who handle the dishcloth. For cleansing the hands use oatmeal instead of soap, or a little ammonia or borax in the water they are washed in. Be careful to dry them thoroughly every time they are washed, and then to apply a little vaseline or cold cream, wiping the hands after the application. Oxalic acid in a weak solution will remove stains, or, what is better, a bit of lemon, for oxalic acid is poison and must not be permitted to touch an abraded part of the skin. At night rub oatmeal over the hands and wear a pair of gloves a size or two large. This is especially for those who, after their housework is done, sit down to the piano or occupy themselves with fine sewing or silk embroidery.—New York Telegram.

THE PRETTY WOMEN OF WASHINGTON.

Surely there is not another city in these United States which can boast so many pretty women as Washington. The stranger is immediately struck with the prevalence of female beauty here, more especially if he has just arrived from Boston, where one may walk the most crowded thoroughfares for hours without beholding a single instance of it. In this town youthful loveliness in petticoats is to be seen everywhere. During the cooler hours of the afternoons the streets are a paradeground for troops of sweet young girls, like so many budding roses in their dresses of snowy cambric and muslin. To find a plain one among them would be difficult indeed. This style of dress, of all costumes the most appropriate and becoming for maidenhood, is tabooed in the modern Athens, where it would be considered in bad taste for a lady to appear out-of-doors in other than a cloth gown. The beauty of Washington women, too, is of a peculiarly delicious kind, in type distinctively Southern, with the soft roundness and delicate tinting of a race not indigenous to New England.—New Orleans Picayune.

A LOST ART.

One of the great obstacles to good conversation nowadays, and one that cannot be too much deplored, is the indistinct articulation which is becoming so general. Women adopt it under the impression that it is society's tone. Even young girls, forgetting the all-potent charm of simplicity, will study to acquire it. In men the same fault becomes more strongly marked, and a lisping drawl is the usual medium by which the world is made aware of the fact that one of fashion's petted darlings is making a remark. Faulty articulation is also very common among public speakers. This is, no doubt, to a certain extent due to the natural trepidation and the anguish which seizes some men unaccustomed to speak outside their own family circles when called upon to make a speech. Hence the unfortunate mistakes made, especially at weddings, when an impromptu orator is, from some unknown reason, impelled to mention all the cupboard skeletons which he was most desirous to leave untouched. Fortunately, the fashion of wedding speeches is dying out with the absence of wedding breakfasts, and none of us will regret that there is one occasion less for a speech to be forced into incompetent hands—or mouths.

But we must not forget that talk, however distinct, is not conversation. Mere talk is only the pied-a-terre of any passing idea which must be got rid of as soon as possible, as if the brain could never bear the strain of harboring too much at one time. Hence the constant repetition of the same words which do duty on so many occasions, and which relieve us of the trouble of thinking out a new formula.

Another very important branch of the art of conversation is the power of listening. This may sound paradoxical, but its importance is, nevertheless, great. All cannot talk well, but all can learn to listen, and a good listener is as rare, and almost as precious a specimen of humanity as a good talker. I say almost, for notwithstanding the saying that "Speech is silver and silence gold"—a maxim which, no doubt, owes its exaggeration to its foundation of truth—we all agree that silence is better than speech only when speech is bad.—Woman's World.

FASHION NOTES.

Rich, delicate, fancy jewelry is again in high fashion.

There are small mantles of velvet and lace, the velvet portion quite short with dolman sleeves.

Irish poplins are now woven as supple as cashmere, and are very popular for elegant gowns.

Edenburgh diagonal is a new dress material, very stylish and appropriate for general wear.

The long, low toques of the season just past reappear for the autumn in lace, felt and velvet.

One of the prettiest among the Eiffel Tower ornaments is a candlestick produced in filagree silver.

The favorite traveling cloak for early autumn wear is made of Carmelite, Eiffel red, modore brown or silver gray.

Pretty checked fabrics are shown for the children in cream and brown, black and white, etc., with gay Scotch borders.

Matrons wear dressy visiting wraps of black faille, in close redingote shape with garnitures of jet and fine Chantilly lace.

Very dressy cloth jackets to wear over tailor gowns are made with full sleeves of velvet much wrinkled about the arm.

Piccadilly wools are new. They are in solid colors, a shaded effect being produced by varying the manner of weaving.

Drum majors' embroidery in gold lace is now exactly reproduced on the newest cloth suits made for the ladies of the English royal family.

The new English walking hats have lower crowns than those now worn, and many of them are turned up at the back as well as at the side.

A Wedding-Day Couplet.

An old adage thus lays down the proper days for wedlock:

[illegible]

WORDS OF WISDOM.

Time and opportunity lost is eternally lost.

If a woman hadn't her weak points she would be an angel.

What we call time enough always proves little enough.

No man can afford to have faults, the people exaggerate them all.

The man who knows himself thoroughly has little confidence in others.

The good things a man does are hard to remember, the evil things are dreadful easy.

Were we as eloquent as angels, we should please some more by listening than by talking.

If you haven't the moral courage to laugh at sneerers, then you are another of nature's mistakes.

Happiness is a perfume that one cannot shed over another without a few drops falling on one's self.

In family government let this always be remembered, that no reproof or denunciation is so potent as the silent influence of a good example.

They who delay setting out, merely because the road is difficult, or that they cannot see to the end of the journey, are in danger of being belated.

A lie depends more upon scientific terms than the truth does, for however simple the words are that repeat the truth they detract no luster from its changeless character.

No man ever talked of his work without saying something about its great mental strain. We suppose that even the wood-chopper thinks it is brain work that makes him so tired at night.

A man sees an idea so much quicker when a popular name is attached to it, that it suggests a motive, either that he is too tired think for himself, or he hopes to be mistaken for a sensible man.

Husband and wife—so much in common, how different in type! She all golden hues and softness, he all dark shades and energy; her step so light and child-like, his so manly and steady. Such a contrast, and yet such a harmony, strength and weakness blended together.

A wise man will turn adverse criticisms and malicious attacks to good account. He will consider carefully whether there is not in him some weakness or fault which, although he never discovered, was plain to the eye of his enemy. Many men profit more by the assaults of foes than by the kindness of friends.

A Minister Nonplussed.

Harriet Beecher Stowe's son, Rev. Charles B. Stowe, of Hartford, Conn., met with an experience the other evening which completely nonplussed him, says the Chicago Herald.

One evening quite recently he dined with Mrs. J. W. Boardman, proprietress of the Hotel Woodruff. Visiting Mrs. Boardman is a cute little niece about five years old. She is a regular chatterbox and makes many bright remarks during the day. Fearing lest the child would astonish the preacher by some outlandish saying, her aunt warned her to keep mum during the dinner.

The admonition was listened to with awe, and at the table the little one scarcely dared look at Mr. Stowe, not wishing to commit a supposed sin. While the servant was absent from the room, the little girl noticed there was no butter on her small pink dish.

She didn't mind holding her tongue, but to eat bread without butter—that would never do. She took a survey of the table, and lo and behold, the butter-dish was directly in front of the preacher. Wistfully she gazed at both for a few seconds. Never in her brief existence did she appear so pensive. Then gathering all her courage and clearing her throat, she said:

"Dear pastor, won't you please, for God's sake, pass the butter?"

Rev. Mr. Stowe never received such a shock. He leaned over in his chair to pick up his napkin, which, of course, had not fallen. Mrs. Boardman must at that moment arrange a window-curtain, and other guests were suddenly troubled with a friendly cough.

Little Mabel, self-satisfied that she had done the proper thing, was the only one at the table who could positively prove that she was alive.

The London Strike Leader.

It is curious to note, by the way, how the whole East End is full of stories of John Burns. He is the English proletariat hero of the nineteenth century, and if we lived in the Middle Ages, we should probably be having a John Burns legend which would land him in saintship. The extraordinary way in which he contrives to attract the affections of the people, as well as their respect, is a subject of universal remark. John is not only leader and orator-in-chief for his host of dockers, but he keeps his marching legions in line with a thrust from his sturdy arms which would settle a good many dockers offhand. But the pushed ones only laugh and cheer. The other day he stopped his cab to box the ears of a boy who had been illtreating a horse. The crowd cheered, and the boy did the same. John is, in fact, a kind of rough amateur Moses to the East End Israel—he is prophet, law-giver, moralist, and inspirer of the great army of marchers and toilers in our modern wilderness. And as that is precisely what the East End has wanted for years, the moral effects of this strike are simply incalculable. John has taught the East End to live and feel, in every nerve that it is alive.—London Star.

What a Wellington Boot Is.

How many people know what a Wellington boot is. Dickens's novels have frequent references to them, yet few people are aware that the Wellington is the ordinary boot, the top of which is worn inside of the pants leg. The Iron Duke invented the boot. Formerly all boots were worn outside of the pants, like hunting boots. The Duke noticed in campaigns that when the surface of a boot became soaked that it could only be pulled off with difficulty, and that it was next to impossible to pull it on again. He therefore had the boots of all his soldiers so made that the external trouser, or overall, as it is called in the cavalry, should be worn on the outside of the boot. The trousers absorbed the moisture, leaving the boot comparatively dry, and that is all there is to the Wellington boot.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

[illegible]

POPULAR SCIENCE.

The Imperial University of Tokio has 138 professors and teachers, all but sixteen being Japanese. This year's students number 798.

Two new minor planets were recently discovered, the one, No. 285, by Herr Palisa at Vienna, the other, No. 286, by M. Charlois at Nice.

The United States is supplying electrical machinery to Japan in large quantities. The light is growing in popularity throughout the Empire.

An Austrian railway official has invented a portable telephone for speaking from a railway train at any point stopping to the nearest station.

Experiments have demonstrated the practicability of handling large masses of iron in rolling mills by means of electro magnets suspended from hydraulic cranes.

Excellent results are reported from the most recent experiments with the Italian smokeless powder, which enables the men to hit the target twice as often as with ordinary powder.

The total value of the mineral production of the United States in the year 1886, as near as can be ascertained, was more than $460,000,000, the largest amount yet recorded in any country.

The manufacture of terra-cotta lumber seems likely to become a really important industry, factories having already been established in Europe, Canada and Australia, in addition to the considerable number in the United States.

The antiseptic properties of saccharine make it an effective wash for the mouth and teeth when dissolved in water, according to a French writer. A six per cent. solution is used, but a strength of only one in 500 is said to prevent fermentation or spoiling of mucilage, etc.

According to a recent writer, there need be no anxiety as to the failure of sources of energy when the supplies of coal give out. Roughly speaking, he says, either a lump of hard coal weighing two and one-half pounds, or 453 gallons of water which can be made to fall ten feet, will produce commercially one horse power of work.

Professor Kedzie emphatically points out the danger of leaving on the old paper when repapering a room. No room with such wall accumulations of paste and paper can remain in a good sanitary condition, and disease germs are likely to be developed. His advice is: "Peel your walls of old paper before applying new paper."

"Among the various uses of celluloid," says a London exchange, "it would appear to be a suitable sheathing for ships, in place of copper. In experiments by M. Butaine, plates of celluloid applied to various vessels in January last were removed five or six months after, and found intact and free from marine vegetation, which was abundant on parts uncovered."

A process of engraving on glass and crystal by electricity has been communicated to the French Academy of Science by M. Plante. The plate to be engraved is covered with a concentrated solution of nitrate of potash and put in connection with one of the poles of the battery, and the design is traced out with a fine platinum point connected to the other pole. The results are said to be of marvelous delicacy.

"Volt" means the inducing caused by an electrical current, bearing the same relation to electricity that "pounds pressure per inch" do to steam or "head" does to water. One cell of gravity or Daniell's battery gives about 1.07 volt potential. "Ohm" is the unit of resistance offered by a wire or other conductor to the passage of an electric current; one thousand feet No. 10 pure copper wire represent a little over one ohm.

An Odd Genius.

Professor F. V. Hayden was the founder of the system which developed into the geological survey of the United States. He was a man great of genius and a renowned scholar, but, according to the Pittsburg Dispatch, erratic and peculiar. It was not uncommon for strangers to follow him for several blocks, their attention arrested by his bowed figure as he almost ran for a few steps—then suddenly stopped, with his gray, sharp eyes fixed on the pavement—then ran again as if a sudden thought had struck him; then they would inquire, "Who can that poor insane man be?"

While Professor Hayden was exploring the land of the Sioux Indians some years ago, he once, in his enthusiastic passion for geological research, wandered away from his party; he had loaded himself down with large specimens of mineral, and was tramping slowly along in his absent-minded way the Indians captured him. They whooped and yelled at their prize at first, but upon seeing all the "rocks and worthless stones" which the poor man was staggering under, and his composed, abstracted manner, they decided that he was "afflicted with a foolish mind." They took him without protest on his part, which only confirmed their fears; and after a few hours' captivity the old scientist with "his rocks" was led to the nearest point of civilization and "turned loose" lest the Great Spirit should punish them for any "harm done the foolish or simple-mined."

He was daring, fearless and reckless in danger; a most distinguished scientific man, and much beloved by the young men of his survey. His death during the past year was greatly mourned.

An Expert Blind Man.

It is almost incredible that Simon Collins, of Marietta, who has been blind for twenty-seven years, is an expert carpet weaver, makes and prints paper flour sacks in colors, doing the printing on a Washington hand press, and with a perfect register, but the Marietta Times vouches for that. I have known him for seven or eight years, and have seen him frequently on the streets of his town, cane in hand, walking rapidly, making all the ins and outs, going down into a basement or up stairs to a business office, never making a mistake and never being hurt.

A year ago he made a canoe from his own design and the same boat won a race in the regatta upon the Susquehanna at Columbia. He is the patentee of a brush handle, makes fishing nets and cane-seated chairs.

His latest triumph is the mastery of the type writer. He bought one some months ago and is now able to operate it quickly and accurately. [illegible]

About Honey Bees.

I have seen, writes G. W. Demaree, a single bee clinging to a smoothly dressed board with its front feet, and supporting a living chain of twenty-five bees, thus supporting twenty-five times her own weight, for an indefinite time. There was a time when I was puzzled to know how the bee could hold on to the smooth board and sustain such a weight. But the magnifying glass reveals a finely curved claw at the extremity of each of the front pair of legs, and these enable the bee to cling to the wood in any position, with its back down as well as otherwise. But how does the bee manage to run up a pane of glass or a sheet of polished metal? Her sharp claws will not serve her in this case. Well, nature has provided for that in a wonderful way. I once had a theory to account for this wonderful feat. But when I commenced to study the anatomy of the bee under the magnifying glass my theory was found to be wide of the mark. The glass shows an infinitesimal gland in the soles of the feet, which secrete a mucilaginous substance of sufficient tenacity to enable the bee to cling to the smoothest surface that it is likely to come in contact with.

The mandible (jaw) of the honey bee, when seen under the glass, is a real curiosity. They not only open and shut, like the jaws of any other animal, but they have a backward and forward movement, and each of the pair is independent of the other in its movements. The old class of naturalists believed that the honey bee, as an artist and a builder, was a "mason." But such is not the fact in the case. The honey bee is a "smith." She draws out her work, using her mandibles in place of the smith's hammer. It would be a simple impossibility to build a wall as thin as that of the honeycomb by any other process. Beeswax is the result of digested honey, just as tallow results from the digestion of the food of the ox. But the beeswax, instead of adhering to the flesh, as in the case of fat animals, passes out of the body of the bee, through one of the six false pockets on the under side of the abdomen, in the form of thin scales or pellets, and while they are warm and pliable the bees seize them with their mandibles and weld them to the rims of the cells, and continue to draw out the combs untill the proper depth of the cells are reached. The cell walls are as thin as the finest tissue paper known to the art of paper making, and would not have sufficient strength to support the tiny weight of a tiny bee were they not strengthened by an exquisitely formed rim around them, supporting their frail walls below, precisely as does the wired rim around the top of a tin vessel. That these thin walls are drawn out and not built on to, is proven [illegible] around the cell

And full many a heart rejoices
As the chorus floats along:
"Hail the Queen of all Tobaccos!"
How the happy voices blend,
"Finest and purest among her fellows—
Man's staunch and true friend."

Oregon, the Paradise of Farmers. Mild, equable climate, certain and abundant crops. Best fruit, grain, grass and stock country in the world. Full information free. Address Oreg. Im'igra'tn Board, Portland, Ore.

Many imitate "Tansill's Punch" 5c. Cigar.

Scrofula Humor

"My little daughter's life was saved, as we believe, by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Before she was six months old scrofula began to appear and in a short time she had 7 running sores. One physician advised the amputation of one of her fingers, to which we refused assent. We began giving her Hood's Sarsaparilla. A marked improvement was noticed after she had taken only one bottle, and by a continued use of it her recovery was complete. And she is now, being seven years old, strong and healthy. The other members of my family have been greatly benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla."—B. C. Jones, Alna, Lincoln Co., Me.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

SMITH'S BILE BEANS

Act on the liver and bile; clear the complexion; cure biliousness, sick headache, costiveness, malaria and all liver and stomach disorders.

We are now making small size Bile Beans, especially adapted for children and women—very small and easy to take. Price of either size 25c per bottle.

A panel size PHOTO-GRAVURE of the above picture, "Kissing at 7-17-70," mailed on receipt of 2c stamp. Address the makers of the great Anti-Bile Remedy—"Bile Beans."

J. F. SMITH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

ELY'S CREAM BALM CATARRH

Cleanses the Nasal Passages, Allays Pain and Inflammation, Heals the Sores. Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell.

TRY THE CURE. HAY-FEVER

A particle is applied into each nostril and is agreeable. Price 50 cents at Druggists; by mail, registered, 60 cts. ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York.

BUGGIES ROAD CARTS HARNESS FREE

No ½ Price or 50% but Free.

We manufacture none but the best, and for CONSUMERS ONLY. Write us for full particulars how to get these articles free of cost.

CONSUMERS' CARRIAGE CO., CINCINNATI, O.

$30 CRAYON PORTRAIT FREE

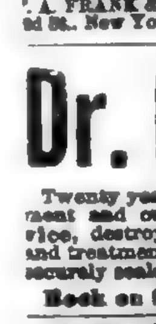
While introducing our fine work, if you send us a photograph of yourself or one member of your family, we will make you a full life-size Crayon Portrait Free of Charge. The only consideration imposed upon you will be that you exhibit it to your friends as a sample of our work, and assist us in securing orders; also, that you promise to have it framed suitably, so that the work will show to advantage. Write your full name and address on back of photo to secure its safety. We guarantee its return. Our offer is good for a few days only, and the sample portrait is worth $30, being as fine as can be made. Address

AMERICAN PORTRAIT CO., 14 Schurmann Block, LOUISVILLE, KY. Largest Life-Size Portrait House in the World.

We retail at the lowest wholesale factory prices, and ship goods to be paid for on delivery. Send stamp for Catalogue. Name goods desired.

LUBURG MFG. CO., 145 N. 8th St., Phila., Pa.

THE WONDERFUL LUBURG CHAIR
COMBINING 5 ARTICLES OF FURNITURE.
100 STYLES. BABY COACHES
INVALID SUPPLIES AND WHEEL CHAIRS
FREE
WHEEL CHAIRS TO HIRE.
SPECIAL FREE DELIVERY.



For Dairy, Farm & Household. Frank's American Wonder Machine awarded highest medals. Approved of and found O.K. by the highest dairy faculties. A child can use it. Always produces first-class butter from sweet milk or cream in 2 minutes. Works from one pint up to the largest quantity. Makes more butter. Clear profit $8 to $20 per qt. Buttermilk remains perfectly sweet for coffee, etc. Is also recommended by children's physicians as best baby food. Machine also makes finest ice cream in 4 minutes. [illegible] Send for testimonials and circulars to F. A. FRANK & CO., Patentees and Sole Mfrs., [illegible] St., New York. Reliable agents wanted.

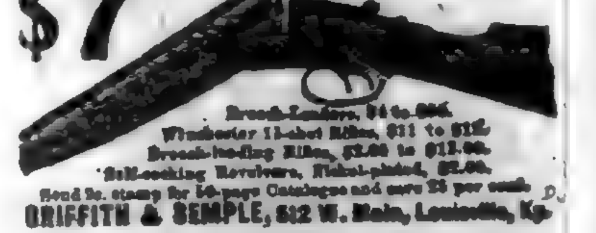
Dr. Lobb, 329 N. 15th St. PHILA., PA. After ALL others fail, consult

Twenty years' continuous practice in the treatment and cure of the awful effects of early vice, destroying both mind and body. Medicine and treatment for one month, Five Dollars, sent securely sealed from observation to any address.

Book on Special Diseases free.

This Trade Mark is on The Best Waterproof Coat in the world.

Send for Illustrated Catalogue, Free. A. J. Tower, Boston.



$7 FOR A Double Breech-Loader

Breech-Loaders, $4 to $66. Winchester 11-shot Rifles, $11 to $12. Breech-loading Rifles, $2.00 to $12.00. Self-cocking Revolvers, Nickel-plated, $2.00.

Send 2c. stamp for 56-page Catalogue and save 25 per cent.

GRIFFITH & SEMPLE, 512 W. Main, Louisville, Ky.

OPIUM and Whiskey Habits cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE. B. M. WOOLLEY, M.D. Atlanta, Ga. Office 65½ Whitehall St.

MISSISSIPPI LAND. Eligibly Located Farms and Timbered Land, costly bottom land, in state of Mississippi, for sale by PERRY NUGENT, Salem, Va.

Malarine Cures Malaria Safe and Sure CURE for Malaria. Price, $1. MALARINE Co., 3 E. 14th St., N. Y. Testimonials. All druggists.

HOME STUDY. Book-keeping, Business Forms, Penmanship, Arithmetic, Short hand, etc., thoroughly taught by MAIL. Circulars free. Bryant's College, 457 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y.

$25 AN HOUR made by our Agents. THE DR. PERKINS MEDICAL CO., Richmond, Va.

FARMS Do you want to buy or sell? If so send stamp for circ'l'r to Curtis & Buford, 323 Broadway, N. Y. LANDS

OPIUM HABIT. Only Certain and easy CURE in the World. Dr. J. L. STEPHENS, Lebanon, O.

PALMS BUS. COLLEGE, Philadelphia, Pa. Scholarship and positions, $50. Write for circular.

PEERLESS DYES Are the BEST. Sold by Druggists.

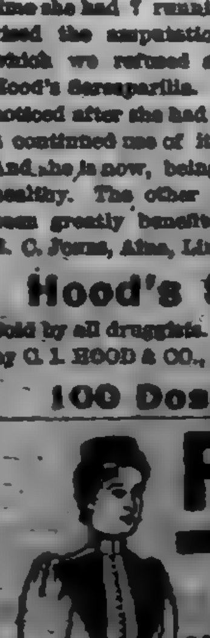
G Cures in 1 TO 5 DAYS. [illegible] Big G. [illegible] Cincinnati, Ohio.

I prescribe and fully endorse Big G as the only specific for the certain cure of this disease. G. H. INGRAHAM, M. D., Amsterdam, N. Y.

We have sold Big G for many years, and it has given the best of satisfaction. D. R. DYCHE & CO., Chicago, Ill.

$1.00. Sold by Druggists.

A. N. U. .... Forty-three, '89.



PATTERNS FREE

In next week's issue of this paper will be printed an order entitling the holder to a Pattern of this Stylish Basque FREE; with illustration and full description. It can be made as illustrated, or by leaving off the revers a perfectly plain basque will result. The Pattern is worth 25 cents, and will be given to each purchaser of next week's issue of this paper as a sample of those given FREE each month with DEMOREST'S FAMILY MAGAZINE, 15 East 14th Street, New York.

PISO'S CURE FOR [illegible]

[illegible]

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per Square, of one inch or less, for the first, and fifty cents for each subsequent insertion.

Inches.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
1 Inch	$ 5 00	$ 7 00	$ 11 75
2 Inches	7 00	11 25	16 00
3 Inches	10 00	15 00	22 50
4 Inches	12 50	20 00	27 00
5 Inches	15 00	22 50	33 00
¼ Column	18 00	27 00	40 00
½ Column	27 00	40 00	60 00
1 Column	40 00	60 00	100 00

The Chilton View.

W. H. LAWRENCE, Editor and Publisher. "WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION." TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME IX. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1889. NUMBER 2.

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line each insertion.

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be headed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

☞ The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

Caheen's Grand Introductory Sale

OF

NEW FALL DRESS GOODS!

EVERYTHING NEW, BRIGHT AND SPARKLING.

New Silks, New Velvets, New Trimmings, New Henriettas, New Brilliantes, New Drap D'Almas, New Dress Fringes and New High Art Production Novelty Combination Suits.

Early as it is, we are selling quantities of Fall Dress Goods, probably because we now have a great assortment at very attractive prices. New goods are arriving daily and we will beyond the slightest shadow of a doubt have the largest, finest and best assorted stock ever shown in Birmingham.

Gone.

Out of the shadow of sadness,
Into the sunshine of gladness,
Into the light of the blest;
Out of a land very dreary,
Out of the world of the weary,
Into the rapture of rest.

Out of today's sin and sorrow,
Into a blissful tomorrow,
Into a day without gloom;
Out of a land filled with sighing—
Land of the dead and the dying—
Into a land without tomb.

Out of the world of the wailing,
Thronged with the anguished and ailing,
Out of the world of the sad,
Into the world that rejoices—
World of bright visions and voices—
Into the world of the glad!

—P. Donan.

THE WHITE TOPAZ.

Isn't it strange, ma!" said Josie Bellfield. "This key I found on the garret floor exactly fits the lock of Mr. Wainwright's funny little Japanese box."

"You don't say so!" said Mrs. Bellfield. How do you know?"

Miss Josephine reddened a little.

"Oh, I thought I would just try it," said she. "And it works to a charm."

"I should think you would be ashamed of yourself," said Mary, the youngest scion of the house of Bellfield, who, with her head aureoled around with a "sweeping cap," was "doing" the boarders' rooms.

For Mrs. Bellfield kept boarders, and a hard time she had of it, poor soul! between exacting old ladies, capricious young ones, bad bills and an inexorable landlord.

"Hold your tongue, Mary!" she said sharply. Don't you hear Miss Parker's bell? Run and answer it. Now that she's gone, Josie, what's that about the key? I dare say he's dropped it himself."

"No, ma; he always carries it on his ring," said Josephine in a sepulchral whisper. "Look, I've always wondered what he has kept in that box."

"It wouldn't be any harm," said Mrs. Bellfield, drawing a quick breath, "to look into it, just for the fun of the thing."

Now that Mary isn't here," whispered Josephine, as she turned the key in the wards of the lock belonging to a quaint Japanese box or cupboard, erected on a rude writing table in the corner of Mr. Wainwright's shabbily furnished bedroom. "La, ma! it's as full of queer little drawers and apartments as it can be. And do look at these little files and screws and buzz-saws and blades—the tiniest things in the world!"

"I do hope he ain't a counterfeiter," said Mrs. Bellfield. "Open that left-hand drawer, Josie; it's full of funny little tools—and, oh! do see that big diamond! doesn't it sparkle!"

For out from a velvet-lined subdivision in the tool drawer, flashed a many-faced, glittering stone, seeming to create a sudden brilliancy in the dusky corner.

"Well, I declare!" said Miss Josephine, with a vicious toss of the head. "If he can afford to own a diamond like that, I don't see any sense in his owing you a quarter's board, ma."

"He must be a regular miser, for all he's so young," said Mrs. Bellfield, excitedly. "I wonder if it's an heirloom!"

"It must be very valuable, anyhow," said Josephine. "I say, ma, do you suppose it's a real diamond?"

"Why, of course it is! No imitation would sparkle so."

"I'd like to have Peter see it."

"Well, show it to him, then," said Mrs. Bellfield. "You'll have plenty of time to run down to the store with it before Wainwright comes back to dinner."

"Would you, ma, if you were me?"

"To be sure I would," said the matron. "Peter ought to be a judge of precious stones, seeing he has stood behind the counter of a jeweler's store for two years."

"But, ma," twittered Miss Josephine, "suppose he should find it out!"

"He won't find it out. Do make haste!" urged Mrs. Bellfield.

Mr. Puffit had just made an excellent sale of a tripple-plated silver tea set to an old lady who did not know last year's styles from this, when Miss Bellfield fluttered in, all smiles and excitement.

"I just want to show you something," said Miss Bellfield, feeling in the depths of her pocket. "Oh! here's the box; but the cover has come off. How awkward! Where is it?"

There was the box, there was the little piece of pink jeweller's cotton, there was the treacherous cover, but, alas and alackaday!, the glittering stone was gone.

"What was it, anyway?" said the puzzled Peter. "If it's anything that I can do ——"

"Oh, it's lost, it's lost!" screamed Josephine, and she straightway went into hysterics.

Peter walked with her all the way home, and their two pairs of eyes scrutinized every section of the pavement between the jewelry store and the boarding house, but in vain.

Mr. Wainwright came home to the frugal dinner of the establishment, and went away again without discovering that the Japanese box had been tampered with, and it was not until he opened it in the evening, after lighting his shaded lamp, and making every preparation for a long interval of uninterrupted work, that he discovered that the great, glittering gem had vanished.

Inquiries were useless. Policemen searched the house and questioned the maids; private detectives investigated the antecedents of the other boarders so effectually that nearly all of them promptly gave Mrs. Bellfield notice; the great firm of Slime & Sparkle, goldsmiths and dealers in precious stones, sent their own confidential agent to look into things. It seemed that the gem had been intrusted to Mr. Wainwright to cut and polish at his own residence, on account of his superior workmanship and the excellent reputation he sustained; that it was worth a great deal of money, and could not possibly be duplicated.

"Diamonds, indeed!" said Mr. Oram, the confidential agent. "It's worth more than half the diamonds in circulation. A genuine white topaz. To be cut for the centre of Mrs. Midas Moneybag's great tiara—the celebrated tiara that everyone has heard of. I'm afraid young Wainwright will be ruined if it doesn't turn up. Our firm has every right to prosecute, but, owing to the good character the man bears, we give him the privilege of making financial restitution. Twenty-five hundred dollars is cheap for that white topaz. It's absolutely unmatchable. Quite sui generis, if I may use the expression. It's a good deal of money—yes—but then it's the price of Mr. Wainwright's future reputation.

Edwin Wainwright had been a poor man—poor in everything but honor and ambition. Now he seemed to be bankrupt in both. The white topaz was gone, and it was a literal impossibility for him to raise the sum required for its ransom.

"I may as well shoot myself and be done with it," said he, sitting in the dusk of the stuffy little room, unpleasantly conscious that a detective was watching the house from the opposite side of the street, and that one of the other boarders had objected to sit next to him at supper. He felt on the lower shelf of his cupboard; there was a little six-barreled revolver there already loaded. Just as he took it in his hand there was a gentle creaking of the door, a soft rustling across the floor, the sound of a key grating cautiously in a lock—the lock of his Japanese cabinet.

One spring from behind the heavy brown moreen curtain, and he was close to the intruder.

"Miss Bellfield, is it you?" He started back with sheer amazement, almost horror.

"I thought you were gone out" she sobbed. "I—oh, Mr. Wainwright!" as her eye fell on the gleaming barrel of the deadly little weapon—"don't do that, please. Here it is, I've brought it back!"

"Brought what back?"

"The white topaz."

She opened her hand and showed him the white, glittering, cube-shaped thing that had nearly cost him so dear.

"Mary, it was you, then?"

"It was not I," she answered quickly. "How dare you think such a thing of me?"

Then she told him the story of Josephine and her chance-found key—of how the jewel had been taken away, and how she had found it on the hall floor, where it had evidently been lost out of her sister's pocket.

"I picked it up and brought it to my own room," said she. "I didn't want mother and Josephine to know that I suspected or had overheard anything. I was going to put the stone back when I got a chance, but Josephine had secreted the hateful key, and I've just been able to get possession of it. Oh, Mr. Wainwright, forgive me for my silence, but remember that I couldn't betray my own mother and sister."

"It had nearly cost me my life, Mary."

The poor girl burst into tears and sobs.

"And what has it not cost me!" she cried. "The sleepless nights, the days of anguish and terror! Oh, Mr. Wainwright, if my folly had caused your death, I should have died, too!"

"Mary, you surely cannot mean——"

But she had run away, covering her face with her hands, leaving the white topaz in his possession.

So the matter came to an end, Mrs. Bellfield and her elder daughter never clearly understood how. Edwin Wainwright was restored to the favor of his employers and on a considerable increase of salary became engaged to Mary Bellfield; and the white topaz eventually shone and sparkled in the very centre of Mrs. Midas Moneybag's grand tiara, where it belonged.

Mr. Puffit is still constant to Josephine, but he discourages any further amateur tampering with locks and keys.

"It was an awkward look," says he.

And Wainwright loves Mary none the less because she run such a terrible risk to protect the name and fame of her mother and sister.—Fireside Companion.

The Portuguese Man-of-War.

Physalia, the Portuguese man-of-war, with its beautiful blue float, may at times be seen in the Gulf Stream. The float, filled with air, serves to keep the animal on the surface, and, driven by the wind, to bear it from place to place. It is a curious animal or rather cluster of animals we should say, for naturalists now consider it to be a group of individuals, having different functions, but working for the same general cause—that of supporting the mass. They say that in this group there are some whose sole purpose is to obtain food, some to digest, others to reproduce, etc., yet each is an individual animal working for the good of the whole, that the whole may work for its good, and that in conjunction they may perform all the functions of life necessary to the well-being and general welfare of the whole united colony. The cluster has most remarkable defensive powers, being well furnished with lasso cells or stinging organs. These consist of little barbed, arrow-like points, fastened to thread-like arms, each of which is coiled up in a little cell. Whenever it is necessary to use them they are hurled out with violence, and each barb striking the object penetrates, for it has the power of "working into" flesh, and being covered with a sort of poison, it, in conjunction with many others, [illegible]

ICELAND.

A FAR-OFF LAND OF MANY NATURAL WONDERS.

Antiquity of Its People—Peculiarities of Icelandic Domestic Life and Scenery—A Treeless Land of Volcanic Origin.

Apart from the interest that lies in the proposed wholesale transfer of the Icelandic nation to Alaska, the people of the Denmark island dominion have other claims upon the attention of Americans. To Icelanders the honor of being the discoverers of America is claimed by them to be due. Shortly after the first colonization of Iceland (A. D. 874) a mariner named Gunnbjorn was driven by a tempest to the shores of Greenland, some 300 miles distant, and from that time on settlements were founded and a regular intercourse established. In 1001, one Bjarnj Herjulfssonur—it is well that school children should remember this name—while on a voyage from Iceland to Greenland was driven by a storm out into the Atlantic. After sailing for some days he discovered a beautiful wooded country where plains and rising grounds alternated with each other along the coast, but as he could not prevail on his crew to land, he returned to Greenland. His glowing descriptions of the country implanted a desire for further investigation in his countrymen, one of whom named Leifr soon after set out for it in a vessel manned by thirty-five men. To the southwest of Greenland he discovered land, which, according to the description given, is supposed to have been Labrador, but farther to the south he found the same wooded land which Bjarnj had discovered. Thereupon he determined to explore its coast for some distance, and two days afterward he came with a northwesterly wind to an island that was separated from the mainland by a strait. After sailing through this strait he came to a beautiful inland sea, on the shores of which he erected a dwelling. The sea teemed with splendid salmon, and the grass retained its fresh appearance throughout the winter. The days here were not so short as in Greenland and Iceland; for on the shortest day the sun was nine hours above the horizon. One of the crew, who was a German, discovered that grapes grew wild there. Leifr named the island Vineland. Subsequently it was visited by Leifr's brother, who was killed by the natives, but a settlement which after a little took root in the country continued to trade with them for 300 years. It is, perhaps, as well to add that Vineland is supposed to have been Massachusetts in the vicinity of Boston, the other parts of this country in which the Northmen are supposed to have settled being near Mount Hope Bay, Rhode Island, and as far south as Cape May.

AN ICELAND WOMAN.

In the next place the country possesses a history of almost unequaled antiquity among modern European nations and a rich and unique literature. As has been said above Iceland was settled in 874, but many years before that it had been visited by Norwegian vikings. The productiveness of the islands first attracted the visitors, but what chiefly promoted colonization was the oppressive rule of Harold, the fair-haired King of Norway. At first a patriarchal government prevailed, but toward the year 926 the colonists established a free republic, which remained in existence 300 years. The Norwegian monarchs had long looked covetously upon this sturdy community, however, and at last in 1262 King Hakon succeeded in bringing it under his sway, [illegible] might be, Denmark's attitude, however, being largely one of indifference. To this sentiment is added the idea that the Icelanders are antiquated in their ideas and still imbued with an exclusively national tendency. In 1387 Iceland became part of the Dano-Norwegian kingdom, and so remained until the partition of the two countries in the beginning of the present century, when Iceland was incorporated with Denmark. The exact relations between the two countries does not seem to be understood by the principal parties, for even in official language Iceland is sometimes called a colony, sometimes a province and sometimes a dependency. The Icelanders, however, use none of these terms, but simply call their country "the Land."

OFF THE ICELANDIC COAST.

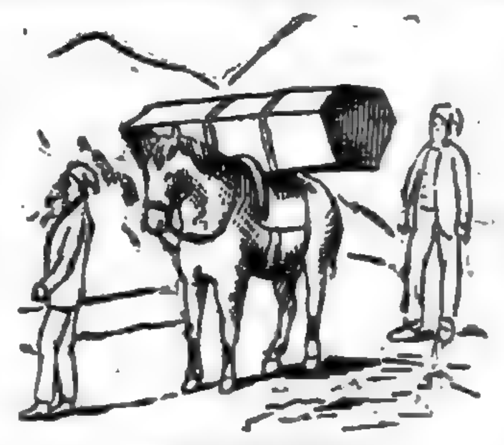
The Icelandic tongue is the old Scandinavian, or original Norse, being the oldest living language of the Teutonic family. The stationary character of the language is partly explained by its secluded position in an island and partly by the zealous study of the Icelanders of the ancient songs and sagas. The first characters in which Icelandic was written were the Runics, which are supposed to be adaptations from the Phœnician alphabet. At the time of the introduction of Christianity these were superseded by the Roman alphabet in the form then used by the Anglo-Saxons and Germans. The alphabet consisted of thirty-six letters, thirty-four of which are still used. The language has a great facility for forming new words, but it does not adopt the common foreign names of science and new inventions. Thus a telegraph is called "frettafleygir," bearer of news, and a telegram "hradfrett," quick news. The Icelandic literature, which, with the exception of a few unimportant Norwegian productions, has been written wholly in Iceland, consists generally of songs of victory or of praise, elegies, epigrams and sagas and skalds, or fictitious or historical romances. These works really belong to the ancient period of Icelandic literature, the second, or modern, period dating from a revival of the seventeenth century. History, homilies, jurisprudence, poetry were all taken up, and with such spirit and fruit that during the last hundred years no other nation can show so large a proportion of literary men.

Iceland is in shape a good deal like that of the heart, the greatest length being 335 miles and greatest breadth 200 miles. Its area, including the adjacent islets, is 39,758 square miles, of which 16,243 are habitable. The population in its most flourishing period exceeded 100,000, recent censuses giving the figures as follows: 1864, 68,084; 1869, 69,506; 1870, 69,763. At present it is in the neighborhood of 70,000, but is again on the decline, due to the gradual exhaustion of the fertility of the island and the increasing severity of its winters. The present project of moving the nation is not the first. In 1785 starvation and disease had brought the population down to something like 39,000, and the proposition was seriously entertained of removing the remnant of the people from the country. Prosperity, however, slowly returned to the Icelander, and the project was abandoned.

The coast line of Iceland is deeply indented with bays, fiords—inlets extending far inland between lofty terraced mountains—and jutting promontories. The western fiords are studded with rocky islets, and open, like those of the northeast, to enormous ice drifts. Iceland is of volcanic origin, the center being an elevated band of tufa, from 1500 to 3000 feet above the sea and forming a wilderness covered with vast lava beds, barren heights, tracts of black volcanic sand, hot springs and bog. The mountains lie about the coast, chiefly in the south, among which are a number of fertile valleys extending along the water courses. Some of the loftiest mountains have an altitude ranging from [illegible] feet, while some few volcanic peaks attain to a greater height. [illegible]



ICELANDIC FUNERAL.

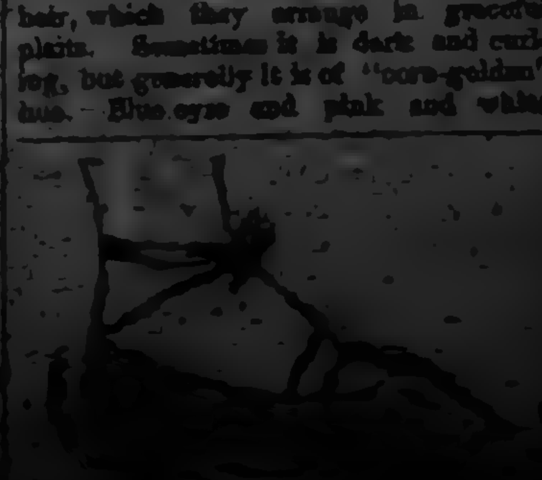
tions have been recorded from these and other craters, the last being in 1862, all being more or less violent and destructive.

Iceland has several lakes, though all have been partly filled up by lava flows. The Midge Lake is in the north and the Thingvallavata in the south, and each is ten miles long by four wide. The rivers of Iceland are numerous and of good size, but unfitted for navigation because of her torrential and broken character. Perhaps the most celebrated feature of Iceland scenery is the great number of intermittent hot springs, which have given the name of geysers to similar springs elsewhere.

The principal town is Reyjavk, a small and rather picturesque town of 1400, modeled after Copenhagen. It has three principal streets and an irregularly built suburb, and as the capital, does a fair amount of business. A bishop resides here, it publishes two weekly papers, and is the centre of the national educational facilities, which are confined to elementary instruction.

The only mode of traveling in Iceland is on horseback. Roads do not exist, and the bridle paths, though certainly good, are at the same time remarkably simple in their construction. Bridges are a rarity, and the general methods of crossing a stream are by ferry or swimming. The houses are partly of earth and partly of stone and have a turf roof, which in summer time is so green that it can scarcely be distinguished from the surrounding fields. Timber work is seldom to be found, Iceland being a woodless country and the cost of transportation from the seaports being great. Wooden houses are only found in the two principal towns. The Icelandic house, however, is no hut, but possesses intricate interiors, and is sometimes quite artistically arranged. Sometimes, too, the house is little more than an earthen burrow, low, smoke-stained and filthy. A good deal of the interior dirt is due to the fact that the houses are mostly built without fireplaces. For the accommodation of their sheep and cattle the farmers have small turf windowless houses, erected a short distance from the residence. The stables have no stalls, and the horses move about as they like. Generally speaking the farm houses are built close together, each farmer requiring a large grass walk for his flocks, which sometimes are very numerous, and for hay for the winter store. The Icelandic agriculturist cares nothing for gay colors, and his house is always painted of a somber gray or a dark red. Cereals cannot be grown with any success in this country, the only native grain being a wild sand-oat, from which an eatable kind of bread can be made. In addition to grass, which is the principal vegetable produce of the country, little else is grown beside potatoes and turnips.

The every-day costume of the women consists of a tight-fitting woolen knitted bodice, of a dark color, with narrow sleeves buttoned at the wrists and a full skirt. As a set-off a striped or checked apron, usually green or red, is worn. The characteristic head-dress is a small black cap, furnished with a long, silken tassel. When the state costume is put on the cap is supplanted by a high white head-dress, something in the shape of a helmet, studded with gilt stars and enveloped in a white veil of tulle. The bodice is of black cloth, richly hemmed with gold or silver oak leaves. The skirt, also of cloth, is embroidered with silk and silver, while a gold belt of ingenious workmanship encircles the waist. Over all is thrown a full cloak of black cloth, with a cape of green velvet trimmed with ermine. The Icelandic women have very thick and beautiful hair, which they arrange in graceful plaits. Sometimes it is dark and curling, but generally it is of "corn-golden" hue. Blue eyes and pink and white cheeks accompany this, and the result is decidedly pleasing.



The men are well grown, but are not so good looking as the women, and are remarkable for their long waists and short legs.

The churches usually consist of a little, square-shaped, tar-covered barn, either made out of planks or of earth, with two small windows in the gable and a little aperture in the roof. Externally, with but very few exceptions, they are destitute of any kind of adornment. The churchyards are just as unostentatious, for a tombstone is a rarity. A cross even is scarcely to be found upon a grave in Iceland, and the green mounds are soon leveled to the ground.

The usual food with which the traveler is entertained is smoked or dried mutton, which, when not too old, is not an unpleasant dish. The common bread consists of thin, flat cakes, but even this is not an article of daily consumption, the poorer classes eating dried fish instead, plentifully smeared over with a sour butter, or even a mixture of tallow and oil. On the coast the people eat a great quantity of fish, principally halibut, while in some parts of the interior trout and salmon form a large part of the daily menu. Corn brandy and coffee are the principal drinks, vast quantities of both being taken. Snuff taking and smoking are also largely indulged in. There is no deep sea fishing carried on, however, for, strange though it may seem, the Icelanders, though they are brought up by the sea, and though they derive a great part of their sustenance from it, are not a nation of sailors. In some parts of the south coast of Iceland the people eat horse flesh and thrive on it, saying that it imparts good complexions, but the animal is too expensive and useful to be used as an article of food. Dogs are favorite animals, every Icelander keeping a prodigious quantity of them. Whaling is not very vigorously prosecuted, partly because of the Icelander's poor seamanship and partly because the variety found in these waters is not a valuable one. Lastly come the sea birds, which are quite an important article of diet.

AN ICELAND HOUSE.

Iceland, as has been remarked, is a treeless country, although here and there may be seen a plot containing trees. But woods are not really missed in the landscape. When, for instance, one lands on some eminence, and looks toward a mountain some miles distant clad in its dark-blue summer dress, or if one gazes over a grassy plain, where no defying fences obstruct the view, but where a river winds sinuously along, or a lake reveals its shining surface, the senses do not feel the want of forest land. Several beautiful and delicate kinds of grasses and plants, too, abound in Iceland, while the flowers are numerous and lovely.

To resume, Iceland is a land of mountains that reach far up into the sky, of boundless sandy plains, of swift and foaming rivers, of deserts of lava, snow, ice, sand or stone, a land abounding with legends and myths, of volcanoes, the inexhaustible field for wonderment and for investigation.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Guarding Against Falsehood.

Dunn was an English farmer who employed a laborer named Paul. Mr. Dunn one day asked Paul to take luncheon, and Paul refused, but afterward the workman repented, and went to ask for the food.

"No," was Mr. Dunn's answer. [illegible]

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per Square, of one inch or less, for the first, and fifty cents for each subsequent insertion.

Inches.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
[illegible]	$ 5 00	$ 7 50	$ 11 75
[illegible]	7 00	11 25	16 00
[illegible]	10 00	15 00	22 50
[illegible]	12 50	20 00	27 00
[illegible]	15 00	22 50	33 00
[illegible] Column	18 00	27 00	40 00
[illegible] Column	27 00	40 00	60 00
Column	40 00	60 00	100 00

The Chilton View.

W. H. LAWRENCE, Editor and Publisher. "WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION." TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME IX. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1889. NUMBER 2.

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line each insertion.

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be headed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

☞ The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

Cahen's Grand Introductory Sale OF NEW FALL DRESS GOODS!

EVERYTHING NEW, BRIGHT AND SPARKLING.

New Silks, New Velvets, New Trimmings, New Henriettas, New Brilliantes, New Drap D'Almas, New Dress Fringes and New High Art Production Novelty Combination Suits.

Early as it is, we are selling quantities of Fall Dress Goods, probably because we now have a great assortment at very attractive prices. New goods are arriving daily and we will beyond the slightest shadow of a doubt have the largest, finest and best assorted stock ever shown in Birmingham.

Gone.

Out of the shadow of sadness,
Into the sunshine of gladness,
Into the light of the blest;
Out of a land very dreary,
Out of the world of the weary,
Into the rapture of rest.

Out of today's sin and sorrow,
Into a blissful tomorrow,
Into a day without gloom;
Out of a land filled with sighing—
Land of the dead and the dying—
Into a land without tomb.

Out of the world of the wailing,
Thronged with the anguished and ailing,
Out of the world of the sad,
Into the world that rejoices—
World of bright visions and voices—
Into the world of the glad!

—P. Donan.

THE WHITE TOPAZ.

Isn't it strange, ma!" said Josie Bellfield. "This key I found on the garret floor exactly fits the lock of Mr. Wainwright's funny little Japanese box."

"You don't say so!" said Mrs. Bellfield. How do you know?"

Miss Josephine reddened a little.

"Oh, I thought I would just try it," said she. "And it works to a charm."

"I should think you would be ashamed of yourself," said Mary, the youngest scion of the house of Bellfield, who, with her head aureoled around with a "sweeping cap," was "doing" the boarders' rooms.

For Mrs. Bellfield kept boarders, and a hard time she had of it, poor soul! between exacting old ladies, capricious young ones, bad bills and an inexorable landlord.

"Hold your tongue, Mary!" she said sharply. Don't you hear Miss Parker's bell! Run and answer it. Now that she's gone, Josie, what's that about the key! I dare say he's dropped it himself."

"No, ma; he always carries it on his ring," said Josephine in a sepulchral whisper. "Look, I've always wondered what he has kept in that box."

"It wouldn't be any harm," said Mrs. Bellfield, drawing a quick breath, "to look into it, just for the fun of the thing."

Now that Mary isn't here," whispered Josephine, as she turned the key in the wards of the lock belonging to a quaint Japanese box or cupboard, erected on a rude writing table in the corner of Mr. Wainwright's shabbily furnished bedroom. "La, ma! it's as full of queer little drawers and apartments as it can be. And do look at these little files and screws and buzz-saws and blades—the tiniest things in the world!"

"I do hope he ain't a counterfeiter," said Mrs. Bellfield. "Open that left-hand drawer, Josie; it's full of funny little tools—and, oh! do see that big diamond! doesn't it sparkle!"

For out from a velvet-lined subdivision in the tool drawer, flashed a many-faced, glittering stone, seeming to create a sudden brilliancy in the dusky corner.

"Well, I declare!" said Miss Josephine, with a vicious toss of the head. "If he can afford to own a diamond like that, I don't see any sense in his owing you a quarter's board, ma."

"He must be a regular miser, for all he's so young," said Mrs. Bellfield, excitedly. "I wonder if it's an heirloom!"

"It must be very valuable, anyhow," said Josephine. "I say, ma, do you suppose it's a real diamond?"

"Why, of course it is! No imitation would sparkle so."

"I'd like to have Peter see it."

"Well, show it to him, then," said Mrs. Bellfield. "You'll have plenty of time to run down to the store with it before Wainwright comes back to dinner."

"Would you, ma, if you were me?"

"To be sure I would," said the matron. "Peter ought to be a judge of precious stones, seeing he has stood behind the counter of a jeweller's store for [illegible] years."

"But, ma," twittered Miss Josephine, "suppose he should find it out?"

"He won't find it out. Do make haste!" urged Mrs. Bellfield.

Mr. Puffit had just made an excellent sale of a tripple-plated silver tea set to an old lady who did not know last year's styles from this, when Miss Bellfield fluttered in, all smiles and excitement.

"I just want to show you something," said Miss Bellfield, feeling in the depths of her pocket. "Oh! here's the box; but the cover has come off. How awkward! Where is it?"

There was the box, there was the little piece of pink jeweller's cotton, there was the treacherous cover, but, alas and alackaday! the glittering stone was gone.

"What was it, anyway?" said the puzzled Peter. "If it's anything that I can do ——"

"Oh, it's lost, it's lost!" screamed Josephine, and she straightway went into hysterics.

Peter walked with her all the way home, and their two pairs of eyes scrutinized every section of the pavement between the jewelry store and the boarding house, but in vain.

Mr. Wainwright came home to the frugal dinner of the establishment, and went away again without discovering that the Japanese box had been tampered with, and it was not until he opened it in the evening, after lighting his shaded lamp, and making every preparation for a long interval of uninterrupted work, that he discovered that the great, glittering gem had vanished.

Inquiries were useless. Policemen searched the house and questioned the maids; private detectives investigated the antecedents of the other boarders so effectually that nearly all of them promptly gave Mrs. Bellfield notice; the great firm of Slime & Sparkle, goldsmiths and dealers in precious stones, sent their own confidential agent to look into things. It seemed that the gem had been intrusted to Mr. Wainwright to cut and polish at his own residence, on account of his superior workmanship and the excellent reputation he sustained; that it was worth a great deal of money, and could not possibly be duplicated.

"Diamonds, indeed!" said Mr. Oram, the confidential agent. "It's worth more than half the diamonds in circulation. A genuine white topaz. To be cut for the centre of Mrs. Midas Moneybag's great tiara—the celebrated tiara that everyone has heard of. I'm afraid young Wainwright will be ruined if it doesn't turn up. Our firm has every right to prosecute, but, owing to the good character the man bears, we give him the privilege of making financial restitution. Twenty-five hundred dollars is cheap for that white topaz. It's absolutely unmatchable. Quite sui generis, if I may use the expression. It's a good deal of money—yes—but then it's the price of Mr. Wainwright's future reputation.

Elwin Wainwright had been a poor man—poor in everything but honor and ambition. Now he seemed to be bankrupt in both. The white topaz was gone, and it was a literal impossibility for him to raise the sum required for its ransom.

"I may as well shoot myself and be done with it," said he, sitting in the dusk of the stuffy little room, unpleasantly conscious that a detective was watching the house from the opposite side of the street, and that one of the other boarders had objected to sit next to him at supper. He felt on the lower shelf of his cupboard; there was a little six-barrelled revolver there already loaded. Just as he took it in his hand there was a gentle creaking of the door, a soft rushing across the floor, the sound of a key grating cautiously in a lock—the lock of his Japanese cabinet.

One spring from behind the heavy brown [illegible] curtains, and he was close to the [illegible].

"Miss Bellfield, is it you!" He started back with sheer amazement, almost horror.

"I thought you were gone out" she sobbed. "I—oh, Mr. Wainwright!" as her eye fell on the gleaming barrel of the deadly little weapon—"don't do that, please. Here it is. I've brought it back!"

"Brought what back?"

"The white topaz."

She opened her hand and showed him the white, glittering, cube-shaped thing that had nearly cost him so dear.

"Mary, it was you, then?"

"It was not I," she answered quickly. "How dare you think such a thing of me?"

Then she told him the story of Josephine and her chance-found key—of how the jewel had been taken away, and how she had found it on the hall floor, where it had evidently been lost out of her sister's pocket.

"I picked it up and brought it to my own room," said she. "I didn't want mother and Josephine to know that I suspected or had overheard anything. I was going to put the stone back when I got a chance, but Josephine had secreted the hateful key, and I've just been able to get possession of it. Oh, Mr. Wainwright, forgive me for my silence, but remember that I couldn't betray my own mother and sister."

"It had nearly cost me my life, Mary."

The poor girl burst into tears and sobs.

"And what has it not cost me!" she cried. "The sleepless nights, the days of anguish and terror! Oh, Mr. Wainwright, if my folly had caused your death, I should have died, too!"

"Mary, you surely cannot mean——"

But she had run away, covering her face with her hands, leaving the white topaz in his possession.

So the matter came to an end, Mrs. Bellfield and her elder daughter never clearly understood how. Edwin Wainwright was restored to the favor of his employers and on a considerable increase of salary became engaged to Mary Bellfield; and the white topaz eventually shone and sparkled in the very centre of Mrs. Midas Moneybag's grand tiara, where it belonged.

Mr. Puffit is still constant to Josephine, but he discourages any further amateur tampering with locks and keys.

"It was an awkward look," says he. And Wainwright loves Mary none the less because she run such a terrible risk to protect the name and fame of her mother and sister.—Fireside Companion.

The Portuguese Man-of-War.

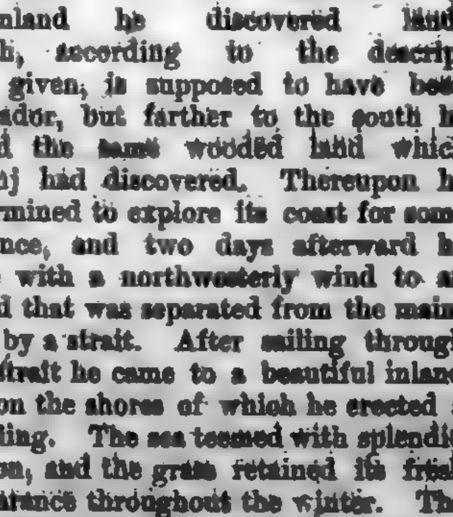
Physalis, the Portuguese man-of-war, with its beautiful blue float, may at times be seen in the Gulf Stream. The float, filled with air, serves to keep the animal on the surface, and, driven by the wind, to bear it from place to place. It is a curious animal or rather cluster of animals we should say, for naturalists now consider it to be a group of individuals, having different functions, but working for the same general cause—that of supporting the mass. They say that in this group there are some whose sole purpose is to obtain food, some to digest, others to reproduce, etc., yet each is an individual animal working for the good of the whole, that the whole may work for its good, and that in conjunction they may perform all the functions of life necessary to the well-being and general welfare of the whole united colony. The cluster has most remarkable defensive powers, being well furnished with lasso cells or stinging organs. These consist of little barbed, arrow-like points, fastened to thread-like arms, each of which is coiled up in a little cell. Whenever it is necessary to use them they are hurled out with violence, and each barb perforating the object, penetrates, for it has the power of "working into" flesh, and being covered with a sort of poison, it, in conjunction with many others, [illegible]

ICELAND.

A FAR-OFF LAND OF MANY NATURAL WONDERS.

Antiquity of Its People—Peculiarities of Icelandic Domestic Life and Scenery—A Treeless Land of Volcanic Origin.

Apart from the interest that lies in the proposed wholesale transfer of the Icelandic nation to Alaska, the people of the Denmark island dominion have other claims upon the attention of Americans. To Icelanders the honor of being the discoverers of America is claimed by them to be due. Shortly after the first colonization of Iceland (A. D. 874) a mariner named Gunnbjorn was driven by a tempest to the shores of Greenland, some 300 miles distant, and from that time on settlements were founded and a regular intercourse established. In 1001, one Bjarnj Herjulfssonur—it is well that school children should remember this name—while on a voyage from Iceland to Greenland was driven by a storm out into the Atlantic. After sailing for some days he discovered a beautiful wooded country where plains and rising grounds alternated with each other along the coast, but as he could not prevail on his crew to land, he returned to Greenland. His glowing descriptions of the country implanted a desire for further investigation in his countrymen, one of whom named Leifr soon after set out for it in a vessel manned by thirty-five men. To the southwest of Greenland he discovered land, which, according to the description given, is supposed to have been Labrador, but farther to the south he found the same wooded land which Bjarnj had discovered. Thereupon he determined to explore its coast for some distance, and two days afterward he came with a northwesterly wind to an island that was separated from the mainland by a strait. After sailing through this strait he came to a beautiful inland sea, on the shores of which he erected a dwelling. The sea teemed with splendid salmon, and the grass retained its fresh appearance throughout the winter. The days here were not so short as in Greenland and Iceland; for on the shortest day the sun was nine hours above the horizon. One of the crew, who was a German, discovered that grapes grew wild there. Leifr named the island Vineland. Subsequently it was visited by Leifr's brother, who was killed by the natives, but a settlement which after a little took root in the country continued to trade with them for 200 years. It is, perhaps, as well to add that Vineland is supposed to have been Massachusetts in the vicinity of Boston, the other parts of this country in which the Northmen are supposed to have settled being near Mount Hope Bay, Rhode Island, and as far south as Cape May.



AN ICELAND WOMAN.

In the next place the country possesses a history of almost unequaled antiquity among modern European nations and a rich and unique literature. As has been said above Iceland was settled in 874, but many years before that it had been visited by Norwegian vikings. The productiveness of the islands first attracted the visitors, but what chiefly promoted colonization was the oppressive rule of Harold, the fair-haired King of Norway. At first a patriarchal government prevailed, but toward the year 928 the colonists established a free republic, which remained in existence 300 years. The Norwegian monarchs had long looked covetously upon this sturdy community, however, and at last in 1262 King Hakon succeeded in bringing it under his sway, though with the express reservation that Iceland should retain its independence and be governed by its own laws. The [illegible] might be, Denmark's attitude, however, being largely one of indifference. To this sentiment is added the idea that the Icelanders are antiquated in their ideas and still imbued with an exclusively national tendency. In 1387 Iceland became part of the Dano-Norwegian kingdom, and so remained until the partition of the two countries in the beginning of the present century, when Iceland was incorporated with Denmark. The exact relations between the two countries does not seem to be understood by the principal parties, for even in official language Iceland is sometimes called a colony, sometimes a province and sometimes a dependency. The Icelanders, however, use none of these terms, but simply call their country "the Land."

OFF THE ICELANDIC COAST.

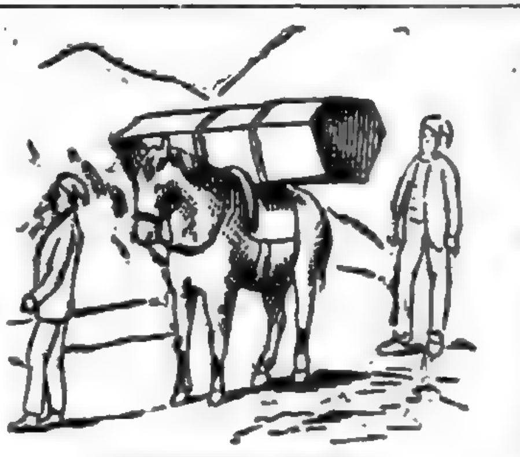
The Icelandic tongue is the old Scandinavian, or original Norse, being the oldest living language of the Teutonic family. The stationary character of the language is partly explained by its secluded position in an island and partly by the zealous study of the Icelanders of the ancient songs and sagas. The first characters in which Icelandic was written were the Runics, which are supposed to be adaptations from the Phœnician alphabet. At the time of the introduction of Christianity these were superseded by the Roman alphabet in the form then used by the Anglo-Saxons and Germans. The alphabet consisted of thirty-six letters, thirty-four of which are still used. The language has a great facility for forming new words, but it does not adopt the common foreign names of science and new inventions. Thus a telegraph is called "frettafleygir," bearer of news, and a telegram "hradfrett," quick news. The Icelandic literature, which, with the exception of a few unimportant Norwegian productions, has been written wholly in Iceland, consists generally of songs of victory or of praise, elegies, epigrams and sagas and skalds, or fictitious or historical romances. These works really belong to the ancient period of Icelandic literature, the second, or modern, period dating from a revival of the seventeenth century. History, homilies, jurisprudence, poetry were all taken up, and with such spirit and fruit that during the last hundred years no other nation can show so large a proportion of literary men.

Iceland is in shape a good deal like that of the heart, the greatest length being 835 miles and greatest breadth 200 miles. Its area, including the adjacent islets, is 39,758 square miles, of which 16,243 are habitable. The population in its most flourishing period exceeded 100,000, recent censuses giving the figures as follows: 1864, 68,084; 1869, 69,506; 1870, 69,763. At present it is in the neighborhood of 70,000, but is again on the decline, due to the gradual exhaustion of the fertility of the island and the increasing severity of its winters. The present project of moving the nation is not the first. In 1785 starvation and disease had brought the population down to something like 30,000, and the proposition was seriously entertained of removing the remnant of the people from the country. Prosperity, however, slowly returned to the Icelander, and the project was abandoned.

The coast line of Iceland is deeply indented with bays, fiords—inlets extending far inland between lofty terraced mountains—and jutting promontories. The western fiords are studded with rocky inlets, and open, like those of the northeast, to enormous ice drifts. Iceland is of volcanic origin, the center being an elevated band of tufa, from 1500 to 2000 feet above the sea and forming a wilderness covered with vast lava beds, barren heights, tracts of black volcanic sand, hot springs and bog. The mountains lie about the coast, chiefly in the south, among which are a number of fertile valleys extending along the water courses. Some of the loftiest mountains have an altitude ranging from [illegible] to 4000 feet, while some few volcanic peaks attain to a greater height. [illegible]



ICELANDIC FUNERAL.

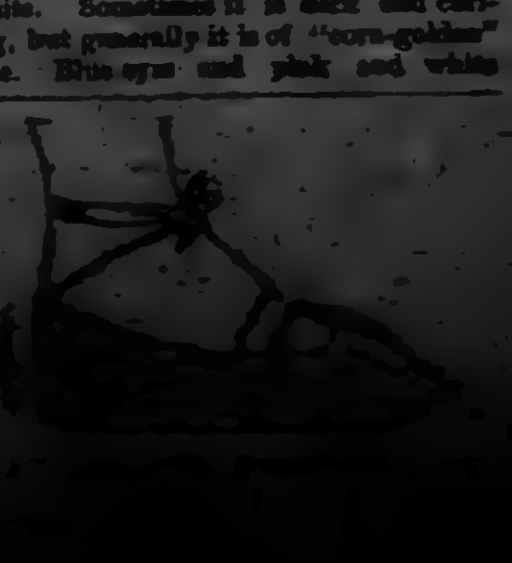
tions have been recorded from these and other craters, the last being in 1862, all being more or less violent and destructive.

Iceland has several lakes, though all have been partly filled up by lava flows. The Midge Lake is in the north and the Thingvallavatn in the south, and each is ten miles long by four wide. The rivers of Iceland are numerous and of good size, but unfitted for navigation because of her torrential and broken character. Perhaps the most celebrated feature of Iceland scenery is the great number of intermittent hot springs, which have given the name of geysers to similar springs elsewhere.

The principal town is Reyjavk, a small and rather picturesque town of 1400, modeled after Copenhagen. It has three principal streets and an irregularly built suburb, and as the capital, does a fair amount of business. A bishop resides here, it publishes two weekly papers, and is the centre of the national educational facilities, which are confined to elementary instruction.

The only mode of traveling in Iceland is on horseback. Roads do not exist, and the bridle paths, though certainly good, are at the same time remarkably simple in their construction. Bridges are a rarity, and the general methods of crossing a stream are by ferry or swimming. The houses are partly of earth and partly of stone and have a turf roof, which in summer time is so green that it can scarcely be distinguished from the surrounding fields. Timber work is seldom to be found, Iceland being a woodless country and the cost of transportation from the seaports being great. Wooden houses are only found in the two principal towns. The Icelandic house, however, is no hut, but possesses intricate interiors, and is sometimes quite artistically arranged. Sometimes, too, the house is little more than an earthen burrow, low, smoke-stained and filthy. A good deal of the interior dirt is due to the fact that the houses are mostly built without fireplaces. For the accommodation of their sheep and cattle the farmers have small turf windowless houses, erected a short distance from the residence. The stables have no stalls, and the horses move about as they like. Generally speaking the farm houses are built close together, each farmer requiring a large grass walk for his flocks, which sometimes are very numerous, and for hay for the winter store. The Icelandic agriculturist cares nothing for gay colors, and his house is always painted of a somber gray or a dark red. Cereals cannot be grown with any success in this country, the only native grain being a wild sand-oat, from which an eatable kind of bread can be made. In addition to grass, which is the principal vegetable produce of the country, little else is grown beside potatoes and turnips.

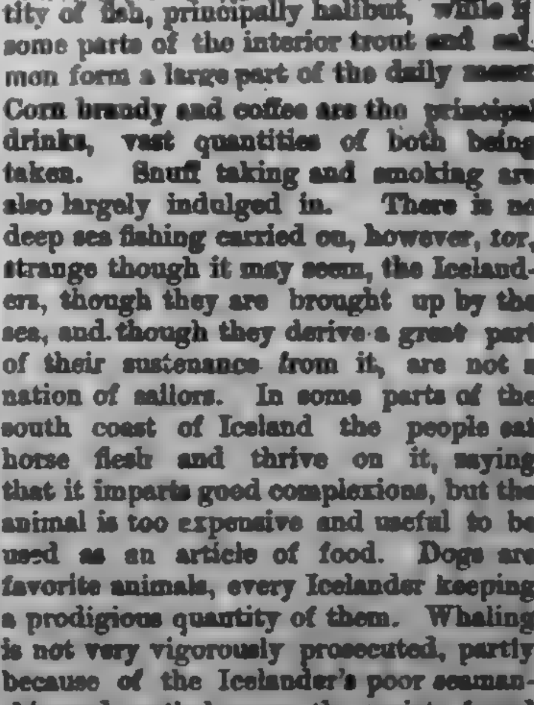
The every-day costume of the women consists of a tight-fitting woolen knitted bodice, of a dark color, with narrow sleeves buttoned at the wrists and a full skirt. As a set-off a striped or checked apron, usually green or red, is worn. The characteristic head-dress is a small black cap, furnished with a long, silken tassel. When the state costume is put on the cap is supplanted by a high white head-dress, something in the shape of a helmet, studded with gilt stars and enveloped in a white veil of tulle. The bodice is of black cloth, richly hemmed with gold or silver oak leaves. The skirt, also of cloth, is embroidered with silk and silver, while a gold belt of ingenious workmanship encircles the waist. Over all is thrown a full cloak of black cloth, with a cape of green velvet trimmed with ermine. The Icelandic women have very thick and beautiful hair, which they arrange in graceful plaits. Sometimes it is dark and curling, but generally it is of "corn-golden" hue. Blue eyes and pink and white cheeks accompany this, and the result is decidedly pleasing.



The men are well grown, but are not so good looking as the women, and are remarkable for their long waists and short legs.

The churches usually consist of a little, square-shaped, tar-covered barn, either made out of planks or of earth, with two small windows in the gable and a little aperture in the roof. Externally, with but very few exceptions, they are destitute of any kind of adornment. The churchyards are just as unostentatious, for a tombstone is a rarity. A cross even is scarcely to be found upon a grave in Iceland, and the green mounds are soon leveled to the ground.

The usual food with which the traveler is entertained is smoked or dried mutton, which, when not too old, is not an unpleasant dish. The common bread consists of thin, flat cakes, but even this is not an article of daily consumption, the poorer classes eating dried fish instead, plentifully smeared over with a sour butter, or even a mixture of tallow and oil. On the coast the people eat a great quantity of fish, principally halibut, while in some parts of the interior trout and salmon form a large part of the daily menu. Corn brandy and coffee are the principal drinks, vast quantities of both being taken. Snuff taking and smoking are also largely indulged in. There is no deep sea fishing carried on, however, for, strange though it may seem, the Icelanders, though they are brought up by the sea, and though they derive a great part of their sustenance from it, are not a nation of sailors. In some parts of the south coast of Iceland the people eat horse flesh and thrive on it, saying that it imparts good complexions, but the animal is too expensive and useful to be used as an article of food. Dogs are favorite animals, every Icelander keeping a prodigious quantity of them. Whaling is not very vigorously prosecuted, partly because of the Icelander's poor seamanship and partly because the variety found in these waters is not a valuable one. Lastly come the sea birds, which are quite an important article of diet.



AN ICELAND HOUSE.

Iceland, as has been remarked, is a treeless country, although here and there may be seen a plot containing trees. But woods are not really missed in the landscape. When, for instance, one lands on some eminence, and looks toward a mountain some miles distant clad in its dark-blue summer dress, or if one gazes over a grassy plain, where no defying fences obstruct the view, but where a river winds sinuously along, or a lake reveals its shining surface, the senses do not feel the want of forest land. Several beautiful and delicate kinds of grasses and plants, too, abound in Iceland, while the flowers are numerous and lovely.

To resume, Iceland is a land of mountains that reach far up into the sky, of boundless sandy plains, of swift and foaming rivers, of deserts of lava, snow, ice, sand or stone, a land abounding with legends and myths, of volcanoes, the inexhaustible field for wonderment and for investigation.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Guarding Against Falsehood.

Dunn was an English farmer who employed a laborer named Paul. Mr. Dunn one day asked Paul to take luncheon, and Paul refused, but afterward the workman [illegible], and went to ask for the food.

"No," was Mr. Dunn's answer, "you said you would not eat, and I never allow any lies to be told in my house."

"So," said Paul. "I [illegible]"

The next week Paul [illegible] work, the thought of [illegible] remaining in his mind. Mr. Dunn [illegible] [illegible]

"Yes."

[illegible]

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., NOV. 7, 1889.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year - - - - $1.50
One copy six months - - - 75
One copy four " - - - - 50

The President has set apart Thursday, Nov. 28th, as a day of national thanksgiving and prayer.

The "you did" and "we didn't" editorials of the Age-Herald and the Advertiser are always amusing if not interesting—that is to all who are not gubernatorial candidates.

A. J. Stansell, who murdered Jim Hillery in Birmingham a few weeks ago, has been heard from. In a letter to a friend in the Magic City he states that after killing Hillery he went to Atlanta, secured money and went to Montgomery. From there he went to New Orleans, and then took a steamer for the City of Mexico, where he now is.

It has been the custom for many years for manufacturers in Connecticutt to march their employes to the polls and hand them the ticket they were expected to vote. The adoption of the Australian ballot system interfered with the game in the recent elections, and the result was seen in democratic gains. Under this system Connecticutt can be regarded as safely Democratic.—Exchange.

The unexpected has happened. A jury has at last been obtained in the Cronin case. Twelve men have been found who don't read the newspapers.—Register.

And they are about as unfit to mete out justice as a judge who never reads law. That is the crowning fault with the American jury system. A man who reads newspapers is incompetent by reason of his fixed opinion, and the man who don't read newspapers hasn't intellect enough to form an opinion. Abolish the system and let the judges of law and testimony decide the cases.—Bibb Blade.

The National Farmers' Alliance and the National Agricultural Wheel and the Farmers' Mutual Benefit Association have been consolidated into one organization. The new name is the Farmers and Laborers' Union of America and it went into effect with a new constitution on the first day of October, with Evan Jones, of Texas, as president, Isaac McCracken, of Arkansas, as vice president, A. E. Gardner, of Tennessee, as secretary, and Linn Tanner, of Louisiana, as treasurer.

Governor Hill in his speech at the dedication of the Pulitzer building in New York, on Thursday last, related a story of the late Samuel J. Tilden. "The Sage of Greystone," said he, "appreciating the influence of the public press once, many years ago, whispered into the ear of a young and ambitious lawyer, just upon entering active political life, this sugestive and admirable advise: "Young man, get the newspapers to talk about you. Get them to talk in your favor if you can—if not get them to talk against you. Do not be ignored.

The Northport Breeze true to its name gives a breezy lecture to some unruly cadets at the State University who make themselves a nuisance at public entertainments. Cannot the city authorities with the aid of Sheriff King and his posse comitatus run in the guilty parties on a charge of disorderly conduct? This would be a practical demonstration that they had reached "a civilized community," as the Breeze puts it. A night in the calaboose and a good round sum paid into the city treasury next morning might be the remedy to apply. The Breeze humorously suggests that if the University cannot discipline the cadets the buildings should be "cleaned out and utilized as a cotton factory." We take this as humor, because our contemporary, being aware of the illiteracy in Alabama, will admit that there is greater need for the University than for the factory, though some of the boys may take occasion to "paint 'er red," when the city authorities seem unable to prevent. But if the cotton factory is a prime object, the city hall and calaboose, being evidently useless structures, might be disinfected, and the factory established right in town.

Tuesday's Elections.

Tuesday's elections resulted quite favorably for the Democrats. Virginia spurned Mahone and gave a good Democratic majority. Abbett, Democrat, was elected Governor in New Jersey. New York went Democratic and Ohio is also claimed; but in that State the result is close and doubtful. Maryland went Democratic and Pennsylvania Republican. There was no opposition to the Democracy in Mississippi, but in Massachusetts there were Democratic losses. Iowa and Nebraska went Republican by reduced majorities, and prominent Republicans concede their defeat in Colorado.

Wear Cotton Clothes.

The Montgomery Advertiser thus advises:

"The people of the cotton States have it in their power to largely increase the demand for cotton goods. For at least seven months of the year they can wear cotton clothes, and if they were to adopt the custom of doing so, there would be a constant running of the southern mills now in operation, and a speedy use for a great many more. It was the custom of many rich planters before the war to dress in osnaburgs, and they looked exceedingly neat. Suppose every farmer dressed in osnaburgs, the amount now made would be an infinitesimal part of what would be needed. When washed and perfectly clean no suit of clothes would look better. The mills could easily be adapted to the making of a brand that would stand wear and washing, and if another color than white was preferred, the mill could easily dye any shade that was wanted. Ladies can dress beautifully out of cotton goods, and it is to their credit that they wear more cotton clothes than men. Much greater use can be made of cotton goods, and people who raise it and make their living by it, ought to set the example to the rest of the world. What say the farmers to setting this ball in motion, and resolving that they will use cotton goods for everything possible. This would take in clothes for men, women and children, bed covers and spreads, sheets, towels, table cloths and other household articles. It would make a greater demand than ever for the raw cotton, and would be the means of establishing many more factories in the South, and what is a greater consideration, the price would inevitably go higher and stay so."

NEWS ITEMS.

Snow storms and blizzards in Colorado are freezing people and cattle to death thus early in the winter.

J. M. LeGrand, at Weaver's Station, Ala., has gathered an average of 1660 pounds of cotton to the acre from a five acre field.

Chase Bros., extensive nursery men of Rochester, N. Y., have bought $8000 worth of land near Huntsville, Ala., and will establish a southern branch of their nurseries.

The figures in the school census of the State for 1889, which has just been completed, indicate that Alabama by the national census next year will show a population little short of $2,000,000.

A meeting of the board of trustees of the State University is called for Nov. 14th. It is said Dr. Wyman does not care to act as president and for that reason the board will meet and probably elect one.

Residents of Murry City, O., burned to the ground the house of George Washington, a colored man. He lost everything. The excuse given for the outrage is that no blacks are wanted in the place. This is the way the Yankee loves the nigger.

The capital or endowment fund of Clinton College, Mississippi, is to be augmented $100,000. The Baptist churches in and around Clinton have agreed to produce $20,000; an admirable woman of Noxubee will furnish $20,000 more; an old Baptist brother puts up $20,000 to have a professorship named for him, and the rest will be given by the Baptist churches of the State.

The trunk in which Dr. Cronin's body was carried from the Carlson cottage to the Lakeview catch basin was brought from the Central Station Friday to the State's attorney's office and locked up in the vault there to be kept until needed in the trial. A crowd gathered to see the gory evidence of a great crime as it was taken by a guard of officers from the patrol wagon to the vault.

Tuskaloosa Gazette: Mr. James R. Maxwell informed a Gazette man yesterday that a bale of cotton had been received at the alliance warehouse in this city a few days ago, wrapped in homespun cotton sheets. The party who brought it in was unable to procure the cotton bagging, and his wife, in order to help down the infamous jute trust, spun and wove the covering herself for her husband's cotton crop. She will do, and that man ought to be proud of his wife, as he no doubt is.

Nothing more has been heard in Birmingham of Rube Burrows and the chase has been abandoned. The Southern Express company will send out no more men until he has been located again. It is now known that the two men seen in Blount county and who were thought to have been Burrows and a pal, were two moonshiners, Johnson and Stringer, from Bibb county. The coat that was found in the woods and known to have been that of one of the men was brought to Birmingham, and it was decided to have Mrs. Stringer, mother of Jim Stringer, who was lodged in jail some time ago on the charge of complicity in the escape of Johnson and Stringer, view the coat. She was brought and three coats were shown her. Two of them she could not identify, but the third coat, which was the one the supposed robbers had dropped, she identified as that of her son, Jim Stringer. She also identified a pocket-knife that was found. This satisfied the expressmen that the two men seen in Blount were not the train robbers.

Bob Ford, well known as the man who killed Jesse James, the Missouri bandit, at St. Joseph, several years ago, had a close call for his life at Walsenburg, Cal., on the 4th inst. In company with a man named Kehrs he has for some time been running a saloon and dance hall there. Ford was behind the bar when Earnest Kurry, a cowboy, who is known to have killed his man, entered. Kurry was drunk and in a very ugly mood. Walking straight up to the bar he said: "Look out, Bob, I'm going to kill you" at the same time pulling his gun and firing. Ford is constantly on his guard against such attacks, a number of which of late have been made on him, since he killed Jesse James. He at once dived behind the bar and seized his revolver, with which he turned loose. His first shot hit the cowbow in the shoulder and Kurry fell to the floor but managed to discharge two more shots at Ford. The latter kept on firing until his revolver was empty, two of his bullets taking effect in the prostrate man's body, one in the hip and the other in the side. He was about to empty another gun into Kurry but some of those present dissuaded him, and the wounded man was taken away. He may recover.

Editor Grouby in the Abbeville Times gets off this bit of humor which is almost "too good" for the Age-Herald wit to read, and he will surely never give it a reprint: "The Birmingham Age-Herald published a few days since an installment of 'Wit and Humor from the Country Press.' It occupied about two columns. The publication was intended as in a vein of irony and ridicule; but the matter printed was a little too good for the average reader to detect the purpose. If the Age-Herald will now try to print two columns of the same sort from the daily press of the state, omitting the Montgomery Journal and Birmingham News, it will find that it will require the remainder of the year to fill the space, and then the contrast will be as striking in the quality of the matter as the intended ridicule was short in its aim and purpose."

The consciousness of having a remedy at hand for croup, pneumonia, sore throat, and sudden colds, is very consoling to a parent. With a bottle of Ayers' Cherry Pectoral in the house, one feels, in such cases, a sense of security.

Physicians prescribe Dr. J. H. McLean's Tar Wine Lung Balm; in it they find no trace of opium or morphia, while its efficacy in curing all throat and lung diseases is wonderful.

From Fremont, Nebraska.

I have had scrofula until it made my life a burden. I was inexpressibly miserable, sick, weak, sleepless and unhappy; desiring that the short time which seemed to have been allotted to me on this earth would hasten to an end. I tried doctors' treatment and medicine, and travel, but none of these did any good, for the scrofula gradually grew worse. One physician, whom I traveled far to see, and to whom I paid $150, gave up the case as hopeless after three weeks of treatment, and other as prominent physicians tried hard to cure it, but were equally as unsuccessful. I then gave up all other medicines, and took only Swift's Specific, (S. S. S.) Four bottles of that medicine cured me, and for the past four years I have had as excellent and I am as free from disease as anybody living. Words are inadequate to express my gratitude and favorable opinion of Swift's Specific (S. S. S.)"

The above is an extract from a letter written under date of July 18, 1889, by Mr. F. E. Nelson, a prominent and wealthy citizen of Fremont, Nebraska.

His Child Got Well.

Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) cured my little boy of scrofula, from which he had suffered a long time. I had tried physicians and great quantities of other medicines without avail. A few bottles of S. S. S. did the work. He is now enjoying the best of health, and has not had any symptoms of the disease for over a year.

W. A. CLAYTON, Addie, N. C.

Treatise on blood and skin diseases mailed free.

SWIFT SPECIFIC CO.,
Atlanta, Ga.

Sick headache, wind on the stomach, billiousness, nausea, are promptly and agreeably banished by Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pillets. 25 c a vial.

Old General Debility was for a time held responsible for the Alleghany base ball team's wretched work in this season's campaign, but now the blame is being divided with old John Barleycorn.—Pittsburg Post.

Far better than the harsh treatment of medicines which horribly gripe the patient and destroy the coating of the stomach. Dr. J. H. McLean's Chill and Fever, by mild yet effective action will cure. Sold at 50 cents a bottle.

The Johnstown sufferer is the latest variety of tramp in Kansas. He bears a close resemblance to all the rest in the particular that he looks as if he had never seen water.

If you suffer from any affection caused by impure blood, such as scrofula, salt rheum, sores, boils, pimples, tetter, ring worm, take Dr. J. H. McLean's Sarsaparilla.

The three Confederate soldiers who were the most abused by the Northern people were Mahone, Mosby and Chalmers. They were called "butchers" and "demons." They changed their political coats after the war, and are now regarded as political saints by the Republicans.—Montgomery Advertiser.

The quality of the blood depends much upon good or bad digestion and assimilation. To make the blood rich in life and strength-giving constituents use Dr. J. H. McLean's Sarsaparilla. It will nourish the properties of the blood, from which the elements of vitality are drawn.

Exposure to rough weather, getting wet, living in damp localities, are favorable to the contraction of diseases of the kidneys and bladder. As a preventive, and for the cure of all kidney and liver trouble, use that valuable remedy, Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm. $1.00 per bottle.

Wanted.

To learn the whereabouts of Mrs. Mattie E. Slaughter formerly Miss Mattie E. Goode, who moved from Arksansas to Alabama about four years ago. She can learn something to her advantage by coresponding with

LEE HAYES, Clanton, Ala.

"It goes right to the spot," said an old man, who was rubbing in Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment to relieve rheumatism. oct31

The only thing a man can borrow in this world without giving security is trouble.

There are many accidents and diseases which affect stock and cause serious inconvenience and loss to the farmer in his work, which may be quickly remedied by the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment.

—The greatest of all poetry is a girl's first love letter.

It was supposed that scrofula could not be eradicated from the system; but the marvelous results produced by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla disprove this theory. The reason is, this medicine is the most powerful blood purifier ever discovered.

Go to Blank Brothers, Leading Clothiers, 2112, 2nd Avenue, Birmingham, Ala., to buy anything you need in the way of clothing and gent's furnishing goods.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of an execution issued out of the Register's office of the Chancery Court of Chilton county, Ala., in favor of Jonce L. Gardner, et. al. and against Maria L. Wilson, et. al., I will proceed to sell, at the courthouse door in Clanton, Ala., between the legal hours of sale, at public outcry, to the highest bidder for cash, on Monday, December 2d, 1889, the following described real estate, levied upon as the property of the said Maria L. Wilson, to-wit: The s e ¼ of the n w ¼ of section 33, township 22, range 12 east, lying south of the Selma and Montvallo road and west of Mulberry creek, and lying and being in Chilton county, Ala.

LEE HAYES,
Sheriff Chilton Co.

Clanton, Ala., October 29th, 1889.

Tax Notice!

FIRST ROUND.

I will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and county taxes of Chilton county for the year 1889.

Mineral Springs	October	30
Jemison	"	31
Providence	"	29
Macedonia	November	4
Benson	"	5
Maplesville	"	6
R. Latham's	"	7
Dixie	"	8
Kincheon	"	12
Verbena	"	13
Cooper's	"	14
Clanton	"	15
Strasburg	"	16
Valley Creek Church	"	9
Clanton Ford	"	11

SECOND ROUND.

Mineral Springs	December	6
Jemison	"	7
Providence	"	8
Macedonia	"	9
Benson	"	10
Maplesville	"	11
R. Latham's	"	12
Dixie	"	13
Kincheon	"	17
Verbena	"	18
Cooper's	"	19
Valley Creek Church	"	14
Clanton Ford	"	16
Elijah Busby	"	4
John Arober's	"	5
Prim's School House	"	21

Clanton, December 23, 24, 26, 27, 28, 30 and 31.

R. M. GENTRY,
Tax Collector Chilton Co.

Rheumatism,

BEING due to the presence of uric acid in the blood, is most effectually cured by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Be sure you get Ayer's and no other, and take it till the poisonous acid is thoroughly expelled from the system. We challenge attention to this testimony:—

"About two years ago, after suffering for nearly two years from rheumatic gout, being able to walk only with great discomfort, and having tried various remedies, including mineral waters, without relief, I saw by an advertisement in a Chicago paper that a man had been relieved of this distressing complaint, after long suffering, by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I then decided to make a trial of this medicine, and took it regularly for eight months, and am pleased to state that it has effected a complete cure. I have since had no return of the disease."—Mrs. R. Irving Dodge, 110 West 125th st., New York.

"One year ago I was taken ill with inflammatory rheumatism, being confined to my house six months. I came out of the sickness very much debilitated, with no appetite, and my system disordered in every way. I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla and began to improve at once, gaining in strength and soon recovering my usual health. I cannot say too much in praise of this well-known medicine."—Mrs. L. A. Stark, Nashua, N. H.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

PREPARED BY
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Price $1; six bottles, $5. Worth $5 a bottle.

tma16

Jemison High School.

—:o:—

Good House, Well Furnished, Healthful Locality, Dry Sandy Roads, Good Board Cheap, Tuition Low, Maps, Globes, Charts, etc., Moral Community, Three Churches, No Whisky, Well Trained Teachers, Fine Success, Teachers Re-elected without a Dissenting Voice. Session opens Sept. 2d, 1889.

Apply to J. L. RUFFIN, JR.,
aug29 Principal.

CLANTON HIGH SCHOOL.

—:o:—

This School will open Monday, Sept. the 2nd, 1889. Advantages the best in the county. Rates low, board and tuition $10 per month. Patronage is earnestly desired. For further information address me at Clanton, Ala.

Respectfully,
A. J. SCOTT, Principal.

W. W. C.

(Wooldridge's Wonderful Cure)

Is the greatest Blood Purifier ever yet discovered. It never fails to cure when taken according to directions. Read what it has done for Mr. A. Kimbrough:

COLUMBUS, GA., July 18, 1889.

Wooldridge Wonderful Cure Co., Columbus, Ga.

GENTS:—After suffering for twenty years with my kidneys, and finding only temporary relief, after taking various remedies, and consulting some of the most noted physicians in the country, at a cost of hundreds of dollars, for no good, I decided to try W. W. C., and I must confess that I am to-day as well as I ever was, and that I suffer no pain whatever from my kidneys, and am feeling better in every respect than I have for years, and I attribute it all to two bottles of W. W. C.; and I would advise all who suffer in the least with kidney or bladder troubles to give W. W. C. a trial. Yours truly,

A. KIMBROUGH.

WOOLDRIDGE'S WONDERFUL CURE is a sure Remedy for Syphilis, Syphilitic Rheumatism, Chronic Rheumatism, Skin Diseases, Bone Diseases, Old Sores, Bilious Troubles, Liver Diseases, Jaundice, Bilious Headache, Dyspepsia, and all Diseases caused from Impure and Poisoned Blood or Hereditary Diseases.

For sale by all Druggists.

Manufactured by
Wooldridge Wonderful Cure Co.,
COLUMBUS, GA.
sep19 y

Wool Carding.

Our Cards are now running and doing good work. Bring or send your work to E. G. WALKER,
sep19 2m Montevallo, Ala.

Highest cash price paid for wool.

Barber Shop.

Mr. H. A. Logan, who has his barber shop in the Farmer's Alliance Building, solicits the patronage of the good people of Clanton. He does good work and is well fixed up for the business.

Remember
The View Job Office
When you want
First-class Job Printing done.

ALABAMA CENTRAL
FEMALE COLLEGE.

While the patronage of many other schools in the Town and State has diminished, the attendance at this College has increased 35 per cent. during the past Session. Literary, Scientific, Music and Art Departments under the direction of skillful teachers. Send for catalogue.
33rd Session opens September 18, 1889.
S. S. FOSTER, President, Tuskaloosa, Ala.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

Land Office, Montgomery, Ala.,
Nov. 5, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on December 14th, 1889, viz: James H. Green, homestead 23766 for the s e ¼ of n e ¼ sec 18 t 20 n, r 13 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: William W. Hlenner, William W. Sanson, Richard P. Kendrick, James M. Walker, all of Maplesville, Ala.

J. H. BINGHAM,
Register.

nov7

The Lawson Carpet Co.

Birmingham, Ala.

Take pleasure in directing the attention of the people of Chilton county to their large and attractive stock of

Carpets, Oil-cloths, Window Shades,

Curtains & Household Novelties

The Stock represented is the finest in Alabama, and prices are guaranteed as low as similar goods are offered in any of the eastern markets.

☞ All communications answered by return mail. Respectfully,
ma30-y THE LAWSON CARPET CO. (WM. LAWSON.)

BAINS & PORTER.
(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & PEEBLES.)
WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.
Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.
FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY
1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS
Birmingham, Ala.

☞ Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜
P. O. BOX 570. June 19 y

LOOK HERE!
New Stock! Low Prices!
—AT—
W. M. Wilson & Bro.'s
CLANTON, ALA.

We have opened a Large Stock of Dry Goods, Groceries and General Merchandise at our old Stand, and we have come to stay. We invite an inspection of our goods and prices.

☞ SHOES AND HATS A SPECIALTY. ☜

THOMAS FOSHEE,
(SUCCESSOR TO N. W. FOSHEE,)
—DEALER IN—
Dry Goods, Groceries
—AND—
GENERAL MERCHANDISE
Maplesville, Alabama.

I solicit a continuance of the liberal patronage heretofore extended our house. Respectfully,
feb 28-y THOMAS FOSHEE.

B. WOLLF'S
FURNITURE EMPORIUM,
20 and 22 Commerce and Corner Court and Copea Streets.
—MONTGOMERY, ALA.—
CARRIES
The Largest and Cheapest Stock of Furniture
IN THE STATE.
sep11-6 ☞ When you come to the city, give me a call. ☜

WALL PAPER,

WINDOW SHADES,
MOULDINGS,
—AND—
PRACTICAL PAPER HANGER
H. M. MANCHA,
204 DEXTER AVENUE, MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA.

☞ Papers furnished at any price from 10 cents up. Will send samples on application.
apr 11-y

BIRMINGHAM MARBLE WORKS.
THOS. H. HOLT,
PRACTICAL WORKMAN.
—AND DEALER IN—
American and Italian Marble.
—Manufacturer of all kinds of—
CEMETERY MARBLE AND STONE WORK
Cor. Second Avenue and Twenty-Fourth Street.
Birmingham, Alabama
[illegible]

Carpet Co.

, Ala.

g the attention of ty to their large stock of

indow Shades,

old Novelties.

ne, and prices are guaranteed as stern markets.
mail. Respectfully,
RPET CO. (Wm. Lawson.)

ORTER.
& PEEBLES.)

UGGISTS.

Receive Prompt At

RS A SPECIALTY
9th and 20th STREETS
, Ala.
t Company's Prices.
June 19 y

ERE!
ow Prices!

& Bro.'s

ALA.

ls, Groceries and General Me me to stay. We invite an nd prices.
SPECIALTY.

OSHEE, FOSHEE,)

-roceries

CHANDISE.
labama.

ral patronage heretofore
lly,
THOMAS FOSHEE.

LF'S MPORIUM,
urt and Coosa Streets.
ALA.
ES
Stock of Furniture
TATE.
give me a call.

APER,
WINDOW SHADES,
MOULDINGS,
—AND—RACTICAL PAPER HANGE

CHA,
OMERY, ALABAMA.
om 10 cents up. Will
apr 11-y

BLE WORKS.
HOLT,
ORKMAN.

lian Marble.
kinds of
D STONE WOR
nty-Fourth Street,
Alabama

BO TO BLANK BROS, LEADING CLOTHIERS, 2112 SECOND AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., NOV. 7, 1889.

The View is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

A cross mark (X) after your name means that your subscription is due and that we would be glad to have you renew.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the second Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—On the eleventh Monday after the fourth Monday in February, and on the thirteenth Monday after fourth Monday in August, and may continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in Probate—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD. Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.

No. 1 Express at	5:55 a. m.
No. 3 Mail	5:37 p. m.
No. 5 (Passenger)	6:17 p. m.
No. 9 Accommodation	6:45 a. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 2 Fast (Don't Stop)	2:20 a. m.
No. 6 Mail	9:13 a. m.
No. 4 Express	7:55 p. m.
No. 10 Accommodation	7:22 p. m.

LOCAL LACONICS.

Mr. Evans Pinckard took in the exposition Tuesday.

Mrs. Evans visited her son at Randolph the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Sampey visited Montgomery Tuesday.

Miss Minnie Phillips is visiting relatives in Montgomery.

Mr. L. Holt has moved his family into the McNeil residence.

Mrs. M. A. Butler visited Birmingham Tuesday on business.

Young Mr. Smith, of Jumbo, has entered Clanton High School.

Mrs. Gordloe Yancey leaves to-morrow for her home in Athens, Ga.

Mrs John Garner has returned home after an absence of several weeks.

Miss Acker, of Montevallo, is visiting the family of Mr. John Garner.

A goodly number of our citizens will attend the exposition in Montgomery.

Mr. John Sexton, of Stanton visited Clanton Saturday and Sunday.

Our handsome young friend, Glaucus Evans, of Calera, was in Clanton Sunday.

Mr. J. P. Allen, of Jemison, was in town Monday, and gave us a pleasant call.

Messrs. J. M. Dawson and son have put the courthouse well in good order with new brick work.

Mrs. E. C. Lawrence left Tuesday for Tuskaloosa and Northport, where she will spend some time with relatives.

Messrs. Jno. P. Leeper and W. Brown, of Columbiana were in Clanton on business at the Probate office Monday.

The inclemency of the weather last Friday made it necessary to postpone the oyster supper by the ladies of the Baptist church. It will be held to-morrow (Friday) night at the courthouse. We hope they may have a good attendance.

One of the finest cemetery marble workmen in the country is Mr. Lee H. Holt, of the Birmingham marble works. If you want anything in his line write to him for prices or call on him at 24th St. and 2nd avenue.

Two negroes were brought to Clanton Saturday and jailed on the charge of murdering another negro, Carl Shultz, near Stanton, mention of which is more fully given in Stanton locals. One of the negroes arrested was the wife of Shultz, and the name of the other was Abe Moore.

Notice to the Public.

From November 1st to January 1, no goods will be sold on credit at my store, and I hope no one will have their feelings hurt by failing to get credit. I intend to meet any competition in this market, and in order to do so I must call for the money down.

All parties who have not yet paid their accounts for this year are earnestly requested to call and settle at once.

Respectfully,
W. L. Sampey.

Mrs. Falkner, wife of Judge Jefferson Falkner, died at the family home at Mountain Creek, this county, on Friday last. She had reached the advanced age of 75.

A traveling magic lantern exhibitor drew a small crowd at the court house Friday night. He said this was the toughest town he ever struck, and conceded that it was a match for him in that particular.

To Confederate Soldiers and Widows.

Clanton, Ala., Nov. 2d, 1889.

Editor View:—Please inform the maimed and the widows of Confederate soldiers that made application for relief that warrants on the State Treasurer are in my office.

H. J. CALLEN,
Judge of Probate.

A young negro by the name of Jim Lewis was caught Friday at noon in the act of burglarizing Wilson Bros'. store. The store was closed, it being the dinner hour, and the negro went to the rear window, and raising the sash, climbed in. He was caught as he came out, and before he could appropriate any thing, the approach of his captors, Messrs. Gullahorn and Logan, having alarmed him. He claims to have been drunk, which ought to make two counts in the indictment. He was bound over to await the action of the grand jury.

If you suffer pricking pains on moving the eyes, or cannot bear bright light, and find your sight weak and failing, you should promptly use Dr. J. H. McLean's Stregthening Eye Salve. 25 cents a box.

Stanton Notes.

News reached here yesterday, October 31, that the body of a negro man had been found at Blue Pond, three miles from Stanton. Justice Stewart went out to hold an inquest late yesterday evening. As the man had been dead two weeks, the body was so disfigured by the buzzards that recognition was impossible, but upon investigation certain things were found about his clothing which identified the body as that of a negro named Carl Shultz, who owned a small piece of land near where his remains were found. An inquest was held, and Dr. W. W. Little examined the remains, pronouncing cause of death from gun shot wounds. Shultz' wife and several other negroes have been arrested, supposed to be implicated in the murder. Owing to the lateness of the hour the inquest was continued.

The inquest resulted in sending two prisoners to jail, one being the wife of Shultz.

Mr. Jim Harris' three year old child got hold of some parlor matches yesterday morning and chewed up the heads. Within six hours the little fellow was a corpse. This should warn all parents to keep matches out of the baby's reach.

The Wild West.

Cameron, I. T., Oct. 30, '89.

Editor View:—Before I left Alabama I promised to write to quite a number of my friends, and knowing that the View is welcomed in almost every home in Chilton, I wish to reach them through it.

I left Chilton Sept. 28th, went through Mobile to New Orleans; there I crossed the Mississippi and took a straight line to Marshal, Texas. Continuing my journey, after making several changes, I arrived in Mineola, Tex. There I remained several days with my only sister, whom I had not seen for six years. You can imagine that it was a pleasant greeting. The 2d of October, I started from Mineola to the Indian Conference which was in session at Itoka, I. T., Choctaw Nation. I never saw any Indians until I reached Dennison, Tex. I could look out of the car there and see wigwams of different kinds. The Indians seemed to be numerous, and the remainder of the trip things looked odd enough. I was soon gazing upon a vast prairie, upon which nothing could be seen but grass, cattle and ponies. As the train went thundering on there came a sudden loud whistle from the engine and looking out I saw the prairie grass on fire. It was going like a flash over the plain. I cannot say much about this for fortunately the fire was going one way and I was going the other. I composed myself the best I could, until I heard the conductor call out Atoka. This was the place that I had to meet the brethren in conference. I got off and looked all around me. I must say that my eyes fell upon a species of the human race that would startle most any boy reared in Alabama.

I cannot say more at this time, but will write again and let you know something more about the country.

Yours Truly,
Thos. H. Park.

When nature falters and requires help recruit her enfeebled energies with Dr. J. H. McLean's strengthening cordial and blood purifier. $1.00 per bot.

HERMAN HERZFELD,
—DEALER IN—
All Kinds of Furniture at all Prices.
Parlor and Bed-Room Suits, Carpets, Oil Cloths, Mattings, Blankets, Comforts and Lace Goods.
Everything necessary in the House-Furnishing Goods Line.
NINETEENTH STREET, BETWEEN FIRST AND SECOND AVENUES
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

—Office of—
FARMERS'
Alliance Exchange
UNION WAREHOUSE.

Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 16, 1889.

DEAR SIR:—We invite your attention to our large and commodious Warehouses near the Union Passenger Depot in rear of the Windsor Hotel in this city. We are prepared to store or sell cotton to the best advantage and to fully protect the planters' interest by always obtaining the highest market price on day of sale. Our rates of storage are cheaper than any other Warehouse in the city from the fact that we charge no drayage where cotton is shipped by rail or boat.

We have every protection against fire that is possible to be had, and are above high water. We make liberal advances on cotton in store.

Your patronage is respectfully solicited.

JNO. S. BIRD, Business Manager.

Attention Farmers!

THIS IS A FARMER'S WAREHOUSE UNDER THE CONTROL OF FARMERS WHO ARE DETERMINED TO HANDLE THEIR OWN COTTON AND TO FREE THEMSELVES FROM THE CHARGES THEY HAVE BEEN COMPELLED TO PAY.

Farmers' Co-Operative Association!

THE CHARGES FOR HANDLING COTTON WILL BE FIFTY CENTS PER BALE FOR THE FIRST MONTH AND TWENTY-FIVE CENTS FOR EACH SUCCEEDING MONTH. CONSULT YOUR INTEREST AND STORE YOUR COTTON IN THE SOUTHERN WAREHOUSE.

NO COMMISSION FOR SELLING, AND NO CHARGES FOR DRAYAGE OR RE-WEIGHING. FREE WAGON YARD. THE ALLIANCE MEN OF CHILTON COUNTY ARE RECOMMENDED TO DEAL WITH US.
W. H. LAWSON, GENERAL MANAGER,

MONTGOMERY, ALA.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 11, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver of the U. S. Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., on December 12, 1889, viz:- John Burmister, homestead 16141, for the s e ¼ of n e ¼, e ½ of s e ¼, n w ¼ of s e ¼ sec 26 t 20 n r 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: E. H. Smith Thomas Cox, G. C. Carwile and C. D. A. Deramus, all of Verbena, Ala.

oct 17o J. H. Bingham, Register.

Register's Sale.

M. V. Northcut, Complainant vs. John W. Allen, Defendant. Chancery Court.

By virtue of a decree rendered at the Fall Term A. D. 1889, of the Chancery Court at Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama, in said cause, I shall proceed to sell to the highest and best bidder, for cash, at Public Auction at the Court-house door in Clanton, within the legal hours of sale

On Monday, the 18th of November, 1889

the following described real estate to-wit: The n w ¼ of section 8, and the n e ¼ of s w ¼ of section 8, all in township 23, range 14 east, lying and being in the county of Chilton, State of Alabama, to satisfy said decree.

W. E. STEWART,
Oct. 16th, 1889. Register.

Subscribe for the View.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., October 29, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the Circuit Court, Clanton, Ala., on December 14, 1889, viz: William Headley, Jr., homestead 16165 for the n e ¼ of s w ¼, n w ¼ of s e ¼ and e ½ of s e ¼ sec 18, township 22 n, r 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: Wesley Noah, Sylvester Headley, James N. Knox, Columbus Rutherford, all of Clanton, Ala.

oct31* J. H. Bingham, Register.

Register's Sale.

Mary C. Gammon, Adm'r, &c., Complainant. vs. George Martin, Defendant. Chancery court.

By virtue of a decree rendered at the Fall Term A. D., 1889, of the Chancery Court, at Clanton, Chilton County, Alabama, in said cause, I shall proceed to sell to the highest and best bidder for cash, at Public Auction, at the Courthouse door in Clanton, within the legal hours of sale

On Monday, the 18th of November, 1889

the following described real estate to-wit: The s w ¼ of s e ¼ of section 11, township 23 range 13, lying and being situated in Chilton county, Alabama, to satisfy said decree.

W. E. STEWART,
Oct. 16th 1889. Register.

Insure in the Commercial Fire Insurance Co. of Montgomery.

A. E. BIVINGS,
—DEALER IN—

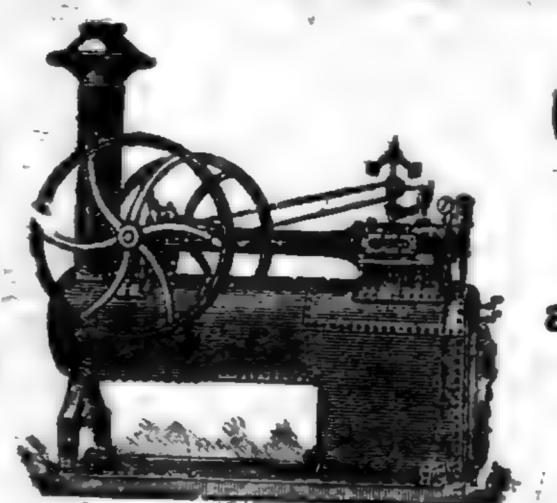
DRUGS, AND Medicines, FAMILY Groceries, ETC.
Clanton, Alabama.

I can furnish you anything you may wish in the way of DRUGS AND MEDICINES. I also handle THE BEST GROCERIES TO BE HAD, and you will find my prices to suit the times. [mar21]

BUY YOUR
PIANOS and ORGANS
—FROM—
GRAMBS & BUCHANAN,
—2107 SECOND AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—

THE VERY LOWEST CASH PRICES, or on easy installments. Sohmer, Cranich & Bach, Gabler, Wheelock and Newby & Evans Pianos, and the world renowned Wilcox & White organs. Mail orders for sheet music or musical merchandise given prompt attention.
Write for Catalogue. jul18
When ordering please state in what paper you saw our advertisement.

CRELLIN & NALLS,
BOILER MAKERS



Copper and Sheet Iron Workers
Chimneys, Tanks, and Repairing of All Kinds.
Saw Mill Work a Specialty.
AVENUE C AND TWENTY-SECOND STREET, SOUTHSIDE,
Birmingham, Ala.
mar21 y

GEO. W. COOK & CO.,
Wholesale and Retail
Dealers in Staple and Fancy Groceries, Fruits, Produce, Wines, Liquors. Our pure unpainted Roasted Coffee, and Manufacturers of High Grade pure Stick Candy, all of which we sell by the pound, package or car load. Sole agents for the Celebrated Bethesda Water.
37 COMMERCE STREET,
Montgomery, Alabama.
oct17-tf

MONTGOMERY IRON WORKS.
MACHINISTS & FOUNDERS
Dealers in Fittings, Supplies and Machinery
OF ALL KINDS.
MAKERS OF ENGINES, CANE MILLS, COTTON SEED CRUSHERS, SAW MILLS, LIVE ROLLS, LOG HAULUPS, &c.
ESPECIAL ATTENTION TO WANTS OF SAW MILL MEN
nov 8-y

INSURE WITH
The Commercial Fire Insurance Company,
Montgomery, Alabama.
Capital $100,000. Surplus $146,578.
Directors:—P. J. Anderson, C. A. Lanier, H. C. Tompkins, A. M. Kennedy, M. P. LeGrand, S. C. Marks, J. H. Clisby, C. W. Buckley, Frank Duncan.
W. H. Lawrence, Agt., Clanton.

Roberts & Son,
Steam Printers and Binders,
1918 FIRST AVENUE, BET. 19th & 20th STREETS,
Birmingham, Ala.
BLANK BOOKS TO ORDER. WORK PROMPTLY DELIVERED.
dec6 ay

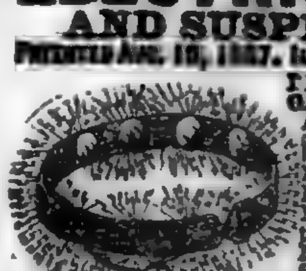
1889 1890
S. C. MARKS, P. H. S. GAYLE, WM. A. GAYLE.
MARKS & GAYLE,
The Montgomery Warehouse.
Just back of the Exchange Hotel. Very convenient to the business centre, and close to the Fire Department.
ALL COTTON CAREFULLY WEIGHED & HANDLED.
Bagging and Ties at Lowest Rates.
We will take pleasure in forwarding orders for Cotton Bagging for our customers, charging them actual cost for same, free from any profit whatever to ourselves.
Montgomery, Ala.
FREE WAGON YARD THE YEAR ROUND.

A. M. RAMBO,
DENTIST.
VERBENA, ALA.
Will respond to calls along railroad between Calera and Deatsville
[ma15 y]

S. P. TRESSLAR,
Photographer,
10 COURT SQUARE,
Montgomery.
Photographs on Silk, Satin and Linen. Photographs on watch dials.
Portraits in Crayon, Pastile, India Ink and Water Colors.
All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.
Correspondence solicited.
Always glad to have you call at the gallery, and examine specimens of the work on exhibition.
[jan21-tf]

J. H. SHEPHERD
THE LEADING
PHOTOGRAPHER.
—OF—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE
(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)
Photographs of All Kinds
Work Done in the
BEST STYLE.
Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

DR. OWEN'S
ELECTRIC BELT
AND SUSPENSORY.
PATENTED AUG. 16, 1887. IMPROVED JULY 30, 1889.



DR. OWEN'S ELECTRO-GALVANIC BODY BELT AND SUSPENSORY are guaranteed to cure the following diseases, namely: All Rheumatic Complaints, Lumbago, General and Nervous Debility, Costiveness, Kidney Diseases, Nervousness, Trembling, Sexual Exhaustion, Wasting of Body, Diseases caused by Indiscretions in Youth, Age, Married or Single Life. In fact all diseases pertaining to the womb or genital organs of male or female. SENT TO RESPONSIBLE PARTIES ON 30 DAYS TRIAL. TRY A PAIR OF DR. OWEN'S ELECTRIC INSOLES PRICE, $1 PER PAIR. Send 6c. postage for free illustrated pamphlet, which will be sent you in plain sealed envelope. Mention this paper, address
OWEN ELECTRIC BELT & APPLIANCE CO.
306 North Broadway, ST. LOUIS, MO.

RUPTURE!
ELECTRIC BELT AND TRUSS COMBINED.
DR. ISRAEL'S ELECTRO-GALVANIC TRUSS, with Dr. Owen's Electric Belt Attachment.

This truss is worn with ease and comfort. The current can be made mild or strong. This is the only combined electric truss and belt ever made. It will CURE Rupture in from 60 to 90 days. For full description of Dr. Owen's Electro-Galvanic Belts, Spinal Appliances, Trusses and Insoles send 6c. for free illustrated pamphlet which will be sent you in plain sealed envelope. Sold only by the
OWEN ELECTRIC BELT & APPLIANCE CO.
306 North Broadway, ST. LOUIS, MO.
sep 5

HERBINE

After ten years exclusive sale, can now be obtained of all Druggists and Dealers in Medicines. It CURES—take notice—not simply helps but CURES LIVER COMPLAINT, Biliousness and Dyspepsia.
Is a strictly vegetable preparation and will CURE MALARIA, and all MALARIAL troubles.
Dr. S. H. Wise, of Boston, Ky. says: "Have practiced medicine 15 years, and find no equal to HERBINE as a Liver Regulator."
Dr. W. A. Baker, of Madison, Fla., says: "A bottle of HERBINE is worth more than $5.00 worth of Quinine in any family."
Acting on the Liver in a different way from any other medicine; it is a positive cure for Chronic Constipation and is cheaper than ...
Its peculiar composition is such, that we guarantee to cure any case of Chills and Fever or Billous Fever with one bottle.
It costs but 75 cents and each bottle contains over 40 average doses, making the cost less than two cents a dose. Would you ask for cheaper medicine? It is not a cure-all. But will cure any Liver, Bilious or Malarial Complaint. Manufactured by
The Herbine Co.,
(Successors to Wm. Condell,) St. Louis, Mo.
mar 14-y

PISO'S CURE FOR
TWENTY-FIVE CENTS
Piso's Cure for Consumption is also the best
Cough Medicine.
If you have a Cough without disease of the Lungs, a few doses are all you need. But if you neglect this easy means of safety, the slight Cough may become a serious matter, and several bottles will be required.
CONSUMPTION
PISO'S REMEDY FOR CATARRH gives immediate relief. Catarrhal virus is soon expelled from the system, and the diseased action of the mucous membrane is replaced by healthy secretions.
The dose is small. One package contains a sufficient quantity for a long treatment.
CATARRH
A Cold in the Head is relieved by an application of Piso's remedy for Catarrh. The comfort to be got from it in this way is worth many times its cost.
Easy and pleasant to use.
Price, 50 cents. Sold by druggists or sent by mail.
E. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.
nov22-y

ALLEGER'S
GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES!
FROM $85. to $58.

This Elegant Parlor Organ style 79 containing 5 octaves, 4 sets of reeds, 10 stops, 2 knee swells. Stool and Book free. For only $58.00. With right and left coupler. "Warranted for 6 years."
[illegible]
H. W. ALLEGER,
Washington, Warren County, New Jersey.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

PLEASANT LITERATURE FOR FEMININE READERS.

THE ART OF SHOPPING.

A chatty saleswoman in one of our large millinery bazaars, to whom the whole fashionable world is as familiar as though she dined and lunched at the most recherche houses, thus discourses upon what, from a saleswoman's standpoint, might be termed the good and bad points of certain well-known leaders of fashion.

"I used to love to wait upon Mrs. Hamersley, now Duchess of Marlborough," gushed this garrulous saleswoman, "because she never asked the price of anything and was always so pleasant and nice. She never ran down the goods; admired nearly everything, took what she wanted and left the store without making any more fuss than if she had been the average female shopper with a limited purse. She was always accompanied by her maid, who took charge of the bundles. Mrs. Astor, however, is a very different sort of shopper. She always inquires closely into the prices before making a purchase, and she shows a very discriminating knowledge of values and lets it be plainly understood that she does not intend paying any premium on the Astor millions.

"Another lady with well developed business instincts is Mrs. Paran Stevens. Owing to a slight infirmity of temper, this well-known society leader has to be handled, so to speak, with gloves. One is never quite certain what Mrs. Stevens is going to say or do, and as it would be worth my position for me to offend her, I always draw a breath of relief when she has been served and has taken her departure. Mrs. Potter we used to see more frequently before she went on the stage than now. She was always affable and easy to wait upon, knowing what she wanted and taking it without unnecessary parleying. The Vanderbilts never patronize us, but outside that one family there are few New York women of fashion whom I have not waited upon, and, with few exceptions, I have found them courteous and amiable and apparently finding as much enjoyment in this favorite feminine occupation as their less exalted sisters.—New York World.

EXERCISE FOR GIRLS.

What is the best form of exercise for a girl? is a question frequently asked. And there can be but one reply, "such exercise as will develop alike all portions of the body." If one has a hollow chest and round shoulders, the chest must be expanded and the lungs increased in size. If the arms and back are weak, these muscles must be strengthened. Thus it is seen that there is no one "best form of exercise."

To attempt to train a girl's mind by forcing her to follow a single line of study, as Latin or mathematics, for example, would be no greater folly than to try to develop her physicially by the practice of a single form of exercise, as walking or swinging Indian clubs.

Where one cannot visit a gymnasium regularly, it would be advisable that a dozen or more ladies in a community form a woman's athletic club, fit up a small gymnasium and employ a teacher for a few hours each day. The small outlay will prove a far better investment in a very few months than if put into mining stock or a sealskin cloak for the coming winter.

The first thing to ascertain is the capacity of the lungs. How often do you draw a full breath? Can you, when standing with the arms and hands extended before you and after taking a full inspiration, touch the knuckles behind the back without the tendency to cough? Can you touch the backs of the hands at all in this position, or even make the elbows meet without assistance? Try it, not once, but often; if you cannot accomplish it at first, keep at it until it is accomplished, and you will soon find that you are not quite so round-shouldered, and that your lungs have expended. With the lungs demanding more air, the blood will become better oxygenated, the eye will grow brighter, the cheeks more ruddy and the brain clearer.—Commercial Advertiser.

FASHION NOTES.

The color of the newest notepaper is olive green.

Sailor hats of felt are among the winter novelties.

Black dresses were never in higher favor than at present.

Sleeves that are puffed very full on the shoulders are no longer in favor.

The kid gloves worn by children have usually but two buttons, although they are to be had to the number of six buttons.

Short shoulder capes of cloth, with an upper cape almost as full as a ruffle, will be worn in the intermediate season, just before the heavy wraps and long cloaks are donned.

One of the striking features of the moment is the almost unmitigated flatness of the backs of some of the elegant imported costumes just received from both London and Paris.

Some of the new cloth shoulder capes have long mantilla ends in front, but most of them are only sightly pointed or round. The "square-cut" all around is the one most favored by young ladies, married or single.

There are now in fashion a number of very graceful short capes for driving, late afternoon fetes and evening concerts. Some of them are made of large-meshed Brussels net silk, embroidered to imitate Garrick capes, placed one above the other.

Some of the new wraps are made to represent a costume in themselves. They are usually in Directoire style, with fichu-like shoulders capes, stylish yoke pieces and turn back cuffs, and others have friar's hoods, with odd pointed kerchief fronts.

Stitched edges and metal buttons give a neat finish to double-breasted and Norfolk jackets of the new soft wool Scotch plaids, which are frequently made up with a full pleated or kilted skirt, or silken blouse or skirt waist and sling sash, the jacket being worn only in the street or for out-of-door service.

Black woollens, bordered with woven designs also in black, are seen among other novelties in woollen goods. These black borders are sometimes in clustered satin stripes, again in velvet and plush stripes, in geometric figures, arabesques, and oriental, ostrich feather, Greek cross, palm, and other leaf designs.

The man who borrows trouble will have a big interest to pay.

WORDS OF WISDOM.

In months of sun so live that months of rain shall still be happy.

Life is not so short but that there is always time enough for courtesy.

That action is best which procures the greatest happiness for the greatest numbers.

Those who live on vanity must, not unreasonably, expect to die of mortification.

The secret of life is not to do what one likes, but to try to do what one has to do.

Silence as to a man and his deeds will do more to extinguish him than columns of abuse.

It is the slavish principle of one person demanding obedience from another that makes labor a burden.

Persons who are willing to earn their own living are never alarmed at the free expression of opinions.

Followers have no difficulty in finding plenty of friends who are willing to advise them to stay behind.

It is always after dinner the average reformer thinks it is vulgar to devote so much attention to eating.

Live by the day, even though you work by the month. There are no tomorrows that you know of.

He who comes up to his own idea of greatness must always have had a very low standard of it in his own mind.

I think it must somewhere be written that the virtues of mothers shall occasionally be visited on their children, as well as the sins of fathers.

Of all the actions of a man's life his marriage does least concern other people, yet of all actions of our life 'tis most meddled with by other people.

Do to-day's duty, fight to-day's temptations; and do not weaken and distract yourself by looking forward to things which you cannot see, and could not understand if you saw them.

Thoughts should be suffered to come into our minds only as men are permitted to go into a garrison, who are first strictly examined, who they are, whence they came, and what is their business.

Habits of "Sunset" Cox.

Mr. Cox's successful book, "Three Decades of Federal Legislation," is a volume of 726 pages, and it gives a history of the country from the time of the organization of the Republican party until now. Some of the graphic pen pictures of scenes were written after hours of study in the Congressional Library, where he had saturated his mind and revived his memory by reading all that was printed upon the subject about which he was to write. A great part of the work was, however, dictated, and Mr. Cox used a stenographer as much, perhaps, as any man in Washington. While he lived in Washington his library and workshop was in his house, and he had some curious habits of work. He had one desk devoted entirely to matters relating to Congress, and he did nothing but Congressional work at this desk. He said once that getting anything through Congress was like fighting the wind, and, apropos of this, he had a great bronze plaque of Don Quixote fighting the windmills hung above his desk. The desk itself was a relic of Congress, and it was taken years ago from the room in which John Quincy Adams died.

While Mr. Cox was working upon this book he used a curious little whirligig bookcase to keep its various parts in order. He wrote much of it on a big flat library table, and many of the finer passages he thought out while lying on a low couch on the other side of this. He worked hard during his last days in Washington, and he found time to visit, lecture and make after-dinner speeches at the same time. He would rise early, and at 7 o'clock would be in his workshop answering letters. After breakfast he would again be at work, and his labors would often extend late into the night.—New York World.

Getting a Jury.

Owing to the wide publicity given the Cronin case, says the Chicago Herald, the bailiffs sent out with the special venires have had to resort to all sorts of schemes to divert the suspicions and get the names of the business men whom they are anxious to summon. For instance, the other day one of the wily bailiffs entered the big wholesale dry goods establishment of Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., after eligible jurors, and near the door he ran across one of the general salesmen. "What is your name, sir?" he asked. The salesman told him. "And your initials?" This information was forthcoming. The inquirer wrote the name on a card. "Is that right?" he asked as he held it up. "Yes," said the general salesman. "Then," said the bailiff triumphantly, "I want you as a juror in the Cronin case." The salesman grinned. "Where do you live?" asked the bailiff as he was filling out the warrant. "In Aurora, Ill.," responded the salesman as his grin broadened. The bailiff wilted. Another salesman who had been standing near by and having great fun over the conversation began to laugh heartily. The bailiff turned to him suddenly and asked: "What's your name, sir?" Before he thought he gave the answer desired. "I know you live in Chicago," said the bailiff as he filled out another summons, "and you'll do to take this man's place." And so the laughing man was caught.

Civilized Cherokee Indians.

The general notions of the people of "the States" about the Cherokee Nation, says a Tahlequah correspondent, are either very vague or decidedly erroneous. When you think of the Cherokee Indian do not draw a mental picture of a swarthy savage with ferocious countenance, wearing a blanket and moccasin and arrayed in feathers and beads, but think of him as a man enjoying the benefits of a high state of civilization. I find myself in the midst of churches and school-houses and amid people who have their own social, literary and musical societies and all other evidences of a cultivated, if not refined, race. The primitive Cherokee is no more. It is only occasionally that you meet with the "full-blood." Even the half-breeds are largely in the minority. The Cherokees really constitute a nation of white men claiming an Indian origin. In very many instances there are the prominent cheek bones, dark complexion and straight black hair to support the claim, while in many other cases there can hardly be detected a single lineament of the primitive Cherokee. There are several young ladies enjoying their rights as Cherokees who have light hair and blue eyes—an indication surely that they are very far removed from an Indian ancestry. I have yet, however, to see a blond among the men.

POPULAR SCIENCE.

A new power, it is thought, has been put in the hands of metal workers by the new discovered process of cheapening oxygen.

The new method of automatically registering observations by means of photography has been successfully experimented with by M. Gerard.

The smokeless powder that Austria is using makes such a fearful smell that it will have to be abandoned. At a recent practice shoot several men fainted from it.

An electric spark has been photographed by means of a special camera, in which the sensitive plate rotated at, it is said, a velocity of 2500 revolutions per minute.

The specifications for the arc light plant in the Washington navy yard are said to be the most complete of the kind ever issued. There are to be 120 2000-candle power arc lamps.

Dr. Burroughs, of London, uses nitroglycerine as a substitute for alcohol in cases of emergency. It will kill almost as surely, and, under favoring circumstances, with less pain to all concerned.

A "palace chicken car" is the latest development of luxury in railway transportation. Thousands of chickens can be carried in one of these cars across the continent and in good condition at a great saving in cost, as well as economy in space.

Voigtlander, a famous optician of Brunswick, has just perfected a new lens, giving a very wide angle, working with a large aperture. Thus it is very rapid, and can be used in very confined situations, such as rooms for groups and single portraits.

A Berlin firm are making very powerful little magnets for the special purpose of extracting iron and steel filings from the eyes and skin of workmen engaged in iron works. These magnets are of the horse-shoe shape, nickleplated, with thin rounded poles.

The whole Eiffel Tower could be lifted by four men of average strength. When it was about half its present height a few men actually did lift it. The construction of the tower is based on the cantilever principle, and its bulk of 6400 tons is so adjusted as to press on the foundation with less weight than that of a man in an armchair on the floor.

If sodium sulphate is allowed to crystalize between plates of unglazed porcelain in the open air, and if the crystallization it reproduced two or three times by sprinkling with water, the plates fall into powder. The same phenomenon is observed with very hard stones. This crystallization may be a cause of the comminution of rocks which resist water.

The applications of electricity in mining are rapidly increasing; coal cutters, drills, all kinds of mill machinery, aerial, surface and underground tramways, are all being driven by electricity, and the time seems to be approaching very rapidly when the transmission of power by electricity from distant convenient generating centers to the scattered mines of a district will be the rule.

Experiments of a very interesting nature have recently been carried out for the purpose of ascertaining exactly the relative resistance of various pigments to atmospheric changes and to the corrosive action of sea water. The prevention of corrosion by salt water was found to be possible by the admixture of the oxide of some electro positive metal, such as caustic lime and soda, but the efficiency of such a covering diminished when its alkaline properties had been neutralized by the absorption of carbonic acid.

A variation of Dr. Lodge's experiments made some time ago on the electro deposition of dust has been tried by M. Soret of Geneva, the result adding another interesting fact to this peculiar class of phenomena. In this case M. Soret submitted steam to electric discharges, the effect of this being that the steam was instantly precipitated, and when the pole of the electric machine was sufficiently near the surface of the water—the other pole being boiling—the steam was condensed as rapidly as formed, presenting the anomaly of steamless boiling water.

Desolate Siberia.

No one can thoroughly understand, says the author of "From Pekin to Calais," the meaning of the word "monotony" who has not visited Siberia and traveled hour after hour, day after day, week after week along its dark, pine-girt roads. Along the whole of the post-road from Irkoutsk distances are marked by wooden posts, painted black and white, placed at every verst, while at every post station a large board indicates the distance from the chief towns. My heart sank whenever I looked at these and saw the word Petersburg with the appalling number of naughts under it.

The few versts from station to station were bad enough, but when it came to the six thousand-odd separating us from Petersburg one almost gave up all hope of ever seeing Europe again. I have never, even in the depths of a Bornean forest, felt so utterly lonely and cut off from the rest of the civilized world as when crossing Siberia. Everything after the first week became mechanical. Drinking tea at the stations, going to sleep at a moment's notice, if there were no horses, harnessing them at once if there were, and returning to the depths of our gloomy vehicle, there to lie hour after hour, day after day, with nothing to look at but the black road and eternal pine forests, nothing to think of save fair, civilized Europe, so far away, but to which one felt, with a kind of gloomy satisfaction, every jingle of the collar bells was bringing us nearer. Even the scenery does not atone for all these drawbacks. The Siberian forests are not grand, but the trees have a dwarfish look produced by the immense plains. Not a bird, not a sound, is heard in these vast solitudes, and when the horses stop and the bells are silent, the stillness becomes almost oppressive.

A Wonderful Well.

The artesian well in Cordele, Iowa, is a wonder. After going down into the earth for about four hundred and fifty feet the contractors struck what was seemingly a strata rock of quicksand. Leaving the pipes all in the well over night, they found the next morning that all the piping was heavily charged with magnetism. A small nail laid on the side of the pipe will not fall off. The needle on a surveyor's compass is attracted by this current at least ten feet from the mouth of the well. The magnetic current is so strong that the power of the engine, together with all the press they have been able to put on the piping, will not draw it from the well.—Chicago Herald.

Brass Buttons in the Regular Army.

The present brass buttons are by no means the same as those that have been always worn in the United States army or the other branches of the service. Up to 1777 the army buttons were of white metal, but in the last mentioned year Washington ordered that the regulation costume was to consist of "a dark blue or black coat reaching to the knees, and full trimmed, the lapels fastened back, with ten open-worked button-holes in yellow silk on the breast of each lapel and ten large regimental yellow buttons at equal distances on each side, three large yellow regimental buttons on each cuff, and a like number on each pocket flap. The navy officers were also ordered to wear yellow buttons, the officers' uniforms, with these buttons, blue coats with red facings, red waistcoats and blue breeches, being a very gay and attractive affair. On the other hand, the marine officers wore a green coat with white facings, white breeches edged with green, white vests, silver epaulets, black gaiters and white buttons.

In 1779 the uniform of the army was changed again. The coat was ordered to be blue, the facings white, buff or red, while the cavalry had white buttons. In 1782 the infantry also were put into white buttons, the rest of the uniform being of blue ground with red facings and white linings. In 1796 the infantry still wore white buttons, with dark blue coats reaching to the knee, and full trimmed, scarlet lapels, cuffs and standing capes, white trimmings, white underdress, black stocks and cocked hats with white binding. A number of changes in the uniform of the army was made in 1810, by one of which officers of the general staff wore cocked hats without feathers, vests and breeches or pantaloons, white or buff, high military boots and gilt spurs, and singlebreasted blue coats with ten gilt buttons. When the civil war broke out in 1861, some of the volunteer troops were dressed in gray with white buttons, but as the confederates adopted the same color for their regulars, the United States troops were clad in blue with yellow buttons in much the same fashion as they wear them to-day. The regulations concerning the arrangement or grouping of buttons as indications of rank are, however, of much more recent date.—[San Francisco Chronicle.

We need to cultivate our judgment to gain an insight into the root of things, comparing the present standard with universal laws, treating with respectful consideration that which has been honored by time, and giving heart and hand to the new forces at work in our civilization.

Listen—a song of rejoicing.
  Hearts that were heavy are glad.
Women, look up and be hopeful,
  There's help and there's health to be had.
Take courage, O weak ones despondent,
  And drive back the foe that you fear
With the weapon that never will fail you.
  O, be of good cheer, for when you suffer from any of the weaknesses "irregularities" and "functional derangements," peculiar to your sex, by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription you can put the enemy of ill-health and happiness to rout. It is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee of satisfaction in every case, or money refunded. See bottle-wrapper.

For all derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels take Dr. Pierce's Pellets. One a dose.

Some men are called sagacious, merely on account of their avarice; whereas, a child can clench its fist the moment it is born.

How's This!

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that can not be cured by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions, and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

West & Truax, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, Ohio.
Walding, Kinnan & Marvin, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, Ohio.
E. H. Van Hoesen, Cashier, Toledo National Bank, Toledo, Ohio.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucus surfaces of the system. Price, 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

"Lilly Hinton!"

Hark! the sound of many voices,
  Jubilant in gladdest song;
And full many a heart rejoices
  As the chorus floats along:
"Hail the Queen of all Tobaccos!"
  How the happy voices blend,
"Finest and purest among her fellows—
  Man's staunch and true friend."

Oregon, the Paradise of Farmers.

Mild, equable climate, certain and abundant crops. Best fruit, grain, grass and stock country in the world. Full information free. Address Oreg. Im'igra'tn Board, Portland, Ore.

If afflicted with sore eyes use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye-Water. Druggists sell at 25c per bottle.

Many imitate, none equal, "Tansill's Punch" America's finest 5c. Cigar.

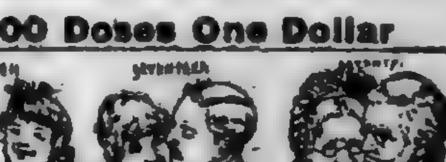
Catarrh

Is a complaint which affects nearly everybody more or less. It originates in a cold, or succession of colds, combined with impure blood. Disagreeable flow from the nose, tickling in the throat, offensive breath, pain over and between the eyes, ringing and bursting noises in the ears, are the more common symptoms. Catarrh is cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, which strikes directly at its cause by removing all impurities from the blood, building up the diseased tissues and giving healthy tone to the whole system.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

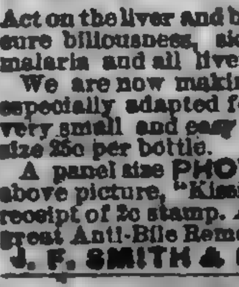
Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar



SMITH'S BILE BEANS

Act on the liver and bile; clear the complexion; cure biliousness, sick headache, costiveness, malaria and all liver and stomach disorders. We are now making small size Bile Beans, especially adapted for children and women—very small and easy to take. Price of either size 25c per bottle. A panel size PHOTO-GRAVURE of the above picture, "Kissing at 7-17-70," mailed on receipt of 2c stamp. Address the makers of the great Anti-Bile Remedy—"Bile Beans." J. F. SMITH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.



BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR

A SPECIFIC FOR PAINFUL, PROFUSE, SCANTY, SUPPRESSED AND IRREGULAR MENSTRUATION

BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., ATLANTA, GA.

OPIUM

THE YOUTH'S COMPANION

Announcements for 1890

COMES EVERY WEEK — READ IN 430,000 HOMES — STORIES BY THE BEST AUTHORS — 1000 ILLUSTRATIONS — TRAVEL AND ADVENTURE — SCIENCE AND NATURAL HISTORY — CHARMING CHILDREN'S PAGE — WEEKLY SUPPLEMENTS — FOR ALL THE FAMILY — ONLY $1.75 A YEAR

A National Family Paper—Two Millions of Readers.

The volume of THE COMPANION for 1890 will be unsurpassed by any previous year in the variety of entertaining and instructive articles. The full Announcement of Authors and Articles will be sent on application.

Ten Serial Stories

fully illustrated, and among the most attractive ever published.

150 Short Stories—Thrilling Adventures—Sketches of Travel—Health and Hygiene Biographical Sketches—1,000 Short Articles—Popular Science Natural History—Outdoor Sports—Anecdotes
Etiquette—Wit and Humor—Poetry.

Illustrated Weekly Supplements

Were given with nearly every issue during the last year, and will be continued. They give an increase of nearly one-half in the matter and illustrations, without any increase in the price of the paper.

Eminent Contributors.

Articles of great value and interest will be given in the volume for 1890 by

Rt. Hon. W. E. Gladstone,
General Lord Wolseley,
Sir Morell Mackenzie,
Eugene Schuyler,
Hon. James G. Blaine,
Senator Geo. F. Hoar,
Prof. John Tyndall,
C. A. Stephens,
Justin McCarthy, M. P.,
Hon. John G. Carlisle,
Dr. Wm. A. Hammond,
Lt. Fred Schwatka,

And One Hundred other well-known and favorite writers.

Four Double Holiday Numbers

Are in preparation, and will be exceedingly attractive, filled with the special work of our favorite writers, and profusely illustrated. They are published at Thanksgiving—Christmas—New Year's—Easter.

These Souvenir Numbers are sent to Each Subscriber.

$5,000 Prize Stories.

Nearly Six Thousand Stories have been examined. The titles and authors of those which will receive Prizes cannot yet be announced, but the successful Stories will be published during the coming year.

The Girl That's Wanted.

Practical papers full of suggestions to girls, as to new occupations, and what is best to do in life, by Marion Harland and other well-known writers.

The Backward Boy,

And How to Develop his Powers. A series of articles by the Presidents of three leading Universities which will interest boys and their parents.

The Editorials give comprehensive views of important current events at home and abroad.

The Children's Page contains charming Stories, Pictures, Anecdotes, Rhymes and Puzzles, adapted to the youngest readers.

Household Articles will be published frequently, giving useful information in Art Work, Fancy Work, Embroidery, Decoration of Rooms, Cooking, and Hints on Housekeeping.

THIS SLIP — FREE TO JAN. 1, 1890. — WITH $1.75

To any New Subscriber who will cut out and send us this slip, with name and Post Office address and $1.75 for a year's subscription, we will send "The Youth's Companion" FREE to Jan. 1, 1890, and for a full year from that date. This offer includes the FOUR DOUBLE HOLIDAY NUMBERS, the ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY SUPPLEMENTS, and the ANNUAL PREMIUM LIST, with 500 Illustrations. Send money by Post-Office Money Order, Check, or Registered Letter. 45

THE YOUTH'S COMPANION, Boston, Mass.

Ely's Cream Balm WILL CURE CHILDREN OF CATARRH.

THE CURE FOR CATARRH COLD IN HEAD HAY FEVER

Apply Balm into each nostril. ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y.

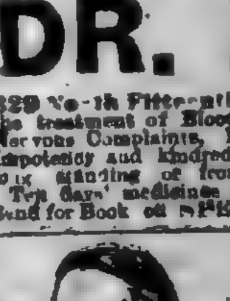
CAMP LIFE.

HERE'S THE SLICKER.

The one thing you'll always find in every cowboy's outfit ... "Fish Brand" Pommel Slicker ...

AFTER ALL OTHERS FAIL CONSULT DR. LOBB

329 North Fifteenth St., Philadelphia, Pa. ... Send for Book on SPECIAL Diseases FREE.



JONES HE PAYS THE FREIGHT.

JONES OF BINGHAMTON, BINGHAMTON, N. Y.

$7 FOR A Double Breech-Loader

GRIFFITH & SEMPLE, 312 W. Main, Louisville, Ky.

SOUTHERN PRINTERS' SUPPLY CO.

Type, Cases, Stands, Presses, Paper Cutters AND EVERYTHING USED IN A PRINTING OR PUBLISHING HOUSE.

Call on us and SAVE MONEY!

54 West Alabama Street, ATLANTA, GA.

OPIUM HABIT.

For Dairy, Farm & Household.

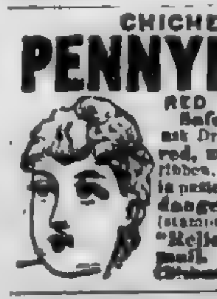
Frank's American Wonder Machine awarded highest medal. Approved of and found O K by the highest dairy faculties. A child can use it. Always produces first-class butter from sweet milk or cream in 4 minutes. ...

IF YOU WISH A GOOD REVOLVER purchase one of the celebrated SMITH & WESSON arms. ...

SMITH & WESSON, Springfield, Mass.

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH PENNYROYAL PILLS

RED CROSS DIAMOND BRAND.



"Relief for Ladies," in letter, by return mail. Name Paper. Chichester Chem'l Co., Madison Sq., Phila., Pa.

OPIUM HABIT.

A Valuable Treatise Giving full information of an Easy and Speedy cure free to the afflicted. DR. J. C. HOFFMAN, Jefferson, Wisconsin.

LADIES

Amenagogue Pills

For Irregularities. Safe and certain. Should not be taken if enciente. Price per box of 100 pills, $1.00. DR. W. C. ASHER, 21½ Marietta St., ATLANTA, GA.

$30 CRAYON PORTRAIT FREE

While introducing our fine work, if you send a photograph of yourself or one member of your family, we will make you a full life-size Crayon Portrait Free of Charge. The only consideration imposed upon you will be that you exhibit it to your friends as a sample of our work, and assist in securing orders; also, that you promise to have it framed suitably, so that the work will show to advantage. Write your full name and address on back of photo to secure its safety. We guarantee its return. Our offer is good for a few days only, and the sample portrait is worth $30, being as fine as can be made. Address

AMERICAN PORTRAIT CO., 14 Schurmann Block, LOUISVILLE, KY.
Largest Life-size Portrait House in the World.

PATTERN FREE

Directoire Basque.

By Special Arrangement with DEMOREST'S FAMILY MAGAZINE, the Greatest of all Family Magazines, we are enabled to make every one of our lady readers a handsome present.

Cut out this slip and inclose it (with a 2-cent stamp for return postage), and your name and address, to W. Jennings Demorest, 15 East 14th Street, New York, and you will receive by return mail a full-size pattern, illustrated and fully described, of this BASQUE, (worth 25 cents.) Cross out with pencil the size desired. 34, 36, 38, 40.

Each copy of "DEMOREST'S FAMILY MAGAZINE" contains a COUPON ORDER entitling the holder to the selection of ANY PATTERN illustrated in any number of the Magazine, and in any of the sizes manufactured, making during the year Twelve Patterns, valued at from 20 cents to 30 cents each.

This is a most liberal offer; and ladies are learning that, besides having the best Literary and Household Magazine that is published, they can save between $3.00 and $4.00 per year by subscribing to DEMOREST'S FAMILY MAGAZINE, which is acknowledged to be the best Family Magazine in the world. Many suppose DEMOREST'S to be a fashion magazine. This is a great mistake. It undoubtedly contains the finest Fashion Department of any magazine published, but this is the case from the fact that great enterprise and experience are shown, so that each department is equal to a magazine in itself. By subscribing for DEMOREST'S FAMILY MAGAZINE you really get a dozen magazines in one, and secure amusement and instruction for the whole family. It contains Stories, Poems, and other Literary attractions, including Artistic, Scientific, and Household matters, and is illustrated with original Steel Engravings, Photogravures, Oil Pictures, and fine Woodcuts, making it the Model Magazine of America.

Yearly subscriptions $2.00; or, if you prefer, you can send 50 cents for a three months' trial; for a trial is only needed to convince you that you can get ten times the value of the money paid. Single copies (containing Pattern Coupon) 20 cents.

W. JENNINGS DEMOREST, PUBLISHER, 15 East 14th Street, N. Y.

PISO'S REMEDY FOR CATARRH.—Best. Easiest to use. Cheapest. Relief is immediate. A cure is certain. For Cold in the Head it has no equal.

CATARRH

It is an Ointment, of which a small particle is applied to the nostrils. Price, 50c. Sold by druggists or sent by mail. Address, E. T. Hazeltine, Warren, Pa.

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per square, of one inch or less, for the first, and fifty cents for each subsequent insertion.

INCHES.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
1 Inch	$ 5 00	$ 7 00	$ 11 75
2 Inches	7 00	11 20	16 00
3 Inches	10 00	15 00	22 50
4 Inches	12 50	20 00	27 00
5 Inches	15 00	23 50	33 00
¼ Column	18 00	27 00	40 00
½ Column	27 50	40 00	80 00
1 Column	[illegible]	[illegible]	100 00

The Chilton View.

W. H. LAWRENCE, Editor and Publisher. "WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION." TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME IX. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 14, 1889. NUMBER 3.

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line each insertion.

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be headed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

☞ The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

Caheen's Grand Introductory Sale OF NEW FALL DRESS GOODS!

EVERYTHING NEW, BRIGHT AND SPARKLING.

New Silks, New Velvets, New Trimmings, New Henriettas, New Brilliantes, New Drap D'Almas, New Dress Fringes and New High Art Production Novelty Combination Suits.

Early as it is, we are selling quantities of Fall Dress Goods, probably because we now have a great assortment at very attractive prices. New goods are arriving daily and we will beyond the slightest shadow of a doubt have the largest, finest and best assorted stock ever shown in Birmingham.

The Fox and the Rabbit.

"I swear," said a Fox to a Rabbit one day—
'Tis a story they often relate in the South—
"You shall be, Mr. Rabbit, ere sunset my prey!"
And he threatened him fiercely with wide-open mouth.

The Rabbit set off at the top of his speed,
Resolving by flight to get out of the scrape;
But, hotly pursued, soon discovered the need
Of adopting a trick to effect his escape.

So he ran to a well-curb, which chanced to be nigh,
A windlass that two spacious buckets possessed,
And leaping in one—both were empty and dry—
Very quick at the bottom found safety and rest.

As one of the buckets thus suddenly fell
The other and lighter rose equally fast;
And when Reynard arrived at the top of the well
He thought to himself, "I have got you at last!"

"My friend, why didn't you take them both with you?"
Said the Fox, as he bowed to the one that now swung
So high and inviting. "This nonsense we'll end;"
And into the bucket exulting he sprung.

You see his mistake: for his heavier weight
To the surface the Rabbit full speedily drew,
Who said, while ascending, "Life's changes are great—
Now up and now down! Mr. Reynard, adieu!"

Then off hopped the Rabbit, and lived, I suppose,
Esteemed by his friends, to a happy old age,
While the Fox, when the day came at last to a close,
Was caught by a farmer and put in a cage.

Now all of this proves what has often been said
Of the slips that occur 'twixt the lip and the cup;
So if up do not boast—there are hazards ahead;
If down don't lose courage—you soon may be up.

—Philip B. Strong in Wide Awake.

PRUDIE'S FORTUNE.

"But, Prudie, you can't mean it!" cried Joe Barton, with a quick look of startled appeal.

"But I do mean it, though, Joe," replied Prudie, emphatically, and, it must be confessed, a little spitefully, too.

"But think of all that's passed between us, Prudie," pleaded Joe, earnestly.

"I have thought of all that," said Prudie, "and that is what caused me to make up my mind. When a young man abuses—yes, abuses," she repeated, answering the indignant look in Joe's face, "the young lady he pretends to love, just because she accepts a trifling courtesy from a mere acquaintance, I think it high time for that young lady to assert her rights!"

"Trifling courtesy," exclaimed Joe, his face getting red, and his temper rising again in spite of himself. "Trifling courtesy, indeed, for an engaged young lady to walk home from singing school with a man who is almost a stranger, and stand, with him holding her hand, for half an hour in the moonlight at the gate!"

"Half an hour!" cried Prudie, indignantly.

"Yes, half an hour," repeated Joe, doggedly, "and a man you know nothing about, either."

"I know he is handsome, and rich, and lives in the city, and his name is Mr. Richard Willis," said Prudie, mischievously.

"I suppose he is handsome," admitted Joe, "and he may be rich and live in the city; but, Prudie, he can never love you as I do."

"As to that, I'm sure I don't know," said Prudie, with a little toss of her head.

"But I do, Prudie," said Joe, gently, a tender light coming into his eyes as he looked at her. "And you must admit that you know really nothing about him, after all. And I shouldn't wonder a bit if it isn't just because he knows that Aunt Dorothy has left you all her money that he has made up to you so suddenly," he added, reflectively.

"Oh, you believe that, do you, sir?" cried Prudie, with flashing eyes. "Well, I am sure now, Mr. Joseph Barton, that you and I could never agree, and so the sooner this foolish engagement is broken the better. Here is your ring, sir. Now go, and I hope I shall never see your face again!"

And with that she tore the slender, pearl set band from her finger, and throwing it at Joe's feet in the most approved theatrical manner, turned away proudly and walked toward the house.

Poor Joe picked up the little ring, and pressing it fervently to his lips, placed it in his pocket and walked slowly and mournfully away.

Joe and Prudie had been engaged for two or three years, and although the day had not been publicly named, it was known that the wedding would take place very shortly. Then Prudie's aunt died, and of course the wedding had to be postponed. But as if to atone for her inconvenient demise, Aunt Dorothy, by her will, had left to her "beloved niece, Prudie Morse, all bonds, mortgages and other negotiable property deposited by her in the Galestown bank; and though it could not be known what amount of money these securities represented until after the will was proved, rumor made it a great fortune.

Just then a little cloud had appeared on the horizon of the lovers' hitherto cloudless courtship in the person of Richard Willis, who was spending his vacation in the village, and amusing himself by flirting with all the pretty girls who were at all addicted to that petty vice. He had never paid any particular attention to Prudie, however, until very recently, when he suddenly turned upon her the full force of his manifold charms, with what success the reader already knows.

So matters went on for several weeks, until it was common talk among the village people that Richard Willis had "cut Joe Barton out," and that poor Joe was slowly dying of a broken heart.

One evening Prudie and Richard Willis came home from singing school together, as usual, and were standing at the gate in the moonlight.

"Prudie," he said, in a low, tender voice, "do you love me?"

"Y-e-s. I think I do," faltered Prudie, blushingly.

"And you will be my wife? Come, dearest, say you will."

"But—but this is so sudden, Mr. Willis," murmurmered Prudie, confusedly. "Please wait until to-morrow night, and I will answer you."

"Sudden!" exclaimed Mr. Willis, sharply. "Sudden! Why I have been waiting on you over a month, and you certainly must have guessed my intentions in this time."

"I cannot answer you to-night, Mr. Willis," replied Prudie, with some spirit.

"Very well, then," said Mr. Willis reluctantly. "I will come for my answer to-morrow night. And in the meantime, dearest, remember that I love you more than life itself. Good night."

When Prudie went to bed that night she lay a long time awake, earnestly considering Mr. Willis' proposal; and the more she thought it over the more she saw Joe Barton's sorrowful face and sad, pleading eyes as they had appeared to her at the singing school that night, until at last she was obliged to admit to herself that she really loved Joe better than ever before, and decided to say "no" to Mr. Willis when he should come for her answer.

The next morning, however, she awoke to the fact that a terrible calamity had befallen her, and the news spread like wildfire throughout the village that the great fortune Aunt Dorothy had left her had dwindled away to a large tin box full of worthless papers.

Prudie was not very mercenary, and even when the rumor was confirmed by a note from Lawyer Grubb she did not take it very much to heart, but smiled mischievously when she thought of what Joe had said about Mr. Willis and the money Aunt Dorothy had left, and began to wonder if Mr. Willis would come for his answer, not that she really doubted it; she had too good an opinion of her own attractions for that.

The day passed slowly away; night came; the moon arose, and Prudie stood waiting at the gate, expectantly at first, then impatiently, and finally, quivering with indignation, she returned to the house and went to bed.

Mr. Willis never did come again, but sent a delicate little note in his stead, saying that the term of his vacation had expired, and he had received news from home which necessitated his immediate return, and regretting the circumstances which made it impossible for him to keep his engagement. He wrote, also, that he could not state definitely when he would be able to make another visit to Galestown.

As Prudie was about to replace the note in the envelope a little strip of yellow paper fell into her lap, and glancing at it, she found it to be a telegram to Mr. Willis from a dry goods firm in the city, stating that he had already overstayed the time of his vacation, and that if he were not in his place behind the counter on the morning of the 20th that place would be filled by another salesman, and his services would be no longer required.

"And so he was only a clerk, after all, and poor Joe was right," thought Prudie.

One evening, a short time afterward, Prudie went to the singing school alone, and after it was over started home feeling sad and lonely, and being much humbled, if the truth must be told, when Joe came along beside her and said:

"May I see you home tonight, Prudie?"

"Yes, If you care to," Prudie answered, carelessly.

"Well, I do, then," returned Joe, offering her his arm.

It seemed so natural and good to be walking home together that they forgot all about their recent estrangement until they reached the old gate, when Prudie, remembering suddenly, withdrew her arm from Joe's, and said as coldly as possible:

"Good night, Mr. Bar——"

"Prudie, you don't mean it yet!" Joe said, interrupting her.

But Prudie remained silent, with downcast eyes, until Joe drew the same little pearl-set ring from his pocket, and taking Prudie's hand tenderly in his own, said:

"Prudie, may I put it back again?"

Then Prudie suddenly found herself crying softly on Joe's shoulder, while he was exhausting himself in a vain effort to kiss away her tears as fast as they came.

And so a month later they were married, "and lived happily ever after."

An Extortioner Punished.

The Archduke Albrecht, Commander-in-chief of the Austrian army, is the wealthiest man in Austria-Hungary. The other day, while on a tour of inspection in Hungary, he spent forty-eight hours in a small provincial town. The bill presented to him amounted to $767. It was paid without murmur, but the next day the officers of the garrison received strict orders not to set foot in the hotel in question, and for the next twelve months no military band will be allowed to play in the town. That will probably make the innkeeper's extortion [illegible] or attempted.—The London [illegible].

Life is too short to be spent in [illegible]

PEARLS OF THOUGHT.

He is a wise man who knows what he doesn't know.

To train a voter how to vote is like learning him to eat by example.

It cannot be denied that amusement is one of the most powerful influences of life.

It is one proof of a good education and of true refinement of feeling to respect antiquity.

Much learning shows how little mortals know; much wealth, how little worldlings enjoy.

Cheerfulness keeps up a kind of daylight in the mind, filling it with a steady and perpetual serenity.

A man who does not care what you have been in the past does not care what you may be in the future.

In getting rid of weeds gather up and destroy those that have gone to seed, or a good part of the work will be lost.

People exhaust their economy by stinting their necessities, but in matters of attraction their extravagance appears.

Every man has his chain and his clog, only it is looser and tighter to one man than to another. And he is more at ease who takes it up than he who drags it.

We are members of one great body. Nature planted in us a mutual love, and fitted us for social life. We must consider that we were born for the good of the whole.

The early months of marriage often are times of critical tumult—whether that of a shrimp pool or of deep waters—which afterwards subsides into cheerful peace.

Laziness grows on people; it begins in cobwebs and ends in iron chains. The more business a man has to do the more he is able to accomplish, for he learns to economize his time.

The Golden Apple.

The quince, which is not generally regarded as a fruit of very precious or elegant character, is nevertheless one possessing more uses than most of the fruits of its family. In cookery it is exceedingly piquant when simply baked in an oven and sprinkled with sugar; it makes a delicious preserve, a fine marmalade, and a jelly of great delicacy, highly valued in throat troubles. Its cores and seeds have been found to be agreeable eating even after long drying, and they are full of a mucilaginous substance which, owing to its demulcent nature, is valuable in bronchial troubles and coughs, which diluted is used in various eye washes, and which is largely compounded in what is called bandoline, lately as popular a dressing for the hair as the perfumed pomades were once. Meanwhile the beauty afforded us by the quince is especially remarkable; in spring the bush of the fruit-producing kind being covered with large petaled blossoms of an exquisite pale pink and a most delicate perfume, and the bush of the species whose fruit is not used bearing blossoms of a flaming scarlet, which gives it great value as an ornamental shrub; while in autumn the great spheres of downy gold seem fairly to steam with a spicy fragrance of indescribable richness. The quince is a Southern growth, found wild in Africa and Asia, and it is celebrated throughout the Oriental literature. No list of delectable fruits is complete without it there, and its aroma fills the pages of the Arabian Nights, while in classic affairs it has as many advocates as the orange in claiming to be the Golden Apple of the Hesperides.—Harper's Bazar.

Life's Recompense.

Little Sister—Ma wants you, Sammy. Where've you been?

Sammy—Fishin'.

Little Sister—Did you catch anything?

Sammy (sadly)—Nothin' 't all.

[illegible]

A Dutch Dairy.

A young farmer came down and invited me and my frouw to go and see the butter and cheese making at his farm. We did so, finding the house to be of the usual type. The dike surrounding the premises stank most frightfully, and its filth was in extreme contrast to the neatness and cleanliness of the house, out-buildings and utensils of the farm. We duly saw the round cheeses molded and made and the butter pressed, and then entered the cow byres, which at this time of the year were empty, the cattle being in the fields. They occupied one side of the square house, and had no ceiling, the whole of the space above the height of the walls and under the great pyramidal roof being empty and open, only the living rooms being ceiled off from it. The byres were beautifully clean, and bright with paint and varnish, colored oil cloth being laid all along where the sterns of the cows would overhang, and the stalls deeply floored with loose sea-shells. Rings in overhead beams marked the places where the cows' tails were tied up at milking time out of the way. The farmer pointed with pride to several swallows' nests under the low beams, and underneath each nest was placed a flat shell to prevent the droppings of the birds soiling the floor below. In the garden we saw rabbits in a dovecot perched on the top of a tall pole, and doves in rabbit hutches close to the ground, and some beautiful golden pheasants, and then we took a closer photograph of the stork's nest. The old bird was very suspicious of our camera and made her young ones lie close in the nest.—Blackwood's Magazine.

India's Four Systems of Irrigation.

There are four systems of irrigation practiced in India—the canal or channel system, the tank or reservoir system, the inundating system and the well system, all of which will be noticed in their order. The great extent of the country, its topographical features, its enormous population and the volume of its large rivers permit and require canals of length and section surpassing beyond all comparison any to be found elsewhere, unless it be in the single instance of the Imperial Canal in China. The Ganges Canal, for instance, is an artificial river. It is intended to carry nearly 7000 cubic feet of water per second. Its depth is 10 feet and its width 170 feet in its upper part. Including its principal branches it is 900 miles in length, and it is intended to irrigate 1,500,000 acres of land. Its original capital cost was about $12,000,000, not including interest or other charges. In the United States the same work would cost $100,000,000.

This enormous construction is arranged for navigation as well as for irrigation, its aqueducts and embankments being built upon a scale which is unequaled in modern times. The canal was projected and built by the Government.

A Born Diplomat.

A Swedish statesman recently inveighed most eloquently in Parliament against oleomargarine. Next evening he was invited to dine with the King, who loves a joke. There was only oleomargarine on the royal table, and the statesman liberally partook thereof. At the close of the meal the King asked him:

"Well, sir, how do you like our butter?" "It is excellent," replied the statesman; "the contrast between it and artificial butter is very marked." "But," said the King, "that is artificial butter." The other guests roared with laughter, but the "old Parliamentary hand" returned quick as a flash: "Your Majesty, if one can be deceived so easily there is all the more need of strict laws against bogus [illegible]."

[illegible]

THE LABOR WORLD.

BOSTON'S electricians are going to start a union.

MANY Southern unions are composed altogether of colored men.

THE National Association of Stationary Engineers has now 4811 members.

THE eight-hour rule is observed by the Cincinnati Board of Public Works.

ONE HUNDRED type-writers will be employed by the United States Census Bureau.

THE Knights of Labor claim that 8340 men joined their order during August and September.

THERE are good prospects for the project of forming an International Wood Workers' Federation.

TWO-THIRDS of the cigar dealers of San Francisco have pledged themselves not to sell cigars made by Chinamen.

THE eight-hour movement has been started in Albany, N. Y., the trades unions and the Knights of Labor co-operating.

FIVE assemblies of the Knights of Labor in Cincinnati have joined the International Boot and Shoe Workers' Union.

THE journeymen tailors' strike in Chicago, which lasted five days, has been declared off and the men have returned to work.

STONECUTTERS in St. Louis complain that their situations are threatened by the competition of convict stonecutters in Illinois.

J. J. GERAGHTY, candidate of the miners and other workingmen, has been elected Mayor of Streator, Ill., after an exciting contest.

IN New Hampshire working children between the ages of 14 and 16 years are compelled to go to school three months of the year.

A UNION of machinists is to be formed at Indianapolis, Ind. The Bookbinders' Assembly of that city is going to reorganize as an open union.

THE Brotherhood of Painters and Decorators has 7000 members enrolled in 186 local unions. The receipts last year were $6401; expenses, $5360.

THE silk trade in England is threatened by France, which is running up a large number of silk mills and producing some of the finest work in the world.

BROOKLYN has the largest and best appointed labor hall in the country. It is owned and managed by workingmen. It is known as the Labor Lyceum.

TRADE is very good in the iron and steel industry at Youngstown, Penn. All the mills are running at full blast and no one is idle who is willing to work.

A FRENCH letter, which reached the office of the American Federation recently, states that a number of unions in Paris have begun to agitate for an eight-hour workday.

OVER seven hundred men are now employed at the granite quarries of West Sullivan, Me. The product of the quarries averages from three to four millions of paving blocks a year, besides other work.

THE strongest labor organization in the United States is the Flint Glass Workers' Union. There are 6000 flint glass workers in the country, and all are union men with the exception of less than 100.

IN 1870 there were 739,167 children under sixteen years of age at work in factories in the United States; in 1880 they had increased 1,118,356, and it is believed that in spite of factory laws there are more than ever of children employed.

AN investigation lately made into the condition of colored labor in the South in blast furnaces, rolling mills, iron works, mines, lumber mills and similar industries showed that 9000 colored people were so employed. Of these 2500 are skilled workers.

THE latest scheme to relieve the employer from liability in the case of injury to an employe is the design of an insurance company in London. The workman takes out an accident policy and the premium is paid from his wages. He also signs a contract indemnifying his employer.

A NUMBER of years ago attempts were made to make paper in Ireland out of peat moss, but the results were not satisfactory. A new process has just been discovered by which good paper can be made out of this material, and experiments on a large scale will be made to show its practicability.

IN the Isle of Man, which is in the Irish Sea, there are large lead mines, which are believed to be very ancient, and employ half the population of Laxey, the village in which they are situated. The men work for very small wages, but are contented. The largest water-wheel in the world is at these mills, and is used to ventilate the mines. It is visited as a curiosity by excursionists.

COMPARATIVELY little butter is manufactured in Italy, and the consequence is a large use of artificial products. These are imported from France, America, Germany, England and the Netherlands. The demand for butter has become so important in Europe, South America, Australia, India, Japan and even China that, with the under-supply of the real article, it is necessary to manufacture something analogous to it. Again, these foreign markets will pay only low prices, so that they don't afford as much of an outlet for the surplus of good American butter as would otherwise be expected.

JOHN A. MCCLERNAND, a member of the Utah Commission, has filed with the Secretary of the Interior a minority report in which he gives his views on the Mormon question. He recommends an amendment to the Federal Constitution perpetually prohibiting polygamy, under whatever guise, in the States and in the Territories. He contended that such an express prohibition is required in order to stamp out [illegible] polygamy.

[illegible]

PROMINENT PEOPLE.

GENERAL LEGITIME carried off from Hayti about $600,000.

KING HUMBERT, of Italy, is still suffering from dyspepsia.

MRS. U. S. GRANT will visit her son Jesse, in California, this winter.

SENATOR-ELECT PETTIGREW, of South Dakota, is only just over forty years old.

CORPORAL TANNER and family have settled down for the winter at Washington.

THE queen dowager of Portugal is to receive an annuity of $63,000, and she will reside abroad.

A COPY of Jay Gould's "History of Delaware County, New York," recently sold for forty dollars.

GENERAL GRENFELL, K. C. B., commander of the English forces in Egypt, looks like Grover Cleveland.

MANY people will be astonished to learn that the London preacher, Spurgeon, is only fifty-five years old.

THE late Sir Charles William Sikes was the founder of England's great system of post-office savings banks.

PRESIDENT CARNOT, of France, recently remarked that he was determined to visit America before he died.

PROFESSOR TYNDALL, the distinguished scientist, at the age of seventy has climbed the Alps in search of health.

THE Emperor of Japan has just taken possession of a new palace, furnished in European style. It cost him $4,000,000.

EX-PRESIDENT CLEVELAND and his wife are becoming well known "regular first nighters" at the New York theatres.

GENERAL BENJAMIN F. BUTLER says he has followed only one rule in writing his memoirs; that was to tell the truth.

GEORGE AUGUSTUS SALA, the London journalist, is reported to have declined an offer of knighthood from Queen Victoria.

THE Chilian Minister and Senora Varas have learned the English language, and will be much in society in Washington this winter.

HORATIO GUZMAN, the Nicaraguan Minister to the United States, is a son of ex-President Guzman. He was educated in this country.

BRANDER MATTHEWS, the well-known litterateur, is a native of New Orleans, but has resided in New York city the greater part of his life.

CARDINAL MANNING is a slight, graceful, delicate, gracious, dignified man, wearing no insignia of his rank in the Church, except a small red hat.

PRESIDENT HARRISON has obtained a new steward for the White House. Philip McKim, of Scotch and Irish parentage, is Ziemann's successor.

EX-MAYOR HALL, of New York, has tried to practice law in London for some years, but he finds he cannot make a living without doing newspaper work.

EMPEROR WILLIAM, of Germany, thinks of nothing but war. He conforms his habits to those of Frederick the Great, and his court at Berlin has become a camp.

HANS JÆGER, one of the cleverest writers in Norway, has accepted the place of a common sailor on one of the Scandinavian ships, being poor and in bad health.

JOHNS HOPKINS, the founder of the university that bears his name in Baltimore, entered the same city at the age of nineteen with 62½ cents in his pockets, and died worth $7,000,000.

RUSSELL SAGE, the New York stock speculator, is a shrewd, handsome-faced, nervous-mannered man in the neighborhood of sixty, with a clean-shaven upper lip and a fortune of something like $50,000,000.

CLEMENCEAU, the French statesman, still loves to talk of the four years he spent in America. He had a varied career, too, as school teacher in Connecticut, a struggling physician in the French quarter of New York city, and again as teacher of French in a ladies' seminary.

WORTH, the famous man-dressmaker of Paris, is a native born Englishman of striking appearance, looking like a Scotchman, and adding to the likeness by wearing almost always a Scotch cap. His father meant to make a printer of him, but he didn't like the work and managed to get into the dry goods trade in London. Thence he went to Paris, where he found favor with the Empress Eugenie, and his fortune was made. He has a fine castle near Paris.

Hot Air in Balloons.

Charles P. Fest, of Germantown, Penn., has invented a new flying machine. He has abandoned the idea of using hydrogen gas and uses hot air. He has made a balloon of manilla paper held by a network of cords. The balloon is directed by conical orifices which can be opened

[illegible]

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., NOV. 14, 1889.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year	$1.50
One copy six months	75
One copy four "	50

We must admit that our great contemporary, the Age-Herald, is equal to the Constitution on a sensation.

The Ministerial Association of Birmingham, have set apart the first Sunday in December for a special sermon, in every church in Birmingham, from the text: "Thou shalt not kill."

WANTED—A grammarian as well as other qualification in Alabama's gubartorial aspirants.—New Capitol.

The above is a thrust at Commissioner Kolb, and possibly a just one, but it strikes us that the article wanted just now is a proof reader in the New Capitol office.

Who Is the Man.

Candidate Kolb had a secret caucus Wednesday night, at the Florence Hotel, and the Age-Herald was represented at it.—Birmingham News.

It is whispered around that a stockholder in the Age-Herald has his eye on Pugh's seat in the Senate, and of course the A.-H. is going to do what it can to gratify said stockholders ambition. But who is the man? The public should be advised. Chappel Cory is the best and most favorably known person on the Age-Herald, but we are satisfied he has no such aspirations. He is too good a newspaper man. Yet he could come nearer being elected to succeed Pugh than any one connected with said paper that we wot of. Most of the others need an introduction to the people of this bailiwick.—Greensboro Watchman.

The same woeful predicament as to an introduction portains in this "neck o' the woods". But we had no idea that it was a Cory-card the A.-H. was playing. We supposed it was a Pinckard, and that the Age-Herald was running the gentleman on his good looks. We may be mistaken and we hope we are. The Age-Herald had better run Mr. Cory, on his bald head. Being bald-headed and yet unmarried is said to be a sure indication of brains.

The Lawless Portions of the South are Republican.

The southern outrage mills have ceased grinding since the fact began to come up from that benighted region, showing that the republican localities in the south are those most noted for lawlessness and crime. Here are some of the facts.

Every county in Kentucky into which the governor has found it necessary to send troops to stop mob violence is a republican county. It is only in the republican counties of Kentucky that disorder and assassination have been carried to such an extent as to require military help to restore order.

In Boyd county, the scene of the great riots and lynching which the state authorities had hard work to stop, Harrison received 229 majority.

In Bell county where murder and violence run riot, Harrison received 928 votes and Cleveland only 279.

Rowan county, where family feuds and murders are common, where state troops had to fire on the mob three or four years ago, cast its vote for Harrison.

Harlan county is a republican stronghold. It gave Harrison 827 votes and Cleveland 211—a republican gain of some 200. Last August the county judge had to lead a posse to stop mob violence, because the sheriff refused to act unless the judge would promise to bail one of his friends who was in the mob. This posse had a battle with the outlaws which resulted in four deaths, and the posse put to flight.

The counties of Christian, Green, and Taney in Missouri are strongly republican, and it is there that midnight whippings and secret assassinations have been so prevalent, giving the Bald Knobbers their bad name.

Two months ago the commonwealth's attorney of Patrick county, Va., appealed to Gov. Lee to aid in punishing desperadoes of the North Carolina and Virginia border. This locality is a strong republican one, giving Harrison a majority of 819, while the whole state gave Cleveland 13,000. In the North Carolina portion of the same belt Harrison's majority was 2,914, while the democrats carried the state by a considerable majority.

Thus the record might be continued, piling up cumulative evidence, and thus do facts pull the mask from the hypocritical assumption of virtue, law and order by the republican party.

"These be your gods, O Isreal."—Plattsburg, Pa., Republican.

The Law Evaded.

Some of the railroad people have a curious way of evading the law which requires conductors, engineers and flag men to pass a color blind examination before they are allowed to run on any railroad in the State.

Mr. Smith, an engineer, goes before an examiner and fails to pass muster. Mr. Jones goes up, gives the name of Mr. Smith, passes the examination before another examiner, gets his certificate in the name of Smith, gives it to the original Smith, who, while color blind, is permitted to run and does so. The same tactics are pursued the next year when Smith is re-examined and the consequence is that a man absolutely color blind runs an engine or pulls a bell cord.

A number of instances could be cited where these tactics have been pursued with success and profit. A short time since a young man secured a position on the Ala. Great Southern railroad. He went to Dr. Whelan for examination as to his color blindness. He failed to pass. The next day one of his friends went up, gave his name, passed, and the certificate was awarded, and the man who did not pass now holds a certificate that entitles him to run on any railroad which enters or passes through the State.

In justice to the railroad men it must be said that the great majority of them deprecate such methods and are above such practices, which are confined to only a very small minority, but it is done nevertheless.—Age-Herald.

OVER THE COUNTY.

Neighborhood News Gathered by Our Correspondents.

Maplesville Dots.

Our delightful Indian summer has about waned out into so much chilliness as to require fire. The knowing ones, generally old observing farmers are still predicting a very hard winter.

Mrs. Crumpton has moved to Maplesville. Her neighbors are complaining of the sound of scrubbing and cleaning from attic to cellar all day long. We cannot give them hope of relief there, since habit is second nature. "A new broom sweeps clean" will not hold good in this case.

Mrs. Tom DuBose, Mrs. Waterworth and Mrs. Crumpton have all gone to Selma to attend the Baptist State Convention.

Ike Giles is fast improving, is able to resume his railroad duties.

Capt. Woolfolk is here now arranging for right of way for the Midland railroad.

REVOLG.

Stanton Notes.

Every thing is quiet and serene in and around Stanton. No more dead negroes have been found, neither has Reub Burrows visited us, and we hope if he has any such intention he will change his mind and not come as there is nobody here who wants to see him.

Several Stantonites are attending the Baptist Convention in Selma, and others have gone to the Montgomery Fair.

W. E. Woolfolk, of the Ala. Midland R. R. was in Stanton Friday, settling up right of way claims for the road.

Mr. A. S. Liles went out visiting last Saturday morning and on his return home was almost paralyzed by seeing a flock of wild turkeys fly out of his yard.

Rev. Jas. Lapsley filled his regular appointment at the Presbyterian church last Sabbath.

The Methodist people are going to have a big church supper here on the night of the 15th inst.

Capt. J. A. Harwood, a former resident of Stanton, was among his friends here last week.

From Jemison.

The firm of I. N. Langston & Co., has been dissolved, Mr. H. S. Latham retiring. Mr. I. N. Langston still holds the fort at his old stand and supplies his customers with cheap goods.

Our school still grows; three new matriculates from Uniontown were added to-day.

Mrs. Lizzie Lee, of Bridgeton, has returned home after a protracted visit to her daughter, Mrs. S. Allen. We love all old ladies like "aunt Lizzie." The world is better for their having lived in it. May long life be added to her.

Rev. A. E. Burns is attending the Baptist State Convention in Selma.

Rev. D. L. Lindsey preached his farewell sermon at the Methodist Church Sunday.

Quite a number of Jemisonites visited the exposition in the capital city last week.

The Rev. Mr. Lincoln and wife are conducting revival services at the Presbyterian church this week. You ought to come up, Mr. Editor and hear them sing. Your correspondent deems it but justice to say that they produce the most heavenly melody to which he ever listened.

X. Y. Z.

We are sorry to say that Mrs. West has sickness in her family.

Just now our town is being aroused to a sense of duty by Rev. Mr. Lincoln, and his interesting wife. He preaches, sings, and furnishes instrumental music, and seems to be the embodiment of zeal, and faithfulness. We say to all who love singing come this week and listen to Mrs. Lincoln. She carries the soul higher with the music of her sweet voice than any one we have heard in many years. Her soul is in the work. These meetings will continue most of this week.

Miss Emily Love sets in with her nice little country school, one mile and a half north of Jemison. Success to her efforts. Let the schools be supported all over our land till ignorance is vanquished.

A MOTHER.

The Elder Was More Cautious Thereafter.

It was Elder Buzzell who called on a worthy deacon to open a meeting with prayer and was surprised when the good man began his petition with: "Oh, thou great insignificant God."

"Omnipitent brother; you mean omnipitent God," whispered the horrified pastor.

"Huh!" ejaculated the surprised supplicant. "What's that you say?"

The preacher repeated the correction whereupon the deacon continued his prayer to a great length and concluded as follows:

"Finally, Lord bless our eddicated parson. Stuff him with religion as well as with words; break him of the habit of fault finding, if possible, and at the 'leventh hour gather him with the saints in thy kingdom."

Elder Buzzell, who was fond of telling the story, always ended by declaring that it was his first and last attempt at correcting the speech of his brethren.—Lewiston Journal.

Shoemaker Miller's Four Girls Sustain Mixed Relations.

Cincinnati, Oct. 23—Henry Miller, a shoemaker, who died recently in this city, had a remarkable matrimonial career. His first wife died in giving birth to a girl baby. He afterwards married his wife's sister, who also died in the course of a year, just after having born to her a girl baby. Miller was an industrious fellow, and his father-in-law a closed-fisted dairyman, brought about a marriage between a third daughter. In three years a girl baby was born and the third wife, and sister died. The father-in-law had died a year before, and the mother, who was a treble mother-in-law to Miller, and he mourned the loss of their dead together. A mutual liking struck up, the result being that mother-in-law and son-in-law Miller became husband and wife.

Their marriage was a happy one for almost three years. Then Mrs. Miller No. 4 gave birth to a girl baby, dying in less than ten days. After the little one was born Miller lived but two months. His four daughters, born under such circumstances, are still living. The first three are not only step sisters, but are cousins. The fourth, the daughter of the mother-in-law, is not only a cousin and step sister, but likewise an aunt, while the grand-mother was step-mother to her own grand-children.

Boils and Carbuncles Cured.

For years I have been constantly troubled with humors in the blood, which caused the breaking out of boils and carbuncles all over my body, that when bruised would make a lasting ugly sore. I consulted many eminent physicians and took a great deal of medicine without any perceptible benefit. Nothing helped me, but Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) That medicine cured me! I am now enjoying excellent health, and there is not a blemish of any kind on my body. MICHAEL MCHALE, Bulo, Nebraska.

Inherited Scrofula.

Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) cured my little boy of hereditary scrofula, which broke out all over his face. For a year he had suffered, and I had given up all hopes of his recovery, when at length I was induced to use S. S. S. After using a few bottles he was entirely cured. Not a symptom now remains of the disease. This was three years ago.

MRS. T. L. MATHERS,
Matherville, Miss.

Wanted.

To learn the whereabouts of Mrs. Mattie E. Slaughter formerly Miss Mattie E. Goode, who moved from Arkansas to Alabama about four years ago. She can learn something to her advantage by corresponding with

LEE HAYES, Clanton, Ala.

A church congregation at Red Bank, N. J., paid a big price to get a minister that was a hustler. He hustled around the first week and got his facts and figures, and on Sunday told them that there was more meanness in the town to the square foot than in any other place in the world. On Monday they paid him a bonus to hustle away.—Ex.

If you suffer pricking pains on moving the eyes, or cannot bear bright light, and find your sight weak and failing, you should promptly use Dr. J. H. McLean's Stregthening Eye Salve. 25 cents a box.

For better than the harsh treatment of medicines which horribly gripe the patient and destroy the coating of the stomach. Dr. J. H. McLean's Chill and Fever, by mild yet effective action will cure. Sold at 50 cents a bottle.

The first of the associated press telegrams sent out last week on the elections gave Iowa to the Republicans by a reduced majority. To the surprise of even the democrats in this section, later telegrams showed that Iowa had deserted the false gods of Radicalism and rolled up a Democratic majority for the first time in its history.

If you suffer from any affection caused by impure blood, such as scrofula, salt rheum, sores, boils, pimples, tetter, ring worm, take Dr. J. H. McLean's Sarsaparilla.

The quality of the blood depends much upon good or bad digestion and assimilation. To make the blood rich in life and strength-giving constituents use Dr. J. H. McLean's Sarsaparilla. It will nourish the properties of the blood, from which the elements of vitality are drawn.

A Sexton Speaks.

Mr. John A. Cleary, sexton of Oakwood Cemetery, Waco, Texas, says: Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) is a sure cure for any description of blood poison! About a year ago, I contracted a poisonous blood disease, and tried a number of remedies without avail. I was about to become disheartened, when a friend induced me to try S. S. S. After taking a part of one bottle I was a sound man and no symptoms of my fell disease have ever returned."

Treatise on blood and skin diseases mailed free.

SWIFT SPECIFIC CO.,
Atlanta, Ga.

Exposure to rough weather, getting wet, living in damp localities, are favorable to the contraction of diseases of the kidneys and bladder. As a preventive, and for the cure of all kidney and liver trouble, use that valuable remedy, Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm. $1.00 per bottle.

There is no more fruitful source of disease than vitiated blood. It involves every organ and function of the body, and if not immediately corrected by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, sooner or later leads to fatal results. Be warned in time.

There are many accidents and diseases which affect stock and cause serious inconvenience and loss to the farmer in his work, which may be quickly remedied by the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment.

Go to Blank Brothers, Leading Clothiers, 2112, 2nd Avenue, Birmingham, Ala., to buy anything you need in the way of clothing and gent's furnishing goods.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of an execution issued out of the Register's office of the Chancery Court of Chilton county, Ala., in favor of Jonce L. Gardner, et. al. and against Maria L. Wilson, et. al., I will proceed to sell, at the courthouse door in Clanton, Ala., between the legal hours of sale, at public outcry, to the highest bidder for cash, on Monday, December 2d, 1889, the following described real estate, levied upon as the property of the said Maria L. Wilson, to-wit: The s e ¼ of the n w ¼ of section 33, township 22, range 12 east, lying south of the Selma and Montvallo road and west of Mulberry creek, and lying and being in Chilton county, Ala.

LEE HAYES,
Sheriff Chilton Co.

Clanton, Ala., October 29th, 1889.

Tax Notice!

FIRST ROUND.

I will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and county taxes of Chilton county for the year 1889.

Mineral Springs	October	30
Jemison	"	31
Providence	"	29
Macedonia	November	4
Benson	"	5
Maplesville	"	6
R. Latham's	"	7
Dixie	"	8
Kincheon	"	12
Verbena	"	13
Cooper's	"	14
Clanton	"	15
Strasburg	"	16
Valley Creek Church	"	9
Clanton Ford	"	11

SECOND ROUND.

Mineral Springs	December	6
Jemison	"	7
Providence	"	8
Macedonia	"	9
Benson	"	10
Maplesville	"	11
R. Latham's	"	12
Dixie	"	13
Kincheon	"	17
Verbena	"	18
Cooper's	"	19
Valley Creek Church	"	14
Clanton Ford	"	16
Elijah Busby	"	4
John Archer's	"	[illegible]
Prim's School House	"	[illegible]

Clanton, December [illegible], 27, 28, [illegible] and 31.

R. H. GENTRY,
Tax Collector Chilton Co.

Bring your job printing to this office.

CONSUMPTION,

IN its first stages, can be successfully checked by the prompt use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Even in the later periods of that disease, the cough is wonderfully relieved by this medicine.

"I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral with the best effect in my practice. This wonderful preparation once saved my life. I had a constant cough, night sweats, was greatly reduced in flesh, and given up by my physician. One bottle and a half of the Pectoral cured me."—A. J. Eidson, M. D., Middleton, Tennessee.

"Several years ago I was severely ill. The doctors said I was in consumption, and that they could do nothing for me, but advised me, as a last resort, to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After taking this medicine two or three months I was cured, and my health remains good to the present day."—James Birchard, Darien, Conn.

"Several years ago, on a passage home from California, by water, I contracted so severe a cold that for some days I was confined to my state-room, and a physician on board considered my life in danger. Happening to have a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, I used it freely, and my lungs were soon restored to a healthy condition. Since then I have invariably recommended this preparation."—J. B. Chandler, Junction, Va.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

PREPARED BY
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

tma16

Jemison High School.

Good House, Well Furnished, Healthful Locality, Dry Sandy Roads, Good Board Cheap, Tuition Low, Maps, Globes, Charts, etc., Moral Community, Three Churches, No Whisky, Well Trained Teachers, Fine Success, Teachers Re-elected without a Dissenting Voice. Session opens Sept. 2d, 1889.

Apply to J. L. RUFFIN, JR., Principal.
aug29

CLANTON HIGH SCHOOL.

This School will open Monday, Sept. the 2nd, 1889. Advantages the best in the county. Rates low, board and tuition $10 per month. Patronage is earnestly desired. For further information address me at Clanton, Ala.

Respectfully,
A. J. SCOTT, Principal.

W. W. C.

(Wooldridge's Wonderful Cure)

Is the greatest Blood Purifier ever yet discovered. It never fails to cure when taken according to directions. Read what it has done for Mr. A. Kimbrough:

COLUMBUS, GA., July 15, 1889.

Wooldridge Wonderful Cure Co., Columbus, Ga.

GENTS:—After suffering for twenty years with my kidneys, and finding only temporary relief, after taking various remedies, and consulting some of the most noted physicians in the country, at a cost of hundreds of dollars, for no good, I decided to try W. W. C., and I must confess that I am to-day as well as I ever was, and that I suffer no pain whatever from my kidneys, and am feeling better in every respect than I have for years, and I attribute it all to two bottles of W. W. C.; and I would advise all who suffer in the least with kidney or bladder troubles to give W. W. C. a trial. Yours truly,

A. KIMBROUGH.

WOOLDRIDGE'S WONDERFUL CURE is a sure Remedy for Syphilis, Syphilitic Rheumatism, Chronic Rheumatism, Skin Diseases, Bone Diseases, Old Sores, Bilious Troubles, Liver Diseases, Jaundice, Bilious Headache, Dyspepsia, and all Diseases caused from Impure and Poisoned Blood or Hereditary Diseases.

For sale by all Druggists.

Manufactured by
Wooldridge Wonderful Cure Co.,
COLUMBUS, GA.
sep19 y

Wool Carding.

Our Cards are now running and doing good work. Bring or send your work to E. G. WALKER, Montevallo, Ala.
sep19 2m

Highest cash price paid for wool.

Barber Shop.

Mr. H. A. Logan, who has his barber shop upstairs in the Allen Building, solicits the patronage of the good people of Clanton. He does good work and is well fixed up for the business.

Remember
The View Job Office
When you want
First-class Job Printing done.

ALABAMA CENTRAL
FEMALE COLLEGE.

While the patronage of many other schools in the Town and State has diminished, the attendance at this College has increased [illegible] per cent. during the past Session. Literary, Scientific, Music and Art Departments under the direction of skillful teachers. Send for catalogue.

32nd Session opens September 18, 1889.
[illegible] FOSTER, President, Tuskaloosa, Ala.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

Land Office, Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 5, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on December 14th, 1889, viz: James H. Green, homestead [illegible] for the [illegible] of [illegible] 18 [illegible] 22 n, r 13 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: William W. Kissner, William W. [illegible], Richard F. Kendrick, James M. Walker, all of [illegible], Ala.

J. H. [illegible], nov7 Register.

The Lawson Carpet C
Birmingham, Ala.
Take pleasure in directing the attention
the people of Chilton county to their larg
and attractive stock of
Carpets, Oil-cloths, Window Shades,
Curtains & Household Noveltie

The Stock represented is the finest in Alabama, and prices are guarant low as similar goods are offered in any of the eastern markets.

☞ All communications answered by return mail. Respectfully, ma30-y THE LAWSON CARPET CO. (WM. LAWS

BAINS & PORTER.
(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & PEEBLES.)
WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.
Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt tention.
FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIAL
1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS
Birmingham, Ala.
☞ Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜
P. O. BOX 570. June 19

LOOK HERE!
New Stock! Low Price
—AT—
W. M. Wilson & Bro
CLANTON, ALA.

We have opened a Large Stock of Dry Goods, Groceries and Genera chandise at our old Stand, and we have come to stay. We invite inspection of our goods and prices.

☞ SHOES AND HATS A SPECIALTY. ☜

THOMAS FOSHEE
(SUCCESSOR TO N. W. FOSHEE,)
Dry Goods, Grocerie
—AND—
GENERAL MERCHANDIS
Maplesville, Alabama.

I solicit a continuance of the liberal patronage hereto extended our house. Respectfully,
feb 28-y THOMAS FOSHE

WALL PAPER

WINDOW SHADE
MOULDINGS
—AND—
PRACTICAL PAPER HA
H. M. MANCHA,
204 DEXTER AVENUE, MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA.
☞ Papers furnished at any price from 10 cents up. Wi samples on application. apr 11

BIRMINGHAM MARBLE WORKS.
THOS. H. HOLT,
PRACTICAL WORKMA
—AND DEALER IN—
American and Italian Marbl
— Manufacturer of all kinds of —
CEMETERY MARBLE AND STONE WO
Cor. Second Avenue and Twenty-Fourth Street, Birmingham, - Alabam
nov28-tf

B. WOLFF'S
FURNITURE EMPORIU
20 and 22 Commerce and Corner Court and Coosa Streets.
MONTGOMERY, ALA.
CARRIES
The Largest and Cheapest Stock of Fur
IN THE STATE.

CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., NOV. 14, 1889.

THE VIEW is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

A cross mark (X) after your name means that your subscription is due and that we would be glad to have you renew.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the second Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—On the eleventh Monday after the fourth Monday in February, and on the thirteenth Monday after the fourth Monday in August, and may continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD. —Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.

No. 1 Express at	*1:15 a. m.
No. 3 Mail	5:43 p. m.
No. 11 (Passenger)	6:20 p. m.
No. 9 Accommodation	6:45 a. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 2 Fast (Don't Stop)	2:20 a. m.
No. 6 Mail	9:11 a. m.
No. 4 Express	7:55 p. m.
No. 10 Accommodation	6:20 p. m.

*Don't Stop.

LOCAL LACONICS.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Bivings are visiting relatives in Montgomery.

See mortgage sale notice by Frank Nelson, Jr., of Columbiana.

Justice F. R. McCary, of Coopers Station, was in town Saturday.

Mrs. Wallace Glover, of Verbena, visited relatives in Clanton last week.

A change in the schedule on the L. & N. R. R. went into effect last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Haden, of Pine Level, are visiting relatives in Clanton.

Mr. Logan has moved his barber shop up stairs over the Allen store. Give him a call.

We regret to learn that Mr. C. R. Bruce has a little boy that is very ill with typhoid fever.

A. D. Bentley, Esq., of Rockford in company with a younger brother spent Saturday in Clanton.

Mr. W. H. Mancha, the Montgomery wall paper artist, has been professionally engaged in our town the past few days.

Agent Holt sold 180 tickets to the Exposition on Tuesday. The Clanton delegation filled two passenger coaches.

Mrs. M. A. Butler will remove to Birmingham, and open a store. We can but wish such a deserving lady the greatest success.

The VIEW is indebted to its enterprising contemporary, the Age-Herald, for a complimentary ticket to the races of the Birmingham Fair Association.

It is something unusual that we received an order for job printing this week from a Montgomery firm. Low prices and good work will advertise themselves.

Mr. W. H. Mills, a substantial Kincheon farmer was in to see us Saturday. He says he made $200 last year out of the VIEW. He read an advertisement that brought him in that amount. He will be a life long subscriber.

Mr. P. D. Wilson got a ducking in Goose Pond creek Monday. The horse he was riding took the notion into her head to toss him off in the middle of the stream. He is now wearing his best Sunday suit while the wrinkles are being pressed out of his other wearables.

The combination of ingredients found in Ayer's Pills renders them tonic and curative as well cathartic. For this reason they are the best medicine for people of costive habits as they restore the natural action of the bowels, without debilitating.

Notice to the Public.

From November 1st to January 1st, no goods will be sold on credit at my store, and I hope no one will get their feelings hurt by failing to get credit. I intend to meet any competition in this market, and in order to do so I must sell for the money down.

All parties who have not yet paid their accounts for this year are earnestly requested to call and settle at once.

Respectfully,
W. L. SAMPEY.

One of the most enjoyable features of the past week was an oyster supper given by the ladies of the Baptist church last Friday night. The weather was good, and quite a large crowd attended. Both young and old enjoyed themselves.

A good sum was cleared, and will go to meet the expences of the church.

The VIEW since it was established eight years ago has used a quantity of paper which if piled up unfolded sheet upon sheet would reach the height of 142 feet, more than three times the height of the courthouse at Clanton. The number of type picked up during the time was 17,472,000 ems for the two pages printed in the home office, and the money required to keep it going during the time would build all of the business houses in Clanton and leave us a large surplus over.

Sick headace, wind on the stomach. billiousness, nausea, are promptly and agreeably banished by Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pillets, 25 c a vial.

A gentleman at Clear Creek, with whom we are not acquainted, wants the VIEW and writes to ask us to send it to him and that he will pay for it soon. We only mention this to say that we are not now placing the names of any persons on our book who do not pay the cash in advance unless we are well acquainted with them and know where to find them when pay day comes. We prefer to keep our list down to subscribers who are known and whom we can count on as "sure pay." That is best all round.

Married, in Clanton, at the residence of Mr. John Garner, on the 6th inst., Mr. Charles S. Hamilton, of Montgomery, and Miss Piretta Acker, of Montevallo, Rev. J. P. Sanders officiating. After the ceremony the young couple took the evening train for Montgomery, where they will reside. It was a Gretna-Green affair. The Montgomery Journal says: "The young couple reached this city that night, and were tendered a reception and wedding supper at the residence of Mrs. M. W. King, the groom's mother, on Monroe street. The groom is an energetic and hard working young man, who has scores of friends here, all of whom join in congratulations on his good fortune in gaining the hand of his fair bride. The bride is the daughter of one of the leading physicians of Montevallo, and is endowed with those rare gifts which so richly adorn the true woman."

When nature falters and requires help recruit her enfeebled energies with Dr. J. H. McLean's strengthening cordial and blood purifier. $1.00 per bot.

Honor Roll.

The following subscribers have paid for the VIEW recently:

J T Connell, J A Stephens, T H Prim, Tom Thornton, G E Evans, R E R Hicks, L C Day, T E Callier, A S Woolley, W J Rhoades, Willis Lowe, F T Downey, J H Shoults, John Askins, W. D. Courtney, Monroe Ramsey, P C Dennis, Walter Gray, W M Burton, L F Rollins, J T Beasley, Mrs. N Goodwin, R A Wright, Dave Hightower, S T Brittle, R S Owen, W R Robinson, C K Bivings, Lee Bivings, Euell Dawson, J M Bivings, Gregory & Coe, John Chandler, O A Duke, Henry Chitty, D A White, Mrs. J O Smith, H Jones, R M Jones, W R Burnett, S L Arledge, J L Harrell, Chilton Lumber Co., A J Garner, J M Ponder, G W Deramus, J A Mullins, J I Cox, J A Dudley, W H Brown, H W Caffey, Z J Jones, W H Mills, G H Gilliam, Willis Graham, W. F. Roebuck.

During the next quarter we hope to add at least one hundred names to this list.

A Deformed Statesman.

Mr. A. Kavanaugh, who is lying seriously ill in London, and who sat for many years in Parliament for the county of Carlow, was, says the Dundee Advertiser, physically speaking, the most extraordinary man that ever sat in the House of Commons. We have had and still have, blind men in Parliament, and deaf men are more common than the constituents suspect.

Mr. Kavanaugh had all his senses, but he was without arms and legs. He had to be carried to his seat in Parliament. He addressed the House always sitting, and was allowed to vote without going into the lobby. He was by no means a silent member. He spoke frequently on Irish questions and sat on a number of select committees.

Physicians prescribe Dr. J. H. McLean's Tar Wine Lung Balm; in it they find no trace of opium or morphia, while its efficacy in curing all throat and lung diseases is wonderful.

HERMAN HERZFELD,

—DEALER IN—

All Kinds of Furniture at all Prices.

Parlor and Bed-Room Suits, Carpets, Oil Cloths, Mattings, Blankets, Comforts and Lace Goods.

☞ Everything necessary in the House-Furnishing Goods Line. ☜

NINETEENTH STREET, BETWEEN FIRST AND SECOND AVENUES
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

—Office of—

FARMERS'

Alliance Exchange

UNION WAREHOUSE.

MONTGOMERY, ALA., Sept. 16, 1889.

DEAR SIR:—We invite your attention to our large and commodious Warehouses near the Union Passenger Depot in rear of the Windsor Hotel in this city. We are prepared to store or sell cotton to the best advantage and to fully protect the planters' interest by always obtaining the highest market price on day of sale. Our rates of storage are cheaper than any other Warehouse in the city from the fact that we charge no drayage where cotton is shipped by rail or boat.

We have every protection against fire that is possible to be had, and are above high water. We make liberal advances on cotton in store.

Your patronage is respectfully solicited.

JNO. S. BIRD, Business Manager.

True as Preaching.

A youth brought up on novels has an over-heated imagination and no common sense. To walk up the steps of marble palaces and come in contact with heroes and heaoines of phenomenal virtues is apt to unfit a boy for splitting wood for the kitchen stove or doing about the house.

After spending an evening in consuming a dime novel and breathlessly following of women with sainted faces and men with overgrown mustaches every day life seems a bit insipid and it becomes hard to crawl out of bed at 5 o'clock in the morning with the mercury at zero and go to the office and sweep the floor at two dollars and fifty cents a week. What our boys need is less spice and more corned beef.

Good solid reading, that makes them feel that they are in glory when they are burnishing the brass on the shop door because it is the first step in the upward climb is what they ought to have. A single book that makes drudgery delightful because it is a beginning is better than a thousand which inflames the fancy and renders real life tasteless. The dime novel is the devil's right bower when he is playing for a boy's head and heart.—New York Herald.

"It goes right to the spot," said an old man, who was rubbing in Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment to relieve rheumatism. oct31

BUSINESS LOCAL NOTICES.

The VIEW job office is prepared to do all kind of job work at short notice. Let us know what you want and we will give you extra low figures.

Insure in the Commercial Fire Insurance Co. of Montgomery.

We want you all to subscribe for and pay for this paper. You can get the VIEW at $1 a year by clubbing with the Montgomery Advertiser. The two papers one year for $2. A year's subscription now will carry you through the next State and Congressional Campaigns.

Subscribe for the VIEW.

Mortgage Sale.

Under and by virtue of two mortgages excuted by Matilda Crampton, the first to the Louisville & Nashville railroad company on the 16th day of January, 1882 and recorded in Book 9 of Mortgages page 363 in the Probate office of Chilton county, the second executed on the 18th day of March, 1885, to Frank Nelson, Jr., and recorded in Mortgage book Vol. 13, page 55 of records of mortgages in the office of Judge of Probate of Chilton county, I will proceed to sell on the 16th day of December, 1889, in front of the courthouse door in Clanton, Chilton county, within the legal hours of sale, the following described real estate to-wit: The S W ¼ of the S W ¼ of section 13 township 23, range 15 east in Chilton county, Ala.

FRANK NELSON, JR.,
nov14 Mortgagee and Assignee.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 11, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver of the U. S. Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., on December 12, 1889, viz: John Burmister, homestead 16141, for the s e ¼ of n e ¼, e ½ of s e ¼, n w ¼ of s e ¼ sec 26 t 20 n r 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: E. H. Smith Thomas Cox, G. C. Carwile and C. D. A. Deramus, all of Verbena, Ala.

oct 17o J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
October 29, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the Circuit Court, Clanton, Ala., on December 14, 1889, viz: William Headley, Jr., homestead 16165 for the n e ¼ of s w ¼, n w ¼ of s e ¼ and e ½ of s e ¼ sec 18, township 22 n, r 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: Wesley Noah, Sylvester Headley, James N. Knox, Columbus Rutherford, all of Clanton, Ala.

oct31* J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

Register's Sale.

Mary C. Gammon, Adm'r, &c., Complainant, vs. George Martin, Defendant. Chancery court.

By virtue of a decree rendered at the Fall Term A. D., 1889, of the Chancery Court, at Clanton, Chilton County, Alabama, in said cause, I shall proceed to sell to the highest and best bidder for cash, at Public Auction, at the Courthouse door in Clanton, within the legal hours of sale

On Monday, the 18th of November, 1889

the following described real estate to-wit: The s w ¼ of s e ¼ of section 11, township 23 range 13, lying and being situated in Chilton county, Alabama, to satisfy said decree.

W. E. STEWART,
Oct. 16th 1889. Register.

Register's Sale.

M. V. Northcut, Complainant vs. John W. Allen, Defendant. Chancery Court.

By virtue of a decree rendered at the Fall Term A. D. 1889, of the Chancery Court at Clanton, Chilton county, Alabama, in said cause, I shall proceed to sell to the highest and best bidder, for cash, at Public Auction at the Courthouse door in Clanton, within the legal hours of sale.

On Monday, the 18th of November, 1889

the following described real estate to-wit: The n w ¼ of section 8, and the n e ¼ of s w ¼ of section 8, all in township 23, range 14 east, lying and being in the county of Chilton, State of Alabama, to satisfy said decree.

W. E. STEWART,
Oct. 16th, 1889. Register.

Now is the time to subscribe for your county paper.

A. E. BIVINGS,

—DEALER IN—

DRUGS, AND Medicines, FAMILY Groceries, ETC.

Clanton, Alabama.

I can furnish you anything you may wish in the way of DRUGS AND MEDICINES. I also handle THE BEST GROCERIES TO BE HAD, and you will find my prices to suit the times. [mar21]

BUY YOUR
PIANOS and ORGANS
—FROM—
GRAMBS & BUCHANAN,
—2107 SECOND AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—

THE VERY LOWEST CASH PRICES, or on easy installments. Sohmer, Cranich & Bach, Gabler, Wheelock and Newby & Evans Pianos, and the world renowned Wilcox & White organs. Mail orders for sheet music or musical merchandise given prompt attention.

☞ Write for Catalogue. ☜ jul18

When ordering please state in what paper you saw our advertisement.

CRELLIN & NALLS,
BOILER MAKERS

Copper and Sheet Iron Workers

Chimneys, Tanks, and Repairing of All Kinds.

Saw Mill Work a Specialty.

☞ AVENUE C AND TWENTY-SECOND STREET, SOUTHSIDE, ☜
Birmingham, Ala.
mar21 y

GEO. W. COOK & CO.,
Wholesale and Retail

Dealers in Staple and Fancy Groceries, Fruits, Produce, Wines, Liquors. Our pure unpainted Roasted Coffee, and Manufacturers of High Grade pure Stick Candy, all of which we sell by the pound, package or car load. Sole agents for the Celebrated Bethesda ☞ Water. ☜

37 COMMERCE STREET,
Montgomery, Alabama.

oct17-tf

MONTGOMERY IRON WORKS.
MACHINISTS & FOUNDERS
Dealers in Fittings, Supplies and Machinery
OF ALL KINDS.

MAKERS OF ENGINES, CANE MILLS, COTTON SEED CRUSHERS, SAW MILLS, LIVE ROLLS, LOG HAULUPS, &c.

☞ ESPECIAL ATTENTION TO WANTS OF SAW MILL MEN ☜

nov 8-y

INSURE WITH
The Commercial Fire Insurance Company,
Montgomery, Alabama.
Capital $100,000. Surplus $146,578.

Directors:—P. J. Anderson, C. A. Lanier, H. C. Tompkins, A. M. Kennedy, M. P. LeGrand, S. C. Marks, J. H. Clisby, C. W. Buckley, Frank Duncan.

W. H. Lawrence, Agt., Clanton.

Roberts & Son,
Steam Printers and Binders,
1918 FIRST AVENUE, BET. 19th & 20th STREETS,
Birmingham, Ala.

BLANK BOOKS TO ORDER. WORK PROMPTLY DELIVERED.

dec5 ay

1889 1890

S. C. MARKS, P. H. S. GAYLE, WM. A. GAYLE.

MARKS & GAYLE,
The Montgomery Warehouse.

Just back of the Exchange Hotel. Very convenient to the business centre, and close to the Fire Department.

ALL COTTON CAREFULLY WEIGHED & HANDLED.
Bagging and Ties at Lowest Rates.

We will take pleasure in forwarding orders for Cotton Bagging for our customers, charging them actual cost for same, free from any profit whatever to ourselves.

Montgomery, Ala.

[illegible] WAGON YARD [illegible]

A. M. RAMBO,
DENTIST.
VERBENA, ALA.

Will respond to calls along railroad between Calera and Deatsville
[mal5 y]

S. P. TRESSLAR,
Photographer,
10 COURT SQUARE,
Montgomery.

Photographs, on Silk, Satin and Linen. Photographs on watch dials.

Portraits in Crayon, Pastile, India Ink and Water Colors.

All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.

☞ Correspondence solicited. ☜

Always glad to have you call at the gallery, and examine specimens of the work on exhibition.

[jan21-tf]

J. H. SHEPHERD
THE LEADING
PHOTOGRAPHER.
—OF—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE
(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)

Photographs of All Kinds
Work Done in the
BEST STYLE.

Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

DR. OWEN'S
ELECTRIC BELT
AND SUSPENSORY.
PATENTED AUG. 16, 1887. IMPROVED JULY 30, 1889.

DR. OWEN'S ELECTRO-GALVANIC BODY BELT AND SUSPENSORY are guaranteed to cure the following diseases, namely: All Rheumatic Complaints, Lumbago, General and Nervous Debility, Costiveness, Kidney Diseases, Nervousness, Trembling, Sexual Exhaustion, Wasting of Body, Diseases caused by Indiscretions in Youth, Age, Married or Single Life. Infemal diseases peculiar to the womb or genital organs of male or female.

[illegible] SENT TO RESPONSIBLE PARTIES ON 30 DAYS TRIAL. TRY A PAIR OF DR. OWEN'S ELECTRIC INSOLES [illegible]

Send 6c. postage for free illustrated pamphlet, which will be sent you in plain sealed envelope. Mention this paper. Address

OWEN ELECTRIC BELT & APPLIANCE CO.
306 North Broadway, ST. LOUIS, MO.

RUPTURE!

ELECTRIC BELT AND TRUSS COMBINED.

DR. ISRAEL'S ELECTRO-GALVANIC TRUSS, with Dr. Owen's Electric Belt Attachment. This truss is worn with ease and comfort. The current can be made mild or strong. This is the only combined electric truss and belt ever made. It will cure Rupture in from 60 to 90 days. For full description of Dr. Owen's Electro-Galvanic Belts, Spinal Appliances, Trusses and Insoles send 6c. for free illustrated pamphlet which will be sent you in plain sealed envelope. Sold only by the

OWEN ELECTRIC BELT & APPLIANCE CO.
306 North Broadway, ST. LOUIS, MO.

sep 5

HERBINE

After ten years exclusive sale, can now be obtained of all Druggists and Dealers in Medicines. It CURES—take notice—not simply helps but CURES LIVER COMPLAINT, Biliousness and Dyspepsia.

Is a strictly vegetable preparation and will CURE MALARIA, and all MALARIAL troubles.

Dr. S. H. Wise, of Boston, Ky. says: "Have practiced medicine 15 years, and find no equal to HERBINE as a Liver Regulator."

Dr. W. A. Baker, of Madison, Fla., says: "A bottle of HERBINE is worth more than $5.00 worth of Quinine in any family."

Acting on the Liver in a different way from any other medicine; it is a positive cure for Chronic Constipation and is cheaper than pills.

Its peculiar composition is such, that we guarantee to cure any case of Chills and Fever or Bilious Fever with one bottle.

It costs but 75 cents and each bottle contains over 40 average doses, making the cost less than two cents a dose. Would you ask for cheaper medicine? It is not a cure-all. But will cure any Liver, Bilious or Malarial Complaint. Manufactured by

The Herbine Co.
(Successors to Wm. Condell,) St. Louis, Mo.

mar 14-y

PISO'S CURE FOR

Piso's Cure for Consumption is also the best Cough Medicine.

If you have a Cough without disease of the Lungs, a few doses are all you need. But if you neglect this easy means of safety, the slight Cough may become a serious matter, and several bottles will be required.

CONSUMPTION

PISO'S REMEDY FOR CATARRH gives immediate relief. Catarrhal virus is soon expelled from the system, and the diseased action of the mucous membrane is replaced by healthy secretions.

The dose is small. One package contains a sufficient quantity for a long treatment.

CATARRH

A Cold in the Head is relieved by an application of Piso's remedy for Catarrh. The comfort to be got from it in this way is worth many times its cost.

Easy and pleasant to use.

Price, 50 cents. Sold by druggists or sent by mail.

E. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.

TWENTY-FIVE CENTS

nov22-y

ALLEG[illegible]R'S
GREAT REDUCTION IN PRI[illegible]!

[illegible]

WOMAN'S WORLD.

PLEASANT LITERATURE FOR FEMININE READERS.

THE FIRST TROUSERS.

Mrs. Livermore, the female suffrage agitator, tells this story of herself: "My husband was pastor of a small country parish before the war. We hadn't any more money than we could use. I had heard of a paper that was published in Washington called the National Era. The subscription price was $2.50, and we hadn't the money for it. My husband went away for three weeks. While he was gone I made him a pair of pantaloons. I had never made a pair and I had never made a buttonhole. When my husband came home I told him they had come and cost $3.50, and that I had paid for them. He put them on and pronounced them excellent, and it wasn't till he had worn them a week and they had been in the pulpit that I told him the secret. That's how I got the National Era. I don't know whether I ought to have taken this audience into my confidence or not. I've never told this story to any one before, and I don't want any of you to repeat it."

QUEEN VICTORIA'S YACHT.

The exquisite cleanliness of everything strikes one forcibly on board the Victoria and Albert. The deck is laid with cork floorcloth, over which, when the Queen is on board, a carpet is spread, and everything else that is to be seen is of pure white, with gilded relief work and silver mountings. There are very comfortable little sitting rooms on the promenade deck and behind the paddle wings, and there is also a dining saloon on the promenade deck, which has three big windows and a skylight. It is furnished in green morocco, and the ceiling is painted in white and gold.

The state apartments below are placed on either side of a corridor, and they are furnished with a very pretty chintz. The Queen's cabins are on the starboard side, and her sleeping apartments contain a large and old-fashioned but very comfortable looking bedstead, with pillars and canopy, and next is the dressing room, which was formerly Prince Albert's cabin, and it remains as he left it, his writing table and wardrobe never having been moved. Large maps hang on the walls. The cabins occupied by Princess Beatrice (or by any other Princess who happens to be traveling with the Queen) are aft of Her Majesty's quarters, and on the other side of the corridor are the cabins of the Princes and a large bath room. The breakfast room is in the after part of the vessel, and it has very large windows and is hung with the portraits of all the officers who have commanded the royal yacht. The drawing room is forward on the port side, and is furnished in bird's-eye maple, with a piano and several beautifully carved side tables. It is hung with portraits of members of the royal family, and in this room is a small library. The yacht is now lighted with electricity, except in the Queen's own cabins.

DEFINITENESS IN INVITATIONS.

It is an admirable custom to specify the date and length of time for which an invitation is given. This obviates all doubt as to whether it "will suit," and all fear of overstaying the time and thus wearing out the welcome. Moreover, such invitations, sent early enough to be of use, are much more apt to be accepted than those of the "glad-to-see-you-at-any-time" kind. I have a friend living in a distant State, says a writer in the Commercial Advertiser, who writes to me when she finds I am contemplating a visit, "I shall expect you to spend, at least, two weeks with me," and I find that I begin to plan the season's visiting around that two weeks—because it is definite. There is a feeling among some people that this is limiting one's hospitality. It really is only bringing it to a focus. Such an invitation is a good thing for both guest and hostess; it gives the former an opportunity to plan her visit in accordance with her hostess's convenience—a thought which will immeasurably enhance the pleasure of it—and it sometimes saves the latter from the infliction of a much prolonged visit, or oftener from one of undefined length.

There is a certain amount of labor involved in every visit received, but it may, by good management and a right conception of what hospitality is, be reduced to the minimum. If we could once get hold of the idea that what our visitors want is, not our fine surroundings nor our loaded tables, but ourselves, it would do much to lessen the labor of entertaining. Prepare for a guest as much as possible before she comes; then afterward settle yourself to enjoy the visit and let the visitor do the same. This is true hospitality. If, for instance, you are entertaining two elderly aunts from the country don't give them rich dishes, which their simple habits have not prepared them to enjoy. Don't drag them, exhausted but heroically compliant, to park, zoological garden, picture gallery and music hall, finally winding up with a formal reception in their honor. Entertain them in a quiet way, reserving all this for gayer and younger guests.

FASHION NOTES.

Rust color will be fashionable during the winter.

There are silk brocades in which no velvet appears.

Zouave jackets will be a feature of winter fashions.

Long cloaks are in great favor for both large and small girls.

Green and mahogany combine in some of the newest costumes.

Silk petticoats are now lined with flannel. This obviates the necessity of wearing more than one.

Very dressy mantles are made of armure, ornamented with rich silk and gold or silver passementerie.

Many of the new evening toilets are made with full, straight skirts, all decoration appearing upon the bodice and sleeves.

Armures, corded silks, and brocades are in greater use for elegant toilets for evening than rich fabrics of any other description.

The new felt bonnets are beautifully soft and fine and dyed in all the autumn shades, dark, pale and natural, to match street costumes.

The Swiss girdle is a late fancy. It is made in jet beads, row over row, with a fringe of jet falling over the hips. The effect is particularly pretty with accordion-plaited gowns.

Governor Fitz-Hugh Lee, of Virginia, is growing so stout that he is scarcely able to mount horses without assistance.

WORDS OF WISDOM.

It is a good time to be cheerful.

It is the little things in life that worry us.

Labor is the divine law of our existence; repose is desertion and suicide.

Strong thoughts are iron nails driven in the mind that nothing can draw out.

The weakest spot in every man is where he thinks himself to be the wisest.

The most completely lost of all days is the one on which we have not laughed.

Our grand business is not to see what lies dimly at a distance, but to do what lies clearly at hand.

The true reply to the question, Is life worth living, is: It all depends on the kind of life you live.

Beware of him who meets with a friendly mien, and, in the midst of a cordial salutation, seeks to avoid your glance.

Although it is dangerous to have too much knowledge of certain subjects, it is still more dangerous to be totally ignorant of them.

Conquer thyself. Till thou hast done that, thou art a slave; for it is almost as well for thee to be in subjection to another's appetite as thine own.

Look not mournfully into the past; it comes not back again. Wisely improve the present; it is thine. Go forth to meet the shadowy future without fear and a manly heart.

There are few husbands whom the wife cannot win in the long run by patience and love, unless they are harder than the rocks which the soft water penetrates in time.

An honest person can always wait for vindication of character, for during the interval such can enjoy their own conscience far better than he who would seek to injure another from a spirit of of envy.

There is a burden of care in getting riches; fear in keeping them; temptation in using them; guilt in abusing them; sorrow in losing them; and a burden of account at last to be given up concerning them.

There is no better evidence of narrow-mindedness than to observe a person so wedded to a particular method of reform that the same result would be despised by reason of another method being employed to accomplish it.

Puss Before the Footlights.

During the most interesting situations in "Clover" at Palmer's Theatre on Saturday evening a large tiger-marked cat, which belongs to the stage door-keeper, walked on the stage, just inside the footlights. The cat proceeded leisurely until it came to the centre of the stage, and then it turned toward the audience, at the same time directly facing the musical director, Herr Nowak, and began solemnly to stroke its whiskers. The house was crowded and the scene in the opera absorbing, but this was too much for the audience, and a ripple of laughter began to spread. Herr Nowak's fat sides began to shake with suppressed merriment; De Wolf Hopper looked at Eugene Oudin as if he would have given a thousand dollars for one good shout of laughter; Marion Manola took refuge in her black lace veil, while plump little Annie Myers grew rosier and rosier until she seemed about to have an apoplectic stroke. Von Suppe was forgotten; all eyes were on—the cat.

Suddenly with a bang the kettledrums rattled, the violins shrieked in unison, and with a great start Herr Nowak gave a vigorous sweep of his baton, the singers recovered themselves, and the cat, with tail in the air and each individual hair on its body standing erect, turned and cleared the space to the wings with one leap.—New York Sun.

Muscular Mexican Carriers.

Mr. W. A. Croffut relates, in the American Anthropologist, that of half a dozen porters whom he saw resting at a Mexican railway station—"One had a sofa on his shoulders, strapped on I could not see how; another bore a tower of chairs locked into each other and rising not less than eight feet above his head; another carried a hen-coop with a dozen or twenty hens, and others were conveying laden barrels and various household good. They had come, they said, from San Luis Potosi, not less than fifty miles distant." The carriers were almost always in sight from the car windows of the Mexican National Railroad, and were declared by President Purdy to be its rivals. If it were not for them, the country would treble its railroads in the next year, and the roads would double their profits. "We are combating the custom of centuries. Those fellows carry on their backs to Mexico the entire crops of great haciendas far over the mountains."

He Missed the Stimulant.

Said a New Haven business man the other evening: "On my way to my office this morning I felt miserable, and when I took my seat at my desk I hadn't energy enoug to hold a pen. I had slept well and had not been out of health in any way and could not account for the condition in which I found myself. After doing the little work that was imperatively necessary I started for a walk, hoping that exercise would help me. I dragged myself along until I had walked three miles and then again tried to attend to business; but it was no use, and at noon I went home, doubting whether I should be able to come down town again. On the dinner table I found the cup of coffee I had forgotten in the morning. Down it went the first thing, and from then until now I have been feeling like a bird."—New Haven Palladium.

Horseshoes That Fell From Heaven.

Frank Morris, of Worthington, Wood County, W. Va., is the owner of a horse whose shoes literally dropped from the heavens. Some years ago a meteoric stone fell on the banks of Jenny's Creek, in Wayne County, and was divided up among the people of the neighborhood as soon as it was discovered. The aerolite contained a large percentage of iron, and some of the fragments were procured by Morris, who had a blacksmith friend work them up into a set of horseshoes. The iron is very hard, and the shoes have already outlasted two or three ordinary sets.

Obvious.

"How sleep the brave who sink to rest
By all their country's wishes blest?"
The answer is obvious:
About the same as those poor souls
Who get [illegible] under the [illegible].
—St. Paul Pioneer-Press.

AGRICULTURAL.

TOPICS OF INTEREST RELATING TO FARM AND GARDEN.

MILK TWICE A DAY.

According to no less an authority in dairy matters than Colonel F. D. Curtis, the old-fashioned notion to milk only in the morning after cows drop off in their yield is a mistake. If worth milking at all a cow is worth milking twice a day. She will not only give more, but the milk will be of a great deal better quality. It does not do milk any good to remain in the udder so many hours after it is secreted, and it does not do the cow any good. Just why the last milk drawn is the best is unexplained. But we know it is the richest, and if the reason is because it is the last secreted, then the twenty-four hours' rule of milking is a poor one in more than one sense—poor in quantity and quality.—New York World.

COLORING BUTTER.

The practice of coloring butter is to be condemned for two reasons: It is fraudulent, and therefore dishonest, and it is illegal. It misrepresents the character of the butter, and the majority of consumers are deceived by it. It is unnecessary, and is practiced solely to please the eye and to meet the popular delusion that high-colored butter is superior in quality to the pale-colored. An excellent color may be procured by adequate and judicious feeding and the keeping of cows whose butter has the desirable tint. The oleomargarine law provides that any mixture of oil with butter renders it liable to the tax. As penal statutes are to be strictly construed, the quantity of the oil mixed is not an element to be considered, otherwise where could the line be drawn? So that when a colored oil is mixed with the cream to tint the butter it is, in fact and in truth, an adulteration, which renders the maker of the mixture liable to the onerous tax on oleomargarine, and puts him in a dangerous position of liability to prosecution. If the potash coloring solutions are used instead of the oil, one is on the other horn of the dilemma, which is equally sharp, and prosecution for adulterating food would impend.—New York Times.

FEEDING FOR BACON.

There is something else to be aimed for in breeding and feeding hogs besides the amount of lard they will make. The best market at present is reserved for good bacon hogs. Buyers understand that a hog fed nothing but corn, while he may be heavy is coarse, soft and spongy. A hard constitution is what the successful breeder should try to attain. Pick out the best breeding stock, neat, plump and well boned but avoid the coarse lubberly stock. Vary the food from corn to the more nitrogenous foods, as rye, oats, bran, shorts, middlings, oil meal, grass and clover, with an ample supply of good ashes, which is one of the best bone builders and worm destroyers. We should make a distinction between feeding and fattening. Corn furnishes very little health sustaining, flesh-producing food; it is made up so largely of carbonaceous material that fat is almost its only product. After the pigs are well grown and have good strong frames and constitutions they may be fed on corn with profit. But even then care should be taken or over feeding in one direction will injure their health. Hog cholera is often a proof of bad feeding, and always takes the most hold on constitutions weakened by constant corn diet.—Farm, Field and Stockman.

PREPARATION AND CARE OF CUTTINGS.

It does not seem to be generally understood, says R. G. Newton, in the American Agriculturist, that nearly all varieties of cuttings can be easily callused or rooted before it is time to plant them in the spring. The cuttings are made in autumn after the leaves fall, and tied firmly in little bunches of fifty or one hundred each. Each bundle should be marked by using two slips of pine, painted on one side with white lead, or yellow ochre, and the name distinctly written with a lead pencil in the fresh paint. This is covered by the other slip and the two are tied together with a piece of thread. This is firmly tied in the bundle and it will not be necessary to guess at the name of the cuttings. They are stored through the winter either by placing on a bed of moist earth, butt end down, or in a trench two feet wide and four inches deeper than the height of the cuttings. The cuttings are placed compactly in this trench, butt end up, and covered with three or four inches of rich garden soil. When the ground begins to freeze, they are covered deeply with stable manure, straw or leaves, putting on enough to keep the frost from the cuttings. In the spring this manure is removed, and the soil over the cuttings leveled. If it gets dry it is sprinkled with water and kept moist, but not wet, and when the time comes to plant them most varieties will have good roots started, while the buds are dormant, and when planted they are more sure to grow than if not so treated. The trench should be made on ground where water does not stand. For some of the choicer varieties of grapes, or other cuttings wanted early, a cold frame placed over the trench in the spring, after the manure is taken off, will forward them several days earlier.

FARM AND GARDEN NOTES.

The moon is never right while the seed-bed is cloddy.

Country roads are too often paved with good intentions.

No man ever reaped foul wheat from clean ground and clean seed.

The price of butter is improving. Have you kept your cows in condition to enable you to reap the benefit of this improvement? If not, why not?

Let the hogs clean up the waste apples and peaches under the trees, and there will be fewer waste fruit next year. There will also be better hogs this year.

You cannot increase your products without increasing your expenses; but production increases at a faster rate than expenses increase. Herein is the greater profit of good farming.

If you can find nothing better to hold the top on a stack of hay, a few hills of corn pulled up by the roots and tied together at the tips, when hung over the stack at proper distances will answer very well.

It is of no use to expect to make money in the chicken business unless you are willing to watch early and late, and unless you are fond of poultry. The details are minute, but each one is important, and they all lead to success if rightly followed.

HOUSEHOLD MATTERS.

IN THE MATTER OF MOTHS.

More than one hundred and fifty years ago Reaumur, observing that clothing moths never attacked the wool and hair on living animals, inferred that the natural odor of the wool, or the oily matter in it, was distasteful to them, says Clothier and Furnisher. Consequently he rubbed various garments with the wool of fresh pelts, and also wet other garments with the water in which wool had been washed, and found that they were never attacked by moths. Experiments with tobacco smoke and the odors of spirits of turpentine showed that both were equally destructive, but it was necessary to close the rooms very tightly and keep the fumes very dense in them for twenty-four hours to obtain satisfactory results.

Chests of cedar or sprigs of this tree are so disagreeable to them that they will not deposit their eggs where this odor is at all strong, but should the eggs be laid before the garments are packed away the odor will not prevent the hatching of the eggs, nor the destructive work of the larvæ afterward. Clothing may also be protected from moths by packing it in stout cotton or paper bags, made perfectly tight, but this must be done before the moths appear on the wing.

TO BROIL A BEEFSTEAK.

The only way to make a beefsteak delicious is to broil it, and the only way to get the full benefit of it is to take pains in broiling. The first requisite is a perfect broiler; second, a good, clear fire, either wood or coal; third, a good steak. My way of broiling a stake is as follows: I use a cast iron broiler, circular in form, convex, with radiators three quarters of an inch in height at regular intervals, with a raised opening at the top of the cone; a fluted gutter passes around the broiler to receive the drip. Now comes the secret. There is a tin cover, deep enough not to touch the steak, with four half inch holes in the top and a wooden knob in the centre to handle it with. Now for the steak. It should be just what one can afford and never be less than one inch in thickness. I remove the bone and the thin skin from the outside of the fat and make little incisions to prevent curling. If for four people, with different tastes, I cut in four equal parts; now, with a small piece of suet, grease the tops of the radiators, lay the steak on in its original shape, now place the cover on, carefully remove the stove lid, place the broiler over the opening, and proceed to broil to suit the taste of each by raising the cover. I can govern the broiling, as a portion can be used at any time. By this way all the rich juices of the meat are retained. The dish to receive the broiled steak should be hot and covered. No salt should be used until the steak is removed from the broiler, than a liberal amount of butter should be spread on (not previously melted, as heat has a tendency to make it rancid), and salt to taste and serve hot. The art once acquired you will never eat a steak broiled any other way.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Omelet with stuffed olives and buttered maroons is a breakfast delicacy served by imported cooks.

Turnips, carrots and onions should not be split, but sliced in rings across, as they cook thus sooner.

Clean the inside of vinegar cruets and bottles by putting in crushed eggshells with a little water and shaking.

To prevent cake adhering to the pan when baked, scatter a little flour over the greased surface before pouring in the dough.

Careful diet will do much toward removing the greasy appearance from your skin. In addition put a little borax in the water used for bathing your face.

Consumptives will find relief from using, daily, glycerine and powdered willow charcoal. Proportions: One part of charcoal to two parts of pure glycerine.

Slumber blankets of silk plush sell for $30, but they are luxurious. One can dream in them, live in them and use them to drape an easel or a divan, or picture or a piano.

To cure wrinkles, take a needle or other sharp instrument and draw it along the wrinkle, just hard enough to bring blood, then let it heal and the wrinkle will entirely disappear.

New sofa pillows are filled with down and finished with a folded ruffle of some plain colored silk. For the case an artist pattern or Pompadour design is used and the leading shade in the flower matched in the plain silk.

Onions should be soaked in salted warm water previous to cooking to partly remove any strong odor they may possess. Peas, string beans, and green corn should not be prepared for cooking until about ready to be used.

To clean papered walls: Wipe down with a flannel cloth tied over a broom or brush. Cut a thick piece of stale bread and rub down with this. Begin at the top and go straight down. Care must, of course, be taken not to wear upon the paper.

Have all medicines in one place—a box, drawer or chest—and always keep all therein. Have each member of a family understand where it is and what it is and what it is for, and have your rolls of linen, cotton and flannel in a handy place easily got at when needed.

To launder red table linen, use tepid water with a little powdered borax, which serves to set the color. Wash the linen separately and quickly, using very little soap; rinse in tepid water containing a little boiled starch; dry in the shade, and iron when nearly dry.

There is nothing better for a cut than powdered resin. Pound it until fine and put it in an empty clean pepper box with perforated top. Then you can easily sift it out on the cut, and put a soft cloth around the injured member and wet with cold water once in a while. It will prevent inflammation and soreness.

When new lamp chimneys are bought, place in a kettle of cold water, let it come to a boil, then set back of stove, where it will gradually cool. This is an excellent toughening process. All glassware, dishes, tumblers and the like treated this way will break less easily. Keep the kettle covered tightly until the water has had time to cool.

Oil of peppermint in water diluted even to one part in 150,000,000 will kill cockroaches in an hour, they dying in convulsions. One drop of the oil placed under a bell jar covering a cultivation of cholera bacilli will kill both bacilli and spores in forty-eight hours. It is also [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] by [illegible] and [illegible].

SHIPPING CATTLE

CONVEYING LIVE STOCK FROM NEW YORK TO ENGLAND.

Floating Corrals and Nautical Cowboys—Interesting Facts and Figures From the Shipper's Contract.

While the killing of cattle in the West and the shipment of frozen beef to the East instead of the live animals has played the mischief with the slaughter house business in New York, the shipment of live cattle to Europe remains one of the most profitable branches the trade of cargo carrying steamships. Not a week passes but from one to half a dozen steamers leave this port with a deck load of cattle on board. The details of a shipment of cattle are interesting.

The ship is prepared to receive them by building a lot of substantial sheds all over the deck, except where gangways or alleys are left to enable the men who care for the cattle—the nautical cowboys—to get around and feed them. Of course, too, hatches must be left unobstructed. The bulwarks of these ships are seldom less than two feet high. The bulwark is carried up by means of substantial wooden stanchions and boards to a height of six feet. This forms the outer wall of the sheds. A board roof is spread from this inboard eight feet wide, that is supported by a substantial framework. The inboard side of the roof of the long shed—it extends from the poop to the forecastle—is a foot or more higher than at the rail so as to give it a proper pitch. Along the front or inboard side of the shed is a strong rail, about as high as the top of an ordinary manger. When the sheds are full of cattle the heads of the animals are fastened to this rail by ropes of sufficient length to enable the cattle to reach down to the deck for food. The whole shed is divided into stalls not less than ten feet eight inches long, and each stall holds four steers. The stalls are divided simply by extending rails from the head rail to the bulwark. The inboard side of the shed is open. The deck becomes a floating corral. Where the deck is wide enough and unobstructed amidships sheds are sometimes built there as well. If the deck below the upper one is of iron so as absolutely prevent leakage through on the cargo below, the 'tween decks may be divided into stalls and filled with cattle. The process of taking the cattle on board is simple. They are nearly always fat stock, and not the wild long horns, and they are therefore docile. They are driven on to the pier and then up a gangway in single file to the deck. A somewhat steep gangway leads to the lower deck. The cattle are guided to the stalls by the marine cowboys, who make them fast in their places, putting up the rails that divide the stalls as fast as the cattle are in place. These rails keep the cattle from slewing around fore and aft and interfering with each other.

The contract between the ship and the shipper provides first of all that the cattle are at the owner's risk. He must protect himself from loss by the sinking of the ship or by the throwing of the cattle overboard in time of distress, or the death of the cattle from any cause en route, by insurance. The insurance people inspect each ship and see that the cattle are properly housed and provided for. The ship provides all the fresh water the animals can drink. The shipper must provide his own food, and this he does by putting on an abundance of baled hay and corn in the ear. He is sure to put on a plenty, because the ship carries it free, and should any surplus remain the ship delivers it free on the other side, where it may be sold at a profit.

The cattle are cared for by the shipper's men, who are carried free by the ship to the number of one man to each twenty-five cattle. These cowboys are also returned free, either on the same ship or by steerage passage on a liner.

It is part of the contract that the ship shall sail immediately after the cattle are on board, weather and tide permitting. At sea the cattle are necessarily fed well, and at regular intervals, to keep them in health. The steamer sails with all the fresh water she has capacity for, and when this is gone she furnishes distilled water. The usual contract is by the head. The shipper pays from $15 to $25 a head for the transportation of his cattle, but just at present the rate is much nearer the higher figure than the lower. The freight is always paid in advance.

Those who have seen the cattle arrive out—the usual landing place in England is at Deptford—say that it is apparent that the stalls are not cleaned during the ten or fifteen days it takes for a passage, but that the cattle are well bedded with hay. They arrive out with no bruises generally. In one case mentioned to a reporter the ship had rolled so that she had shifted her cargo, and came into port with a heavy list to starboard, but the cattle were in excellent condition, some of them quite fat enough for Christmas beef, and all in about as good condition as when they were shipped. As they were obliged to stand up nearly all of the time during the voyage, their legs were generally swelled somewhat on reaching Deptford, but spectators say that they walk up the gangway from the lower decks and thence down on the pier without difficulty. They are turned out to pasture for a few days to rest, and are then ready for the slaughter house. It is asserted on the best authority that American cattle arrive in Deptford in much better condition than the Irish cattle do from the short passage to Scotch and English ports.

Cattle-carrying steamers vary in capacity from fifty to sixty on the upper deck only to upward of 600, which are distributed on two decks. More cargoes of less than 300 are shipped than of larger ones. The steamers always carry grain in the hold. It is always provided that no greater weight of grain shall be taken on board than the registered tonnage of the ship. This is to make sure that the ship shall not be loaded down too deep.—New York Sun.

School Gardens.

School gardens, i. e., gardens for practical instruction in raising trees, vegetables and fruits, are being added to nearly all the public and private schools in Austria. There are now already 7760 such in existence in the Austrian monarchy alone, Hungary not included. They also comprise botanical museums and appliances for bee keeping.

M. Pasteur recently declared with much emphasis that [illegible] [illegible] is never [illegible]. The [illegible] producing [illegible] is [illegible] to [illegible] [illegible].

AMONG CANNIBALS.

AN EXPLORER'S ADVENTURES IN QUEENSLAND.

White Men's Flesh Not Relished Because It Is Too Salty—Habits of the Savages.

Explorer Lumholtz has just returned from Queensland, Australia, says the Pall Mall Gazette. He devoted a year to the cannibal tribes inhabiting a terribly wild tract of country a couple of hundred miles north of Townsville. Mr. Lumholtz says:

"To begin with, don't imagine that because the tribes are cannibals they are therefore loathsome or repulsive in appearance. On the contrary, many of the men are physically fine fellows, and some of the women have pleasing features. Then, when you call them cannibals you must remember that human flesh is a very rare luxury, for they only eat foreign tribes. Native tribes, I mean, for the flesh of the white man is nasty to their palate. He has a salty flavor which is very disagreeable to them." "That was lucky for you." "Well, no; if I were once dead it mattered little to me how my body was disposed of. But being without morals and absolutely indifferent to human life they would have killed me if they had dared for the sake of the tobacco and the few odds and ends I had with me. When I joined them at first they were friendly enough. They were a good bit afraid of the white man, and for an inch of tobacco apiece were willing to serve me. Then they respected what they called my baby gun—my revolver—which I fired off every night. But in time their fears wore off, and there were several attempts to tomahawk me, but I was lucky. I had a splendid hunter with me, who twice tried. I should have shot him dead, but I was a little loath to do so, as I was very keen about getting that specimen of the tiger marsupial, so I tolerated him. Might is right among them. If I had shot a few of them my dangers would have been considerably lessened."

"To resume about the man-eating, I never saw a cannibal feast, but every night in their huts the talk was of women and human flesh. Those were the stock subjects of conversation." "Not very different from highly cultured Europeans, Mr. Lumholtz! Women and cooking." "I was able to understand them, for I had learnt the language, and I gathered that white man was no good—too salty. Chinaman was not half bad. He fed on rice, and had a tender vegetable flavor about him, like a mealy cauliflower. But of all varieties there was nothing so sweet as a native baby—so sweet, so juicy, so fat, so tender. Old men and women were naturally tough and sinewy. And the favorite parts were the thigh and the flesh of the hand. The cannibal blacks have no religion, no ceremonial, no idols, and the only approach to a charm was a bit of human fat wrapped up in grass and tied round the neck as good luck to your hunting.

"If you want a wife, and have money, which is tobacco, or a handkerchief, or a tomahawk—I should tell you that these articles percolate through the densest bush, and over the wildest ranges—you can buy a wife. You may inherit a wife by agreement. You may get your dead brother's wife, but the commonest method of acquiring a wife is to go and help yourself. If you are a big fellow you walk into the hut and take the lady. Then there is a row, and you have to fight a duel with a wooden broadsword, and the women come down to the fight and howl and screech and back their men, and there is a terrible to-do. It is the women who cause all the rows, all the wars, all the feuds. It is always some Helen and some Paris." "And do the ladies like a change of husbands?" "They go, and don't seem to mind it in the least." "How do the men regard the women, then?" "As useful drudges, to do all the work and make them comfortable. The black fellow hates work. He only cares for hunting. He hates to rise until the sun is well up in the heavens and the dew has disappeared. Then he and his friends depart into the forest and hunt, seldom bringing home the food but devouring it in the bush. It is one of the remarkable things that the old men have always the prettiest wives. There are no Chiefs. One man is as good as another, but when a political crisis arises the old men are consulted, and that is why the old men are the most influential. As for the young fellow, he often has to do without a wife until he is thirty.

The President's Primeval Neighbors

President Harrison has had some interesting neighbors at Deer Park. They are the mountaineers from the Backbone mountain, who come over to the village twice a year driving a pair of stolid, heavy-eyed oxen attached to a primitive sled, for the aboriginal of the Backbone can make a sled of logs, although he cannot turn a wheel. Other noted neighbors are the mighty hunters of Meadow and Orange mountains, they who have lived in their log cabins for nearly one hundred years, trapping, hunting and fishing. Seen in the village rarely are these mountain Nimrods, for they have no need of money and rarely barter. Once in a while one of them will come to the village, a woman often, astride an old mare, carrying home-made paniers, with a firkin of butter or a bucket of eggs. If the chief magistrate of the United States should walk three miles to the west of his daughter's cottage he would find a way of living as primitive as that among the Indians when white men first touched these shores. He would see a plough which is a crude triangle of wood, a sled made of the untrimmed boughs of trees, and he might have cracked a whip as simple as those used in the biblical days, for the native's ox goad is a tree branch with the pith taken out half way down and the bark twisted into a lash.—[Philadelphia News.

It Don't Pay

To experiment with uncertain remedies, when afflicted with any of the ailments for which Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is recommended, as it is so positively certain in its curative effects as to warrant its manufacturers in guaranteeing it to benefit or cure, or money paid for it is returned. It is warranted to cure all blood, skin and scalp diseases, salt-rheum, tetter, and all scrofulous sores and swellings, as well as consumption (which is scrofula of the lungs) if taken in time and given a fair trial.

Don't hawk, hawk, blow, spit and disgust everybody with your offensive breath, but use Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy and end it.

Powder and liberty are like heat and moisture; where they are well mixed everything prospers, where they are single they are destructive.

A man who has practiced medicine for 40 years ought to know salt from sugar; read what he says:

Toledo, O., Jan. 10,

Messrs. F. J. Cheney & Co.—Gentlemen:—I have been in the general practice of medicine for most 40 years, and would say that in all my practice and experience, have never seen a preparation that I could prescribe with as much confidence of success as I can Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by you. Have prescribed it a great many times and its effect is wonderful, and would say in conclusion that I have yet to find a case of Catarrh that it would not cure, if they would take it according to directions.

Yours Truly,
L. L. Gorsuch, M. D.
Office, 215 Summit

We will give $100 for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured with Hall's Catarrh Cure. Taken internally.
F. J. Cheney & Co., Props., Toledo,
Sold by Druggists, 75c.

In all things throughout the world the men who look for the crooked will see the crooked, and the men who look for the straight will see the straight.

Did You Read

The large advertisement of The Youth's Companion which we published last week? This remarkable paper has the phenomenal circulation of 430,000 copies weekly. No other journal is more welcomed by old and young in the families throughout the land. The publishers make a special offer once a year, and all who subscribe now will send the paper free to January 1, 1890, and for a full year from that date. The subscription price is $1.75. Address,

The Youth's Companion, Boston,

"Lucy Hinton."

Hark! the sound of many voices,
Jubilant in gladdest song,
And full many a heart rejoices
As the chorus floats along:
"Hail the Queen of all Tobaccos!"
How the happy voices blend,
"Finest and purest among her fellows—
Man's staunch and true friend."

Oregon, the Paradise of Farmers.

Mild, equable climate, certain and abundant crops. Best fruit, grain, grass and stock country in the world. Full information free. Address Oreg. Im'igra'tn Board, Portland,

We recommend "Tansill's Punch" Cig

Catarrh in the Head

Originates in scrofulous taint in the blood. Hence the proper method by which to cure catarrh is to purify the blood. Its many disagreeable symptoms and the danger of developing into bronchitis or that terribly fatal disease, consumption, are entirely removed by Hood's Sarsaparilla, which cures catarrh by purifying the blood; it also tones up the system and greatly improves the general health. Try the "peculiar medicine."

"I have used Hood's Sarsaparilla for catarrh, with very satisfactory results. I received more permanent benefit from it than from any other remedy I ever tried."—M. E. Read, of A. Read & Son, Wauseon, Ohio.

Hood's Sarsaparilla
Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.
100 Doses One Dollar

Ely's Cream Balm
THE CURE FOR CATARRH
HAY-FEVER
50 Cts.
COLD IN HEAD
ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren St., New York.

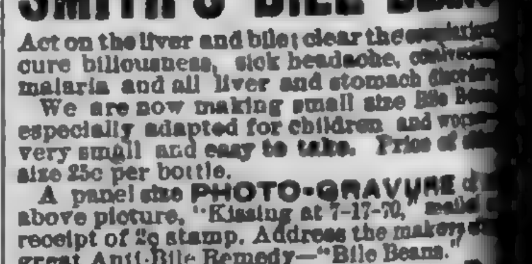
SMITH'S BILE BEANS

Act on the liver and bile; clear the complexion; cure biliousness, sick headache, costiveness, malaria and all liver and stomach disorders.

We are now making small size Bile Beans especially adapted for children and women—very small and easy to take. Price of either size 25c per bottle.

A panel size PHOTO-GRAVURE of the above picture, "Kissing at 7-17-70," mailed on receipt of 2c stamp. Address the makers of the great Anti-Bile Remedy—"Bile Beans."

J. F. SMITH & CO., St. Louis,

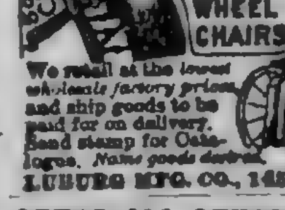


THE WONDERFUL LUBURG CHAIR
COMBINING 5 ARTICLES OF FURNITURE.
BABY COACHES
INVALID SUPPLIES AND WHEEL CHAIRS

We retail at the lowest wholesale factory prices, and ship goods to be paid for on delivery. Send stamp for Catalogue. Name goods desired.

LUBURG MFG. CO., 145 N. 8th St., Phila.

AFTER ALL OTHERS FAIL CONS
DR. LOB
329 North Fifteenth St., Philadelphia, Pa. the treatment of Blood Poisons, Skin Er Nervous Complaints, Bright's Disease, Str Impotency and kindred diseases, no matter long standing or from what cause orig
Ten days' medicines furnished by mail FRE
Send for Book on SPECIAL Diseases.



TOWER'S FISH BRAND
This Trade Mark is on The Best Waterproof Coat In the world.
Send for Illustrated Catalogue, Free. A. J. Tower, B

$7 FOR A Double Breech-L

Breech-Loaders, $4 to $50.
Winchester 15-shot Rifles, $11 to $25.
Breech-loading Rifles, $1.65 to $13.
Self-cocking Revolvers, Nickel-plated,
Send 2c. stamp for 80-page Catalogue and save $5 per GRIFFITH & SEMPLE, 512 W. Main, Louisvi

DROPSY
TREATED FREE.
Positively Cured with Vegetable R
Have cured thousands of cases. Cure patients pronounced hopeless by best physicians. From first dose symptoms disappear; in ten days at least two-thirds all symptoms removed. Send for free book of testimonials of miraculous cures. Ten days' treatment free by mail. If you order trial, send 10c. in stamps to pay postage. Dr. H. H. Green & Sons, Atlanta,

OPIUM and WHISKEY H
ITS cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE.
ATLANTA, Ga. B. M. WOOLLEY,
Office 65½ Whi

HOME STUDY. Book-keeping, Business Penmanship, Arithmetic, Short-hand thoroughly taught by MAIL. Circular Bryant's College, 457 Main St., Buffal

$25 AN HOUR made by our Ag THE DR. PEI MEDICAL CO., Richmond

OPIUM HABIT. Only Certain easy CURE in the World J. L. STEPHENS, Leb

PALMS BUS. COLLEGE, Phil adelphia Scholarship and positions, $50. Write for

I prescribe and fully endorse Big G as the only specific for the certain cure of this disease.
G. H. INGRAHAM, M. D., Amsterdam,
We have sold Big G for many years, and it has given the best of satisfaction.
D. R. DYCHE & CO., Chi
$1.00. Sold by Dr
A. N. K.

PISO'S CURE FOR
Best Cough Medicine. [illegible] Cures where all else fails. [illegible] [illegible] Children take it without objection. [illegible]

Rates of Advertising.

One dollar per square, of one inch or less, for the first, and fifty cents for each subsequent insertion.

Inches.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
[illegible]	$ 3 00	$ 7 00	$ 11 [illegible]
[illegible]	7 00	11 [illegible]	16 00
[illegible]	10 00	15 00	[illegible]
[illegible]	12 50	20 00	[illegible]
[illegible]	15 00	22 50	[illegible]
[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]

The Chilton View.

W. M. LAWRENCE, Editor and Publisher. "WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION." TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME IX. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 21, 1889. NUMBER 4.

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line each insertion.

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be headed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

☞ The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

Caheen's Grand Introductory Sale

OF

NEW FALL DRESS GOODS!

EVERYTHING NEW, BRIGHT AND SPARKLING.

New Silks, New Velvets, New Trimmings, New Henriettas, New Brilliantes, New Drap D'Almas, New Dress Fringes and New High Art Production Novelty Combination Suits.

Early as it is, we are selling quantities of Fall Dress Goods, probably because we now have a great assortment at very attractive prices. New goods are arriving daily and we will beyond the slightest shadow of a doubt have the largest, finest and best assorted stock ever shown in Birmingham.

THE SULTAN'S CITY.

AN AMERICAN WRITER'S VISIT TO CONSTANTINOPLE.

Narrow Streets of the Turkish Capital—The Baggage Carriers—A Multitude of Dogs—Oriental Frauds.

CONSTANTINOPLE as a city is quite different from any other I have seen, writes Oliver Optic. As travelers have remarked, from a distance it presents a beautiful appearance, and from this aspect one might expect to realize there some of the dreams of Oriental magnificence. But as soon as the visitor lands, the illusion begins to dissolve, for one could hardly find a more dirty or disagreeable place on the face of the earth.

Most of the streets are not more than eight feet wide, which affords only about space enough for the mud and the dogs. Carriages and omnibuses are not to be obtained in Constantinople, and the only way to get to the hotel is on foot. Pera is the quarter where foreigners reside, and the hotels are to be found there. From the landing place on the Golden Horn, the mouth of the stream flowing into the Bosphorous, on each side of which the city is built, the narrow street seems to lead to the top of the hill at an angle of about forty-five degrees. It is slippery with mud and offal, and it is a hard road to travel."

A DONKEY IN CONSTANTINOPLE.

Baggage is carried by porters, who have a sort of backboard with a shelf, upon which the trunks rests. The traveler follows him as well as he can. He has not gone far before he encounters a Turk leading a donkey or a mule with a pair of panniers across his back, each of them filled with cordwood or some other commodity. There is only space enough for that beast of burden and his load, and the only thing the walking man can do is to dodge into the first convenient doorway, or break into the midst of a family of Moslems squatting on the floor. The Rue de Pera is wider, but hardly broad enough to permit two loaded mules to pass abreast of each other. I reached it in safety by great fortune, but I had hardly touched its pavement before a mule loaded with joists, twenty feet long or more, put in a claim for possession of the entire thoroughfare. The joists were crossed at his shoulders, one end projecting beyond his head and the other dragging on the pavement behind him. The mule had it all his own way, and was as independent as a "pig on ice." But the wayfarer may drop into a shop on this street, and if he don't "talk Turkey" he may resist the importunate appeals of the salesman to purchase.

I have not the least idea how many dogs there are in Constantinople, but I should think they could compete with the human inhabitants of the city. They are not noted for their beauty, and no dog fancier would be likely to go there to replenish his stock. In fact they are "yellow dogs," rather diminutive in size, covered with filth, mangy and ill-favored to the last degree.

The Turks have some sort of a superstition in regard to them, and though they do not feed or care for them, they protect them from destruction. Doubtless they are an important factor in whatever degree of health the city may enjoy, for they appear to be the only scavengers that are tolerated. They belong to no one, and they have to pick up their living from the offal thrown into the streets.

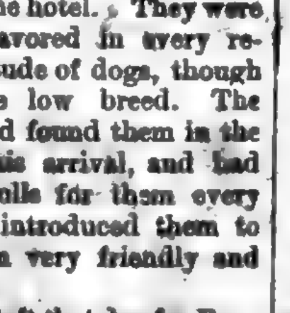
DOGS OF CONSTANTINOPLE.

Ordinarily the dogs are peaceable citizens, and make the best of their hard lot. It is said that the canines have certain quarters where they belong, and where they claim certain inherent rights and privileges, and are at all times ready to defend them in a pitched dog fight. In going about the city one occasionally hears the barks, yells and growls of such a conflict.

One night I was waked from my sleep by a most hideous din not far from the hotel. It sounded as though the entire million, more or less, of dogs in the city had come together in a general engagement. They seemed to be all yelping and growling in concert. Now and then the sounds indicated a sharp encounter, and one might suppose the brutes were tearing each other to pieces. They fought for a long time, though peace was made in the end and the racket ceased. I called upon my man Dimetri the next morning for an explanation. The territory of certain clans of canines near the hotel had been invaded by guerillas from another region, and this had caused the fight. He was unable to inform me whether or not the victory was with the invaders, but thought not, for the dogs of any quarter were generally strong enough to maintain their rights against all outsiders.

The Turks are too stoical to take any interest in these dog fights, which would be even better than candy and ice-cream to the gamins of our large cities, and they take no notice of them.

One morning I found the courier of Lord Somebody feeding a couple of yellow puppies in front of the hotel. They were cleaner and better favored in every respect than the multitude of dogs, though they were of some low breed. The courier told me he had found them in the street the day after his arrival, and had bought a couple of rolls for them every morning since. He introduced them to me, and I found them very friendly and pleasant.



THE TWO ORPHANS.

Their kind friend left that day for England, and when I found the two puppies at the door the next morning I bought the bread and fed them, and we became intimate friends. I had to drive off the other dogs that insisted upon sharing the banquet, and this was no easy task. I continued to feed them as long as I remained in the city. It was sad to think what became of them after I left, for doubtless they were absorbed in the general miserable dogdom of the place.

My companion was an elderly gentleman, and neither of us was inclined to travel long distances on foot. About the streets are saddle-horses in charge of Arabs. When the man finds a customer he mounts him on his steed and walks after him, urging forward the animal as occasion may require, for he is never one of the fancy barbs of the desert. We do not fancy this style of riding and we appealed to Dimetri for something more to our taste. The next morning he brought up a very handsome hooded phaeton and I suspected he had borrowed it of the Sultan; but he owned up he had procured it at a stable kept by a foreigner.

We passed through the Rue de Pera, occasionally causing a tremendous commotion among the foot passengers when we encountered another vehicle, or a donkey loaded with rocks, cordwood or lumber. We descended the hill, passing through a cemetery where the ruthless hand of improvement had made a road over the dead, till we came to a wide street near the Sultan's new palace. Beyond this we had to take to the fields for the want of a road. The Palace of the Sweet Waters was our objective point, and we got there. We had expected to gaze in wonder upon a scene of Oriental magnificence. The name of the place was certainly pretty enough to lead us to expect something rich and elegant.

The palace, however, was not equal to many of the [illegible] we had seen at home. There were a number of trenches stoned up to contain the "sweet waters," but there was none in them, sweet or otherwise. We looked upon it as a fraud. It's funny that the Sultan would [illegible] his own if he could sell to the [illegible] ride through any of the great cities of the United States.

The reader has had his palate tickled in imagination by the sherbets and confections of the Orient. I had, and I wanted to taste some of them. I asked Dimetri about sherbet. He took me to a shop and I drank sherbet, expecting to be thrilled as with the nectar of the gods. What do you think it was? Nothing but what the old ladies of New England call "raspberry shrub." It is very good for those who like it; but sherbet comes down from its seventh heaven after you have tasted it.

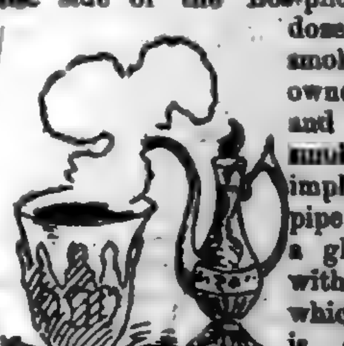
At the door of the monastery of dervishes Dimetri brought me a quantity of confections—fig paste, candy and other things of this sort. Not one of them was eatable; in fact the smell of these delicacies was more than enough. I threw them into the street when I went out, and the Moslem gamins scampered for them.

I had some curiosity to learn how the Turks lived, and Dimetri took me into a cafe near the mosque of St. Sophie. The first dish was made up from the fire before me. In a copper saucepan, like half a globe, was a large quantity of mutton fat, with bits of meat in it. In another kettle of the same kind was some rice, having a pinkish tint. On a small tea plate the attendant put a portion of this rice, spread it out, with a cavity in the middle. Then he emptied a ladeful of the mutton grease and two bits of meat into the middle of it. The odor was not pleasant, and a single taste of the compound was enough for this deponent. It smelled bad and tasted worse.

The next dish was pancakes, round balls of dough fried in fat. They were soaked with grease, and rancid grease at that. Press them a little and the fat flowed out in streams. These two dishes exhausted the bill of fare. I resorted to fruit.

An Armenian gentleman on the Bosphorus had told me that I had come in season for the best grapes of the year. I called for some of them, and up to the present moment they were the finest, the most delicious I ever tasted. The Turks sell them from great baskets all over the city for next to nothing. They look like the common Malaga grape, but the skins were hardly perceptible. The flavor was a little spicy, sweet, and rich enough to be the food of divinities. Though my worthy California companion insisted that they had better in his State, I have never tasted any that were equal to them.

Coffee is classed as an original Oriental dainty, and all have read about it in their story books of the East. We have all come to the belief that coffee in the land of its origin is another name for nectar. I went into a cafe in Scutari, on the Asiatic side of the Bosphorus. Half a dozen Turks were smoking chibouks, owned by the cafe and leased by the smokers. The implement is a pipe consisting of a glass urn, filled with water through which the smoke is drawn. The water is bubbling all the time, and the odor of the place is anything but agreeable. We called for coffee. It was a very small cup, no milk or sugar. It was half mud. Before drinking, the solid half of the mud is stirred up and the beverage is soft mud. Another illusion had "gone up." No more Turkish coffee for this Yankee.



TURKISH COFFEE.

A Sacrifice.

"Do you sell [illegible] here, Bub?" asked old Mrs. [illegible], entering the drug store.

"[illegible]," returned the boy, "[illegible]"

It will pay you to advertise with us.

Subscribe for this paper.

The Bird With a Broken Wing.

"I walked in the woodland meadows,
 Where sweet the thrushes sing,
And found on a bed of mosses
 A bird with a broken wing.
I healed its wound, and each morning
 It sang its old, sweet strain,
But the bird with the broken pinion
 Never soared as high again.

I found a young Life, broken
 By sin's seductive art,
And touched with a Christ-like pity,
 I took him to my heart.
He lived with a noble purpose,
 And struggled not in vain,
But the Life that sin had stricken
 Never soared as high again.

But the bird with a broken pinion
 Kept another from the snare,
And the Life that sin had stricken
 Raised another from despair.
Each loss has its compensation,
 There are healings for every pain,
But the bird with a broken pinion
 Never soars as high again."

BY STRATEGY.

Tom Robin, a young farmer, had just left Katie Field in the orchard where, with happy blushes suffusing her bonnie young face and shy glances from her merry blue eyes, she had promised to become his wife.

Tom knew that Farmer Field, Katie's father, had looked upon his coming to see Katie with disfavor, but so long as there were only dark glances to restrain him, he had continued his wooing until the gentle girl was won. Now, however, when he was sure that Katie loved him, he hastened to get her father's consent also, never dreaming but that it would be given, even if in a reluctant and grudging way.

Mr. Field was sitting on the porch smoking his pipe when Tom made his appearance.

"Hum," grunted the old man, "what can folks be wanting running around the neighborhood at this time of night?"

"I have come to ask your consent to marry Katie," replied the straight-forward Tom Robin.

"Well, you'll never get it."

"What have you against me? I am well able to take care of a wife, and I love Katie and she loves me and has promised to marry me."

"That doesn't matter," growled Mr. Field. "I've said you can't have her, and so you can't."

"Very well," said Tom dryly. "Nevertheless, if Katie is willing to marry me without your consent, I shall have no compunction in taking her away from you."

The old man sprang to his feet and shook his horny fist at Tom.

"If I catch you prowling around my premises after this," he cried, "I'll fill you so full of buckshot that you'll weigh a ton."

Just then Dick Field, Katie's brother, came out from the house, and in passing across the porch he gave Tom a nudge and wink, which the latter understood.

"All right, Mr. Field," said Tom smiling as he turned to walk away. "If you think that a murder will make your conscience feel any easier after the injustice you have done to your daughter and myself, to-night, you are at liberty to commit it, as far as I am concerned, for I shall certainly come again to see Katie."

"You cheeky young rascal!" Mr. Field shouted after Tom. "If you don't think I'll shoot, just come and try me."

In a roundabout way Tom returned to the orchard again, where he found that Katie had been joined by her brother Dick. Dick had been telling Katie of the reception their father had given Tom, and was laughing and teasing her about it when Tom appeared.

"And did papa threaten to shoot you, sure enough, Tom?" Katie asked, looking into his face with troubled eyes.

"I believe he said something to that effect," answered Tom, "but that was just to try to scare me away, you know."

"Don't fool yourself," put in Dick. "When daddy said he'd shoot, he meant it. So don't go and expose yourself unnecessarily, for when he says a thing he generally means it.

Tom and Katie knew the old fellow's obstinate character only too well, and had to admit that there was some danger of his carrying out his threat. Therefore it was agreed that Tom should stay away for some time, and Dick promised to carry all the messages that the lovers wished to send to one another.

* * * * *

It was on an evening some weeks later, when Dick Field and his sister Katie returned home from a shopping trip to the city, that Farmer Field had his eyes opened.

All this time the obstinate old man had chuckled to himself in thinking how his threat had kept Tom Robin away from his daughter. But that evening, in coming down from her room, where she had gone to deposit some of her purchases, Katie dropped a note on the stairs, which her father picked up and read. The note ran as follows:

DARLING KATIE,—I will be on hand at 10 o'clock tonight. Be ready. I will have the ladder concealed in a convenient place, and it will take only a few moments to raise it against your window. Then, sweet one, my strong arms will carry you to the ground, when, together, with all possible speed, we will hie us to the place where we will be made one in spite of cruel parents. Be brave, dear one, and all will be well.

Lovingly, TOM.

"Oh, that's your little game, is it, Tom Robin!" exclaimed Farmer Field, after perusing the contents of the note. Then he muttered grimly to himself: "But I guess I can keep awake till 10 o'clock and stop it. Shoot! Why, of course I'll shoot! I'll fix my gun right away. I'll just put in a charge of powder, and it will be fun to see the cheeky young rascal run when I blaze away.

For the next half hour the old man was busy drawing the charges out of his double-barreled shot-gun, and reloading again with powder. When everything was in readiness he hung the weapon again on its hooks above the door and went chuckling about his business.

Dick and Katie also seemed to have some quiet fun that evening, for whenever they met in their several duties about the house, they would look at each other and laugh, as if something were about to happen.

Katie, however, seemed to be in some doubt, for at one time when she met Dick on the stairs, where no one was near, she whispered, "Oh, Dick, are you sure everything is right?"

"Certainly. You just be ready, and Tom and I will be on hand to do our part."

It was about 10 o'clock, when some unusual noise awakened Farmer Field out of a doze into which he had fallen where he was sitting in the corner of the hall, with the gun across his knees. He rubbed his eyes for a few moments then when he was fully awake he stole out into the yard.

There was no moon, but the night was clear and bright with starlight. As the old man peered cautiously around the corner of the house he could see the ladder leading from the ground to the window of Katie's room, and about half-way up the ladder was the form of a man, apparently in the act of ascending.

The next moment the irate old man raised the gun to his shoulder and fired. The form on the top of the ladder toppled over and fell to the ground, where it lay still and motionless.

Farmer Field stood irresolute. He had expected to see the man jump to his feet and run; but when the fellow lay so still and silent a sudden fear took possession of him, and he was about to turn and retreat into the house himself, when someone grasped him by the shoulders from behind, and snatched the gun out of his hands.

Mr. Field turned around. There stood Tom Robin facing him.

"You are a miserable father, Mr. Field," said Tom in agitated tones. "Here you have probably killed your son, Dick. How do you feel as the murderer of your only son?"

Mr. Field groaned.

"I don't see how it could have happened," he managed to say. "I only fired with powder." Then taking a look at the gun in Tom's hand, he exclaimed:

"My God! it is Dick's gun, and I know it was heavily loaded with buckshot. How could it have happened?"

"You will probably have to explain that some day to a jury," said Tom severely.

"But I can't. For God's sake, Tom, go and see if Dick is dead," wailed the old man.

Tom approached the man lying on the ground and examined him closely, then he returned to the old man and whispered: "Dead as a door nail."

"Hush," cautioned Tom, "there is some one coming driving along the road. If you consent to my marrying Katie, I will say nothing about what has happened tonight, and do all in my power to shield you, while if you refuse, I will give the alarm and have you arrested right away."

"Oh, save me, Tom! You can have Katie, and anything else you want that belongs to me," whined Mr. Field.

Tom hurried to where the body lay at the foot of the ladder, and picking it up he ran and dumped it head-foremost into an old, dried-up well that was close to the house.

Just then the buggy that had been heard coming up the road stopped at the gate, and in a few moments a man was seen walking toward the house.

"Good evening, squire," said Tom, as the man came close enough to be recognized. "You are just in time." Then, turning to Mr. Field he continued: "If you will bring Katie down into the sitting room, we will have the ceremony performed immediately."

The old man seemed dazed, but he obeyed Tom's command without a question or a murmur.

Tom conducted the squire into the house.

Mrs. Field met them at the door and kissed Tom in a motherly way, as she murmured: "I'm so glad that everything is coming off pleasantly."

Just then Mr. Field, looking pale and haggard, came into the room, leading the smiling and happy Katie by the hand.

A few minutes sufficed to make Tom and Katie man and wife, and then everybody, as in duty bound, came forward to kiss the bride.

Just when or how Dick Field entered the room no one knew, but somehow he was the first one to kiss his sister. Then, taking Tom by the hand, he turned to his father, who was fairly bewildered:

"Daddy," he said in low tones, "you everlastingly shot the insides out of that rag man we had fixed up for you. I'll fish him out of the well tomorrow, and put him in a glass case."

"You young rascal! you have been playing a trick on me," snorted the old man.

"Well sir," said Tom, "when fair means failed, we were determined to win by strategy."

"Oh! It was strategy, was it? If it was only that, I guess I'll have to put up with it," Farmer Field said, while a grim smile lurked the corners of his mouth.—Time-Democrat.

Bobby: There goes a man who lives higher than some of our most noted millionaires.

Wiggins: Who is he?

Bobby: Janitor of a fourteen-story office building.—Life.

PEARLS OF THOUGHT.

The best excuse is to have none.

Many a man who tries to ride a hobby gets thrown finally.

Every duty which is bidden to wait, returns with seven fresh duties at his back.

A sound discretion is not so much indicated by making a mistake as by never repeating it.

Nothing is so indicative of deepest culture as a tender consideration of the ignorant.

All the paths of life lead to the grave, and the utmost that we can do is to avoid the short cuts.

There is one thing about death; it never complains that it doesn't know how to take some people.

It does not depend upon us to avoid poverty, but it does depend upon us to make that poverty respected.

It is never the opinions of others that displease us, but the pertinacity they display in obtruding them upon us.

All those who are waiting to be pulled up in the world will be utilized for stepping-stones by those who are getting up.

Some men have character, more or less, others have none, and some few are characters; it is of their essence and what they are made of.

The prejudices of men emanate from the mind and may be overcome, the prejudices of women emanate from the heart and are impregnable.

Plants Protected by Their Juices.

When a drop of the juice of sorrel, garlic, saxifrage, or nasturtion is put upon the tegument of a snail, the animal manifests pain and exudes abundance of its mucous secretion; yet it is not thus affected by a drop of water. When snails avoid plants marked by such juices, we have a right to regard the plants as defended by a chemical armor. The offensive substance may also be important to the nutrition of the plant, but that is not the question we are dealing with here. Many plants are evidently lacking in this means of defense; for, of some plants, all the animals experimented upon have been found to prefer fresh to dead parts. Others are never touched by them, whether living or dead. Hence we may conceive that an infinite variety may exist in the degrees of chemical armoring between total absence of protection and complete protection.—Scientific American.

Watches and Humanity.

A facetious watchmaker makes this unique comparison in the Jewelers' Weekly: "A watch is like a human body. It is just as sensitive as the most delicate child and needs more care and protection than it ever receives.

It is affected by climatic influences, and its vitals are just as liable to derangement as those of our bodies. Its heart beats govern its action, and its hands and face tell its condition at all times.

"If I were to classify the diseases of watches I should say that the one where the works are clogged with dirt and the oil has become stiff is analogous to our biliousness. This is the most common complaint watch doctors find, and unless the owner of a watch makes it a rule to submit it to a reputable repairer he will probably be victimized, just as human patients are when they consult quack doctors."

Two Interesting Documents.

The two most interesting documents that are to be found in the United States may be seen in the Lenox Library, New York City, which contains hundreds of rare historical [illegible]. The [illegible]

CHILTON VIEW.
Published Every Thursday Morning.
CLANTON, ALA., NOV. 21, 1889.
TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year	$1.00
One copy six months	.75
One copy four "	.50

The editor of the Knobnoster (Mo.) Gem was married last Tuesday, and in the most laconic fashion that paper thus tenders congratulations. "The Gem congratulates its editor and sympathizes with the bride."

The Alabama Supreme Court met Monday taking up the docket which will comprise the fifth division composed of cases from the counties of Chambers, Chilton, Coosa, Elmore, Lee, Macon, Russell, and Tallapoosa.

Farmers you have got 'em on the run. The American Oil Trust and you know what that is, has had to change its name. Got actually ashamed of it. It is now trying to hide out under the name of the American Oil Company. The hearty disgust for everything that looks or acts like a "trust" among all honest people in this country prompted the fellows, who think a heap of their dollars, to get out from under the shadow of such an unholy name.—Eufaula Times.

Lieut. Richaad Knott, of the Birmingham Rifles was married to Miss Sallie Oliver, at the church of the Advent in Birmingham, on the 14th inst. Mr. Knott is the Birmingham manager of Bradstreet's Commercial Agency, and a kinsman of the writer. We have noted his success with pleasure as it has been an example to others. Though a sober, substantial and practical business man yet he likes plenty of noise in the house and we presume that is why he got married.

The Philadelphia Record says: "Nothing will do more to stiffen the back of trade in the United States for the year 1890 than the enormous cotton crop of 1889. Cotton is the one agricultural product of this country that other countries cannot do without. Four fifths of the cotton supply of the world is grown in the states: and the expensive attempt made during our civil war to encourage the production of an independent supply in other cotton growing countries, has not diminished the demand for our great staple."

Jefferson Davis has again succeeded in getting before the public in an article on the tariff written for Belford's Magazine. The New York World republishes the article in full. It is an argument in favor of a tariff for revenue only as so restricted by the Federal constitution the article teaches. It contains nothing new or startling and appears to be only another channel for Mr. Davis to air his views to the public in, like any ordinary American politician. It is almost time for Mr. Davis to retire from politics, though he is undoubtedly on the right side of the tariff question.

There are some busy bodies circulating damaging reports about some young women from the country who attended the late Rocky Mount campmeeting. A fellow that destroys or throws undeserved suspicion upon the chastity of a young woman should be buried alive or burned. The fact is, the destruction of nine lives if they had that many wouldn't be an adequate punishment for the devilish heart that conceives so foul a slander. Committees ought to mark these fellow and stake them off as parties deserving the utmost detestation.—Eufaula Times.

A Kentucky woman who was enticed off to Utah by the Mormon Elders, got disgusted with her surroundings and returned home, and is now writing letters to her friends in reference to the life people have to live out there. Among other things she says that "nearly all the people are discontented and on the verge of starvation. The common people live on bread and water, and a man is counted an epicure who can add molasses to his bill of fare." What we want to know is, how did a woman expect anything better in a country where men had wives by the dozen to support? It is as much as a medium sized fellow in this part of the country can do to take care of one, and of course if he had three or four he would soon be on the ragged edge of poverty, and seeking shelter under the wings of the county poor house.

The Closing Speech.

The question before the Wyoming Legislature was upon giving the right of suffrage to women. The closing speech was made by Elias Kilgore, a retired stage driver. He favored the bill and spoke as follows:

"Mr. Speaker — The bill that's before us it strikes me is where the roads fork. One is the old guvment road that has been the style for a good while, the other is the cut off. It's a new road, but with a little work on it, I reckon its going to be the best road. You men that opposes the bill has got excication—some of you—some of you ain't. You that has got it, got it at your mother's knee. Second, the more godlike we get gentlemen, the more rights we will give women. The closter you get to the cannibals, the more apt a woman is to do the chores and get choked for her opinions. I don't say that a woman has got to vote because she has the right, no more than our local vigilance committee has got to hang the member from Sweetwater county because it has a right to, but it is a good, wholesome brake on society, in case you bust a hold back, or tear off a harness strap when you are on a steep grade. The member from Sweetwater says we ought to restrick the vote privilege instid of enlarging of it. He goes on to state that too many folks are already 'ntitled to vote. That may be. Too many maudlin drunkards that thinks with a fungus growth and reasons with a little fatty degeneration which they call brains till they run agin an autopsy, too many folks with no voting qualification but talk and trowsiz, is allowed to vote, not only at the polls, but to even represent a big and beautiful county like Sweetwater in the legislature.

"So we are to restrick the vote I admit, in that direction, and to enlarge it in the direction of decency and sense. Mr. Speaker, men is too much stuck on themselves, becuz they was made first, they seem to be checked up too high. The fact is that God made the muskeeter and the bed-bug before he made man. He also made the mud-turtle, and jackass, and the babboon. When he had all the experience he wanted in creating he made man. Then he made woman. He done a good job. She suits me. She fooled herself once but why was it? It was Monday. She had a picked up dinner. Adam wanted something to finish off with. Eve suggested a cottage pudding. "Oh, blow your cottage pudding," says Ad. "How would you like a little currant jell?" says she. "No currant jell if you will excuse me," says Ad. "Well, say a saucer full of tipsy parson with a Rhode Island pudding?" "Don't talk to me about Rhode Island Gravys," says Ad. "You make me tired. Wash day here is worse than the fodder we had at the Gem City house on our wedding tower. I haven't had a thing to eat yet that was fit to feed to a shingle mill. Give me a fillet of elephant veal. Kill that little fat elephant that eats the blackberries nights. Fix up a little Roman salad he says, and put a quart of Royal Berton sec on ice for me. I will then take a little plum duff and one of them apples that the Lord told us not to pick. Do that for next Wash day Evie," says Ad. "and draw on me."

"There was Adam's words as regular as he has been reported I reckon, and that's how sin came into the world. Eve rustled around the ranche to get a little fresh fruit for Ad. and lo! the deluge, and the crucifiction, and the revelation and the rebellion has growed out of it.

"Proud man with nothing but an appetite and side whiskers, lays out to own the earth because Eve overdrawed her account in order to please him. And now because man claims he was created first and did not sin to amount to anything, he thinks that he has got the brains of the civilized world and practically owns the town.

"I talk without prejudice, Mr. Speaker, because I have no wife. I don't expect to have any. I have had one. She is in heaven now. She belonged there before I married her, but for some reason that I cannot find out she was throwed in my way for a few years, and that recollection puts a lump in my throat yet as I stand here. I improved on her because she had been taught to obey her husband, no matter how much of a dam phool he might be. That was Laura's idea of christianity. She is dead now, and that is where Laura has the bulge on me. I drive stage and think, God help the feller that has to think when he's got nothin' to think of but an angel in the sky that he ain't got no claim on.

"I've been held up four times, and I drove right along past the road agents. Drove kind of slow hoping that they'd shoot, but they seemed kind of rattled and so waited for the next stage.

"It's d—d funny to me that women who suffer most in order that man may come into the world, the one Mr. Speaker that is first to find him and the last to forsake him, first to hush the cry of a baby in a jim crow livery stable in Bethlehem, and last to leave the cross, first at the sepulchre and last to doubt the Lord, should be interested with the souls and bodies of generations, and yet not know how to vote." [Applause.]

I give the above simply to show the style of rhetoric in those days.

BILL NYE.

Read Newspapers and Study.

Our advice to young men is to study politics all the time. Begin now to keep the run of the current events not only at home, but abroad. Watch the struggle in France, which now presents a scene of stirring interest, as the threatened revolution approaches with Boulanger rising above the angry surges of the troubled waters. Mark the progress of the home rule idea in the British Parliament and especially the part that the "grand old man" is taking in it. Note attempts that are made to establish civilization and Christianity in Africa. In order to do this you must do more than read the newspapers carefully. You must delve into history. You must also read carefully the best works you can find about the science of government. The political parties in our own day present a study well worth watching carefully. Above all make it a point to analyze motives, separate the good from the bad, carefully make up your mind as to what is right, but do not blind yourself to the faults of your own party; make it a rule of your life never to do in politics anything that you would account wrong in business or social life.—Exchange.

The New York Sun thus touches upon the versatility of invention: "Mrs. Cochran, of Shelbyville, Ill., has invented a dish washing machine. This is only one of the comforts that will crown the domestic life of the twentieth century. The "hired girl" of that happier time, will light the kitchen fire by pressing an electric button at the head of the bed, grind the coffee by starting an automatic mill, drop five cents in the slot and have the eggs and chops sent from the grocers' and butchers' trust, catch the rolls as they jump from the bread basket under ground from the pneumatic supply train, and set the table by turning a crank. The only irregular thing about a house in the age of comfort by machinery will be the cat. The cat cannot be regulated or kept out of the milk by any device short of the guillotine."

About His Brother.

Several years ago my brother, who lives with me had a very strange sore to break out on his leg—about half way between the body and the knee—which afterwards developed into a rose cancer. It resulted from a bruise made by the rubbig of the stirrup leather while riding.

The cancer continued to grow until it was about five inches long, and three wide. The flesh sloughed off, black, rotten and foul, and it was almost impossible to procure a servant that would wait upon him, the air in the room where he lay being so foul that it would sicken anyone who entered. Every physician of any prominence in the State was consulted, and treated my brother without success. One doctor finally advised him to try Swift's Specific (S. S. S.); he did so, and used nothing else. He commenced to improve immediately, and after taking several bottles was completely cured, and since 1884 not a symptom of the disease has manifested itself.

C. A. GRIFFITH,
Mayflower, Ark.

His Health Broke Down.

Last summer my appetite failed, my health became poor and I was in a very feeble condition, in fact, I was compelled to give up nearly all business on account of my health. I tried physicians and their medicines but without avail. At length I began taking S. S. S. and nothing else. After taking several bottles I was entirely cured, and able to resume business. I increased nineteen pounds in weight in less than a month after I commenced taking S. S. S. J. M. MABRY, Abbeville, S. C.

Treatise on Blood and Skin Diseases mailed free.

SWIFT SPECIFIC CO.,
Atlanta, Ga.

Subscribe for the VIEW.

The Montgomery Evening Journal names the following candidates for governor that have been flushed by the newspapers or voluntarily announced themselves: Col. Thos. G. Jones of Montgomery, Capt. R. F. Kolb of Barbour, Judge Wm. Richardson of Madison, Col. Sam Blackwell of Morgan, Hon. P. D. Bestor of Mobile, and Capt. J. F. Johnston of Jefferson. There are more to follow.

If you suffer pricking pains on moving the eyes, or cannot bear bright light, and find your sight weak and failing, you should promptly use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Eye Salve. 25 cents a box.

Far better than the harsh treatment of medicines which horribly gripe the patient and destroy the coating of the stomach. Dr. J. H. McLean's Chill and Fever, by mild yet effective action will cure. Sold at 50 cents a bottle.

A Massachusetts paper is in hot water. A prominent lawyer died and the fact was mentioned in his obituary notice that "his remains were sent to Hull." The printer substituted an e for the u, and the relatives of the deceased are mad.

If you suffer from any affection caused by impure blood, such as scrofula, salt rheum, sores, boils, pimples, tetter, ring worm, take Dr. J. H. McLean's Sarsaparilla.

The quality of the blood depends much upon good or bad digestion and assimilation. To make the blood rich in life and strength-giving constituents use Dr. J. H. McLean's Sarsaparilla. It will nourish the properties of the blood, from which the elements of vitality are drawn.

The farmers in session in Montgomery have adopted a resolution asking Congress to give agricultural produce the same protection accorded to most favored protected industries.

Sick headace, wind on the stomach billiousness, nausea, are promptly and agreeably banished by Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pillets, 25 c a vial.

When nature falters and requires help recruit her enfeebled energies with Dr. J. H. McLean's strengthening cordial and blood purifier. $1.00 per bot.

The trustees of the University have decided to postpone the election of a president until February. Dr. Wymam will act as president pro tem.

Physicians prescribe Dr. J. H. McLean's Tar Wine Lung Balm; in it they find no trace of opium or morphia, while its efficacy in curing all throat and lung diseases is wonderful.

Exposure to rough weather, getting wet, living in damp localities, are favorable to the contraction of diseases of the kidneys and bladder. As a preventive, and for the cure of all kidney and liver trouble, use that valuable remedy, Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm. $1.00 per bottle.

Go to Blank Brothers, Leading Clothiers, 2112, 2nd Avenue, Birmingham, Ala., to buy anything you need in the way of clothing and gent's furnishing goods.

There are many accidents and diseases which affect stock and cause serious inconvenience and loss to the farmer in his work, which may be quickly remedied by the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of an execution issued out of the Register's office of the Chancery Court of Chilton county, Ala., in favor of Jonce L. Gardner, et. al. and against Maria L. Wilson, et. al., I will proceed to sell, at the courthouse door in Clanton, Ala., between the legal hours of sale, at public outcry, to the highest bidder for cash, on Monday, December 2d, 1889, the following described real estate, levied upon as the property of the said Maria L. Wilson, to-wit: The s e ¼ of the n w ¼ of section 33, township 22, range 12 east, lying south of the Selma and Montvallo road and west of Mulberry creek, and lying and being in Chilton county, Ala.

LEE HAYES,
Sheriff Chilton Co.

Clanton, Ala., October 29th, 1889.

Tax Notice!

FIRST ROUND.

I will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and county taxes of Chilton county for the year 1889.

Mineral Springs	October	30
Jemison	"	31
Providence	"	29
Macedonia	November	4
Benson	"	5
Maplesville	"	6
R. Latham's	"	7
Dixie	"	8
Kincheon	"	12
Verbena	"	13
Cooper's	"	14
Clanton	"	15
Strasburg	"	16
Valley Creek Church	"	9
Clanton Ford	"	11

SECOND ROUND.

Mineral Springs	December	6
Jemison	"	7
Providence	"	8
Macedonia	"	9
Benson	"	10
Maplesville	"	11
R. Latham's	"	12
Dixie	"	13
Kincheon	"	17
Verbena	"	18
Cooper's	"	19
Valley Creek Church	"	14
Clanton Ford	"	16
Elijah Busby	"	4
John Archer's	"	5
Prim's School House	"	21

Clanton, December 23, 24, 26, 27, 28, 30 and 31.

B. M. GENTRY,
Tax Collector Chilton Co.

Bring your job printing to this office.

Indigestion

IS not only a distressing complaint, of itself, but, by causing the blood to become depraved and the system enfeebled, is the parent of innumerable maladies. That Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best cure for Indigestion, even when complicated with Liver Complaint, is proved by the following testimony from Mrs. Joseph Lake, of Brockway Centre, Mich.:—

"Liver complaint and indigestion made my life a burden and came near ending my existence. For more than four years I suffered untold agony, was reduced almost to a skeleton, and hardly had strength to drag myself about. All kinds of food distressed me, and only the most delicate could be digested at all. Within the time mentioned several physicians treated me without giving relief. Nothing that I took seemed to do any permanent good until I commenced the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which has produced wonderful results. Soon after commencing to take the Sarsaparilla I could see an improvement in my condition. My appetite began to return and with it came the ability to digest all the food taken, my strength improved each day, and after a few months of faithful attention to your directions, I found myself a well woman, able to attend to all household duties. The medicine has given me a new lease of life."

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

PREPARED BY
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Price $1; six bottles, $5. Worth $5 a bottle.

tma16

Jemison High School.

Good House, Well Furnished, Healthful Locality, Dry Sandy Roads, Good Board Cheap, Tuition Low, Maps, Globes, Charts, etc., Moral Community, Three Churches, No Whisky, Well Trained Teachers, Fine Success, Teachers Re-elected without a Dissenting Voice. Session opens Sept. 2d, 1889.

Apply to J. L. RUFFIN, JR.,
aug29 Principal.

CLANTON HIGH SCHOOL.

This School will open Monday, Sept. the 2nd, 1889. Advantages the best in the county. Rates low, board and tuition $10 per month. Patronage is earnestly desired. For further information address me at Clanton, Ala.

Respectfully,
A. J. SCOTT, Principal.

W. W. C.

(Wooldridge's Wonderful Cure)

Is the greatest Blood Purifier ever yet discovered. It never fails to cure when taken according to directions. Read what it has done for Mr. A. Kimbrough:

COLUMBUS, GA., July 11, 1889.

Wooldridge Wonderful Cure Co., Columbus, Ga.

GENTS:—After suffering for twenty years with my kidneys, and finding only temporary relief, after taking various remedies, and consulting some of the most noted physicians in the country, at a cost of hundreds of dollars, for no good, I decided to try W. W. C., and I must confess that I am to-day as well as I ever was, and that I suffer no pain whatever from my kidneys, and am feeling better in every respect than I have for years, and I attribute it all to two bottles of W. W. C.; and I would advise all who suffer in the least with kidney or bladder troubles to give W. W. C. a trial. Yours truly,

A. KIMBROUGH.

WOOLDRIDGE'S WONDERFUL CURE is a sure Remedy for Syphilis, Syphilitic Rheumatism, Chronic Rheumatism, Skin Diseases, Bone Diseases, Old Sores, Bilious Troubles, Liver Diseases, Jaundice, Bilious Headache, Dyspepsia, and all Diseases caused from Impure and Poisoned Blood or Hereditary Diseases.

For sale by all Druggists.

Manufactured by
Wooldridge Wonderful Cure Co.,
COLUMBUS, GA.
sep19 y

Barber Shop.

Mr. H. A. Logan, who has his barber shop upstairs in the Allen Building, solicits the patronage of the good people of Clanton. He does good work and is well fixed up for the business.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.
November 21, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 6th, 1889, viz: Andrew J. Wyatt, homestead 1408 for the s ½ of s w ¼ sec 28 t 21 n range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Madison Popwell, John Popwell, John R. Kemp and Gill Elland, all of Kincheon, Ala.

nov21* J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 20, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 11, 1889, viz: Charlie Jackson, homestead 16251 for the n e ¼ of sec. 20 township 21 n, range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Daniel Martin, Emmet Culp, Andy Foshee and James Headley, all of Clanton, Ala.

nov21* J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

Land Office, Montgomery, Ala.,
Nov. 5, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on December 14th, 1889, viz: James H. Green, homestead 22165 for the s e ¼ of n e ¼ sec 18 t 20 n, r 12 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: William W. Klenner, William W. Sanson, Richard P. Kendrick, James M. Walker, all of Maplesville, Ala.

J. H. BINGHAM,
nov7* Register.

The Lawson Carpet Co.

Birmingham, Ala.

Take pleasure in directing the attention of the people of Chilton county to their large and attractive stock of

Carpets, Oil-cloths, Window Shades,

Curtains & Household Novelties.

The Stock represented is the finest in Alabama, and prices are guaranteed as low as similar goods are offered in any of the eastern markets.

☞ All communications answered by return mail. Respectfully,

ma30-y THE LAWSON CARPET CO. (WM. LAWSON.)

BAINS & PORTER.

(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & PEEBLES.)

WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.

Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.

FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY

1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS

Birmingham, Ala.

☞ Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜

P. O. BOX 570. June 19 y

LOOK HERE!

New Stock! Low Prices!

—AT—

W. M. WILSON & BRO.'S

CLANTON, ALA.

We have opened a Large Stock of Dry Goods, Groceries and General Merchandise at our old Stand, and we have come to stay. We invite an inspection of our goods and prices.

☞ SHOES AND HATS A SPECIALTY. ☜

THOMAS FOSHEE,

(SUCCESSOR TO N. W. FOSHEE,)

Dry Goods, Groceries,

—AND—

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

Maplesville, Alabama.

I solicit a continuance of the liberal patronage heretofore extended our house. Respectfully,

feb 28-y THOMAS FOSHEE.

WALL PAPER,

WINDOW SHADES,
MOULDINGS,
—AND—
PRACTICAL PAPER HANGER

H. M. MANCHA,

204 DEXTER AVENUE, MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA.

☞ Papers furnished at any price from 10 cents up. Will send samples on application. apr 11-y

BIRMINGHAM MARBLE WORKS.

THOS. H. HOLT,

PRACTICAL WORKMAN.

—AND DEALER IN—

American and Italian Marble.

—Manufacturer of all kinds of—

CEMETERY MARBLE AND STONE WORK.

Cor. Second Avenue and Twenty-Fourth Street,

Birmingham, - - Alabama.

nov29-tf

B. WOLFF'S

FURNITURE EMPORIUM,

20 and 22 Commerce and Corner Court and Coosa Streets.

—MONTGOMERY, ALA.—

CARRIES

The Largest and Cheapest Stock of Furniture

IN THE STATE.

apr11-6 ☞ [illegible]

O TO BLANK BROS, LEADING CLOTHIERS, 2112 SECOND AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

HILTON VIEW.

TON, ALA., NOV. 21, 1889.

View is published every Thurs morning, and will endeavor to cov field of reputable country journ
It will show no quarter to the the immoral or the ungodly.
always be good natured, al it can bite if necessary.

answering advertisements will a favor by mentioning this paper.

mark (X) after your name that your subscription is due and would be glad to have you re

COURT CALENDAR.

ancery—First Thursday after the Monday in March and September ontinue three days.

—On the eleventh Monday
the fourth Monday in February, on the thirteenth Monday after urth Monday in August, and may ue two weeks each time.

missioners'—Regular term sec
Monday in February and August, first Monday in April and Novem Special term second Monday in ty—First Monday in each month.

HEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD.
ains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.
1 Express at	*1:15 a. m.
3 Mail	5:48 p. m.
11 (Passenger)	6:20 p. m.
9 Accommodation	6:45 a. m.
GOING NORTH.
2 Fast (Don't Stop)	2:20 a. m.
6 Mail	9:11 a. m.
4 Express	7:55 p. m.
10 Accommodation	6:20 p. m.

n't Stop.

LOCAL LACONICS.

ha N. Thornton is improving
ly.

G. W. Jones, of Jumbo, called pay for his paper Monday.

W. L. Sampey is still in ega at the bedside of her ter.

J. F. Maull, of Strasburg, ad es for ten good saw mill ds.

Evans Pinkard was called home last week on account his mother being very ill in Chegee.

If you want jewelry of the best d at the lowest price, call on
s. L. Ruth, 15 Dexter Ave., ntgomery. See "ad."

Hale, Dingley & Co., the Mont mery druggists, have an an uncement in this paper to which r attention is invited.

Mr. W. H. Mancha, of Mancha
s wall paper house, Montgom
, did some nice work in paper nging at several residences in nton the past week.

Mr. R. Ehrman, attended the then Yellow Pine Lumber As ation in Montgomery last week, addressed the body in behalf of lutions favoring better prices lumber.

Mrs. Jno. Curtis, a daughter of Joe Gore, died at Columbiana
Friday last. Her remains e brought back to her old home the Jumbo neighborhood and ied Saturday.

Mr. J. M. Dawson and Johnnie son have gone up to Jemison o some brick work on the mises of Mr. L. J. Hand who just completed a handsome residence at that place.

he State Lumber Association ch met in Montgomery last k decided to raise the price of ber and transacted other impor business that will be of ad tage to the lumber interests.

r. W. A. Coilier, attended meeting of the board of con of the Confedrate Veterans As tion in Montgomery last week,
Collier and Judge Robinson hambers, are members of the d representing the fifth dis t.

e are glad to see little boys at
, and think it would be well e of them were trained to while young. It keeps them of mischief as well as gives some idea of business. We ed little Eugene and Yancey ngs selling ground peas last on the streets and bought from the enterprising firm.

Notice to the Public.

om November 1st to January no goods will be sold on credit y store, and I hope no one will their feelings hurt by failing t credit. I intend to meet any etition in this market, and der to do so I must sell for the y down.

parties who have not yet their accounts for this year rnestly requested to call and at once.

Respectfully,

W. L. SAMPEY.

The courtroom at the courthouse is being put in order preparatory for the fall term of court which convenes next Monday.

Mr. Brack Bowden of this place was married in Coosa county last Thursday to Miss Mamie Hardy, of Coosa. They have come to Clanton to reside. Good luck and happiness we hope may be their portion.

Mrs. J. C. Gibson died at her home in Verbena, on Saturday last. Mrs. Gibson was the wife of Maj. J. C. Gibson, and a sister of Mr. Clifford Lanier and of Sydney Lanier, the deceased poet. The remains were carried to Montgomery, and the funeral took place in that city on Monday morning.

"The Southern Exposition was a grand success," is heard from every one who attended. And so it was. Alabamians seem to have tried themselves, especially the people of Montgomery. We attended the exposition but can't begin to tell what we saw. The first thing that took our eye was the agricultural exhibit. The mineral display was something that any State might well be proud of. Caldwell's exhibit of flowers was exquisite. Wolff's exhibit of furniture could not be surpassed. The needle and fancy work department had so many pretty things that we never did get through looking at them. It made us hungry to look at the good things cooked in cotton seed oil, so we had to taste, and think we shall discard the use of Ohio swine-fat hereafter. Taken all in all the Southern Exposition was the best and most comprehensive display of Alabama's products and resources ever placed before her people. Everybody came away delighted, and we came home with a patent potato-peeler and a Georgia red clay frog in our pocket, neither of which, we regret to say, was manufactured in Alabama.

OVER THE COUNTY.

Neighborhood News Gathered by Our Correspondents.

From Jemison.

Rev. Mr. Lincoln and his charming wife have come and gone, but their sacred influence will stay, and the sweet songs will linger in our ears for indefinite time, probably till we meet them beyond the river. Mrs. Lincoln organized a children's and also a lady's society. May God prosper her work. Such energetic ladies are much needed all over our land.

We had a little snow one day last week.

Health of the community is good. Success to the VIEW.

A MOTHER.

Stanton Notes.

The following resolutions have been offered and approved by Ebenezer Church giving expression of regret at Bro. McCord's resignation:

WHEREAS, Our beloved brother, J. M. McCord, who has served us as pastor for the past two years, now feeling that duty calls him to labor in another field, and

WHEREAS, by his uniform courteous bearing and christian deportment, with his example of consistent piety and zeal, has accomplished great good in our church by awakening the membership to a higher sense of duty and christian work, and

WHEREAS, For the last year he has made his home among us, bringing in our midst his estimable wife, Sister McCord, who has by her christian graces closely endeared herself to all people of this vicinity.

Therefore, be it resolved by the Church of Ebenezer, That it is with the deepest regret and reluctance that we part with Brother and Sister McCord, but if it is the master's will, we bow in humble submission, but will follow them with our love, and pray for their spiritual and temporal blessings, and beg the good people to whom they go to deal lovingly with them, for they will find them as we have, to be pearls of great value.

W. A. SMITH,
I. G. WHITE,
THOS. D. DUBOSE,
Committee.

Chilton Co., Ala., Nov. 1889.

WANTED!

Ten good Saw Mill Hands to which steady work will be given.

J. F. MAULL, Strasburg, Ala.

The Lady Godiva must have had exceptionally long hair since it completely concealed her lovely person. Since Ayer's Hair Vigor came into use such examples are not so rare as formerly. It not only promotes the growth of the hair but gives it a rich, silken texture.

Boils, carbuncles, indicate that the system is endeavoring to reject poisonous acids, and that Ayer's Sarsaparilla is imperatively needed. It is the most reliable of all blood medicines. Ask your druggist for it and take no other.

HERMAN HERZFELD,

—DEALER IN—

All Kinds of Furniture at all Prices.

Parlor and Bed-Room Suits, Carpets, Oil Cloths, Mattings, Blankets, Comforts and Lace Goods.

☞ Everything necessary in the House-Furnishing Goods Line. ☜

NINETEENTH STREET, BETWEEN FIRST AND SECOND AVENUES

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

—Office of—

FARMERS' Alliance Exchange UNION WAREHOUSE.

MONTGOMERY, ALA., Sept. 16, 1889.

DEAR SIR:—We invite your attention to our large and commodious Warehouses near the Union Passenger Depot in rear of the Windsor Hotel in this city. We are prepared to store or sell cotton to the best advantage and to fully protect the planters' interest by always obtaining the highest market price on day of sale. Our rates of storage are cheaper than any other Warehouse in the city from the fact that we charge no drayage where cotton is shipped by rail or boat.

We have every protection against fire that is possible to be had, and are above high water. We make liberal advances on cotton in store.

Your patronage is respectfully solicited.

JNO. S. BIRD, Business Manager.

"It goes right to the spot," said an old man, who was rubbing in Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment to relieve rheumatism. oct31

BUSINESS LOCAL NOTICES.

Mrs. M. A. Butler announces to her friends in this section that she is now located at 422 21st St. and Ave. E, Birmingham, where she has opened a stock of general merchandise. An invitation is extended to all needing anything in her line to call at the above location when visiting the city. 1m

The VIEW job office is prepared to do all kind of job work at short notice. Let us know what you want and we will give you extra low figures.

Insure in the Commercial Fire Insurance Co. of Montgomery.

We want you all to subscribe for and pay for this paper. You can get the VIEW at $1 a year by clubbing with the Montgomery Advertiser The two papers one year for $2. A year's subscription now will carry you through the next State and Congressional Campaigns.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
November 19, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 6th, 1890, viz: William S. Cox, homestead 15271 for the w ½ of s w ¼ of sec 26, towship 23 n, range 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, William T. Franklin, John Gore, William T. Mahan, John McKee, all of Clanton, Ala.

nov21o J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 19, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence, the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Jan. 6th, 1890, viz: Huely Ann Ray, homestead 15806 for the s e ¼ of sec 22 township 21 n, range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: John R. Kemp, Stephen Baker, Cyrus Cain, and R. M. Barnett, all of Clanton, Ala.

nov21° J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

Now is the time to subscribe for your county paper.

Mortgage Sale.

Under and by virtue of two mortgages excuted by Matilda Crumpton, the first to the Louisville & Nashville railroad company on the 16th day of January, 1882 and recorded in Book 9 of Mortgages page 363 in the Probate office of Chilton county, the second executed on the 18th day of March, 1885, to Frank Nelson, Jr., and recorded in Mortgage book Vol. 15, page 55 of records of mortgages in the office of Judge of Probate of Chilton county, I will proceed to sell on the 16th day of December, 1889, in front of the courthouse door in Clanton, Chilton county, within the legal hours of sale, the following described real estate to-wit: The S W ¼ of the S W ¼ of section 13 township 23, range 15 east in Chilton county, Ala.

FRANK NELSON, JR.,
nov14 Mortgagee and Assignee.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 11, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver of the U. S. Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., on December 12, 1889, viz: John Burmister, homestead 16141, for the s e ¼ of n e ¼, e ½ of s e ¼, n w ¼ of s e ¼ sec 26 t 20 n r 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: E. H. Smith Thomas Cox, G. C. Carwile and C. D. A. Deramus, all of Verbena, Ala.

oct 17o J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
October 29, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the Circuit Court, Clanton, Ala., on December 14, 1889, viz: William Headley, Jr., homestead 16165 for the n e ¼ of s w ¼, n w ¼ of s e ¼ and e ½ of s e ¼ sec 18, township 22 n, r 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: Wesley Noah, Sylvester Headley, James N. Knox, Columbus Rutherford, all of Clanton, Ala.

oct31* J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 20, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 10, 1889, viz: James W. Conell, homestead 14074 for the s ½ of n e q, n w q of s e q, n e q of s w q, sec 24, township 22 n, range 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: A. J. Peters, R. E. Jones, J. M. Parish, William Mims, all of Clanton, Ala.

nov21* J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 18, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circurt court at Clanton, Ala., on January 4th, 1890, viz: Peter W. Noah, homestead 15043 for the n ½ of n w ¼ sec 18 township 22 n r 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: William Headley, Jr., James N. Knox, John Knox, William Davis, all of Clanton, Ala.

nov21* J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

Wool Carding.

Our Cards are now running and doing good work. Bring or send your work to E. O. WALKER, sept19 3m Montevallo, Ala.

Highest cash price paid for wool.

A. E. BIVINGS,

—DEALER IN—

DRUGS, AND Medicines,

FAMILY Groceries, ETC.

Clanton, Alabama.

I can furnish you anything you may wish in the way of DRUGS AND MEDICINES. I also handle THE BEST GROCERIES TO BE HAD, and you will find my prices to suit the times. [mar20]

BUY YOUR

PIANOS and ORGANS

—FROM—

GRAMBS & BUCHANAN,

—2107 SECOND AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—

THE VERY LOWEST CASH PRICES, or on easy installments. Sohmer Cranich & Bach, Gabler, Wheelock and Newby & Evans Pianos, and the world renowned Wilcox & White organs. Mail orders for sheet music or musical merchandise given prompt attention.

☞ Write for Catalogue. ☜ jul18

When ordering please state in what paper you saw our advertisement.

-: Hale, Dingley & Co. :-

—WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS IN—

Drugs, Medicines, Toilet Articles,

PERFUMERY, SOAP, BRUSHES & STANDARD PATENT MEDICINES,

—:MONTGOMERY, ALA.:—

Keep constantly on hand a complete stock of articles in their line of business. Particular attention is called to the following articles manufactured by them and especially recommended to the public: Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lactophosphate of Lime; Elixir Cinchona and Gentian Compound; Howard's Colic Cure for Horses; Esprit de Millefleur. nov21-6

—·CHAS. L. RUTH,—

—DEALER IN—

Diamonds, Silverware, Watches, Clocks,

Jewelry, Spectacles, &c.,

Sole Agent in Montgomery for the celebrated ROCKFORD QUICK TRAIN WATCHES, the best for Railroad men. Also has a large stock of Watches of other makes, including the famous watches manufactured by A. Schneider, of Dresden, and the watches he had made specially to order in Geneva.

A complete stock of the newest styles of JEWELRY, selected with great care from the stocks of the largest manufacturers.

The latest designs in SILVER and PLATED WARE. French and American CLOCKS and BRONZES in great variety. Julius King's Combination Spectacles, Eye-Glasses, Gold-head Canes, &c. All goods marked at the lowest figures possible. ☞ Clocks, Watches and Jewelry skillfully and promptly repaired. All work guaranteed.

C. L. RUTH,

(Sign of the Eagle and Watch.) 15 Dexter Avenue,

—MONTGOMERY, ALA.—

nov21y

CRELLIN & NALLS,

BOILER MAKERS

Copper and Sheet Iron Workers

Chimneys, Tanks, and Repairing of All Kinds.

Saw Mill Work a Specialty.

☞ AVENUE C AND TWENTY-SECOND STREET, SOUTHSIDE, ☜

Birmingham, Ala.

mar21 y

GEO. W. COOK & CO.,

Wholesale and Retail

Dealers in Staple and Fancy Groceries, Fruits, Produce, Wines, Liquors. Our pure unpainted Roasted Coffee, and Manufacturers of High Grade pure Stick Candy, all of which we sell by the pound, package or car load. Sole agents for the Celebrated Bethesda ☞ Water. ☜

37 COMMERCE STREET,

Montgomery, Alabama.

oct17-tf

MONTGOMERY IRON WORKS.

MACHINISTS & FOUNDERS

Dealers in Fittings, Supplies and Machinery

OF ALL KINDS.

MAKERS OF ENGINES, CANE MILLS, COTTON SEED CRUSHERS, SAW MILLS, LIVE ROLLS, LOG HAULUPS, &c.

☞ ESPECIAL ATTENTION TO WANTS OF SAW MILL MEN ☜

nov 8-y

Roberts & Son,

Steam Printers and Binders,

1918 FIRST AVENUE, BET. 19th & 20th STREETS,

Birmingham, Ala.

BLANK BOOKS TO ORDER. WORK PROMPTLY DELIVERED.

Aug1 ly

A. M. RAMBO,

DENTIST,

VERBENA, ALA.

Will respond to calls along railroad between Calera and Dentsville [ma15 y]

S. P. TRESSLAR,

Photographer,

10 COURT SQUARE,

Montgomery.

Photographs on Silk, Satin and Linen. Photographs on watch dials.

Portraits in Crayon, Pastile, India Ink and Water Colors.

All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.

☞ Correspondence solicited. ☜

Always glad to have you call at the gallery, and examine specimens of the work on exhibition.

[jan21-tf]

J. H. SHEPHERD

THE LEADING

PHOTOGRAPHER,

—OF—

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE

(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)

Photographs of All Kinds Work Done in the

BEST STYLE.

Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

DR. OWEN'S ELECTRIC BELT AND SUSPENSORY.

PATENTED AUG. 16, 1887. IMPROVED JULY 30, 1888.

DR. OWEN'S ELECTRO-GALVANIC BODY BELT AND SUSPENSORY are guaranteed to cure the following diseases, namely: All Rheumatic Complaints, Lumbago, General and Nervous Debility, Costiveness, Kidney Diseases, Nervousness, Trembling, Sexual Exhaustion, Wasting of Body, Diseases caused by Indiscretions in Youth, Age, Married or Single Life. In fact all diseases pertaining to the womb or genital organs of male or female. ☞ SENT TO RESPONSIBLE PARTIES ON 30 DAYS TRIAL. TRY A PAIR OF DR. OWEN'S ELECTRIC INSOLES at PRICE PER PAIR. Send 6c. postage for free illustrated pamphlet, which will be sent you in plain sealed envelope. Mention this paper, address

OWEN ELECTRIC BELT & APPLIANCE CO.
306 North Broadway, ST. LOUIS, MO.

RUPTURE!

ELECTRIC BELT AND TRUSS COMBINED.

DR. ISRAEL'S ELECTRO-GALVANIC TRUSS, with Dr. Owen's Electric Belt Attachment. This truss is worn with ease and comfort. The current can be made mild or strong. This is the only combined electric truss and belt ever made. It will CURE Rupture in from 60 to 90 days. For full description of Dr. Owen's Electro-Galvanic Belts, Spinal Appliances, Trusses and Insoles send 6c. for free illustrated pamphlet which will be sent you in plain sealed envelope. Sold only by the

OWEN ELECTRIC BELT & APPLIANCE CO.
306 North Broadway, ST. LOUIS, MO.

sep 5

HERBINE

After ten years exclusive sale, can now be obtained of all Druggists and Dealers in Medicines. It CURES-take notice-not simply helps but CURES LIVER COMPLAINT, Billousness and Dyspepsia.

Is a strictly vegetable preparation and will CURE MALARIA, and all MALARIAL troubles.

Dr. S. H. Wise, of Boston, Ky. says: "Have practiced medicine 15 years, and find no equal to HERBINE as a Liver Regulator."

Dr. W. A. Baker, of Madison, Fla., says: "A bottle of HERBINE is worth more than $5.00 worth of Quinine in any family."

Acting on the Liver in a different way from any other medicine; it is a positive cure for Chronic Constipation and is cheaper than Pills.

Its peculiar composition is such, that we guarantee to cure any case of Chills and Fever or Billous Fever with one bottle.

It costs but 75 cents and each bottle contains over 40 average doses, making the cost less than two cents a dose. Would you ask for cheaper medicine? It is not a cure-all. But will cure any Liver, Billous or Malarial Complaint. Manufactured by

The Herbine Co.,
(Successors to Wm. Condell.) St. Louis, Mo.

mar 14-y

PISO'S CURE FOR

TWENTY-FIVE CENTS

Piso's Cure for Consumption is also the best Cough Medicine.

If you have a Cough without disease of the Lungs, a few doses are all you need. But if you neglect this easy means of safety, the slight Cough may become a serious matter, and several bottles will be required.

CONSUMPTION

PISO'S REMEDY FOR CATARRH gives immediate relief. Catarrhal virus is soon expelled from the system, and the diseased action of the mucous membrane is replaced by healthy secretions.

The dose is small. One package contains a sufficient quantity for a long treatment.

CATARRH

A Cold in the Head is relieved by an application of Piso's remedy for Catarrh. The comfort to be got from it in this way is worth many times its cost.

Easy and pleasant to use.

Price, 50 cents. Sold by druggists or sent by mail.

E. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.

nov22-y

ALLEGER'S

GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES!

FROM $85. to $58.

This Elegant Parlor Organ style 90 containing 5 octaves, 4 sets of reeds, 10 stops, 2 knee swells. Stool and Book free. For only $58.00. With right and left coupler. "Warranted for 6 years."

It is only necessary to send references as to your responsibility from any banker, postmaster, merchant or express agent and the Organ will be shipped promptly on ten days test trial.

Circular free to all.

[illegible]

H. W. ALLEGER,

Washington, Warren County, New Jersey.

[illegible]

WOMAN'S WORLD.

PLEASANT LITERATURE FOR FEMININE READERS.

FAST ASLEEP.

Backward and forward the rocker goes,
Wafting the baby to sweet repose;
Close by the cradle the mother croons
Lullaby, rock-a-bye nursery tunes,
Dreamily singing she patiently tries
Sleep to bring to the baby's eyes.

Minute by minute the evening flits,
Still in the chair she drowsily sits;
Soothing and rubbing the aching gums,
Longing for slumber that never comes;
Rocking the baby that fretfully lies,
Filling the room with its nervous cries.

Weary with watching the mother sings,
Wooing the god with the leaden wings;
Softer and softer the ditty grows,
Now the little one's eyelids close;
Sinking at last into dreamland deep—
Mother and baby are fast asleep.

—S. T. Clover, in Chicago Herald.

DOES IT PAY?

In one of the large towns of a Western State two young ladies are suffering from lead-poisoning as the result of using toilet powder containing white lead. One of them is greatly emaciated, and suffers much from spasms. In both cases the fingers and arms are paralyzed. If these unfortunate young women live, which is doubtful, they are, perhaps, rendered helpless for life.

Cases similar to the above are not infrequent from the use of poisonous cosmetics. A fresh, healthful complexion is to be desired, but its artificial counterpart is very undesirable and does not deceive any observer. The use of powder and rouge is not only offensive to the eye, but leaves the skin sallow, dry and rough, even if it produces no worse results.

Not long ago we heard of a young woman who began using drugs upon her eyes, to increase their brilliancy. Her silly vanity has rendered her blind for life!

Such sufferers from their own foolishness are not always young ladies. A gentleman of sixty years died last week as a result of lead-poisoning. For fifteen years he had been in the habit of dyeing his hair and beard; and to this practice the physicians attributed his death. His is but one of four cases, within the writer's knowledge, where paralysis and death have been ascribed to poisonous hair dyes.—Youth's Companion.

A WOMAN LAWYER.

A flutter of mild but unusual excitement swept through the State Supreme Court room, says the Milwaukee Sentinel, when the case of Sutton vs. Wegner was reached shortly before the afternoon recess. There was nothing unusual or important in the character of the case to attract any particular attention, but the court room was crowded with prominent legal lights, ambitious, youthful disciples of Blackstone and a sprinkling of the fair sex, all piqued with curiosity to hear the first lady lawyer who ever appeared before the supreme tribunal of that State.

The lady was Miss Kate H. Pier, daughter of Colonel C. K. Pier, of Milwaukee. She graduated from the law department of the State University only two years ago. She seemed scarcely more than a girl as she sat among a group of her young college friends waiting for her time to address the august body. A wealth of black hair fell over her shoulders in a single coil, almost trailing to the floor, and added to the beauty of her youthful complexion and handsome features. She was modestly attired in a dress of black silk with bead trimmings. When the clerk called the case in which she was interested, and the young lady took her seat among the other attorneys at the table, there was a general awakening of attention.

Miss Pier's argument was direct and to the point and relieved of all the superfluities that frequently characterized the verbose utterances of the more experienced attorneys of the other sex. She stated her case unhesitatingly and frequently turned to and cited authorities, showing an acquaintance with law and a degree of self-possession that indicated that she was truly in love with her profession. At the conclusion of her address she was cordially congratulated for the successful impression she made, and among themselves the lawyers were unanimously of the opinion that she made an exceedingly strong and convincing argument.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

FASHION NOTES.

The new hats are large, but the bonnets are low and small.

Astrakhan, seal and plush are to be used for coat trimmings.

There is no doubt that Scotch plaids will be popular this autumn.

Box turbans with velvet facings are sold among untrimmed hats.

Rough wool goods have the preference over smooth this season.

Black gloves with white stitching are again popular for street wear.

Very full sleeves are not made on a garment to be used in the street.

Jackets are from six to eight inches longer than they were last season.

In choosing black gros-grain silk select a thick cord, flat rather than round.

Children's clothes are not simple this year, but they are tasteful and pretty.

Two and even three kinds of fur may be seen the present season in a single garment.

Beaver will be extensively used during the winter for trimming street garments for little children.

Flat skirts and plain bodices prevail, but not to the exclusion of draped skirts and shirred waists.

The Incroyable coat, in dark cloth, with contrasting lapels, vest and cuffs, is being adopted by the ladies.

French washing cheviot is a new material, which is particularly designed for utility gowns and children's costumes.

Tan, russet and gray are the popular color in street gloves, and for evening delicate tans and sand color are the favored shades.

The newer boas of fur are partly flat, instead of round, as a year ago, and they are sometimes added to fur collars or small shoulder capes.

Plaitings at the foot of dress skirts are but little used. Sometimes a band of velvet or of wide ribbon is placed at the foot of the foundation skirt.

Some of our young ladies are reviving an old fashion in hairdressing. Little curls are clustered at each side of his head, being kept in place by side combs with fancy tops, the rest of the hair being combed upward, and plaited or coiled in a crown at the top of the head.

A Natural Inebriate Asylum.

Cured of intemperance in three days! How many people know that the State of Georgia owns a natural inebriate asylum?

And, nevertheless, such is the fact.

"It is the most wonderful spring in the United States," said Special Officer Broderick, of the Atlanta police force.

"To what spring do you refer?"

"Indian Spring. I have taken three men to that spring who were so far gone on the liquor habit that it looked as if it was impossible for them to quit, and every one of them were cured immediately. One of them had been practically drunk for four months. I took along a supply of whisky, as people said that it would kill him to quit off too suddenly."

"Did he taper off?"

"He took one drink after he got to Indian Spring, and after that he declined to touch a drop. He said he did not want it at all. He remained there three days and you never saw such a transformation. He was as sober as a judge, his face was cleared of its bloat and the red liquor look, and he was himself again. Since that time he has been at work steadily and has not touched a drop. That was six months ago, long enough to effectually settle the matter."

"Does it prove equally efficacious on others?"

"I have tried three cases, and with the same happy results in every case. I believe that that little spring, which does not hold over a gallon of water, is one of the most valuable in the country, and worth all the hospitals in the land for the cure of inebriates."

"Why don't somebody ship the water?"

"In the first place, the spring belongs to the State of Georgia, and is just as the Indians left it, long ago. The State Government has never permitted anybody to lease it, or to attempt to enlarge the flow. The water is free for everybody. In the second place, there is a volatile gas in the water that escapes after a few hours, rendering it flat, and robbing the water of its extraordinary qualities. For these reasons no attempt has ever been made to export it, and people are compelled to go to the spot to enjoy its benefits. It is a wonderful spring in many other respects, but it is the king of all liquor habit cures that I have ever seen."—Atlanta Constitution.

The Dealer Came Out Ahead.

A gentleman who rode down the street with a South Side feed and commission dealer the other day was surprised to hear him utter a low, chuckling laugh as he paused to let a pedestrian have a chance for life on the crossing, says the St. Paul Globe: "See that man?" he asked; "the one with the light suit?" "Yes; what about it?" "Nothing only he thinks he owes me $4 or $5, and he don't owe me a cent. "How is that?" "He used to trade with me, and on every order for food or oats he gave me he would be twenty or thirty cents short. Of course that was nothing, and he 'would pay me the next order.' But the next order he was short again, and so on. It was his little game to beat me. I sat up nights, studied hard in the rules and finally beat the game." "How?" "Why, before delivering his order I opened the sacks and took enough oats to cover his shortage and squared his account. Now he has quit trading with me and goes around the block for fear I will ask him to pay up. But he don't owe me a cent, and he is just as welcome to trade with me as ever."

A Boy's Diet.

The food of growing boys, and especially of those who are students, demands careful attention. While they should not be allowed to cram themselves with all sorts of sweets and rich things, neither is a meagre fare at all advisable. The following is the dietary of one of our better boarding schools: Breakfast—Oatmeal, with an abundance of pure milk, bread and butter, a little meat or eggs, but not both. Lunch—Fruit, rolls, buns, Albert biscuits, milk, panned oysters, in season or sardines. Dinner—This meal should be served after study hours, and should consist of at least four courses: A light soup, two kinds of meat, potatoes and another vegetable, a salad with crackers and cheese, and a plain nourishing pudding. If the dinner is served earlier than 5 o'clock, we would suggest a wafer with a tumblerful of milk at 8. As all boys require fat, and universally dislike fat meat, leaving it on their plates, it is well to give them light suet puddings or similar dishes, with fats nicely blended throughout.—New York Dispatch.

How a Free Library Pays.

One of the funniest institutions in this city, says the New York Star, is the Mott Memorial Library. Dr. Valentine Mott left it behind him because he could not conveniently carry it into another world, and it has since been maintained as a public institution. It is strictly medical, chiefly surgical, almost entirely confined to the period of twenty-five years ago. The library and various busts and portraits of its original owner are housed in a delightful old brick mansion in Madison avenue. The books are carefully locked in cases and seldom consulted. Meanwhile the whole house is exempt from taxation. Of course it is wicked to tax a free library. The rooms in which the unused library is situated, however, are rented, doubtless at a fair price, in the morning to a kindergarten, in the afternoon to a ladies' fencing school, and on some nights to one or more secret organizations.

Lost the Card.

There is a tailor in London who does not entertain the highest opinion of American perspicacity. A week or two ago the Mayor of a Southern city called upon Consul-General New with a letter of introduction from the State Department and asked him for the address of a good tailor. New recommended the artist whom he had himself employed, and wrote the Southern gentleman's name on the consular card. The Southerner proceeded to lose the card, and another man found it. This person saw its value and personated the Southern Mayor, obtaining clothes to the value of $1200, which the tailor would like New to pay for.—New York Sun.

No One Knows.

Why do we always talk of putting on a coat and vest? Who puts on a coat before a vest? We also say putting on shoes and stockings? Who puts on the shoes before the stockings? We also put up signs telling people to wipe their feet when we mean their boots or shoes. And a father tells a boy he will warm his jacket when he means to warm his pantaloons. We are a little eccentric in our phrases, ain't we, at times?—Boston Courier.

AGRICULTURAL.

TOPICS OF INTEREST RELATIVE TO FARM AND GARDEN.

HOW THE FRENCH MAKE VEAL.

The French people know how to feed calves for veal, to cook veal, and when and how to eat it. If our veal was as good, tender, juicy and luscious, we should appreciate it better and consume more of it. By proper feeding, the French produce superlative veal, all along from six to twelve weeks. At the first-named period they bring calves up to two hundred pounds and over; and at three months make them weigh over four hundred pounds. The average weight under the best management of the veal-producing districts of Champagne and Brie will reach three hundred and thirty pounds, and bring from $45 to $75. It would indeed be difficult to find similar rapid increase of weight in so short a time in any other country. In fact, the French realize as much money from calves at three months as we do at two years; and probably vastly more if we fed up to that age.

This is their method of feeding: They feed nothing but milk, commencing with six quarts a day for a few days. The calves are muzzled to prevent the possibility of eating anything else but the milk. The calves are kept in warm, darkened stables. The milk is gradually increased to what the calves will take with avidity. After six or eight weeks, to make the meat white and inviting, from two to six eggs are given in the milk.

The color of the meat may ascertained during the life of the calf by looking at the color of the blood vessels of the mucous membrane of the eyes. If of a delicate light pink, the veal will be clear and white; but if of a dark red color, the meat will be of a reddish-yellow color. The meat of calves slaughtered too young will be dark red, and feel slimy when handled. The meat of strangled calves is of a bluish-red color.—American Agriculturist.

HINTS FOR THE DAIRY.

It is a question, and a vital one, whether the fertility of the ordinarily good farm could have its status preserved through even dairy farming, if the old-school practice prevailed, of pasturing and feeding little else than hay in the winter. It takes more land to keep the cow in that way than she can fertilize, no matter how well the fertilizers are husbanded. Whole districts in Ohio were almost run out in that way, and are being saved, so far as they are being redeemed at all, by increasing the stock, more than doubling the feeding capacity of an acre by raising corn and siloing it, and at first feeding grain food imported upon the farm. By this means the lost fertility comes back, so that in a few years, through rotation of crops of the right kind, and feeding them all, the farm will carry double the stock, without aid from foreign sources.

Every dairyman should raise a few nice heifer calves each year. What is more, he should pay especial attention to them just at this time of year. Shut them up in a dry and darkened stable during the daytime, to keep them away from the murderous flies, which torment them cruelly. Give them a feed at noon of fresh-cut clover and dry oats, together with a few quarts of sweet skim milk, and let them run out nights. This is the most trying time of year on spring calves.

One of the best coverings for corn ensilage we have even seen is green slough or marsh grass put on say three feet thick. The steam that arises from the ensilage quickly reduces the grass to a pulpy mass, and it settles down on top of the ensilage, effectually excluding the air. It is very much better to use some green material than chopped straw or chaff, for experience demonstrates that the heat and steam passes much more readily through the straw or chaff than through the green grass, and besides, the grass settles into a much more compact mass.

Drinking the whole milk makes fine fat calves, but calves raised on skim-milk and oatmeal and bran, if not so sleek at eight months old, had a better start in bone and muscle, and beat the pampered calf at two years of age. It is a waste of cash product to feed a calf whole milk after its rennant stomach changes so as to call for solid food, and it is a mistake to so feed it after it is ten days old. Warm skim milk and a little oatmeal are much better.

Do not worry about the cows not getting sufficient exercise. This time of year generally they are spending most of their time in traveling over sunburnt pastures looking for something to eat. A cow cannot do two things at once any more than can a man. If she has to hunt for food to keep her alive she must quit the milk-producing business. Remember one thing: If you want your cow to give a profitable flow of milk when butter brings a good price, you must keep her up with plenty of food. The cows have been preaching that doctrine steadily for years, and yet we know hundreds of farmers who pretend to understand how to handle cows, who seem to be ignorant of that important fact yet.

Edward A. Barnard, of Quebec, states that after many years of experience in storing ensilage he has come to the conclusion that a covering of boards and simple earth or muck is all that is necessary. The boards, of course, are not wasted, and can be used from year to year; and the dirt costs nothing but the handling; while he claims that any kind of straw or cheap hay costs something and is good for other uses, and is spoiled for all uses, save for manure, if used to cover a silo. The first row of boards is covered by a second row, cutting the joints of the first. Over this we place six inches of any kind of soil, preferring dry muck, which we elevate into the silo with the elevator of the corn cutter. We thus have an air-tight covering, and a sufficient pressure on top to drive out the air from the top whilst putting on the cover. Good straw is worth one-half of good hay in any well-balanced ration. Why should intelligent farmers rot one foot deep of cut straw over the silo? The same may be said of marsh hay, or any food fit for stock.—Hoard's Dairyman.

FARM AND GARDEN NOTES.

Clover is a cheap feed for hogs.

Sheep should have shelter from the sun in summer and have dry quarters in winter.

You will never have a better time than now to post yourself in the matter of stock raising.

Plowing for spring crops is now in order and can be done better and with less [illegible] than [illegible].

HOUSEHOLD MATTERS.

SOUTHERN GEORGIA BISCUITS.

The Southern biscuit is a rather thin cake baked like New England soda biscuit, but much thinner, and made usually of buttermilk and soda, rather than sweet milk. This gives a crisp, flaky cake. Mix through a quart of flour, an even half teaspoonful of soda, sift it through several times, add a teaspoonful of butter and one of lard, rubbing them through the flour repeatedly. Stir a scant pint of buttermilk through the flour and beat the mass together very rapidly. Roll it out on a floured board and dredge, then roll out half an inch thick and cut with a small cutter. Bake in a very quick oven fifteen or twenty minutes. This is a biscuit that appears on the table of many Georgia families day after day as a regular breakfast dish. It is especially delicious made by practised hands.—New York Tribune.

SUGGESTIONS ABOUT OIL LAMPS.

The oil reservoir should be of metal, rather than of china or glass. Wicks should be soft, not too tightly plaited. Wicks should be dried at the fire before being put into the lamps, and should be only just long enough to reach the bottom of the oil reservoir. They should be so wide that they quite fill the wick-holder without having to be squeezed into it, and should be soaked with oil before being lit. The reservoir should be quite filled with oil every time before using the lamp. The lamp should be thoroughly clean, all oil should be carefully wiped off, and all charred wick and dirt removed before lighting. When the lamp is lit the wick should be at first turned down, and then slowly raised. Lamps which have no extinguishing apparatus should be put out as follows: The wick should be turned down until there is only a small flickering flame, and a sharp puff of breath should then be sent across the top of the chimney, but not down it.

IRONING BOARD AND NAPKIN HOLDER.

Is your ironing board fixed so it is a pleasure to iron on, and no trouble to keep clean? The following is a good plan: Take a long, wide board (a narrow one is a nuisance), tapering at the left-hand end; cover it within a foot of each end, thickly and smoothly on both sides, with a woolen blanket; do not make a seam on the flat side, but with carpet tacks fasten the blanket on the narrow edge. Next cover tightly with a sheet doubled, keeping both sides of your board perfectly smooth. Now you are ready for the outside. Take stout muslin, and make a cover the same as you would for a bolster case, open at both end, make it to slip on tight. This is easily removed and laundried, and your board is always neat and clean.

Iron calicoes on one side, white clothes on the other side. You will find this a great improvement on the old plan of ironing all on one side, and having the colored lint coming off on the starched white clothes.

A convenience is a basket to gather up the small articles that are so useful on the table, but yet require so many steps between pantry and table. Take a small, long basket (grape basket), stain with walnut staining, line with red silesia or turkey red calico, tie ribbon bows at the sides of the handle and it is completed. All the salts, napkins, doylies, etc., put in this, can be removed at once, and are ready the next time they are wanted, and the dainty touches are a delight instead of a weariness to the flesh.—American Cultivator.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

If ribbons need renewing, wash them in cool soap suds, cover with a clean cloth and iron when damp.

A disk or wafer of sealing wax placed in the bottom of a glass bowl will give crushed ice a pretty, delusive glow.

The bread of the hour is called cressemy. It sell at fifty cents a pound, and is served with the soup and cheese courses.

A small piece of paper or linen moistened with turpentine, and put into the wardrobe or drawers for a single day or two or three times a year, is a preventive against moths.

To set delicate colors in embroidered handkerchiefs, soak them ten minutes previous to washing in a pail of tepid water, in which a dessertspoonful of turpentine has been well stirred.

Hard-boiled eggs served in a hot gravy or vinegar is a recent gastronomic introduction of some of the fashionable clubs in London. The dish is said to have had its origin in India.

The yellow room has had its day, the blue room is passe and the crimson and gold apartment too emphatic to be æsthetic. Now it is white for brides, debutantes and young mothers.

An excellent way of cooking eggs is to break them in boiling milk without beating; cook slowly, stirring now and then. When done soft pour into a dish and add a little pepper, salt and butter.

When you boil a cabbage tie a bit of dry bread in a bag and put it in the kettle. French cooks say that all the unpleasant odor which makes a house smell like an old drain will be absorbed by the bread.

Do not scrape the inside of frying pans, as after this operation any preparation fried is liable to catch or burn to the pan. If the pan is black inside, rub it with a hard crust of bread and wash in hot water mixed with a little soda.

Unsightly fire places may be converted into spicy, woody, sylvian nooks by a rustic arrangement of balsam, palm, bitter-sweet and mistletoe branches. The greens are piled up on the hearthstone unless they can be interlaced about the fender and apron.

Many people iron towels and put them away before they are dry. This is an error, and sometimes leads to results not expected. In this damp condition there is a mold which forms on them called oidium, one variety of which causes numerous skin diseases.

To remove mildew and iron rust—Spread the garment stained on the grass in the hottest sun and squeeze over the spots lemon juice, sprinkling it thickly with salt. This will draw out the heavy iron-rust stains if the sun is hot enough. Renew the process if it is not successful the first time.

Every mother knows how difficult it is to clean the baby's finger-nails. By folding some tissue paper into a sharp point, and when using it calling the attention of the baby to something else, this simple task can be easily performed. The paper is so soft that it does not hurt the tender flesh, yet it is sufficiently firm to remove every particle of dirt.

A FICKLE YOUNG MAN.

Two Wedding Parties, But Only One Marriage.

Joseph L. Smith, a young man holding a responsible position at the American Tube Works, Youngstown, Ohio, called upon Deputy Probate Judge McGown and requested that he open the Probate office, as he desired a marriage license issued for himself and Miss Mattie Scoville, daughter of a farmer living at Poland, six miles from here. The license was issued, and Smith then called upon a minister, stating that he desired some advice upon a delicate and, to him, a most important matter. Smith produced the marriage license, and said that while he was engaged to Miss Scoville, and all arrangements had been made to have the marriage celebrated at her home at 9 o'clock that evening, he was also engaged to Miss Lizzie Zimmett, the daughter of a wealthy widow, and had also promised to marry her at 9 o'clock that evening.

Smith said that he loved both young ladies equally well, and desired to marry one of them but could not come to a decision, and for this reason had called upon the minister for his advice. The groom elect also said that one of the young ladies was a Protestant and the other a Catholic, but the latter, through love for him, had consented to set aside her religion and be married by a Protestant minister. When asked how he had come to engage himself to two young ladies and agree to marry both at the same hour, Smith answered, "Because I was a fool and love them both." The minister said to him that the only advice he could give was for Smith to decide which girl he loved the most, and notify the other that he desired the engagement with her cancelled.

Smith departed, and shortly after, calling on Judge McGown, requested to have the license changed, asking that the name of Miss Mattie Scoville be erased and that of Miss Lizzie Zimmett substituted, stating that he had decided to marry the latter. Calling a carriage, he drove to the residence of Miss Zimmett, who was waiting his arrival, and soon after presented himself with the young lady before the minister whom he had called upon.

The clergyman noticed that the names had been changed in the license, that of Miss Scoville being erased and Miss Zimmett's inserted, and, not desiring to be caught by any trick, he sent for Judge McGown. The latter explained that the change had been legally made and that the license was in proper form. Smith called Judge McGown aside and said: "I want you to telephone Miss Scoville that I will not be down to-night." Upon reaching his office Judge McGown telephoned the family of Miss Scoville, asking if Smith was expected there, and the reply came: "Yes; the guests have assembled and the bride is waiting."

As gently as possible the Judge informed the family that Smith at that time was being married to Miss Zimmett. The guests at the Scoville residence were dismissed, and the family were left to tender such sympathy as was possible to the daughter who had expected to become a bride. While the message was being conveyed over the wires to the Scoville homestead, Smith and Miss Zimmett were being married. The groom is an industrious young man of excellent reputation, while his bride is a well-educated young lady.—[Cleveland Leader.

Alive with Wires.

The house of one of Edison's chiefs is absolutely alive with wires. As one approaches the front gate it swings open and shuts automatically. The visitor's foot on the porch rings a bell in the kitchen and also one in the master's study. By touching a button he opens the front door before the stranger has time to knock. An electrical music box plays during dinner. When the guest retires to his bed-room the folding bed unfolds by electricity. When he puts out the gas a strange, mocking display of skeletons, gravestones, owls and other hideous phantasmagoria dance about on the wall at his feet.

"O to be dead and done with the trouble
That fills each day with a dreary pain."
This is the moan of many a woman
Who thinks she can never be well again.
"It were better for me and better for others
If I were dead," and their tears fall fast.
Not so, not so, O wives and mothers.

There's a bow of hope in the sky at last, and it tells you that the storm of disease which has spread its shadows over you, will give way to the sunshine of renewed health, if you are wise, and try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It can and will effectually cure all female weaknesses and derangements, and no woman who has not tried it need despair, for a trial will convince her that it is the very thing she needs to restore her to the health she fears forever lost.

To cleanse the stomach, liver, and system generally, use Dr. Pierce's Pellets. 25 cents.

The propensity to evil or dishonorable courses is much more to be deplored than the acts which come of it.

$5000 for a Wife.

One of the greatest stories (founded on fact) ever published, commences in the December (X-mas) number of GODEY'S LADY'S BOOK, published at Philadelphia. Every woman should read it. Ready Nov. 15. All Newsdealers.

A pocket cigar-case free to smokers of "Tansill's Punch" 5c. Cigar.

Danger from Catarrh

Catarrh is an exceedingly disagreeable disease, its varied symptoms—discharge at the nose, bad breath, pain between the eyes, coughing, choking sensation, ringing noises in the ears, etc.—being not only troublesome to the sufferer, but offensive to others. Catarrh is also dangerous, because it may lead to bronchitis or consumption. Being a blood disease, the true method of cure is to purify the blood by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"For several years I had been troubled with a kind of asthma or catarrh in my throat. My wife wanted me to try a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla. I must say I was very much benefited by using it and would recommend it very highly."—[illegible] P. [illegible], Omaha, Neb.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

OPIUM and WHISKEY HABITS cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE. B. M. WOOLLEY, M. D., ATLANTA, GA. Office 65½ Whitehall St.

The Color of Plants.

A French scientific agriculturist, after almost thirty years of assiduous researches on the experimental farm at Vincennes, has made a remarkable and important discovery of a relation existing between the color of plants and the richness of soils in fertilizing agents. He finds that the color of the leaves of plants undergoes marked change whenever the soil is lacking in phosphate potash, lime or nitrogen. The color remains light green or turns to yellow when the soil is deficient in any of these ingredients. When none of the fertilizing elements are wanting the color is dark green. By his experiments he furnishes agriculturists with positive indications by which they can determine with the greatest facility what kind of fertilizer the soil needs most or in what elements of fertility it abounds, enabling them to "make two blades of grass grow where now grows one."

THERE is nothing of which men are more liberal than their good advice, be their stock of it ever so small; because it seems to carry in it an intimation of their own influence, importance or great worth.

STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLEDO,
LUCAS COUNTY, S. S.

FRANK J. CHENEY makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of HALL'S CATARRH CURE.

FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. '86.

A. W. GLEASON,
Notary Public.

SEAL

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75 cents.

"Lucy Hinton."

Hark! the sound of many voices,
Jubilant in gladdest song,
And full many a heart rejoices
As the chorus floats along:
"Hail the Queen of all Tobaccos!"
How the happy voices blend,
"Finest and purest among her fellows—
Man's staunch and true friend."

Oregon, the Paradise of Farmers.

Mild, equable climate, certain and abundant crops. Best fruit, grain, grass and stock country in the world. Full information free. Address Oreg. Im'igra'tn Board, Portland, Ore.

If afflicted with sore eyes use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye-Water. Druggists sell at 25c per bottle

"MOTHERS' FRIEND"
MAKES CHILD BIRTH EASY
SHORTENS LABOR
LESSENS PAIN
DIMINISHES DANGER TO LIFE OF MOTHER AND CHILD
BOOK TO "MOTHERS" MAILED FREE
BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO. ATLANTA GA
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

SMITH'S BILE BEANS

Act on the liver and bile; clear the complexion; cure billiousness, sick headache, costiveness, malaria and all liver and stomach disorders.

We are now making small size Bile Beans, especially adapted for children and women—very small and easy to take. Price of either size 25c per bottle.

A panel size PHOTO-GRAVURE of the above picture, "Kissing at 7-17-70," mailed on receipt of 2c stamp. Address the makers of the great Anti-Bile Remedy—"Bile Beans."

J. F. SMITH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

AGENTS Wanted! FOR LIVING LEADERS OF THE WORLD

A MASTERLY WORK OF Matchless Interest.

Comprising graphic biographies of the Men and Women of Greatest Eminence, Wealth and Power, who are leading the millions of mankind and shaping the destiny of Nations. Prepared by such distinguished authors as GEN. LEW WALLACE, HON. S. S. COX, MRS. FRANK LESLIE, JOEL CHANDLER HARRIS, and others. The most valuable and popular Book published in twenty years. A rare chance for Agents to make big money. Liberal Terms and exclusive territory. Write at once for agency. Address H. C. HUDGINS & CO., ATLANTA, GA.

Ely's Cream Balm

GIVES RELIEF AT ONCE FOR COLD IN HEAD.
—CURES—
CATARRH.

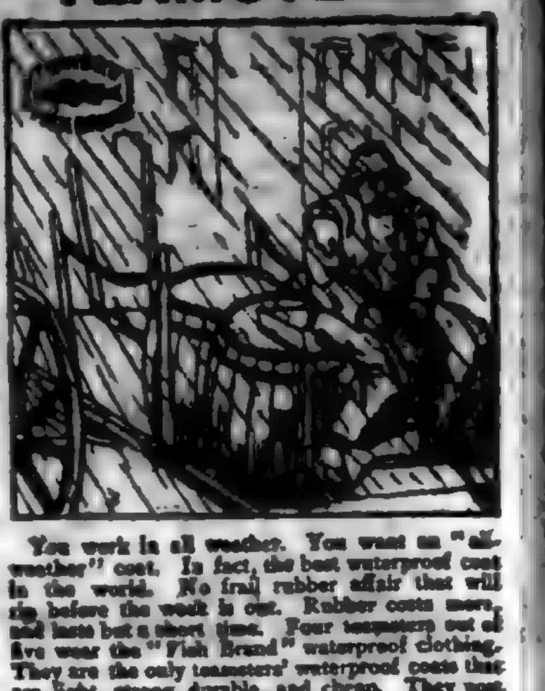
Apply Balm into each nostril.
ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y.

SOUTHERN PRINTERS' SUPPLY CO.
WE CARRY IN STOCK
Type, Cases, Stands, Presses,
Paper Cutters
AND EVERYTHING USED IN A PRINTING OR PUBLISHING HOUSE.
Call on us and SAVE MONEY!
34 West Alabama Street, ATLANTA, GA.

RELIABLE GOODS LOW PRICES.
Watches and Jewelry
Clocks, Diamonds, Silverware
Send for Catalogue of 5000 Illustrations
CLAPP & CO. 18 & 20 LIBERTY St. New York.

OPIUM HABIT.
A Valuable Treatise Giving full information of an Easy and Speedy cure free to the afflicted. Dr. J. C. HOFFMAN, Jefferson, Wisconsin.

TEAMSTERS.



You work in all weather. You want an "all-weather" coat. In fact, the best waterproof coat in the world. No frail rubber affair that will rip before the work is out. Rubber coats more, and lasts but a short time. Four teamsters out of five wear the "Fish Brand" waterproof clothing. They are the only teamsters' waterproof coats that are light, strong, durable, and cheap. They cost very little, and last a long time. They never get sticky or peel off. The buttons are wire-fastened, and never come off. They are absolutely waterproof and wind-proof. Until you own one you will never know the comfort of a rainy day. Beware of worthless imitations, every garment stamped with the "Fish Brand" Trade Mark. Don't accept any inferior coat when you can have the "Fish Brand Slicker" delivered without extra cost. Particulars and illustrated catalogue free.

A. J. TOWER, - Boston, Mass.

SEND FOR A COPY OF
Peterson's Magazine
The Best and Cheapest of the Lady's-Books.

It is without a rival in the excellence of its stories and novelets, the beauty of its illustrations, the completeness of its fashion and work-table departments, and the helpfulness of its many miscellaneous Articles. It numbers among its contributors some of our best-known authors.

Eight novelets, nearly one hundred short stories, sketches of travel, history, biography, etc., articles on home dressmaking, the care of the sick, and household management, numerous designs for needlework, embroidery, knitting, painting, etc., will be given during 1890, making a volume of nearly 1800 pages.

TERMS: Two Dollars per year, with great reductions to clubs and fine premiums for getting up clubs.

Sample copy free, to get up a club with.

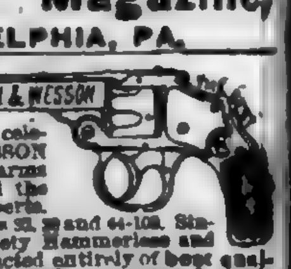
Address

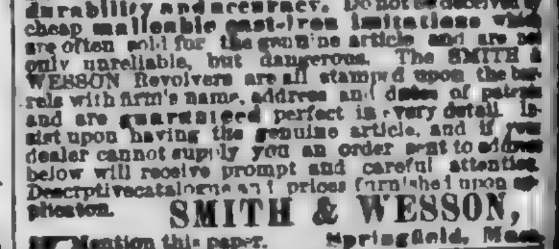
Peterson's Magazine,
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

IF YOU WISH A GOOD REVOLVER purchase one of the celebrated SMITH & WESSON arms. The finest small arms ever manufactured and the first choice of all experts. Manufactured in calibres 32, 38 and 44-100. Single or double action, Safety Hammerless and Target models. Constructed entirely of best quality wrought steel, carefully inspected for workmanship and stock, they are unrivaled for finish, durability and accuracy. Do not be deceived by cheap malleable cast-iron imitations which are often sold for the genuine article and are not only unreliable, but dangerous. The SMITH & WESSON Revolvers are all stamped upon the barrels with firm's name, address and dates of patents and are guaranteed perfect in every detail. Insist upon having the genuine article, and if your dealer cannot supply you an order sent to address below will receive prompt and careful attention. Descriptive catalogue and prices furnished upon application.

SMITH & WESSON,
Springfield, Mass.

Mention this paper.





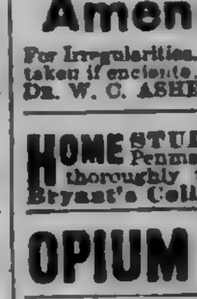
$7 FOR A Double Breech-Loader

Breech-Loaders, $4 to $50.
Winchester 15-shot Rifles, $11 to $18.
Breech-loading Rifles, $2.25 to $12.00.
Self-cocking Revolvers, Nickel-plated, $2.00.
Send 2c. stamp for 60-page Catalogue and save 25 per cent.
GRIFFITH & SEMPLE, 512 W. Main, Louisville, Ky.

AFTER ALL OTHERS FAIL CONSULT
DR. LOBB
329 North Fifteenth St., Philadelphia, Pa., for the treatment of Blood Poisons, Skin Eruptions, Nervous Complaints, Bright's Disease, Strictures, Impotency and kindred diseases, no matter of how long standing or from what cause originating. Ten days' medicines furnished by mail FREE. Send for Book on SPECIAL Diseases.

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH
PENNYROYAL PILLS
RED CROSS DIAMOND BRAND.

Safe and always reliable. Ladies, ask Druggist for Diamond Brand, in red, metallic boxes, sealed with blue ribbon. Take no other. All pills in pasteboard boxes, pink wrappers, are dangerous counterfeits. Send 4c. (stamps) for particulars, testimonials and "Relief for Ladies," in letter, by return mail. Name Paper.
Chichester Chem'l Co., Madison Sq., Phila., Pa.



JONES
HE PAYS THE FREIGHT.
5 Ton Wagon Scales,
Iron Levers, Steel Bearings, Brass Tare Beam and Beam Box for $60.
Every size Scale. For free price list mention this paper and address
JONES OF BINGHAMTON,
BINGHAMTON, N. Y.

LADIES
Amenagogue Pills
For Irregularities. Safe and certain. Should not be taken if enciente. Price per box of 100 pills, $1.00. DR. W. C. ASHER, 21½ Marietta St., ATLANTA, Ga.

HOME STUDY. Book-keeping, Business Forms, Penmanship, Arithmetic, Short-hand, etc., thoroughly taught by MAIL. Circulars free. Bryant's College, 457 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y.

OPIUM HABIT. Only Certain and easy CURE in the World. J. L. STEPHENS, Lebanon, O.

Cures in 1 TO 5 DAYS. Guaranteed not to cause Stricture. Mf'd only by the Evans Chemical Co. Cincinnati, Ohio.

I prescribe and fully endorse Big G as the only specific for the certain cure of this disease.
G. H. INGRAHAM, M. D., Amsterdam, N. Y.

We have sold Big G for many years, and it has given the best of satisfaction.
D. R. DYCHE & CO., Chicago, Ill.

$1.00. Sold by Druggists.

A. N. U. .... Forty-six, '89

PISO'S REMEDY FOR CATARRH.—Best. Easiest to use. Cheapest. Relief is immediate. A cure is certain. For Cold in the Head it has no equal.

CATARRH

It is an Ointment, of which a small particle is applied to the nostrils. Price, 50c. Sold by druggists or sent by mail. Address, E. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.

BRYANT & STRATTON Business College
Book Keeping, Short-hand, Telegraphy, &c. Write for Catalogue and full information. LOUISVILLE, KY.

THE YOUTH'S COMPANION
Announcements for 1890

COMES EVERY WEEK | READ IN 430,000 HOMES | STORIES | 1000 | TRAVEL | SCIENCE | FOR ALL THE FAMILY | ONLY $1.75 A YEAR

[illegible]

THIS SLIP

FREE TO JAN. 1, 1890. [illegible]

WITH $1.75

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per Square, of one inch space or less, for the first, and Fifty Cents for each subsequent insertion.

Inches.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
1 Inch	$5 00	$7 00	$11 75
2 Inches	7 00	11 25	16 00
3 Inches	10 00	15 00	22 50
4 Inches	13 50	20 00	27 00
[illegible]	15 00	22 50	33 00
[illegible] Column	18 00	27 00	60 00
[illegible] Column	27 00	40 00	60 00
1 Column	40 00	60 00	100 00

The Chilton View.

W. H. LAWRENCE, Editor and Publisher. "WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION." TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME IX. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 28, 1889. NUMBER 5.

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line each insertion.

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be headed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

☞ The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

CAHEEN EXTENDS A CORDIAL INVITATION TO ALL STRANGERS VISITING OUR CITY.

COME TO OUR GREAT MAMMOTH DOUBLE STORES,

AND

Make yourselves at home. Use our store as you would your own home. CAHEEN will ever strive to make your visit pleasant and profitable. It will be a pleasure for us to show you through

THE GREAT DRY GOODS HOUSE OF BIRMINGHAM.

F. CAHEEN, 2018 & 2020 First Avnnue.

CASTLE GARDEN.

INTERESTING FIGURES ABOUT NEW YORK'S "BATTERY."

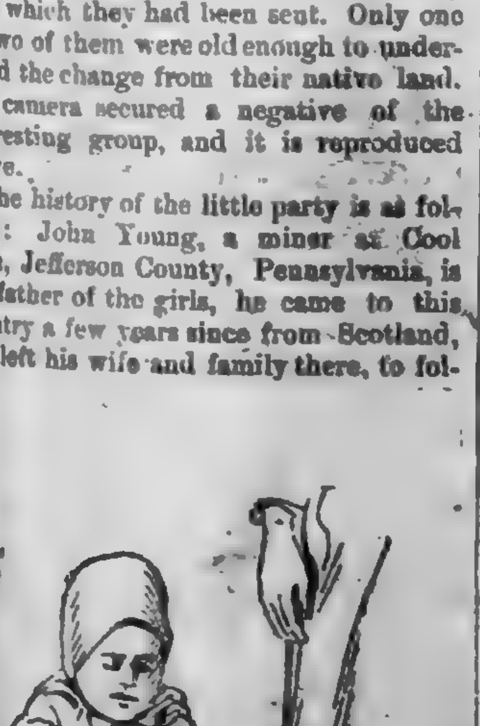
Five Youngsters Who Came Alone From Scotland—A Genuine Circassian Woman—Two Slovacs—Beginning Life at 92.

Five little red-cheeked children stood upon the dock at Castle Garden and looked across the waters of the harbor anxiously. Their eyes were red from crying. The officials of the place, from Superintendent Simpson down, all treated the little ones with marked attention, and saw that everything possible was done to make them comfortable. They had just landed by one of the puffy little steamboats from the steamship Fulda, down the bay. These little folks were the last to come ashore. Upon the breast of each was a yellow tag, bearing an inscription in several languages. There were four girls and one boy in the group, and they had come all the way from a little hamlet near Glasgow, Scotland, thus oddly labeled. The tags told who they were, where they were going, to whom they were to be delivered in America, and also certified that their fare had been paid to the steamship company that forwarded them.

FROM THE LAND O' CAKES.

The children were looking for the first time at the wonders of the new country into which they had been sent. Only one or two of them were old enough to understand the change from their native land. The camera secured a negative of the interesting group, and it is reproduced above.

The history of the little party is as follows: John Young, a miner at Cool Glen, Jefferson County, Pennsylvania, is the father of the girls, he came to this country a few years since from Scotland, and left his wife and family there, to follow him as soon as he should have earned money enough to send for them. He sent for them two months ago, but before his letter reached Scotland, his wife had died and Jeanette, aged eleven years, was left in charge of her three little sisters. Of these, Ellen was but a trifle over four years of age; Jane just past eight years, and Katie not quite ten. Alexander King, aged fifteen years, but a boy quite small for his years, was the only acquaintance the orphans had near their home, and boy though he was, he came bravely to their assistance in their hour of need. He wrote a letter to Mr. Young immediately on receipt of his letter summoning his family to America, and informed him that as all five could travel at a less rate than Mrs. Young and the four girls could have done, he proposed, through the aid of the steamship company at Glasgow, to bring the motherless children to America, to their father, and deliver them to him, and then look about for something to do for himself, since he, also, had lost his [illegible].



A HUNGARIAN BABY.

THE BABY'S MOTHER.

With the money Mr. Young had sent young King purchased steerage tickets to New York and landed here with money enough left to pay the railroad fares of the party to Cool Glen, Penn., where Mr. Young met them on their arrival. Before the little travelers sailed the agent of the Fulda attached to each a card or tag giving name, age, destination, and route all the way through.

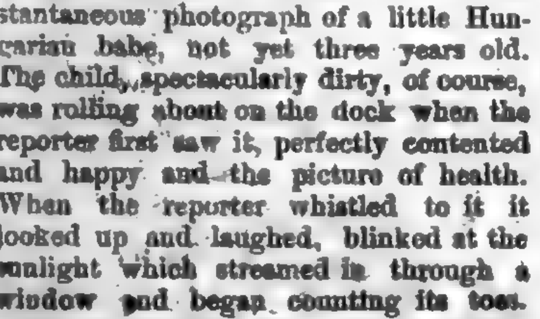
Jeannette said that she got along very well, except that the two youngest children were very sick coming over. She was eager for the meeting with her father, which was to be the greatest event of her life. The party left by the Pennsylvania Railroad for Cool Glen.

"Here are two specimens," said Major Semsey, of the Garden, "the like of whom very rarely come to this country. They are Slovacs, and come from the highlands in the east of Slavonia, in Hungary, on the borders of the land of Galicia, which is an Austrian possession. These men speak the oldest language known to exist to-day. The Slavonic tongue, with its eight or ten dialects, is spoken by these men. We call them Slovacs."

The immigrants referred to came forward from a seat in the large room at the beck of Major Semsey. They were clad in loose-fitting blouses of homespun woolen cloth. They wore fur caps of turban shape upon their heads and were most peculiar looking people. Each of these men speaks several dialects of his own language, besides Latin, Greek and Russian. Yet they have come to America to work in the coal mines of Pennsylvania for $1 to $1.50 per day.

A picture of one of the pretty sights in the Garden is drawn from an instantaneous photograph of a little Hungarian babe, not yet three years old. The child, spectacularly dirty, of course, was rolling about on the dock when the reporter first saw it, perfectly contented and happy and the picture of health. When the reporter whistled to it it looked up and laughed, blinked at the sunlight which streamed in through a window and began counting its toes.

The mother of this rollicking little baby was pretty also. Her husband came to America a year ago from Hungary. He started a hand-organ route, and gathered in money sufficient to purchase a peanut and fruit stand. Then he bought a fruit store, and to-day is doing a good business on the East Side. His wife and baby were waiting until he should come to meet them. There was a celebration in at least one family in this town last evening, and this happy reunion was the cause of it.



A PAIR OF SLOVACS.

Tell me, Balbus, where, oh where is the Circassian beauty's beer-stiffened hair? Circassian girls in museums always have hair that sticks straight up all over their heads, and it always stands that way; but no one, even though he watched the door of a museum for a month, ever saw a Circassian girl emerge from it after the performances of the day was over. Why? Well, a photograph of a Circassian family at Castle Garden was taken. It shows that the costumes of the woman was pretty and quaint. Shé wore a plaid shawl over her head and her bodice and skirt were of brilliant colors, but she hadn't stand-up hair. Her hair was long and straight, but soft as silk, and reached to her waist and below. There wasn't the slightest resemblance between her and any museum Circassians ever seen: but she was better looking than any of them. Her husband was a round-faced, tall, lanky individual, with little squinty eyes and short hair.

BEGINNING LIFE AT NINETY-TWO.

He was dressed in American clothes, for he had been here a very long time—a week. He was awaiting remittances by an incoming steamship, which would enable him to go into business in the country. The woman wanted to know how large the river was that flowed through New York, and what held the bridges up on which the railroad trains ran. She imagined that the elevated roads were gigantic bridges. What will she think when she sees the Brooklyn Bridge and its trains of cable cars in motion?

Ivan Godoviski is ninety-two years old, and spry as a man of fifty. His beard is as white as snow and his hair is a good match. Old Ivan has crossed the ocean no less than sixteen times during his life, and now, at the advanced age of almost a century, he comes to our shores as an immigrant. He has but little money, but his stock of pluck and courage is as great as it was before most of the readers of the Evening Sun were born, and he says he will go into business in New York and lay up something upon which to live when he becomes too old to work. His former visits to America were made in the interest of his business as a furrier in Odessa, on the Black Sea. He was worth an independent fortune at the age of forty, but, like many other men, sought to increase it. He became involved in political troubles about fifteen years ago, and his property was confiscated. He left Odessa and went to the south of France.

The Safety Mine Signal System.

Following is the latest statement we have received in regard to the Shaw mine signal: "By means of this apparatus it is not only possible to detect the presence of gases in any part of the mine but also to ascertain what form of gas is present, and in some cases pump it out. The case as it stands cannot be better illustrated than by the following incidents: The Morrell mine at Connellsville, operated by the Cambria Iron Company, has been fully equipped with the Shaw system. In the office at the mouth of the mine stands a signalling apparatus, which, by the ringing of a bell, calls attention to the fact that there is gas in the mine, and by an ingenious mechanism the exact part of the mine in which it is to be found is pointed out.

"Recently the signal was given that in a certain portion of the mine gas existed in sufficient quantity to have caused a fatal explosion had a lamp been brought in contact with it. The gas was pumped out by means of the pumping apparatus of the system, and in about two hours' time it was perfectly safe to enter that part of the mine. In this case the discovery of the danger and prevention of accident was made without the slightest risk to life. At Scranton, almost at the same time, a party of mine superintendents went into a portion of a mine for purposes of inspection, and, not knowing anything of its condition, were caught in an explosion of gases and a number of them injured for life. This accident could not have occurred if the same appliances had been at hand for detecting the presence of gases as were in use at the Morrell mine.—[Coal Trade Journal.

THAT IS WHY HE WAS THERE.

McCrackle—Didn't you tell me that Maddox belonged to the better element of society?

McCorkle—Yes.

"Well, I've seen him coming out of gambling places several times."

"Yes; he goes there to bet. That's what I said."—[New York Sun.

Beyond the Gates.

Sometimes in dreams I see it,
  This city fair and grand;
Its doors of jasper brightness
  Stand forth on either hand.
'Twas here the pilgrim tarried,
  And here good cheer awaits
The weary one who enters
  At the opening of the gates.

Each window is an opal
  With hues born of the noon,
Through which rich perfumes wander
  Caught from the air of June.
And here are sandals waiting
  In which the weary feet,
New shod in royal splendor,
  May roam the shining street.

Oh, City of the Beautiful,
  Could waking heart forget
The gardens where the lilies
  Like crystal flakes were set?
Where heaven's doves in sunshine
  Like rainbows went and came?
Where the sun woke swathed in azure,
  And died on fields of flame?

Here, too, are fountains playing
  To cheer this heart of thine,
And meadows flush with violets
  And winds as rich as wine;
While each thing glad and beautiful
  The loving soul awaits,
When once the veil is rended,
  And we stand within the gates.

Dear City of the Holy,
  For the walks of palm I long;
For the love that maketh lovely,
  For the faith that maketh strong,
For thy green and growing cedars,
  Thy lakes of silvery calm,
For thy peace past comprehension
  That floods thine isles of balm.

Take Thou my hand, my Saviour,
  The way is dark and wild.
Far off, a star, the city shines
  It beckons on Thy Child.
Joy! joy! they come, the beautiful
  A myriad host awaits,
And heaven refulgent floods my soul
  At the widening of the gates!

—Harriet Mabel Spalding.

A NON-RESISTANT.

Jabez Dickinson was the village merchant, kept the village store, where he sold everything from silk ribbons to tallow-candles and sugar-candies. He was not a deacon, but he was always named and known as Deacon Jabe, because there was never known a man who more firmly, boldly and consistently asserted and practiced the doctrines of the Christian life. Universally loved and respected by the people, old and young, he had led a long life of peace and quiet, doing good and getting good. And during this life he had been an unwavering non-resistant. He was not much of a talker. He seldom preached. But in the store, where it was the custom of the men of the community to gather, especially on Saturday evenings, the nickname Deacon had been given him for years, and thence had traveled through the community. Seldom volunteering opinions, he was often appealed to for the decision of mooted questions. And if you do not know it, I can tell you that in the country store there are daily discussions of questions, moral, philosophical, religious and practical, in which at least as much average good sound sense and logical power is developed as in any meeting of any of the modern scientific associations, British or American. Always, however, Deacon Jabe had laid down and adhered to his non-resistance principles, and this in the face of much provocation to think and act otherwise. Many indignities he had suffered from fellows of the baser sort, insults and personal wrongs, always taking them meekly and without resentment. In all the town there was but one supporter of his radical views, and he often wished he was free from that ally. For Miss Alvira Smith was a cantankerous talker and fighter, doing with her tongue a perpetual war, offensive and defensive, while she proclaimed the sinfulness of physical offence or defence with any other muscles or member of the human body. For, after all, it is but a question of muscles, and the non-resistant who forbids blows with the fist is often a consistent dealer of deadly [illegible] with the voice.

The deacon had received much and sore provocation from Silas Maxwell, the town bully, a fellow of powerful structure, who rejoiced in his ability to whip any man in the county. And he had fought many battles, not in sport, with invariable victory. My story would be too long were I to recite a talk on Saturday evening in the store when Silas nagged Jabez and insulted him again and again, presuming and boasting that he presumed on the deacon's non-resistance, which Silas said was nothing but cowardice.

"He don't resist bekase he daresent resist," said the bully, walking across the store and helping himself to a chunk of tobacco, at the same moment opening a huge knife wherewith to cut off a mouthful.

Little Katie Wheeler was the deacon's grand-daughter, a lovely child, the joy of his life, sole descendant of his dead wife and daughter. Katie was a sad invalid, but she had a well mind, never ill, never sickly. All day long she was in and out of the store; always breezy and cheery, making perpetual springtime in the life of the lonesome man. Her little chair stood where in the evenings she sat till her grandfather closed the door and she walked home with him. Everybody loved Katie—even Silas Maxwell, brute though he was. As Silas took the tobacco in his hand Katie sprang from her chair and snatched it away from him, saying: "Silas Maxwell, you shan't steal granther's tobacco any more." The child's impulsive act and clear ringing voice were greeted with a shout from the fifteen or twenty villagers in the store. The act, the word "steal" and the approving shout roused the fiend in Silas, and, seizing Katie by the arm, he uttered a brutal oath as he raised his right hand with the open knife to strike.

Jabez had kept his eyes on the man, and up to this instant had been struggling to keep down what he believed to be his sinful desire to silence the other's insolence with earthly weapons. Now, as he saw the knife raised he was a converted man. Well was it for Katie that her grandfather in the long-forgotten days of his sinful youth had been mighty in battles, power residing in the muscles of his arms and shoulders for which he had been famous when Silas Maxwell was a child. The deacon's legs were like steel springs, and without waiting for his mind to direct them, they of their own free will launched him like a rock from a catapult across the narrow store. The shoulder and arm acted next, for the deacon always declared that it was the physical body God had given him which acted for itself when the closed fist dealt on the bridge of Silas Maxwell's nose an awful blow.

The bully reeled backward one, two, three short steps and fell, full length, over a keg of nails.

Jabez stood silent, while Silas gathered himself up. He knew what was coming, and now he reasoned within himself, swiftly but sufficiently. And when the huge fellow rushed at him intent on crushing him, the old skill (he said) learned in satan's service now came to him for the Lord's service in defense of himself and the child and in the just punishment of that ruffian. Silas Maxwell had for the first time met his master. Those trip-hammer blows of Jabez Dickinson's tremendous fis live in the village traditions. There were but three, or at the most, four of them, with the right arm first, with the left arm second, the other arm stopping the puny thrusts of the bully. And so it came about that Jabez drove Silas across the store till he stood with his back to the window, open to the floor.

When he had him there he dealt one more and final blow, right between the big man's eyes, a blow, backed up with a continuous thrust from all the weight of his body, which threw the ruffian off his feet, back overhead through the window. The [illegible] [illegible] this window. The deacon knew it, and had been coolly thinking of it all the 40 seconds or less between the first rush of Silas and his final exit. "Go out, some on ye, and take him out. I kinder think he's got enough of it," said Jabez, very calmly, as he sat down and took Katie on his knees and kissed her.

There was silence and awe in the store for a few moments. Then some one came in and said that Silas reckoned he had got enough, and had gone home. Silas was converted then and thenceforth.

Not so the Deacon. He was, like all non-resistants under like circumstances, in some danger of relapse into his old folly. I have not space to relate at length how his new sentiments became fixed. It came about in this way. Miss Smith made a descent on him the next day and poured out on him the vials of her peculiarly unpleasant wrath for "goin' back on non-resistance." He listened in silence. Again and again, and again, alone and in the presence of whatever people might be in the store, that inexpressible and intolerable female rated Jabez. And Jabez became hardened. At last he deliberately made up his mind that resistance to a male bully like Silas had been a religious duty, and, as a corollary, that resistance, being duly measured for the case, to a female bully like Almira Smith would be a virtue. So he prepared a trap. And one day when Almira was coming down the street, and Jabez knew that her entrance and assault on him were as certain as foreordination, he set the trap.

"Jabez," said the sharp voice, as its owner entered the store, "Jabez Dickinson," it repeated, as she crossed the floor. "Look out Almiry," said the deacon, "stop jist there or you'll spill somethin'!"

"What are you talkin' about, Deacon Jabez Dickinson?" said the keen, piercing voice. "I've come in because I can't find it in me to pass by without warnin' you——" At that moment there descended around Almira Smith a cloud of fine black pepper. It began gently, and she interrupted her tirade with a sneeze. She tried to resume, but the more she tried the more she sneezed, and the clouds gathered thicker around her.

Sneezing and dignity are incompatible. Continuous sneezing is incompatible with self-respect or self-admiration. Almira had no idea of changing her convulsive affliction to the Doctor's new doctrine of resistance to vocal and other physical assaults. She abandoned the field. She sneezed along the road home. She sneezed all night.

And Jabez chuckled and kept his secret, and lived, and is living now, a sensible man. "Ye see," he said in confidence, "I could a' stood Silas, and if he'd a come back I'd a told him I was sorry. But Silas came in, and before I got a chance he told me he was sorry, and I kind o' concluded I had been doin' right. But the nat'ral man couldn't stand Almury Smith."—New York Journal of Commerce.

A Treat in a Rock.

Mr. William G. Dillingham, while fishing in Gordon Creek a few days since, discovered a beautiful fossil trout, fifteen inches in length, in a huge boulder. Every fin and scale of the fish was as plainly marked in the rock as if cut by a skilled artist. Many people wonder how trout get in streams above high falls. They were doubtless there before the falls were made, as from this fossil it is evident that there were trout in the streams of Oregon in prehistoric ages. Mr. Dillingham intends to go out some day and catch that fossil trout with a hammer and chisel.—Portland Oregonian.

— A society has been started in London to promote the development of the science of mesmerism and of the application of hypnotism to practical [illegible].

PEARLS OF THOUGHT.

The only disadvantage of an honest heart is credulity.

Both men and women belie their nature when they are not kind.

He who has neither friend nor enemy is without talents, powers or energy.

No books are so legible as the lives of men; no characters so plain as their moral conduct.

Our grand business is not to see what lies dimly at a distance, but what lies clearly at hand.

Of all the evil spirits abroad at this hour in the world, insincerity is the most dangerous.

To govern others a man should himself first learn to bend his passions to the sway of reason.

Many a man who prides himself on being a self-made man is simply the product of a good wife.

A beautiful woman pleases the eye, a good woman pleases the heart: one is a jewel, the other a treasure.

It has no effect upon the truth, but the man who has the courage to tell it will never suffer from too much popularity.

When benignity and gentleness reign within we are in least danger from without; every person and every occurrence is beheld in the most favorable light.

A friend, in the true sense of the term, is one to whom you would not hesitate to speak your inmost thoughts, but one does not make such a freind in a week.

Wealthy Beggars in New York.

There was recently arrested on the east side, says the New York Herald, an old Italian woman, who for a number of years had ground a "silent" hand organ at night, and whose wretched appearance, or "get up," as it is called in the "profession," seldom failed to excite the pity of the kind hearted passer by. Her name was Mary Paull and she was sent to the Island for three months as a vagrant. Her Italian friends made strenuous efforts to get her out and finally she was released on the condition that she would return immediately to Italy, as she said she was able to pay her passage. On the way to the steamer, in the custody of an officer, the woman asked to be taken to a certain bank, from which she drew $6000. One of her countrymen subsequently admitted to the officer that the woman was worth five times this sum, which was safely invested in her native country, and every cent of which she had earned on the streets of New York. It might seem like inviting contradiction to state that $10 a day is not considered an unusual income by these people, but such is nevertheless the fact.

Queer Pastoral Calls.

Writing from the Faroe Islands in the North Atlantic ocean, a correspondent of the New York Herald says: Once or twice a year a strange phenomenon may be witnessed at these islands. Dangling at the end of a long rope midway between the sea and the summit of these walls of rock is a man whose perilous suspension makes one query whether these cliffs are utilized by the inhabitants as natural scaffolds, or whether some Arctic method of translation is operative, or if what appears to be a rope may not be a heaven ladder on which viking angels are wont to ascend and descend. The man who appears thus in aerial suspension is none other than a Faroese clergyman making pastoral calls. This faithful [illegible] makes occasional visitations to his [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., NOV. 28, 1889.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year - - - - $1.50

One copy six months - - - .75

One copy four " - - - - .50

With the downfall of Dom Pedro, of Brazil, the last man who claims to rule his fellowmen by divine right disappears from the western Hemisphere.

Senator Wade Hampton has written a scorching letter to John Wanamaker in regard to a recent appointment that he has made in South Carolina, reminding him of broken promises and suggesting that the pious postmaster general, take as a subject for his next Sunday school lecture the instructive story of Ananias and Sapphira.

The Philadelphia News owns up manfully and says: "All the ifs, buts and ands in the world will not disguise the fact that it is folly to deny that the Republicans have suffered a tremendous defeat all over the country. It is foolish to talk about 'grangers,' 'liquor men,' Prohibitionists, 'third termers,' as explanation. Success discounts every reason given for defeat."

Allen O. Myers, of Cincinnati, has sometimes been thought a little "too handy with his mouth" for a politician, but he gave the Democrats of Ohio good advice point-blank when he adjured them, in a speech delivered at a reception given to Governor-elect Campbell, "not to vote for a millionaire for United States Senator. If you do it," he said, "you beat the Democratic party for ten years to come." A contest of money-bags for the Senatorship would indeed have a blighting effect upon the party. There are too many in the Senate already. Give us a man!

Recently S. W. Foster, a farmer who lived in Hill county, Texas, went home drunk and beat his wife. His little 10 year old son seized a gun and fatally shot him while engaged in the brutal treatment of his wife whom he had sworn to love and protect. The man lingered several days after receiving his fatal wound, and on his death bed requested that his boy be not prosecuted as he had performed a brave and noble act in protecting his mother. Mr. Foster is said to have been a model man a loving husband and a devoted father when sober, but whisky, as it is too often the case, turned him into a demon.

The editor sat in his hard-bottom chair, a trying to think of a thought. And he ploughed all his fingers about through his hair: but no new topic brought. He'd written on temperance and tariff and trade and the prospects of raising a crop. And joked about weak lemonade till his readers had warned him to stop. And weary of thinking, sleep came to his eyes as he pillowed his head on the desk; when the thoughts, which had refused to rise, came in groups that were strange and grotesque. And as fresh ideas airily float, selected the brighter one of them; and this is the gem, while dreaming he wrote: "Now is the time to subscribe."—Owantonna Democrat.

The following from the Scottsboro Progressive Age fits Chilton county as well, and we therefore reproduce it:

"Not long since, we heard an old gentleman a life long citizen of Jackson county, in a conversation concerning the representation of this county in the state legislature, remark that he would feel highly gratified to see old Jackson, for one time, ably represented in that body. He remarked that the county had sent some good men to the legislature, but being merely a good citizen does not qualify the man for a good representative. He was of the opinion that Jackson county statesmanship must have been at times in the past at a very low ebb in the eyes of the state at large. We, like the gentleman referred to, would like to see the people of Jackson the banner county of the state, for one time, concentrate, regardless of religious, political, or other affiliation, upon men for the legislature who could carry into that body a bearing and an indication of ability that would command for them a position in the highest rank of statesmanship ever established in the state. The gentleman further observes that during the past ten years there has not been a single act in the interest of North Alabama or Jackson county of any importance further than the application of general laws to the needs of our people. Most of the men who take a notion to make the race for legislative honors, will first fix up a [illegible] platform the principles of which he heralds to the dear people from the stump in every precinct in the county, and usually the man who tells the smoothest story is most successful in touching the gullibility of the masses. Thus elected, he goes to the legislative halls minus of enough force of character, or anything else, to ever be heard of again. Has Jackson county any statesmanship?

If a statesman will run for the office in Chilton next year we will promise not to fix up any more of Mark Twain's stale jokes on him.

An Interesting Question.

In the course of an interesting debate at the Farmer's Congress recently in session at Montgomery, the Hon. L. H. Weller, ex-congressman of the fourth district of Iowa, propounded the following question to the Hon. William Lawrence:

Question—It being an undisputed fact that the great northwest, southwest, south and some parts of the Central States produce more corn, wheat, beef, pork, and other articles than is or now can be consumed in the United States and the surplus must be sent abroad for sale and consumption at prices in competition with pauperized labor prices, how, or in what way, by what methods will you secure profitable prices to the producer for sales within the jurisdiction of our government, while the surplus suffers a diminution or loss in price as the inevitable result of competition in the foreign market with foreign pauper priced products?

Judge Lawrence said in reply: "The question assumes as a fact that which is not so. It assumes by implication that we cannot even in the future consume in the United States all the wheat, beef, pork, cotton and other agricultural products of the country. But we can. When we export wheat, beef, pork and cotton they go to Europe to feed people engaged in manufacturing goods there, to be imported here in payment. Just to the extent to which we refuse to bring their foreign manufactured articles they will have no market for them here. We must still have the manufactured articles for use. Under a protective tariff they will be made here. The people who make them here will eat as much as the people who otherwise would make them in Europe. So far as we do not have the skilled labor and capital in this country to make at home the articles we require, they will come from Europe. Thus we will build up a home market larger in amount than the foreign market Instead of importing the foreign goods we will import the people and the capital. We will import the men and make a home market. This home market is better than the foreign, because as we pay operatives better wages than they can get in Europe when they come here, they will eat more of our products than they would of the articles we would export for them if they were manufacturing and eating in Europe. Then again when they come here they will make a market for garden vegetables, eggs, small fruits, orchard fruits, poultry and other farm products, which we cannot export. This will give employment to hucksters, poultry men and others. It will give employment to carpenters to build houses for the increased population and they will consume farm products."

A Vile Scheme.

The negroes held a convention in Atlanta recently, and adopted a resolution advising their people all over the South, to dodge the census taker, and thereby aid in cutting down congressional representation. The scheme is not only an unlawful one, but it is only one of the bold devices of the Republican leaders to swindle the South out of its just and proper representation. We fully agree with the suggestion of the Anniston News, and trust that it will be adopted, because in that way the exact population could be arrived at. Says the News:

"In view of the fact that our National Census has taken a partisan hue, we believe that, while our legislature has made no provision for such work, if Governor Seay would issue a request to every Tax Assessor in the State to include a careful census of their respective counties, they would cheerfully undertake the extra work, trusting to the legislature for reasonable compensation. We believe the next legislature ought to enact this into a general law, and let the auditor's report each year show the increase or decrease of population. Every ten years is too long an interval for the growing South to get at its true progress in wealth and population. The world, including capital, is on the move, and we ought to furnish annual statistics of our growth or decline. It would stimulate our people in the march of progress."

BRAZIL IS A REPUBLIC.

Dom Pedro's Empire Suddenly Overthrown By Revolutionists.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 16.—The country is in the throes of a revolution; not only civil but military. With the resignation of the Ministry the last props fell from under Dom Pedro's throne, and the empire is now a thing of the past. The going over in a body of the Conservative faction in the House to the Republicans made it a possibility and a certainty. Throughout the country the greatest excitement prevails, and the news of the revolution, spread over the entire new-born Republic with inconceivable rapidity. From every city comes words of encouragement and approval. The provinces are a unit in support of the incoming government, and, in view of the fact that the military forces of the land are in line with the revolutionists, it can only be a movement of peace.

The Emperor is closeted in the Palace at Petropolis with the heads of the Ministry of War and of the Interior. The official dispatches are sent and received in cipher by trusted officials of the old regime, and nothing whatever is to be learned in regard to the movements of the Emperor and his household. It is likely, however, that he will return to Portugal. In any case both he and his whole family will leave the country as soon as possible. It is generally believed that the Emperor favored the movement establishing the Republic, knowing that it would come immediately upon his death and perhaps with bloodshed, he preferred seeing the change take place peaceably during his life.

The new Brazilian Government has issued a manifesto announcing that the monarchy has been abolished. Various provinces have sent assurances of support to the new regime. The former Prime Minister has been arrested. The Emperor will be treated with the greatest consideration.

A Lonely Grave

The Montgomery Advertiser of the 16th contains a letter from Rev. J. J. Haynes, of Welch Glade, West Virginia, in which he says: "About eight miles northeast of this place, on the mountain top, between Williams and Gauley rivers, lie the remains of Elias Grimes, of Co. A. 9th Ala. Regiment, who was accidently killed by his own gun during the war." Mr. Haynes thinks that the soldier's friends should have the remains removed to some Confederate cemetery.

Jackson, (Miss.) Clarion Ledger. The cotton-picker recently tried near Rolling Fork not only captured the cotton but gathered its limbs, stalks, real estate, and all and then scattered the mass all over the field. It took about ten darkies to pick up after it, and the machine was declared a failure. A good spry descendant of Ham is the best cotton-picking machine yet introduced in this country by our enterprising Yankee friends. If they succeed in making a better one we will buy that as we did the one introduced here prior to 1861.

Attacked By Rheumatism.

I have been selling Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) since 1878, during which time I might name a great number of very remarkable cures that it has effected. One in particular was a person who was attacked with rheumatism. The case was so bad that he was helpless for a long time. He took hundreds of dollars worth of other medicines without receiving any benefit. He was at length happily and permanently cured after using a few bottles of Swift's Specific (S. S. S.)

W. T. SHANE, Druggist,
Solomon City, Kansas.

Treatise on Blood and Skin Diseases mailed free.

SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

The use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, stimulates the secretions, and imparts new life and vigor to every function of the body. For nearly half a century, it has remained unrivaled as the best blood medicine ever discovered. Be convinced by a trial.

When, from any cause, the digestive and secretory organs become disordered, they may be stimulated to healthy action by the use of Ayer's Cathartic Pills. These Pills are prescribed by the best physicians, and are for sale at all the drug stores.

Subscribe for the VIEW.

The effect of the "Australian law" in Massachusetts was not exactly what was expected by the party that put it in operation. There was a prevalent idea that the law would be seriously detrimental to the Democrats; but on the contrary, it has worked to the advantage of the Democrats. Employes of manufacturers have had a chance to vote as they pleased.—Mobile Register.

If you suffer pricking pains on moving the eyes, or cannot bear bright light, and find your sight weak and failing, you should promptly use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Eye Salve. 25 cents a box.

Far better than the harsh treatment of medicines which horribly gripe the patient and destroy the coating of the stomach. Dr. J. H. McLean's Chill and Fever, by mild yet effective action will cure. Sold at 50 cents a bottle.

The Age-Herald says: "Estados Unidos Da Brazil" is the Portuguese for United States of Brazil," but that paper is so dumblissfully unreliable that nobody will believe it.—Birmingham Sentinel.

If you suffer from any affection caused by impure blood, such as scrofula, salt rheum, sores, boils, pimples, tetter, ring worm, take Dr. J. H. McLean's Sarsaparilla.

The quality of the blood depends much upon good or bad digestion and assimilation. To make the blood rich in life and strength-giving constituents use Dr. J. H. McLean's Sarsaparilla. It will nourish the properties of the blood, from which the elements of vitality are drawn.

An Iowa editor who was asked by a correspondent, "Do dogs pay?" has looked over his subscription list and declares they do not.

Sick headache, wind on the stomach billiousness, nausea, are promptly and agreeably banished by Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pillets, 25 c a vial.

When nature falters and requires help recruit her enfeebled energies with Dr. J. H. McLean's strengthening cordial and blood purifier. $1.00 per bot.

Dom Pedro's reign has been longer than that of any living monarch except Queen Victoria. He succeeded to the throne when only 5 years old, and was Emperor for fifty-eight years.

Physicians prescribe Dr. J. H. McLean's Tar Wine Lung Balm; in it they find no trace of opium or morphia, while its efficacy in curing all throat and lung diseases is wonderful.

Exposure to rough weather, getting wet, living in damp localities, are favorable to the contraction of diseases of the kidneys and bladder. As a preventive, and for the cure of all kidney and liver trouble, use that valuable remedy, Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm. $1.00 per bottle.

Go to Blank Brothers, Leading Clothiers, 2112, 2nd Avenue, Birmingham, Ala., to buy anything you need in the way of clothing and gent's furnishing goods.

There are many accidents and diseases which affect stock and cause serious inconvenience and loss to the farmer in his work, which may be quickly remedied by the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of an execution issued out of the Register's office of the Chancery Court of Chilton county, Ala., in favor of Jonce L. Gardner, et. al. and against Maria L. Wilson, et. al., I will proceed to sell, at the courthouse door in Clanton, Ala., between the legal hours of sale, at public outcry, to the highest bidder for cash, on Monday, December 2d, 1889, the following described real estate, levied upon as the property of the said Maria L. Wilson, to-wit: The s e ¼ of the n w ¼ of section 33, township 22, range 12 east, lying south of the Selma and Montvallo road and west of Mulberry creek, and lying and being in Chilton county, Ala.

LEE HAYES,
Sheriff Chilton Co.

Clanton, Ala., October 29th, 1889.

Tax Notice!

FIRST ROUND.

I will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and county taxes of Chilton county for the year 1889.

Mineral Springs	October	30
Jemison	"	31
Providence	"	29
Macedonia	November	4
Benson	"	5
Mapleville	"	6
R. Latham's	"	7
Dixie	"	8
Kincheon	"	12
Verbena	"	13
Cooper's	"	14
Clanton	"	15
Strasburg	"	16
Valley Creek Church	"	9
Clanton Ford	"	11

SECOND ROUND.

Mineral Springs	December	6
Jemison	"	7
Providence	"	8
Macedonia	"	9
Benson	"	10
Mapleville	"	11
R. Latham's	"	12
Dixie	"	13
Kincheon	"	17
Verbena	"	18
Cooper's	"	19
Valley Creek Church	"	14
Clanton Ford	"	16
Elijah Busby	"	4
John Archer's	"	5
Prim's School House	"	21

Clanton, December 23, 24, 26, 27, 28, 30 and 31.

S. M. GENTRY,
Tax Collector Chilton Co.

Bring your job printing to this office.

Constipation,

If not remedied in season, is liable to become habitual and chronic. Drastic purgatives, by weakening the bowels, confirm, rather than cure, the evil. Ayer's Pills, being mild, effective, and strengthening in their action, are generally recommended by the faculty as the best of aperients.

"Having been subject, for years, to constipation, without being able to find much relief, I at last tried Ayer's Pills. I deem it both a duty and a pleasure to testify that I have derived great benefit from their use. For over two years past I have taken one of these pills every night before retiring. I would not willingly be without them."—G. W. Bowman, 26 East Main st., Carlisle, Pa.

"I have been taking Ayer's Pills and using them in my family since 1857, and cheerfully recommend them to all in need of a safe but effectual cathartic."—John M. Boggs, Louisville, Ky.

"For eight years I was afflicted with constipation, which at last became so bad that the doctors could do no more for me. Then I began to take Ayer's Pills, and soon the bowels recovered their natural and regular action, so that now I am in excellent health."—S. L. Loughbridge, Bryan, Texas.

"Having used Ayer's Pills, with good results, I fully indorse them for the purposes for which they are recommended."—T. Conners, M. D., Centre Bridge, Pa.

Ayer's Pills,

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Sold by all Druggists and Dealers in Medicine.

tma16

Jemison High School.

Good House, Well Furnished, Healthful Locality, Dry Sandy Roads. Good Board Cheap, Tuition Low, Maps, Globes, Charts, etc., Moral Community, Three Churches, No Whisky, Well Trained Teachers, Fine Success, Teachers Re-elected without a Dissenting Voice. Session opens Sept. 2d, 1889.

Apply to J. L. RUFFIN, JR.,
aug20. Principal.

CLANTON HIGH SCHOOL.

This School will open Monday, Sept. the 2nd, 1889. Advantages the best in the county. Rates low, board and tuition $10 per month. Patronage is earnestly desired. For further information address me at Clanton, Ala.

Respectfully,
A. J. SCOTT, Principal.

W. W. C.

(Wooldridge's Wonderful Cure)

Is the greatest Blood Purifier ever yet discovered. It never fails to cure when taken according to directions. Read what it has done for Mr. A. Kimbrough:

COLUMBUS, GA., July 15, 1889.

Wooldridge Wonderful Cure Co., Columbus, Ga.

GENTS:—After suffering for twenty years with my kidneys, and finding only temporary relief, after taking various remedies, and consulting some of the most noted physicians in the country, at a cost of hundreds of dollars, for no good, I decided to try W. W. C., and I must confess that I am to-day as well as I ever was, and that I suffer no pain whatever from my kidneys, and am feeling better in every respect than I have for years, and I attribute it all to two bottles of W. W. C.; and I would advise all who suffer in the least with kidney or bladder troubles to give W. W. C. a trial. Yours truly,

A. KIMBROUGH.

WOOLDRIDGE'S WONDERFUL CURE is a sure Remedy for Syphilis, Syphilitic Rheumatism, Chronic Rheumatism, Skin Diseases, Bone Diseases, Old Sores, Bilious Troubles, Liver Diseases, Jaundice, Bilious Headache, Dyspepsia, and all Diseases caused from Impure and Poisoned Blood or Hereditary Diseases.

For sale by all Druggists.

Manufactured by
Wooldridge Wonderful Cure Co.,
COLUMBUS, GA.
sep19 y

Barber Shop.

Mr. H. A. Logan, who has his barber shop upstairs in the Allen Building, solicits the patronage of the good people of Clanton. He does good work and is well fixed up for the business.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.
November 21, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 6th, 1889, viz: Andrew J. Wyatt, homestead 1808 for the s ½ of s w ¼ sec 28 t 21 n range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Madison Popwell, John Popwell, John R. Kemp and Gill Elland, all of Kincheon, Ala.

nov21* J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 20, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 11, 1889, viz: Charlie Jackson, homestead 15951 for the n e ¼ of sec. 20 township 21 n, range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Daniel Martin, Emmet Culp, Andy Foshee and James Headley, all of Clanton, Ala.

nov21* J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

Land Office, Montgomery, Ala.,
Nov. 5, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on December 14th, 1889, viz: James H. Green, homestead 22165 for the n e ¼ of n w ¼ sec 18 t 20 n, r 13 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: William W. [illegible], William W. [illegible], Richard F. Kendrick, James M. Walker, all of Maplesville, Ala.

J. H. BINGHAM,

nov21

The Lawson Carpet C

Birmingham, Ala.

Take pleasure in directing the attention

the people of Chilton county to their larg

and attractive stock of

Carpets, Oil-cloths, Window Shades,

Curtains & Household Noveltie

The Stock represented is the finest in Alabama, and prices are guarante low as similar goods are offered in any of the eastern markets.

☞ All communications answered by return mail. Respectfully,

ma30-y THE LAWSON CARPET CO. (WM. LAWSON,)

BAINS & PORTER.

(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & PEEBLES.)

WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.

Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.

FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALT

1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS

Birmingham, Ala.

☞ Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜

P. O. BOX 570. June 19 y

LOOK HERE!

New Stock! Low Prices

—AT—

W. M. WILSON & BRO.'S

CLANTON, ALA.

We have opened a Large Stock of Dry Goods, Groceries and General Merchandise at our old Stand, and we have come to stay. We invite an inspection of our goods and prices.

☞ SHOES AND HATS A SPECIALTY. ☜

THOMAS FOSHEE,

(SUCCESSOR TO N. W. FOSHEE,)

Dry Goods, Groceries

—AND—

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

Maplesville, Alabama.

I solicit a continuance of the liberal patronage heretofore extended our house. Respectfully,

feb 28-y THOMAS FOSHEE.

WALL PAPER,

WINDOW SHADES,

MOULDINGS,

—AND—

PRACTICAL PAPER HANGER

H. M. MANCHA,

204 DEXTER AVENUE, MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA.

☞ Papers furnished at any price from 10 cents up. Will samples on application. apr 11-y

BIRMINGHAM MARBLE WORKS.

THOS. H. HOLT,

PRACTICAL WORKMAN.

—AND DEALER IN—

American and Italian Marble.

—Manufacturer of all kinds of—

CEMETERY MARBLE AND STONE WO

Cor. Second Avenue and Twenty-Fourth Street,

Birmingham, Alabama.

nov28-tf

B. WOLFF'S

FURNITURE EMPORIUM,

20 and 22 Commerce and Corner Court and [illegible] Streets,

—MONTGOMERY, ALA.—

CARRIES

The Largest and Cheapest Stock of Furni

IN THE STATE.

Carpet Co
m, Ala.
ing the attention unty to their large stock of
Window Shades,
hold Novelties
bama, and prices are guaranteed
eastern markets.
rn mail. Respectfully,
CARPET CO. (Wm. Lawson.)

PORTER.
S & PEEBLES.)
RUGGISTS.
ll Receive Prompt A
ORS A SPECIALTY
19th and 20th STREETS
m, Ala.
at Company's Prices.
June 10 y

ERE!
Low Prices!
& BRO.'S
ALA.
Groceries and General M come to stay. We invite an and prices.
SPECIALTY.

OSHEE,
. FOSHEE,)
Groceries,
CHANDISE.
Alabama.
eral patronage heretofore
fully.
THOMAS FOSHEE.

APER,
WINDOW SHADES,
MOULDINGS,
—AND—RACTICAL PAPER HANGE
CHA,
OMERY, ALABAMA.
om 10 cents up. Will
apr 11-y

BLE WORKS.
HOLT,
ORKMAN.
lian Marble.
kinds of—
D STONE WOR
enty-Fourth Street,
Alabama.

FF'S MPORIUM, urt and Coosa Streets,
ALA.
ES
Stock of Furnit
ATE.

GO TO BLANK BROS, LEADING CLOTHIERS, 2112 SECOND AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., NOV. 28, 1889.

THE VIEW is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

A cross mark (X) after your name means that your subscription is due and that we would be glad to have you renew.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the second Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—On the eleventh Monday after the fourth Monday in February, and on the thirteenth Monday after the fourth Monday in August, and may continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD.—Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.

No. 1 Express at	*1:15 a. m.
No. 3 Mail	5:43 p. m.
No. 11 (Passenger)	6:20 p. m.
No. 9 Accommodation	6:45 a. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 2 Fast (Don't Stop)	2:20 a. m.
No. 6 Mail	9:11 a. m.
No. 4 Express	7:55 p. m.
No. 10 Accommodation	6:20 p. m.

*Don't Stop.

LOCAL LACONICS.

Mr. J. H. Gallespie is at home sick.

Mr. W. J. Atchinson, was in town Saturday.

Mrs. Dr. Bivings is visiting relatives in Birmingham.

Mr. B. H. Chestnut is down from Birmingham attending court.

Miss Mattie Wright has returned home after a long stay in Birmingham.

Squire F. R. McCary brought a negro to town Saturday charged with theft.

A two year old child of Emma Vincent died at this place last Thursday evening.

Dr. Geo. W. Bains, of Birmingham, was in Clanton Friday in the interest of his drug house.

The VIEW and the greatest newspaper in the country, the New York World, will be sent one year for $2.00.

Judge Dowdell has fully recovered from his recent attack of fever and is looking in excellent health.

Rev. J. P. Sanders has been in town this week engaged in selling bibles for the American Bible Society.

The Centreville Enterprise has been received and placed on our exchange list. It is a nice looking and readable paper.

So many good friends have called in to see us and cheer us by paying their subscription that the VIEW man feels quite grateful.

The town is full of lawyers, witnesses and jurymen. Uncle Paddy Smith says he accommodates forty-five in three rooms; which is about equal to the Birmingham boom.

Rev. A. E. Burns preached his farewell sermon at the Clanton Baptist Church on Sunday night. He will transfer his work for the fourth Sunday to Wilsonville, Shelby county.

Mr. A. H. Courtney is foreman of the Grand Jury. This is a compliment worthily bestowed upon a gentleman, who, though young in years, is one of the best citizens the county holds.

The little girls of Clanton have fine time practicing calisthenics every afternoon. Miss Jennie Chilton is their teacher and has gotten up a class of twelve or more just to please and amuse them.

Rev. J. P. Sanders of the Methodist Church no longer rides to Clanton Sunday morning on the cars. When he has to come on Sunday he walks the eight miles between Verbena and Clanton. A good example.

Notice to the Public.

From November 1st to January 1st, no goods will be sold on credit at my store, and I hope no one will have their feelings hurt by failing to get credit. I intend to meet any competition in this market, and in order to do so I must sell for the money down.

All parties who have not yet paid their accounts for this year are earnestly requested to call and settle at once.

Respectfully,
W. L. SAMPEY.

We have been requested by several to call the attention of the grand jury to the illegal sale of whiskey in Clanton. That is the duty of the Solicitor which we venture he will not neglect. Furthermore, we noted that Judge Dowdell called especial attention to this matter in delivering his charge to the body on Monday morning. It only remains for the jury and for those who know of the violation of the law to do their duty.

Notice to the Alliance

I will address the alliance and farmers upon the subject of the decline of agriculture and its influence upon the government in the United States, in the following counties and places.

Shelby at Calera, 11 o'clock, Dec. 16; Chilton at Clanton, 11 o'clock, Dec. 21.

A. B. BRASSELL.

Several plans and suggestions have lately been made to us for stopping the illegal sale of whiskey in this locality. We have not yet found anyone disposed to place their plans or suggestions before the public over their signatures, which would indicate want of faith in the plan proposed, and they have not been presented. One gentleman furnishes the following taken from an Alabama paper for which he is a subscriber:

The following preamble and resolutions, circulated and signed by a large number of our citizens, will explain how two blind tigers that had made lairs in our town and which had with sharp teeth and whetted appetite begun to devour the sobriety and morals and good name of our society, were strangled and killed and that in short order. No prohibition district need be infested by these devouring beasts unless they desire it. Prohibition will prohibit if the best people will see to it that it is done. The following is a sovereign remedy for all failure in this direction. Try it. G. S. A.

"We, the undersigned, having reason to believe that whiskey is being smuggled into Fort Deposit and Lowndes county, Ala., and is being sold in the face of and in direct violation of the laws of the State of Alabama; therefore, we, as law-abiding citizens, who are opposed to the sale of whiskey in our town and county, do hereby most solemnly protest against such traffic in our midst, and hereby bind ourselves by our signatures hereto into a solemn compact to use our very best endeavors to discover who the guilty parties are, and bring them to that speedy trial and justice which the law exacts, and the good of our town and county demands."

Maplesville Dots.

Farmers are turning the cane crop into syrup. It is a sweet, sticky business as managed in this part of the country. Many hundred gallons are made in this neighborhood.

Mrs. Tom. DuBose has returned from the convention and a visit in Wilcox county. We congratulate Mr. DuBose on the return of his wife. He excited our deepest sympathy during her absence.

Dr. Woolley entertained a house full of railroad men the past week, which is a forerunner of our new railroad.

Mr. William Walker, Sr., has been in a critical condition from a paralytic stroke.

Mr. Catts is visiting Mr. Crumpton.

Maj. Glover, of Ga., confessed to be greatly benefitted by a few days visit here. Our pure, salubrious air is truly health-giving.

Mrs. N. Goodwin is at home again. Miss Fannie McMath is boarding with her and teaching our public school.

Mr. John McMath, of Montevallo, paid us a flying visit.

Mr. Nobles filled his usual appointment the 24th. REVOLG.

Scrofula From Childhood.

After Being Treated by Eminent Physicians he is Cured by S. S. S.

The following is an extract taken from a letter received from Mr. T. A. Sismore, of Piedmont, S. C., and written under date of November 6, 1888:

"I am now twenty-eight years old, and from the time I was seven years of age until 1885, I suffered with a severe case of scrofula. During that time I took every known remedy, but to no purpose. My father took me to North Carolina, where I was put under the treatment of an eminent physician. The medicines given me had only a temporary effect, for shortly after my return the scrofula broke out in a more malignant form and I was worse off than ever before.

"In 1885 I discontinued taking all other medicines and commenced taking Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) I took a number of bottles and it cured me. I have been free from scrofula from that time until now."

WANTED!

Ten good Saw Mill Hands to which steady work will be given.
J. F. MAULL, Strasburg, Ala.

Gen. R. A. Alger, of Michigan, has been elected a director of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company.

HERMAN HERZFELD,
—DEALER IN—
All Kinds of Furniture at all Prices.
Parlor and Bed-Room Suits, Carpets, Oil Cloths, Mattings, Blankets, Comforts and Lace Goods.
Everything necessary in the House-Furnishing Goods Line.
NINETEENTH STREET, BETWEEN FIRST AND SECOND AVENUES
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

—Office of—
FARMERS'
Alliance Exchange
UNION WAREHOUSE.

MONTGOMERY, ALA., Sept. 16, 1889.

DEAR SIR:—We invite your attention to our large and commodious Warehouses near the Union Passenger Depot in rear of the Windsor Hotel in this city. We are prepared to store or sell cotton to the best advantage and to fully protect the planters' interest by always obtaining the highest market price on day of sale. Our rates of storage are cheaper than any other Warehouse in the city from the fact that we charge no drayage where cotton is shipped by rail or boat.

We have every protection against fire that is possible to be had, and are above high water. We make liberal advances on cotton in store.

Your patronage is respectfully solicited.

JNO. S. BIRD, Business Manager.

"It goes right to the spot," said an old man, who was rubbing in Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment to relieve rheumatism. oct31

BUSINESS LOCAL NOTICES.

Mrs. M. A. Butler announces to her friends in this section that she is now located at 422 21st St. and Ave. E, Birmingham, where she has opened a stock of general merchandise. An invitation is extended to all needing anything in her line to call at the above location when visiting the city. 1m

The VIEW job office is prepared to do all kind of job work at short notice. Let us know what you want and we will give you extra low figures.

Insure in the Commercial Fire Insurance Co. of Montgomery.

The reason he is larger than his wagon—he has a case in court. The wagon will fit him better after he loses his case.

We want you all to subscribe for and pay for this paper. You can get the VIEW at $1 a year by clubbing with the Montgomery Advertiser The two papers one year for $2. A year's subscription now will carry you through the next State and Congressional Campaigns.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
November 19, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 6th, 1890, viz: William S. Cox, homestead 15271 for the w ½ of s w ¼ of sec 26, township 23 n, range 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, William T. Franklin, John Gore, William T. Mahan, John McKee, all of Clanton, Ala.

nov21to J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 19, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence, the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Jan. 6th, 1889, viz: Harly Ann Ray, homestead 13806 for the s e ¼ of sec 22 township 21 n, range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: John R. Kecan, Stephen Baker, Cyrus Culp, and M. N. Burdett, all of Clanton, Ala.

nov21* J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

Now is the time to subscribe for your county paper.

Mortgage Sale.

Under and by virtue of two mortgages excuted by Matilda Crumpton, the first to the Louisville & Nashville railroad company on the 10th day of January, 1882 and recorded in Book 9 of Mortgages page 863 in the Probate office of Chilton county, the second executed on the 18th day of March, 1885, to Frank Nelson, Jr., and recorded in Mortgage book Vol, 15, page 55 of records of mortgages in the office of Judge of Probate of Chilton county, I will proceed to sell on the 16th day of December, 1889, in front of the courthouse door in Clanton, Chilton county, within the legal hours of sale, the following described real estate to-wit: The S W ¼ of the S W ¼ of section 13 township 23, range 15 east in Chilton county, Ala.

FRANK NELSON, Jr.,
nov14 Mortgagee and Assignee.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 11, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver of the U. S. Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., on December 12, 1889, viz: John Burmister, homestead 16141, for the s e ¼ of n e ¼, e ½ of s e ¼, n w ¼ of s e ¼ sec 26 t 20 n r 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: E. H. Smith Thomas Cox, G. C. Carwile and C. D. A. Deramus, all of Verbena, Ala.

oct 17o J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
October 29, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the Circuit Court, Clanton, Ala., on December 14, 1889, viz: William Headley, Jr., homestead 16165 for the n e ¼ of s w ¼; n w ¼ of s e ¼ and e ½ of s e ¼ sec 18, township 22 n, r 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: Wesley Noah, Sylvester Headley, James N. Knox, Columbus Rutherford, all of Clanton, Ala.

oct31* J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 20, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 10, 1889, viz: James W. Conell, homestead 14074 for the s ½ of n e q, n w q of s e q, n e q of s w q, sec 24, township 22 n, range 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: A. J. Peters, R. E Jones, J. M. Parish, William Mims, all of Clanton, Ala.

nov21* J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 18, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circurt court at Clanton, Ala., on January 4th, 1890, viz: Peter W. Noah, homestead 15043 for the n ½ of n w ¼ sec 18 township 22 n r 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: William Headley, Jr., James N. Knox, John Knox, William Davis, all of Clanton, Ala.

nov21* J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

SALESMEN WANTED to canvass for the sale of Nursery Stock! Steady employment guaranteed. Good pay for successful men. Apply at once stating age. Mention this paper. Alabama Nursery Co. [illegible] Huntsville, Ala.

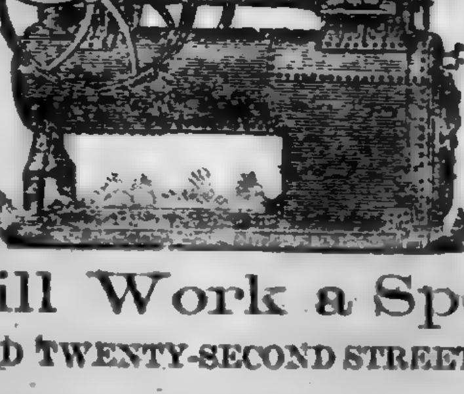
A. E. BIVINGS,
—DEALER IN—
DRUGS, AND Medicines, FAMILY Groceries, ETC.
Clanton, Alabama.
I can furnish you anything you may wish in the way of DRUGS AND MEDICINES. I also handle THE BEST GROCERIES TO BE HAD, and you will find my prices to suit the times. [mar20]

BUY YOUR
PIANOS and ORGANS
—FROM—
GRAMBS & BUCHANAN,
—2107 SECOND AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—
THE VERY LOWEST CASH PRICES, or on easy installments. Sohmer, Cranich & Bach, Gabler, Wheelock and Newby & Evans Pianos, and the world renowned Wilcox & White organs. Mail orders for sheet music or musical merchandise given prompt attention.
Write for Catalogue. jul18
When ordering please state in what paper you saw our advertisement.

-: Hale, Dingley & Co. :-
—WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS IN—
Drugs, Medicines, Toilet Articles,
PERFUMERY, SOAP, BRUSHES & STANDARD PATENT MEDICINES,
:MONTGOMERY, ALA.:
Keep constantly on hand a complete stock of articles in their line of business. Particular attention is called to the following articles manufactured by them and especially recommended to the public: Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lactophosphate of Lime; Elixir Cinchona and Gentian Compound; Howard's Colic Cure for Horses; Esprit de Millefleur. nov21-6

CHAS. L. RUTH,
—DEALER IN—
Diamonds, Silverware, Watches, Clocks,
Jewelry, Spectacles, &c.,
Sole Agent in Montgomery for the celebrated ROCKFORD QUICK TRAIN WATCHES, the best for Railroad men. Also has a large stock of Watches of other makes, including the famous watches manufactured by A. Schneider, of Dresden, and the watches he had made specially to order in Geneva.
A complete stock of the newest styles of JEWELRY, selected with great care from the stocks of the largest manufacturers.
The latest designs in SILVER and PLATED WARE. French and American CLOCKS and BRONZES in great variety. Julius King's Combination Spectacles, Eye-Glasses, Gold-head Canes, &c. All goods marked at the lowest figures possible. Clocks, Watches and Jewelry skillfully and promptly repaired. All work guaranteed.
C. L. RUTH,
(Sign of the Eagle and Watch.) 15 Dexter Avenue,
MONTGOMERY, ALA.
nov21y

CRELLIN & NALLS,
BOILER MAKERS
Copper and Sheet Iron Workers



Chimneys, Tanks, and Repairing of All Kinds.
Saw Mill Work a Specialty.
AVENUE C AND TWENTY-SECOND STREET, SOUTHSIDE,
Birmingham, Ala.
mar21 y

GEO. W. COOK & CO.,
Wholesale and Retail
Dealers in Staple and Fancy Groceries, Fruits, Produce, Wines, Liquors. Our pure unpainted Roasted Coffee, and Manufacturers of High Grade pure Stick Candy, all of which we sell by the pound, package or car load. Sole agents for the Celebrated Bethesda Water.
37 COMMERCE STREET,
Montgomery, Alabama.
oct17-tf

Roberts & Son,
Steam Printers and Binders,
1918 FIRST AVENUE, BET. 19th & 20th STREETS,
Birmingham, Ala.
BLANK BOOKS TO ORDER. WORK PROMPTLY DELIVERED.
dec5 ay

MONTGOMERY IRON WORKS.
MACHINISTS & FOUNDERS
Dealers in Fittings, Supplies and Machinery
OF ALL KINDS.
MAKERS OF ENGINES, CANE MILLS, COTTON SEED CRUSHERS, SAW MILLS, LIVE ROLLS, LOG HAULUPS, &c.
ESPECIAL ATTENTION TO WANTS OF SAW MILL MEN.

A. M. RAMBO,
DENTIST.
VERBENA, ALA.
Will respond to calls along railroad between Calera and Deatsville
[mal5 y]

S. P. TRESSLAR,
Photographer,
10 COURT SQUARE,
Montgomery.
Photographs on Silk, Satin and Linen. Photographs on watch dials.
Portraits in Crayon, Pastile, India Ink and Water Colors.
All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.
Correspondence solicited.
Always glad to have you call at the gallery, and examine specimens of the work on exhibition.
[jan21-tf]

J. H. SHEPHERD
THE LEADING
PHOTOGRAPHER,
—OF—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE
(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)
Photographs of All Kinds,
Work Done in the
BEST STYLE.
Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

DR. OWEN'S
ELECTRIC BELT
AND SUSPENSORY.
PATENTED AUG. 16, 1887. IMPROVED JULY 30, 1889.
DR. OWEN'S ELECTRO-GALVANIC BODY BELT AND SUSPENSORY are guaranteed to cure the following diseases, namely: All Rheumatic Complaints, Lumbago, General and Nervous Debility, Costiveness, Kidney Diseases, Nervousness, Trembling, Sexual Exhaustion, Wasting of Body, Diseases caused by Indiscretions in Youth, Age, Married or Single Life. In fact all diseases pertaining to the womb or genital organs of male or female.
SENT TO RESPONSIBLE PARTIES ON 30 DAYS TRIAL.
TRY A PAIR OF DR. OWEN'S ELECTRIC INSOLES. PRICE $1 PER PAIR.
Send 6c. postage for free illustrated pamphlet, which will be sent you in plain sealed envelope. Mention this paper, address
OWEN ELECTRIC BELT & APPLIANCE CO.
306 North Broadway, ST. LOUIS, Mo.

RUPTURE!
ELECTRIC BELT AND TRUSS COMBINED.
DR. ISRAEL'S ELECTRO-GALVANIC TRUSS, with Dr. Owen's Electric Belt Attachment. This truss is worn with ease and comfort. The current can be made mild or strong. This is the only combined electric truss and belt ever made. It will CURE Rupture in from 60 to 90 days. For full description of Dr. Owen's Electro-Galvanic Belts, Spinal Appliances, Trusses and Insoles send 6c. for free illustrated pamphlet which will be sent you in plain sealed envelope. Sold only by the
OWEN ELECTRIC BELT & APPLIANCE CO.
306 North Broadway, ST. LOUIS, MO.
sep 5

HERBINE
After ten years exclusive sale, can now be obtained of all Druggists and Dealers in Medicines. It CURES-take notice-not simply helps but CURES LIVER COMPLAINT, Billiousness and Dyspepsia.
Is a strictly vegetable preparation and will CURE MALARIA, and all MALARIAL troubles.
Dr. S. H. Wise, of Boston, Ky. says: "Have practiced medicine 15 years, and find no equal to HERBINE as a Liver Regulator."
Dr. W. A. Baker, of Madison, Fla., says: "A bottle of HERBINE is worth more than $5.00 worth of Quinine in any family."
Acting on the Liver in a different way from any other medicine; it is a positive cure for Chronic Constipation and is cheaper than this.
Its peculiar composition is such, that we guarantee to cure any case of Chills and Fever or Billious Fever with one bottle.
It costs but 75 cents and each bottle contains over 40 average doses, making the cost less than two cents a dose. Would you ask for cheaper medicine? It is not a cure-all. But will cure any Liver, Bilious or Malarial Complaint. Manufactured by
The Herbine Co.,
(Successors to Wm. Condell,) St. Louis, Mo.
mar 14-y

PISO'S CURE FOR
TWENTY-FIVE CENTS
Piso's Cure for Consumption is also the best Cough Medicine.
If you have a Cough without disease of the Lungs, a few doses are all you need. But if you neglect this easy means of safety, the slight Cough may become a serious matter, and several bottles will be required.
CONSUMPTION
PISO'S REMEDY FOR CATARRH gives immediate relief. Catarrhal virus is soon expelled from the system, and the diseased action of the mucous membrane is replaced by healthy secretions.
The dose is small. One package contains a sufficient quantity for a long treatment.
CATARRH
A Cold in the Head is relieved by an application of Piso's remedy for Catarrh. The comfort to be got from it in this way is worth many times its cost.
Easy and pleasant to use.
Price, 50 cents. Sold by druggists or sent by mail.
E. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.
nov22-y

ALLEGER'S
GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES!
FROM $65. to $33.
This Elegant Parlor Organ style 79 containing 5 octaves, a sets of reeds, 13 stops, 3 knee swells. Stool and Book free. For only $33.00. With right and left coupler. Warranted for 6 years.
[illegible]
H. W. ALLEGER,
[illegible]

WOMAN'S WORLD.

PLEASANT LITERATURE FOR FEMININE READERS.

MY LADY.

My lady is not fair, but a clear light
Shines in her eyes from morning until night.

My lady is not learned, but she knows
The way to every heart; straight there she goes.

Though neither fair nor learned, she is one
To love and love, and never to have done.
—New England Magazine.

AN EMPRESS IN THE KITCHEN.

The Empress of Austria is the best royal housekeeper in Europe. She is as thoroughly acquainted with the details of the imperial Austrian kitchen as her husband is with the details of the imperial Austrian Government. She superintends the household affairs of the big palace at the Austrian capital with the greatest care. She receives personally, reads and acts upon reports from cooks, butlers, keepers of the plate and keepers of the linen. Cooking devices which have become inconvenient or antiquated are abolished only at her command. New methods of preparing or serving food are adopted only at her suggestion. Changes in the personnel of the establishment are made for the most part only in obedience to her orders. Consequently a person can eat, drink, sleep and be served better in her house than in any other in Europe.

The kitchen in which the food for the bluest blood of Austria is cooked is a huge room with all the arrangements at each end for preparing fish, fowl, and beast for the table. Fifty chickens can be cooked at once on one of the big, whirling spits. Against the side walls from floor to ceiling stand scores upon scores of chafing dishes. In these dishes, all of which are self-warming, the meats are carried to the carving-room whence they are returned to the kitchen ready to be served. The boiling and baking, and frying and carrying and cutting occupy a small regiment of servants. Twenty-five male cooks, in white clothes, dress, spit, season and stuff the meats. As many female cooks prepare the vegetables, the puddings, and the salads. A dozen or more boys hurry the birds, fish and joints from the kitchen to the carving-room, where long lines of carvers slice and joint everything laid before them.

The kitchen utensils fill a big room opening into the kitchen. This room is the ideal of German housewives. The high walls are covered with pans, kettles, griddles, and covers, which shine as only German hands and German muscle could make them shine. There are soup tureens in which a big boy might be drowned, kettles in which twins could play house, and pans which would hold half a dozen little Hanses or Gretchens. In short, about every culinary utensil on the walls is of the heroic size, suggestive rather of the Missouri barbecue than of the feasts of crowned heads and diplomats at one of the first of courts.

For days before the great court festivals the whole Austrian court kitchen staff, from the "head court cooking master" down to the youngest scullion, work like mad. The chefs hold repeated consultations in their council chamber, often debating hour after hour with all the earnestness of a Parliament or Congress concerning the best methods of preparing fowls, sauces, cakes, and soups. The menu, as selected by the chefs, is submitted to the master of the provision department, so that he may immediately order from the city whatever the cellars of the castle lack.

The Austrian court dinners are famous on the Continent. The delicacies which result from the protracted meetings in the council chamber of the chefs are often so fine that favored guests not infrequently observe the old German fashion of taking a choice bit home to their friends in the name of the Empress and with her best wishes. All that remains of a court feast, or dinner, is sent to the Viennese hospitals. On the days just after the banquet the Empress is very busy looking over the reports and inventories of the frau head keeper of the napkins, and the fraulein head keeper of the tablecloths, and the herr head guardian of the imperial china, and a dozen other like functionaries with jointed titles. She reviews all these communications with conscientious care, and orders with strict attention to minute details the replacement of all that has been lost, broken, or defaced.

FASHION NOTES.

Numbered with novelties are the plaited skirts.

Velvet muffs will be carried this winter to match bonnets.

All fall sleeves are set with the head above the shoulder.

Black, with Boulanger red, and tan with Eiffel rouge, are the latest combinations from Paris.

Short mantles and talmas are made with high shoulder gores that are turned square at the elbow to form sling sleeves.

In the shops where a specialty is made of mourning toilets the brooch or buckle used on the basque is purple, white or black enamel.

The refinement which distinguishes the new woolens is also characteristic of the fashionable colors, which are mostly half-shades of green, gray, blue or terra cotta, and exquisite tints of fawn and brown.

Some of the black silk stockinette jerseys are made with vests, deep collars with revers, and turn-back cuffs, formed of openwork silk passementerie and crocheted silk stars finely interwoven with cut jet.

The French quadrille plaids are very beautiful and softer in tone than the Scotch, which, though they do not all follow the clan colors, still show a certain crudity of colorings that is not so pleasant to the eye.

A charming little toque of brown velvet has a black-plumaged bird on either side, and on a little velvet muff to be borne with it there is a similar bird poised on the outer side, gazing appealingly up at the wearer.

Fashion has decreed that ladies in London's best society must appear at afternoon teas, lunches, kettledrums and other afternoon entertainments with arms bare, as well as in the evening. The long gloves will be drawn off, and no bracelets will be worn, but the fingers will glitter with costly rings.

A recent report of an expert makes the average duration of the steel rail thirty-five years.

WORDS OF WISDOM.

Grief is a hot spring; the more it is suppressed the more it spouts.

A beast in pain seeks solitude. Man alone makes a parade of his misery.

Fortunes are made by taking opportunities; character is made by making them.

Wit should be used as a shield for defence, rather than a sword to wound others.

We always like those who admire us. We do not always like those whom we admire.

Never chase a lie. Disprove a lie, and the liar who invented it will invent another one.

Life is long enough for him who knows how to use it. Working and thinking extend its limits.

When we have a sorrow which we do not wish to mention, we speak of others which we hid formerly.

When we do good to our fellow sufferers, we invest in a savings bank from which the heart receives the interest.

If you have conquered your inclination, rather than your inclination you, there is something for you to rejoice at.

Suffering is our most faithful friend. It often returns. Often it changes its garb and even its face; but we soon recognize it by its cordial and intimate embrace.

When you are young grief is a tempest which prostrates you; at mature age it is simply a north wind which adds a wrinkle to your brow and one more white hair to your head.

A graceful behavior toward others is a constant source of pleasure; it pleases others because it indicates respect for their personality, and it gives tenfold more pleasure to ourselves.

There is no contending with necessity, and we should be very tender how we censure those who submit to it. 'Tis one thing to be at liberty to do what we will, and another thing to be tied up to do what we must.

Some Very Little Things.

In the milt of a codfish, or in water in which vegetables have been infused, the microscope discovers animalculi so minute that 100,000 of them would not exceed in bulk a single mustard seed. Strange to say these infinitesimal creatures are supplied with organs as complete as those of the whale or elephant.

A bundle of spider webs, not larger than a buckshot and weighing less than one drachm, would, if straightened out and untangled, reach a distance of 350 miles, or farther than from St. Louis to Kansas City.

The smallest circular saw in the world now in actual use is a tiny disc less than the fourth of an inch in diameter used in the Tiffany jewelry establishment for slitting gold pens. It is about the thickness of a sheet of writing paper and revolves at the rate of 4000 revolutions per minute. The high velocity keeps the saw rigid, notwithstanding its thinness.

San Marino, a little republic enclosed within the Kingdom of Italy, is the smallest republic in the world. The people are as perfectly independent of Italy as are the people of America. The territory of San Marino covers but twenty-one square miles, and has a population of but 8000 souls. Besides being the smallest republic it is the most ancient, having survived since the year 460 A. D., over 1400 years.

Last summer T. H. Garrett, of Baltimore, had constructed for his steam yacht Gleam, the smallest piano in the world. It is but forty-seven inches high, forty-five inches wide and twenty-six inches deep. It was designed by Charles A. Steiff. Its tone is equal to that of a piano of the largest size.

The western part of Persia is inhabited by a species of camel which is the pigmy of its species. They are snow white and are on that account almost worshipped by the people. In return for the kind treatment accorded the Shah while in Berlin he has presented the muncipality of that burg with two of these little wonders. The largest of the two is twenty-seven inches high and weighs sixty-one pounds. The other is stated to be "four inches less," but the weight is not given.

The saying that "we are wonderfully and curiously made" comes home with force when we examine the skin of our bodies with a powerful microscope. We find that it is covered with minute scales like those on a fish. A single gram of fine sand would cover 100 of these tiny scales, yet, small as they are, each is the covering for from 300 to 500 pores.

Potato rot is caused by the working of a minute insect. Pasteur, the eminent French chemist, recently examined a piece of this rot the size of a pin's head. In it, living a regular cat-and-dog life, continually biting and clawing at each other, he found over 200 minute forms of animal life.

Sweden's Handsome King.

Precisely at noon, says a Stockholm letter, the sound of military music was heard from outside the hall, and we knew that the King had come. The audience rose and remained standing as he came in, bowing to right and left, followed by the Crown Prince, the President and Secretary of the Congress, the Court-martial and Adjutants. The involuntary expression which came to every one's lips was: "What a splendid man!" His handsome, florid face is set off by gray hair and beard, and his broad shoulders, erect and large figure, well become his office. Trained at sea, he has the bearing of a captain who treads the deck with full confidence in his own powers of command. He wore the splendid uniform of an Admiral, over it the broad blue sash of the Order of the Seraphim, stars and decorations in quantity, and immense gold epaulets. As soon as King Oscar had put on his eyeglasses he rose and read in French his address of welcome—or rather shouted it out as though he was giving commands from the bridge in a gale of wind. A man of fine culture, which seems to be hereditary in the Bernadotte family, he is considered the best speech-maker in his kingdom.

Syrians in the United States.

The Syrians in this country, Superintendent Jackson, of Castle Garden, says, now number about 2000, including a considerable number of women. Nearly all, the women as well, upon their arrival here engage in selling prayer beads and articles that appeal to the religious sense of Catholics. The Syrians walk about the country in order to meet their customers, instead of riding on cars.—New York Sun.

Wood pavement lasts about seven years in streets where the traffic is heavy.

AGRICULTURAL.

TOPICS OF INTEREST RELATIVE TO FARM AND GARDEN.

TICKS ON SHEEP.

The English mutton herds of sheep and their grades and crosses are much more liable to be troubled by ticks than Merinos, says Joseph Harris in the American Agriculturist. Every English farmer dips his sheep two or three times a year to kill ticks. Scores of preparations are sold for this purpose, and men go round from farm to farm with a convenient apparatus for dipping the sheep, and do the work at so much a head.

As to the relative merits of mutton sheep and Merinos, much may be said. But that is not our purpose at this time; what we wish to say now is, if you are keeping any open-wooled sheep of any kind and have not dipped them this fall, do not let another week pass without doing so. It is cruel to the sheep and a great loss to you. We once visited a farmer in Maine, who had given up Merinos and was keeping grade Cotswold's. "I feed them well," he said, "but they do not seem to thrive. It does not pay to keep Merinos for wool alone, and then grade Cotswolds are not going to prove profitable. I think I shall have to give up sheep altogether and keep more cows." This was in winter. We caught one of the sheep and on opening the fleece found it literally alive and black with ticks. We have found many such instances elsewhere. Before winter sets in sheep should be dipped twice, once to kill all the ticks, and again, two or three weeks later, to kill the young ticks hatched out from the eggs laid previous to the first dipping. This will effectually cure the evil. The ticks are easily killed. A favorite dip is made from tobacco stems or cheap tobacco. We have for many years used a dip made of a pound of soap and a pint of crude carbolic acid to fifty gallon of water. The only point to be observed is to keep the mixture well thinned. Dissolve the soap in a gallon or more of boiling water and add the carbolic acid and stir thoroughly. Then mix with water and the proportion named above. In dipping let some trusty man have hold of the head of the sheep and see that none of the mixture gets into the mouth, or nostrils, or eyes. Each sheep should be held in the dip not less than half a minute.

A dip that will probably be more conveniently made is a mixture of soap and kerosene and a gallon of milk. Put them in a churn and churn rapidly for ten or fifteen minutes. If the milk is boiling hot when put in the churn with the kerosene it will be all the better. When thoroughly churned put two gallons of the emulsion in the dipping tub or barrel with twenty gallons of water, stir it up, and commence dipping the sheep. The reserved gallon of emulsion will be needed to make more dip to keep the tub or barrel full enough to cover the sheep. In our own trials we used soap instead of milk. Boil a gallon of water, and put in it a pound of soap, and stir till it is dissolved. Then add two gallons of kerosene and churn as before, or, if you have a good syringe or force pump, churn it with that for ten minutes, or till all the oil is "cut," and the emulsion is complete. It is not improbable that with so much soap as above recommended the dip may need to be a little stronger—say one gallon of the emulsion to eight gallons of water. We like to use plenty of soap to avoid any possible injury to the wool. A pound of white hellebore powder to each two gallons of soap and kerosene emulsion makes a dip that finishes the ticks in a few minutes. The dip without the hellebore will do the work. You will find no live ticks the next morning, and there is some reason to believe that it will kill the eggs also. But it is always safer and better to give a second dipping in two or three weeks, and be sure you dip every sheep in the flock.

It may be thought that we should tell how much dip will be needed for a given number of sheep. It is not easy to do so. It requires almost as much dip for one sheep as for a dozen. You will need to have the tub or barrel full enough to cover the sheep. Much will depend on the size of the sheep and the size of the tub or barrel. You will probably have at least twenty gallons to start with. How much more will be required to replenish the dip will depend on how much care you bestow on squeezing out the dip from the fleece when the sheep is taken out. Kerosene is cheap, and it is better to have too much dip than too little, for if you get short some of the last sheep will not be thoroughly dipped.

FARM AND GARDEN NOTES.

Make a specialty of some one branch of farming and you will succeed.

The size of the farm has little to do with the financial condition of the farmer.

All root crops liable to injury from the frost should be gathered without delay.

This is the time to ditch, drain, repair buildings and make improvements generally.

A well fed calf in autumn, having full flesh, is worth two others of the same age poorly fed and of such stunted growth, from which recovery is next to impossible.

Chicks raised in brooders really double their age. We have chicks now in our brooder that are so far advanced at three weeks of age as those six weeks old, in care of the hen. But if you are raising stock to keep, don't feed so heavy.

If you find your chicks droopy, look out for lice. You may not think you have them, but you will find, by carefully looking, the large head louse. Grease the head sparingly with an ointment composed of two-thirds lard and one-third coal oil.

There are "big profits" in ducks, because they are brought to a marketable age quicker than a chick, and frequently you can get more for them. Their feathers are marketable at a fair price; little is given for the best chicken feathers. They are worthy your attention.

You know that if cows eat cabbage, onions, or other strong smelling and pungent foods, they will make the milk have that flavor. Now, it stands to reason that water that has become impregnated with manure wash, frog spittle or slime, will have the same effect upon the milk. Keep them away from it.

If the fruit trees are split by frost, a good plan is to heat grafting wax, spread it over a piece of muslin, and place over the wound, tying in place with strips of the same material wrapped around the tree. The strip covered with the wax should be sufficiently large entirely to cover the wound.

HOUSEHOLD MATTERS.

HOW TO MAKE TEA.

The water to be used should boil and it should be poured on the tea immediately it boils; if allowed to overboil the peculiar property of boiling water which acts upon tea evaporates and eventually disappears. Tea should not be a decoction, but an infusion. If allowed to stew it becomes little better than a decoction of tannic acid. Tea that is overdrawn is hurtful to the nerves and to the digestion. As to the precise number of minutes which should be devoted to the process of drawing, some people will say five minutes, some seven, some will perhaps go as far as ten, but our experience is in favor of six; this suffices to bring out the flavor, quality and strength. Just as much tea as is wanted should be made—no more. Make fresh tea as often as it is required. The replenishing of the teapot with fresh hot water is very objectionable. As the thorough heating of the receptacle is of the first importance, the teapot should be made thoroughly hot before the tea is put in it. The earthenware teapot is preferred to all others by connoisseurs, and it is superfluous to say that whatever utensils is used for this purpose should be immaculately clean.

Tea is an extremely delicate article. Its susceptibility to the odors of commodities near it is a source of danger and deterioration, as it readily takes up the smell of coffee, cocoa, spices, cheese, bacon or other articles of pronounced odor. The complaints sometimes made about tea would probably not arise if always kept in places free from such contagion. Tea should be stored in a warm, dry place; unnecessary exposure to the air should be avoided. A pound of tea would make 128 cups.—London Telegraph.

THANKSGIVING HINTS.

"Many a person who will eat his share of the Thanksgiving turkey—tender, juicy, delicately brown and done to a turn—will look at the stuffing and pass it by because it is soggy, heavy and unwholesome. The trouble, of course, is in the making; it is often mixed up too wet. The steam of the bird as it cooks furnishes almost enough moisture. Try the following and see if it is not light and tempting: Break up into fine crumbs a sufficient quantity of the soft inside portion of a loaf of bread (being sure not to have any hard pieces); season with salt, pepper, a little chopped parsley, powdered sage or thyme, as you may prefer; and melted butter enough to moisten the whole and mix well together."

The following is a recipe for pumpkin pie, the quantities given being for one pie only: A generous half-pint of rich milk, one heaping tablespoonful of stewed pumpkin, one egg, (white and yoke separately beaten), and half a teaspoonful of flour. Sugar to taste; a little ginger, cinnamon and nutmeg. Beat well together, all except the whites of eggs; add these last, stirring them in quickly but thoroughly, and bake in a quick oven.

According to Mrs. Henderson, a turkey of seven or eight pounds (the best selection, if fat) should be roasted or baked three hours at least, and a large turkey should not be cooked a minute less than four hours, an extra hour being preferable to a minute less. Long cooking, with frequent basting, is the secret of good turkey.

Traditional Thanksgiving fare includes roast turkey, roast chicken, chicken pie, squash, potatoes, turnips, cauliflower, cold slaw, celery and other seasonable vegetables; a rich pudding, a goodly array of pies—mince, pumpkin and squash occupying the places of honor—cake, fruits, nuts, etc. From these dishes the the housekeeper will select a satisfying but not too heavy menu.

Serve with the turkey cranberry sauce or currant, plum or other acid jelly. Be sure to place the turkey upon a sufficiently large platter, as this will facilitate the work of carving.

When soup is served at the Thanksgiving dinner, a clear soup is more suitable to the substantial bill of fare that is to follow than one with vegetables.—New York World.

RECIPES.

Baked Custard—Two tablespoonfuls of flour beaten with two eggs, one pint of milk, and sugar to sweeten; flavor with nutmeg and bake.

Steamed Pudding—One cup each of flour, sugar and sour milk, two cups of raisins, two eggs, one teaspoon of soda and a pinch of salt; steam one hour.

Fried Pumpkin—Pare and slice the pumpkin and boil till tender; remove from the water and mash; add two beaten eggs and fry brown, in small cakes, in butter.

Crullers—One cup of sugar, one tablespoon of butter, one egg, one cup of sweet milk, one and one-half teaspoons of baking powder, flour enough to roll, fry in beef drippings.

Sugar Cookies—Three cups of sugar, one cup each of butter and sweet milk, three eggs and two tablespoonfuls of soda. Sprinkle with sugar and bake in a moderately hot oven.

Lamb Pie—Cut a small neck of lamb into chops, season lightly with pepper, salt, savory and one-fourth of a small onion, minced; place in a deep dish with few sliced potatoes, add a cup of water, cover with a crust and bake in a moderately heated oven.

Dried Apple Pudding—Boil dried apples until nearly done; save a teacup of the juice of the apples for a sauce; chop them and mix with soaked bread and boil in a bag; make a sauce of melted butter, sugar and flour, with enough apple juice to give it flavor; spice with nutmeg.

German Puffs—Put half a pound of butter into a cupful of milk, place on the stove to heat. When it begins to boil pour it on to a cupful of sifted flour and stir until perfectly smooth; then add six well beaten eggs, three tablespoonfuls of sugar and a little cinnamon; drop the batter into small patty pans and bake the puffs in a moderate oven.

Minced Beef—Mince cold beefsteak and put it to stew for fifteen minutes with just enough water to cover it; add a small onion, minced, pepper, salt, vinegar and a tablespoonful of flour wet with cold water; let it boil until a thin gravy is formed; pour over buttered toast and serve.

Sandwich Dressing—One-half pound of butter, two tablespoonfuls of mixed mustard, three tablespoonfuls of salad oil, a little red or white pepper, a little salt, yolk of one egg; rub the butter to a cream, add the other ingredients, mix thoroughly, set away to cool, spread the bread with this mixture and put in the ham, chopped fine.

POPULAR SCIENCE.

During the last ten years an oculist of Cronstadt, Russia, is said to have treated thirty cases of photo-electric ophthalmia, a new disease due to the action of the electric light on the eyes.

M. Cornu, the French scientist, believes that the light of shooting stars cannot be due to combustion or heat, as supposed, but it is a phenomenon of static electricity developed by simple friction.

In a recent issue of a Russian medical journal, a contributor emphatically calls attention to the common sunflowers as an excellent and cheap substitute for quinine in the treatment of malarial fevers of all possible forms.

The German Government propose forming a botanical garden in the Cameroons, for the purpose of determining what plants, medicinal or commercial, are the best for cultivation in the plantations of Germany's African colonies.

It is said to have been demonstrated at the Paris Exposition that, by a combination of compressed air and water, it will be possible to drive a train on slides over a hundred miles an hour. There is no smoke, no noise and scarcely any perceptible motion.

Narrow chested recruits of the Prussian army are to be measured monthly, and those whose chests are not widened by drill are to be discharged as predisposed to consumption. All are to be considered narrow chested whose chests are less in circumference than half the length of their bodies.

The new and ingenious process brought forward in London for the production of aluminum steel is likely, it is claimed, to supercede all other methods. It consists simply in melting pig iron in contact with clay and a certain flux, the result being a sonorous, incorrodible alloy, containing 1.75 per cent. of alluminum.

In observations on eighty-two male and twenty-eight female convicts Dr. Fradenigo, of Italy, has found them more liable to ear diseases than law-abiding citizens, but has detected no constant relation between the obtuseness of touch, taste and smell so common in convicts and the sharpness of vision credited them.

Dr. Von Duhring has reported a case in which tuberculosis was transmitted by the earrings of a girl who died from consumption to another girl. Shortly after the second girl commenced to wear the earrings an ulcer, containing tubercle bacilli, formed on her left ear and she subsequently developed pulmonary consumption.

An official report states that in England and Wales 546 persons were killed by lightning during the twenty-nine years from 1852 to 1880. The inhabitants of rural districts are found to suffer more from lightning than those of towns, while vicinity to the west and south coasts reduces the chances of injury by lightning, and distance from the coast and high land seems to increase them.

A new ice machine of great capacity has recently been devised, in which the sulphurous anhydride hitherto employed for this purpose is replaced by a mixture of sulphurous and carbonic anhydride alone. The inventor of this arrangement explains the matter on the basis of the theory that some kind of molecular action, or rather reaction, occurs between the two gases when liquefied, in consequence of which the pressure exerted by the gas is much smaller than would be expected.

By comparing modern skulls with those of the same race in an old monastery in the Kedrou Valley, Dr. Dight, of the American College of Beirut, Syria, has shown that thirteen centuries have added two inches to the circumference and three and a half cubic inches to the capacity of the Caucasian skull. The brain is developed in the parts presiding over the moral and intellectual functions, growing higher and longer, without increase of the lower portions, which give breadth to the head and in which the selfish propensities are centred.

Some Curious Epitaphs.

When Benjamin Franklin was a young printer he wrote the following epitaph on himself:

Here lies the body of Benjamin Franklin, Printer,
(like the covers of an old book,
Its contents torn out,
And stript of its lettering and gilding,)
Lies food for worms;
Yet the work itself shall not be lost,
For it will [as he believed] appear once more,
In a new
And more beautiful edition,
Corrected and amended
by
The Author.

In the burial ground of Abbey Church, at Conway, North Wales, the following memorial has been erected to one Nicholas Hooker:

Here lyeth the bodie of Nich. Hooker, who was the one and fortieth childe of his father and mother, and the father of seven and thirty by one wife. He dyed March 20th, 1637. Hic Jacet.

In the church yard at Pewsey, Wiltshire, England, Lady O'Looney's pedigree is given after this style:

Here lies the body of Lady O'Looney, great niece of Burke, commonly called the Sublime. She was bland, passionate and deeply religious; also, she painted in water colors and sent several pictures to the exhibition. She was first cousin to Lady Jones, and of such is the Kingdom of Heaven.

Elihue Yale, the founder of Yale College, is buried at Wrexham, Wales, under a tombstone bearing this inscription:

Born in America, in Europe bred,
In Africa travelled and in Asia wed,
Where long he lived and thrived, in London dead.
Much good, some ill he did; so hope's all even,
That his soul through mercy has gone to heaven.
You that survive and read this tale, take care,
For this most certain exit to prepare,
Where, blest in peace, the actions of the just Smell sweet, and blossom in the silent dust.

Richard Lalor Sheil, the Irish orator and joint advocate with Daniel O'Connell before Parliament, who died in 1851, has the following remarkable epitaph on his monument at Waterford:

Here lie I. There's an end to my woes
And my spirit at length at ease is,
With the tip of my nose and the end of my toes
Turned up against the roots of the daisies.

A Liverpool lady who died was thus kindly relinquished to the Lord by her loving husband:

She once was mine,
But now, O Lord,
I her to thee resign,
And remain your obedient humble servant,
[illegible]

It is said to be an actual fact that the following is inscribed on a tombstone at Oxford, N. H.:

[illegible]

Burning at the Stake.

"Burning at the stake is the most painful and horrible manner of death I ever witnessed," said a traveling man to a Chicago Herald writer. "I am forty-five years old, and the burning I saw took place at noon one day, about the middle of July, 1856, at Marshall, Mo., eighty-four miles from Kansas City. The victim was a colored man named John, who belonged to Giles Kiser, a farmer. On the evening of May 12 John had murdered young Benjamin Hinton at his steamboat woodyard on the Missouri River, between Laynesville and Miami. John murdered young Hinton for his money, and obtained $52, some of which he distributed among other colored men. Judge Hicks, of Independence, then Judge of the Sixth District, granted a motion for a special term of court to try John and two other colored criminals. This was in the forenoon. When the court adjourned for a nooning the people, impatient at the law's delay, burst upon the Sheriff as he was conveying the prisoners from the court room to the jail, took them from the officers, and there in the sight of hundreds hanged the other two and chained John to a walnut tree and burned him to death. He lived about six or eight minutes after the flames wrung the first cry of agony from his lips. Then the inhalation of the blazing fire suffocated him. His face, arms and breast were scorched frightfully, and the lower portion of his body was a charred, shapeless mass. Judge Hicks was so indignant at this outrage that he resigned from the bench. No trouble to those concerned ever resulted from the case.

Oriental Beggars.

Beggary throughout the East is a thriving profession. There are guilds of beggars, besides the numerous communities of dervishes, who are semi-religious mendicants. Many families have been beggars for generations, and are mendicants from choice. Some of these professional beggars are actually wealthy. Four-and-twenty years ago the writer well remembers a case. The Chief Beggar (the title was not conferred in derision) gave his daughter in marriage to a substantial farmer. The girl's dowry consisted of two freehold houses, the rooms of which were entirely filled with dry pieces of bread, and the sale of these begged crusts subsequently realized a considerable sum, being disposed of as food for cattle. In the east there is no organized charity, but Mussulmen are exceedingly charitable, many giving away a fifth and even a third of their income.

The Wife of Columbus.

While at Lisbon, Columbus was accustomed to attend service, says Washington Irving, at the chapel of the convent of All Saints. There he became acquainted with a lady of rank, named Dona Felipe, who resided at the convent. She was the daughter of Bartollommeo Monis de Pallestrello, or Perestrello, an Italian cavalier, lately deceased, who had been one of the most distinguished navigators under Prince Henry of Portugal, and had colonized and governed the Island of Porto Santo. The acquaintance soon ripened into attachment and ended in marriage. It appears, adds Irving, to have been a match of mere affection as the lady had little or no fortune.

The Tiger's Choice.

The Java Bode records a singular adventure which recently befell a government surveyor in the wilds of Sumatra. After a hard day's work on a mountain side he passed the night in the open air in a hut hastily run up by his coolies. As he was falling asleep after long watching, the sight of two fiery eyes glaring at the entrance of the hut almost paralized him with terror. An enormous royal tiger soon glided in, smelled him all over, and then set to work devouring the remains of his evening meal to the last morsel. Afterward his terrible guest disappeared.

According to the New York Commercial Advertiser, since 1860 more than 60,000 bodies have been buried in the Potter's Field on Hart's Island. There are no single interments. The bodies are placed in trenches, dug in regular rows, forty-five feet long, fourteen feet wide and ten feet deep. Each of these pits will hold one hundred and fifty bodies.

The builder of the famous Joggins' raft that went to pieces in the ocean a year of two ago, is going to try the experiment again with a still larger raft. It will be 750 feet long and contain 60,000 logs, and will start from New Brunswick to New York in May.

A shell, believed to be one fired during the revolutionary fight on Long Island, over one hundred years ago, was exploded while two boys who unearthed it were trying to open it. Both were knocked down, and one seriously hurt.

A New Kind of Insurance has been put in operation by the manufacturers of Dr. Pierce's medicines. His "Golden Medical Discovery" and "Favorite Prescription" are sold by druggists under the manufacturers' positive guarantee. Either benefit or a complete cure is thus attained, or money paid for these medicines is returned. The certificate of guarantee given in connection with sale of these medicines is equivalent to a policy of insurance. The "Golden Medical Discovery" cures all humors and blood taints, from whatever cause arising, skin and scalp diseases, scrofulous sores and swellings. The "Favorite Prescription" cures all those derangements and weaknesses peculiar to women.

Don't hawk, hawk, and blow, blow, disgusting everybody, but use Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

What is our life but an endless flight of winged facts or events! In splendid variety these changes come, all putting questions to the human spirit.

Dangerous Tendencies
Characterize that very common complaint, catarrh. The foul matter dropping from the head into the bronchial tubes or lungs may bring on bronchitis or consumption, which reaps an immense harvest of deaths annually. Hence the necessity of giving catarrh immediate attention. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures catarrh by purifying and enriching the blood, restoring and toning the diseased organs. Try the peculiar medicine.
"Hood's Sarsaparilla cured me of catarrh, soreness of the bronchial tubes and terrible headache."—R. Gascom, Hamilton, Ohio.
Hood's Sarsaparilla
Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.
100 Doses One Dollar

BRYANT & STRATTON Business College
Book-keeping, Short Hand, Telegraphy, &c.
[illegible]
LOUISVILLE, KY.

PISO'S CURE FOR
Best Cough Medicine. Recommended by Physicians.
[illegible]
CONSUMPTION

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury, as Mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do are ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, and acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co.
Sold by Druggists, price 75c. per bottle.

A Weekly Magazine is really what The Youth's Companion is. It publishes each year as much matter as four-dollar monthlies, and is illustrated by the same artists. It is an educator in every home, and always as entertaining and wholesome a companion. It has a unique place in American family life. If you do not know it, you will be surprised to see how much can be given for the small sum of $1.75 a year. The sent now will entitle you to the paper to January, 1891. Address,
The Youth's Companion, Boston, Mass.

"Lucy Hinton."
Hark! the sound of many voices,
Jubilant in gladdest song,
And full many a heart rejoices
As the chorus floats along:
"Hail the Queen of all Tobaccos!"
How the happy voices blend,
"Finest and purest among her fellows—
Man's staunch and true friend."

Oregon, the Paradise of Farmers.
Mild, equable climate, certain and abundant crops. Best fruit, grain, grass and stock country in the world. Full information free. Address Oreg. Im'igra'tn Board, Portland, Ore.

A 10c. smoke for 5c. "Tansill's Punch."

FOUND!
THE PLACE TO BUY ALL YOUR Furniture, Carpets, Rugs
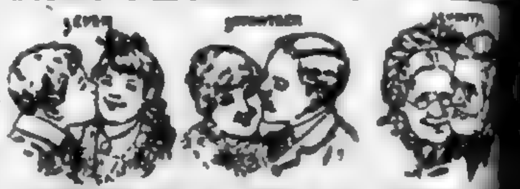
SHADES, ETC.,
CHEAPER THAN ANY HOUSE IN THE SOUTH
Be sure and see our stock and prices before placing your orders.
WRITE US FOR PRICES.
A. J. MILLER & SON,
42 & 44 Peachtree St., Atlanta, Ga.



SMITH'S BILE BEANS
Act on the liver and bile; clear the complexion; cure biliousness, sick headache, costiveness, malaria and all liver and stomach disorders.
We are now making small size Bile Beans especially adapted for children and women— very small and easy to take. Price of either size 25c per bottle.
A panel size PHOTO-GRAVURE of the above picture, "Kissing at 7-17-70," mailed on receipt of 2c stamp. Address the makers of the great Anti-Bile Remedy—"Bile Beans."
J. F. SMITH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

AGENTS Wanted
FOR LIVING LEADERS OF THE WORLD
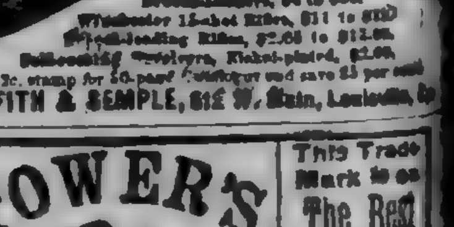
A MASTERLY WORK OF Matchless Interest
Comprising graphic biographies of the Men and Women of Greatest Eminence, Wealth and Power, who are leading the millions of mankind and shaping the destiny of Nations. Prepared by such distinguished authors as GEN. LEW WALLACE, HON. S. S. COX, MRS. FRANK LESLIE, JOEL CHANDLER HARRIS, and others. The most valuable and popular Book published in twenty years. A chance for Agents to make big money. Liberal Terms and exclusive territory. Write at once for Agency, Address H. C. HUDGINS & CO., Atlanta, Ga.

THE WONDERFUL LUBURG CHAIR
COMBINING 5 ARTICLES OF FURNITURE.
100 STYLES. BABY COACHES
INVALID SUPPLIES AND WHEEL CHAIRS
We resell at the lowest wholesale factory prices and ship goods to be paid for on delivery. Send stamp for Catalogue. Name goods desired.
Automatic Brake on all Coaches FREE.
WHEEL CHAIRS TO HIRE.
SPECIAL FREE DELIVERY.
LUBURG MFG. CO., 145 N. 8th St., Philada., Pa.

Ely's Cream Balm
WILL CURE
CATARRH
Price 50 Cents.
Apply Balm into each nostril.
ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y.

AFTER ALL OTHERS FAIL CONSULT
DR. LOBB
329 North Fifteenth St., Philadelphia, Pa., for the treatment of Blood Poisons, Skin Eruptions, Nervous Complaints, Bright's Disease, Strictures, Impotency and kindred diseases, no matter of how long standing or from what cause originating. Ten days' medicines furnished by mail FREE. Send for Book on SPECIAL Diseases.



$7 FOR A Double Breech-Loader
Breech-Loaders, $4 to $50.
Winchester 15-shot Rifles, $11 to $20.
Breech-loading Rifles, $2.00 to $12.00.
Self-cocking Revolvers, Nickel-plated, $1.00.
Send 2c. stamp for 80-page Catalogue and save 25 per cent.
GRIFFITH & SEMPLE, 512 W. Main, Louisville, Ky.

TOWER'S FISH BRAND
This Trade Mark is on The Best Waterproof Coat in the world.
Send for Illustrated Catalogue. A. J. Tower, Boston.

JOHN F. STRATTON & SON,
43 and 45 Walker St. NEW YORK
Importers and Wholesale Dealers in MUSICAL MERCHANDISE,
Violins, Guitars, Banjos, Accordeons, Harmonicas, &c. All kinds of Strings, etc.
SEND FOR CATALOGUE.

OPIUM and WHISKEY HABITS cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE.
B. M. WOOLLEY, M. D.
ATLANTA, Ga. Office 65½ Whitehall St.

HOME STUDY. Book-keeping, Business Forms, Penmanship, Arithmetic, Short-hand, etc., thoroughly taught by MAIL. Circulars free. Bryant's College, 457 Main St., Buffalo, N.Y.

OPIUM HABIT. Only Certain and easy CURE in the World. J. L. STEPHENS, Lebanon, O.

PALMS BUS. COLLEGE, Philadelphia. Situations, scholarships and positions, $50. Write for circulars.

I prescribe and fully endorse Big G as the only specific for the certain cure of this disease.
G. H. INGRAHAM, M. D.,
Amsterdam, N. Y.
We have sold Big G for many years, and it has given the best of satisfaction.
D. R. DYCHE & CO.,
Chicago, Ill.
Cures in 1 TO 5 DAYS.
Made only by the Evans Chemical Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.
$1.00. Sold by Druggists.

A. N. U. ....Forty-seven.

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per Square, of one inch or less, for the first, and fifty Cents for each subsequent insertion.

[illegible]	3 mo.	6 m.	12 m.
1 Inch	$ 5 00	$ 7 50	$ 11 [illegible]
2 Inches	7 00	11 [illegible]	16 00
3 Inches	10 00	15 00	[illegible]
4 Inches	12 50	20 00	[illegible]
5 Inches	15 00	[illegible]	[illegible]
¼ Column	18 00	[illegible]	[illegible]
½ Column	27 00	40 00	[illegible]
1 Column	40 00	[illegible]	100 00

The Chilton View.

W. S. LAWRENCE, Editor and Publisher. "WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION." TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME IX. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 5, 1889. NUMBER 6.

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line each insertion.

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be headed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

☞ The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

CAHEEN

EXTENDS A CORDIAL INVITATION TO ALL STRANGERS VISITING OUR CITY.

COME TO OUR GREAT MAMMOTH DOUBLE STORES,

AND

Make yourselves at home. Use our store as you would your own home. CAHEEN will ever strive to make your visit pleasant and profitable. It will be a pleasure for us to show you through

THE GREAT DRY GOODS HOUSE OF BIRMINGHAM.

F. CAHEEN, 2018 & 2020 First Avnnue.

MUSEUM FREAKS.

HOW SOME OF THEM ARE MANUFACTURED TO ORDER.

Instantaneous Photographs of a Circassian Beauty—A Cannibal Princess, Etc., as They Really Are.

The prosperity in the dime museum business proves that a great many citizens find in freaks and deformities the sort of mental food which they require. These pictures and explanatory words are intended for the benefit of dime museum patrons. Here they get an idea of a dime museum as it really is and at one-tenth the usual price of admission. The pictures were taken by the Evening Sun's instantaneous system of photography. The young men in charge of the cameras were guided and coached by a man grown gray in the dime museum business, and an expert in the manufacture of freaks. There are two kinds of attractions in a museum—"freaks" and "fakes." The "freaks" are sometimes genuine, but many "freaks" are "fakes."

The first picture, for instance, shows the ordinary Circassian girl. When the Evening Sun's young men entered the Bowery museum, in which she earns $12 a week, she was seen sitting upon a platform, with her abundant crop of sugar-stiffened hair standing on end all over her head. She was lectured upon a short time later, by the automaton who deals out misinformation to the public, and described as the only genuine Circassian beauty in New York.

But it wasn't many minutes before one of the reporters had her hair on his own head. The young woman was seen in the entry to the dressing rooms and as she darted through a dingy door, which she pushed open with one hand, she removed her wig with the other. She was photographed by the instantaneous cameras, and here is her picture. She proved to be a very pretty girl, but thoroughly American in features and speech. This is one of the oldest museum "fakes," and is seen almost daily in this city.

The young lady who possessed the wig had but little to say about the business. There was a public demand for Circassian beauties. She was paid for her work and that was all she cared about it.

The second photograph is one of a genuine Fiji princess. She says she is genuine and her mother says so, too, so there can be no question about it. The South Sea Islanders are a race of very black people, with short, coarse hair, inclined to be kinky. This Fiji princess is almost as white as the lovely Circassian, her hair is rather light than otherwise, and she has blue eyes. There is undoubtedly a strain of blood of some dark-skinned race in her veins, and as she says she is a genuine Fiji cannibal, of course no one can dispute her claim. But, her appearance, color, hair, eyes and speech seem to throw an air of inconsistency about her story. Her mother is a large, raw-boned woman with high, prominent cheeks and of a copper color. She does not look unlike an American Indian. The father of the girl is [illegible]

The freak Congo is a fake of the very purest water, a fake among fakes, one of the most amusing of all the fakes in New York museums. The proprietors of it are partially honest. They exhibit it as a nondescript, and do not say it is a man, though the idea is conveyed that it had human parents. This creature, upon first glance, appears to be a monstrous negro, with a most repulsively deformed face. The under lip protrudes and the general dress of the "man" which it appears to be is of the most flashy description.

When a fair, front view of this creature is had, the impression produced is hat it is a two-legged animal and resembles a human being in shape and form. A silk hat, large enough to fit he head of a giant, a full dress coat and vest, a laundered collar of monstrous size, a large pair of patent leather shoes and snuff colored overgaiters above them, and a pair of pantaloons of the loudest pattern complete his dress.

This "nondescript" is made up from the simplest materials imaginable, as may be seen from the second picture taken of him, which was taken yesterday morning before he was placed upon exhibition. It needs no description to tell what it is. Simply an every-day-sort of a mule, black as coal and having a slightly deformed mouth. In making up the "fake" his manager has a good deal to do.

First he stroked the animal's long ears back over his head and tied them fast. Next he took a thick, heavy wig of curly hair, and placed it across the animal's temples to give it the effect of human hair. This wig was made fast underneath the ears, where it would be out of sight, and then the big stovepipe hat was placed upon the head. It was tied under the tied-down ears of the mule. Next the manager put on Mr. Mule's forward pair of trousers. They were put on not without difficulty, however, for the mule didn't seem to fancy being dressed up. They were made fast over his shoulders by means of a gigantic pair of suspenders, and the animal was ready for the other pair. These were soon adjusted so as to cover his hind legs, and were secured to a belt on his back. Then came the coat, which was a marvel of workmanship and size. When it was put on and the animal made to stand so as to face directly toward the front with a curtain arrangement to conceal his quadruped construction, people who came in to see the mystery saw him just as he is pictured in the first of the photographs taken of him. This made-up curiosity has been one of the most successful drawing cards ever placed in any of the museums.

At another museum a man was found who professionally drinks kerosene and swallows lamp wicks when lighted. He does this for a salary and earns his money easily. He took a lamp, in the presence of the reporters, unscrewed the burner and removed it from a bowl apparently filled with oil. He placed the wick between his teeth and began to swallow it. When he had swallowed about a yard of it an assistant lighted the wick, placed a chimney upon the burner and a human lamp was the result. The lamp bowl is full of water. There is no oil on that part of the wick which the man stuffs into his mouth. Many more dime museum marvels might be explained in this way, but these will suffice to give an idea of the wholesale squandering of dimes which goes on in this country.—New York Sun.

Wagner Music.

"You stay dare, ain'd ut. I vas of holdin' you get tired."

Mr. Speitzer (enthusiastically)—"Ach! Dot Wagner musick was sound human almost somedimes."—Life.

A Man of Iron Nerve.

At the Pellmore Colliery two miners were engaged in drilling a blast hole. When it had been drilled and filled with giant powder a lighted fuse was attached. While every one was breathlessly awaiting the explosion, the mine superintendent, accompanied by two young ladies, walked slowly up to the spot, and, not knowing their terrible danger, stopped opposite the charge. He began explaining the use of the breasts. One of the miners, seeing that shouting would not do, or the man would most likely stop and ask what they were saying, and perhaps not even then understand, ran forward to pull out the fuse. When within twenty feet he saw that it would explode the next moment. Without thought of his own danger, although he knew the act would doubtless end in a horrible death, he gave three great bounds and threw himself headlong on the fuse just as it gave a last fizz before entering the powder. [Philadelphia Press.

Thunderstorms.

A German periodical gives statistics concerning the frequency of thunderstorms in various regions of the world. Java has thunderstorms on the average ninety-seven days in the year; Sumatra, eighty-six; Hindoostan, fifty-six; Borneo, fifty-four; the Gold Coast, fifty-two; Rio de Janeiro, fifty-one; Italy, thirty-eight; West Indies, thirty-six; South Guinea, thirty-two; Buenos Ayres, Canada and Austria, twenty-three; Baden, Wurtemberg and Hungary, twenty-two; Silesia, Bavaria and Belgium, twenty-one; Holland, eighteen; Saxony and Brandenburg, seventeen; France, Austria and South Russia; sixteen; Spain and Portugal, fifteen; Sweden and Finland, eight; England and the high Swiss mountains, seven; Norway, four; Cairo, three. In east Turkestan as well as in the extreme north, there are almost no thunderstorms. The northern limits of the thunderstorms are Cape Ogle, northern part of North America, Iceland, Novaja Semelja and the coast of the Siberian ice sea.

A Hen of Many Colors.

The most fashionable hen in the State is said to live at Winslow's Mills, in the town of Waldoboro. She started in life a plain, dark brown pullet, but soon exchanged this for a black and white suit. The next time she shed her feathers she came out as white as snow, and this fall she appears in a black, white and tan dress.—Lewiston (Me.) Journal.

Tunnis is one newspaper published in the United States which is probably never quoted, whose editor is not hunted down by angry politicians and indignant [illegible] [illegible]

"The Ringing of the Kirk Bell."

It was Jean McGregor, the fisherman's wife, and she stood at her cabin door,
And shuddered to see the angry storm that raged on the Scottish shore.

For oh, 'twas a dark and fearsome night,
Willie, her man, away,
And Robin, her one wee bairn, so ill he would hardly see the day.

And only she and her dying babe alone in their home that night,
While the wind and waves came roaring up, and filled her soul with fright.

She turned for comfort to still her fears, and kissed her baby so fair,
When lo! the sea, the sky and the rocks were lit with a lurid glare.

Up sprang poor Jean with a pallid face, and a cry that had no sound,
As she gazed beyond the breakers where a vessel had run aground.

She saw the flames shoot up on high, but she heard no signal gun,
And she knew the crew in the burning ship must perish, every one;

Unless from the little little village just half a mile away,
Came help from the sleeping fishermen so tired with toil all day.

One moment of agonizing thought for the fishermen's wife and then
The struggle was o'er; she must leave her child for the sake of the shipwrecked men.

Back to the bed where baby lay went Jean in her agony,
Crying, "O bairnie, I daur na gang lest thou dee awa frae me!"

Then down on her knees she knelt and prayed: "O our ain Father above, Tak cair 'o my wee sick bairnie, do, for the sake o' thy tender love!

Oh, haud him frae ill whiles I gang awa, and gin it please thy will,
Let him na dee this nicht, that I coom back to him living still!"

Then out into the storm. The path she took was the nearer way by the sea,
And on she sped from rock to rock, brave
Jean, so fearlessly!

She had left her child in the Father's care, so she sent no backward thought
To the lonely cabin, lest strength and will should fail in the help she sought.

The village reached at last—ah, me! could she ever waken its men?
So silent it lay in slumber deep, her spirits sank; but then

'Twas only an instant of despair; "I'll awa to the kirk mysel,
And God be giving me strength to pull wi my ain twa hands the bell!"

Above the roar of the elements the clang of the bell rang out!
The tired seamen awoke from sleep with many a call and shout.

The glare from the ship its own tale told;
strong arms pulled sturdily
Across the waves, and never a man from the ship was lost at sea.

"Who rang the bell?" was the cry at last
Ah, there on the floor of the kirk
Lay Jean McGregor, the bonnie lass! Wel had she done her work!

And now they bore her all tenderly to the little cabin door,
Where they suspected her child had died alone on the rocky shore.

But what saw she when they entered in as she opened her eyes again?
Her bairn alive and greeting her! Her
Robin relieved from pain.

"Nae deid, nae deid? Alive the morn? O God be praised!" laughed she,
"For Willie'll no lose his laddie noo; God's owre guid to me!"

The fishermen took themselves away; but
Jean, young Willie's wife,
Was on her knees and giving thanks for the gift of her bairnie's life.

Long years have passed since that "deid o' nicht" when rang the old kirk bell,
But the dames of the Scottish hamlet love the story e'en yet to tell.

—Mary D. Brine.

FINDING JIM.

BY C. M. HARGER.

The search began in May and ended in November. It was made within the four walls of a country newspaper office and through the medium of its exchanges. The "exchange fiend" has bored me since that search, for I have always remembered [illegible] opened and the "copy" rustling in the breeze, a bent, white-haired settler entered the Weekly Palladium office.

"You paper fellers git each other's papers, I 'spose?" he asked timidly.

"Yes, sir; we exchange with one another."

"Could you let a person see some of yer papers? I'd pay yer for it," he added, as if afraid he was asking too much.

"Oh, that will be all right," I replied as I piled fifty or more exchanges before him.

"Ye see I'm lookin' for Jim," my visitor said, apologetically, as he was adjusting his steel-bowed spectacles. "Jim's my son. We come west two year ago an' took up a claim. 'Twas pretty hard work I know, and' Jim was high strung. Bein' the baby of the fam'ly he hed bin petted a good deal an' workin' come hard on him."

"Did he run away?" I queried, wishing to appear sociable and interested.

"No, that's the worst of it; I drove 'im away. I got mad at 'im one day 'cause he wouldn't mind, an' told 'im ter clear out. He went an' I ain't seen 'im since. I'm thinkin' I'll find somethin' of 'im in the papers—you fellers seem ter write up everythin'."

With that he began to look through the local columns of the journals before him. It was an hour before he had finished his task and laid by the last one with a sigh.

"I'll look ag'in next week," he said sadly as he departed.

The next week and the next he was there, each time chatting with me and revealing more of the longing for a chance of reparation for his harshness.

All through the hot summer months he was faithful to his task, and I, too, began to feel an interest in the missing boy and look for his name in the papers that went through my hands.

October with its Indian summer had gone. The prairies had taken on their robes of brown, and nightly the prairie fires gleamed in a ragged line at the far horizon. Then November. On the third Saturday my visitor came through a bitter blustering wind, and his hands looked white and pinched with cold.

The tears dimmed his glasses as he took up his task as usual. He had gone about half through the pile of papers when he suddenly straightened, up, brushed the page out smooth and fixed his eyes intently upon it. He handed the paper to me and I read:

"A stranger giving his name as James Messerve was found in the depot this morning, sick. He is scarcely more than a boy, but seems to have had hard lines. He says he has friends in Kansas, but will not give their names. He was taken to the Merchants' Hotel, where he is being cared for by the city authorities."

The paper was published in a small city in Northern Iowa, and was dated three days previous.

"I've found him!" ejaculated the father gladly. "I'm goin' ter get him!"

That night he left for his son's side, and in a week the two alighted from the train, the father joyous and happy, the son pale and emaciated. As they rode over the prairie towards the old man's claim, he called back to me: "Come out an' see us sometime!"

I did so shortly afterward; and as we sat up to the well-supplied table, though our chairs rested on the bare earth, and the walls of a dug-out were around us, I found as happy a host as presided in any place in the land. The old man bent his head, and in fervent tones thanked the giver of all good for the return of his boy, thanked him in such words as only the full heart can prompt.

Glancing to one side I saw tears drop from Jim's eyes upon his plate. [illegible]

Pike's Peak.

Viewed from the prairies that lie to the east of its rocky slopes, says a writer in the Detroit Free Press, Pike's Peak stands like some grim sentinel watching over the vast extent of country from its base to the Kansas line, stoic-like, indifferent to the shifting panorama that has passed before it. Could it speak, what a history it might unfold! What tragedies have been enacted in sight of its lofty summit! Over 14,000 feet high, it is, from its lofty situation, standing in the first range of hills, the first peak in Southern Colorado that greets the traveler coming from the East, and its sight has invigorated many a weary party in the days of overland travel, for at the giant's feet were found, if not riches, at least sweet waters and green pastures.

The writer cannot better describe its appearance from the plains than by relating his experience when first seeing it. One morning, as we reached the summit of one of these elevations, high but not abrupt, common to Eastern Colorado, we came suddenly in view of the range, many miles away at the nearest point; cloud-like but distinct they appeared through the intervening distance. Pike's Peak, more than 100 miles distant, its summit crowned with snow, stood out against the sky in well-defined lines of a grayish tint in the morning; in the evening it assumes a purplish hue apparently outlined in silver. The impression it gives one after crossing the dreary plains is inexpressibly grand. It is only on a nearer approach that it presents that craggy and rugged aspect so characteristic of the Rockies. From its position Pike's Peak is one of the most interesting, as well as one of the most noted landmarks in the United States.

Driving Oxen in South Africa.

In the Western States and on the plains ox teams are driven with whips, and the oxen are trained to canter along the road in a not ungraceful trot. In New England one never sees oxen driven faster than a walk. The use of the whip is humorously described by Mr. Kerr in his account of South African travel:

Many and many a time had I used the short-handled whip employed in herding cattle on the western prairies of America, but a complete stranger to the gigantic and indispensable whip common to all South African caravans. In becoming initiated into the mysteries of its use I left numerous marks upon my face and neck and was more than once nearly strangled.

While vigorously pressing on the leading oxen I would fall heels over head into some deep hole. Sometimes the oxen would wheel quickly round, rush through the forest and break the young trees, while the old wagon rolled along like the grounding of a wrecked balloon. When evening came, after such experience, I felt as though I had been mobbed and hustled at an election.

At the crossing of any of the large riverbeds, indeed, John's aid became indispensable. He could crack the whip and make a report like an Armstrong six-pounder; while his shouts and fiendish yells resounded wildly through the rocks in such a manner that even the hoarse roar of a fog-horn or the shrill shriek of a steam whistle would have had no chance against him.

That is the Time.

Alice—I've just been reading a newspaper discussion on "When women should marry," Miss Elder. When do you think a girl should marry?

Miss Elder (emphatically)—Just as [illegible]

PEARLS OF THOUGHT.

Ideas are queer, but none more so than true ones.

We murmur because we are in want, and, therefore, want because we murmur.

The great men of the ancients understood how to reconcile manual labor with affairs of state.

As charity requires forgetfulness of evil deeds so patience requires forgetfulness of evil accidents.

The emptiness of all things, from politics to pastimes, are never so striking to us as when we fail in them.

Fanaticism, to which men are so much inclined, has always served not only to render them more brutalized, but more wicked.

Part with it as with money, sparingly; pay no moment but in purchase of its worth; and what its worth! Ask death-beds, they can tell.

If there were nothing but showers we would conclude the world would be drowned. If nothing but sunshine we would fear the world would be burned.

The essence of true nobility is neglect of self. Let the thought of self pass in, and the beauty of great action is gone like the bloom from a soiled flower.

That which is easy to do, though it may be worth doing, is not so important as that which is hard and disagreeable, and which therefore finds fewer workers.

Extinguish vanity in the mind, and you naturally retrench the little superfluities of garniture and equipage. The blossoms will fall of themselves when the root that nourishes them is destroyed.

It is the close observation of little things which is the secret of success in business, in art, in science, and in every pursuit in life. Human knowledge is but an accumulation of small facts, made by successive generations of men, the little bits of knowledge and experience carefully treasured up by them growing at length into a mighty pyramid.

The Greatest Mining Camp.

"The Leadville of Montana" Butte was called five years ago. But now it is "the greatest mining camp in the world." Last year's returns brought Butte to the front of all camps, just as it placed Montana at the top of the list of the States and Territories. Montana's output of gold and silver in 1888 was $34,618,000. That gave her first place by $2,000,000. And when the copper product was added her contribution to these three items of the wealth of the country reached $40,500,000. This year, if the remaining two months sustain the record of the past 10, the new State will show a yield of $50,000,000 in gold, silver and copper. Surely, Montana has earned her Statehood at a good round price. Her proud position at the head of the gold, silver and copper producing States and Territories, Montana owes to Butte. More than half of last year's $40,500,000 came from this camp. The development has been recent and marvelously rapid. Five years ago "the Leadville of Montana" was a very appropriate title, for Butte then was turning out $6,000,000 a year. But now, with a 12 months' showing of $24,000,000, the claim to be "the richest camp in the world" must be conceded.

[illegible]

[illegible]

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., DEC. 5, 1889.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year	$1.50
One copy six months	75
One copy four "	50

The manner in which Judge Dowdell deals with violators of the law is something truly refreshing and commendable.

Will Harrison be made President a second time? The answer is to be found in reading the name Harrison backward.—Courier-Journal.

The Bibb Blade says: "Saturday was a lovely day as the sun shined out in the winter sky." Is this Bibb county poetry or Bibb county grammar?

Postmaster General Wanamaker favors a reduction of letter postage to one cent. Judge Cobb thinks that the business of the postoffice department will justify such a reduction, and will favor any measure brought before congress having such an object.

Some of our contemporaries are eulogizing the late M. E. Pratt as the inventor of the Pratt Gin and the man for whom the town of Prattville was named. Daniel Pratt, the uncle of M. E. Pratt, was the inventor of the gin and the man in whose honor the town was named.

The DeBardeleben coal and iron company have decided to build two additional blast furnaces alongside of their present plant of two furnaces at Bessemer, Ala. Work will be commenced on the new plant at an early day. An addition of 100 coke ovens will be built, making their Bessemer plants contain 428 ovens.

After stopping to think and drawing a long breath, we find that the Birmingham Age-Herald has ceased to reach our office since we rather ingloriously alluded to the Senatorial possibilities of its editorial staff, wherein we complimented both the good-looking young man and the bald-headed young man. It is evident, therefore, that the people of the State are indebted to the VIEW for a test of the mental calibre of this peculiar quality of Senatorial timber. 'Tis sweet to love, but oh, how bitter, to love the A.-H., and then not git 'er.

Allen G. Thurman in a recent speech to a Kansas Democratic club, said:

"It is now over sixty years since I made my first Democratic speech, and ever since then I have without faltering given the best support of which I was capable to our noble cause. I thought it was a good cause when I first spoke. I think so yet, when the shadows of life are darkening around me, and I shall no doubt think so when I am called to my final account. Allow me to congratulate you on you final prospects, and to remind you that the Democratic party is the party of free institutions, and as long as liberty shall exist in America it cannot die."

What a Prominent Cotton Firm Says of the Outlook.

The following from an autograph circular of Messrs. Lathram Alexander & Co., the well known bankers and commission merchants of New York, will be of interest to those interested in cotton. "Planters," says the firm "in many sections, are sending their cotton to market in a deliberate manner. A systematic and abrupt holding back of the crop is not commendable, and such a course of action has not been adopted in the state. Planters have however, resolved not to rush their cotton to market, and it is gratifying to know that they are in a position to adopt their present policy without being dilatory in meeting their obligations. The fact is, they have made their crops with much lighter advances from factors and merchants than any previous year. They have used less of commercial fertilizers than formerly. The majority of them are therefore, in a position to sell their cotton when they please. It is gratifying to see planters now approaching a condition of permanent financial independence. "The demand is so great that a higher plane of value for cotton than in some years past, seems likely for this season."

M. T. & M. Railroad.

The Centreville Enterprise contains the following information concerning the above road which will be of interest to a large number of our readers living along the line of the road in this county:

Mr. J. C. Woolfolk, the secretary and treasurer of the M. T. & M. railroad, and; Capt. W. F. Joseph, director of the same, and H. S. Persons constructing engineer, have been for some days in our midst on business in connection with this road.

They give every assurance that the road will be built if the citizens along the line will give them their assistance.

It was the first efforts of the directors to building this line of road without soliciting aid from the people. And to carry out this idea, they secured in the counties of Montgomery and Autauga, the issuance of county bonds, said counties being of course authorized by an enactment of the last legislature to issue said bonds, for the special purpose of building the bridge to span the Alabama river. However, for fear there might be some illegality in the act, a friendly suit was carried to the courts and in the supreme court the bonds were declared null and void. This has therefore, necessitated an appeal to the citizens along the line to come to the help of the road.

The company ask for $225,000, of this amount Tuskaloosa has already given $100,000, leaving a deficit of $125,000 to be yet secured. With a proper guarantee that this will be paid we have assurance that work will begin on this part of the road in three weeks. This money is needed to secure the interest on the bonds that have been placed in the city of New York, which interest for two years must be on deposit so as to be made perfectly secure. As every one knows, the first year or two brings no profit, and therefore, interest must be provided for against every contingency.

Jemison Locals.

Our new P. M., Mr. Frank Crocheron, has put in a lot of new boxes, including some lock boxes, which is quite an improvement in our postoffice and a convenience to our citizens.

Died, at Jemison, on Saturday night last, the 30th ult., Mrs. Gaines, mother of Mr. R. H. Gaines in her 80th year. She was a good woman, loved and respected by all. Peace to her ashes. We extend our sympathies to the bereaved family.

Mr. J. P. Allen, Rev. J. L. Wyatt and wife, Dr. J. A. McNeil and wife, and several others attended the C. P. Presbytery, which convened in Helena Friday last.

A daughter of Mr. J. H. Hughes and her husband, from Texas, who have been absent some years, are visiting "Uncle Jimmie," and broad smiles play hide and seek all over his countenance.

Our genial and handsome young friend, Robert Durham, is now assistant salesman at the Jemison Lumber Co's store.

Jemison challenges the record of any town of twice her size in Ala. on babies both as to number and quality. From dewy eve till early dawn festive notes of music like lingering cadences are wafted on the still night air.

The Farmers' Alliance have moved across the rail road in the Lowery store, with Messrs. Sam Pate and W. W. Adams in charge.

Mr. Johnnie Brantly has bought Dr. McNeil's residence in west Jemison.

X. Y. Z.

What the Alliance has Done.

Hon. Ben Terrell, National Alliance lecturer in a recent interview with a Charleston, S. C., News and Courier reporter, in regard to the success of the Alliance in the cotton bagging fight, said it had been the means of saving three or four millions of dollars to the Alliance men. He had not the slightest doubt if the war had not been waged, the price of bagging would have gone up to fifteen cents.

Key West, Fla., has 21,000 people and all live by the cigar making industry, in which 8,000 men and women are employed. The scale paid runs from $13 to $40 per thousand, and a fair maker can turn out at least one thousand per week.

Postmasters who fail to notify publishers when subscribers remove or fail to take paper from the postoffice are held by the postmaster general to be responsible for their subscription.

Marry a Gentleman.

It was excellent advice I saw lately given to young ladies urging them to marry only gentlemen or not marry at all. A true gentleman is generous and unselfish. He regards another's happiness and welfare as well as his own. You will see the trait running through all his actions. A man who is a bear at home among his sisters, and discourteous to his mother, is just the man to avoid when you come to the great question which is to be answered yes or no. You need not die old maids. But wait until the prince passes by. No harm in delay.

You will not find him in the ball room. Nor is he a champion billiard player. He has not had time to become a "champion," for he has had too much honest, earnest work to do in the world.—Ex.

Mistakes.

It is a mistake to labor when you are not in a fit condition to do so.

To sleep exposed to a direct draught any season

To think that the more a person eats the healthier he will become.

To conclude that the smallest room in the house is large enough to sleep in.

To take off proper clothes out of season simply because you have become heated.

To imagine that if a little work or exercise is good, violent or prolonged exercise is better.

To go to bed at midnight and rise at daybreak and imagine that every hour taken from sleep is an hour gained.

To believe that children can do as much work as grown people, and that the more hours they study the more thy learn.

To eat as if you only had a minute to finish a meal, or to eat without an appetite or continue after it has been satisfied, merely to satisfy the taste.

Foraker has fallen just outside the breastworks in Ohio, but the President sends no Harrisonian salve by wire. The mine has been sprung at Petersburg and Brigadier Mahone is swallowed in the debris, but the White House offers no consolation by lightning. Hutchinson lies prone upon the foughten field of Iowa, and Harrison doesn't as much as inquire into the condition of his wounds. In various grotesque attitudes Harrisonian followers lie outside of breastworks extending all the way from Martha's Vineyard to Sioux City, and the White House doesn't even inquire into the efficiency of the ambulance corps. Perhaps the wounded brethren would not care for consolation that would mean no more to them than it meant to Warner Miller.—Chicago Times.

Mercurial Rheumatism.

Mr. J. C. Jones, city marshal of Fulton, Arkansas, writes: "About ten years ago I contracted a severe case of blood poison. The leading physicians of the city were called in, and they prescribed medicine after medicine, which I took without affording me any relief. I also tried mercurial and potash remedies, with the same unsuccessful result, but which brought on an attack of mercurial rheumatism that made my life one of untold agony. After suffering for four years, I gave up all former remedies and commenced taking Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) After taking several bottles, I was entirely cured and able to resume work. I consider Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) the greatest medicine for blood poisoning to-day on the market."

A Prompt Cure.

Two bottles of Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) cured me of a breaking out all over my body, caused by blood poisoning.

VICTOR STEWART,
24 S. Royal Street, Mobile, Ala.

For thirty years I was afflicted with blood poison, from which I suffered untold agonies. I commenced taking S. S. S., and after using five bottles, I am entirely cured.

WILLIAM SCHERK, Flushing, L. I.

I suffered for twenty years from blood poisoning. Three bottles of Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) cured me entirely.

CATHERINE MOSHER,
Mineola, L. I.

Treatise on Blood and Skin Diseases mailed free.

SWIFT SPECIFIC CO.,
Drawer 3, Atlanta, Ga.

The fountain of perpetual youth was one of the dreams of antiquity. It has been well nigh realized in Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which purifies the blood, gives vitality to all the bodily functions, and thus restores to age much of the vigor and freshness of youth.

I use Ayer's Cherry Pectoral freely in my practice, and recommend it in cases of Whooping Cough among children, having found it more certain to cure that troublesome disorder than any other medicine I know of.—So says Dr. [illegible], of Campbell, Mass.

If you suffer pricking pains on moving the eyes, or cannot bear bright light, and find your sight weak and failing you should promptly use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Eye Salve. 25 cents a box.

For better than the harsh treatment of medicines which horribly gripe the patient and destroy the coating of the stomach. Dr. J. H. McLean's Chill and Fever, by mild yet effective action will cure. Sold at 50 cents a bottle.

Somebody claims to have discovered a substance a hundred times sweeter than sugar. It is supposed to about eighteen years old and to have a fondness for ice cream, soda water and caramels.

If you suffer from any affection caused by impure blood, such as scrofula, salt rheum, sores, boils, pimples, tetter, ring worm, take Dr. J. H. McLean's Sarsaparilla.

The quality of the blood depends much upon good or bad digestion and assimilation. To make the blood rich in life and strength-giving constituents use Dr. J. H. McLean's Sarsaparilla. It will nourish the properties of the blood, from which the elements of vitality are drawn.

The longest distance over which conversation by telephone is daily held is between Portland, Me., and Buffalo, N. Y., about 750 miles.

Sick headace, wind on the stomach billiousness, nausea, are promptly and agreeably banished by Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pillets, 25 c a vial.

When nature falters and requires help recruit her enfeebled energies with Dr. J. H. McLean's strengthening cordial and blood purifier. $1.00 per bot.

Ten thousand dollars was raised for the new Judson college at Marion by the Baptist state convention.

Physicians prescribe Dr. J. H. McLean's Tar Wine Lung Balm; in it they find no trace of opium or morphia, while its efficacy in curing all throat and lung diseases is wonderful.

Exposure to rough weather, getting wet, living in damp localities, are favorable to the contraction of diseases of the kidneys and bladder. As a preventive, and for the cure of all kidney and liver trouble, use that valuable remedy, Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm. $1.00 per bottle.

Go to Blank Brothers, Leading Clothiers, 2112, 2nd Avenue, Birmingham, Ala., to buy anything you need in the way of clothing and gent's furnishing goods.

There are many accidents and diseases which affect stock and cause serious inconvenience and loss to the farmer in his work, which may be quickly remedied by the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment.

Tax Notice!

SECOND ROUND.

I will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and county taxes of Chilton county for the year 1889.

Mineral Springs	December	6
Jemison	"	7
Providence	"	3
Macedonia	"	9
Benson	"	10
Maplesville	"	11
R. Latham's	"	12
Dixie	"	13
Kincheon	"	17
Verbena	"	18
Cooper's	"	19
Valley Creek Church	"	14
Clanton Ford	"	16
Elijah Busby	"	4
John Archer's	"	5
Prim's School House	"	21

Clanton, December 23, 24, 26, 27, 28, 30 and 31.

B. M. GENTRY,
Tax Collector Chilton Co.

Assessor's Notice.

FIRST ROUND.

I will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of assessing the State and county taxes of Chilton county, for the year 1890:

Mineral Springs,	January	30
Jemison,	"	23 & 24
Providence	"	27
Macedonia	"	22
Benson	"	21
Maplesville	"	18
R. Latham's	"	17
Dixie	"	13
Kincheon	"	7
Verbena	"	2
Cooper's	"	1
Clanton,	February	3
Mountain Creek	January	3
Well's Saw Mill	"	4
Callaway's Grist Mill	"	6
Chandler's Saw Mill	February	7
Pilgrim's Rest	January	8
Clanton Ford	"	9
Stanton	"	11
Chilton Lumber Co.'s Mill	"	14
Welch & Bro.'s Saw Mill	"	15
Valley Creek Church	"	16
Concord Church	"	25
Elijah Busby's	"	28
Archie's Chapel	"	29
Strasburg	"	31
Cane Creek Church	February	4
John Gore's	"	5
E. T. Gullahorn's Saw Mill	"	6

E. G. ROLLINS,
Tax Assessor Chilton Co.

Mortgage Sale.

Under and by virtue of a mortgage executed to the undersigned by Abe Lewis and recorded in mortgage book, No. 29, page 29, in the office of the Judge of Probate of Chilton county, I will proceed to sell, on the 28th day of December, 1889, at the courthouse door of said county, within the hours of legal sale, the following described real estate to-wit: The northwest quarter (n w ¼) of the northeast quarter (n e ¼) of section thirty-three (33) in township twenty (20) of range eleven (11) containing fifty acres more or less.

FRANK [illegible],
dec5 Mortgagee.

Bring your job printing to this office.

Coughing

Is Nature's effort to expel foreign substances from the bronchial passages. Frequently, this causes inflammation and the need of an anodyne. No other expectorant or anodyne is equal to Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It assists Nature in ejecting the mucus, allays irritation, induces repose, and is the most popular of all cough cures.

"Of the many preparations before the public for the cure of colds, coughs, bronchitis, and kindred diseases, there is none, within the range of my experience, so reliable as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. For years I was subject to colds, followed by terrible coughs. About four years ago, when so afflicted, I was advised to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and to lay all other remedies aside. I did so, and within a week was well of my cold and cough. Since then I have always kept this preparation in the house, and feel comparatively secure." —Mrs. L. L. Brown, Denmark, Miss.

"A few years ago I took a severe cold which affected my lungs. I had a terrible cough, and passed night after night without sleep. The doctors gave me up. I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which relieved my lungs, induced sleep, and afforded the rest necessary for the recovery of my strength. By the continual use of the Pectoral, a permanent cure was effected."—Horace Fairbrother, Rockingham, Vt.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

tma16

Jemison High School.

Good House, Well Furnished, Healthful Locality, Dry Sandy Roads, Good Board Cheap, Tuition Low, Maps, Globes, Charts, etc., Moral Community, Three Churches, No Whisky, Well Trained Teachers, Fine Success, Teachers Re-elected without a Dissenting Voice. Session opens Sept. 2d, 1889.

Apply to J. L. RUFFIN, JR.,
aug29 Principal.

CLANTON
HIGH SCHOOL.

This School will open Monday, Sept. the 2nd, 1889. Advantages the best in the county. Rates low, board and tuition $10 per month. Patronage is earnestly desired. For further information address me at Clanton, Ala.

Respectfully,
A. J. SCOTT, Principal.

W. W. C.

(Wooldridge's Wonderful Cure)

Is the greatest Blood Purifier ever yet discovered. It never fails to cure when taken according to directions. Read what it has done for Mr. A. Kimbrough:

COLUMBUS, GA., July 15, 1889.

Wooldridge Wonderful Cure Co., Columbus, Ga.

GENTS:—After suffering for twenty years with my kidneys, and finding only temporary relief, after taking various remedies, and consulting some of the most noted physicians in the country, at a cost of hundreds of dollars, for no good, I decided to try W. W. C., and I must confess that I am to-day as well as I ever was, and that I suffer no pain whatever from my kidneys, and am feeling better in every respect than I have for years, and I attribute it all to two bottles of W. W. C.; and I would advise all who suffer in the least with kidney or bladder troubles to give W. W. C. a trial. Yours truly,

A. KIMBROUGH.

WOOLDRIDGE'S WONDERFUL CURE is a sure Remedy for Syphilis, Syphilitic Rheumatism, Chronic Rheumatism, Skin Diseases, Bone Diseases, Old Sores, Bilious Troubles, Liver Diseases, Jaundice, Bilious Headache, Dyspepsia, and all Diseases caused from Impure and Poisoned Blood or Hereditary Diseases.

For sale by all Druggists.

Manufactured by
Wooldridge Wonderful Cure Co.,
COLUMBUS, GA.
sep19 y

Barber Shop.

Mr. H. A. Logan, who has his barber shop upstairs in the Allen Building, solicits the patronage of the good people of Clanton. He does good work and is well fixed up for the business.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.
November 21, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 6th, 1889, viz: Andrew J. Wyatt, homestead 1408 for the s ½ of s w ¼ sec 28 t 21 n range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Madison Popwell, John Popwell, John R. Kemp and Gill Elland, all of Kincheon, Ala.

nov21* J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 20, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 11, 1889, viz: Charlie Jackson, homestead 15251 for the n e ¼ of sec. 20 township 21 n, range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Daniel Martin, Emmet Culp, Andy Fosbee and James Headley, all of Clanton, Ala.

nov21* J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

Land Office, Montgomery, Ala.,
Nov. 8, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on December 14th, 1889, viz: James H. Green, homestead [illegible] for the [illegible] r 13 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: [illegible]

The Lawson Carpet Co.

Birmingham, Ala.

Take pleasure in directing the attention of the people of Chilton county to their large and attractive stock of

Carpets, Oil-cloths, Window Shades,

Curtains & Household Novelties.

The Stock represented is the finest in Alabama, and prices are guaranteed as low as similar goods are offered in any of the eastern markets.

☞ All communications answered by return mail. Respectfully,

ma30-y THE LAWSON CARPET CO. (WM. LAWSON.)

BAINS & PORTER.

(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & PEEBLES.)

WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.

Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.

FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY.

1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS

Birmingham, Ala.

☞ Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜

P. O. BOX 570. June 19 y

LOOK * HERE!

New Stock! Low Prices!

—AT—

W. M. WILSON & BRO.'S

CLANTON, ALA.

We have opened a Large Stock of Dry Goods, Groceries and General Merchandise at our old Stand, and we have come to stay. We invite an inspection of our goods and prices.

☞ SHOES AND HATS A SPECIALTY. ☜

THOMAS FOSHEE,

(SUCCESSOR TO N. W. FOSHEE,)

Dry Goods, Groceries,

—AND—

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

Maplesville, Alabama.

I solicit a continuance of the liberal patronage heretofore extended our house. Respectfully,

feb 28-y THOMAS FOSHEE.

WALL PAPER,

WINDOW SHADES,

MOULDINGS,

—AND—

PRACTICAL PAPER HANGER

H. M. MANCHA,

204 DEXTER AVENUE, MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA.

☞ Papers furnished at any price from 10 cents up. Will send samples on application. apr 11-y

BIRMINGHAM MARBLE WORKS.

THOS. H. HOLT,

PRACTICAL WORKMAN.

—AND DEALER IN—

American and Italian Marble.

—Manufacturer of all kinds of—

CEMETERY MARBLE AND STONE WORK.

Cor. Second Avenue and Twenty-Fourth Street,

Birmingham, - - Alabama.

nov29-tf

B. WOLFF'S
FURNITURE EMPORIUM,

[illegible] Commerce and Corner Court and [illegible] Streets.

—MONTGOMERY, ALA.—

CARRIES

The Largest and Cheapest Stock of [illegible]

IN THE [illegible]

rpet Co.
Ala.
e attention of their large k of w Shades,
Novelties.
prices are guaranteed as arkets.
Respectfully,
CO. (WM. LAWSON.)

TER.
BLES.)
GISTS.
ceive Prompt At-
A SPECIALTY
20th STREETS
Ala.
pany's Prices.
June 19 y

E!
y Prices!
BRO.'S
LA.
oceries and General Mer-stay. We invite an res.
CIALTY.

SHEE, HEE,) oceries,
HANDISE.
patronage heretofore
OMAS FOSHEE.

PER,
NDOW SHADES,
OULDINGS,
—AND—
ICAL PAPER HANGER
HA,
RY, ALABAMA.
0 cents up. Will send apr 11-y

E WORKS.
OLT, RKMAN.
an Marble.
of—
STONE WORK.
Fourth Street,
Alabama.

F'S PORIUM,
nd Coosa Streets.
ock of Furniture
ATE.

GO TO BLAKE BROS., LEA[illegible] SECOND AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., DEC. 5, 1889.

THE VIEW is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

A cross mark (X) after your name means that your subscription is due and that we would be glad to have you renew.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the second Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—On the eleventh Monday after the fourth Monday in February, and on the thirteenth Monday after the fourth Monday in August, and may continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD.—Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.

No. 1 Express at	*1:15 a. m.
No. 3 Mail	5:43 p. m.
No. 11 (Passenger)	6:29 p. m.
No. 9 Accommodation	6:45 a. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 2 Fast (Don't Stop)	2:29 a. m.
No. 8 Mail	9:11 a. m.
No. 4 Express	7:55 p. m.
No. 10 Accommodation	6:29 p. m.

*Don't Stop.

LOCAL LACONICS.

Gipsies and tramps in town last week.

Mr. William Ashley visited his brother here this week.

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Holt visited Montgomery the past week.

Mrs. Judge Lane, of Birmingham, has been visiting relatives here.

Capt. John M. McKleroy, of Anniston attended court last week, in Clanton.

Miss Anna Lou Duke, of Duke's mill is visiting her aunt Miss Nannie Duke.

Mrs. R. Q. Lane has returned from a visit to her old home in South Alabama.

Maj. Jno. L. Harrell, of Birmingham, visited relatives in Clanton the past week.

Rev. J. O. Noble, of Plantersville, filled the Clanton Methodist pulpit Sunday night.

A candy stew at Miss Nannie Duke's was greatly enjoyed by the young folks Tuesday evening.

We are glad to know that little Clarence Holt has entirely recovered from a severe spell of sickness.

The Methodists are much pleased with their pastor and hope he will be sent back here another year.

Mr. M. Aldridge father of Mr. J. H. Aldridge has moved his family from the Providence neighborhood to Clanton.

Congressman Cobb was in town on last Thursday. He was on his way to Washington to be present at the opening of Congress on Monday.

We will appreciate it as a favor if you will call at our office and leave any items of general or of personal movements that you may know of.

Mr. DeVann Midleton has given up his position at Mr. Blasingame's mill and will continue the study of law in the office of Col. R. M. Williamson.

One of our Clanton merchants told us the other day that money seemed more plentiful and trade was better than he had ever known it to be.

While court has been in session the merchants and boarding house keepers have had a busy time. In fact, business has been stirring for all in our little town.

The VIEW has a "skunk" roll as well as an honor roll. The first is a roll of dead-beats of course. We are happy to say that our "skunk" roll is in every way a very small roll.

Notice to the Public.

From November 1st to January 1st, no goods will be sold on credit at my store, and I hope no one will get their feelings hurt by failing to get credit. I intend to meet any competition in this market, and in order to do so I must sell for the money down.

All parties who have not yet paid their accounts for this year are earnestly requested to call and settle at once.

Respectfully,
W. L. [illegible]

Mr. Peyton Aldridge has a cow that dropped a "tailless" calf last week. The calf's backbone wants three or four inches of reaching to the end of its body.

Mrs. J. W. Martin, of Longview, and her mother Mrs. Barnett, of Union Springs, are in Clanton to remain some time, the guests of Mrs. A. J. McRee.

Mr. J. W. Gandy, of Stanton, was in town Saturday selling the unrivaled stove pipe shelves, which are a great convenience in the kitchen. He will be over again filling orders soon.

Rev. I. F. Smith of the Episcopal church requested us to announce that he will fill his appointment at this place as usual on next Sunday, and will reach Clanton late Saturday evening from Selma.

Last week one Hathcock who was on the grand jury got "boozy" and had to be sent to jail. A man who is unable to keep sober while he is on the grand jury investigating the crimes committed around him ought to be sent to Africa to teach Chilton county civilization to the cannibals. If they make a meal on him, well and good, except that it would give the poor heathen who partook of the meal the jim jams for about a month.

"Old Nick," a fine pointer dog belonging to Mr. W. H. Foshee took a ride on the cars to Birmingham last Friday under the following circumstances: In the morning before the mail train came along the dog went into Marcus' restaurant and helped himself to a large piece of beef. When he was discovered he got out of reach and kept out until the train came along. He boarded the train and went to Birmingham, and his owner had to pay express charges to have him sent back on the evening train.

Grand Jury Report.

To Hon. J. R. Dowdell, Judge of the Fifth Judicial Circuit.

Having completed our labors we desire to make our final report. We have made dilligent inquiry into all indictable offences brought before us, and have returned into court 23 bills of indictment, most of which are for misdemeanors. We have given a good deal of our time to investigating the violations of the liquor laws, and we hope the result of our labors in this direction will be for the public good.

The jail is neatly and comfortably kept with the exception of a few broken window glasses which we hope the Sheriff will soon have replaced. We would, however, recommend that a good strong fence or wall be built around it which would make it safer. As to our courthouse. Notwithstanding the fact since our last Spring Court, the clerk and sheriff have added much to the comfort and looks of the court room by a neat carpet on the floor, yet we think we need a new courthouse. This subject we know will meet with opposition from some of our citizens, but we think, on a fair investigation of the subject they will agree with us. Our county is growing rapidly in law business, and the present courthouse is a very unsafe repository for important books and records. A brick building would be much safer, and certainly more comfortable and convenient than the present one. The tax to be levied for building such a building would be so small that it would be very lightly felt. A new brick courthouse located where the present building stands would be an ornament to our county and would be pointed to with pride by all our citizens.

In the meantime we think that two safes are needed. One in the office of the Probate Court and one in the Register in Chancery's office. We find the bonds of our county officers good and sufficient, except the bond of a Justice of the Peace in beat one, Mr. Samuel Pate. The books of the county officers are all neatly and correctly kept. We would call especial attention to the style and manner in which the books of Mr. Foshee are kept. The books of the county treasurer we have examined as well as we could in the limited time allowed us, and find them to be correct. Our public roads have been reported to us as being in good condition, but several county bridges have been reported in very bad condition, and dangerous to the traveling public. We name them and hope the commissioners will see that they are soon put in proper condition. The bridges are: The Bridge across Yellow Leaf Creek, in beat four near George Hill's place, also a bridge in beat five known as "Pyron's Bridge," also one in beat three known as "Mulberry Bridge," also one in same beat known as "Benson Bridge," and in same beat one known as "Bear Creek Bridge," also in same beat one known as "Jones Bridge," also a bridge across Yellowleaf creek near Maddox's mill.

Several Justices have failed to make any report of their dockets to us. This is an important matter, and we have refrained from indicting them this term in hopes that this matter will be properly attended to by Justices in the future. Thanking your Honor for your able charge, and also the other officers with whom we have been associated, we ask to be discharged.

A. M. [illegible]

HERMAN HERZFELD,
—DEALER IN—
All Kinds of Furniture at all Prices.
Parlor and Bed-Room Suits, Carpets, Oil Cloths, Mattings, Blankets, Comforts and Lace Goods.
Everything necessary in the House-Furnishing Goods Line.
NINETEENTH STREET, BETWEEN FIRST AND SECOND AVENUES
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

—Office of—
FARMERS'
Alliance Exchange
UNION WAREHOUSE.

MONTGOMERY, ALA., Sept. 16, 1889.

DEAR SIR:—We invite your attention to our large and commodious Warehouses near the Union Passenger Depot in rear of the Windsor Hotel in this city. We are prepared to store or sell cotton to the best advantage and to fully protect the planters' interest by always obtaining the highest market price on day of sale. Our rates of storage are cheaper than any other Warehouse in the city from the fact that we charge no drayage where cotton is shipped by rail or boat.

We have every protection against fire that is possible to be had, and are above high water. We make liberal advances on cotton in store.

Your patronage is respectfully solicited.

JNO. S. BIRD, Business Manager.

Clem Leach, colored, was killed at Verbena while riding on a freight train last Tuesday. He had lived at this place some time.

Mrs. Lizzie Jones, wife of Mr. Henry C. Jones, who moved from this county to Arkansas about a year ago, died at her Arkansas home on the 7th of November.

"It goes right to the spot," said an old man, who was rubbing in Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment to relieve rheumatism. oct31

BUSINESS LOCAL NOTICES.

Mrs. M. A. Butler announces to her friends in this section that she is now located at 422 21st St. and Ave. E, Birmingham, where she has opened a stock of general merchandise. An invitation is extended to all needing anything in her line to call at the above location when visiting the city. 1m

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., November 19, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 6th, 1890, viz: William S. Cox, homestead 15271 for the w ½ of s w ¼ of sec 26, towship 23 n, range 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, William T. Franklin, John Gore, William T. Mahan, John McKee, all of Clanton, Ala.

nov21o J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 19, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence, the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Jan. 6th, 1889, viz: Hurly Ann Ray, homestead 15806 for the s e ¼ of sec 22 township 21 n, range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: John R. Kemp, Stephen Baker, Cyrus Culp, and R. M. Burnett, all of Clanton, Ala.

nov21* J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 2, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 18, 1890, viz: Alfred Stephen Baker, homestead 16602 for the s e ¼ of sec 20 township 21 n, range 14 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: George Mullins, James Wyatt, Francis M. Headley and Monroe Durbin, all of Clanton, Ala.

dec5* J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 4, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 11, 1890, viz: Jesse [illegible], Jr., homestead 14783 for the s e ¼ of s e q and s e q s w q sec 6, township 23 n, r 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: [illegible]

Mortgage Sale.

Under and by virtue of two mortgages excuted by Matilda Crumpton, the first to the Louisville & Nashville railroad company on the 16th day of January, 1882 and recorded in Book 9 of Mortgages page 363 in the Probate office of Chilton county, the second executed on the 18th day of March, 1885, to Frank Nelson, Jr., and recorded in Mortgage book Vol. 15, page 55 of records of mortgages in the office of Judge of Probate of Chilton county, I will proceed to sell on the 16th day of December, 1889, in front of the courthouse door in Clanton, Chilton county, within the legal hours of sale, the following described real estate to-wit: The S W ¼ of the S W ¼ of section 13 township 23, range 15 east in Chilton county, Ala.

FRANK NELSON, JR.,
nov14 Mortgagee and Assignee.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 11, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver of the U. S. Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., on December 12, 1889, viz: John Burmister, homestead 16141, for the s e ¼ of n e ¼, e ½ of s e ¼, n w ¼ of s e ¼ sec 26 t 20 n r 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: E. H. Smith, Thomas Cox, G. C. Carwile and C. D. A. Deramus, all of Verbena, Ala.

oct 17o J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., October 29, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the Circuit Court, Clanton, Ala., on December 14, 1889, viz: William Headley, Jr., homestead 16165 for the n e ¼ of s w ¼, n w ¼ of s e ¼ and e ½ of s e ¼ sec 18, township 22 n, r 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: Wesley Noah, Sylvester Headley, James N. Knox, Columbus Rutherford, all of Clanton, Ala.

oct31* J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 20, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 10, 1890, viz: James W. Conell, homestead 14074 for the s ½ of n e q, n w q of s e q, and s w q, sec 24, township 22 n, range 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: A. J. Peters, R. E. Jones, J. M. Parish, William Mims, all of Clanton, Ala.

nov21* J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 18, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 4th, 1890, viz: Peter W. Noah, homestead 15043 for the n ½ of n w ¼ sec 18 township 22 n r 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: William Headley, Jr., James N. Knox, John Knox, William Davis, all of Clanton, Ala.

nov21* J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

SALESMEN WANTED [illegible]

A. E. BIVINGS,
—DEALER IN—
DRUGS AND Medicines,
FAMILY Groceries, ETC.

Clanton, Alabama.
I can furnish you anything you may wish in the way of DRUGS AND MEDICINES. I also handle THE BEST GROCERIES TO BE HAD, and you will find my prices to suit the times. [mar20]

BUY YOUR
PIANOS and ORGANS
—FROM—
GRAMBS & BUCHANAN,
—2107 SECOND AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—
THE VERY LOWEST CASH PRICES, or on easy installments, Sohmer, Cranich & Bach, Gabler, Wheelock and Newby & Evans Pianos, and the world renowned Wilcox & White organs. Mail orders for sheet music or musical merchandise given prompt attention.
Write for Catalogue. jul18
When ordering please state in what paper you saw our advertisement.

Hale, Dingley & Co.
—WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS IN—
Drugs, Medicines, Toilet Articles,
PERFUMERY, SOAP, BRUSHES & STANDARD PATENT MEDICINES,
—MONTGOMERY, ALA.—
Keep constantly on hand a complete stock of articles in their line of business. Particular attention is called to the following articles manufactured by them and especially recommended to the public: Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lactophosphate of Lime; Elixir Cinchona and Gentian Compound; Howard's Colic Cure for Horses; Esprit de Millefleur. nov21-6

CHAS. L. RUTH,
—DEALER IN—
Diamonds, Silverware, Watches, Clocks,
Jewelry, Spectacles, &c.,
Sole Agent in Montgomery for the celebrated ROCKFORD QUICK TRAIN WATCHES, the best for Railroad men. Also has a large stock of Watches of other makes, including the famous watches manufactured by A. Schneider, of Dresden, and the watches he had made specially to order in Geneva.
A complete stock of the newest styles of JEWELRY, selected with great care from the stocks of the largest manufacturers.
The latest designs in SILVER and PLATED WARE. French and American CLOCKS and BRONZES in great variety. Julius King's Combination Spectacles, Eye-Glasses, Gold-head Canes, &c. All goods marked at the lowest figures possible. Clocks, Watches and Jewelry skillfully and promptly repaired. All work guaranteed.
C. L. RUTH,
(Sign of the Eagle and Watch.) 15 Dexter Avenue,
—MONTGOMERY, ALA.—
nov21y

CRELLIN & NALLS,
BOILER MAKERS
Copper and Sheet Iron Workers
Chimneys, Tanks, and Repairing of All Kinds.

Saw Mill Work a Specialty.
AVENUE C AND TWENTY-SECOND STREET, SOUTHSIDE,
Birmingham, Ala.
mar21 y

GEO. W. COOK & CO.,
Wholesale and Retail
Dealers in Staple and Fancy Groceries, Fruits, Produce, Wines, Liquors. Our pure unpainted Roasted Coffee, and Manufacturers of High Grade pure Stick Candy, all of which we sell by the pound, package or car load. Sole agents for the Celebrated Bethesda Water.
37 COMMERCE STREET,
Montgomery, Alabama.
oct17-tf

Roberts & Son,
Steam Printers and Binders,
1918 FIRST AVENUE, BET. 19th & 20th STREETS,
Birmingham, Ala.
BLANK BOOKS TO ORDER. WORK PROMPTLY DELIVERED.
dec5 ay

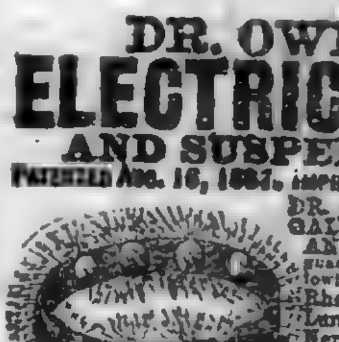
MONTGOMERY IRON WORKS.
MACHINISTS & FOUNDERS
Dealers in Fittings, Supplies and Machinery
OF ALL KINDS.
MAKERS OF ENGINES, CANE MILLS, COTTON SEED CRUSHERS, SAW MILLS [illegible]

A. M. RAMBO,
DENTIST,
VERBENA, ALA.
Will respond to calls along railroad between Calera and Deatsville
[mar16-y]

S. P. TRESSLAR,
Photographer,
10 COURT SQUARE,
Montgomery.
Photographs on Silk, Satin and Linen. Photographs on watch dials.
Portraits in Crayon, Pastile, India Ink and Water Colors.
All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.
Correspondence solicited.
Always glad to have you call at the gallery, and examine specimens of the work on exhibition.
[jan21-tf]

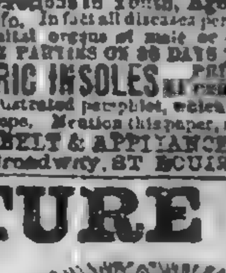
J. H. SHEPHERD
THE LEADING
PHOTOGRAPHER,
—OF—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE
(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)
Photographs of All Kinds
Work Done in the
BEST STYLE.
Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

DR. OWEN'S
ELECTRIC BELT
AND SUSPENSORY.
PATENTED AUG. 16, 1887. IMPROVED JULY 30, 1889.



DR. OWEN'S ELECTRO-GALVANIC BODY BELT AND SUSPENSORY are guaranteed to cure the following diseases, namely: All Rheumatic Complaints, Lumbago, General and Nervous Debility, Costiveness, Kidney Diseases, Nervousness, Trembling, Sexual Exhaustion, Wasting of Body, Diseases caused by Indiscretions in Youth, Age, Married or Single Life. In fact all diseases pertaining to the womb or genital organs of male or female. SENT TO RESPONSIBLE PARTIES ON 30 DAYS TRIAL. TRY A PAIR OF DR. OWEN'S ELECTRIC INSOLES. PRICE $1. Send 6c postage for free illustrated pamphlet, which will be sent you in plain sealed envelope. Mention this paper, address OWEN ELECTRIC BELT & APPLIANCE CO. 306 North Broadway, ST. LOUIS, MO.

RUPTURE!
ELECTRIC BELT AND TRUSS COMBINED.



DR. ISRAEL'S ELECTRO-GALVANIC TRUSS, with Dr. Owen's Electric Belt Attachment. This truss is worn with ease and comfort. The current can be made mild or strong. This is the only combined electric truss and belt ever made. It will CURE Rupture in from 60 to 90 days. For full description of Dr. Owen's Electro-Galvanic Belts, Spinal Appliances, Trusses and Insoles send 6c. for 100 page illustrated pamphlet which will be sent you in plain sealed envelope. Sold only by the OWEN ELECTRIC BELT & APPLIANCE CO. 306 North Broadway, ST. LOUIS, MO.
sep 5

HERBINE
After ten years exclusive sale, can now be obtained of all Druggists and Dealers in Medicines. It CURES—take notice—not simply helps but CURES LIVER COMPLAINT, Biliousness and Dyspepsia.
Is a strictly vegetable preparation and will CURE MALARIA, and all MALARIAL troubles.
Dr. S. H. Wise, of Boston, Ky., says: "Have practiced medicine 15 years, and find no equal to HERBINE as a Liver Regulator."
Dr. W. A. Baker, of Madison, Fla., says: "A bottle of HERBINE is worth more than $5.00 worth of Quinine in any family."
Acting on the Liver in a different way from any other medicine; it is a positive cure for Chronic Constipation and is cheaper than pills.
Its peculiar composition is such, that we guarantee to cure any case of Chills and Fever or Bilious Fever with one bottle.
It costs but 75 cents and each bottle contains over 40 average doses, making the cost less than two cents a dose. Would you ask for cheaper medicine? It is not a cure-all. But will cure any Liver, Bilious or Malarial Complaint. Manufactured by
The Herbine Co.,
(Successors to Wm. Condell.) St. Louis, Mo.
mar 14-y

PISO'S CURE FOR
TWENTY-FIVE CENTS
Piso's Cure for Consumption is also the best Cough Medicine.
If you have a Cough without disease of the Lungs, a few doses are all you need. But if you neglect this easy means of safety, the slight Cough may become a serious matter, and several bottles will be required.
CONSUMPTION
PISO'S REMEDY FOR CATARRH gives immediate relief. Catarrhal virus is soon expelled from the system, and the diseased action of the mucous membrane is replaced by healthy secretions.
The dose is small. One package contains a sufficient quantity for a long treatment.
CATARRH
A Cold in the Head is relieved by an application of Piso's Remedy for Catarrh. The comfort to be got from it in this way is worth many times its cost.
Easy and pleasant to use.
Price, 50 cents. Sold by druggists or sent by mail.
E. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.
nov22-y

ALLEGHER'S
GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES!
[illegible]

AGRICULTURAL.

TOPICS OF INTEREST RELATIVE TO FARM AND GARDEN.

CLIMBING TO THE TOP IN BREEDING.

There are many farmers who have made a start in the right direction in horse breeding. They have studied over the matter and have concluded that it paid to breed better horses and have acted upon this inspiration, says the National Stockman. They have ventured to pay ten dollars for the service of a right good stallion, whereas they heretofore have thought that three or five dollars was enough for a colt from any horse. So far so good. It is the initial step, and they should be congratulated upon taking it. It will be easier to get these same men to pay the service price which a pure-bred, first-class horse can be offered at thereafter than if they had been content to stick to the two-for-five kind. When the marketable age arrives and their more enterprising neighbors receive fifty or a hundred per cent. more for their young horses than they do, although they have higher priced stock than they ever had before, they will be ready to fall in line with the most progressive, and breed and raise nothing but the best. It requires time to make a change of as much importance as a step from the mongrel to the pure-bred indicates, but it will be time well spent if those most interested can only abide it and wait the better day coming. The time is coming when the average breeder of horses will know as well as any one the advantages derived from keeping at the top of the ladder.

ASPARAGUS.

There is probably no vegetable that is so absolutely superb to the delicate appetite of the epicure as the first delicious cuttings of early asparagus. Although a native of Europe and Asia, it has become common in this country as to be almost naturalized in many places, having found its way into the fields and sometimes being seen on beaches and marshy places on the sea coast. Soil and location have probably more to do with the raising of fine asparagus than anything else, and of the many different varieties introduced into cultivation at different times few of them have differed greatly from the original.

Although asparagus grows very readily from seeds, we have found that the special characteristics of improved strains are not so certain of reproduction as when the propagation is effected by planting the roots. Most of our prominent growers prefer to plant one-year-old roots, although two-year and three-year are often used. The asparagus bed should be five feet wide and any desirable length, according to the size of the family. It should be well cultivated, two feet deep and well manured. Three rows of plants will suffice to each bed; the plants should stand one foot apart in the row, and the crowns should be well covered four inches deep; a good deep soil with a sandy bottom will be found most suitable, as the plants do not thrive well in a wet, stiff soil. As soon as the tops are cut down in the fall cover with a top dressing of coarse manure, which may be forked early in the spring. A partial cutting may be made the third year, but it will add materially to the vigor of the plants if none be got until the fourth year. In locations away from the seashore a top dressing of two pounds of coarse salt to the square yard will be found beneficial. The asparagus is naturally a maritime plant, this being the reason why salt acts so beneficially.—New York Herald.

SOWS EATING THEIR PIGS.

The desire in sows to devour their young pigs appears generally within the first three or four days after farrowing. Generally when the sucking is fairly started, the desire gradually diminishes or disappears. Several devices have been employed with more or less success, for the purpose of preventing the mother from eating her offspring. That the desire for flesh may not be excited, the afterbirth should be removed as soon as it is expelled, and the slime covering the young pigs should be wiped off, as any rough licking by the mother may wound the young ones and cause bleeding, which, if it is started at the navel, might become continuous, and probably incite devouring of the pigs.

To save the young ones from danger, they may during the first few days be kept separate from the suspected mother, and be allowed to suck at intervals of three or four hours, while being watched. If during the second or third day the sow is quiet and natural, the pigs may be left with her; but, nevertheless, watch should be continually kept over her during a day or two; for it may happen that a relapse will occur. This will be best prevented by giving her a plentiful supply of gruel.

By way of remedial treatment, or rather as an additional precautionary measure, if close watching cannot conveniently be kept, a strong decoction of colocynth, or a strong solution of aloes in water, may be applied to the body and limbs of the young once or twice a day. the articles are very bitter, and will disgust the sow. Because a sow has once eaten her little pigs, it is not certain that she will do it the next time, and it is therefore not necessary to discontinue her as a breeding sow, if she is otherwise a very desirable animal. But her having once or twice evinced this unnatural appetite, suggests the adoption of precautionary measures in the future. For this purpose it will be indispensable to note the exact time when she will be due in farrowing. Sows that have reared several of litters successfully may devour a following litter, while sows that destroyed their first or second litter, or both, may never do so again.—Prairie Farmer.

FARM AND GARDEN NOTES.

You may keep as many fowls as you wish, but they should be in small flocks.

Be sure and store away turnips, carrots and potatoes for the hens this winter.

Poultry reared with free range of orchard and meadow are the largest and finest in plumage and symmetry.

Has it ever occurred to you that building at five cents per pound paper on the inside of your hen house may save birds worth a dollar.

There are few things that contribute more toward making a happy home than a good table, and plenty of chickens, ducks, and eggs will always guarantee this.

If the floor of the hen coop is of earth, it will pay to dig out six inches of it and [illegible]

HOUSEHOLD MATTERS.

CALF'S HEAD SOUP.

Take the liquor in which a well skimmed and cleaned calf's head has been boiled, and skim it the next day from any fat that may rise. Melt in a saucepan a quarter of pound of butter; add a thin slice of nice ham, not over a quarter of a pound, two tablespoonfuls of minced parsley, a little thyme, lemon thyme, if you have it, a bay leaf, two white onions, a few chopped mushrooms and a shallot, or if not at hand, a clove of garlic. Add to these ingredients a pint of brown stock, and simmer the whole for two hours; add the liquor from the calf's head heated hot and the juice of a Seville orange and a lemon. Season the soup with salt, cayenne pepper and a dessertspoonful of sugar; add finally half a teaspoonful of mace. Add real forcemeat balls and the yolks of enough hard boiled eggs, cut each in two, to allow one yolk to each plateful of soup.—New York Tribune.

A GOOD RECIPE FOR STARCH.

The following recipe makes excellent starch for those things that require to be really stiff, such as collars and cuffs, and white shirt fronts. Where extra stiffness is necessary, a small piece of white wax should be stirred into the boiling starch until quite melted.

To every two tablespoonfuls of starch, allow one-quarter of a pint of cold water and one pint of boiling water. To mix the starch, put it in a clean basin and pour the quarter of a pint of cold water over it. Break up the lumps, and, if there are any specks of dirt in the starch—and the best is not always quite free from them—they may be taken out with a clean spoon. Then mix the starch thoroughly, and pour upon it a pint of boiling water. This last water should be actually boiling while the starch is being made. If it is at a less degree than boiling heat, the starch will not be as thick as it might be, and it will need boiling. Stir all the time the boiling water is being poured on, and when the starch is thoroughly and smoothly mixed, put in about a quarter of an ounce of white wax. A white paraffin candle will do quite as well as wax. It is not a bad plan to save the short bits of paraffin or wax candles for this purpose; but care must be taken whether wax or candle is used to increase the stiffness and gloss of the starch, it shall be quite clean. The least carelessness in this respect destroys the appearance of the article to be ironed. Cover the starch with a cloth folded seven or eight times double, and set it aside to cool.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Does everybody know that the best covering for a poultice or a mustard paste is tissue paper.

Clothes that have been sprinkled will not mildew for days, even in summer, if kept away from the fire.

Use a silver spoon when cooking mushrooms. The silver will be blackened it any injurious quality is present.

Be ashamed to iron a limp shirt bosom. Men do not so much care for a polished shirt front as they do for a stiff one.

Air the house thoroughly every day, even "though the rain comes down in torrents or the snow beats in in drifts."

That hands may be kept smooth in cold weather by avoiding the use of warm water. Wash them with cold water and soap.

Do not be deceived by agents who have a "superior furniture" polish for sale. Use linseed oil, there is nothing better.

That the best and most convenient cover for a jelly tumbler is thin paper fastened over the top of the glass by a rubber band.

It is a good idea for a tall woman to have her kitchen table and ironing-board a little higher than ordinary. It will save many a backache.

Use great care in serving food for the table, as the smallest spatter of grease or gravy changes the appearance and spoils an otherwise pretty dish.

That the best way to clear out and straighten the fringe of towels, doilies, etc., before ironing, is to comb it while damp, with an inch length of coarsest toilet comb.

Glasses and dishes wipe to perfection when washed in very hot water. Use a dish mop, soap shaker and an iron-dish washer. These also expedite the labor, as very hot water can be used.

A few years ago a fashionable table was so piled with high dishes that it was impossible to see one's vis-a-vis without peeping under the heavily laden silver and glassware. Now a table is considered vulgar when not laid in a low, simple manner.

That essence of peppermint, applied with the finger tips over the seat of pain, gives relief in headache, toothache or neuralgic pain in any part of the body. (Care must be taken not to put it directly under the eye, on account of the smarting it would cause).

That pleasant rainy day work for the older children is to be found in the making of a scrap book of the portraits of noted men and women; the portraits to be obtained from publishers' catalogues, magazines, newspapers, and other available sources.

When decanters and carafes become so discolored inside that shot or fine coals will not cleanse them, fill the bottle with finely chopped potato skins, cork tightly and let the bottle stand for three days, when the skins will ferment. Turn out and rinse. The bottle will be as bright and clean as when new.

In canning tomatoes peel whole tomatoes and crowd them into cans, pressing them down slowly. Put a board into the bottom of a boiler and set the cans on the board. Fill the boiler with cold water to half the height of the cans, laying the tops of the cans on loosely, letting them remain until the water has boiled twenty minutes. Then remove the cans, and if they are not full fill with hot water and seal at once.

Curious Address of a Letter.

Some time ago a letter was sent by post, in England, and duly delivered, with the following address:

Wood,
John,
Hants.

Our postoffice officials, says an English paper, seem able to make out any address. The above was easy for them. They saw that John was under Wood and over Hants, hence the address evidently was:

John Underwood,
Andover,
Hants.

[illegible]

WOMAN'S WORLD.

PLEASANT LITERATURE FOR FEMININE READERS.

PATRIOTIC DANISH WOMEN.

The women in Denmark are showing their patriotism in a most practical manner by voluntary contributions to a fund for the defence of their country by means of fortifications, for which the Danish Parliament will not vote the necessary grants. The Danish women have already collected sufficient money to purchase eight Krupp guns, which have been presented to the King of Denmark. Contributions continue to be forthcoming, and a movement has now been started in Norway to follow the example given by the patriotic Danish women.

JAPANESE WOMEN.

The Japanese woman wears none of the frills, ribbons, or fripperies known to her western sister; all is simple, useful and complete; neither knows she aught of jewelry or ornament, except, may be, such as she wears in her chignon, which, by the way, is dressed with much and elaborate care, and ever with due regard to her married or single state. When the weather is cold or inclement, everybody—male and female—wears a warm upper garment or paletot-like arrangement; but the garment which is most distinctive of social status is the long, sweeping robe, trailing often a length of several feet, and whose length affords a sure guide to the rank of the wearer, for the higher the social caste of these ladies, the longer the tails of their gowns. Then the custom is for everybody to shuffle along on helpless slippers, bound to the foot by a thong or half-circle of leather, which passes between the toes.

Women of all classes go about with neither hat nor bonnet, although in the winter, when snow fills the air, and the cold is intense, they wear the daintiest headgear of a white wadded silk, which covers the front of the head, is cut up at all sides, and fastens under the chin like the ordinary European bonnet; but in the summer and spring months, when blossoms fill the land and sunshine is to be reckoned on as a matter of course, shining day after day throughout this wild and picturesque country, the women pass bareheaded up and down the clean bright streets of the capital, made bright with blossoming plum and almond trees; with the colorless lanterns and picturesque devices of the shops and tea-houses. Then it is that they, with their attendants, go shopping, visiting, or are to be met on festival occasions shaded with great Japanese umbrellas or sunshades, their costume incomplete without some gay and beautiful fan, always worn to harmonize with the rest of the dress, and just as indispensable a toilet adjunct to the masculine as to the feminine creature. Each also has his or her little requisite thrust into the folds of the wide girdle—the handkerchief, writing materials and many other little trifles besides. In the good old times the ladies even wore short swords, analogous to the larger ones worn by the gentlemen, though as the centuries wore away and peace brooded over the Empire, these warlike tools came to be worn less as necessary for personal defence than as a mark of fashion and etiquette.

Although they have the power of combining the richest and most brilliant tints into delicious harmonies, in which crudity forms no jarring element, anything like mere gaudiness in color is eschewed by the fine sense of the Japanese as meretricious taste. Earrings also—and this may be instructive to the western women—they deem barbaric. The matrons choose their robes of soft, harmonious and rather dull shades of peach-color, purples, grays and browns, wearing with these an underskirt of white; while the young maids of less serious humor deck themselves in brighter hues. Often a glimpse is caught of a scarlet underskirt, or a hint of some vivid color, never offending the eye by its garish relation to some other brilliant mass, but peeping in and out with softer hues of cream, or dull sweet lavender. At times, her flowered robe, with chaste design and subdued color, may be rendered gay with the surpassing brilliancy of her girdle, embroidered as it is with the purest tones of rose, blue, maize, purple and gold.—Commercial Advertiser.

FASHION NOTES.

Party dresses for little girls are made of Liberty's silks in æsthetic hues.

Liberty's silks are firmer than India silks, more like India pongee, and trim effectively with lace or velvet.

Now that the tournure has been reduced to graceful proportions, we are threatened with a revival of crinoline.

The large lace cravats now so fashionable are fastened with jeweled safety pins, which are put in carelessly, to avoid a set effect.

Arabesques of a dark color on a light ground and Vandyke patterns are to be had in inexpensive flannels for morning wrappers.

The better class of sealskin garments the present season, of whatever shape, have invisible fastenings, consisting of loops and "olives," the latter with sealskin or crochet coverings.

A few sealskin wraps are shown by the leading furriers, but the demand is light. In shape they follow the leading models in cloth wraps, and sea otter and other rich furs are used for trimmings.

The number of long, slender pins which are thrust carelessly through the trimmings of many of the new hats, suggest the possibility of a reserve supply, to be used in case of high winds or other accident.

A new light shade of mahogany brown is known as Eiffel and will take the place of its darker sister shade in combinations with green this fall. Then follow anemone, Java, cuivre (copper) and condor, these lighter tints melting gradually into ecru.

The sealskin cloak is still the perfection of elegance in winter street garments, and this season there are several new features which especially commend it to the shopper who seeks comfort and protection from wintry blasts, combined with rich and handsome appearance.

Died at the Age of 114.

William [illegible], died at Grand Rapids, Wis., recently, aged 114 years. He was married twice. His first wife lived to the age of [illegible]. He married [illegible]

WORDS OF WISDOM.

Remember impertinence isn't wit, any more than insolence is brilliancy.

If young men will not believe in themselves, no men or women can believe in them.

If you haven't the moral courage to laugh at sneers, then you are another of nature's mistakes.

If you learn that people say spiteful, wicked things about you, and untruthful things at that, be silent.

Don't talk about what you are "going" to do; then, if you fail to accomplish it, nobody will know.

Do not be afraid to go near your enemy. The nearer you get to a kicking horse the less damage will result to your person.

Treat all men and women considerately and you will be surprised at the dividends that will come to you daily and yearly.

The man who does a generous act and lets the world into the secret shows the world a peach after rubbing the bloom from it.

Cultivate a cheerful frame of mind and the mind will mold the face and the tongue and the voice into something irresistible.

If you do a good piece of work in finance, journalism, politics, art, music, or literature, do not spoil it by voluntarily speaking of it complacently; and, on the other hand, do not speak of it disparagingly.

As there are mountebanks for the natural body, so are there mountebanks for the politic body; men that perhaps have been lucky in two or three experiments, but want the grounds of science, and therefore cannot hold out.

No man is a communist after he has property of his own. Those people who want things divided even, have nothing to divide. The anarchists who would blow the world up with dynamite, would have first to steal the dynamite.

A person using a word possessing two meanings, can dodge either, as circumstances occur; but a word can only have one true meaning, and therefore words are given two meanings, to give a falsehood the appearance of being the truth.

The Dominican Republic.

The Dominican Republic is the oldest settlement of European origin in America, having been founded in 1494 by Bartolomeo Columbus. The capital city, San Domingo, which is at the mouth of the river Ozama, and has a population of 25,000, contains Columbus's residence.

The Dominican Republic is governed by a national congress of deputies by a direct popular vote, but with a restricted suffrage. The President of the republic is elected to serve four years, but the frequency of insurrections render the term of office uncertain. The republic has but a small army of infantry, cavalry and artillery, a regiment being stationed in the capital of each province. The republic is a good deal in debt, and has had a good many financial ups and downs.

The area of Santo Domingo, which embraces the eastern portion of Hayti, is estimated to be over 18,000 miles, with a population estimated at 616,000. The population is mainly made up of negroes and mulattoes, but the whites are quite numerous, and in the towns the English, Spanish and French languages are to be heard on all sides.

The commerce of the island is small. Puerto Plata, the chief port, has 15,000 inhabitants. The principal articles of export are lignum vitæ, logwood, mahogany, fustic, tobacco and cocoa. The exports of sugar are on the increase, but those of mahogany are declining. On the whole, however, the republic seems to be making good progress.

The interior is officially reported to be well supplied with good roads. A railroad at Samana and La Vega has been finished and is being extended, while others are contemplated. Large sugar plantations and factories are at work in the south and west and the telegraph lines are being extended. Primary instruction is free and compulsory. Besides a normal school there were at last reports over 300 schools with more than 6000 pupils.

A Petrified Man.

Our Australian cousins have got a novel sensation in the form of a petrified man, and it is clear that they place great store by the new acquisition. The remains of a person long deceased, would not, as a rule, fetch any very extravagant sum in the market; but it is evident that this particular specimen of the genus homo possesses an exceptionally high value in the eyes of his Australian discoverers. A man who has been literally turned to stone—a real human being, not a mere carved or sculptured statue, whose body and limbs, nevertheless consist in every part of solid rock—may not be entitled to be called a man of the stone age, yet he is a curiosity of sufficient interest to make the fortune of any showman who may get possession of him. Hence it is that the first public appearance of the stone man is in the law courts of the capital of New South Wales. This petrified fellow creature began to find work for the lawyers from the moment of his discovery. Meanwhile he has been exhibited to the public by two showmen, who were accused of being in unlawful possession of this fossilized specimen of prehistoric man. The case has at length been settled in favor of the defendants, who will, therefore, be able to continue their exhibition, which is understood to be as good as a gold mine to the lucky showmen. No doubt the "petrified man" will eventually turn up in London, and perhaps Mr. Barnum may make up his mind to add this latest anthropological curiosity to the attractions of the new museum now on its way to London.—London Standard.

Electricity on the Dinner Table.

A Brazilian inventor, to whom a patent has just been issued, proposes to remedy the annoyance suffered from the shaking of dishes upon the table on shipboard by means of an electric contrivance. His idea is to use an electro-magnetic device. To the underside of the dishes will be attached small pieces of iron, and on the table will be laid long strips of soft iron to which wires leading to a battery will be connected. The use of this electro-magnetic appliance will not mar the appearance of the tables, and certainly [illegible]

The Human Hand.

A large thumb denotes deep thought, strong will and little general sympathy; a small and weak thumb denotes vacillation and irresolution. Voltaire had an enormous thumb. The fingers are "the instruments of intellectual life." The palm is "the evidence of animal life." The "useful hand" has the fingers square and knotty, with the thumb large. The large thumb shows "capacity for detail." Smooth fingers show a sort of momentary inspiration, which takes the place of calculation, and a faculty which gives the power of judging at first sight. The knotty fingers are connected with reflection and order and aptitude for numbers. The thumb is the most important index of character. Mesmerists attach special value to its operation, and physiologists have remarked its connection with the vital forces. It has been said that no more indubitable sign of the approach of death can be afforded than the effort to cover the thumb with the fingers. If a woman's thumb be broad, it shows strength of character. If it is narrow, it betrays softness of disposition. If the joints of the fingers are rather large—of the knotty type—she is a sensible woman. If they are pointed and smooth she is of the artistic, impulsive class.

Enduring Cold.

Referring to a report current in the Austrian papers to the effect that Queen Victoria is in the habit of sleeping with open windows in winter, and that her apartments at Windsor are so cold that her attendants and visitors are almost frozen, a Vienna daily reminds its readers of Empress Maria Theresa's liking for the cold. Her apartments were very rarely heated. She exposed herself to draughts, and her writing table in winter was so close to the open window that the snow drifted in upon it. It frequently happened that the hands of the hair dresser were partially frozen while attending to her majesty's coiffure, and that the ladies surrounding her august person literally trembled from cold. Kaunitz, one of her ministers, never appeared before the empress in winter without being enveloped in furs to escape taking cold in her draughty apartments.

A School for Beggars.

Two London boys of thirteen, the children of respectable parents, were recently charged with begging. The boys alleged that a woman trained them and other lads as beggars, and that she used to keep their decent clothes and supply them with rags to go out in. Her own boy, it is said, was the head of the gang of juvenile beggars and used to take the money, which partly went to his mother and part in refreshments and visits to music halls. The mother of one of the lads said that she had been to this woman and warned her that if she heard that her boy's clothes were kept again she would lock her up for unlawful possession. The defendants adhered to their statement about being supplied with rags, etc., and the magistrate said that if it was true the woman really ought to be prosecuted.

It may be remarked, for the comfort of honest poverty, that avarice reigns most in those who have but few good qualities to recommend them. This is a weed that will grow only in a barren soil.

The hues of sunset make life great; so the affections make some little web of cottage and fireside populous, important, and filling the main space in our history.

"'Mid pleasures and palaces, tho' we may roam,
Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home," especially if blessed with a wife whose hours are not spent in misery caused by those dragging-down pains arising from weaknesses peculiar to her sex. Pierce's Favorite Prescription relieves and cures these troubles and brings sunshine to many darkened homes. Sold by druggists under a positive guarantee from manufacturers of satisfaction or money refunded. Read guarantee on bottle-wrapper.

The cleansing, antiseptic and healing qualities of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy are unequaled.

How can we expect that another should keep our secret when it is more than we can do ourselves?

Bradfield's Female Regulator will cure all irregularities or derangements peculiar to woman. Those suffering should use it. For sale by all Druggists.

If afflicted with sore eyes use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye-Water. Druggists sell at 25c per bottle.

Eyes Ears Nose

Are all more or less affected by catarrh. The eyes become inflamed, red and watery, with dull, heavy pain between them; there are roaring, buzzing noises in the ears, and sometimes the hearing is affected; there is constant disagreeable discharge from the nose, bad breath, and in many cases loss of the sense of smell. All these disagreeable symptoms disappear when the disease is cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, which expels from the blood the impurity from which catarrh arises, tones and restores the diseased organs to health, and builds up the whole system.

N. B.—Be sure to get

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

AGENTS Wanted! FOR LIVING LEADERS OF THE WORLD

A MASTERLY WORK OF Matchless Interest. Comprising graphic biographies of the Men and Women of Greatest Eminence, Wealth and Power, who are leading the millions of mankind and shaping the destiny of Nations. Prepared by such distinguished authors as GEN. LEW WALLACE, HON. S. S. COX, MRS. FRANK LESLIE, JOEL CHANDLER HARRIS, and others. The most valuable and popular Book published in twenty years. A rare chance for Agents to make big money. Liberal Terms and exclusive territory. Write at once for agency. Address H. C. HUDGINS & CO., ATLANTA, GA.

YOU WILL SAVE MONEY, Time, Pain, Trouble and will CURE CATARRH by using Ely's Cream Balm.

Apply Balm into each nostril. ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y.

HOME STUDY. Book-keeping, Business Forms, Penmanship, Arithmetic, Shorthand, etc., thoroughly taught by mail. Circulars free. Bryant's College, 457 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y.

OPIUM HABIT. Only Certain and easy CURE in the World. Dr. J. L. STEPHENS, LEBANON, O.

How's This!

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligation made by their firm.

WEST & TRUAX, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

E. H. VAN HOESEN, Cashier, Toledo National Bank, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucus surfaces of the system. Price 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

"Lucy Hinton."

Hark! the sound of many voices,
Jubilant in gladdest song,
And full many a heart rejoices
As the chorus floats along:
"Hail the Queen of all Tobaccos!"
How the happy voices blend,
"Finest and purest among her fellows—
Man's staunch and true friend."

Oregon, the Paradise of Farmers. Mild, equable climate, certain and abundant crops. Best fruit, grain, grass and stock country in the world. Full information free. Address Oreg. Im'gra'tn Board, Portland, Ore.

A 10c. Cigar in quality, but only a 5c. cigar in price is "Tansill's Punch."

SYRUP of FIGS

ONE ENJOYS

Both the method and results when Syrup of Figs is taken; it is pleasant and refreshing to the taste, and acts gently yet promptly on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels, cleanses the system effectually, dispels colds, headaches and fevers and cures habitual constipation. Syrup of Figs is the only remedy of its kind ever produced, pleasing to the taste and acceptable to the stomach, prompt in its action and truly beneficial in its effects, prepared only from the most healthy and agreeable substances, its many excellent qualities commend it to all and have made it the most popular remedy known.

Syrup of Figs is for sale in 50c and $1 bottles by all leading druggists. Any reliable druggist who may not have it on hand will procure it promptly for any one who wishes to try it. Do not accept any substitute.

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
LOUISVILLE, KY. NEW YORK, N.Y.

SEVEN SEVENTEEN SEVENTY

SMITH'S BILE BEANS

Act on the liver and bile; clear the complexion; cure biliousness, sick headache, costiveness, malaria and all liver and stomach disorders.

We are now making small size Bile Beans, especially adapted for children and women—very small and easy to take. Price of either size 25c per bottle.

A panel size PHOTO-GRAVURE of the above picture, "Kissing at 7-17-70," mailed on receipt of 2c stamp. Address the makers of the great Anti-Bile Remedy—"Bile Beans."

J. F. SMITH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR

IS A SPECIFIC FOR PAINFUL PROFUSE SCANTY SUPPRESSED AND IRREGULAR MENSTRUATION OR MONTHLY SICKNESS. IF TAKEN DURING CHANGE OF LIFE GREAT DANGER & SUFFERING WILL BE AVOIDED. BOOK TO "WOMAN" MAILED FREE.

BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO. ATLANTA GA. SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

SWIFT Double Action AUTOMATIC REVOLVER. Safety Barrel Catch. Price $10.

Unexcelled in Symmetry, Beauty, Material, and Workmanship. With Safety Catch, impossible to throw barrel open when discharged. New Patent. 38 calibre, using S. & W. C. F. Cartridge. Do not buy until you have examined this. If you buy a genuine Swift Double-Action Revolver, you are sure to have as perfect a Pistol as can be made. Sent postpaid on receipt of price. Send 6c. in stamps for 100-page illustrated catalogue of Guns, Rifles, Revolvers, Police Goods, &c. John P. Lovell Arms Co., Mfrs., Boston, Mass.

JONES HE PAYS THE FREIGHT. 5 Ton Wagon Scales, Iron Levers, Steel Bearings, Brass Tare Beam and Beam Box for $60. Every size Scale. For free price list mention this paper and address JONES OF BINGHAMTON, BINGHAMTON, N. Y.

OPIUM and WHISKY HABITS cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE. B. M. WOOLLEY, M.D. Atlanta, Ga. Office 65½ Whitehall St.

PISO'S REMEDY FOR CATARRH.—Best. Easiest to use. Cheapest. Relief is immediate. A cure is certain. For Cold in the Head it has no equal.

CATARRH

It is an Ointment, of which a small particle is applied to the nostrils. Price, 50c. Sold by druggists or sent by mail. Address, E. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.

BRYANT & STRATTON Business College LOUISVILLE, KY. Book-keeping, Business Forms, Penmanship, Short-hand, Telegraphy, etc. Write for Catalogue and full information.

THE YOUTH'S COMPANION Announcements for 1890

FOUND! THE PLACE TO BUY ALL YOUR Furniture, Carpets, Rugs, SHADES, ETC., CHEAPER THAN ANY HOUSE IN THE SOUTH. Be sure and see our stock and prices before placing your orders. WRITE US FOR PRICES. A. J. MILLER & SON, 42 & 44 Peachtree St., Atlanta, Ga.

HAVE A CAB?

When you are addressed as above, your first impulse is to look at the driver. If the day be stormy and the driver is a wise man, you will find that he wears a "Fish Brand Slicker," and he will tell you that he is as comfortable on the box as his passenger in the cab, and that for his business this coat is invaluable. When you get once inside a "Fish Brand Slicker," there's no such thing as weather for you. It doesn't make the smallest difference whether it rains, hails, sleets, snows, or blows. You are absolutely and solidly comfortable. Get one at once. No danger of your not liking it afterwards. It is a waste of money to buy any other waterproof coat. They are worthless after a few weeks of hard usage. Beware of worthless imitations, every garment stamped with the "Fish Brand" Trade Mark. Don't accept any inferior coat when you can have the "Fish Brand Slicker" delivered without extra cost. Particulars and illustrated catalogue free.

A. J. TOWER, Boston, Mass.

WEBSTER WEBSTER'S UNABRIDGED DICTIONARY A LIBRARY IN ITSELF

BEST HOLIDAY GIFT for Pastor, Parent, Teacher, Child, Friend.

3000 more Words and nearly 2000 more Engravings than any other American Dictionary.

It is an invaluable companion in every School and at every Fireside.

GET THE BEST.

Sold by all Booksellers. Illustrated Pamphlet with specimen pages, etc., sent free. G. & C. MERRIAM & CO., Pub'rs, Springfield, Mass.

IF YOU WISH A GOOD REVOLVER purchase one of the celebrated SMITH & WESSON arms. The finest small arms ever manufactured and the first choice of all experts. Manufactured in calibres 32, 38 and 44-100. Single or double action, Safety Hammerless and Target models. Constructed entirely of best quality wrought steel, carefully inspected for workmanship and stock, they are unrivaled for finish, durability and accuracy. Do not be deceived by cheap malleable cast-iron imitations which are often sold for the genuine article and are not only unreliable, but dangerous. The SMITH & WESSON Revolvers are all stamped upon the barrels with firm's name, address and dates of patents and are guaranteed perfect in every detail. Insist upon having the genuine article, and if your dealer cannot supply you an order sent to address below will receive prompt and careful attention. Descriptive catalogue and prices furnished upon application.

SMITH & WESSON, Springfield, Mass. Mention this paper.

SOUTHERN PRINTERS' SUPPLY CO. WE CARRY IN STOCK Type, Cases, Stands, Presses, Paper Cutters AND EVERYTHING USED IN A PRINTING OR PUBLISHING HOUSE. Call on us and SAVE MONEY! 34 West Alabama Street, ATLANTA, GA.

AFTER ALL OTHERS FAIL CONSULT DR. LOBB 329 North Fifteenth St., Philadelphia, Pa., for the treatment of Blood Poisons, Skin Eruptions, Nervous Complaints, Bright's Disease, Strictures, Impotency and kindred diseases, no matter of how long standing or from what cause originating. Ten days medicines furnished by mail. Send for Book on SPECIAL Diseases. FREE.

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH PENNYROYAL PILLS RED CROSS DIAMOND BRAND. Safe and always reliable. Ladies, ask Druggist for Diamond Brand, in red, metallic boxes, sealed with blue ribbon. Take no other. All pills in pasteboard boxes, pink wrappers, are dangerous counterfeits. Send 4c. (stamps) for particulars, testimonials and "Relief for Ladies," in letter, by return mail. Name Paper. Chichester Chem'l Co., Madison Sq., Phila., Pa.

$7 FOR A Double Breech-Loader. Breech-Loaders, $4 to $50. Winchester 12-shot Rifles, $11 to $18. Breech-loading Rifles, $2.50 to $12.00. Self-cocking Revolvers, Nickel-plated, $2.00. Send 2c. stamp for 80-page Catalogue and save 25 per cent. GRIFFITH & SEMPLE, 512 W. Main, Louisville, Ky.

OPIUM HABIT. A Valuable Treatise Giving full information of an Easy and Speedy cure free to the afflicted. DR. J. C. HOFFMAN, Jefferson, Wisconsin.

"No Present comparable to a Good Book, or a subscription to a first-class Magazine like Wide Awake." Send postal to D. LOTHROP CO., Boston, Mass., for select list Books and prospectus of their Magazines.

I prescribe and fully endorse Big G as the only specific for the certain cure of this disease. G. H. INGRAHAM, M.D., Amsterdam, N. Y. We have sold Big G for many years, and it has given the best of satisfaction. D. R. DYCHE & CO., Chicago, Ill. $1.00. Sold by Druggists.

A. N. U. Forty-eight, '89.

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per square, of one inch or less, for the first, and fifty cents for each subsequent insertion.

Inches.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
1 Inch	5 00	7 00	11 [illegible]
2 Inches	7 00	11 [illegible]	14 00
3 Inches	10 00	15 00	23 [illegible]
4 Inches	12 50	20 00	27 00
5 Inches	15 00	22 50	[illegible]
¼ Column	18 00	27 00	36 00
½ Column	27 50	40 00	60 00
1 Column	50 00	60 00	100 00

The Chilton View.

W. E. LAWRENCE, Editor and Publisher. "WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION." TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME IX. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 12, 1889. NUMBER 7.

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line each insertion.

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be headed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

☞ The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

CAHEEN

EXTENDS A CORDIAL INVITATION TO ALL STRANGERS VISITING OUR CITY.

COME TO OUR GREAT MAMMOTH DOUBLE STORES,

AND

Make yourselves at home. Use our store as you would your own home. CAHEEN will ever strive to make your visit pleasant and profitable. It will be a pleasure for us to show you through

THE GREAT DRY GOODS HOUSE OF BIRMINGHAM.

F. CAHEEN, 2018 & 2020 First Avnnue.

Falling Leaves.

They are falling, slowly falling,
Thick upon the forest side—
Severed from the noble branches
Where they waved in beauteous pride.
They are falling in the valleys
Where the early violets spring,
And the birds in sunny springtime
First their dulcet music ring.

They are falling, they are falling,
Close beside our cottage door—
Pale and faded, like the loved ones
That have gone forever more.
They are falling, and the sunbeams
Shine in beauty soft around;
Yet the faded leaves are falling—
Falling on the grassy mound.

They are falling on the streamlet
Where the silvery waters flow
And upon its placid bosom
Onward with the waters go.
They are falling in the churchyard,
Where our kindred sweetly sleep—
Where the idle winds of summer
Softly o'er the loved ones weep.

They are falling, ever falling,
When the autumn breezes sigh—
When the stars in beauty glisten
Bright upon the midnight sky.
They are falling when the tempest
Moans like Ocean's hollow roar—
When the tuneless winds and billows
Sadly sigh forevermore.

They are falling, they are falling,
While our saddened thoughts still go
To the sunny days of childhood,
In the dreamy long ago.
And their faded hues remind us
Of the blighted hopes and dreams—
Fading like the falling leaflets
Cast upon the icy streams.

A LIFE'S LESSON.

"Be reasonable, father."

"Reasonable!"

Old John Prime was in no reasonable mood. Recent financial disasters had wrecked his fortune. Had his temper even been less proud and irritable than it was, it might not have borne undisturbed, under the circumstances, the proposal of his eldest and favorite daughter to exchange the sumptuous suite of apartments he had hitherto occupied for one small room at the top of the house.

The house, a costly mansion in Belgravia, had once been his own; but, on the marriage of his daughter to the man of his choice, he had given it to her, with a handsome portion besides. He had never comprehended before that the home he had lived in so long was no longer his.

"We are expecting visitors to stay with us, you know," his daughter replied.

"Ah, yes—the Fitz Flashes; Of course I am of less consequence than they."

"Be reasonable, father."

"I am reasonable. I begin to see that this house is no longer mine. If you choose to turn me out of it I have no right to complain. It would be most unreasonable to do so."

"We have no wish to discommode you," answered the daughter; "but Augustus and I have talked the matter over, and if you could be content, for the present, to go to some respectable"—

"Cheap lodging-house," broke in the old gentleman.

"To some respectable place," continued his daughter, "where you could be suitably accommodated, at reasonable expense"—

"Well?"

"It would be more agreeable for all concerned."

"There is one difficulty, however," said Mr. Prime, with enforced calmness.

"What is that?"

"How to meet the 'reasonable expense.'"

"Augustus has generously consented to take that upon himself."

"Provided it be kept within moderate bounds, no doubt," retorted the old man, bitterly.

"Of course," answered his daughter, "Augustus could not be expected to incur any unnecessary outlay these hard times. I'm sure I think his offer exceedingly generous."

"Exceedingly, indeed! Let me make sure that I fully appreciate it. It is to turn me out of the house I was foolish enough to give away, and to pay my weekly bills (provided they be not too extravagant) out of money which, but for my own folly, would still be mine. Hark you, Jane Mordaunt! I have given you and your husband over half my fortune. Calamity has stripped me of the rest, but if I am to live on charity, it shall not be on yours or his."

His lip quivered and his eye glistened beneath the cold glance of the daughter on whom he had unsparingly lavished wealth and affection. With cowed head and faltering step, he crossed the threshold, determined, whatever might betide, never to return.

Penniless, homeless, and childless—worse than childless is he whose child's heart is closed against him—John Prime wandered forth, whether he recked not.

His younger daughter, Mary, had married against his will. He had long banished her, or thought he had, from his heart. But the sorrowful, loving face she had turned upon him when he had forbade her his presence for cleaving to the man for whom she had felt it her duty to forsake father and mother, now rose up in singular vividness before him. Could that face ever have worn the cold, unfeeling look of that of his eldest-born when she suffered him to go forth destitute and desolate without bidding him tarry?

He walked on without heading. His attention was at length drawn to a little girl running toward him.

"Please, sir," said the child, who had run away frightened from a crowd whose notice she had attracted—"please sir, I'm lost."

The little face looking up so trustingly into his own diverted the current of his thoughts.

"What is your name?" he asked, patting the child's head.

"Lucy," she answered.

"Have you any other?"

No; she was just Lucy.

Equally fruitless were all inquiries touching her residence.

Mr. Prime was perplexed. He was unwilling to leave the child in the street and equally unwilling to trust her to the crowd of people of whom she seemed so much afraid. He was on the point of setting out with the little stray for the nearest police station, when, suddenly dropping his hand, she darted away, calling "Mamma!"

In the lady that caught the child in her arms Mr. Prime recognized his daughter Mary, whom he had never seen since her marriage.

"Dat gentl'n found me, mamma," said Lucy, pointing to Mr. Prime.

When Mary Weston encountered her father's look, her face, though pale and agitated, wore the old, fond expression.

"Is that your child, Mary?" he asked.

"Yes, father."

"Come, kiss your grandpapa," said the old gentleman, taking Lucy in his arms; and when he put her down again a tear had moistened his cheek.

"I am going home with you, Mary," he added.

"It would make me very happy if you would," she answered; "and I am sure Clarence will be very glad to see you."

That evening Mr. Prime sat an honored guest at Clarence Weston's fireside. The abode was humble, but neat, and the best apartment in it was placed at the service of the unexpected guest.

When Mary and her husband had learned all, they insisted on Mr. Prime's making his home with them; and when little Lucy put her chubby arms about his neck and said, "Gran'pa mustn't go away," that settled it.

One day Mary noticed that her father, who had been reading the morning paper, went out hastily, looking strangely excited. He came home late, and was unusually silent and thoughtful the whole evening. For several weeks he went out daily, and when home had little to say. Mary thought he was brooding over his business troubles, and plied every daughterly art to divert his attention from them.

"I think you should have a larger house, Mary," said Mr. Prime, one day.

"I'm afraid Clarence couldn't afford it," Mary answered.

"It will do no harm to look at one," returned her father.

"I will go, if you wish it," she replied.

Mr. Prime did wish it, and Mary put on her bonnet. A walk of some distance brought them in front of a stately mansion.

"Let us go in," said Mr. Prime.

"Why, that is our old home!" exclaimed Mary.

"And is ours again," replied her father. "My excellent son-in-law thought proper to offer it for sale, and I bought it yesterday through an agent."

"Bought it!" exclaimed Mary. "Why, I thought you had lost everything."

"So I had," was the reply; "but I read in the newspaper one morning an advertisement for the heirs of one Reginald Prime, whose nearest relative I turned out to be. The upshot is that I am the possessor of another fortune, which I hope to take care of better than the first. You and Clarence must live with me here, and—well—I shall make a will one of these days."

How Jones Backslid.

"These 'ere prize fights orter be stopped, or we orter admit that we have gone back two hundred years in civilization!" he hotly announced, as he laid his paper down on the grocery counter.

"Yes, sir," mildly replied the red-headed clerk, as he made twenty-three eggs pass for two dozen on the order he was putting up.

"This resortin' to brute force to see who is the best man is on a par with cannibalism!" continued the grocer.

"Yes, sir."

At that moment the carpenter came in with a statement of account in his hand, and inquired:

"Jones, do you charge a man for what he doesn't get?"

"No, sir!"

"Well, here's seventy-eight cents for white sugar and we haven't had a pound for a year."

"But you must have had it."

"No, we didn't."

"Are you trying to lie me out of this bill?"

"I believe you want to cheat me!"

"You are a liar!"

"So are you!"

And the two grappled and fought all over the store, and out on the walk, and into the street, and when the crowd finally took the carpenter off, and Jones was carried into the store for repairs, he sat down on a soap box and growled:

"Lick him! Why, I'll get Baker to give me a few lessons in boxing, and then I'll knock his impudent head off!"

A Subterranean River.

The intelligence comes from Paris that a subterranean river has just been discovered in the district of Miers, in the department of Lot. "Two explorers found the river at the bottom of a gouffre or abyss known as the Pit of Padirac. Returning thither with a folding boat, made of sailcloth, they worked their way down stream for a couple of miles through a succession of wonderful grottoes sparkling with stalactites. They found seven lakes on their way, and had to shoot thirty-seven cascades or rapids. The two explorers intend to start on a fresh expedition to ascertain, if possible, the outlet of this unknown river. They conjecture that it joins one of the banks of the Dordogne six miles from the [illegible]

PEARLS OF THOUGHT.

Folly loves the martyrdom of fame.

They never fail who die in a great cause.

It is much easier to meet with error than to find truth.

Habits are to the soul what the veins and arteries are to the blood—the courses in which it moves.

The grandest and strongest natures are ever calmest. Restlessness is a symbol of weakness not yet outgrown.

Nothing is more pitiful than a life spent in thinking of nothing but self; yes, even in thinking of nothing but one's own soul.

A brave man thinks no one his superior who does him an injury, for he has it then in his power to make himself superior to the other by forgiving it.

It is foolish to give advice too readily, it is also foolish to be too ready in seeking it. Advice should only be asked from those whose opinions we value and by whose judgment we are willing to be guided.

Other Silkmakers Than Worms.

We are accustomed to consider silk solely as the product of the well-known silkworm which feeds upon mulberry leaves and has been so widely domesticated in Europe, and even to some slight extent in this country. But the truth is that there are many other varieties of caterpillar which furnish the same product, and that in India alone fifty different kinds of silk bearing insects are known. The most important of these, the tussur moth, feeds upon more than thirty different species of plants, and the caterpillar weaves a cocoon about four times the size of that of the mulberry silk worm. Great attention is paid to the rearing of the tussur, and various religious ceremonies are employed in caring for it. The large, brown moth which has four transparent eyes upon the wings is venerated, and only people of a certain caste are permitted to approach it. It has been domesticated in India for thousands of years, while the cocoons of all the other species are collected wild from the jungle. One of these feeds on the castor-oil plant and spins a white cocoon. In China also the silk from several varieties of worms is used; and in Japan, besides the ailanthus caterpillar, there is a species which until lately was reserved for the exclusive use of the Mikado, the exportation of the eggs being an offence punishable with death. Some of them, however, have been carried to France, where an attempt, which promises to be successful, is making to cultivate this species.

A Pretty Conductor.

"A few days ago I was going out from Denver, Col., on the Denver and Rio Grand railroad," said a veteran conductor to a Memphis Appeal reporter, "when I was thrown in company with a lady who opened my eyes, conductor as I was. She was a petite brunette, who had the vim and manner of what I would term a manly woman. Not impulsive and given to erratic spells, but purely a woman given, by nature to manhood's ways. This lady was a conductor on a branch line tapping our line, and she was the first female I ever knew acting in that capacity. But you must not think she was at all slow in meeting all demands, for while she had her range and could go just so far, to that extent she did her work superbly. She collected fares and punched tickets like a man, but when it came to putting some fellow off because of his failure to comply with the requirements of the railroad company, it was her custom to call on a man to do the work. The brakemen on the train she usually pointed to obey her commands, but I have known cases where passengers were called on to put off [illegible]

A Day in an African Camp.

The moment a suitable camping ground is reached, the loads are stacked, and, with astonishing rapidity, born of fear and daily drill, a strong circular thorn fence is built, inside which we feel safe—yet not quite safe, for no man dares lay down his gun or leave a single article exposed to the clutches of the thievish warriors. These may be prevented from stealing, but cannot be punished if caught in the act; so that for them the attempt is only rare sport—for us a constant source of danger and worry. Soon the natives begin to appear. First the women and married men arrive, the former with close-shaved heads, neck and breast loaded with chain and bead necklets, body enveloped in dressed ox-hide, and limbs covered with thick iron wire coiled continuously round to the weight of from twenty to thirty pounds. The married men, or elders, are more scantily dressed, usually in kaross of monkey or hyrax skin, which partially covers the body.

As the day wears on, parties of warriors arrive from the various districts, resplendent in red clay and grease, with which they are liberally plastered—almost their only dress. Nothing else covers their magnificent forms but a small kid-skin. They march in single file, holding their enormous spears—blades two feet and a half long—vertically in their hands, their buffalo-hide shields depending at their sides. They chant a war-song in stentorian tones, and go thorough a variety of evolutions, which show in this rudimentary drill their military instincts. The question of the "hongo" has now to be settled, with much decorous speechifying, for like the North American Indians, they are born orators. The amount settled, the iron wire and beads are sometimes thrown into the midst of the warriors to be fought for as by beasts of prey. On those occasions blood is frequently drawn.—Scribner.

A Strong Peculiarity of Bismarck.

One of the strong peculiarities of Bismarck is, that he never forgives nor forgets. The word mercy is unknown to him. He had none even for his empress when the Emperor Frederick lay dying; he has even less for those who have antagonized him through life. He has a remarkable memory. He never forgets, and if he sometimes appears to have given up a treasured plan, it is only in the appearance. He has been a patient waiter as well as a great diplomat. He has been a believer in the old adage, "All things come to him who waits." He is the most hated and most despised, but most admired and the most feared man in Europe. His remarkable plots and his superior intellectual powers are unquestioned, and with the exception, perhaps, of Gladstone, it is not too much to say that he is the greatest man in Europe, if not in the world, today. He is the one man who holds the scale balanced between peace and war.

Shorthand.

According to a paper read before the recent meeting of the Library Association, shorthand has flourished more or less for 2000 years. Cicero's famous writer, Tiro, is known to have had rivals in his own time, and Cæsar's feats in dictating several letters simultaneously while travelling still remain unequaled. But shorthand as now understood, is the product of the present century. It is computed that the literature relating to the subject would fill no fewer than 13,000 volumes, and England alone has given birth to 750 different systems.

Not a Success.

[illegible]

PROMINENT PEOPLE.

Buffalo Bill is said to be worth $4,000,000.

Governor-elect Campbell, of Ohio, is an inveterate smoker.

Mr. Gladstone has written a letter favoring local option prohibition.

Inventor Keely, of the motor fame, begins to show the marks of age.

Secretary Rusk is making a collection of orchids and chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Harrison says that the stare of the crowd is one of the trials of her life.

Mrs. Quay, wife of the Pennsylvania Senator, was a great belle in her girlhood.

Elijah Halford, the President's private secretary, has taking to horseback riding.

Robert Louis Stevenson, the novelist, will remain in the South Seas this winter.

Hon. Samuel J. Randall is reported to be much improved in health and strength.

Explorer Stanley will be able to eat his New Year's dinner in London if he feels like it.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmons Blaine have taken for the winter one of the finest houses in Baltimore.

The new biography of Roscoe Conkling will contain 800 pages. The author is Alfred R. Conkling.

Secretary Proctor occupies the largest house in the Cabinet circle in Washington. It contains thirty rooms.

Vice-President Morton has already achieved the distinction of being the best dressed man in Washington.

Mr. Phelps, who was recently our Minister to England, has determined to take up his permanent residence in New Haven, Conn.

John B. Allen, a United States Senator from the new State of Washington, is a native of Maine who went to California in the forties.

A fund for the benefit of the family of the late Richard A. Proctor, the astronomer, has recently been started in London by Grant Allen.

Isabella, of Alcantara, until the recent revolution Princess Imperial of Brazil, is very devout, charitable, self-willed, eccentric and unpopular.

William Henry Cilby, who died recently at Lima, Peru, was one of the best-known railroad projectors and constructors in South America.

One of ex-Emperor Dom Pedro's last official acts was to confer the order of the Rose of Brazil upon M. Naudin, an experienced horticulturist.

If General Boulanger wants to make money, all he has to do is to accept the recent offer made to him for a course of lectures in the United States.

Sir Benjamin Phillips, who died recently in London, was descended from the famous Rabbi of Padua, Meir Katzenellenbogen, or Maharam, one of the influential Jews of the sixteenth century.

Ex-President Cleveland attracted considerable attention the other day in a New York Elevated Railroad train because he got up and gave his seat to a homely-faced working girl, and then stood hanging on to a strap.

MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC.

Edwin Booth is only fifty-six years old.

Bronson Howard will begin work on a new play in January.

Mrs. John Drew is to remain with the Jefferson-Florence Company next season.

Mrs. Kendal, the English actress now in this country, is the mother of eight children.

Forty-nine theatres are now delighting Italian audiences with operatic performances.

M. Coquelin has had a brilliant success in Hamburg, where he played a star engagement.

Mrs. Potter will begin a professional tour in Australia next spring, supported, as heretofore, by Kyrle Bellew.

The gossips have it that Henry Irving will retire from the boards a year hence, having accumulated a fair sized fortune.

Mme. Modjeska has never seen Lady Macbeth played. Her conception of the role is therefore said to be something remarkable.

Madame Anna Mehlig, the celebrated pianist, has once more appeared in public at one of the London Crystal Palace concerts.

One Berlin (Germany) piano factory, during 1888, shipped 900 grands and 880 uprights to Mexico, Brazil and the Argentine Republic.

Constanze Donita, the American soprano who won fame in Europe, has made her debut in New York at the Amberg Theatre in "Mignon."

Miss Annie Patterson has been awarded the first degree of Doctor of Music which any lady has yet gained at the Royal University of Dublin.

Marie Van Zandt, the American singer, is at present in Paris, where she is preparing for her winter tour, which commences at Barcelona and finishes at Madrid.

Charles Wyndham and Mary Moore are under engagement to play "The Headless Man" in Germany, and in German, after their return from their American tour.

Siegfried Wagner, son of the famous composer, has determined to devote himself to music, and has entered his name upon the roll of the music school at Frankfort-on-the-Main.

Mrs. [illegible] is one of the few professional singers who prefer to go before an audience empty-handed. She hangs her arms at her side, with her palms in and her elbows out.

Richard Smith sold his song "Listen to My Tale of Woe" to a publisher for $15. A few days ago a British house offered him $5,000 for the exclusive right to publish the song in Europe.

[illegible]

THE LABOR WORLD.

There are over 20,000 coal miners in Wales.

Three more cotton mills are to be started in Georgia.

The tile layers of Pittsburg want to form a national union.

The ironmolders of Boston propose to start a sick benefit fund.

There are 240,000 men and women employed in Ohio's factories.

The English Board of Trade reports 500 strikes during 1888, with 86,000 strikers.

A good number of the Key West, Florida, cigarmakers who struck have gone to Cuba.

The Commoner and Glassworker, of Pittsburg, says that organized workmen are with the Brotherhood of Baseball Players.

The American Federation of Labor has appointed T. M. Gruelle, of Indianapolis, a bitter enemy of the administration party of the K. of L., a general organizer.

The green-glassworkers of San Francisco have requested Congressman Morrow to have the duty on beer bottles increased. They say it is necessary to save their trade.

Samuel Gompers, William J. Cannon, John S. Kirchner and J. F. Mahoney represented the International Cigarmakers' Union at the Convention of the American Federation of Labor.

It is proposed by the Knights of Labor, Farmers' Alliance and American Federation to unite in a memorial to Congress requesting the passage of a bill restricting immigration, in the interest of the eight-hour law.

Strikes have even spread to Egypt. The Cairo cigarette makers are the first to introduce this western system into the land of the Pharoahs, having struck against some extra strict regulations enforced by their employers.

Frank K. Foster, well known in Labor circles in Massachusetts, says there are forty-five thousand union men in Boston, and he urges them to demand "free parks and the eight-hour rule for the city employes of Boston."

At the request of the Wood Carvers' Union of Germany the Plasterers' Union of New York city issued an appeal for financial aid to all wood and stone carvers' unions to assist the German Union in enforcing the nine-hour day.

John Burns, the leader of the London dock strike, has been prevailed upon to visit this country in the interest of organized labor. He is expected to arrive early in February and will deliver a series of lectures under the auspices of the American Federation of Labor.

A charter of incorporation was recently refused to the employing horseshoers of Pittsburg on the ground that their purpose was to regulate the prices and methods of work. Judge Ewing, who so decided recently, refused to order a union to declare the strike at O'Hara's Glass Works to be at an end.

The Seamen's and Firemen's Union is making giant strides in organization. It is said this is done to secure the effective cooperation of the American sailors and firemen in case the Britishers are compelled to go on strike for the eight-hour day next May. A recent attempt to organize the German sailors failed absolutely.

DASTARDLY LYNCHERS.

A Partially Insane Man Hanged by a Masked Mob.

Hans Jacob Olsen, aged fifty years, was torn from his house at Preston, Wis., and lynched by a party of masked men. Olsen was partially insane and somewhat quarrelsome, and had been ordered by neighbors to leave the country. He was seized in bed, pulled out and his hands tied behind him despite his desperate struggles and the screams of the family. Without even allowing him time to put on his clothes the men led him out of the house. Once outside Olsen learned what was to be done with him. He caught sight of a new rope hanging over the limb of a large tree which stands not more than twenty feet from the little cabin which was his home. He struggled to free his hands, tearing the flesh from his wrists until they bled freely; but finding himself unable to get loose submitted in sullen silence. The rope was put around his neck and willing hands drew him up to strangle. His legs were not tied and his kicking and struggling were fearful. The lynchers remained some time, however, lest he might be cut down before he was dead. Then, after shouting threats of lynching any one who should dare cut down the body, they dispersed. The body was discovered in the morning, but was not cut down until the Coroner arrived. No evidence as to the identity of the lynchers was offered before the Coroner's jury. In Preston it is common gossip that the lynchers were led by one of the most prominent farmers in Preston.

Olsen had served five years in State Prison for loading wood with powder with intent to blow up the stove of a family at Blair. Arriving home from Waupun, he was shortly afterward sentenced to the County Jail for six months for threatening the lives of his family. He had just returned home from the County Jail when he was hanged.

SMILE AND FROWN.

She smiled from morning until night,
A smile was always on her lips,
And bubbling mirth and wholesome joy
Sprung from her very finger-tips.

I'd meet her on the street—she'd smile;
In drawing-room—she'd smile the same;
Her whole life seemed a happy one.
Alas! how soon a change there came.

[illegible]

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., DEC. 12, 1889.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year	$1.50
One copy six months	75
One copy four "	50

Jeff. Davis Dead.

As Southerners we revere the memory of Jefferson Davis, and can but reflect with sorrow upon his death, which occurred at Beauvoir, Miss., on Thursday last.

Mr. Davis was a patriot. Impoverished and his pride stung by the results of the war, he persistently refused at all times to receive financial assistance from his own people, and dying, leaves to posterity only a heritage of valor and proud statesmanship. The Southern people will reverence his name and memory as that of their chieftan in a cause that cost them blood and treasure and sorrow untold. Looking back over the vista of years since the beginning of that woeful struggle which pierced the heart of Jefferson Davis and of the South, it will be said that Mr. Davis' statesmanship was not so profound in its character and foresight as that of Mr. Stephens; but the career of Mr. Davis demonstrated that his patriotism was entirely unselfish and admirable, and the whole South mourns the death of the hero of Buena Vista, the chief of the "Lost Cause," the chivalrous Southern patriot.

Lincoln was cut down in the dawn of his glory, and Davis lived to see the South rejuvenated, and on the road to wealth and enlarged prosperity. Such is fate.

HONEYCUT VS. CALLEN.

Decision of Judge Dowdell in the Noted Contest Case Over the Probate Office.

This cause was submitted at the Spring term of this court, 1889, as shown by the note of submission taken down by the presiding judge and also the judgment entry at said term, but by agreement of counsel the cause was held up for argument at this term. And after careful consideration of arguments of counsel and authorities cited, I deem it proper in rendering a decision to give my reasons for the same, and as this cause involves a review and construction of our election statutes and not having ever been passed upon in a similar or rather like case by our supreme court, I have not been entirely free from difficulty. This contest then is a proceeding under our election statutes which prescribes how the same shall be commenced and upon what grounds, the general character of the pleading, and how conducted as to taking and procuring testimony. Sec. 396 of the Code provides who may contest elections in this state, and the grounds upon which a contest may be had. The first being "malconduct, fraud or corruption on the part of any inspector, clerk, returning officer or board of supervisors." Sec. 397 of the Code provides how the contest shall be made—"by a statement in writing," and besides other averments required by the statute, the contestant must "specifically set forth" "the particular ground or grounds of such contest, which statement must be verified by the oath of the contesting party, or some one for such party, to the effect that he believes the same to be true." And thus under the statute an issue is to be made between the contestant and contestee. Sec. 399 of the same article and chapter as above, provides, that "no testimony must be received of any illegal votes or other grounds of contest, unless the party contesting has given to the adverse party notice in writing of the cause or causes which he expects to prove on the trial, which notice must be served personally, at least ten days before the trial." This section when construed in connection with sections 396 and 397 above, evidently means that no testimony must be received except as to the grounds of contest "specifically set forth in the statement in writing" of the contestant, and only then upon proper notice given, and not as to other grounds named in the statute and not set forth in the contestant's written statement, although contestant may have given the contestee ten days notice before the trial. The only ground of contest set forth in the written statement of the contestant in this cause is "that the board of supervisors wrongfully and illegally rejected the returns from precinct or polling place No. one, known as Mim's Cross Roads, and box No. 2 from precinct or polling place No. two, known as Jemison, also box No. two, from precinct or polling ing place No. seven, known as Latham's thereby depriving petitioner of the votes given in at said places, and by the said wrongful and illegal rejection of said returns petitioner was deprived of his election." Thus the issue is made by the contestant upon the wrongful or illegal acts, or in other words the "malconduct" of the board of supervisors, in rejecting or throwing out certain returns, and which is denied by the contestee to have been wrongful and illegal, but avering that it was right and proper to have rejected [illegible] because they were in law and fact [illegible] returns. In determining this question we can only look to and consider such evidence as is relevant to the issue, to do otherwise would be to depart from the pleadings and to ignore the letter and spirit of the statute. There is no conflict in the evidence as to the papers purporting to be returns from the precincts or voting places named and which were rejected by the board of supervisors, they are identified and offered in evidence, nor is there any conflict in the evidence, that in said returns so rejected there were no certified poll lists as the statute required, sec. 383 of Code. And for the purposes of this trial we need only direct attention to the action of the board of supervisors in rejecting the returns from precinct or polling place number one, in as much as, in the other two rejected precincts the contestant having received a majority of the votes cast in one of them, and the contestee a majority of the votes cast in the other, if received and counted would not alter or change the result of said election as certified by the board of supervisors, if they properly rejected the returns from precinct or polling place No. 1. This then brings us to a consideration of the powers and duties of the board of supervisors. In the case of Hudman et al. vs. Slaughter, 70 Ala., which however was a proceeding by mandamus in an election case, and under the issue in this case, so far as the law governing the case is concerned, it is in some respects at least similar to a mandamus, for if under the uncontroverted facts in this case a peremptory writ of mandamus should be awarded, then judgment under this contest should likewise be for the contestant, and if the writ should be denied then judgment should be for contestee. Our supreme court in an opinion rendered by justice Somerville, in the above case, has decided "that the ordinary duties of such officers (supervisors) are universally recognized as being purely ministerial," and continuing says: "It is true that boards of supervisors or canvassers, must of necessity determine as a preliminary question, whether the returns before them which they are required to cast up, are genuine and intelligible, and substantially authenticated as required by law," or in other words, whether such documents are in fact returns or not, and the power thus to determine is often said to be in its nature quasi-judicial—citing numerous authorities. In the case of The People ex. re vs. Nordheim et al. 99 Illinois Reports page 553, the supreme court says in an election case, and construing a statute of that State similar to ours, as to the duties and powers of supervisors as well as duties of inspectors or managers, that where the statute required the inspectors or managers of the election to make out statement in writing of the number of votes cast and for whom cast and also a certified poll list, that this was mandatory (the Illinois statute being almost identical with ours as to the duties of these officers, sec. 383 of of Code) and that inspectors failing in this, it was the duty of supervisors to reject the returns. It is further said in the same case: "The canvassers (supervisors) must be satisfied that they (the returns) are genuine and that they purport on their face to give the result of the election, before they would be warranted in recognizing them as returns, otherwise the right of election, and the purity of the ballot would be constantly exposed to the grossest frauds." It has also been decided in a number of cases that the board of supervisors cannot, in passing on the returns go outside of or behind the same to take evidence as to what the returns should be. Election laws are enacted to prevent frauds and insure fair elections, and while the courts should not allow mere irregularities or informalities on the part of election officers to defeat the will of the people, they should not ignore and disregard the laws that are enacted for the very purpose of protecting the will of the people against abuse and fraud. The paper purporting to be a return from precinct or polling place No. one and which was rejected by the board of supervisors is now produced and submitted to the court for examination and inspection. This paper on its face and from all appearances seems to have been a mere tally sheet. There are no figures on it indicating the number of votes any person received at said general election, only tally marks, and these are so blurred and inartistically and carelessly made as to render the paper unintelligible, and were a count or computation undertaken it would be impossible to say with any degree of certainty how many and for whom the different tally marks were intended. It is evidently not such a statement in writing as is required by section 383 of the Code, nor was there in these returns any certified poll list as required by said sec. 383.

These being the facts it was clearly the duty of the board of supervisors to reject this paper in making their computations as required by law. As above stated this being the only ground of contest set forth by the contestant—the wrongful and illegal act of the board of supervisors in rejecting these particular returns—it is unnecessary to consider or comment upon questions raised by contestant which are clearly outside of the issue he has made. The rejection of returns from precinct or polling place No. one, not affecting the result of the election as to majority between the contestant and contestee, as certified by the board—in accordance with the above views, judgment must be rendered for the contestee.

It is therefore considered and adjudged by the court after hearing the allegations and the evidence, that the election of the contestee, H. J. Callen, to the office of Probate Judge be and the same is confirmed, and it is further ordered and adjudged by the court that the contestant pay the costs for which let execution issue.

In term time, Dec. 3d, 1889.

J. R. DOWDELL,
Judge Fifth Circuit.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

Some Comments of Leading Southern Papers.

It is a respectable document, without any orginality in views or theory.—Mobile Register.

It is cold and dreary, and the topics discussed are all treated in a perfunctory manner evincing neither scholarship nor enthusiasm.—Montgomery Advertiser.

His effort is before the world, and any candid man will say that it is weak, tame and mediocre even to dullness. He had his opportunity and he has failed to meet it.—Birmingham Chonicle.

The President's message is a long, formal and commonplace document, with the single exception of the reference which it contains to national control of the election of members of the house of representatives.—Richmond Times.

It is full of topics, but strikingly lacking in the suggestion or advocacy of definite measures.—Atlanta Evening Journal.

His message is a disappointment in the matter even of mediocre ability. It is significant of greater subserviency to party than any previous knowledge of his character afforded.—Nashville Evening Herald.

The careful reader who plods through President Harrison's message must be impressed with the lack of nerve and vigor which eminently characterized the message of his predecessor.—Nashville Evening Banner.

MINERAL SPRINGS.

Purchased and to be Improved as a Health Resort.

Last week, Capt. W. A. Smith, of Dixie, purchased the Mineral Springs property in beat one of this county, for Messrs. Richard Coe, of Stanton, and Daniel Partridge, of Selma. There is on the property a bold, beautiful spring, strongly impregnated with mineral gushing out of the white pebbles. It is situated nine miles northeast of Clanton, six miles from Strasburg and seven from Jemison, and is the voting place for beat one.

The new owners have ample means and have made the purchase with the intention of erecting a commodious hotel and otherwise improving what they believe is a valuable property. They expect to have the hotel built, and the place well advertised as a health resort by the warm weather of next summer.

It is expected that Capt. Smith and his estimable wife will have charge of the hotel.

Conversation at Home.

Few things are more important in a home than is conversation, yet there are fewer things to which less deliberate attention is given. We take great pains to have our houses well furnished. We select our carpets and our pictures with the utmost care. We send our children to school that they may become intelligent. We strive to bring into our homes the best conditions of happiness. But how often is the speech of our household left untrained and undisciplined?

The good we might do in our home with our tongues, if we but use them to the limits of their capacity of cheer and helpfulness, it is simply impossible to state. Why should so much power for blessing be wasted? Especially why should we ever pervert the gift and use of our tongues to do evil, to give pain, to scatter seed of bitterness. It is a sad thing when a child is born dumb, but it were better to be born dumb and never to have the gift of speech than, having the gift, to employ it in speaking only sharp, unloving or angry words.—Ex.

A Wonderful Recovery.

Mrs. George P. Smoote, a highly cultivated and estimable lady of Prescott, Ark., writes under date of April 22, 1889: "During the summer of 1887 my eyes became inflamed, and my stomach and liver almost hopelessly disordered. Nothing I ate agreed with me. I took chronic diarrhœa, and for some time my life was despaired of by my family. The leading physicians of the country were consulted, and the medicines administered by them never did any permanent good, and lingered between life and death, the latter being preferable to the agonies I was enduring. In May, 1888, I became disgusted with physicians and their medicines. I dropped them all and depended solely on Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) a few bottles of which made me permanently well—well from then until now."

MEMORIAL SERVICES.

Memorial services were held at the Courthouse in Clanton, on Wednesday at one o'clock p. m. in memory of Jefferson Davis. The remains of Mr. Davis have been temporarily placed in the vault of the Army of Northern Virginia at New Orleans to await the arrival of his daughter, Miss Winnie Davis, from Paris, before deciding upon a permanent burial place.

Alabamians hope that Montgomery will be their permanent resting place.

If you suffer pricking pains on moving the eyes, or cannot bear bright light, and find your sight weak and failing, you should promptly use Dr. J. H. McLean's Stregthening Eye Salve. 25 cents a box.

Far better than the harsh treatment of medicines which horribly gripe the patient and destroy the coating of the stomach. Dr. J. H. McLean's Chill and Fever, by mild yet effective action will cure. Sold at 50 cents a bottle.

The West Alabama Breeze has a good advertising patronage, and stands next to the View as the best weekly in Alabama.

If you suffer from any affection caused by impure blood, such as scrofula, salt rheum, sores, boils, pimples, tetter, ring worm, take Dr. J. H. McLean's Sarsaparilla.

The quality of the blood depends much upon good or bad digestion and assimilation. To make the blood rich in life and strength-giving constituents use Dr. J. H. McLean's Sarsaparilla. It will nourish the properties of the blood, from which the elements of vitality are drawn.

Mr. Goodcatch (calling on the eldest sister) "Why, Johnny, how you are growing? You'll be a man before your sister, if you keep on." "You bet I will. Sister will never be a man if she keeps on being 20 like she has for the last five years. Then there was a great commotion in that household.

Sick headace, wind on the stomach billiousness, nausea, are promptly and agreeably banished by Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pillets, 25 c a vial.

When nature falters and requires help recruit her enfeebled energies with Dr. J. H. McLean's strengthening cordial and blood purifier. $1.00 per bot.

The Confederate Veterans Association of Chilton County will meet in Clanton, on Jan. 18th at one o'clock p. m.

Physicians prescribe Dr. J. H. McLean's Tar Wine Lung Balm; in it they find no trace of opium or morphia, while its efficacy in curing all throat and lung diseases is wonderful.

There are many accidents and diseases which affect stock and cause serious inconvenience and loss to the farmer in his work, which may be quickly remedied by the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment.

Go to Blank Brothers, Leading Clothiers, 2112, 2nd Avenue, Birmingham, Ala., to buy anything you need in the way of clothing and gent's furnishing goods.

"It goes right to the spot," said an old man, who was rubbing in Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment to relieve rheumatism. oct31

Tax Notice!

SECOND ROUND.

I will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and county taxes of Chilton county for the year 1889.

Mineral Springs	December	6
Jemison	"	7
Providence	"	5
Macedonia	"	9
Benson	"	10
Maplesville	"	11
R. Latham's	"	12
Dixie	"	13
Kincheon	"	17
Verbena	"	18
Cooper's	"	19
Valley Creek Church	"	14
Clanton Ford	"	16
Elijah Busby	"	4
John Archer's	"	5
Prim's School House	"	21

Clanton, December 23, 24, 26, 27, 28, 30 and 31.

B. M. GENTRY,
Tax Collector Chilton Co.

Assessor's Notice.

FIRST ROUND.

I will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of assessing the State and county taxes of Chilton county, for the year 1890:

Mineral Springs,	January	30
Jemison,	"	23 & 24
Providence	"	27
Macedonia	"	22
Benson	"	21
Maplesville	"	18
R. Latham's	"	17
Dixie	"	13
Kincheon	"	7
Verbena	"	2
Cooper's	"	1
Clanton,	February	3
Mountain Creek	January	3
Well's Saw Mill	"	4
Callaway's Grist Mill	"	6
Chandler's Saw Mill	February	7
Pilgrim's Rest	January	8
Clanton Ford	"	9
Stanton	"	11
Chilton Lumber Co.'s Mill	"	14
Welch & Bro.'s Saw Mill	"	15
Valley Creek Church	"	16
Concord Church	"	25
Elijah Busby's	"	28
Archie's Chapel	"	29
Strasburg	"	31
Cane Creek Church	February	4
John Gore's	"	6
R. T. Gulahorn's Saw Mill	"	6

R. C. [illegible]
Tax Assessor Chilton Co.

Catarrh

Is a blood disease. Until the poison is expelled from the system, there can be no cure for this loathsome and dangerous malady. Therefore, the only effective treatment is a thorough course of Ayer's Sarsaparilla—the best of all blood purifiers. The sooner you begin the better; delay is dangerous.

"I was troubled with catarrh for over two years. I tried various remedies, and was treated by a number of physicians, but received no benefit until I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. A few bottles of this medicine cured me of this troublesome complaint and completely restored my health."—Jesse M. Boggs, Holman's Mills, N. C.

"When Ayer's Sarsaparilla was recommended to me for catarrh, I was inclined to doubt its efficacy. Having tried so many remedies, with little benefit, I had no faith that anything would cure me. I became emaciated from loss of appetite and impaired digestion. I had nearly lost the sense of smell, and my system was badly deranged. I was about discouraged, when a friend urged me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and referred me to persons whom it had cured of catarrh. After taking half a dozen bottles of this medicine, I am convinced that the only sure way of treating this obstinate disease is through the blood."—Charles H. Maloney, 113 River st., Lowell, Mass.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Price $1; six bottles, $5. Worth $5 a bottle.

tma16

CLANTON
HIGH SCHOOL.

—:o:—

This School will open Monday, Sept. the 2nd, 1889. Advantages the best in the county. Rates low, board and tuition $10 per month. Patronage is earnestly desired. For further information address me at Clanton, Ala.

Respectfully,
A. J. SCOTT, Principal.

W. W. C.
(Wooldridge's Wonderful Cure)

Is the greatest Blood Purifier ever yet discovered. It never fails to cure when taken according to directions. Read what it has done for Mr. A. Kimbrough:

COLUMBUS, GA., July 15, 1889.

Wooldridge Wonderful Cure Co., Columbus, Ga.

GENTS:—After suffering for twenty years with my kidneys, and finding only temporary relief, after taking various remedies, and consulting some of the most noted physicians in the country, at a cost of hundreds of dollars, for no good, I decided to try W. W. C., and I must confess that I am to-day as well as I ever was, and that I suffer no pain whatever from my kidneys, and am feeling better in every respect than I have for years, and I attribute it all to two bottles of W. W. C.; and I would advise all who suffer in the least with kidney or bladder troubles to give W. W. C. a trial. Yours truly,

A. KIMBROUGH.

WOOLDRIDGE'S WONDERFUL CURE is a sure Remedy for Syphilis, Syphilitic Rheumatism, Chronic Rheumatism, Skin Diseases, Bone Diseases, Old Sores, Bilious Troubles, Liver Diseases, Jaundice, Bilious Headache, Dyspepsia, and all Diseases caused from Impure and Poisoned Blood or Hereditary Diseases.

For sale by all Druggists.

Manufactured by
Wooldridge Wonderful Cure Co.,
COLUMBUS, GA.
sep19 y.

Barber Shop.

Mr. H. A. Logan, who has his barber shop upstairs in the Allen Building, solicits the patronage of the good people of Clanton. He does good work and is well fixed up for the business.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.
November 21, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 6th, 1889, viz: Andrew J. Wyatt, homestead 1403 for the s ½ of s w ¼ sec 28 t 21 n range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Madison Popwell, John Popwell, John R. Kemp and Gill Eiland, all of Kincheon, Ala.

nov21* J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 20, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 11, 1889, viz: Charlie Jackson, homestead 15251 for the n e ¼ of sec. 20 township 21 n, range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Daniel Martin, Emmet Culp, Andy Foshee and James Headley, all of Clanton, Ala.

nov21* J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

Land Office, Montgomery, Ala.,
Nov. 5, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on December 14th, 1889, viz: James H. Green, homestead 22166 for the s e ¼ of n e ¼ sec 18 t 20 n, r 13 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: William W. Klenner, William W. Sanson, Richard P. Kendrick, James M. Walker, all of Maplesville, Ala.

J. H. BINGHAM,
nov7* Register.

Mortgage Sale.

Under and by virtue of a mortgage executed to the undersigned by Abe Lewis and recorded in mortgage book, No. 20, page 22, in the office of the Judge of Probate of Chilton county, I will proceed to sell, on the 28th day of December, 1889, at the courthouse door of said county, within the hours of legal sale, the following described real estate to-wit: The northwest quarter (n w ¼) of the northeast quarter (n e ¼) of section thirty-three (33) in township twenty (20) of range eleven (11) containing [illegible] acres more or less.

FRANK HARRIS,
dec5* Mortgagee.

Bring your job printing to this office.

The Lawson Carpet Co.

Birmingham, Ala.

Take pleasure in directing the attention of the people of Chilton county to their large and attractive stock of

Carpets, Oil-cloths, Window Shades,

Curtains & Household Novelties.

The Stock represented is the finest in Alabama, and prices are guaranteed as low as similar goods are offered in any of the eastern markets.

☞ All communications answered by return mail. Respectfully,

ma30-y THE LAWSON CARPET CO. (WM. LAWSON.)

BAINS & PORTER.

(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & PEEBLES.)

WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.

Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.

FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY.

1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS

Birmingham, Ala.

☞ Fine Stock of Chas. Carley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜

P. O. BOX 570. June 19 y

LOOK * HERE!

New Stock! Low Prices!

—AT—

W. M. WILSON & BRO.'S

CLANTON, ALA.

We have opened a Large Stock of Dry Goods, Groceries and General Merchandise at our old Stand, and we have come to stay. We invite an inspection of our goods and prices.

☞ SHOES AND HATS A SPECIALTY. ☜

THOMAS FOSHEE,

(SUCCESSOR TO N. W. FOSHEE,)

Dry Goods, Groceries,

—AND—

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

Maplesville, Alabama.

I solicit a continuance of the liberal patronage heretofore extended our house. Respectfully,

feb 28-y THOMAS FOSHEE.

WALL PAPER,

WINDOW SHADES,

MOULDINGS,

—AND—

PRACTICAL PAPER HANGER

H. M. MANCHA,

204 DEXTER AVENUE, MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA.

☞ Papers furnished at any price from 10 cents up. Will send samples on application. apr 11-y

BIRMINGHAM MARBLE WORKS.

THOS. H. HOLT,

PRACTICAL WORKMAN.

—AND DEALER IN—

American and Italian Marble.

—Manufacturer of all kinds of—

CEMETERY MARBLE AND STONE WORK.

Cor. Second Avenue and Twenty-Fourth Street,

Birmingham, - - Alabama.

nov28-tf

B. WOLFF'S
FURNITURE EMPORIUM,

20 and 22 Commerce and Corner Court and Commerce Streets.

—MONTGOMERY, ALA.—

CARRIES

The Largest and Cheapest Stock of Furniture

IN THE STATE.

Carpet Co
n, Ala.
ing the attention of unty to their large stock of
Window Shades,
hold Novelties,
nams, and prices are guaranteed
eastern markets.
n well. Respectfully,
CARPET CO. (WM. LAWSON.)

ORTER.
& PEEBLES.)
RUGGISTS.
l Receive Prompt At
RS A SPECIALTY
19th and 20th STREETS
n, Ala.
at Company's Prices.
June 19 y

ERE!
ow Prices!
& BRO.'S
ALA.
ls, Groceries and General Mer me to stay. We invite an nd prices.
SPECIALTY.

OSHEE, FOSHEE,) roceries,
CHANDISE.
labama.
ral patronage heretofore
ly,
THOMAS FOSHEE.

APER,
WINDOW SHADES,
IOULDINGS,
—AND—ACTICAL PAPER HANGER
CHA,
MERY, ALABAMA.
n 10 cents up. Will send apr 11-y

LE WORKS.
HOLT,
ORKMAN.
ian Marble.
ls of —
STONE WORK.
y-Fourth Street,
Alabama.

FF'S IPORIUM,
and Coosa Streets.
ock of Furniture
ATE.

GO TO BLANK BROS. LEADING CLOTHIERS, 2112 SECOND AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., DEC. 12, 1889.

THE VIEW is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

A cross mark (X) after your name means that your subscription is due and that we would be glad to have you renew.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the second Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—On the eleventh Monday after the fourth Monday in February, and on the thirteenth Monday after the fourth Monday in August, and may continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD. Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.

No. 1 Express at	*1:15 a. m.
No. 3 Mail	5:43 p. m.
No. 11 (Passenger)	6:20 p. m.
No. 9 Accommodation	6:45 a. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 2 Fast (Don't Stop)	2:20 a. m.
No. 6 Mail	9:11 a. m.
No. 4 Express	7:55 p. m.
No. 10 Accommodation	6:20 p. m.

*Don't Stop.

LOCAL LACONICS.

Mr. Sam Holt, of Meridian, Miss. is visiting relatives in our town.

Mrs. Boykin, of Verbena, has been visiting relatives here this week.

Rev. A. J. Briggs will be our Methodist minister for the ensuing year.

Mr. A. J. Marlar has sent us a sample of excellent turnips of his raising.

Mrs. W. L. Sampey has returned after a long visit to her mother in Tuskegee.

Mr. O. P. Bentley has moved his family to Clanton and occupies the Lewis place.

The young folks had a sociable at the residence of Mr. J. H. Chandler on Friday eve.

We publish Judge Dowdell's decision in the Probate Judge contest case in full. It will prove interesting and instructive.

A good lady friend, Mrs. M. Aldridge, has placed the VIEW household under toothsome obligations by presenting us a fine Christmas turkey. A nice treat.

Any one wanting a copy of Dr. Kendall's famous "Treatise on the Horse and his Diseases" can secure a copy free at this office. We have a surplus that we are willing to distribute gratis.

Up to Tuesday evening Clanton had shipped 1600 bales of cotton this season. Mr. W. L. Sampey is in the lead with 778 bales, Mr. Ehrman was a close second with 700. The others were pretty well scattered among merchants and farmers.

Mr. Louis Bates and Miss Amanda Atchinson were married at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Daven[illegible] in Benson beat last Sunday evening at eight o'clock. Miss Amanda's friends wish them much pleasure. Some of the young men [illegible] Miss Amanda's marriage.

It would be a sorry world if there were no mean grumblers in it. They grumble at the printer, the preacher, the doctor, the lawyer, the school teacher, the blacksmith, the merchant, the butcher, the farmer. They grumble at everything and everybody—never satisfied, always grumbling.

Mr. O. P. Bentley, of Rockford, has moved to Clanton, and will practice law in connection with [illegible] M. Williamson, the style of the firm being Williamson & Bentley. Mr. Bentley and family are cordially welcomed. He is a son of Judge John Bentley, and a brother of A. D. Bentley, Esq., a popular citizen of Clanton.

Notice to the Public.

From November 1st to January 1st goods will be sold on credit at my store, and I hope no one will have their feelings hurt by failing to get credit. I intend to meet any competition in this market, and [illegible] goods so I must sell for the cash down.

Parties who have not yet settled their accounts for this year are earnestly requested to call and settle same.

Respectfully,
W. L. SAMPEY.

OVER THE COUNTY.

Neighborhood News Gathered by Our Correspondents.

Verbena Verbiage.

The leading merchants of the town are doing a much large business this fall than last.

There have been over nine hundred bales of cotton marketed at this place up to date.

Misses Evelyn Caffey and Lucas Brooks, two of Verbena's charming and graceful young ladies, went horse back riding last Tuesday. They took in the village.

Miss E. Francis Griffin, has gone to Montgomery to start the W. C. T. U. to working again. We hope Miss Griffin will lecture here. She would have a large audience.

Maplesville Dots.

After the decision of the great world's fair, if the architect who constructed the Byrd's Creek bridge does not improve, we are afraid he will not take the prize for architectural skill.

The M. T. & M. railroad is not being built as Solomon's temple, without the sound of hammer. The noise of clanking iron is heard in the distance.

We are glad to state that Mrs. Gullahorn is convalescent from a serious illness.

Our old friend, William Walker, Sr., is yet quite ill.

Our railroad officials assume quite a business like air in our village, and are much like the noble order of free masons, their movements are kept in the greatest secrecy.

Messrs. Frank and Ben Glover have been visiting home.

REVOLO.

Cooper's Station Items.

The people of our little village, are making some preparations for the Chrismas holidays. The Sabbath school is going to have a Christmas tree at the Church house on Christmas night. Any others that will take part in it, are cordialy invited to do so.

Miss Fannie Rucker is visiting relatives in Cooper's.

There is a flourishing school at Oak Grove about two miles west of here. Conducted by Prof. J. W. Moore. He has about 35 local pupils, and some boarding pupils besides. J. W. is exerting his efforts to place that school on a higher round than it has hitherto been.

Brother P. C. Dennis is doing a good business in his store, as might be expected of an intelligent and polite gentleman like he is.

Mr. E. T. Gullahorn is running his saw-mill briskly at this place, which adds much to the attraction of our little village. Mr. Gullahorn is a kind, and polite gentleman, and his laborers are plentiful, for he pays them punctually.

I AM.

Stanton Notes.

Mr. John T. Adams, of this place, attended the grand Masonic Lodge in Montgomery the past week as a delegate from Stanton lodge. The Masonic fraternity are quite strong here and have a well organized lodge.

Mrs. M. A. Hamner, of Selma, is visiting relatives here.

Mr. Joseph Taylor has returned from a visit to his plantation near Uniontown.

The death of the Hon. Jefferson Davis is felt at Stanton as well as elsewhere. It is to be hoped that the fire-eaters of the north will allow the old chieftan to rest in peace.

Rev. Jas. Lapsley filled his regular appointment in the Presbyterian church here last Sabbath.

The Presbyterian Sunday school appointed a committee of five ladies and two gentlemen to arrange for a Christmas tree.

Mrs. Richard Coe gave the young folks a "pop-corn party" at her residence last Friday night, and several pleasant and happy hours were spent in popping corn, cracking jokes and other amusements.

Mr. John Stewart has resigned his office as justice of the peace in this precinct. All the people in this vicinity are law abiding and on this account Mr. Stewart finds business too dull to require his services.

Your wasted cheeks may have all the plumpness and bloom of health, by your use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This time honored remedy still leads the van. It improves digestion, purifies the blood, and invigorates the system. Give it a trial.

The harsh, drastic purgatives, once deemed so indispensable, have given place to milder and more skillfully prepared laxatives; hence the great and growing demand for Ayer's Pills. Physicians everywhere recommend them for costiveness, indigestion and liver complaints.

HERMAN HERZFELD,

—DEALER IN—

All Kinds of Furniture at all Prices.

Parlor and Bed-Room Suits, Carpets, Oil Cloths, Mattings, Blankets, Comforts and Lace Goods.

Everything necessary in the House-Furnishing Goods Line.

NINETEENTH STREET, BETWEEN FIRST AND SECOND AVENUES
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

JOEL WHITE

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

Bookseller ✻ and ✻ Stationer.

—MONTGOMERY, ALA.—

My line is so large and varied that it is nearly impossible to name all the items in my stock, but if you are needing any Book or article of Stationery, any Fancy Goods or Printing, a Memorandum Book or a Ledger, a Gold Pen or a Letter File, a Lead Pencil or an Inkstand, a Catechism, Bible, Hymn Book, Birthday Card, Portfolio, Writing Desk, Work Box, in fact anything in my line or its kindred branches, drop me a line for quotations. If you are a dealer in any of these goods, I can make a correspondence profitable to you. [dec12

List of Cases.

The following criminal cases were disposed of at the Fall term of the circuit court.

H. C. Bearden. Selling liquor without license. Fine $50.

Jake Lavinskey. Selling liquor without license. Two cases. Fine $50 in each case.

Clem Leach. Carrying concealed weapon. Fined $50.

Hal Perryman. Cruelty to animals. Fined $10.

John Bailey. Aiding prisoners to escape. Sentenced to imprisonment in the peniteniary for two years.

James Lewis. Burglary. Two years in penitentiary.

Lewis Love. Petit larceny. Two years in penitentiary.

George Kendrick. Grand larceny. Sentenced to eleven months in penitentiary.

H. C. Bearden. Defaulting bail Two cases. Judgment final for $25 in each case

Ben Love. Defaulting witness. Judgment final for one cent and costs.

Four parties were convicted of public drunkenness and in each case a fine of $10 and costs was assessed.

The Probate Judge contest case was decided Tuesday in favor of Judge Callen. The decision is published in full in another column.

There was also a case for selling liquor without license in which the penalty was fixed at $50 fine and two months hard labor for the county. An appeal was taken in this case.

Disabled for Business.

Several years ago my health failed me and I was compelled to give up my business. I was in constant agony caused from excruciating pains in my back, liver and stomach. I tried every medicine I could hear of, but without receiving any relief. My attention was then called to S. S. S. I tried five bottles of it, and received the most gratifying results. I am to-day as healthy and sound a man as you will find anywhere, and I owe it all to the curative properties to be found in Swift's Specific (S. S. S.)

R. L. WOMACK,
Morgantown, N. C.

Treatise on blood and skin diseases mailed free.

SWIFT SPECIFIC CO.,
Atlanta, Ga.

Exposure to rough weather, getting wet, living in damp localities, are favorable to the contraction of diseases of the kidneys and bladder. As a preventive, and for the cure of all kidney and liver trouble use that valuable remedy, Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm. $1.00 per bottle.

BUSINESS LOCAL NOTICES.

Mrs. M. A. Butler announces to her friends in this section that she is now located at 422 21st St. and Ave. E, Birmingham, where she has opened a stock of general merchandise. An invitation is extended to all needing anything in her line to call at the above location when visiting the city. 1m

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 4, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 11, 1890, viz: Jesse Benson, Jr., homestead 14781 for the s ½ of s e q and s e q of s w q sec 6, township 23 n, r 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Richard Potter, Crick Brewer, Rinard Vandiver, Joseph Lawson, all of Jemison, Ala.

dec5* J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

Mortgage Sale.

Under and by virtue of two mortgages executed by Matilda Crumpton, the first to the Louisville & Nashville railroad company on the 16th day of January, 1882 and recorded in Book 9 of Mortgages page 363 in the Probate office of Chilton county, the second executed on the 18th day of March, 1885, to Frank Nelson, Jr., and recorded in Mortgage book Vol. 15, page 55 of records of mortgages in the office of Judge of Probate of Chilton county, I will proceed to sell on the 16th day of December, 1889, in front of the courthouse door in Clanton, Chilton county, within the legal hours of sale, the following described real estate to-wit: The S W ¼ of the S W ¼ of section 18 township 23, range 15 east in Chilton county, Ala.

FRANK NELSON, JR.,
nov14 Mortgagee and Assignee.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 20, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 10, 1890, viz: James W. Conell, homestead 14074 for the s ½ of n e q, n w q of s e q, n e q of s w q, sec 24, township 22 n, range 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: A. J. Peters, R. E. Jones, J. M. Parish, William Mims, all of Clanton, Ala.

nov21* J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 18, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 4th, 1890, viz: Peter W. Noah, homestead 15043 for the n ½ of n w ¼ sec 18 township 22 n r 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: William Headley, Jr., James N. Knox, John Knox, William Davis, all of Clanton, Ala.

nov21* J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
November 19, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 6th, 1890, viz: William S. Cox, homestead 15271 for the w ½ of s w ¼ of sec 26, township 23 n, range 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, William T. Franklin, John Gore, William T. Mahan, John McKee, all of Clanton, Ala.

nov21o J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 19, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence, the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Jan. 6th, 1889, viz: Hurly Ann Ray, homestead 15806 for the s e ¼ of sec 22 township 21 n, range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: John R. Kemp, Stephen Baker, Cyrus Culp, and R. M. Burnett, all of Clanton, Ala.

nov21* J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 2, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 18, 1890, viz: Alfred Stephen Baker, homestead 16802 for the s e ¼ of sec 20 township 21 n, range 14 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: George Mullins, James Wyatt, Francis M. Headley and Monroe Durbin, all of Clanton, Ala.

dec5* J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

SALESMEN WANTED to canvass for the sale of Nursery Stock! Steady employment guaranteed. Good pay for successful men. Apply at once stating age. Mention this paper. Alabama Nursery Company, Huntsville, Ala.

Insure in the Commercial Fire Insurance Co. of Montgomery.

Now is the time to subscribe for your county paper.

A. E. BIVINGS,

—DEALER IN—

DRUGS, AND Medicines, FAMILY Groceries, ETC.

Clanton, Alabama.

I can furnish you anything you may wish in the way of DRUGS AND MEDICINES. I also handle THE BEST GROCERIES TO BE HAD, and you will find my prices to suit the times. [mar20]

BUY YOUR
PIANOS and ORGANS
—FROM—
GRAMBS & BUCHANAN,
—2107 SECOND AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—

THE VERY LOWEST CASH PRICES, or on easy installments. Sohmer' Cranich & Bach, Gabler, Wheelock and Newby & Evans Pianos, and the world renowned Wilcox & White organs. Mail orders for sheet music or musical merchandise given prompt attention.

Write for Catalogue. jul18

When ordering please state in what paper you saw our advertisement.

✻ Hale, Dingley & Co. ✻

—WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS IN—

Drugs, Medicines, Toilet Articles,

PERFUMERY, SOAP, BRUSHES & STANDARD PATENT MEDICINES,
—:MONTGOMERY, ALA.:—

Keep constantly on hand a complete stock of articles in their line of business. Particular attention is called to the following articles manufactured by them and especially recommended to the public: Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lactophosphate of Lime; Elixir Cinchona and Gentian Compound; Howard's Colic Cure for Horses; Esprit de Millefleur. nov21-6

CHAS. L. RUTH,

—DEALER IN—

Diamonds, Silverware, Watches, Clocks,

Jewelry, Spectacles, &c.,

Sole Agent in Montgomery for the celebrated ROCKFORD QUICK TRAIN WATCHES, the best for Railroad men. Also has a large stock of Watches of other makes, including the famous watches manufactured by A. Schneider, of Dresden, and the watches he had made specially to order in Geneva.

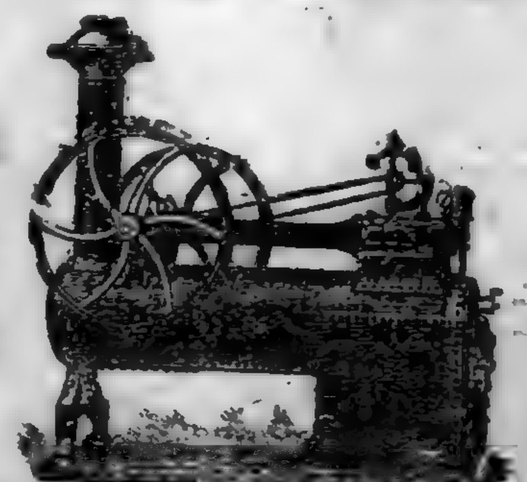
A complete stock of the newest styles of JEWELRY, selected with great care from the stocks of the largest manufacturers.

The latest designs in SILVER and PLATED WARE. French and American CLOCKS and BRONZES in great variety. Julius King's Combination Spectacles, Eye-Glasses, Gold-head Canes, &c. All goods marked at the lowest figures possible. Clocks, Watches and Jewelry skillfully and promptly repaired. All work guaranteed.

C. L. RUTH,
(Sign of the Eagle and Watch.) 15 Dexter Avenue,
—MONTGOMERY, ALA.—
nov21y

CRELLIN & NALLS,

BOILER MAKERS



Copper and Sheet Iron Workers

Chimneys, Tanks, and Repairing of All Kinds.

Saw Mill Work a Specialty.

AVENUE C AND TWENTY-SECOND STREET, SOUTHSIDE,
Birmingham, Ala.
mar21 y

INSURE WITH
The Commercial Fire Insurance Company,
Montgomery, Alabama.

Capital $100,000. Surplus $146,578.

Directors:—P. J. Anderson, C. A. Lanier, H. C. Tompkins, A. M. Kennedy, M. P. LeGrand, S. C. Marks, J. H. Clisby, C. W. Buckley, Frank Duncan.

W. H. Lawrence, Agt., Clanton.

Roberts & Son,
Steam Printers and Binders,
1918 FIRST AVENUE, BET. 19th & 20th STREETS,
Birmingham, Ala.

BLANK BOOKS TO ORDER. WORK PROMPTLY DELIVERED.

dec5 ly

MONTGOMERY IRON WORKS,
MACHINISTS & FOUNDERS
Dealers in Fittings, Supplies and Machinery
OF ALL KINDS.

MAKERS OF ENGINES, CANE MILLS, COTTON SEED CRUSHERS, SAW MILLS, LIVE ROLLS, [illegible]

A. M. RAMBO,
DENTIST.
VERBENA, ALA.

Will respond to calls along railroad between Calera and Deatsville [mar15-y]

S. P. TRESSLAR,
Photographer,
10 COURT SQUARE,
Montgomery.

Photographs on Silk, Satin and Linen. Photographs on watch dials.

Portraits in Crayon, Pastile, India Ink and Water Colors.

All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.

Correspondence solicited.

Always glad to have you call at the gallery, and examine specimens of the work on exhibition.

[jan21-tf]

J. H. SHEPHERD
THE LEADING
PHOTOGRAPHER,
—OF—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE
(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)

Photographs of All Kinds Work Done in the BEST STYLE.

Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

DR. OWEN'S
ELECTRIC BELT
AND SUSPENSORY.

PATENTED AUG. 16, 1887. IMPROVED JULY 30, 1889.

DR. OWEN'S ELECTRO-GALVANIC BODY BELT AND SUSPENSORY are guaranteed to cure the following diseases, namely: All Rheumatic Complaints, Lumbago, General and Nervous Debility, Costiveness, Kidney Diseases, Nervousness, Trembling, Sexual Exhaustion, Wasting of Body, Diseases caused by Indiscretions in Youth, Age, Married or Single Life. In fact all diseases pertaining to genital organs of male or female. SENT TO RESPONSIBLE PARTIES ON 30 DAYS TRIAL. TRY A PAIR OF DR. OWEN'S ELECTRIC INSOLES. PRICE $1. [illegible] Mention this paper, address

OWEN ELECTRIC BELT & APPLIANCE CO.
306 North Broadway, ST. LOUIS, MO.

RUPTURE!

ELECTRIC BELT AND TRUSS COMBINED.

DR. ISRAEL'S ELECTRO-GALVANIC TRUSS, Owen's Electric Belt Attachment. [illegible] made mild or strong. This is the only electric truss and belt ever made. It cures Rupture in from 30 to 90 days. For full description of Dr. Owen's Electro-Galvanic Belts, Spinal Appliances, Trusses and Insoles send 6c. for new illustrated pamphlet which will be sent you in plain sealed envelope. Sold only by the

OWEN ELECTRIC BELT & APPLIANCE CO.
306 North Broadway, ST. LOUIS, MO.

sep 5

HERBINE

After ten years exclusive sale, can now be obtained of all Druggists and Dealers in Medicines. It CURES—take notice—not simply helps but CURES LIVER COMPLAINT, Biliousness and Dyspepsia.

Is a strictly vegetable preparation and will CURE MALARIA, and all MALARIAL troubles.

Dr. S. H. Wise, of Boston, Ky. says: "Have practiced medicine 15 years, and find no equal to HERBINE as a Liver Regulator."

Dr. W. A. Baker, of Madison, Fla. says: "A bottle of HERBINE is worth more than $5.00 worth of Quinine in any family."

Acting on the Liver in a different way from any other medicine, it is a positive cure for Chronic Constipation, and is cheaper than pills.

Its peculiar composition is such, that we guarantee to cure any case of Chills and Fever or Bilious Fever with one bottle.

It costs but 75 cents and each bottle contains over 60 average doses, making the cost less than two cents a dose. Would you ask for cheaper medicine? It is not a cure-all. But will cure any Liver, Bilious, or Malarial Complaints. Manufactured by

The Herbine Co.
(Successors to Wm. Condell.) St. Louis, Mo.

mar 14-y

PISO'S CURE FOR

Piso's Cure for Consumption is also the best

Cough Medicine.

If you have a Cough without disease of the Lungs, a few doses are all you need. But if you neglect this easy means of safety, the slight Cough may become a serious matter, and several bottles will be required.

TWENTY-FIVE CENTS

CONSUMPTION

PISO'S REMEDY FOR CATARRH gives immediate relief. Catarrhal virus is soon expelled from the system, and the diseased action of the mucous membrane is replaced by healthy secretions.

The dose is small. One package contains a sufficient quantity for a long treatment.

CATARRH

[illegible] Easy and pleasant to use. Price, 50 cents. Sold by druggists or sent by mail.

E. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.

nov22-y

ALLEGER'S
GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES!

[illegible]

WOMAN'S WORLD.

PLEASANT LITERATURE FOR FEMININE READERS.

YOUTHFUL RECEPTION GOWNS.

Many of the new gowns are all in one piece, whether cut in Princesse breadths, or with the skirt sewed to the waist, or in the new quaint fashion with the waist shaped by innumerable fine tucks and shirrings at the top of breadths which extend from the neck to the foot. The last fashion is especially pretty in soft camel's hair and other fine woolens made up with insertions of herring-bone or other open crocheted stitches done in silken threads between the shirred puffs, and above hems or tucks. Thus a graceful Empire gown for a slender young figure is made of gray camel's hair all in one from top to toe, and only two and three-eighths of a yard wide at the foot. It is fastened behind, is without reeds or bustle, and is made over a fitted silk slip that is held in place by several short whale-bones set below the bust and curving out on the hips. The high neck has three gathered puffs in round yoke shape separated by herring-bone insertion crocheted in gray silk, and below the bust fine lengthwise tucks taper the fabric to fit the waist; similar tucks extend all the way up the back, concealing its fastening by hooks and eyes. The long sleeves, slightly full and high on the shoulders, taper to the wrists, and have but one seam, which is plaited inside the elbow, and three rows of herring-bone insertion are about the wrists. This simple gown has only a frill of the wool gathered to edge its neck, and is worn with an amber necklace and bracelets. Old-rose, pale green, Eiffel red and cream white wool dresses will be made by this model for young ladies and for girls just in their teens to wear at Christmas parties, and to assist at afternoon receptions throughout the winter.—Courier-Journal.

A CURE FOR CHAPPED HANDS.

In a bright, breezy article on toilet soap and its uses, Laurie Macheury gives the readers of the Ladies' Home Journal some useful hints about drying the hands in winter. She says:

You know the "chapped hands" so many have written me about? You bring on the "chaps" by drying your hands imperfectly and then exposing them to cold and heat while they are still damp. I know that some mornings you dry them probably thirty or forty times, still I insist it will pay you to take time enough to dry them thoroughly each time, then rub them together over the fire until they work smoothly and don't "stick."

Teach the children this, too. I'll venture you can't go into a school-room in this State and find one-quarter of the pupils with soft, sound hands. With few exceptions the poor little fists are red and cracked open—naughtily to look at and painful and uncomfortable for the child. How many times we hear women—young and old—apologizing for the condition of their hands, and adding like martyrs: "My flesh is so susceptible to the cold," or "my skin is so delicate." Bosh! they need only say; "It's all my own fault, you know, for I am so careless about drying my hands."

Then again I have seen women who of necessity had had their hands in water and soap for so long that the flesh looked nearly parboiled, and the feeling, I am told, is the acme of discomfort. In such a case and to any who may have chapped hands I recommend you to sit down and just devote about fifteen minutes to this operation.

Take vaseline, petrolatum, lard, sweet oil or mutton suet and smear your hands after having washed them thoroughly in warm water. Any one of the above-mentioned greases will do, but use plenty—so much that you are a terrible mess. Then work and rub the twist, and wring your hands together for a long time, until they are soft and will work all right without hurting. Then take clean, warm water with a few drops of ammonia in it and good soap and wash it off. It may take three or four waters. When the grease is gone put on a few drops of a mixture of glycerine, soft water and cologne (in equal parts) and rub well. This will leave your hands smooth and soft, but not greasy or sticky.

Glycerine should never be used pure, as it then has such an affinity or appetite for water that it absorbs even the necessary moisture of the skin and produces a red, feverish, irritated surface. Many people complain that they "can't use glycerine at all," because it "don't agree with their skins." Dilute it with water and then try it, or what is better still, mix glycerine, water and cologne in equal parts as I have just spoken about.

Don't let your husband try this mixture after shaving or he will use it all. If you want to put him in angelic mood, fix up a shaving lotion for him thus: Bay rum one-half pint, water one-quarter pint, glycerine two fluid ounces. Then indeed he will rise up and call you blessed.

FASHION NOTES.

Linen collars and cuffs are worn again.

Galloon girdles are added to many gowns.

Persian borderings are the height of fashion.

Trained velvet dresses are liked for receptions.

Light colors predominate in house dresses for the winter.

Light otter fur promises to become exceedingly fashionable.

Flat bonnets pointed over the forehead in Marie Stuart style are worn by ladies just back from Europe.

Entire dresses of crocheted wool are worn by English children, especially delicate ones, in cold, damp weather.

The cape-sleeved jacket, simulating a cape and waist-coat in front and a jacket in the back, is a new and favorite light wrap.

Skirts are worn somewhat longer than during the summer, the suspicion of train being seen on some. For these days, serge, that most serviceable of all materials, is in vogue; with these are worn white or red cloth jackets, this bit of color being very effective on the dark gray, brown or loutre, the prevailing colors.

A pretty novelty for little girls from six to twelve is the flat Guinea or Tonkin hat of felt. It has a low, bowl-shaped crown, with feather rosettes around it, which graduate smaller toward the back, meeting there with a small bow of ribbon. Just above the forehead, under the brim, are rosettes of baby ribbon, or a small ruche of [illegible] may be placed there.

WORDS OF WISDOM.

Hypocrisy is the necessary burden of villainy.

It is a curious fact in the run of things that it is easier to be thoroughly orthodox than to be thoroughly good.

A bad habit is like a cat in that it has many lives, and like a cat you will have to kill it nine times before you are sure it is dead.

Equity had been gradually shaping itself into a refined science which no human faculties could master without long and intense application.

The chief ingredients in the composition of those qualities that gain esteem and praise are good nature, truth, good sense and good breeding.

A more glorious victory cannot be gained over another man than this, that when the injury began on his part the kindness should begin on ours.

Libraries are the wardrobes of literature, whence men, properly informed, might bring forth something for ornament, much for curiosity, and more for use.

If a man does not make new acquaintances as he passes through life he will soon find himself left alone. A man should keep his friendship in constant repair.

It is hard to personate and act a part long; for where truth is not at the bottom, nature will always be endeavoring to return, and will pass out and betray herself one time or another.

There is nothing that makes a man suspect much, than to know little; and therefore men should remedy suspicion by striving to know more, and not to keep their suspicions in smother.

A man that hath no virtue in himself ever envieth virtue in others; for men's minds will either feed upon their own good, or upon others' evil; and who wanteth one will prey upon the other.

They that govern most make least noise. You see when they row in a barge they that do drudgery work slash and puff and sweat, but he that governs sits quietly at the stern and scarce is seen to stir.

Such is the force of envy and ill-nature that the failings of good men are more published to the world than their good deeds, and that one fault of a deserving man shall meet with more reproaches than all his virtues will with praise.

The Great Waste of Timber.

At the annual meeting of the Carriage Builders' National Association held at Syracuse, N. Y., the most important report made was that on timber supply. In the report of the committee attention was called to the second growth in white ash, the scarcest of all the woods used in the construction of carriages and wagons. The supply was being heavily drawn upon in other industries, and the outlook with regard to it was very discouraging. As to old-growth ash the situation was but little better, although it was obtainable in much larger quantity. There would be enough of it to last for many generations were it not for the fact that it was so extensively used for the interior finishing of houses and for cabinet work. The large old-growth oaks of the South would make an excellent substitute for ash, and in some respects would prove superior to it. The supply of whitewood was very abundant at the present time, but like the old-growth ash, it was being cut up at a tremendous rate for house-finishing purposes. Basswood was found in nearly all the timber States of the Union, and, should necessity require, it would make a good substitute for whitewood in the manufacture of carriages. For hickory, on the other hand, the most important of all carriage timbers, there was no good substitute in all the world. It grew only in a few of the States and a small part of Canada. White oak, important in the manufacture of wagons, was one of the most abundant of all the timbers used. Like old-growth ash and whitewood, it was being extensively employed in carpentry and for a thousand other purposes, but the supply was so great that there was no occasion for alarm in that fact.

As to the waste of timber the committee report: "It seems incredible that there should be any place in this country where good timber was considered a nuisance, and the land worth more with it off than with it on. Yet such is the case all through the South, in the heavily wooded districts. Uncleared land is worth only from $1 to $4 per acre, while cleared of its timber it sells for from $10 to $15 per acre. This leads to a destruction of trees by a method called 'deadening,' by chopping into the trees all round, at a convenient distance from the ground, thus killing them; and there they stand, silent witnesses of an unwise and destructive policy. The extent to which this is done is surprising. Thousands of acres of timber are thus sacrificed every year, not in the South only, for in the State of Ohio we have seen as fine hickories as ever grew thus destroyed."

Fortitude Born of Love.

It was in the year 1880, a third rate city called Neufchateau, in the Department des Vosges, France, about noon, that we were passing, my father and myself, in front of a store where in addition to hardware a supply of ammunition was kept for the use of a regiment there, says a correspondent of the Philadelphia Press. Suddenly we heard a terrible explosion, and being either thrown or having unconsciously run, I know not which, we at any rate found ourselves about twenty yards from where the explosion occurred, and could see part of roof in the street.

We had hardly reached the building when a man came out of it covered with powder, his hair and beard burning, and large pieces of flesh hanging from his face and bare arms. Never will I forget the horror of the sight; his flesh was charred and his clothes partly burned. As he reached the sidewalk he looked around him and called a name I did not catch. Receiving no answer he went right back into that burning furnace, and in a few seconds came out bearing in his arms his child, a girl of six or seven. Those near to him heard him say:

"My darling, are you hurt! Oh, you are hurt!" While the poor little thing kept saying: "No, papa, I am not hurt, not at all; you are burning; think of yourself," and yet the blood was trickling from her forehead where the flying debris made a deep gash. Both recovered, though disfigured for life. At the time I thought there was not only one hero, but two.

Third avenue, in New York city, is to be fitted with cable cars to run every minute all day and every half minute during the morning and evening rush.

AGRICULTURAL.

TOPICS OF INTEREST RELATIVE TO FARM AND GARDEN.

WINTERING BEES.

A correspondent of the American Bee Journal says: I have the bees all ready for winter before the nights get so cold and frosty as to candy the honey in the hive. We winter our bees in an underground cellar, forty feet long, seven feet high and six feet wide, with 8x7 inch ventilation near each end; also three well-fitting doors, which leaves two dead air spaces between the bees and the extremely cold weather, with the mercury often forty degrees below zero in this northern climate. When you put the bees into the cellar remove the cover and entrance blocks, leaving only the quilt over the hive. Put two blocks (2x2 inches, and the length of the hive) under the hive, then put two more on top, on which to put another hive, and so on until they are five tiers high. One essential thing is a half-inch entrance, full width of the hive, and left open; by so doing there will be plenty of upward and lower ventilation, and the bees will not smother or lack in any way for pure air. The bottom hive should be not less than ten inches from the bottom of the cellar, to allow the foul air, if any, to settle below it and pass off through the underground drain, which should consist of not less than two-inch tiling. Bees placed in a cellar as I have described, with a temperature ranging from forty to forty-five degrees, will winter as safely as by any other method, chaff hive not excepted. The temperature can easily be regulated by a slide in each ventilator—not a toboggan slide, but a sliding door.

SELECTING SEED CORN.

When the planting season arrives a very large majority of farmers go to their cribs or corn houses and exercise some little care in selecting fair ears for their seed corn. Comparatively few, however, give the subject any attention previous to that time. A selection of the ears for seed, while on the stalks where the thrifty condition of the plants can be observed and compared with the general average of the field, is a far better plan and needs no argument for its recommendation.

The early maturity of the seed ears, other things being equal, should entitle them to preference, along with plumpness and a full development into large and handsomely shaped ears. If from stalks producing double ears, take the largest, if well formed, and, as a rule, those that grow low, rather than high, on the stalk. Ears with large cobs should not be chosen, but rather those of smaller diameter and with long kernels. Like begets like, and by a little attention to this matter improvement can constantly be made.

The preservation of the ears selected may be insured by braiding the husks of several ears together and suspending them from the rafters of the corn house or any other dry building. By so doing the seed corn will be safe from rats and mice as well as exempt from dampness and mould that might affect its germination. In making a choice it is thought, as before stated, that both the ear and the stalk should be taken into consideration, rather than the mere selection of a large ear.

Again, consideration should be given to the number of the rows, the length and compactness of the kernels, and the general solidity and weight of the ear. There is some diversity of opinion as to the time when the seed corn ought to be gathered, some claiming that seed gathered and dried in the sun soon after the kernel is out of the milk has more vitality to withstand cold and damp after it is planted than if allowed to remain on the stalk until dead ripe. A much larger class, however, favor perfect maturity of the seed on the stalk, which is at least the safest plan, as there would be less moisture to be evaporated from the cob. Such care as has been indicated would certainly enable the farmer who practises it to have his seed corn in readiness when it is wanted, and furthermore would result in a more general germination of seed and more thrifty plants than from a less careful selection.—New York World.

BRAN AND OIL-MEAL.

It is only in exceptional cases that the farmer can afford to purchase feed for stock. Nearly or quite all the food necessary to keep and fatten the stock for market should be raised upon the farm. But oil-meal and bran can, in nearly all cases, be purchased and fed to stock with profit, and there are few materials that will add as much to the value of other materials, or will increase the value of the manure to the extent that this will.

It is not altogether in their value themselves as it is in the increased value they give to other materials in making up what we may term complete rations that they can be used with profit.

In order to [illegible] during growth as economically as possible, it is an item to lessen the amount of grain fed. Not that stock can be properly prepared for market with no grain, but by using bran and oil-meal in connection with other materials, the amount of grain can be materially decreased.

One of the strongest reasons for its use, especially during the winter, when stock must depend almost entirely upon dry food, such as straw, hay, sheaf or unthreshed oats, and corn fodder, and with oil-meal make up a ration that will supply all the elements of nutrition.

In most localities the better plan is to secure a supply in the fall sufficient to last the greater part of the winter. It should be stored in bins or boxes where it is reasonably certain to keep dry. If it can be kept perfectly dry it will keep in a good condition for feeding a long time, without deteriorating in quality, while it can be secured at a less cost at this time than later.

The best results can be secured if the feed is cut before mixing the bran, straw, unthreshed oats, hay and fodder, if run through a cutter, and then a small quantity of bran and oil-meal is added, very little grain will be required to keep all the growing and breeding stock in good condition, and especially so if a comfortable shelter is provided, in addition; and the cost will be considerably less than if grain must be supplied.

When fattening stock, grain must be largely depended upon to finish for market. And with these two materials, used in connection with dry, rough feed, the stock will require but a light feed of grain; and in a majority of cases the less grain fed the lower the cost.—Prairie Farmer.

Treasury Agent Goff says that the seal will be extinct in five years if illegal [illegible] isn't stopped.

HOUSEHOLD MATTERS.

THE WAY TO POUR TEA.

There is more to be learned about pouring tea and coffee than most people are willing to believe. If these decoctions are made at the table, which is the best way, they require experience, judgment and exactness. If they are brought on the table ready-made, it still requires judgment so to apportion them that they shall prove sufficient in quantity for the family, and that the elder members shall have the stronger cups. Often persons pour out tea, who, not being at all aware that the tea grows stronger as they proceed, bestow the poorest cup upon the greatest stranger, and give the strongest to a very young member of the family, who would be better without any. Where several cups of equal strength are wanted, you should pour a little into each, and then go back, inverting the order as you fill them, and the strength will be apportioned properly.

An earthen pot is by far the best for brewing; the tea may then be poured into a silver pot if desired. Heat the pot and pour the water out before putting in the tea required, filling up at once with boiling water; set from the fire about ten minutes to draw, then pour out as above.—The Housewife.

CLOTHING FOR BOARDING-SCHOOLS.

The outfit of clothing necessary for a girl going away to school is quite different from that needed at home. More clothing and simpler clothing is required. The underwear should be of plain, strong muslin, made as nearly plain as it can be—certainly without ruffles or lace. It is astonishing how pretty such clothing may be made with due attention to the shape, sewing and finish. Nothing is in worse taste for a schoolgirl than anything approaching elaboration in dress. Let her school gowns be of simple wool in winter, with a plain cloth tailor-finished gown and jacket for church. The gown may be made at home, but severity of the cut and neatness and peculiarity of the finish will entitle it still to its name, though a tailor has never seen it. A warm dressing-gown made of a colored blanket, a little house sacque to wear on chilly mornings and a pair of warm felt bedside slippers should form part of the outfit. A good waterproof and strong overshoes and high-gaitered arctics to wear in winter snows over the shoes, are necessary for morning walks, which are a feature of the physical regime of all our best schools every day of the school year.—New York Tribune.

RECIPES.

Sausage Omelets—Cut thin slices off a round of sausage, place in a frying-pan with a little butter, and pour over six eggs beaten and mixed with pepper and salt.

Rye Fritters—One-half cup of sugar, two eggs, a pinch of salt, three cups of wheat flour, one cup of rye meal, one teaspoon of soda, two teaspoons of cream tartar, mix with milk or water and drop from a spoon into hot lard.

Cookies—One cup of sugar, one-half cup of butter, one egg, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one quart of flour, one-half cup of milk, water enough to make soft enough to roll; cut in shape and bake in a quick oven.

Sugar Crackers—One cup of sugar, one-half cup of butter, one egg, one-half cup of milk, two teaspoons of baking powder, four and a half cups of flour; season with caraway seeds, cut in small, round, thin cakes and bake.

Scotch Cake—Take half a pound of sugar, a pound of butter and two pounds of flour. Mix with the hands, and make into square cakes in a tin pan, and sprinkle with caraway comfits, pressing them down with your hand.

Taylor Cakes—One-half cup each of butter and lard, one cup of sugar, one-half pint of milk, one pint of molasses, three teaspoons of ginger, two teaspoons of baking powder, five cups of flour. Roll out, cut in shape and bake.

Spice Cake—One cup each of molasses, sugar, butter and sour milk, four and one-half cups of flour, three eggs, one tablespoonful each of allspice and cloves, one nutmeg, one teaspoonful of soda, one-half pound each of raisins and currants.

Ginger Snaps—One cup of brown sugar, one-half cup of butter, one-half cup of lard, one cup of molasses, one tablespoonful each of cinnamon, ginger, cloves and baking powder; flour enough to make a stiff dough; roll them out into round cakes and bake quickly.

Cranberry Dumplings—Sift together one quart of flour and two teaspoons of baking powder, mix to a soft dough with sweet milk, roll out half an inch thick, spread over it one quart of stewed cranberries; roll over and tie in a pudding bag; steam one hour and serve with sauce.

Charlotte Russe—Line in a dish with sliced sponge cake, take one pint of sweet cream and mix with it the whites of three eggs, beaten to a stiff froth; sweeten to taste; blanche and pound fifteen or twenty sweet almonds, sprinkle on the sponge cake, then pour over the cream.

Chicken Soup—Take all the bones of a chicken, crack them, and add the dark meat; cover well with water, and stew for three or four hours. Flavor the broth with some thinly cut lemon peel; salt to taste and add a little sage tied in a piece of muslin. All fat must be removed.

Tapioca Fruit Pudding—One-half cupful of tapioca soaked over night in cold water. In the morning cover the bottom of the baking dish with any kind of fruit, either canned or fresh, sweeten the tapioca with one-half cupful of sugar, add a little salt and nutmeg, pour over the fruit and bake one hour. Serve with sauce.

Knuckle of Veal—Take a knuckle of veal, boil in a little water until tender, then take the meat and chop very fine, season to taste; have one or two eggs boiled hard, wet a deep dish and slice the egg in the bottom, then put the meat on top and add the liquor the meat was boiled in, salt a little; put on ice. When cold turn out.

Macaroon Custard—Boil one quart of milk and pour it very slowly over the well-beaten yolks of ten eggs. Put it on a slow fire and stir till it is as thick as cream. Take it off the fire, pour it into the dish it is to be served in, and then place the dish full of macaroons in a pyramid form. Whip the whites of the eggs and pour over the whole, then [illegible] over it and put in a very moderate oven [illegible] until the whites are set.

POPULAR SCIENCE.

Microscopic examination tends to confirm the opinion that ammonite, the new explosive, is a chemical compound, and not a mere mixture.

In experiments on the solubility of glass in water, plumbiferous flint glass was found to be the least soluble, and the relative resistance of glasses was different toward hot and cold water.

Professor Fresenius, of Wiesbaden, Germany, declares that an egg contains as much nourishment as a pound and an ounce of cherries, a pound and a quarter of grapes, a pound and a half of russet apples, two pounds of gooseberries, and four pounds of pears.

Some additional facts of scientific interest are given in a recent report concerning the artesian well—the deepest in the world—at Pesth, Austria, and which, from its depth of 3140 feet, supplies 176,000 gallons of water daily, having a temperature of 158 degrees Fah.

The protection of men-of-war from the effects of lightning has reduced casualties from that cause in a remarkable degree. In fifty years before the introduction of lightning rods over two hundred English men-of-war were struck, while from 1810 to 1815 only forty-eight vessels were more or less damaged.

A Corsican doctor, M. de Susini, has made a sulphuric ether engine of twenty-horse power, which is expected to realize a saving of sixty-five per cent. in fuel. Scientific men in Paris who have witnessed its workings are said to have reserved their opinion as to its merits until further tests have been made.

A Dutch physician declares that a close connection exists between the exercise of mental faculties and disorders of the nose. He says that if it were generally known how many cases of chronic headache, of inability to learn or to perform mental work, were due to chronic disease of the nose, many of them would be easily cured.

A great amount of motive power has, for years past, been derived from the discharge of water from artesian wells in France; more so, in fact, than in any other part of the world. In the city of Tours there is an artesian well which drives a hydraulic wheel seven metres in diameter, and works the machinery of a silk factory.

The very latest improvement in the manufacture of filaments for incandescent lamps is a process whereby the filaments are heated to a high temperature by burning fluid fuel in a suitable furnace and at the conclusion of the operation raising the temperature to a still higher degree for a short period by the introduction of a blast of oxygen.

It is stated that, near Brady's Bend, Penn., an oil well is located which every day pumps a barrel of first-class refined petroleum, the residents in the vicinity purchasing and burning it without its having passed through any process; it answers the purpose equally as well as the finest illuminating kerosene, does not smoke, and has no unpleasant odor.

M. Pasteur delivered an address the other day in Paris to the members of the Society of Practical Medicine, and in it declared with much emphasis that rabies is never spontaneous. The microbe producing it, he said, was invariably transmitted. This means, of course, that no dog ever goes mad unless he has been bitten by another mad dog, a fact at once important and reassuring.

The ingenious adulterator is quite at home in Austria. At the laboratory in Vienna, where food is analyzed for nothing, a loaf of bread was found to consist largely of the pulverized bark of trees, sawdust and chaff; ground pepper was found to be mixed with wood ashes; cinnamon was colored with ochre; and a so-called "nutritious coffee" consisted entirely of roast acorns and chicory.

Progress has its penalties. The use of steam as a motive power and heater has cost many thousands of lives. So has the use of gas as an illuminator. Electricity is now at the front for employment as power and light. It is doing some killing, but its victims are few as compared with those of steam. Doubtless it will be rendered less dangerous, but it must always retain capacity for evil as well as good. We do not get unmixed good on this side of eternity.

A French scientist has discovered a new insulating substance. A by-product resulting from the treatment of asphalt with sulphuric acid, which has hitherto been considered of no value, has been found to furnish what, according to La Lumiere Electrique, is an excellent insulating material. This substance, which resembles ordinary asphalt, becomes, after exposure to great heat, as hard as ebonite or vulcanite, and possesses high insulating properties.

Play Grounds On the Tops of Houses.

A plan for school play grounds, which has obtained in London for some years, has been mooted in New York city in connection with new school buildings in the crowded tenement district of the east side. In these regions space is limited and dear, and the play rooms are usually in dark and damp basements. Now it is proposed to try the experiment of having play grounds on the roof. The plan is to carry the walls up another story, but to have no roof. In wet weather a canvas top would be spread over the room, but at all other times the children would have the full benefit of the air and the sun. This experiment has been tried in London, and has been found to work satisfactorily, and in one case a glass roof—forming a "crystal room"—was set up, to the great delight and comfort of the little ones. The aerial experiment in play grounds will certainly be tried in connection with one of the New York schools.—Sanitary News.

Cupid's Work.

Silas Emerson, who died in Santa Clara, Cal., last week at the age of seventy-four years, leaving an estate valued at $10,000,000, was a native of Harrison, Me., and is said to have gone to California on account of an unhappy love affair. The young lady to whom he was engaged, like the heroine of Locksley Hall, let her parents influence her to break the engagement to marry somebody else, and so she gave up the young workingman for a Boston lawyer. Desiring to escape from her vicinity, the disappointed youth went West with the gold [illegible] of 1849, where, instead of mining, he began to build [illegible]

Nick in the Coat Lapel.

Did you ever wonder why that little V-shaped nick was placed at the juncture of your coat collar with the lapel? inquires a citizen in the St. Louis Republic. I suppose you have. Occasionally we all have our little ruminating spells and fall to wondering the whys of the many odd things we see about us. Hold your coat up before you and you will see at a glance that it will "set" just as well with the nick as with it. Therefore, the matter of fit cannot be given as a proper solution of the fact that it is there. Without apparent purpose this nick is clipped from the lapel of every frock coat worn in the world. But there was motive in the madness of the first man who adopted the little insignia of distinction. I will tell you about it. When the first Napoleon gave way to his ambition, he tried to implicate Gen. Moreau in Pichegru's conspiracy. Moreau had been Napoleon's superior, and was very popular, but under the circumstances, as Napoleon was on top, it was not safe to express publicly any sympathy with Moreau, so his admirers secretly agreed to nick their coat lapels, to show who they were. Carefully note the outlines of the first coat front you see that is well fitted and buttoned, and see if you cannot plainly detect the initial letter M in its windings. The M will appear upside down, the little nicks forming its sides. M was the initial letter of Moreau, and his champions were known by the nicks in the lapels of their coats.

Coffee Drinkers.

In Turkey, coffee drinking is universal and continuous. The writer passed a greater part of four years in Constantinople, where he had occasion to call upon the officials of the Sublime Porte so frequently that it would be difficult to enumerate these official visits; and with few exceptions, when the visit was protracted to any length, black coffee, pure in quality and prepared with the grounds, was regularly served in small, delicate cups. All Turks, from the highest to the lowest, indulge in the beverage, a few swallows at any time, throughout the day, and without any evil effects. In Athens, also, coffee is drank in quantities which surprise the uninitiated; but neither the sedentary habits of the Turk nor the quick, energetic temperament of the Greek seems to be affected by the perpetual imbibing of this beverage.

Rome.

Within the past ten years the aspect of Rome has considerably changed. The old narrow, winding streets are a thing of the past, and are replaced by large, wide thoroughfares. Blocks of the old houses have been knocked down, and large modern palazzi have sprung up in their stead. The narrow Corso of old times will soon be no more, as it is gradually being widened by half its original width.

Thoroughly Built.

Many of the brick houses erected in England two hundred years ago are so cemented together that the walls have to be blown down with gunpowder when the site is wanted for something modern.

You may sing of the beauty of springtime
  That glows on the cheek of the young,
But I sing of a beauty that's rarer
  Than any of which you have sung.
The beauty that's seen in the faces
  Of women whose summer is o'er,
The autumn-like beauty that charms us
  Far more than the beauty of yore.

But this beauty is seen too rarely. The faces of most women lose the beauty of youth too soon. Female disorders are like frosts which come to nip the flowers which betoken good health, without which there can be no real beauty. If our American women would fortify themselves against the approach of the terrible disorders so prevalent among them, by using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, their good looks would be retained to a "sweet old age." This remedy is a guaranteed cure for all the distressing weaknesses and derangements peculiar to women.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets, one a dose. Cure headache, constipation and indigestion.

Let the motive be in the deed and not in the event. Be not one whose motive for action is the hope of reward.

Deafness Can't Be Cured

by local application, as they can not reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucus lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucus surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that we can not cure by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

"Lucy Hinton."

Hark! the sound of many voices,
  Jubilant in gladdest song,
And full many a heart rejoices
  As the chorus floats along:
"Hail the Queen of all Tobaccos!"
  How the happy voices blend,
"Finest and purest among her fellows—
  Man's staunch and true friend."

Rheumatism

According to recent investigations is caused by excessive lactic acid in the blood. This acid attacks the fibrous tissues, particularly in the joints, and causes the local manifestations of the disease, pains and aches in the back and shoulders, and in the joints at the knees, ankles, hips and wrists. Thousands of people have found in Hood's Sarsaparilla a positive and permanent cure for rheumatism. This medicine, by its purifying and vitalizing action, neutralizes the acidity of the blood, and also strengthens the whole body.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

Jennings' BUSINESS COLLEGE, NASHVILLE, TENN.

This College, though yet in its infancy, has more than 600 former students occupying good positions, many of them receiving salaries ranging from $500 to $1,500 per annum. For circulars, address, R. W. JENNINGS, Prop.

OPIUM and WHISKEY HABITS cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE. B. M. WOOLLEY, M. D. Atlanta, Ga. Office 104½ Whitehall St.

BRYANT & STRATTON Business College, LOUISVILLE.

PISO'S CURE FOR [illegible]

A Pleasing Sense of health and strength renewed and of ease and comfort follows the use of Syrup of Figs, as it acts in harmony with nature to effectually cleanse the system when costive or bilious. For sale in 50c. and $1 bottles by all leading druggists.

Keep doing, always doing. Wishing, dreaming, intending, mourning, talking, sighing and pining are idle and profitless employments.

A $2.00 Paper for $1.75.

The Youth's Companion gives so much for the small amount that it costs it is no wonder it is taken already in nearly Half a Million Families. With its fine paper and beautiful illustrations, its Weekly Illustrated Supplements and its Double Holiday Numbers, it seems as if the publishers could not do enough to please. By sending $1.75 now you may obtain it free to January, and for a full year from that date to January, 1891. Address, THE YOUTH'S COMPANION, Boston, Mass.

Oregon, the Paradise of Farmers. Mild, equable climate, certain and abundant crops. Best fruit, grain, grass and stock country in the world. Full information free. Address Oreg. Im'igra'tn Board, Portland, Or.

The smoker's delight—"Tansill's Punch."

THE BEST REMEDY CHILDREN SUFFERING FROM COLD in HEAD SNUFFLES OR CATARRH

CATARRH HAY-FEVER

A particle is applied into each nostril and is agreeable. Price 50 cents at Druggists; by mail, registered, 60 cts. ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York.

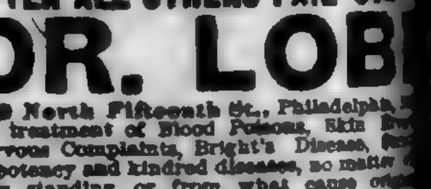
SMITH'S BILE BEANS

Act on the liver and bile; clear the complexion; cure biliousness, sick headache, costiveness, malaria and all liver and stomach disorders. We are now making small size Bile Beans especially adapted for children and women—very small and easy to take. Price of either size 25c per bottle.

A panel size PHOTO-GRAVURE of the above picture, "Kissing at 7-17-70," mailed on receipt of 2c stamp. Address the makers of the great Anti-Bile Remedy—"Bile Beans." J. F. SMITH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

THE WONDERFUL LUBURG CHAIR
COMBINING 5 ARTICLES OF FURNITURE
INVALID SUPPLIES AND WHEEL CHAIRS
BABY COACHES

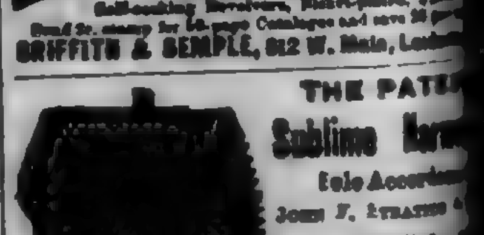
We retail at the lowest wholesale factory prices, and ship goods to be paid for on delivery. Send stamp for Catalogue. Name goods desired. LUBURG MFG. CO., 145 N. 8th St., Phila.



Pennsylvania Agricultural Works, York, Pa. Farquhar's Standard Engines and Saw Mills. Send for Catalogue. Address A. B. FARQUHAR & SON, York, Pa.

AFTER ALL OTHERS FAIL CONSULT DR. LOBB

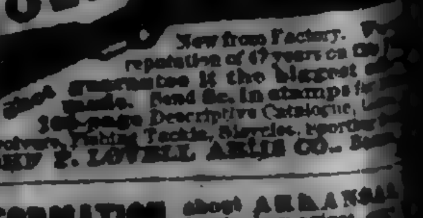
329 North Fifteenth St., Philadelphia, Pa., for the treatment of Blood Poisons, Skin Eruptions, Nervous Complaints, Bright's Disease, Strictures, Impotency and kindred diseases, no matter of how long standing or from what cause originating. Ten days medicines furnished by mail. Send for Book on SPECIAL Diseases.



$7 FOR A Double Breech-Loader. GRIFFITH & SEMPLE, 312 W. Main, Louisville.

THE PATENT Sublime Harmonie Sole Accordeon. JOHN F. STRATTON & SON, 43 and 45 Walker St., New York. Importers of all kinds of Musical Merchandise.

TOWER'S FISH BRAND



LOOK COLT REPEATING RIFLE. JOHN P. LOVELL ARMS CO., Boston.

INFORMATION about ARKANSAS lands, low prices, mild climate, variety of crops. Maps and [illegible] free. THOS. ESSEX, Land [illegible] Little Rock, Ark.

HOME STUDY. Book-keeping, Business, Penmanship, Arithmetic, Shorthand, thoroughly taught by Mail. Bryant's College, 457 Main St., Buffalo.

OPIUM HABIT. Only Certain and easy CURE in the World. J. L. STEPHENS, Lebanon, O.

PALMER'S BUS. COLLEGE, [illegible]

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per Square, of one inch or less, for the first, and fifty cents for each subsequent insertion.

Space	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
[illegible] Inch	$ 5 00	$ 7 50	$ 11 75
[illegible] Inches	7 00	11 25	14 00
[illegible] Inches	10 00	15 00	22 50
[illegible]	13 50	20 00	27 00
[illegible]	15 00	22 50	33 00
[illegible] Column	18 00	27 00	40 00
[illegible] Column	27 00	40 00	60 00
[illegible] Column	40 00	60 00	100 00

The Chilton View.

W. M. LAWRENCE, Editor and Publisher. "WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION." TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME IX. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 19, 1889. NUMBER 8.

Special Advertising.

[illegible] Ten Cents per line [illegible]

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be classed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

☞ The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

CAHEEN

EXTENDS A CORDIAL INVITATION TO ALL STRANGERS VISITING OUR CITY.

COME TO OUR GREAT MAMMOTH DOUBLE STORES,

AND

Make yourselves at home. Use our store as you would your own home. CAHEEN will ever strive to make your visit pleasant and profitable. It will be a pleasure for us to show you through

THE GREAT DRY GOODS HOUSE OF BIRMINGHAM.

F. CAHEEN, 2018 & 2020 First Avnnue.

An Old Year Song.

As through the forest disarrayed
By chill November, late I strayed,
A lonely minstrel of the wood
Was singing to the solitude.
I loved thy music, thus I said,
When o'er thy perch the leaves were spread;
Sweet was thy song, but sweeter now
Thy carol on the leafless bough,
Sing little bird! thy note shall cheer
The sadness of the dying year.

When violets pranked the turf with blue
And morning filled their cups with dew,
Thy slender voice with rippling trill
The budding April bowers would fill,
Nor passed its joyous tones away
When April rounded into May:
Thy life shall hail no second dawn,
Sing little bird! the Spring is gone.

And I remember—well-a-day!—
When full-blown Summer roundelay,
As when behind a bordered screen
Some holy maiden sings unseen;
With answering notes the woodland ring,
And every tree-top found a tongue.
How deep the shade! the groves how fair!
Sing little bird! the woods are bare.

But now the Summer's chant is done
And mute the choral antiphon;
The birds have left the shivering pines
To flit among the trellised vines,
Or fan the air with scented plumes
Amid the love-sick orange-blooms,
And thou art here alone!—alone!—
Sing little bird! the rest have flown.

The snow has capped you distant hill,
At morn the running brook was still,
From driven herds the clouds that rise
Are like the smoke of sacrifice,
Ere long the frozen sod shall mock
The ploughshare, changed to stubborn rock.
The brawling streams shall soon be dumb,
Sing little bird! the frosts have come.

Fast, fast the lengthening shadows creep,
The songless fowls are half asleep,
The air grows chill, the setting sun
May leave thee ere thy song is done.
The pulse that warms thy breast grow cold,
Thy secret die with thee, untold;
The lingering sunset still is bright,—
Sing little bird! 'twill soon be night.

—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

HOW IT CAME ABOUT.

"Autumn leaves!" Mrs. Haythorne cried out ecstatically.

For the little table was covered with drifts of red leaves and yellow leaves, and leaves veined with blood, and Mrs. Estcourt was bending intently over a half-finished wreath which she was fastening upon Bristol board.

"Yes, autumn leaves," she answered, looking up with a smile as she shook back the thick brown tresses from her pale forehead.

"Do you think any one will buy them?"

Mrs. Haythorne shook her head dubiously.

"They are beautiful, Helen," she said, "but I suppose they may be classed with the merely ornamental articles for which there is no market."

Helen Estcourt sighed. She was a pale, lovely woman, with dewy red lips and eyes full of deep liquid lights like forest pools, and Mrs. Haythorne's kindly heart ached for her as she gazed.

"But I will take a pair for my parlor walls, Helen," she added, cheerily. "And perhaps some one else will see them, and leave an order with me."

"Oh, I hope they may," Mrs. Estcourt answered, with an eager flush on her cheek. "For I need money so much." And she sighed sadly as she bent over the radiant leaves.

A belt of autumn woods, glorious with tinted foliage and the scarlet berries of the bitter-sweet; a slope of green grass where the sunshine slept in golden brightness; and the little scarlet-hooded damsel, with a basket on her arm, like Red Riding-Hood of yore.

Crack! sounded the sharp report of a rifle, and little Lillian Estcourt dropped her basket, as a tall, bronze-faced man crashed his way through the woods and faced her, rifle in hand, and game-bag swung lightly over his shoulder.

"Hallo!" quoth Mr. Brian Beverley, quite as much surprised as the little [illegible] herself. "[illegible] is the wolf!"

"Sir!" faltered Lillian, holding on tight to her basket.

"Where's the wolf, I say?"

"There are no wolves in these woods, sir," Lilly answered, soberly.

"And you're going to see your grandmother, eh? with a little pat of butter and a loaf of white bread?"

"No, sir," said Lillian, secretly thinking the gentleman must be crazy. "I'm getting autumn leaves for mamma."

"Oh!" explained Mr. Beverley, "I thought you must be Little Red Riding-Hood."

"I am Lillian Estcourt," she stated, solemnly.

"Do you know," said the gentleman, lifting one of her sunny ringlets with his finger, "I came very near shooting you! I took you for a robin red-breast."

Lilly retreated in some apprehension, eyeing the big glittering rifle as she did so.

"I shouldn't like to be shot," she claimed.

"Probably not," assented Mr. Beverley. "Hallo! you've got the little basket full."

"Yes, quite full," said Lillian, with innocent pride. "Mamma will think they are very pretty."

"What does she do with them?" inquired Mr. Beverley. "Make fairy gold?"

"No, sir," Lillian answered, again puzzled. "She makes crosses and wreaths to sell."

"Oh, that's it, eh? Well, I can take you where there's a tree with leaves as red as if they had been painted in vermilion. Give me your hand, for it's a rough road."

Once or twice, as they walked along, Brian Beverley caught her earnest brown eyes fixed intently on his face.

"Well," said he at last, "and what do you think of me, Little Red Riding-Hood?"

"I think you are nice," returned the small physiognomist.

"You don't regard me in the light of a wolf, then?"

Lillian shook her head as she skipped along by his side.

"Oh!" she cried, suddenly, as they neared the edge of a steep ravine, at whose bottom a noisy stream gurgled over brown, mossy stones, "what a lovely red vine! I can get some of those leaves, I know."

"Stop!" cried Mr. Beverley, suddenly, as he noted the almost perpendicular rock over whose gray ledges the scarlet vine hung in wildly graceful festoons; but he was too late.

Little Lillian Estcourt had sprung forward; her foot slipped on the deceitful green moss; the vine to which she instinctively clung gave way with a cracking, wrenching sound, and the next instant she had vanished from Brian Beverley's terrified vision.

Only a little heap of clothes lay on the bank of the rivulet below, with the scarlet hood making a blot of vivid color not unlike a pool of blood. He called, but she did not stir, and with set teeth and pale cheek he hurried down the steep, winding path that led to the base of the ravine.

"Good heavens!" he murmured to himself; "if she should be dead!"

But Lillian Estcourt was not dead—only crippled for life. Mrs. Estcourt stood with clasped hands above her darling.

"If she should die!" she gasped, scarcely above her breath. "If God should take my little one from me!"

Poverty, trial, suffering, were all forgotten, and Helen Estcourt only remembered that she was a mother, and that the shadow of the Valley of Death hung darkly over her child.

It was a long and tedious recovery, but Brian Beverley kept his post at the side of the little bed, tireless in his patience, inexhaustible in his stock of fairy tales and olden legends.

"O, Mr. Beverley, I'd like you to [illegible]" said innocent Lillian. "I wish you would stay here always. Mamma, don't you?"

And Brian, who had neared the age of forty without so much as a pet dog or cat to miss him when he was gone, felt a curious sensation under the pocket where he carried his gold chronometer.

But it was scarcely in the nature of things that he could linger forever among the autumn woods of Dellvale, and when the first snow-flakes began to eddy through the air he packed his valise resolutely at the hotel, and walked down the glen to Mrs. Estcourt's humble cottage.

"Well," quoth he, striving to speak unconcernedly, "I am going home to-morrow."

"Going!" cried Lilly.

"Going!" fairly echoed Mrs. Estcourt, feeling a deadly pallor creep over her cheek.

"Yes," said Brian Beverly. "One can't linger on the shores of fairyland forever—can one, Little Red Riding Hood? But I've a proposition to make."

Mr. Beverly turned to the pale young widow.

"What is it?" cried Lilly eagerly.

"I would like to adopt your little girl, madam," said he. "I'm a lonely, crusty, middle-aged sort of a fellow, but I've an idea we should get on nicely together. She has no father; I want some one to love me. What do you say to the plan?"

Mrs. Estcourt burst into tears.

"Oh! I could not part with her," she faltered. "Remember, sir, she is all I have in the world!"

"Well, who asked you to part with her?" remonstrated Mr. Beverley. "I want you to come, too."

"Me?"

"As my wife. I know it's sudden, but I never did anything like any one else; at least so they say," added Mr. Beverley.

"Oh, mamma, do be his wife!" cried Lily, "I like him so much. And so do you; for you told Mrs. Haythorne so yesterday!"

"You do like me, then!" said Brian Beverley.

And something in his eyes brought the color to her cheek and the "Yes" to her lips.

And so the autumn shadows went out of her heart, and she weaves no more autumn leaves, only bouquets of spring rose-buds.—New York Ledger.

Aged Men in Congress.

The average age of our senators and representatives is not much above 40, perhaps between that figure and 45, while the average years of department officials, including bureau chiefs and cabinet officers, is certainly not much above 55, says the August (Ga.) Chronicle.

Of 400 men in the last Congress, only a dozen have reached the age of three score and ten, the oldest of them all being Senator Morrill, of Vermont, who will be 80 if he lives till next April. Mr. Morrill has been in the Senate twenty-two years, and before that was in the house for twelve years.

Senator Payne of Ohio, who has declared his intention of retiring from public life at the end of his present term, is but a few months younger than Senator Morrill. Both were born in the year 1810. Senators Dawes of Massachusetts and Sawyer of Wisconsin are 73.

Other old men in Congress are Representative Vandever of California, who is 73; Plumb of Illinois, who is 73, as is also Senator Reagan; Senators Evarts, Hampton and Bates, and Representative Rice of Minnesota each 71, and Senators Harris and Hearst each [illegible].

A Certain Sign.

De Jinks: "Why do you think Miss Carrington will ultimately decline my proposal?"

[illegible]: "Because she has asked my advice on the subject."—[illegible]

PEARLS OF THOUGHT.

Adversity undermines many a structure of prosperity.

They never need fear a fall who never scale the heights.

He who wisely uses his wealth need not leave it for his tombstone.

True genius lurketh under cover, while arrogance stalks abroad in the full light of day.

Prosperity awaits all men, and even pursues some, but it is never found in the haunts of vice.

The sight of a man's money is oftentimes the antidote for the odor of a very bad character.

The wisest fish long escapes the most dangerous hooks, and is finally caught with a bent-up pin.

The ambition of youth looks forward to the triumphs of age, while sated age turns back a wistful eye along the rosy path of youth.

It is well the book of life is opened to a page by page. Were all the hard lines bared at once the task would be too hard to master.

There is nothing so elastic as the human mind. Like imprisoned steam, the more it is pressed the more it rises to resist the pressure. The more we are obliged to do, the more we are able to accomplish.

He who complains that the world is hollow and heartless unconsciously confesses his own lack of sympathy, while he who believes that people as a whole are kindly and humane is certain to have the milk of human kindness in his own nature.

An Appetizing Dish.

In many of the smallest eating houses almost anywhere in Paris the cooking is excellent; it doesn't make you ill. In some of them you get meals for one-quarter of the price, of the same quality, as in the greater hotels. I went to Paris, says a correspondent of the Philadelphia Times, almost for one dish, the filet de sole Margeurit being the chef's name, at the Cafe Margeurit. The sole used in this delicious plat is soft and delicate, very white and tender. The sole is boiled first—it's the only way to cook a sole—and then a sauce is poured over it, and it is served with excellent butter—not a frequent thing in Paris, I assure you, for the butter in Europe is, as a rule, bad. This sauce is a revelation to people who haven't eaten it. It is made of shrimps and mussels. You never have tasted such delicious ecrevisse as is used at the Margeurit for that sauce; their shrimps are juicy little fat bulbs, different from ours, and are cooked with the mussels, the whole being finally poured over the sole. We can't get such fish here any more than we can such mussels or such shrimps. A bottle of Hock and small French rolls are the proper accompaniments of the filet de sole Margeurit.

Uncle Sam's Boys and Girls.

In 1880 there were 50,000,000 people in the country, and about 882,000 more males than females. That was only because more males were born; the females live the longest. Of the centenarians 1400 were men, and 2907 were women. The boys start out nearly 1,600,000 ahead, and are in the majority until the sixteenth year, when the girls are a little more numerous. Sweet sixteen is a numerous age anyhow. After that first one then another is in the majority, the girls gradually gaining after thirty-six, and leaving the men far behind at seventy-five. To balance this longevity of the females, in almost every State a few more boys are born; not many more, but always a few. It is astonishing to see where the census gives thousands and hundreds of thousands of boys and girls under one year old, there are, with one or two exceptions, always a few hundred more boys [illegible]—[illegible]

Degenerate Ascetics.

Henry Norman describing the people of Annam in the Washington Star, says: compared with the Chinese, the Annamites strike you as a nation of pigmies. Their average height must be under five feet, they are narrow-chested and thin-legged, their mouths are always stained a slobbering, filthy red with the areca nut and lime they chew unceasingly, and they are stupid beyond the power of words to tell. Whether it is the fault of their French conquerers or not I cannot say, but they appear to be a people destitute of self-respect. At any rate the French treat them as if they had none. The first time I went into dejeuner at the hotel at Haiphong one of the "boys" had left a dirty plate on the little table to which the host showed me. "What did you leave that there for!" demanded the latter pointing to the plate, and smacked a box on the ears followed that you could have heard fifty yards off. And this in the middle of a crowded dining room. You would no more think of striking a Chinese servant like that than of tweaking a policeman's nose on Broadway. Before a Frenchman an Annamite appears to have no rights. Both men and women in Tonquin wear their hair long and twisted up into a kind of chignon on the top of the head. It is, of course, always lanky and jet black. Their dress is of the most simple. The men wear a loose jacket and short trousers, and the women a long straight shift reaching from neck to heels. The Annamite man is a very poor creature, and it is only among the upper classes that one sees occasionally a well-formed or handsome face with some elevation or dignity of expression. The women are much better looking, and often would be pretty, except for the stained mouth and teeth, which render them horrible to a European eye. But in figure they are much the most favored of any I have yet seen in the east, and in the course of a walk in Hanoi you may meet a dozen who are straight enough, and strong enough, and shapely enough to serve as sculptor's models. Their native dance is a burlesque of the Japanese, to the accompaniment of a fiddle six feet long.

About Finger Nails.

A white mark on the nail bespeaks misfortune.

Pale or lead-colored nails indicate melancholy people.

Broad nails indicate a gentle, timid and bashful nature.

Lovers of knowledge and liberal sentiment have round nails.

People with narrow nails are ambitious and quarrelsome.

Small nails indicate littleness of mind, obstinacy and conceit.

Choleric, martial men, delighting in war, have red and spotted nails.

Nails growing into the flesh at the points or sides indicate luxurious tastes.

People with very pale nails are subject to much infirmity of the flesh and persecution by neighbors and friends.

A Warning.

Do you happen to be wearing a false eye? And if you do, is it made of celluloid? In that case you would do well to change it for a glass one at the first opportunity. Nobody has yet reported the explosion of a celluloid eye though, as celluloid has been dangerous in other fabrications, the optic absurdity may yet go to that length; but several surgeons have reported severe and dangerous irritations and inflammations, for which after much observation and study, the celluloid is now held responsible. Unless the evil has reached an extreme point cure follows the substitution of a glass eye.—New York Herald.

[illegible]

"[illegible] of love?" [illegible]

[illegible]

INSTINCT OF MINE RATS.

How They Foretell a Disaster by Fleeing From the Fated Spot.

As the work of mining advances in the great coal mines of Pennsylvania the collapse of the workings becomes more frequent, more extensive and more fatal. After all the coal has been removed then the coal pillars left to support the roof are mined away, and this is called "robbing the pillars," and is an extremely hazardous undertaking. It is, however, done by the employees of the coal company, and not by heedless thieves, as the phrase would suggest.

There was a great fall of roof in one of the principal mines of Archbald, in the northern portion of the Lackawanna Valley, recently. The men had been "robbing pillars," and had made considerable headway. Everything looked all right Saturday evening when they quit work, but when they returned to the mine on Monday morning they found that acres of the roof had fallen in, and a great field of rock, from three to nine feet in thickness, lay on the floor of the colliery, after having ground several stout anthracite pillars to powder. The miners congratulated themselves on the fact that the great rock, which must have weighed millions of tons, had fallen on Sunday when they were absent from the mine.

In cases of a falling roof, the experienced miner is forewarned by the cracking sounds, often as sharp as a pistol-shot, that invariably precede the down-rush of the great mass; but an infallible warning of future danger is said to be the desertion of the mine by the huge rats that make the slopes their home.

The belief in this particular notion is quite general throughout the coal-fields, and, repulsive as the great, fierce mine rat is to the miner, he likes to see it at ease in the dismal depths where death is of such frequent occurrence. There is good reason for associating the disappearance of the rat from a colliery with an impending disaster. The rat is a sensitive thing; it makes its resting place in the nooks and crannies of the mine, and it feels the first slow movement of the crumbling rocks as they begin to squeeze and settle and shape themselves for the disaster which culminates in the fall of the roof. The wary rat is the first to feel the commotion. He is dazed by the grinding motion of the rocks, he undoubtedly thinks they have suddenly become imbued with life, and he flees with his fellows, panic-stricken from the place.

The first great fall of roof that ever occurred was at Carbondale about thirty-five or forty years ago. The entire side of the mountain fell in and several lives were lost. Several days before the disaster the people of the neighborhood were astonished to see swarms of rats leaving the mine. This fact was recalled after the great disaster occurred, and the rats were credited with extraordinary foresight.

The rats become very bold in the mines. They will frequently take a piece of bread or meat from a miner's hand, and follow him about for food. A miner that is not easily frightened says that he has been scared by mine rats. On one occasion he had a considerable distance to go, and he had to pass through a portion of an old working. There he encountered about a dozen rats. They were large and fierce, and were not a bit startled by his presence. On the contrary, they soon showed that they rather liked his company. His oil was burning low in his lamp, and smelled very strong, and it was evident that it had a great attraction to the hungry rats. They followed close at his heels, and whenever he hastened his speed they did the same. His only hope was in keeping the tiny flame in his lamp glowing, and he felt that if it was extinguished by any mishap they would attack him at once. It was with unspeakable relief that he reached his destination before the last faint flicker of his lamp died out.

THE BABY'S WANT TO BE IN THE FASHION.

Charlie—I see, Mamie, that diamonds are no longer fashionable for engagement rings. Pearls are all the rage now. Of course, you want to be in the fashion?

Mamie—No. I never did care much for the edicts of fashion. You may get me a diamond engagement ring, Charlie. If they are no longer fashionable they must be cheaper.

Charlie hasn't the courage to explain that a pearl engagement ring cost 75 per cent. less than a diamond.—[illegible]

The Naval Board which has been considering the League Island Navy Yard of Philadelphia [illegible]

THE FASHIONS IN HAIR.

Gray Hair the Choicest, and Chestnut Next in Popularity.

"As every woman knows," said an authority, "fashions are constantly changing, and what was stylish and altogether lovely a few months ago is now discarded for newer fancies, which in turn will be equally undesirable and old-fashioned in a few months to come.

"This is true not only of man's creations, but of nature's gifts also, the figure, the complexion, and hair being improved (?) by turn. For instance, during the ensuing season slight women can congratulate themselves that it is decreed that they, rather than their sisters of more generous proportions, shall be the fashion. Again, the pale complexion is no longer to be coveted and cultivated, the rosy, healthy one having superseded it entirely in popular favor, and golden hair is altogether at a discount, a rich shade of chestnut having been promoted to the place once occupied by it. Were it possible, by the agency of some subtle alchemy, to change the color of the eyes, doubtless blue, black, brown, and hazel would alternately have the ascendancy in public estimation.

"Just at present, however, nature is being allowed to have almost complete sway in regard to the color of the hair, and it is no longer fashionable to use dyes for the concealment of gray hair. In fact, a young woman with silver tresses may consider herself a most favored being, for gray hair is all the rage, and, as it cannot possibly be counterfeited, except by the wearing of a wig, a natural head of such hair is invaluable to the possessor."

These facts were substantiated by an interview with the proprietress of a Fifth avenue establishment where a specialty is made of gray hair.

"I have been trying for years," said she, "to induce ladies who were beginning to get gray to yield gracefully and wear their own hair, and I consider that I have done much toward bringing about this desirable result. Many customers who formerly paid me hundreds of dollars for wigs and 'waves' to cover up the gray hair have now discarded them, and where additional hair is required are having it made to match the natural color. The results obtained are so satisfactory that every one is delighted, for the face is invariably softened and made to look younger by gray hair.

"We hair dealers are well pleased with this boom in gray hair, which helps business along amazingly. Last Monday one order alone was for $400 worth of gray hair, and that only included a large switch and a 'wave,' but the hair furnished was of the finest quality. Many wigs cost much more than that, the price depending altogether on the shade and quality of the hair used, white being exceedingly valuable. Gray hair is especially becoming to florid complexions, and least so to those of a waxy sallow hue, but in every case nature seems to provide the shade of gray best suited to harmonize with the complexion. Many gray switches, waves, and bangs are made from goats' hair, which is so beautifully prepared and dressed that the majority of people cannot tell the difference between it and human hair, but that there is a vast difference is indicated by the relative value of each."—[New York Sun.

A Curious Life History.

There is a hard sandstone in Provence, interspersed with friable strata, in which burrowing insects construct their chambers. A kind of bee, the Anthophorus, makes nests there and fills them with honey, on which it leaves its egg to float; then, finally, plasters up its chamber. Instead of Anthophores, entirely different insects come out from these nests—Sitaris, belonging to a group very remote from the bees. Let us see how they manage to substitute themselves for the legitimate proprietors of the nest. In the autumn the female of the Sitaris deposits her eggs in front of the sealed galleries of the Anthophorus. The young are hatched from these

As many as 777,748,[illegible] gallons of malt liquor were consumed in the United States last year. Nearly all of it was produced in the Republic, only [illegible] gallons being imported. The per capita now reaches 11.[illegible] gallons—nearly eight times what it was in 18[illegible]. Of distilled spirits 71,[illegible] gallons were used in 18[illegible]—a less quantity than was used in [illegible], when the population was only half as large.

[illegible]

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., DEC. 19, 1889.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year	$1.50
One copy six months	75
One copy four "	50

Three of Dr. Cronin's murderers were sentenced to imprisonment for life in Chicago Monday.

The Birmingham Evening papers are both models of excellence and often furnish important news twelve hours ahead of the morning press. Three issues of the Chronicle sometimes reach us in one mail. That is bad and we want to know where the fault is.

A Montgomery saloonist advertises under the head in large type: "I. Brickman kills a man." If the whiskey traffic would only stop with the killing of a man now and then it would not be so bad, but the whiskey seller can just as truly say to the world that he kills men, women and children, and there will be no one to doubt him.

A writer in a scientific magazine says the earth is being bored too much and is liable to lose its place among the heavenly bodies in consequence. The busy editor can sympathise with the earth. He is also likely to lose his place among the heavenly bodies from being bored too much—judging from the language he uses when the bore leaves.

The Bibb Blade defends its use of the word "shined" on the score of poetic license. The Blade appears to be going from bad to worse. Does our much esteemed contemporary really think there is any poetry in its sentence: "The sun shined out in the winter sky?" If so we think its poet had better leave the "liberal construction of grammatical law" to the Chaucers and the Poes and adhere to the rules of grammar, or his poetry will often be mistaken for boot-black prose.

Commenting on President Harrison's late message to Congress the Pekin (Ill.) Times says: "Free whiskey and tobacco are to b given the people in lieu of free blankets, free lumber, free coal, free carpets, free tools, free glass and free household furnishings. This is in redemption of the pledge by the mill owners' convention of 1888 which nominated Harrison and whose shameful illustration of his immoral policy is even yet ignored by many Republicans, who may read as they run, but who will not believe."

The Chicago Inter-Ocean paid this tribute to two Southern women who recently visited that city as delegates to the W. C. T. U. Convention. "The Southern delegates were represented by Miss Frances E. Griffin, of Alabama, and Mrs. Sallie Chapin, of South Carolina. Both were graceful and convincing in their way of putting temperance facts that related to work in the South. The pleasant Southern manner and the musical Southern voice made a very agreeable impression upon the audience, and they were given three rousing cheers as they made their bow. Both were fine representatives of the new South.

We hear the objection made that prohibition of the sale and use of intoxicating liquors will tend to make men hypocrites. This means we suppose, that men will resort to mean subterfuges and hypocritical pretences to obtain their drinks. Now they need dissemble only by affecting a very steady walk, and carefully disguising their breath by the use of "cloves," and other devices. If prohibition come they would have a resort to additional hypocrisies. Very well. Are not anti-gambling laws fruitful in just such devices? Do not men ask for the coming of darkness before they venture into the "hells?" Do they not dodge around corners and watch to see who is following them? Must not the blinds be down and the shutters closed when they are "fighting the tiger"—truly a fierce and cruel tiger. What then? Shall we repeal the laws against gambling? Shall we order the police never to arrest a keeper of a gambling house? Shall we give the art of the croupier absolute freedom and banish all the statutes which restrain this wicked "industry?" Nay, had we not better put the liquor seller and the gambling table in the same shadow where men will have to hunt for them, and dodge meanly about to find them.—Presbyterian.

ALLIANCE AND KNIGHTS OF LABOR.

The New Party Platform Announced at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 6.—Agreement made this day between the undersigned committee representing the National Farmers' Alliance and Industrial Union on the one part, and the undersigned committee representing the Knight's of Labor on the other part, witnesseth:

I

That we demand the abolition of national banks and the substitution of legal tender treasury notes notes in lieu of national bank notes; issued in sufficient volume to do the business of the country on a cash system; regulating the amount needed on a per capita basis as the business interests of the country demands, and that all money issued by the government shall be legal tender in payment of all debts, both public and private.

II

That we demand that Congress shall pass such laws as shall effectually prevent the dealing in futures of all agricultural and mechanical productions, pursuing a stringent system of proceedure in trials as shall secure the prompt conviction and imposing of such penalties as shall secure the most perfect compliance with law.

III

That we demand the free and unlimited coinage of silver.

IV.

That we demand the passage of laws prohibiting the alien ownership of lands, and that Congress take early action to devise some plan to obtain by purchase all lands now owned by aliens and foreign syndicates, and that all lands now held by railroad and other corporations in excess of such as is actually used by them be purchased by the Government and held for actual settlers only.

V

Believing in the doctorine of equal rights to all and special favors to none, we demand that taxation National or State, shall not be used to build up one interest or class at the expense of another. We believe that the money of the country should be kept as much as possible in the hands of the people, and hence we demand that all revenues, National, State, or County, shall be limited to the necessary expenses of the Government, economically and honestly administered.

VI.

That Congress issue a sufficient amount of fractional paper currency to facilitate exchange thro' the medium of the United States mail.

VII.

That the means of communication shall be controlled by and operated in the interest of the people, through the United States postal system.

For the best protection of the interests of the two organizations it is hereby agreed that such seals or emblems as the National Farmers' Alliance and Industrial Union may adopt will be recognized and protected in transit or otherwise by the Knights of Labor, and that all seals and labels of the Knights of Labor will in like manner be recognized by the Farmers' Alliance and Industrial Union.

Praise of the Flag.

Mr. Davis' loyalty to the Union was questioned at one time. He answered in a speech in the senate in February, 1850. In that speech is a burst of eloquence that in pathos, strength and beauty is not surpassed by anything in our whole political literature. He said:

"Lightly and loosely, representatives of the Southern people have been denounced as disunionists by that portion of the Northern press which most disturbs the harmony and endangers the perpetuity of the Union. Such even has been my own case, though the man does not breathe at whose door the charge of disunion might not as well be laid as at mine. The son of a Revolutionary soldier, attachment to this Union was among the first lessons of my childhood; bred to the service of my country, from boyhood to mature age I wore its uniform. Through the brightest portion of my life I was accustomed to see our flag, historic emblem of the Union, rise with the rising and fall with the setting sun. I look upon it now with the affection of my early love, and seek to preserve it by a strict adherence to the Constitution, from which it had its birth and by the nurture of which its stars have come so much to out number its original stripes. Shall that flag, which has gathered fresh glory in every war and become more radiant still by the conquest of peace—shall that flag now be torn by domestic faction and trodden in the dust by sectional rivalry? Shall we of the South, who have shared equally with you all your toils, all your dangers, all your adversities, and who equally rejoice in your prosperity and your fame—shall we be denied those benefits guaranteed by our compact or gathered as the common fruits of a common country? If so, self-respect requires that we should assert them, and, as best we may, maintain that which we would not surrender without losing your respect as well as our own.

EDUCATION.

A Composition by Belle Watts 2nd Grade Student of Clanton Academy.

Education is the light of the world, and the foundation of prosperity. With what an early care and wonderful apparatus does Providence begin the work of human education! It is the first and only successful method that has ever been obtained to enlighten the world. This grand work has been in operation a vast number of years, and yet there are many dark places in the world to-day awaiting its introduction. Those that are well acquainted with the nature of education are making life a success. The grand constitution under which we live and labor is supported by education obtained by hard and arduous study. It is the unfolding of the whole human nature. The progress of the world depends on education. It is the forming of virtue, society and all the principal industrial pursuits of life. The learned can always behold the glittering rays of enlightenment while the uneducated remain in total darkness. It is important that this true idea should be impressed on our minds, that we may be benefitted by it. Now is the time for us to realize the fact that education is the grand motor that gives energy to all the magnificent structures that loom up before us in the land. So important a question on which the practical issues of life are staked is well worth consideration. Education demands the first place in the affairs of life. We should commence while young. Virtue, honesty, and the love of truth should be factors that we may be able to escape the wiles of false education, which lures to the ruin of both body and mind. With the teaching there must be the earnest desire and purpose in our own souls to grow, to become deeper, higher, nobler, day by day. When our school days are over and we venture out into the world to obtain an honorable position in life, it is natural to suppose, that we want to be crowned with success, if so, all the faculties given us must be duly cultivated, for each one is a link in the chain which if not united, would leave an incomplete chain. To think of the educated obtaining high position in life, and reaping the benefit of the seed sown in their school days should be enough to convince us of the fact, that every moment of time should be spent in cultivating the mind to the best advantage. It should be our earnest desire to be abundantly rewarded in the future for when our school days are over, they are gone never, never to be recalled, and it will afford us a pleasant retrospection to look back on our school days if we have been successful in obtaining an education. No doubt many of us would be more persevering and energetic in securing an education if we thought we could exchange it for something more valuable, but after we have obtained it, we then can realize the fact that there is nothing that can excel it in value. It is the most valuable property that can be purchased. We can be robbed of money, stock, land and all personal property, but, if we have an education no one can take it from us. We have the advantage of the uneducated in society and in the business of life in general. We have our choice in obtaining positions in life. So many of us are careless and indifferent as to our welfare in the future. We don't seem to think until it is too late, and then we will look back, and regret that we cannot recall the unimproved time spent in school. May we realize the fact that we are not sowing for others to reap, but what we sow that we shall reap, great or small as the reward may be. It is not the vast number of books we go over in school, but what we gain in the operation: Life is a school. The periods of life are its terms; all human conditions are but its forms, all human employments its lessons.

How to Get Along in the World.

Pay as you go, or don't go.

Never "fool" in business matters.

Learn to think and act for yourself.

Do not kick every one in your path.

Keep ahead, rather than behind the times.

Don't stop to tell stories in business hours, but proceed with your work, or business.

Use your own brains in your business rather than those of other people.

Have order, promptness, regularity and system in everything.

Do not meddle with a business that you know nothing about.

A man of honor always respects his word as he honors his bond.

Learn to say no. No necessity of snapping it off short, but say it in a determined and respectful manner.

No remedy for blood disorders can equal Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Though concentrated and powerful, this medicine is perfectly safe, and may be taken by children as well as adults. Physicians recommend it in preference to any other. Price $1. Worth $5 a bottle.

If you suffer pricking pains on moving the eyes, or cannot bear bright light, and find your sight weak and failing, you should promptly use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Eye Salve. 25 cents a box.

Far better than the harsh treatment of medicines which horribly gripe the patient and destroy the coating of the stomach. Dr. J. H. McLean's Chill and Fever, by mild yet effective action will cure. Sold at 50 cents a bottle.

The following is an extract from a real composition, written by a small school boy in New Jersey. The subject given by the teacher was the extensive one of "Man." Here is what the small boy wrote: "Man is a wonderful animal. He has eyes, ears, mouth. His ears are mostly for catching cold in and having the earache. The nose is to get sniffles with. A man's body is split half way up, and he walks on the split ends."—Lippincott's Magazine.

If you suffer from any affection caused by impure blood, such as scrofula, salt rheum, sores, boils, pimples, tetter, ring worm, take Dr. J. H. McLean's Sarsaparilla.

The quality of the blood depends much upon good or bad digestion and assimilation. To make the blood rich in life and strength-giving constituents use Dr. J. H. McLean's Sarsaparilla. It will nourish the properties of the blood, from which the elements of vitality are drawn.

There are but three classes of men in every community, the retrograde, the stationary, and the progressive. The first two have little or no regard for the newspaper and its influence and read it simply to see "what is going on," but who could fold their arms and see it die with the utmost complacency, leaving the progressive class the only real sufferers. The retrograde and stationary classes of every community are generally the critics of the newspapers, and, as Steele says: "Of all mortals a critic is the silliest; for by inuring himself to examine everything, whether of consequence or not, he never looks upon anything but with a design of passing sentence upon it."—Press and Printer.

Sick headache, wind on the stomach billiousness, nausea, are promptly and agreeably banished by Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pillets, 25 cts a vial.

When nature falters and requires help recruit her enfeebled energies with Dr. J. H. McLean's strengthening cordial and blood purifier. $1.00 per bot.

The Confederate Veterans Association of Chilton County will meet in Clanton, on Jan. 18th at one o'clock p. m.

Physicians prescribe Dr. J. H. McLean's Tar Wine Lung Balm; in it they find no trace of opium or morphia, while its efficacy in curing all throat and lung diseases is wonderful.

There are many accidents and diseases which affect stock and cause serious inconvenience and loss to the farmer in his work, which may be quickly remedied by the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment.

Go to Blank Brothers, Leading Clothiers, 2112, 2nd Avenue, Birmingham, Ala., to buy anything you need in the way of clothing and gent's furnishing goods.

"It goes right to the spot," said an old man, who was rubbing in Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment to relieve rheumatism. oct31

Assessor's Notice.

FIRST ROUND.

I will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of assessing the State and county taxes of Chilton county, for the year 1890:

Mineral Springs,	January	30
Jemison,	"	23 & 24
Providence	"	27
Macedonia	"	22
Benson	"	21
Maplesville	"	18
R. Latham's	"	17
Dixie	"	19
Kincheon	"	7
Verbena	"	2
Cooper's	"	1
Clanton,	February	8
Mountain Creek	January	3
Well's Saw Mill	"	4
Callaway's Grist Mill	"	6
Chandler's Saw Mill	February	7
Pilgrim's Rest	January	8
Clanton Ford	"	9
Stanton	"	11
Chilton Lumber Co.'s Mill	"	14
Welch & Bro.'s Saw Mill	"	15
Valley Creek Church	"	16
Concord Church	"	25
Elijah Busby's	"	28
Archie's Chapel	"	29
Strasburg	"	31
Cane Creek Church	February	4
John Gore's	"	5
E. T. Gallahorn's Saw Mill	"	6

E. G. ROLLINS,
Tax Assessor Chilton Co.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

Land Office, Montgomery, Ala.,
Dec. 17, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 25th, 1890, viz: John E. Littleton, homestead 14685 for the e ½ of s e ¼ and e ½ of n e ¼ sec 10, township 23 n, range 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: John W. Williamson, Frank Marcus, LaFayette Marcus, and Jefferson Stephens, all of Jumbo, Ala.

dec19 J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

CONSUMPTION,

IF in its first stages, can be successfully checked by the prompt use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Even in the later periods of that disease, the cough is wonderfully relieved by this medicine.

"I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral with the best effect in my practice. This wonderful preparation once saved my life. I had a constant cough, night sweats, was greatly reduced in flesh, and given up by my physician. One bottle and a half of the Pectoral cured me."—A. J. Eidson, M. D., Middleton, Tennessee.

"Several years ago I was severely ill. The doctors said I was in consumption, and that they could do nothing for me, but advised me, as a last resort, to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After taking this medicine two or three months I was cured, and my health remains good to the present day."—James Birchard, Darien, Conn.

"Several years ago, on a passage home from California, by water, I contracted so severe a cold that for some days I was confined to my state-room, and a physician on board considered my life in danger. Happening to have a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, I used it freely, and my lungs were soon restored to a healthy condition. Since then I have invariably recommended this preparation."—J. B. Chandler, Junction, Va.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

fmal6

CLANTON HIGH SCHOOL.

This School will open Monday, Sept. the 2nd, 1889. Advantages the best in the county. Rates low, board and tuition $10 per month. Patronage is earnestly desired. For further information address me at Clanton, Ala.

Respectfully,
A. J. SCOTT, Principal.

W. W. C.

(Wooldridge's Wonderful Cure)

Is the greatest Blood Purifier ever yet discovered. It never fails to cure when taken according to directions. Read what it has done for Mr. A. Kimbrough:

COLUMBUS, GA., July 15, 1889.

Wooldridge Wonderful Cure Co., Columbus, Ga.

GENTS:—After suffering for twenty years with my kidneys, and finding only temporary relief, after taking various remedies, and consulting some of the most noted physicians in the country, at a cost of hundreds of dollars, for no good, I decided to try W. W. C., and I must confess that I am to-day as well as I ever was, and that I suffer no pain whatever from my kidneys, and am feeling better in every respect than I have for years, and I attribute it all to two bottles of W. W. C.; and I would advise all who suffer in the least with kidney or bladder troubles to give W. W. C. a trial. Yours truly,

A. KIMBROUGH.

WOOLDRIDGE'S WONDERFUL CURE is a sure Remedy for Syphilis, Syphilitic Rheumatism, Chronic Rheumatism, Skin Diseases, Bone Diseases, Old Sores, Bilious Troubles, Liver Diseases, Jaundice, Bilious Headache, Dyspepsia, and all Diseases caused from Impure and Poisoned Blood or Hereditary Diseases.

For sale by all Druggists.

Manufactured by
Wooldridge Wonderful Cure Co.,
COLUMBUS, GA.
sep19 y

Barber Shop.

Mr. H. A. Logan, who has his barber shop upstairs in the Allen Building, solicits the patronage of the good people of Clanton. He does good work and is well fixed up for the business.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
November 21, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 6th, 1890, viz: Andrew J. Wyatt, homestead 1403 for the s ½ of s w ¼ sec 28 t 21 n range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Madison Popwell, John Popwell, John R. Kemp and Gill Elland, all of Kincheon, Ala.

nov21* J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 20, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 11, 1889, viz: Charlie Jackson, homestead 15251 for the n e ¼ of sec. 20 township 21 n, range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Daniel Martin, Emmet Culp, Andy Foshee and James Headley, all of Clanton, Ala.

nov21* J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 20, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 10, 1890, viz: James W. Conell, homestead 14074 for the s ½ of n e q, n w q of s e q, n e q of s w q, sec 24, township 22 n, range 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: A. J. Peters, R. E. Jones, J. M. Parish, William Mims, all of Clanton, Ala.

nov21* J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

Mortgage Sale.

Under and by virtue of a mortgage executed to the undersigned by Abe Lewis and recorded in mortgage book, No. 23, page 29, in the office of the Judge of Probate of Chilton county, I will proceed to sell, on the 28th day of December, 1889, at the courthouse door of said county, within the hours of legal sale, the following described real estate to-wit: The northwest quarter (n w ¼) of the northeast quarter (n e ¼) of section thirty-three (33) in township twenty (20) of range eleven (11) containing fifty acres more or less.

dec5* FRANK HARRIS, Mortgagee.

Bring your job printing to this office.

The Lawson Carpet Co.

Birmingham, Ala.

Take pleasure in directing the attention of the people of Chilton county to their large and attractive stock of

Carpets, Oil-cloths, Window Shades,

Curtains & Household Novelties.

The Stock represented is the finest in Alabama, and prices are guaranteed as low as similar goods are offered in any of the eastern markets.

☞ All communications answered by return mail. Respectfully,

ma30-y THE LAWSON CARPET CO. (WM. LAWSON.)

BAINS & PORTER.

(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & PEEBLES.)

WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.

Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.

FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY

1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS

Birmingham, Ala.

☞ Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜

P. O. BOX 570. June 19 y

LOOK ❋ HERE!

New Stock! Low Prices!

—AT—

W. M. WILSON & BRO.'S

CLANTON, ALA.

We have opened a Large Stock of Dry Goods, Groceries and General Merchandise at our old Stand, and we have come to stay. We invite an inspection of our goods and prices.

☞ SHOES AND HATS A SPECIALTY. ☜

THOMAS FOSHEE,

(SUCCESSOR TO N. W. FOSHEE.)

Dry Goods, Groceries,

—AND—

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

Maplesville, Alabama.

I solicit a continuance of the liberal patronage heretofore extended our house. Respectfully,

feb 28-y THOMAS FOSHEE.

WALL PAPER,

WINDOW SHADES,

MOULDINGS,

—AND—

PRACTICAL PAPER HANGER

H. M. MANCHA,

204 DEXTER AVENUE, MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA.

☞ Papers furnished at any price from 10 cents up. Will send samples on application. apr 11-y

BIRMINGHAM MARBLE WORKS.

THOS. H. HOLT,

PRACTICAL WORKMAN.

—AND DEALER IN—

American and Italian Marble.

—Manufacturer of all kinds of—

CEMETERY MARBLE AND STONE WORK

Cor. Second Avenue and Twenty-Fourth Street,

Birmingham, - - Alabama.

nov29-tf

B. WOLFF'S

FURNITURE EMPORIUM,

20 and 22 Commerce and Corner Court and Coosa Streets,

—MONTGOMERY, ALA.—

CARRIES

The Largest and Cheapest Stock of Furniture

IN THE STATE.

sep11-6 ☞ When you come to the city, give us a call. ☜

Carpet Co.
n, Ala.
g the attention of nty to their large steck of indow Shades,
old Novelties.
nna, and prices are guaranteed as astern markets.
mail. Respectfully,
ARPET CO. (WM. LAWSON.)

ORTER.
& PEEBLES,) UGGISTS.
Receive Prompt At-
RS A SPECIALTY
9th and 20th STREETS
n, Ala.
at Company's Prices.
June 19 y

ERE!
ow Prices!
& BRO.'S
ALA.
ds, Groceries and General Merome to stay. We invite an and prices.
SPECIALTY.

OSHEE,
. FOSHEE,) roceries,
CHANDISE.
Alabama.
eral patronage heretofore
fully,
THOMAS FOSHEE.

APER,
WINDOW SHADES,
MOULDINGS,
—AND—
PRACTICAL PAPER HANGER
NCHA,
GOMERY, ALABAMA.
rom 10 cents up. Will send
apr 11-y

RBLE WORKS.
HOLT,
WORKMAN.
IN—alian Marble.
kinds of —
ND STONE WORK.
wenty-Fourth Street,
Alabama.

LFF'S
EMPORIUM,
Court and Comm Streets,
Y, ALA.——
IES
t Stock of Furniture
STATE.
y give me a call.

CHILTON VIEW.
CLANTON, ALA., DEC. 19, 1889.

The View is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the [illegible], the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

A cross mark (X) after your name means that your subscription is due and that we would be glad to have you renew.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the second Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—On the eleventh Monday after the fourth Monday in February, and on the thirteenth Monday after the fourth Monday in August, and may continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD. Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.
No. 1 Express at	*1:15 a. m.
No. 3 Mail	5:48 p. m.
No. 11 (Passenger)	6:20 p. m.
No. 9 Accommodation	6:45 a. m.
GOING NORTH.
No. 2 Fast (Don't Stop)	2:20 a. m.
No. 6 Mail	9:11 a. m.
No. 4 Express	7:55 p. m.
No. 10 Accommodation	6:20 p. m.

*Don't Stop.

LOCAL LACONICS.

Mr. Wallace Glover, of Pratt Saw Mill, was in town Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Frye visited relatives here the past week.

A handsome new cottage organ for sale at half price at this office.

Frank Nelson, Jr., of Columbiana, was in Clanton Monday on business.

Several families from the Jumbo neighborhood left for Texas last week.

Mrs. L. Holt leaves to-morrow for Mississippi, where she will visit relatives.

Mr. J. W. Martin, of Union Springs, has been visiting his wife in Clanton.

Mr. E. H. Lowe, of Cooper's, brought us a pumpkin three feet in length, Wednesday.

Thomas J. Henderson has been appointed postmaster at Mountain Creek, Ala.

The Methodist Sunday School is to have a Christmas tree for the children Xmas.

The young people are to have a dance one night during Christmas week at Enrman's hall.

Little Annie Lee Ashley has received as a Christmas present a Maltese cat from New York.

Mr. Gus Midleton, of Letohatchee, Lowndes Co., has been visiting his father at this place.

Three negro boys charged with throwing rocks at a train of the S. & N. road were jailed here Tuesday.

Rev. R. M. Honeycut, president of the county Alliance came down to hear the address of Mr. Brassell on Tuesday.

Following our usual custom there will be no paper issued from this office next week except file copies for legal advertising requirements.

Mrs. Ponder and Mr. Evans Pinkard went to Tuskegee Monday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Pinkard who died at her home in Tuskegee last Monday morning.

A young white man named Dock Wilkins was jailed here on Monday on two charges found by the last grand jury one of which is supposed to be for running a blind tiger, the other for selling mortgaged property.

If you want jewelry, diamonds, silverware, hair ornaments, bric-a-brac or anything of the kind, the place to get them at low prices is at C. L. Ruth's, 15 Dexter Avenue, Montgomery. He has a beautiful and varied stock to select from.

Notice to the Public.

From November 1st to January 1st, no goods will be sold on credit at my store, and I hope no one will have their feelings hurt by failing to get credit. I intend to meet any competition in this market, and in order to do so I must sell for the money down.

All parties who have not yet paid their accounts for this year are earnestly requested to call and settle at once.

Respectfully,
W. L. SAMPEY.

An elegant line of job printing stationery just received at this office. Prices to suit.

Rev. A. J. Briggs, our new Methodist pastor, will reside in Clanton. This will be good news and he and his household will be warmly welcomed.

Mrs. W. H. Foshee and children have returned from an extended visit to relatives in Arkansas. We are glad to note that Mrs. Foshee's health was much improved by the trip.

We present our readers with a composition written by a pupil of Clanton Academy, Miss Belle Watts. It is published by request. Its literary and moral excellence will attract attention, coming from one so young.

Mr. A. B. Brassell and Mr. Keneth, clerk in commissioner Kolb's office, delivered addresses to the Alliancemen at the court house on Tuesday morning. Their talks were on Alliance matters and they had a good audience.

Mr. C. W. Mitchell donated a large white head cabbage weighing 8 pounds and two mammoth turnips which he had raised on his farm, to our larder on Saturday. With such friends we will manage to pull through the few remaining days of 1889.

The store of Mr. J. T. Mullins at Verbena was broken into on Thursday night and his safe was blown open with giant powder and $1100 in cash stolen. Some goods were stolen and some valuable papers were also taken along with the cash from the safe. The loss falls particularly hard on Mr. Mullins, and his many friends will regret to learn of it. No clue to the thieves yet.

Three revenue officers captured an illicit distillery in Coosa county near Adam's Ferry last Friday. The still was on the Noah Foshee place and was being run by two of Foshee's sons, both of whom were arrested and carried to Montgomery to answer the charges against them in the U. S. Court. The distillery outfit was brought to Clanton instead of being destroyed as is generally done in such cases we believe.

Mr. W. E. Woolfolk, who passed through last week en route to Maplesville in interest of the right of way for the M. T. & M. road, returned through Prattville Saturday, and stated that he had met with great success on this trip and that the right of way was complete to Maplesville with but few exceptions, which would be settled amicably in the proper time.—Prattville Progress.

Plan of Clanton Circuit.

Rev. A. J. Briggs, pastor, will preach at the following churches at the times named:

1st SUNDAY IN JANUARY, 1890—Clanton 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. Pierce's Chapel 3:30 p. m.

2ND SUNDAY—Jemison 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. Mount Moriah 3:30 p. m.

3D SUNDAY—Clanton 11 a. m. and 7 p. m.

SATURDAY BEFORE THE 3D SUNDAY—Lime Spring 11 a. m.

4TH SUNDAY—Isabella 11 a. m. White's School House 3:30 p. m.

Cooper's Station Items.

The Sabbath school at Chestnut Creek has decided to have their Xmas tree on Christmas eve night instead of Christmas night.

We are glad to know that Rev. A. E. Burns will be our pastor at Chestnut Creek Church for the ensuing year. Bro. Burns is a warm and energetic minister, and will find welcome at every door among us.

The farmers are still marketing cotton at Cooper's. Hence the farmers are out of debt, and have been holding their cotton.

I AM.

Verbena Verbiage.

Last Wednesday night burglars broke open the store of Mr. Mullins, blew the safe open and carried off $1350. No clue to the robbery.

The charming Misses McGee, of Montgomery are visiting Miss Hulit Thompson, of this village.

Miss Griffin's lecture on temperance was perfectly grand. Quite a large crowd was present. Miss Griffin has struck her talent and may God speed her in the great and good work she has undertaken.

Business is getting lively. Nearly Christmas.

Nearly all colds are slight, at first, but their tendency is to so lower the system, that the sufferer becomes a ready victim to any prevalent disease. The use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, in the beginning of a cold, would guard against this danger.

HERMAN HERZFELD,
—DEALER IN—
All Kinds of Furniture at all Prices.
Parlor and Bed-Room Suits, Carpets, Oil Cloths, Mattings, Blankets, Comforts and Lace Goods.
Everything necessary in the House-Furnishing Goods Line.
NINETEENTH STREET, BETWEEN FIRST AND SECOND AVENUES
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

JOEL WHITE
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL
Bookseller ❋ and ❋ Stationer.
Montgomery, Alabama.

My line is so large and varied that it is nearly impossible to name all the items in my stock, but if you are needing any Book or article of Stationery, any Fancy Goods or Printing, a Memorandum Book or a Ledger, a Gold Pen or a Letter File, a Lead Pencil or an Inkstand, a Catechism, Bible, Hymn Book, Birthday Card, Portfolio, Writing Desk, Work Box; in fact anything in my line or its kindred branches, drop me a line for quotations. If you are a dealer in any of these goods, I can make a correspondence profitable to you. [dec12

—Office of—
FARMERS'
Alliance Exchange
UNION WAREHOUSE.

MONTGOMERY, ALA., Sept. 16, 1889.

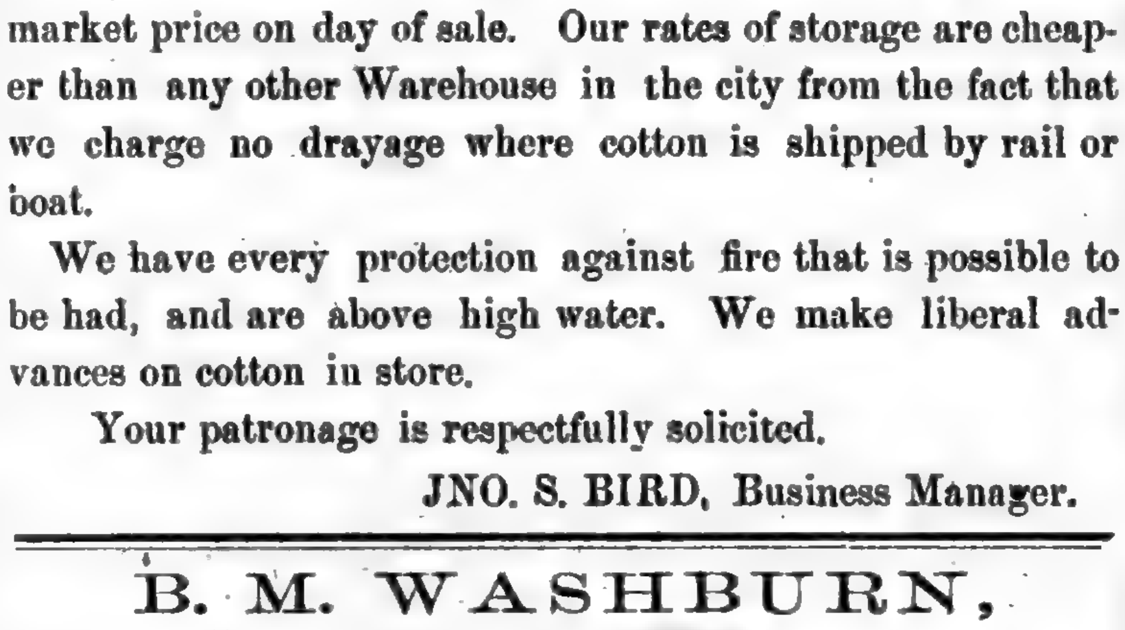
DEAR SIR:—We invite your attention to our large and commodious Warehouses near the Union Passenger Depot in rear of the Windsor Hotel in this city. We are prepared to store or sell cotton to the best advantage and to fully protect the planters' interest by always obtaining the highest market price on day of sale. Our rates of storage are cheaper than any other Warehouse in the city from the fact that we charge no drayage where cotton is shipped by rail or boat.

We have every protection against fire that is possible to be had, and are above high water. We make liberal advances on cotton in store.

Your patronage is respectfully solicited.

JNO. S. BIRD, Business Manager.

B. M. WASHBURN,



Sole agent in Montgomery for the celebrated COLUMBUS BUGGY CO., "TENNESSEE" and "OLD HICKORY" WAGONS. A full stock of Harness, Saddles, Whips, Baby Carriages, &c.
B. M. WASHBURN,
—MONTGOMERY, ALA.—

Exposure to rough weather, getting wet, living in damp localities, are favorable to the contraction of diseases of the kidneys and bladder. As a preventive, and for the cure of all kidney and liver trouble, use that valuable remedy, Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm. $1.00 per bottle.

BUSINESS LOCAL NOTICES.

Mrs. M. A. Butler announces to her friends in this section that she is now located at 422 21st St. and Ave. E, Birmingham, where she has opened a stock of general merchandise. An invitation is extended to all needing anything in her line to call at the above location when visiting the city. 1m

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 4, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit at Clanton, Ala., on January 11, 1890, viz: Jesse Benson, Jr., homestead 14781 for the s ½ of s e q and s e q of s w q sec 6, township 22 n, r 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Richard Porter, Crick Brewer, Rinard Vanderslice, Joseph Littleton, all of Jumbo, Ala.

dec5* J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. Land Office, Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 18, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 4th, 1890, viz: Peter W. Noah, homestead 15042 for the n ½ of n w ¼ sec 18 township 22 n r 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: William Headley, Jr., James N. Knox, John Knox, William Davis, all of Clanton, Ala.

nov21* J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., November 19, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 6th, 1890, viz: William S. Cox, homestead 15271 for the w ½ of s w ¼ of sec 26, towship 23 n, range 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, William T. Franklin, John Gore, William T. Mahan, John McKee, all of Clanton, Ala.

nov21o J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE, Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 19, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence, the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Jan. 6th, 1889, viz: Hurly Ann Ray, homestead 15806 for the s e ¼ of sec 22 township 21 n, range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: John R. Kemp, Stephen Baker, Cyrus Culp, and R. M. Burnett, all of Clanton, Ala.

nov21* J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE, Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 2, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 18, 1890, viz: Alfred Stephen Baker, homestead 16602 for the s e ¼ of sec 20 township 22 n, range 14 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: George Mullins, James Wyatt, Francis M. Headley and Monroe Durbin, all of Clanton, Ala.

dec5* J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

Insure in the Commercial Fire Insurance Co. of Montgomery.

Now is the time to subscribe for your county paper.

A. E. BIVINGS,
—DEALER IN—
DRUGS, AND Medicines,
FAMILY Groceries, ETC.
Clanton, Alabama.

I can furnish you anything you may wish in the way of DRUGS AND MEDICINES. I also handle THE BEST GROCERIES TO BE HAD, and you will find my prices to suit the times. [mar29]

BUY YOUR
PIANOS and ORGANS
—FROM—
GRAMBS & BUCHANAN,
—2107 SECOND AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—
:o:

THE VERY LOWEST CASH PRICES, or on easy installments. Sohmer, Cmnich & Bach, Gabler, Wheelock and Newby & Evans Pianos, and the world renowned Wilcox & White organs. Mail orders for sheet music or musical merchandise given prompt attention.

Write for Catalogue. jul18

When ordering please state in what paper you saw our advertisement.

❋ Hale, Dingley & Co. ❋
—WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS IN—
Drugs, Medicines, Toilet Articles,
PERFUMERY, SOAP, BRUSHES & STANDARD PATENT MEDICINES,
:MONTGOMERY, ALA.:
:o:

Keep constantly on hand a complete stock of articles in their line of business. Particular attention is called to the following articles manufactured by them and especially recommended to the public: Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lactophosphate of Lime; Elixir Cinchona and Gentian Compound; Howard's Colic Cure for Horses; Esprit de Millefleur. nov21-6

CHAS. L. RUTH,
—DEALER IN—
Diamonds, Silverware, Watches, Clocks,
Jewelry, Spectacles, &c.,

Sole Agent in Montgomery for the celebrated ROCKFORD QUICK TRAIN WATCHES, the best for Railroad men. Also has a large stock of Watches of other makes, including the famous watches manufactured by A. Schneider, of Dresden, and the watches he had made specially to order in Geneva.

A complete stock of the newest styles of JEWELRY, selected with great care from the stocks of the largest manufacturers.

The latest designs in SILVER and PLATED WARE. French and American CLOCKS and BRONZES in great variety. Julius King's Combination Spectacles, Eye-Glasses, Gold-head Canes, &c. All goods marked at the lowest figures possible. Clocks, Watches and Jewelry skillfully and promptly repaired. All work guaranteed.

C. L. RUTH,
(Sign of the Eagle and Watch.) 15 Dexter Avenue,
MONTGOMERY, ALA.
nov21y

CRELLIN & NALLS,
BOILER MAKERS

Copper and Sheet Iron Workers
Chimneys, Tanks, and Repairing of All Kinds.
Saw Mill Work a Specialty.
AVENUE C AND TWENTY-SECOND STREET, SOUTHSIDE,
Birmingham, Ala.
mar21 y

INSURE WITH
The Commercial Fire Insurance Company,
Montgomery, Alabama.
Capital $100,000. Surplus $146,578.

Directors:—P. J. Anderson, C. A. Lanier, H. C. Tompkins, A. M. Kennedy, M. P. LeGrand, S. C. Marks, J. H. Clisby, C. W. Buckley, Frank Duncan.

W. H. Lawrence, Agt., Clanton.

Roberts & Son,
Steam Printers and Binders,
1918 FIRST AVENUE, BET. 19th & 20th STREETS,
Birmingham, Ala.
BLANK BOOKS TO ORDER. WORK PROMPTLY DELIVERED.
dec5 ay

MONTGOMERY IRON WORKS.
MACHINISTS & FOUNDERS
Dealers in Fittings, Supplies and Machinery
OF ALL KINDS.
MAKERS OF ENGINES, CANE MILLS, COTTON SEED CRUSHERS, SAW MILLS, LIVE ROLLS, LOG HAULUPS, &c.
ESPECIAL ATTENTION TO WANTS OF SAW MILL MEN
nov 8-y

A. M. RAMBO,
DENTIST.
VERBENA, ALA.
Will respond to calls along railroad between Calera and Dentsville
[mal5 y]

S. P. TRESSLAR,
Photographer,
10 COURT SQUARE,
Montgomery.

Photographs on Silk, Satin and Linen. Photographs on watch dials.

Portraits in Crayon, Pastile, India Ink and Water Colors.

All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.

Correspondence solicited.

Always glad to have you call at the gallery, and examine specimens of the work on exhibition.

[jan21-tf]

J. H. SHEPHERD
THE LEADING
PHOTOGRAPHER.
—OF—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE
(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)
Photographs of All Kinds
Work Done in the
BEST STYLE.
Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

DR. OWEN'S
ELECTRIC BELT
AND SUSPENSORY.
PATENTED AUG. 16, 1887. IMPROVED JULY 30, 1889.

DR. OWEN'S ELECTRO-GALVANIC BODY BELT AND SUSPENSORY are guaranteed to cure the following diseases, namely: All Rheumatic Complaints, Lumbago, General and Nervous Debility, Costiveness, Kidney Diseases, Nervousness, Trembling, Sexual Exhaustion, Wasting of Body, Diseases caused by Indiscretions in Youth, Age, Married or Single Life. In fact all diseases pertaining to the womb or genital organs of male or female. SENT TO RESPONSIBLE PARTIES ON 30 DAYS TRIAL. TRY A PAIR OF DR. OWEN'S ELECTRIC INSOLES $1 PER PAIR. PRICE. [illegible] illustrated pamphlet, which will be sent you in plain sealed envelope. Mention this paper, address OWEN ELECTRIC BELT & APPLIANCE CO. 306 North Broadway, ST. LOUIS, MO.

RUPTURE!
ELECTRIC BELT AND TRUSS COMBINED.
DR. ISRAEL'S ELECTRO-GALVANIC TRUSS, with Dr. Owen's Electric Belt Attachment. Worn with ease and comfort. The current can be made mild or strong. This is the only combined electric truss and belt ever made. It will CURE Rupture in from 30 to 90 days. For full description of Dr. Owen's Electro-Galvanic Belts, Spinal Appliances, Trusses and Insoles send 6c. for free illustrated pamphlet which will be sent you in plain sealed envelope. Sold only by the OWEN ELECTRIC BELT & APPLIANCE CO. 306 North Broadway, ST. LOUIS, MO.
sep 5

HERBINE

After ten years exclusive sale, can now be obtained of all Druggists and Dealers in Medicines. It CURES—take notice—not simply helps but CURES LIVER COMPLAINT, Biliousness and Dyspepsia.

Is a strictly vegetable preparation and will CURE MALARIA, and all MALARIAL troubles.

Dr. S. H. Wise, of Boston, Ky. says: "Have practiced medicine 15 years, and find no equal to HERBINE as a Liver Regulator."

Dr. W. A. Baker, of Madison, Fla., says: "A bottle of HERBINE is worth more than $5.00 worth of Quinine in any family."

Acting on the Liver in a different way from any other medicine; it is a positive cure for Chronic Constipation and is cheaper than [illegible].

Its peculiar composition is such, that we guarantee to cure any case of Chills and Fever or Bilious Fever with one bottle.

It costs but 75 cents and each bottle contains over 40 average doses, making the cost less than two cents a dose. Would you ask for cheaper medicine? It is not a cure-all. But will cure any Liver, Bilious or Malarial Complaint. Manufactured by

The Herbine Co.,
(Successors to Wm. Condell.) St. Louis, Mo.
mar 14-y

PISO'S CURE FOR
TWENTY-FIVE CENTS

Piso's Cure for Consumption is also the best Cough Medicine. If you have a Cough without disease of the Lungs, a few doses are all you need. But if you neglect this easy means of safety, the slight Cough may become a serious matter, and several bottles will be required.

CONSUMPTION

PISO'S REMEDY FOR CATARRH gives immediate relief. Catarrhal virus is soon expelled from the system, and the diseased action of the mucous membrane is replaced by healthy secretions.

The dose is small. One package contains a sufficient quantity for a long treatment.

CATARRH

A Cold in the Head is relieved by an application of Piso's remedy for Catarrh. The comfort to be got from it in this way is worth many times its cost.

Easy and pleasant to use.

Price, 50 cents. Sold by druggists or sent by mail.

E. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.

nov22-y

ALLGER'S
GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES!
FROM $85 to $50.

This Elegant Parlor Organ style 70 containing 5 octaves, 4 sets of reeds, 10 stops, 2 knee swells. Stool and Book free. For only $32.00. With stool and book [illegible] "Warranted for 6 years." [illegible]

R. W. ALLGER,
Washington, [illegible]

DAWN.

A sudden sound of wings and voices,
As hurrying night-birds homeward fare;
A restless tremor in the air;
Faint, half-suppressed, impatient noises,
And signs of waking everywhere!

And then a silence as of waiting,
When in uncertainty or fear;
A rosy gleam in azure clear;
A song from some sweet bird that's greeting;
And lo! the golden morn is here!
—John M. Healy, in Belford's Magazine.

THE MAN-EATER.

A STORY OF INDIA.

There were two entrances to the drawing room; this must be borne in mind.

The house itself was old-fashioned, a large and many-gabled one, standing quite alone and solitary in a spacious garden; all the windows had been closed and the jalousies shut and secured from the outside; the tatty-grass blinds on the piazza had been rolled up and put away until another blazing morning called for their refreshing shade.

The locality was near that part of the delta called the Sunderbunds, through which the Ganges expands its branches as it approaches the sea—a labyrinth of creeks and rivers, of jungle and stagnant water. The night was perfectly fine, but moonless; there was a heavy dew rapidly falling, like a misty rain, which, in hot countries, is a perfectly natural occurrence.

I went into the drawing-room by what might be called the back door, as it led into the back drawing-room, and smaller of the two; the other, a far larger apartment, communicated with this one by great folding doors of gold and white. The back drawing-room was very full of furniture, rather inconveniently so. As I was carrying an armful of books, and in my disengaged hand a lamp, I proceeded, with tolerable security, though slowly, but then, of course, I knew the room and could have gone to my destination in the dark. What struck me as both curious and irritative was the fancy that the room seemed more impeded than ever with the furniture—dark, old-fashioned rosewood furniture, which had been made to match the piano. The various articles looked as if they had been dragged about the room. Possibly the darkness above and around me helped the illusion; anyway, they had the appearance of having been gradually spread toward the centre of the room round a heavy and solid table. It was this table that I wished to go to. I walked very slowly, partly because I did not wish to spill the books which I had spent the last hour in collecting, and partly because of an unaccountably horrible feeling which had come over me. This part of the house was quite silent; indeed, it was often so of an evening. My brother had passed me on his way upstairs, having been all day at Madrepore, and no doubt being tired had gone to bed. There were very few stairs at all, as the house was practically a one-storied one, rambling and full of angels, having been built and added to at various times; here and there little staircases streamed out, leading to long passages and unexpected cupboards; the back drawing-room door itself opened from a side-flight of five stairs. As I had encountered two small chairs and an overturned music stands I stood still for a second, looking for a clear passage, and thereby holding the lamp high and well in front of me; as I paused amid the complete silence which reigned, an immense tiger slowly crossed the path of light, turning on me two burning, yellow eyes, gleaming like vivid topazes. I stood there in stiffened terror and heard my heart beat. The tiger's mouth was parted and running with saliva; so wide was it hanging open at the corners that the serrated edges of the lower lips were plainly visible. It glared with a steadfast look of such grinning cruelty, such conscious malignity, that it froze my blood and turned my limbs to stone.

The tiger crossed the India-matting of the room with a noiseless, swinging gait; as it appeared to have come from the obscurity near the piano, so it vanished into the obscurity beyond—that is, outside the pathway of the lantern-light. I stood perfectly immovable, still clutching the books with my left arm, still holding the lamp before me, still gazing at the place it had crossed, and apparently forever seeing that awful look upon the tiger's face. It seemed as if my eyes saw the face, though my mind had rapidly suggested the frightful probability that the tiger was behind me. At the same time, by some dual mental process, it was holding out hope that the animal had passed through the great folding doors into the dark room beyond. I have no remembrance at all of my mind dictating the next action I pursued; it seemed just an instinct indulged in by the body upon its own account and for its own immediate preservation.

I laid the books very carefully down without making the slightest unnecessary noise or disturbing the hand that held the lamp, and then, raising with slow effort one of the heavy little chairs that had blocked my passage, I silently swung it on to my shoulders and held it so that it covered my head, then turned slowly sidewise, with my mind impressed with the necessity of keeping the lamp as far as possible behind me. This struck me at the time as clever and of unquestionable importance in saving my life. I managed to walk gently out of the room. I suppose I had been in it five minutes, but it seemed like a weary hour.

As I closed the door and locked it, my brother unexpectedly came down the passage and passed me on the little flight of stairs; he was rather in a hurry.

"Godfrey," I called out to him, "do you mind pulling the front door to in the large drawing-room as you go by?" It seems strange now, but I could think of nothing else to say then, and I said it slowly and quite naturally.

He assented and disappeared, and I, without noticing it at the time, took up the chair again, and with my lamp ascended the short flight of stairs, and proceeded along the passage to my own room, walking slowly and guardedly. The mind had evidently been so shocked that it had not recovered its dominant sway over the body. Upon reaching my own room, I put the chair carefully down and sat upon it. The lamp I had placed on the table at the same time. I sat there a few seconds, feebly wondering which room the tiger was in. Then I got up with a sudden alacrity, took from its case a large revolver, and turned into the passage again. In a minute or so I was in Godfrey's room. He was half undressed. "What's the matter?" he demanded, with startled eyes. When I had told him, he took my hand and wrung it. "You may thank God that you are alive, old fellow." Then he dressed hurriedly, took a heavy rifle from a rack, and filled his pockets with cartridges. "Come along; stay, let me go first; your nerves are a bit shaky yet."

We crept out and awakened the punkah wallah, an old and faithful Hindoo, whom my brother once nursed during a dangerous illness—a brave and trustworthy man, who would have laid his life down for Godfrey.

"It is the man-eater!" said the Hindoo, after my recital.

"You will come with us, Ramee?" asked my brother. The old man smiled as if the question were superfluous.

"Will the sahib let his servant advise him?"

"Yes, Ramee; tell me your plan."

As the Hindoo rapidly unfolded it, my brother smiled dubiously at the strange idea.

"Cunning must be met with cunning," said the Hindoo.

"It'll take three hours to arrange," I remarked.

"Three hours will bring the dawn; now, who can see in the dark?—not the sahib, but yes, the tiger."

"Very well," said Godfrey, "let's see about it at once." From the gardener's outhouse we brought a roll of wire netting which had been put there for fencing in a paddock a few days previously. Together we collected armsful of shavings the workmen had not cleared away, quantities of dried leaves, rags—everything we could find soft and pliable; and, having cut the wire into three square lengths, firmly lashed them together, one over the other. When completed, it was the shape but rather larger than the window in the room in which the tiger lay hidden, and the doors of which had been locked. Our operations so far had been conducted upon the veranda outside, near the gardener's room; we then rolled up the wire netting and carried it round the corner of the house to within a few yards of the big window; here it was unrolled again and flattened out, then upon its surface we poured all the shavings, rags, leaves and refuse we had collected, and upon this mass smeared and spread a quantity of lime left by the workmen for the morrow. This we smoothed down as well as we were able, till the whole mass assumed some consistency and clung to the interstices of the netting. Ramee next took some stout twine and improvised a rough kind of needle from a bamboo-cane. With this implement he sewed all over the mass of stuff, thus making a string-netting which helped to keep the composition in its place. So far, so good; the most difficult operation yet remained.

"Take my gun," said Godfrey to me, "and give me the revolver."

"Sahib," whispered the Hindoo, placing a restraining hand upon my brother, "let Ramee complete his work—is it not his duty? If he fails he shall suffer."

"You foolish man," said Godfrey, "how can you do it alone?" With slow and noiseless steps the netting, looking very like a large mattress, was carried exactly opposite the window and laid gently down; then both retired as silently as they had advanced.

Ramee then brought from the outhouse a ladder, and with a gesture of entreaty signed to my brother to stand aside and take his rifle in his hand. With bare feet the Hindoo crept up to the window again and reared the ladder against the wall. Taking a coil of rope from his neck, he deftly fastened it to the highest wall staple of the outside shutter. Descending, he quickly enlaced the short stand in the netting, placed the ladder on the other side, and ran the thong through the other staple. For the first time he made noise, but it was unavoidable, caused by the netting being drawn upward till it hung like a great curtain, covering the shutter and hiding the window from us.

Godfey and I stood ready to fire.

The Hindoo, perspiring at every pore, descended the ladder, which he lowered and placed horizontally on the window-sill, and lashed it to the bottom of the netting and again fastened that to the two lower staples on either side.

The thing was done; far away on the east the dawn was breaking, above which the morning star was slowly paling its silver fire.

"But, Ramee, the shutters are still fastened!"

"Sahib, I unfastened them; they are open the breadth of a man's hand; presently the light will stream through."

"Quick; fetch another rifle."

When he returned, I took the gun and gave him my revolver.

A light breath of wind passed murmuring through the feathery crowns of the slender cocoa-palms, two great spears of light shot up in the sky, somewhere in the garden a bird sang—the sun had risen. "Wait the signal," whispered my brother; "now, Ramee." The Hindoo knelt down and imitated the bleating of a kid that had lost its mother. At the instant Ramee sprang to his feet, the silence was rent by a sundering crash and a sudden, terrific roar; the shutters were torn from their sockets, a great mass hurled itself precipitately through the window, and the tiger, with its head and shoulders buried in the lime-covered debris, was grappling in maddened fury with an enemy he could not see nor make much impression upon.

Our guns were at our shoulders.

The animal was twenty feet from us, tearing up the graveled path, and coiling itself in inextricable confusion in the broken netting and splintered ladder. Ramee uttered a loud cry. The animal had freed its head, and stood with its bleeding mouth in an enforced listening attidude. It was the moment Godfrey had waited for, and he fired. The tiger, evidently not seeing him, sprang at the window again, but missed the opening, hurling itself against the wall and falling on the broken shutters. At the minute it alighted, I aimed at the spot behind the shoulder and fired; it gave a convulsive leap and turned its bloodshot eyes in our direction. Then Godfrey fired again and told me to do the same.

"Back! back!" cried Ramee.

The animal had gathered itself together and sprang forward with one mighty bound, and rolled over with a scream of dying rage.

When we came to measure the brute afterward, we found it was fifteen feet from the nose to the tip of his tail.—The Argonaut.

The Flathead Indians of Montana differ widely from most other tribes on this continent. They are not warriors, nor are they lazy and good-for-nothing. On the contrary, most of them are thrifty farmers, whose industry and skill are attested by big stacks of hay and grain about their dwellings.

The hair around a lion's neck is his mane protection.—Merchant Traveler.

HOUSEHOLD AFFAIRS.

RECIPES.

Carrot Ginger—Take fresh young carrots, wash well and scrape them, leaving all the eyes, as this gives more the rugged appearance of real ginger; cut them into pieces about the length and thickness of the real article, lay them in a sieve or a frying basket, stand this in a stewpan of boiling water and par-boil them. Let them drain and stand over till the next day; then, without breaking, put them into a preserving pan with their own weight of syrup of ginger, and let them simmer very gently for three hours. Fill empty ginger jars or preserve pots, allowing plenty of syrup, and cover closely as for jam.

Snow Custard—One-half box of gelatine, three eggs, one pint of milk, two cups of sugar, juice of one lemon; soak the gelatine one hour in a tea cup of cold water, then add one pint of boiling water and stir until the gelatine is dissolved; add two-thirds of the sugar and the lemon juice; beat the whites of the eggs to a stiff froth, and when the gelatine is quite cold, whip it into the whites, a spoonful at a time; for at least an hour whip steadily and evenly, and when all is stiff pour into a mould previously wet with cold water; set in a cool place; in four or five hours turn into a glass dish; make a soft custard and pour around it.

Beefsteak Rolls—Take a lean piece of beef entirely free from fat or bone and cut into thin steaks about four inches by six, sprinkle on a little pepper, salt and flour. Cut bread into strips, spread them thick with butter, into each piece stick two or three cloves, then roll up each piece of the bread in a piece of steak as tightly as possible, tie it with thread; roll them in some flour, and fry a light brown in butter. Then put them in a stew pan, shred a small onion fine and add. If the butter they were fried in is not burned add that, if it is melt some more butter with browned flour and season with a little cayenne and salt. Cover with boiling water, occasionally stirring, and adding sufficient flour to thicken, and stew until a fork will easily penetrate them.

Sauer-Kraut—Gather the cabbages and take off the outside leaves. Wash and quarter them, take out the core, and put in a clean barrel until you have enough to cut well. Then, with a clean, sharp spade, cut them fine and sprinkle on a little salt. One quart of salt is enough for forty gallons of kraut. If too much is put in, it will not sour. Then pound until water rises. Now put in more cabbage and proceed as before. Lastly, get some large cabbage leaves, wash, and cover the kraut with them, put on a board and then a stone for a weight. Wash the board and stone about once a week until the kraut has ceased fermenting. Be sure to keep enough water on it to cover. If you don't, the kraut will spoil. And if made in cool weather, keep it in a warm place until sour enough to suit the taste. If these directions are followed, you will have good kraut.

Ribbon Cake—Two and one-half cups of sugar, one-half cup of butter, one-half cup of sweet milk, three cups of flour, the whites of eight eggs, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Flavor with lemon. Yellow part—The yolks of eight eggs, two cups of sugar, one cup of butter, one cup of sweet milk, three and one-half cups of flour, twa teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Brown part—Take one-half of the yellow mixture and add two-thirds of a teacup of grated chocolate. Red part—Whites of four eggs, one cup of red sugar, one-half cup of butter, one-half cup of sweet milk, one cup and a half of flour, two small teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Flavor with extract of vanilla. Take the yolks of the four eggs left from the red part and make a frosting of it and put it between the layers and on the top. This recipe will make two layer cakes and one marble cake.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

For ivy poisoning, bathe the parts in lime water.

Cistern water may be purified by charcoal put in a bag and hung in the water.

To remove a dry ink-stain, dip it into hot milk and rub it. Repeat till the stain is gone.

Patient rubbing with chloroform will remove paint from black silk or any other material.

To remove warts, rub them night and morning with a moistened piece of muriate of ammonia.

A solution of equal parts of gum Arabic and plaster of Paris, cements china and earthenware.

If onion peelings are taken off under water, one will have no occasion to weep while peeling them.

The white of an egg and a teaspoonful each of honey, salt, turpentine and camphor will cure a felon.

Finger marks may be removed from varnished furniture by the use of a little sweet oil upon a soft rag.

Best cure for rheumatism and neuralgia, one pint of alcohol, ten cents worth of oil of sassafras. Mix and rub in thoroughly.

If you have custard left from dinner, it will serve a second time by filling the bottom of the dish with apple sauce and pouring the custard over. A very fine dessert. Serve nice crackers with it. Berries, sliced peaches or pears are nice served thus.

Put a layer of bread crumbs in the bottom of a buttered pudding-dish, then a layer of sliced tart apples sprinkled with sugar, then crumbs and apples until the dish is almost full. The crumbs should be last. Cover and cook an hour. Eat with the sauce or sweetened cream.

Cook macaroni in milk till tender, line a buttered mold of a thimble shape with it. Thicken half pint of skim milk with two tablespoonfuls of ground rice. Boil for a minute or two, beat in an egg, fill the cases, steam half an hour to one hour, according as your puddings are quarter and half pint or one pint. Turn out, and serve with cherry syrup round.

Earthquake Movement.

"There is a great mistake," remarks a California astronomer, "as to the actual amount of movement of the earth in an earthquake. In the Chabot Observatory recently the earth moved a little less than a quarter of an inch, and in East Oakland, where the shock was heavier, it moved about five-sixteenths of an inch. An earthquake in which the motion was a half-inch would prove very disastrous, and yet people do not hesitate to say that they saw the earth move at least a foot."

NEWS AND NOTES FOR WOMEN.

Brooches are the favorite ornaments among Algerian women.

Mousseline chiffon, a softly falling material, is used a great deal for evening gowns.

Mrs. Haggins, the California millionaire's wife, possesses a ruby valued at $10,000.

Mrs. Cleveland expects to devote much of this winter to a careful study of oil painting.

Mrs. Lydia Bacon, of Sudbury, Mass., has celebrated her one hundred and second birthday.

A dainty lace pin is a cluster of sweet peas in pink and white enamel, sprinkled with diamond dewdrops.

A Christian lady who wishes to become a member of the Hebrew Church must first of all learn Hebrew.

Accordion-plaited skirts of cream net over colored silks are very pretty, and much liked for evening wear.

Cow-boy hats for misses are of gray, ecru or bright red felt, with wide unwired brims edged with fur felt.

A new galloon is made of silk cord, united by crochet stitches, the effect being similar to that of point lace.

Sir Julian Pauncefote's four daughters have brilliant complexions and dress in the extreme of English fashion.

Ruches of silk braid of different widths, intermixed with oblong drops and aiguillettes, are used to trim the new mantles.

Moonstones continue to receive a large share of popular favor. The fancy just now is for large stones encircled with brilliants.

Serviceable school hats are Tam o' Shanters of plaid cloth, and plain felt caps in the same shape may be procured in all colors.

Miss Cordelia Meyers, of Newville, Penn., is the proud possessor of a piano once owned by the wife of President John Quincy Adams.

Female students are now admitted to Wesleyan University, and there are six of them in its classes, along with the young men this year.

Fur-lined dolman wraps are less favored than in previous seasons, but are still occasionally made to order, to suit the taste of purchasers.

Gray astrachan, chinchilla and light beaver are the furs most favored for misses and children's wear, and they are most appropriate and becoming.

Muffs and boas of both red and blue fox will be worn by young ladies. The red fox is a very beautiful fur, and especially becoming to a certain type of blondes.

Mme. Albani, who sings before Queen Victoria every year, had the pleasure of singing to her Majesty a few weeks ago. She was accompanied by her sister, Miss Lajeunesse.

A handsome corsage ornament is in the form of a spray of three rosebuds, composed respectively of a black, a pink and a white pearl, with the stems and leaves of diamonds.

Fur trimmings are mostly of the long haired varieties, bear, black marten, lynx, mink, fox, etc. Persians, although a flat fur is very stylish, but otter, beaver, etc., are passee.

Mrs. Anna Lea Merritt, who was born in Philadelphia, was one of the three ladies who received honorable mention for oil painting in the British section of the Paris Exhibition.

As a rule, women need about nine-tenths of the nourishment requisite for men, boys of sixteen about the same as women, and childeen of ten half the quantity needed for adults.

The bell sleeves appears upon a few of the new seal jackets, but is not generally favored. When used an inner close sleeve is attached near the elbow, affording the necessary protection to the arms.

Princess Marie Theresa of Bavaria, who has a mania for pets, travels throughout Europe with fourteen animals of one sort and another, including several dogs, two magpies, an enormous rat and a diminutive bear.

The Empress and members of the aristocracy of Japan have given up the idea of adopting the western styles of dress for women. The Parisian models did not please the people in general, and the historic costumes will again be worn exclusively.

Queen Victoria doesn't wear a great deal of fur. She has an odd cloak, however, in which she comfortably incases herself when traveling in the cold weather. It is made entirely of ermine, and the ermine is outside. The cloak gives her a very regal appearance.

Warm bonnets for little girls are made of cashmere, the soft fronts gathered in front to a high frill above the forehead, and with accordion plaited capes six to eight inches deep. Loops of ribbon are set in the frill above the face, and a rosette outside, with a full cap trimming resting upon the banged hair.

Mrs. Harrison is the first mistress of the White House since Mrs. Hayes's time who really supervises the entire domestic machinery. She has the whole of it in hand, from the cellars to the attic. She goes over the most of it every day. Both the President and Mrs. Harrison are early risers, and the day's work gets started by 8 o'clock.

Fashionable bonnets in Paris this autumn suggest the great topic of the day. There is the "1789 bonnet" in black felt, with a tiny tricolor ribbon knot; the "election capote," ornamented with white feathers of bouquets of immortelles; and the "provincial voter's bonnet," simply made like the caps worn by old country women.

Stuffed Beforehand.

James P. Root, of Chicago, believes in bringing up children the way they should go. "I know how it is myself," he said the other day, as he spoke of this matter. "When I was a boy," he continued, "I had a most ravenous appetite, like all healthy boys. My dear mother was great on training and etiquette, and she had me at her afternoon teas. Now, tea was a little light for me then and she knew it, so just before the tea she would quietly lead me back to the pantry and fill me up with milk pudding until I couldn't wink. Then I would participate in the afternoon tea. Of course, loaded as I was, I could find no room for anything else, and when the tea and cake came around I said: 'No, thank you.' The ladies present would regard me with amazement and say: 'What a well-behaved boy!' They didn't know that I had been stuffed beforehand."—Chicago Herald.

Food in Its Relation to Health.

Dr. Atwater, in the paper read by him before the last convention of the American Public Health Association, dwelt on the evils of overeating, and showed that in this country people overeat enormously, especially in the matter of meat and sweetmeats, with the result of undermining their health to a degree. Dr. Jerome Walker gave facts to prove that meat once a day was enough for any ordinary person. Dr. Atkinson showed the importance of better cooking for the masses. He considered that a great obstruction to improvement in the art of cooking is the almost universal misconception that the finer cuts of meat are more nutritious than the coarser portions, coupled with an almost insuperable prejudice among working people against stewed food. This prejudice is doubtless due to the tasteless quality of boiled meat; boiling toughens each of the fine fibres, and deprives the meat almost wholly of its distinctive flavor. All these burdens and misconceptions must evidently be removed before any true art of cooking can become common practice. The more necessary, however, does it become to invent apparatus in which meat can only be simmered and cannot boil, as the Aleddin cooker, and also to invent a stove or oven in which neither meat nor bread can be overcooked, dried up, or rendered indigestible by too much heat, as in the Aladdin oven. Next, people must be persuaded that a better and more nutritious breakfast can be made ready to eat, as soon as the family are out of bed, by putting meat stews, oatmeal, brown bread and many kinds of pudding into the cooker, and simmering all night by the use of a single safe lamp, than in any other way.

The Use of Coffee.

It is asserted by men of high professional ability that when the system needs stimulant nothing equals a cup of fresh coffee. Those who desire to rescue the drunkard from his cups will find no better substitute for spirits than strong, new made coffee, without milk or sugar. Two ounces of coffee, or one eighth of a pound, to one pint of boiling water makes a first class beverage, but the water must be boiling, not merely hot. Bitterness comes from boiling it too long.

If the coffee required for breakfast be put in a graniteized kettle over night and a pint of cold water poured over, it can be heated to the boiling point and then set back to prevent further ebullition, when it will be found that, while its strength is extracted, its delicate aroma is preserved. As our country consumes nearly ten pounds of coffee per capita, it is a pity not to have it made in the best manner.

It is asserted by those who have tried it that malaria and epidemics are avoided by those who drink a cup of hot coffee before venturing into the morning air. Burned on hot coals it is a disinfectant for a sick room. By some of our best physicians it is considered a specific in typhoid fever.—Epicure.

Not Ready.

The phonograph has not yet been reduced to that simplicity and perfection of operation necessary for its general sale and introduction. It is true, several examples have been produced which are in use, and many interesting experiments have been made. At the Paris exhibition the instruments were shown in operation, and the perfection of the results in recording and delivering speech was marvellous. But in most cases, in order to get really satisfactory results, experts are required to watch, adjust and work the instrument. When the phonograph becomes entirely automatic its future is assured.

Summary Measures.

A Paris shopkeeper, when he advertises goods "at cost," is promptly called upon by a government official, whose business it is to see that the merchant is doing what he advertises, and if he is detected in fraud of any kind speedy punishment is inflicted. In other words, they will permit him to sell his own goods, which he paid for, "at cost," but if he is lying in his advertisement or defrauding his creditors, they expose him.

The People

are not slow to understand that, in order to warrant their manufacturers in guaranteeing them to benefit or cure, medicines must possess more than ordinary merit and curative properties. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the only blood-medicine sold, through druggists, under a positive guarantee that it will benefit or cure or money paid for it will be returned. In all blood, skin and scalp diseases, and for all scrofulous affections, it is specific.

$500 Reward offered by the proprietors of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy for an incurable case.

Unless a tree bears blossoms in Spring, we may look in vain for Autumn fruit.

Last Winter

I was troubled so badly with rheumatism in my right shoulder and joints of my leg as not to be able to walk. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and now I don't feel any aches or pains anywhere. I sell newspapers right in the middle of the street every day in the year, and have been doing so for five years, and standing on the cold stones ain't no picnic, I can tell you. And if Hood's Sarsaparilla cured me it certainly ought to be good for those people who don't stand on the cold stones. I can be seen every day in the year at corner Tompkins and DeKalb Avenues.—William W. Howzan, Brooklyn, N. Y. N. B.—Be sure to get

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

"MOTHERS' FRIEND"
MAKES CHILD BIRTH EASY
SHORTENS LABOR
LESSENS PAIN
DIMINISHES DANGER TO LIFE OF MOTHER AND CHILD
BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO. ATLANTA, GA.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

Jennings' BUSINESS COLLEGE, NASHVILLE, TENN.

OPIUM HABIT.

Bird Seed.

Bird seed forms a considerable item in the export trade of some of the Moorish ports. The vice-consul at one port states that this seed is never sown apart by the Moorish farmers, nor is any special attention paid to its cultivation. It is always sown with wheat, and when reaped and threshed it is separated by the country women in sieves. The reason of this practice is that there is a general superstition among the Moors that in very wet seasons the wheat is in part converted into bird seed, and hence they sow the two together.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years Doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly upon the blood and mucous surface of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c.

"Lucy Hinton."

Hark! the sound of many voices,
Jubilant in gladdest song,
And full many a heart rejoices
As the chorus floats along:
"Hail the Queen of all Tobaccos!"
How the happy voices blend,
"Finest and purest among her fellows—
Man's staunch and true friend."

Oregon, the Paradise of Farmers.
Mild, equable climate, certain and abundant crops. Best fruit, grain, grass and stock country in the world. Full information free. Address Oreg. Im'igra'tn Board, Portland, Ore.

The Mother's Friend, used a few weeks before confinement, lessens the pain and makes labor quick and comparatively easy. Sold by all Druggists.

The old smoker's delight—"Tansill's" Punch. America's finest 5c. Cigar.

If afflicted with sore eyes use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye-Water. Druggists sell at 25c per bottle.

Ely's Cream Balm
THE CURE FOR CATARRH
HAY-FEVER
50 Cts.
COLD IN HEAD
ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren St., New York.

SMITH'S BILE BEANS
Act on the liver and bile; clear the complexion; cure biliousness, sick headache, costiveness, malaria and all liver and stomach disorders. We are now making small size Bile Beans, especially adapted for children and women—very small and easy to take. Price of either size 25c per bottle.
A panel size PHOTO-GRAVURE of the above picture, "Kissing at 7-17-70," mailed on receipt of 2c stamp. Address the makers of the great Anti-Bile Remedy—"Bile Beans."
J. F. SMITH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

IF YOU WISH A GOOD REVOLVER purchase one of the celebrated SMITH & WESSON arms. [illegible]
SMITH & WESSON, Springfield, Mass.

JONES
HE PAYS THE FREIGHT.
[illegible]
JONES OF BINGHAMTON, BINGHAMTON, N. Y.

AFTER ALL OTHERS FAIL CONSULT
DR. LOBB
329 North Fifteenth St., Philadelphia, Pa., for the treatment of Blood Poisons, Skin Eruptions, Nervous Complaints, Bright's Disease, Strictures, Impotency and kindred Diseases, no matter of how long standing or from what cause originating. [illegible] Send for Book on SPECIAL Diseases. FREE.

JOHN F. STRATTON & SON,
Importers of all kinds of
Mouth Harmonicas,
[illegible] Walker St., New York.

$7 FOR A Double Breech-Loader
[illegible]
CLEMENT & DEMPLE, [illegible]

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH
PENNYROYAL PILLS
RED CROSS DIAMOND BRAND.
[illegible]

SOUTHERN PRINTERS' SUPPLY CO.
Type, Cases, Stands, Presses, Paper Cutters
AND EVERYTHING USED IN A PRINTING OR PUBLISHING HOUSE.
Call on us and SAVE MONEY!
36 West Alabama Street, ATLANTA, GA.

OPIUM HABIT. [illegible]

Push on the Handle and the Screw goes in.

BRYANT & STRATTON Business College, LOUISVILLE.

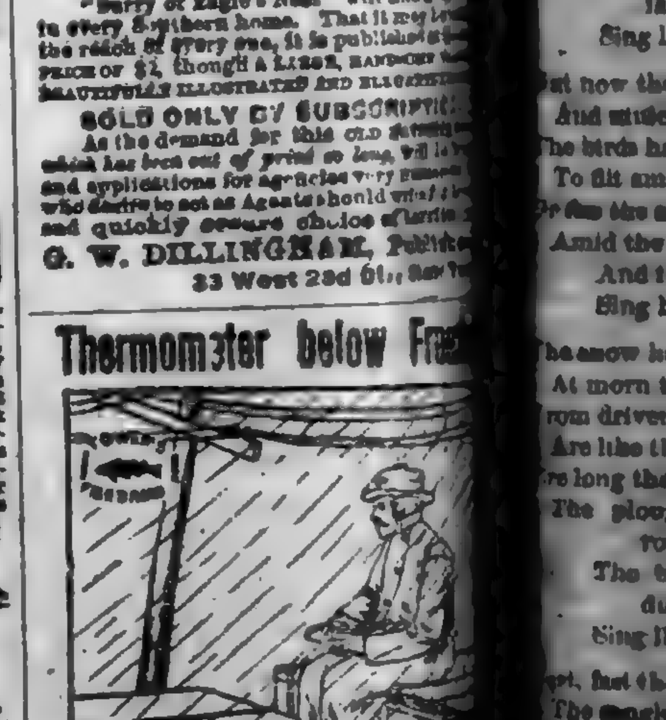
CATARRH

SYRUP OF FIGS

ONE ENJOYS
Both the method and results when Syrup of Figs is taken; it is pleasant and refreshing to the taste, and acts gently yet promptly on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels, cleanses the system effectually, dispels colds, headaches and fevers and cures habitual constipation. Syrup of Figs is the only remedy of its kind ever produced, pleasing to the taste and acceptable to the stomach, prompt in its action and truly beneficial in its effects, prepared only from the most healthy and agreeable substances, its many excellent qualities commend it to all and have made it the most popular remedy known.
Syrup of Figs is for sale in 50c and $1 bottles by all leading druggists. Any reliable druggist who may not have it on hand will procure it promptly for any one who wishes to try it. Do not accept any substitute.
CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
LOUISVILLE, KY. NEW YORK, N.Y.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE GREAT WAR STORY
"SURRY of Eagle's Nest"
John Esten Cooke
[illegible]
SOLD ONLY BY SUBSCRIPTION.
[illegible]
G. W. DILLINGHAM, Publisher,
33 West 23d St., New York.

Thermometer below Freezing



[illegible] "Fish Brand Slicker" [illegible]
A. J. TOWER, Boston, Mass.

SWIFT
Double Action
AUTOMATIC REVOLVER.
[illegible]

OPIUM [illegible]

HOME STUDY. Book-keeping, Business Forms, Penmanship, Arithmetic, Shorthand, etc., thoroughly taught by MAIL. Bryant's College, [illegible]

[illegible]

Rates of Advertising.

[illegible]

The Chilton View.

W. H. LAWRENCE, Editor and Publisher. "WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION." TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME IX. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 26, 1889. NUMBER 9.

Special Advertising.

[illegible]

CAHEEN EXTENDS A CORDIAL INVITATION TO ALL STRANGERS VISITING OUR CITY.

COME TO OUR GREAT MAMMOTH DOUBLE STORES,

AND

Make yourselves at home. Use our store as you would your own home. CAHEEN will ever strive to make your visit pleasant and profitable. It will be a pleasure for us to show you through

THE GREAT DRY GOODS HOUSE OF BIRMINGHAM.

F. CAHEEN, 2018 & 2020 First Avnnue.

An Old Year Song.

As through the forest disarrayed
By chill November, late I strayed,
A lonely minstrel of the wood
Was singing to the solitude.
I loved thy music, thus I said,
When o'er thy perch the leaves wer spread;
Sweet was thy song, but sweeter now
Thy carol on the leafless bough,
Sing little bird! thy note shall cheer
The sadness of the dying year.

When violets pranked the turf with blue
And morning filled their cups with dew,
Thy slender voice with rippling trill
The budding April bowers would fill,
Nor passed its joyous tones away
When April rounded into May;
Thy life shall hail no second dawn,
Sing little bird! the Spring is gone.

And I remember—well a-day!—
When full-blown Summer roundelay,
As when behind a bordered screen
Some holy maiden sings unseen;
With answering notes the woodland ring,
And every tree-top found a tongue.
How deep the shade! the groves how fair!
Sing little bird! the woods are bare.

But now the Summer's chant is done
And mute the choral antiphon;
The birds have left the shivering pines
To flit among the trellised vines,
Or fan the air with scented plumes
Amid the love-sick orange-blooms,
And thou art here alone!—alone!—
Sing little bird! the rest have flown.

The snow has capped yon distant hill,
At morn the running brook was still,
From driven herds the clouds that rise
Are like the smoke of sacrifice,
Erelong the frozen sod shall mock
The ploughshare, changed to stubborn rock,
The brawling streams shall soon be dumb,
Sing little bird! the frosts have come.

Fast, fast the lengthening shadows creep,
The songless fowls are half asleep,
The air grows chill, the setting sun
May leave thee ere thy song is done,
The pulse that warms thy breast grow cold,
Thy secret die with thee, untold;
The lingering sunset still is bright,—
Sing little bird! 'twill soon be night.
—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

HOW IT CAME ABOUT.

"Autumn leaves!" Mrs. Haythorne cried out ecstatically.

For the little table was covered with drifts of red leaves and yellow leaves, and leaves veined with blood, and Mrs. Estcourt was bending intently over a half-finished wreath which she was fastening upon Bristol board.

"Yes, autumn leaves," she answered, looking up with a smile as she shook back the thick brown tresses from her fair forehead.

"Do you think [illegible] will buy them?"

Mrs. Haythorne shook her head dubiously.

"They are beautiful, Helen," she said, "but I suppose they may be classed with the merely ornamental articles for which there is no market."

Helen Estcourt sighed. She was a pale, lovely woman, with dewy red lips and eyes full of deep liquid lights like forest pools, and Mrs. Haythorne's kindly heart ached for her as she looked.

"But I will take a pair for my parlor walls, Helen," she added cheerily. "And perhaps some one else will see them, and leave an order with me."

"Oh, I hope they may," Mrs. Estcourt answered, with an eager flush on her cheek. "For I need money so much." And she sighed sadly as she bent over the radiant leaves.

A belt of autumn woods, glorious with tinted foliage and the scarlet berries of the bitter-sweet; a slope of green [illegible] where the sunshine slept in golden [illegible], and the little scarlet-hooded [illegible], with a basket on her arm, like Red Riding-Hood of yore.

"Crack!" sounded the sharp report of a gun, and little Lillian Estcourt dropped her basket, as a tall, bronze-faced man [illegible] his way through the woods and [illegible], rifle in hand, and game-bag [illegible] lightly over his shoulder.

"Hallo!" quoth Mr. Brian Beverley, [illegible] as much surprised as the little [illegible] herself. "Where is the wolf?"

"Sir!" faltered Lillian, holding on tight to her basket.

"Where's the wolf, I say?"

"There are no wolves in these woods, sir," Lilly answered, soberly.

"And you're going to see your grandmother, eh? with a little pat of butter and a loaf of white bread?"

"No, sir," said Lillian, secretly thinking the gentleman must be crazy. "I'm getting autumn leaves for mamma."

"Oh!" explained Mr. Beverley, "I thought you must be Little Red Riding-Hood."

"I am Lillian Estcourt," she stated, solemnly.

"Do you know," said the gentleman, lifting one of her sunny ringlets with his finger, "I came very near shooting you? I took you for a robin red-breast."

Lilly retreated in some apprehension, eyeing the big glittering rifle as she did so.

"I shouldn't like to be shot," she claimed.

"Probably not," assented Mr. Beverley. "Hallo! you've got the little basket full."

"Yes, quite full," said Lillian, with innocent pride. "Mamma will think they are very pretty."

"What does she do with them?" inquired Mr. Beverley. "Make fairy gold?"

"No, sir," Lillian answered, again puzzled. "She makes crosses and wreaths to sell."

"Oh, that's it, eh? Well, I can take you where there's a tree with leaves as red as if they had been painted in vermilion. Give me your hand, for it's a rough road."

Once or twice, as they walked along, Brian Beverley caught her earnest brown eyes fixed intently on his face.

"Well," said he at last, "and what do you think of me, Little Red Riding-Hood?"

"I think you are nice," returned the small physiognomist.

"You don't regard me in the light of a wolf, then?"

Lillian shook her head as she skipped along by his side.

"Oh!" she cried, suddenly, as they neared the edge of a steep ravine, at whose bottom a noisy stream gurgled over brown, mossy stones, "what a lovely red vine! I can get some of those leaves, I know."

"Stop!" cried Mr. Beverley, suddenly, as he noted the almost perpendicular rock over whose gray ledges the scarlet vine hung in wildly graceful festoons; but he was too late.

Little Lillian Estcourt had sprung forward; her foot slipped on the deceitful green moss; the vine to which she instinctively clung gave way with a crackling, wrenching sound, and the next instant she had vanished from Brian Beverley's terrified vision.

Only a little heap of clothes lay on the bank of the rivulet below, with the scarlet hood making a blot of vivid color not unlike a pool of blood. He called, but she did not stir; and with set teeth and pale cheek he hurried down the steep, winding path that led to the base of the ravine.

"Good heavens!" he murmured to himself; "if she should be dead!"

But Lillian Estcourt was not dead—only crippled for life. Mrs. Estcourt stood with clasped hands above her darling.

"If she should die!" she gasped, scarcely above her breath. "If God should take my little one from me!"

Poverty, trial, suffering, were all forgotten, and Helen Estcourt only remembered that she was a mother, and that the shadow of the Valley of Death hung darkly over her child.

It was a long and tedious recovery, but Brian Beverley kept his post at the side of the little bed, tireless in his patience, inexhaustible in his stock of fairy tales and elfin legends.

"O, Mr. Beverley, I like you so much!" said innocent Lillian. "I wish you would stay here always. Mamma, don't you?"

And Brian, who had neared the age of forty without so much as a pet dog or cat to miss him when he was gone, felt a curious sensation under the pocket where he carried his gold chronometer.

But it was scarcely in the nature of things that he could linger forever among the autumn woods of Dellvale, and when the first snow-flakes began to eddy through the air he packed his valise resolutely at the hotel, and walked down the glen to Mrs. Estcourt's humble cottage.

"Well," quoth he, striving to speak unconcernedly, "I am going home to-morrow."

"Going!" cried Lilly.

"Going!" fairly echoed Mrs. Estcourt, feeling a deadly pallor creep over her cheek.

"Yes," said Brian Beverly. "One can't linger on the shores of fairyland forever—can one, Little Red Riding Hood? But I've a proposition to make."

Mr. Beverly turned to the pale young widow.

"What is it?" cried Lilly eagerly.

"I would like to adopt your little girl, madam," said he. "I'm a lonely, crusty, middle-aged sort of a fellow, but I've an idea we should get on nicely together. She has no father; I want some one to love me. What do you say to the plan?"

Mrs. Estcourt burst into tears.

"Oh! I could not part with her," she faltered. "Remember, sir, she is all I have in the world!"

"Well, who asked you to part with her?" remonstrated Mr. Beverley. "I want you to come, too."

"Me?"

"As my wife. I know it's sudden, but I never did anything like any one else; at least so they say," added Mr. Beverley.

"Oh, mamma, do be his wife!" cried Lily, "I like him so much. And so do you; for you told Mrs. Haythorne so yesterday!"

"You do like me, then?" said Brian Beverley.

And something in his eyes brought the color to her cheek and the "Yes" to her lips.

And so the autumn shadows went out of her heart, and she weaves no more autumn leaves, only bouquets of spring rose-buds.—New York Ledger.

Aged Men in Congress.

The average age of our senators and representatives is not much above 40, perhaps between that figure and 45, while the average years of department officials, including bureau chiefs and cabinet officers, is certainly not much above 35, says the August (Ga.) Chronicle.

Of 400 men in the last Congress, only a dozen have reached the age of three score and ten, the oldest of them all being Senator Morrill, of Vermont, who will be 80 if he lives till next April. Mr. Morrill has been in the Senate twenty-two years, and before that was in the house for twelve years.

Senator Payne of Ohio, who has declared his intention of retiring from public life at the end of his present term, is but a few months younger than Senator Morrill. Both were born in the year 1810. Senators Dawes of Massachusetts and Sawyer of Wisconsin are 73.

Other old men in Congress are Representative Vandever of California, who is 73; Plumb of Illinois, who is 73, as is also Senator Reagan; Senators Evarts, Hampton and Bates, and Representative Rice of Minnesota each 71, and Senators Harris and Hearst each [illegible].

A Certain Sign.

De Jinks: "Why do you think Miss Carrington will ultimately decline my proposal?"

Morrill: "Because she has asked my advice on the subject."—Bazar.

PEARLS OF THOUGHT.

Adversity undermines many a structure of prosperity.

They never need fear a fall who never scale the heights.

He who wisely uses his wealth need not leave it for his tombstone.

True genius lurketh under cover, while arrogance stalks abroad in the full light of day.

Prosperity awaits all men, and even pursues some, but it is never found in the haunts of vice.

The sight of a man's money is oftentimes the antidote for the odor of a very bad character.

The wisest fish long escapes the most dangerous hooks, and is finally caught with a bent-up pin.

The ambition of youth looks forward to the triumphs of age, while sated age turns back a wistful eye along the rosy path of youth.

It is well the book of life is opened to us page by page. Were all the hard lines bared at once the task would be too hard to master.

There is nothing so elastic as the human mind. Like imprisoned steam, the more it is pressed the more it rises to resist the pressure. The more we are obliged to do, the more we are able to accomplish.

He who complains that the world is hollow and heartless unconsciously confesses his own lack of sympathy, while he who believes that people as a whole are kindly and humane is certain to have the milk of human kindness in his own nature.

An Appetizing Dish.

In many of the smallest eating houses almost anywhere in Paris the cooking is excellent; it doesn't make you ill. In some of them you get meals for one-quarter of the price, of the same quality, as in the greater hotels. I went to Paris, says a correspondent of the Philadelphia Times, almost for one dish, the filet de sole Margeurit being the chef's name, at the Cafe Margeurit. The sole used in this delicious plat is soft and delicate, very white and tender. The sole is boiled first—it's the only way to cook a sole—and then a sauce is poured over it, and it is served with excellent butter—not a frequent thing in Paris, I assure you, for the butter in Europe is, as a rule, bad. This sauce is a revelation to people who haven't eaten it. It is made of shrimps and mussels. You never have tasted such delicious ecrevisses as is used at the Margeurit for that sauce; their shrimps are juicy little fat bulbs, different from ours, and are cooked with the mussels, the whole being finally poured over the sole. We can't get such fish here any more than we can such mussels or such shrimps. A bottle of Hock and small French rolls are the proper accompaniments of the filet de sole Margeurit.

Uncle Sam's Boys and Girls.

In 1880 there were 50,000,000 people in the country, and about 882,000 more males than females. That was only because more males were born; the females live the longest. Of the centenarians 1400 were men, and 2907 were women. The boys start out nearly 1,000,000 ahead, and are in the majority until the sixteenth year, when the girls are a little more numerous. Sweet sixteen is a numerous age anyhow. After that first one then another is in the majority, the girls gradually gaining after thirty-six, and leaving the men far behind at seventy-five. To balance this longevity of the females, in almost every State a few more boys are born; not many more, but always a few. It is astonishing to see where the census gives thousands and hundreds of thousands of boys and girls under one year old, there are, with one or two exceptions, always a few hundred more boys, and only a few hundred more.—New York Journal.

Degenerate Ascetics.

Henry Norman describing the people of Annam in the Washington Star, says: compared with the Chinese, the Annamites strike you as a nation of pigmies. Their average height must be under five feet, they are narrow-chested and thin-legged, their mouths are always stained a slobbering, filthy red with the areca nut and lime they chew unceasingly, and they are stupid beyond the power of words to tell. Whether it is the fault of their French conquerers or not I cannot say, but they appear to be a people destitute of self-respect. At any rate the French treat them as if they had none. The first time I went into dejeuner at the hotel at Haiphong one of the "boys" had left a dirty plate on the little table to which the host showed me. "What did you leave that there for?" demanded the latter pointing to the plate, and smack'd a box on the ears followed that you could have heard fifty yards off. And this in the middle of a crowded dining room. You would no more think of striking a Chinese servant like that than of tweaking a policeman's nose on Broadway. Before a Frenchman an Annamite appears to have no rights. Both men and women in Tongking wear their hair long and twisted up into a kind of chignon on the top of the head. It is, of course, always lanky and jet-black. Their dress is of the most simple. The men wear a loose jacket and short trousers, and the women a long straight shift reaching from neck to heels. The Annamite man is a very poor creature, and it is only among the upper classes that one sees occasionally a well-formed or handsome face with some elevation or dignity of expression. The women are much better looking, and often would be pretty, except for the stained mouth and teeth, which render them horrible to a European eye. But in figure they are much the most favored of any I have yet seen in the east, and in the course of a walk in Hanoi you may meet a dozen who are straight enough, and strong enough, and shapely enough to serve as sculptor's models. Their native dance is a burlesque of the Japanese, to the accompaniment of a fiddle six feet long.

About Finger Nails.

A white mark on the nail bespeaks misfortune.

Pale or lead-colored nails indicate melancholy people.

Broad nails indicate a gentle, timid and bashful nature.

Lovers of knowledge and liberal sentiment have round nails.

People with narrow nails are ambitious and quarrelsome.

Small nails indicate littleness of mind, obstinacy and conceit.

Choleric, martial men, delighting in war, have red and spotted nails.

Nails growing into the flesh at the points or sides indicate luxurious tastes.

People with very pale nails are subject to much infirmity of the flesh and persecution by neighbors and friends.

A Warning.

Do you happen to be wearing a false eye? And if you do, is it made of celluloid? In that case you would do well to change it for a glass one at the first opportunity. Nobody has yet reported the explosion of a celluloid eye, though, as celluloid has been dangerous in other fabrications, the optic absurdity may yet go to that length; but several surgeons have reported severe and dangerous irritations and inflammations, for which after much observation and study, the celluloid is now held responsible. Unless the evil has reached an extreme point cure follows the substitution of a glass eye.—New York Herald.

[illegible]

"How intense are the eyes of love!" exclaimed the poet.

"Yes," [illegible]

INSTINCT OF MINE RATS.

How They Foretell a Disaster by Fleeing From the Fated Spot.

As the work of mining advances in the great coal mines of Pennsylvania the collapse of the workings becomes more frequent, more extensive and more fatal. After all the coal has been removed then the coal pillars left to support the roof are mined away, and this is called "robbing the pillars," and is an extremely hazardous undertaking. It is, however, done by the employes of the coal company, and not by heedless thieves, as the phrase would suggest.

There was a great fall of roof in one of the principal mines of Archbald, in the northern portion of the Lackawanna Valley, recently. The men had been "robbing pillars," and had made considerable headway. Everything looked all right Saturday evening when they quit work, but when they returned to the mine on Monday morning they found that acres of the roof had fallen in, and a great field of rock, from three to nine feet in thickness, lay on the floor of the colliery, after having ground several stout anthracite pillars to powder. The miners congratulated themselves on the fact that the great rock, which must have weighed millions of tons, had fallen on Sunday when they were absent from the mine.

In cases of a falling roof, the experienced miner is forewarned by the cracking sounds, often as sharp as a pistol-shot, that invariably precede the downrush of the great mass; but an infallible warning of future danger is said to be the desertion of the mine by the huge rats that make the slopes their home.

The belief in this particular notion is quite general throughout the coal-fields, and, repulsive as the great, fierce mine rat is to the miner, he likes to see it at ease in the dismal depths where death is of such frequent occurrence. There is good reason for associating the disappearance of the rat from a colliery with an impending disaster. The rat is a sensitive thing; it makes its resting place in the nooks and crannies of the mine, and it feels the first slow movement of the crumbling rocks as they begin to squeeze and settle and shape themselves for the disaster which culminates in the fall of the roof. The wary rat is the first to feel the commotion. He is dazed by the grinding motion of the rocks, he undoubtedly thinks they have suddenly become imbued with life, and he flees with his fellows, panic-stricken from the place.

The first great fall of roof that ever occurred was at Carbondale about thirty-five or forty years ago. The entire side of the mountain fell in and several lives were lost. Several days before the disaster the people of the neighborhood were astonished to see swarms of rats leaving the mine. This fact was recalled after the great disaster occurred, and the rats were credited with extraordinary foresight.

The rats become very bold in the mines. They will frequently take a piece of bread or meat from a miner's hand, and follow him about for food. A miner that is not easily frightened says that he has been scared by mine rats. On one occasion he had a considerable distance to go, and he had to pass through a portion of an old working. There he encountered about a dozen rats. They were large and fierce, and were not a bit startled by his presence. On the contrary, they soon showed that they rather liked his company. His oil was burning low in his lamp, and smelled very strong, and it was evident that it had a great attraction to the hungry rats. They followed close at his heels, and whenever he hastened his speed they did the same. His only hope was in keeping the tiny flame in his lamp glowing, and he felt that if it was extinguished by any mishap they would attack him at once. It was with unspeakable relief that he reached his destination before the last faint flicker of his lamp died out.

[illegible]

Charlie—I see, Mamie, that diamonds are no longer fashionable for engagement rings. Pearls are all the rage now. Of course, you want to be in the fashion?

Mamie—No. I never did care much for the edicts of fashion. You may get me a diamond engagement ring, Charlie, if they are no longer fashionable they must be cheaper.

Charlie hadn't the courage to explain that a pearl engagement ring cost 75 per cent. less than a diamond.—[illegible]

The Naval Board, which has been considering the [illegible]

THE FASHIONS IN HAIR.

Gray Hair the Choicest, and Chestnut Next in Popularity.

"As every woman knows," said an authority, "fashions are constantly changing, and what was stylish and altogether lovely a few months ago is now discarded for newer fancies, which in turn will be equally undesirable and old-fashioned in a few months to come.

"This is true not only of man's creations, but of nature's gifts also, the figure, the complexion, and hair being improved (?) by turn. For instance, during the ensuing season slight women can congratulate themselves that it is decreed that they, rather than their sisters of more generous proportions, shall be the fashion. Again, the pale complexion is no longer to be coveted and cultivated, the rosy, healthy one having superseded it entirely in popular favor, and golden hair is altogether at a discount, a rich shade of chestnut having been promoted to the place once occupied by it. Were it possible, by the agency of some subtle alchemy, to change the color of the eyes, doubtless blue, black, brown, and hazel would alternately have the ascendancy in public estimation.

"Just at present, however, nature is being allowed to have almost complete sway in regard to the color of the hair, and it is no longer fashionable to use dyes for the concealment of gray hair. In fact, a young woman with silver tresses may consider herself a most favored being, for gray hair is all the rage, and, as it cannot possibly be counterfeited, except by the wearing of a wig, a natural head of such hair is invaluable to the possessor."

These facts were substantiated by an interview with the proprietress of a Fifth avenue establishment where a specialty is made of gray hair.

"I have been trying for years," said she, "to induce ladies who were beginning to get gray to yield gracefully and wear their own hair, and I consider that I have done much toward bringing about this desirable result. Many customers who formerly paid me hundreds of dollars for wigs and 'waves' to cover up the gray hair have now discarded them, and where additional hair is required are having it made to match the natural color. The results obtained are so satisfactory that every one is delighted, for the face is invariably softened and made to look younger by gray hair.

"We hair dealers are well pleased with this boom in gray hair, which helps business along amazingly. Last Monday one order alone was for $400 worth of gray hair, and that only included a large switch and a 'wave,' but the hair furnished was of the finest quality. Many wigs cost much more than that, the price depending altogether on the shade and quality of the hair used, white being exceedingly valuable. Gray hair is especially becoming to florid complexions, and least so to those of a very yellow hue, but in every case nature seems to provide the shade of gray best suited to harmonize with the complexion. Many gray switches, waves, and bangs are made from goats' hair, which is so beautifully prepared and dressed that the majority of people cannot tell the difference between it and human hair, but that there is a vast difference is indicated by the relative value of each."—[New York Sun.

A Curious Life History.

There is a hard sandstone in Provence, interspersed with friable strata, in which burrowing insects construct their chambers. A kind of bee, the Anthophorus, makes nests there and fills them with honey, on which it leaves its egg to float; then, finally, plasters up its chamber. Instead of Anthophores, entirely different insects come out from these nests—Sitaris, belonging to a group very remote from the bees. Let us see how they manage to substitute themselves for the legitimate proprietor of the nest. In the autumn the female of the Sitaris deposits her eggs in front of the sealed galleries of the Anthophorus. The young are hatched from these [illegible]

As many as 717,[illegible] gallons of malt liquor were consumed in the United States last year. Nearly all of it was produced in the Republic, only 2,[illegible],000 gallons being imported. The per capita now reaches [illegible] gallons—nearly eight times what it was in [illegible]. Of distilled spirits 71,[illegible] gallons were used in 1887—a less quantity than was used in 1860, when the population was only half as large.

[illegible]

[illegible]

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., DEC. 26, 1889.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year	$1.50
One copy six months	75
One copy four "	50

Three of Dr. Cronin's murderers were sentenced to imprisonment for life in Chicago Monday.

The Birmingham Evening papers are both models of excellence and often furnish important news twelve hours ahead of the morning press. Three issues of the Chronicle sometimes reach us in one mail. That is bad and we want to know where the fault is.

A Montgomery saloonist advertises under the head in large type: "I. Brickman kills a man." If the whiskey traffic would only stop with the killing of a man now and then it would not be so bad, but the whiskey seller can just as truly say to the world that he kills men, women and children, and there will be no one to doubt him.

A writer in a scientific magazine says the earth is being bored too much and is liable to lose its place among the heavenly bodies in consequence. The busy editor can sympathise with the earth. He is also likely to lose his place among the heavenly bodies from being bored too much—judging from the language he uses when the bore leaves.

The Bibb Blade defends its use of the word "shined" on the score of poetic license. The Blade appears to be going from bad to worse. Does our much esteemed contemporary really think there is any poetry in its sentence: "The sun shined out in the winter sky?" If so we think its poet had better leave the "liberal construction of grammatical law" to the Chaucers and the Poes and adhere to the rules of grammar, or his poetry will often be mistaken for boot-black prose.

Commenting on President Harrison's late message to Congress the Pekin (Ill.) Times says: "Free whiskey and tobacco are to b given the people in lieu of free blankets, free lumber, free coal, free carpets, free tools, free glass and free household furnishings. This is in redemption of the pledge by the mill owners' convention of 1888 which nominated Harrison and whose shameful illustration of his immoral policy is even yet ignored by many Republicans, who may read as they run, but who will not believe."

The Chicago Inter-Ocean paid this tribute to two Southern women who recently visited that city as delegates to the W. C. T. U. Convention. "The Southern delegates were represented by Miss Frances E. Griffin, of Alabama, and Mrs. Sallie Chapin, of South Carolina. Both were graceful and convincing in their way of putting temperance facts that related to work in the South. The pleasant Southern manner and the musical Southern voice made a very agreeable impression upon the audience, and they were given three rousing cheers as they made their bow. Both were fine representatives of the new South.

We hear the objection made that prohibition of the sale and use of intoxicating liquors will tend to make men hypocrites. This means we suppose, that men will resort to mean subterfuges and hypocritical pretences to obtain their drinks. Now they need dissemble only by affecting a very steady walk, and carefully disguising their breath by the use of "cloves," and other devices. If prohibition come they would have a resort to additional hypocrisies. Very well. Are not anti-gambling laws fruitful in just such devices? Do not men ask for the coming of darkness before they venture into the "hells?" Do they not dodge around corners and watch to see who is following them? Must not the blinds be down and the shutters closed when they are "fighting the tiger"—truly a fierce and cruel tiger. What then? Shall we repeal the laws against gambling? Shall we order the police never to arrest a keeper of a gambling house? Shall we give the art of the croupier absolute freedom and banish all the statutes which restrain this wicked "industry?" Nay, had we not better put the liquor seller and the gambling table in the same shadow where men will have to hunt for them, and dodge meanly about to find them.—Presbyterian.

ALLIANCE AND KNIGHTS OF LABOR.

The New Party Platform Announced at St. Louis.

St. Louis, Dec. 6.—Agreement made this day between the undersigned committee representing the National Farmers' Alliance and Industrial Union on the one part, and the undersigned committee representing the Knight's of Labor on the other part, witnesseth:

I

That we demand the abolition of national banks and the substitution of legal tender treasury notes notes in lieu of national bank notes; issued in sufficient volume to do the business of the country on a cash system; regulating the amount needed on a per capita basis as the business interests of the country demands, and that all money issued by the government shall be legal tender in payment of all debts, both public and private.

II

That we demand that Congress shall pass such laws as shall effectually prevent the dealing in futures of all agricultural and mechanical productions, pursuing a stringent system of proceedure in trials as shall secure the prompt conviction and imposing of such penalties as shall secure the most perfect compliance with law.

III

That we demand the free and unlimited coinage of silver.

IV.

That we demand the passage of laws prohibiting the alien ownership of lands, and that Congress take early action to devise some plan to obtain by purchase all lands now owned by aliens and foreign syndicates, and that all lands now held by railroad and other corporations in excess of such as is actually used by them be purchased by the Government and held for actual settlers only.

V

Believing in the doctorine of equal rights to all and special favors to none, we demand that taxation National or State, shall not be used to build up one interest or class at the expense of another. We believe that the money of the country should be kept as much as possible in the hands of the people, and hence we demand that all revenues, National, State, or County, shall be limited to the necessary expenses of the Government, economically and honestly administered.

VI.

That Congress issue a sufficient amount of fractional paper currency to facilitate exchange thro' the medium of the United States mail.

VII.

That the means of communication shall be controlled by and operated in the interest of the people, through the United States postal system.

For the best protection of the interests of the two organizations it is hereby agreed that such seals or emblems as the National Farmers' Alliance and Industrial Union may adopt will be recognized and protected in transit or otherwise by the Knights of Labor, and that all seals and labels of the Knights of Labor will in like manner be recognized by the Farmers' Alliance and Industrial Union.

Praise of the Flag.

Mr. Davis' loyalty to the Union was questioned at one time. He answered in a speech in the senate in February, 1850. In that speech is a burst of eloquence that in pathos, strength and beauty is not surpassed by anything in our whole political literature. He said:

"Lightly and loosely, representatives of the Southern people have been denounced as disunionists by that portion of the Northern press which most disturbs the harmony and endangers the perpetuity of the Union. Such even has been my own case, though the man does not breathe at whose door the charge of disunion might not as well be laid as at mine. The son of a Revolutionary soldier, attachment to this Union was among the first lessons of my childhood; bred to the service of my country, from boyhood to mature age I wore its uniform. Through the brightest portion of my life I was accustomed to see our flag, historic emblem of the Union, rise with the rising and fall with the setting sun. I look upon it now with the affection of my early love, and seek to preserve it by a strict adherence to the Constitution, from which it had its birth and by the nurture of which its stars have come so much to out number its original stripes. Shall that flag, which has gathered fresh glory in every war and become more radiant still by the conquest of peace—shall that flag now be torn by domestic faction and trodden in the dust by sectional rivalry? Shall we of the South, who have shared equally with you all your toils, all your dangers, all your adversities, and who equally rejoice in your prosperity and your fame—shall we be denied those benefits guaranteed by our compact or gathered as the common fruits of a common country? If so, self-respect requires that we should assert them, and, as best we may, maintain that which we would not surrender without losing your respect as well as our own.

EDUCATION.

A Composition by Belle Watts 2nd Grade Student of Clanton Academy.

Education is the light of the world, and the foundation of prosperity. With what an early care and wonderful apparatus does Providence begin the work of human education! It is the first and only successful method that has ever been obtained to enlighten the world. This grand work has been in operation a vast number of years, and yet there are many dark places in the world to-day awaiting its introduction. Those that are well acquainted with the nature of education are making life a success. The grand constitution under which we live and labor is supported by education obtained by hard and arduous study. It is the unfolding of the whole human nature. The progress of the world depends on education. It is the forming of virtue, society and all the principal industrial pursuits of life. The learned can always behold the glittering rays of enlightenment while the uneducated remain in total darkness. It is important that this true idea should be impressed on our minds, that we may be benefitted by it. Now is the time for us to realize the fact that education is the grand motor that gives energy to all the magnificent structures that loom up before us in the land. So important a question on which the practical issues of life are staked is well worth consideration. Education demands the first place in the affairs of life. We should commence while young. Virtue, honesty, and the love of truth should be factors that we may be able to escape the wiles of false education, which lures to the ruin of both body and mind. With the teaching there must be the earnest desire and purpose in our own souls to grow, to become deeper, higher, nobler, day by day. When our school days are over and we venture out into the world to obtain an honorable position in life, it is natural to suppose, that we want to be crowned with success, if so, all the faculties given us must be duly cultivated, for each one is a link in the chain which if not united, would leave an incomplete chain. To think of the educated obtaining high position in life, and reaping the benefit of the seed sown in their school days should be enough to convince us of the fact, that every moment of time should be spent in cultivating the mind to the best advantage. It should be our earnest desire to be abundantly rewarded in the future for when our school days are over, they are gone never, never to be recalled, and it will afford us a pleasant retrospection to look back on our school days if we have been successful in obtaining an education. No doubt many of us would be more persevering and energetic in securing an education if we thought we could exchange it for something more valuable, but after we have obtained it, we then can realize the fact that there is nothing that can excel it in value. It is the most valuable property that can be purchased. We can be robbed of money, stock, land and all personal property, but, if we have an education no one can take it from us. We have the advantage of the uneducated in society and in the business of life in general. We have our choice in obtaining positions in life. So many of us are careless and indifferent as to our welfare in the future. We don't seem to think until it is too late, and then we will look back, and regret that we cannot recall the unimproved time spent in school. May we realize the fact that we are not sowing for others to reap, but what we sow that we shall reap, great or small as the reward may be. It is not the vast number of books we go over in school, but what we gain in the operation. Life is a school. The periods of life are its terms; all human conditions are but its forms, all human employments its lessons.

How to Get Along in the World.

Pay as you go, or don't go.

Never "fool" in business matters.

Learn to think and act for yourself.

Do not kick every one in your path.

Keep ahead, rather than behind the times.

Don't stop to tell stories in business hours, but proceed with your work, or business.

Use your own brains in your business rather than those of other people.

Have order, promptness, regularity and system in everything.

Do not meddle with a business that you know nothing about.

A man of honor always respects his word as he honors his bond.

Learn to say no. No necessity of snapping it off short, but say it in a determined and respectful manner.

No remedy for blood disorders can equal Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Though concentrated and powerful, this medicine is perfectly safe, and may be taken by children as well as adults. Physicians recommend it in preference to any other. Price $1. Worth $5 a bottle.

If you suffer pricking pains on moving the eyes, or cannot bear bright light, and find your sight weak and failing, you should promptly use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Eye Salve. 25 cents a box.

Far better than the harsh treatment of medicines which horribly gripe the patient and destroy the coating of the stomach, Dr. J. H. McLean's Chill and Fever, by mild yet effective action will cure. Sold at 50 cents a bottle.

The following is an extract from a real composition, written by a small school boy in New Jersey. The subject given by the teacher was the extensive one of "Man." Here is what the small boy wrote: "Man is a wonderful animal. He has eyes, ears, mouth. His ears are mostly for catching cold in and having the earache. The nose is to get sniffles with. A man's body is split half way up, and he walks on the split ends."—Lippincott's Magazine.

If you suffer from any affection caused by impure blood, such as scrofula, salt rheum, sores, boils, pimples, tetter, ring worm, take Dr. J. H. McLean's Sarsaparilla.

The quality of the blood depends much upon good or bad digestion and assimilation. To make the blood rich in life and strength-giving constituents use Dr. J. H. McLean's Sarsaparilla. It will nourish the properties of the blood, from which the elements of vitality are drawn.

There are but three classes of men in every community, the retrograde, the stationary, and the progressive. The first two have little or no regard for the newspaper and its influence and read it simply to see "what is going on," but who could fold their arms and see it die with the utmost complacency, leaving the progressive class the only real sufferers. The retrograde and stationary classes of every community are generally the critics of the newspapers, and, as Steele says: "Of all mortals a critic is the silliest; for by inuring himself to examime everything, whether of consequence or not, he never looks upon anything but with a design of passing sentence upon it."—Press and Printer.

Sick headace, wind on the stomach billiousness, nausea, are promptly and agreeably banished by Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pillets, 25 c a vial.

When nature falters and requires help recruit her enfeebled energies with Dr. J. H. McLean's strengthening cordial and blood purifier. $1.00 per bot.

The Confederate Veterans Association of Chilton County will meet in Clanton, on Jan. 18th at one o'clock p. m.

Physicians prescribe Dr. J. H. McLean's Tar Wine Lung Balm; in it they find no trace of opium or morphia, while its efficacy in curing all throat and lung diseases is wonderful.

There are many accidents and diseases which affect stock and cause serious inconvenience and loss to the farmer in his work, which may be quickly remedied by the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment.

Go to Blank Brothers, Leading Clothiers, 2112, 2nd Avenue, Birmingham, Ala., to buy anything you need in the way of clothing and gent's furnishing goods.

"It goes right to the spot," said an old man, who was rubbing in Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment to relieve rheumatism. oct31

Assessor's Notice.

FIRST ROUND.

I will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of assessing the State and county taxes of Chilton county, for the year 1890:

Mineral Springs,	January	30
Jemison,	"	23 & 24
Providence	"	27
Macedonia	"	22
Benson	"	21
Maplesville	"	18
R. Latham's	"	17
Dixie	"	13
Kincheon	"	7
Verbena	"	2
Cooper's	"	1
Clanton,	February	3
Mountain Creek	January	3
Well's Saw Mill	"	4
Callaway's Grist Mill	"	6
Chandler's Saw Mill	February	7
Pilgrim's Rest	January	8
Clanton Ford	"	9
Stanton	"	11
Chilton Lumber Co.'s Mill	"	14
Welch & Bro.'s Saw Mill	"	15
Valley Creek Church	"	16
Concord Church	"	25
Elijah Busby's	"	28
Archie's Chapel	"	29
Strasburg	"	31
Cane Creek Church	February	4
John Gore's	"	5
E. T. Gullahorn's Saw Mill	"	6

E. G. ROLLINS,
Tax Assessor Chilton Co.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

Land Office, Montgomery, Ala.,
Dec. 17, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 25th, 1890, viz: John E. Littleton, homestead 14685 for the e ½ of s e ¼ and e ½ of n e ¼ sec 10, township 23 n, range 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: John W. Williamson, Frank Marcus, LaFayette Mannis, and Jefferson Stephens, all of Jumbia, Ala.

J. H. BINGHAM, dec19* Register.

CONSUMPTION,

In its first stages, can be successfully checked by the prompt use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Even in the later periods of that disease, the cough is wonderfully relieved by this medicine.

"I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral with the best effect in my practice. This wonderful preparation once saved my life. I had a constant cough, night sweats, was greatly reduced in flesh, and given up by my physician. One bottle and a half of the Pectoral cured me."—A. J. Eidson, M. D., Middleton, Tennessee.

"Several years ago I was severely ill. The doctors said I was in consumption, and that they could do nothing for me, but advised me, as a last resort, to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After taking this medicine two or three months I was cured, and my health remains good to the present day."—James Birchard, Darien, Conn.

"Several years ago, on a passage home from California, by water, I contracted so severe a cold that for some days I was confined to my state-room, and a physician on board considered my life in danger. Happening to have a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, I used it freely, and my lungs were soon restored to a healthy condition. Since then I have invariably recommended this preparation."—J. B. Chandler, Junction, Va.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

PREPARED BY
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

tma16

CLANTON HIGH SCHOOL.

:o:

This School will open Monday, Sept. the 2nd, 1889. Advantages the best in the county. Rates low, board and tuition $10 per month. Patronage is earnestly desired. For further information address me at Clanton, Ala.

Respectfully,
A. J. SCOTT, Principal.

W. W. C.

(Wooldridge's Wonderful Cure)

Is the greatest Blood Purifier ever yet discovered. It never fails to cure when taken according to directions. Read what it has done for Mr. A. Kimbrough:

COLUMBUS, GA., July 15, 1889.

Wooldridge Wonderful Cure Co., Columbus, Ga.

GENTS:—After suffering for twenty years with my kidneys, and finding only temporary relief, after taking various remedies, and consulting some of the most noted physicians in the country, at a cost of hundreds of dollars, for no good, I decided to try W. W. C., and I must confess that I am to-day as well as I ever was, and that I suffer no pain whatever from my kidneys, and am feeling better in every respect than I have for years, and I attribute it all to two bottles of W. W. C.; and I would advise all who suffer in the least with kidney or bladder troubles to give W. W. C. a trial. Yours truly,

A. KIMBROUGH.

WOOLDRIDGE'S WONDERFUL CURE is a sure Remedy for Syphilis, Syphilitic Rheumatism, Chronic Rheumatism, Skin Diseases, Bone Diseases, Old Sores, Billous Troubles, Liver Diseases, Jaundice, Billous Headache, Dyspepsia, and all Diseases caused from Impure and Poisoned Blood or Hereditary Diseases.

For sale by all Druggists.

Manufactured by
Wooldridge Wonderful Cure Co.,
COLUMBUS, GA.
sep19 y

Barber Shop.

Mr. H. A. Logan, who has his barber shop upstairs in the Allen Building, solicits the patronage of the good people of Clanton. He does good work and is well fixed up for the business.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.
November 21, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 6th, 1889, viz: Andrew J. Wyatt, homestead 1403 for the s ½ of s w ¼ sec 28 t 21 n range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Madison Popwell, John Popwell, John R. Kemp and Gill Elland, all of Kincheon, Ala.

nov21* J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 20, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 11, 1889, viz: Charlie Jackson, homestead 15251 for the n e ¼ of sec. 20 township 21 n, range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Daniel Martin, Emmet Culp, Andy Foshee and James Headley, all of Clanton, Ala.

nov21* J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 20, 1880.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 10, 1890, viz: James W. Conell, homestead 14074 for the s ½ of n e q, n w q of s e q, n e q of s w q, sec 24, township 22 n, range 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: A. J. Peters, R. E. Jones, J. M. Parish, William Mims, all of Clanton, Ala.

nov21* J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

Mortgage Sale.

Under and by virtue of a mortgage executed to the undersigned by Abe Lewis and recorded in mortgage book, No. 20, page 29, in the office of the Judge of Probate of Chilton county, I will proceed to sell, on the 28th day of December, 1889, at the courthouse door of said county, within the hours of legal sale, the following described real estate to-wit: The northwest quarter (n w ¼) of the northeast quarter (n e ¼) of section thirty-three (33) in township twenty (20) of range eleven (11) containing fifty acres more or less.

FRANK HARRIS,
dec5* Mortgagee.

Bring your job printing to this office.

The Lawson Carpet Co

Birmingham, Ala.

Take pleasure in directing the attention the people of Chilton county to their larg and attractive stock of

Carpets, Oil-cloths, Window Shades,

Curtains & Household Noveltie

The Stock represented is the finest in Alabama, and prices are guarant low as similar goods are offered in any of the eastern markets.

☞ All communications answered by return mail. Respectfully, ma30-y THE LAWSON CARPET CO. (WM. LAWSO

BAINS & PORTER.

(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & PEEBLES.)

WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.

Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt tention.

FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALT

1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS
Birmingham, Ala.

☞ Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜

P. O. BOX 570. June 19 y

LOOK ✻ HERE!

New Stock! Low Price

—AT—

W. M. WILSON & BRO.'S

CLANTON, ALA.

We have opened a Large Stock of Dry Goods, Groceries and General chandise at our old Stand, and we have come to stay. We invite inspection of our goods and prices.

☞ SHOES AND HATS A SPECIALTY. ☜

THOMAS FOSHEE,

(SUCCESSOR TO N. W. FOSHEE,)

Dry Goods, Groceries

—AND—

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

Maplesville, Alabama.

I solicit a continuance of the liberal patronage hereto extended our house. Respectfully,
feb 28-y THOMAS FOSHEE.

WALL PAPER,

WINDOW SHADES,

MOULDINGS,

—AND—

PRACTICAL PAPER HANG

H. M. MANCHA,

204 DEXTER AVENUE, MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA.

☞ Papers furnished at any price from 10 cents up. Will samples on application. apr 11-y

BIRMINGHAM MARBLE WORKS.

THOS. H. HOLT,

PRACTICAL WORKMAN.

—AND DEALER IN—

American and Italian Marble.

—Manufacturer of all kinds of—

CEMETERY MARBLE AND STONE WOR

Cor. Second Avenue and Twenty-Fourth Street, Birmingham, - - - Alabama.
nov29-tf

B. WOLFF'S

FURNITURE EMPORIUM,

[illegible]

—MONTGOMERY, ALA.—

CARRIES

The Largest and Cheapest Stock of Furni

IN THE STATE.

[illegible]

GO TO BLANK BROS, LEADING CLOTHIERS, 2112 SECOND AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., DEC. 26, 1889.

THE VIEW is published every Thursday morning and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

A cross mark (X) after your name means that your subscription is due and that we would be glad to have you renew.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the second Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—On the eleventh Monday after the fourth Monday in February, and on the thirteenth Monday after the fourth Monday in August, and may continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD.—Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.

No. 1 Express at	*1:15 a. m.
No. 3 Mail	5:43 p. m.
No. 11 (Passenger)	6:20 p. m.
No. 9 Accommodation	6:45 a. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 2 Fast (Don't Stop)	2:20 a. m.
No. 6 Mail	9:11 a. m.
No. 4 Express	7:55 p. m.
No. 10 Accommodation	6:20 p. m.

*Don't Stop.

LOCAL LACONICS.

Mr. Wallace Glover, of Pratt Saw Mill, was in town Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Frye visited relatives here the past week.

A handsome new cottage organ for sale at half price at this office.

Frank Nelson, Jr., of Columbiana, was in Clanton Monday on business.

Several families from the Jumbo neighborhood left for Texas last week.

Mrs. L. Holt leaves to-morrow for Mississippi, where she will visit relatives.

Mr. J. W. Martin, of Union Springs, has been visiting his wife in Clanton.

Mr. E. H. Lowe, of Cooper's, brought us a pumpkin three feet in length, Wednesday.

Thomas J. Henderson has been appointed postmaster at Mountain Creek, Ala.

The Methodist Sunday School are to have a Christmas tree for the children Xmas.

The young people are to have a dance one night during Christmas week at Enrman's hall.

Little Annie Lee Ashley has received as a Christmas present a Maltese cat from New York.

Mr. Gus Midleton, of Letohatchee, Lowndes Co., has been visiting his father at this place.

Three negro boys charged with throwing rocks at a train of the L. & N. road were jailed here Tuesday.

Rev. R. M. Houevcut, president of the county Alliance came down to hear the address of Mr. Brassell on Tuesday.

Following our usual custom there will be no paper issued from this office next week except file copies for legal advertising requirements.

Mrs. Ponder and Mr. Evans Pinkard went to Tuskegee Monday to attend the funeral of Mrs. F. Pinkard who died at her home in Tuskegee last Monday morning.

A young white man named Dock Wilkins was jailed here on Monday on two charges found by the last grand jury one of which is supposed to be for running a blind tiger, the other for selling mortgaged property.

If you want jewelry, diamonds, silverware, hair ornaments, bric-a-brac or anything of the kind, the place to get them at low prices is at C. L. Ruth's, 15 Dexter Avenue, Montgomery. He has a beautiful and varied stock to select from.

Notice to the Public.

From November 1st to January 1st, no goods will be sold on credit at my store, and I hope no one will get their feelings hurt by failing to get credit. I intend to meet any competition in this market, and in order to do so I must sell for the money down.

All parties who have not yet paid their accounts for this year are earnestly requested to call and settle at once.

Respectfully,

W. L. SAMPEY.

An elegant line of job printing stationery just received at this office. Prices to suit.

Rev. A. J. Briggs, our new Methodist pastor, will reside in Clanton. This will be good news and he and his household will be warmly welcomed.

Mrs. W. H. Foshee and children have returned from an extended visit to relatives in Arkansas. We are glad to note that Mrs. Foshee's health was much improved by the trip.

We present our readers with a composition written by a pupil of Clanton Academy, Miss Belle Watts. It is published by request. Its literary and moral excellence will attract attention, coming from one so young.

Mr. A. B. Brassell and Mr. Keneth, clerk in commissioner Kolb's office, delivered addresses to the Alliancemen at the court house on Tuesday morning. Their talks were on Alliance matters and they had a good audience.

Mr. C. W. Mitchell donated a large white head cabbage weighing 8 pounds and two mammoth turnips which he had raised on his farm, to our larder on Saturday. With such friends we will manage to pull through the few remaining days of 1889.

The store of Mr. J. T. Mullins at Verbena was broken into on Thursday night and his safe was blown open with giant powder and $1100 in cash stolen. Some goods were stolen and some valuable papers were also taken along with the cash from the safe. The loss falls particularly hard on Mr. Mullins, and his many friends will regret to learn of it. No clue to the thieves yet.

Three revenue officers captured an illicit distillery in Coosa county near Adam's Ferry last Friday. The still was on the Noah Foshee place and was being run by two of Foshee's sons, both of whom were arrested and carried to Montgomery to answer the charges against them in the U. S. Court. The distillery outfit was brought to Clanton instead of being destroyed as is generally done in such cases we believe.

Mr. W. E. Woolfolk, who passed through last week en route to Maplesville in interest of the right of way for the M. T. & M. road, returned through Prattville Saturday, and stated that he had met with great success on this trip and that the right of way was complete to Maplesville with but few exceptions, which would be settled amicably in the proper time.—Prattville Progress.

Plan of Clanton Circuit.

Rev. A. J. Briggs, pastor, will preach at the following churches at the times named:

1ST SUNDAY IN JANUARY, 1890—Clanton 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. Pierce's Chapel 3:30 p. m.

2ND SUNDAY—Jemison 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. Mount Moriah 3:30 p. m.

3D SUNDAY—Clanton 11 a. m. and 7 p. m.

SATURDAY BEFORE THE 3D SUNDAY—Lime Spring 11 a. m.

4TH SUNDAY—Isabella 11 a. m. White's School House 3:30 p. m.

Cooper's Station Items.

The Sabbath school at Chestnut Creek has decided to have their Xmas tree on Christmas eve night instead of Christmas night.

We are glad to know that Rev. A. E. Burns will be our pastor at Chestnut Creek Church for the ensuing year. Bro. Burns is a warm and energetic minister, and will find welcome at every door among us.

The farmers are still marketing cotton at Cooper's. Hence the farmers are out of debt, and have been holding their cotton.

I AM.

Verbena Verbiage.

Last Wednesday night burglars broke open the store of Mr. Mullins, blew the safe open and carried off $1350. No clue to the robbery.

The charming Misses McGee, of Montgomery are visiting Miss Hulit Thompson, of this village.

Miss Griffin's lecture on temperance was perfectly grand. Quite a large crowd was present. Miss Griffin has struck her talent and may God speed her in the great and good work she has undertaken.

Business is getting lively. Nearly Christmas.

Nearly all colds are slight, at first, but their tendency is to so lower the system that the sufferer becomes a ready victim to any prevalent disease. The use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, in the beginning of a cold, would guard against this danger.

HERMAN HERZFELD,

—DEALER IN—

All Kinds of Furniture at all Prices.

Parlor and Bed-Room Suits, Carpets, Oil Cloths, Mattings, Blankets, Comforts and Lace Goods.

☞ Everything necessary in the House-Furnishing Goods Line. ☜

NINETEENTH STREET, BETWEEN FIRST AND SECOND AVENUES

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

JOEL WHITE

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

Bookseller and Stationer.

Montgomery, Alabama.

My line is so large and varied that it is nearly impossible to name all the items in my stock, but if you are needing any Book or article of Stationery, any Fancy Goods or Printing, a Memorandum Book or a Ledger, a Gold Pen or a Letter File, a Lead Pencil or an Inkstand, a Catechism, Bible, Hymn Book, Birthday Card, Portfolio, Writing Desk, Work Box, in fact anything in my line or its kindred branches, drop me a line for quotations. If you are a dealer in any of these goods, I can make a correspondence profitable to you. [dec12

—Office of—

FARMERS'

Alliance Exchange

UNION WAREHOUSE.

MONTGOMERY, ALA., Sept. 16, 1889.

DEAR SIR:—We invite your attention to our large and commodious Warehouses near the Union Passenger Depot in rear of the Windsor Hotel in this city. We are prepared to store or sell cotton to the best advantage and to fully protect the planters' interest by always obtaining the highest market price on day of sale. Our rates of storage are cheaper than any other Warehouse in the city from the fact that we charge no drayage where cotton is shipped by rail or boat.

We have every protection against fire that is possible to be had, and are above high water. We make liberal advances on cotton in store.

Your patronage is respectfully solicited.

JNO. S. BIRD, Business Manager.

B. M. WASHBURN,

Sole agent in Montgomery for the celebrated COLUMBUS BUGGY CO., "TENNESSEE" and "OLD HICKORY" WAGONS. A full stock of Harness, Saddles, Whips, Baby Carriages, &c.

B. M. WASHBURN,

—MONTGOMERY, ALA.—

Exposure to rough weather, getting wet, living in damp localities, are favorable to the contraction of diseases of the kidneys and bladder. As a preventive, and for the cure of all kidney and liver trouble, use that valuable remedy, Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm. $1.00 per bottle.

BUSINESS LOCAL NOTICES.

Mrs. M. A. Butler announces to her friends in this section that she is now located at 422 21st St. and Ave. E, Birmingham, where she has opened a stock of general merchandise. An invitation is extended to all needing anything in her line to call at the above location when visiting the city. 1m

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 4, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit at Clanton, Ala., on January 11, 1890, viz: Jesse Benson, Jr., homestead 14781 for the s ½ of s e q and s e q of s w q sec 6, township 23 n, r 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Richard Porter, Crick Brewer, Rinard Vanderslice, Joseph Littleton, all of Jumbo, Ala.

dec5* J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. Land Office, Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 18, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 4th, 1890, viz: Peter W. Noah, homestead 15048 for the n ½ of n w ¼ sec 18 township 22 n r 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: William Headley, Jr., James N. Knox, John Knox, William Davis, all of Clanton, Ala.

nov21* J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., November 19, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 6th, 1890, viz: William S. Cox, homestead 15271 for the w ½ of s w ¼ of sec 26, towship 23 n, range 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, William T. Franklin, John Gore, William T. Mahan, John McKee, all of Clanton, Ala.

nov21o J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE, Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 19, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence, the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on Jan. 6th, 1889, viz: Hurly Ann Ray, homestead 15806 for the s e ¼ of sec 22 township 21 n, range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: John R. Kemp, Stephen Baker, Cyrus Culp, and R. M. Burnett, all of Clanton, Ala.

nov21* J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

FINAL PROOF NOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE, Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 2, 1889.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on January 18, 1890, viz: Alfred Stephen Baker, homestead 16808 for the s e ¼ of sec 20 township 21 n, range 14 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: George Mullins, James Wyatt, Francis M. Headley and Monroe Durbin, all of Clanton, Ala.

dec5* J. H. BINGHAM, Register.

Insure in the Commercial Fire Insurance Co. of Montgomery.

Now is the time to subscribe for your county paper.

A. E. BIVINGS,

—DEALER IN—

DRUGS, AND Medicines

FAMILY Groceries, ETC.

Clanton, Alabama.

I can furnish you anything you may [illegible] the way of DRUGS AND MEDICINES. I also handle THE BEST GROCERIES TO BE HAD, and you will find my prices to suit the times. [mar20]

BUY YOUR

PIANOS and ORGANS

—FROM—

GRAMBS & BUCHANAN,

—2107 SECOND AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—

THE VERY LOWEST CASH PRICES, or on easy installments, Sohmer' Cranich & Bach, Gabler, Wheelock and Newby & Evans Pianos, and the world renowned Wilcox & White organs. Mail orders for sheet music or musical merchandise given prompt attention.

☞ Write for Catalogue. ☜ jul18

When ordering please state in what paper you saw our advertisement.

Hale, Dingley & Co.

—WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS IN—

Drugs, Medicines, Toilet Articles,

PERFUMERY, SOAP, BRUSHES & STANDARD PATENT MEDICINES,

—:MONTGOMERY, ALA.:—

Keep constantly on hand a complete stock of articles in their line of business. Particular attention is called to the following articles manufactured by them and especially recommended to the public: Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lactophosphate of Lime; Elixir Cinchona and Gentian Compound; Howard's Colic Cure for Horses; Esprit de Millefleur. nov21-6

CHAS. L. RUTH,

—DEALER IN—

Diamonds, Silverware, Watches, Clocks,

Jewelry, Spectacles, &c.,

Sole Agent in Montgomery for the celebrated ROCKFORD QUICK TRAIN WATCHES, the best for Railroad men. Also has a large stock of Watches of other makes, including the famous watches manufactured by A. Schneider, of Dresden, and the watches he had made specially to order in Geneva.

A complete stock of the newest styles of JEWELRY, selected with great care from the stocks of the largest manufacturers.

The latest designs in SILVER and PLATED WARE. French and American CLOCKS and BRONZES in great variety. Julius King's Combination Spectacles, Eye-Glasses, Gold-head Canes, &c. All goods marked at the lowest figures possible. ☞ Clocks, Watches and Jewelry skillfully and promptly repaired. All work guaranteed.

C. L. RUTH,

(Sign of the Eagle and Watch.) 15 Dexter Avenue,

—MONTGOMERY, ALA.—

nov21y

CRELLIN & NALLS,

BOILER MAKERS

Copper and Sheet Iron Workers

Chimneys, Tanks, and Repairing of All Kinds.

Saw Mill Work a Specialty.

☞ AVENUE C AND TWENTY-SECOND STREET, SOUTHSIDE, ☜

Birmingham, Ala.

mar21 y

INSURE WITH

The Commercial Fire Insurance Company,

Montgomery, Alabama.

Capital $100,000. Surplus $146,578.

Directors:—P. J. Anderson, C. A. Lanier, H. C. Tompkins, A. M. Kennedy, M. P. LeGrand, S. C. Marks, J. H. Clisby, C. W. Buckley, Frank Duncan.

W. H. Lawrence, Agt., Clanton.

Roberts & Son,

Steam Printers and Binders,

1918 FIRST AVENUE, BET. 19th & 20th STREETS,

Birmingham, Ala.

BLANK BOOKS TO ORDER. WORK PROMPTLY DELIVERED.

dec5 sy

MONTGOMERY IRON WORKS.

MACHINISTS & FOUNDERS

Dealers in Fittings, Supplies and Machinery

OF ALL KINDS.

MAKERS OF ENGINES, CANE MILLS, COTTON SEED CRUSHERS, SAW MILLS, LIVE ROLLS, LOG HAULUPS, &c.

☞ ESPECIAL ATTENTION TO WANTS OF SAW MILL MEN ☜

nov 1-y

A. M. RAMBO,

DENTIST.

VERBENA, ALA.

Will respond to calls along railroad between Calera and Deatsville

[mal15 y]

S. P. TRESSLAR,

Photographer,

10 COURT SQUARE,

Montgomery.

Photographs on Silk, Satin and Linen, Photographs on Watch dials.

Portraits in Crayon, Pastile, India Ink and Water Colors.

Old Paintings made Instantaneously. Copied and Enlarged.

☞ Correspondence solicited. ☜

Always glad to have [illegible] gallery, and examine specimens [illegible] at the work on exhibition.

[jan21-tf]

J. H. SHEPHERD

THE LEADING

PHOTOGRAPHER.

—OF—

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE

(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)

Photographs of All Kinds

Work Done in the

BEST STYLE.

Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

DR. OWEN'S

ELECTRIC BELT

AND SUSPENSORY.

PATENTED AUG. 16, 1887. IMPROVED JULY 30, 1888.

DR. OWEN'S ELECTRO-GALVANIC BODY BELT AND SUSPENSORY are guaranteed to cure the following diseases, namely: All Rheumatic Complaints, Lumbago, General and Nervous Debility, Costiveness, Kidney Diseases, Nervousness, Trembling, Sexual Exhaustion, Wasting of Body. Diseases caused by Indiscretions in Youth, Age, Married or Single Life. In fact all diseases pertaining to the womb or genital organs of male or female. ☞ SENT TO RESPONSIBLE PARTIES ON 30 DAYS TRIAL. TRY A PAIR OF DR. OWEN'S ELECTRIC INSOLES. PRICE $1. Send 6c. postage for free illustrated pamphlet, which will be sent you in plain sealed envelope. Mention this paper, address

OWEN ELECTRIC BELT & APPLIANCE CO.

306 North Broadway, ST. LOUIS, MO.

RUPTURE!

ELECTRIC BELT AND TRUSS COMBINED.

DR. ISRAEL'S ELECTRO-GALVANIC TRUSS, with Dr. Owen's Electric Belt Attachment. This truss is worn with ease and comfort. The current can be made mild or strong. This is the only combined electric truss and belt ever made. It will CURE Rupture in from 60 to 90 days. For full description of Dr. Owen's Electro-Galvanic Belts, Spinal Appliances, Trusses and Insoles send 6c. for free illustrated pamphlet which will be sent you in plain sealed envelope. Sold only by the

OWEN ELECTRIC BELT & APPLIANCE CO.

306 North Broadway, ST. LOUIS, MO.

sep 5

HERBINE

After ten years exclusive sale, can now be obtained of all Druggists and Dealers in Medicines. It CURES-take notice-not simply helps but CURES LIVER COMPLAINT, Biliousness and Dyspepsia.

Is a strictly vegetable preparation and will CURE MALARIA, and all MALARIAL troubles.

Dr. S. H. Wise, of Boston, Ky. says: "Have practiced medicine 15 years, and find no equal to HERBINE as a Liver Regulator."

Dr. W. A. Baker, of Madison, Fla., says: "A bottle of HERBINE is worth more than $5.00 worth of Quinine in any family."

Acting on the Liver in a different way from any other medicine; it is a positive cure for Chronic Constipation and is cheaper than Pills.

Its peculiar composition is such, that we guarantee to cure any case of Chills and Fever or Billous Fever with one bottle.

It costs but 75 cents and each bottle contains over 40 average doses, making the cost less than two cents a dose. Would you ask for cheaper medicine? It is not a cure-all. But will cure any Liver, Billous or Malarial Complaint. Manufactured by

The Herbine Co.,

(Successors to Wm. Condell,) St. Louis, Mo.

mar 14-y

PISO'S CURE FOR

TWENTY-FIVE CENTS

Piso's Cure for Consumption is also the best Cough Medicine.

If you have a Cough without disease of the Lungs, a few doses are all you need. But if you neglect this easy means of safety, the slight Cough may become a serious matter, and several bottles will be required.

CONSUMPTION

PISO'S REMEDY FOR CATARRH gives immediate relief. Catarrhal virus is soon expelled from the system, and the diseased action of the mucous membrane is replaced by healthy secretions.

The dose is small. One package contains a sufficient quantity for a long treatment.

CATARRH

A Cold in the Head is relieved by an application of Piso's remedy for Catarrh. The comfort to be got from it in this way is worth many times its cost.

Easy and pleasant to use.

Price, 50 cents. Sold by druggists or sent by mail.

E. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.

nov28-y

ALLEGER'S

GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICES!

FROM $85. to $53.

This Elegant Parlor Organ [illegible]

[illegible]

H. W. ALLEGER,

Washington, Warren County, New Jersey.

DAWN.

A sudden sound of wings and voices,
As hurrying night-birds homeward fare;
A restless tremor in the air;
Faint, half-suppressed, impatient noises,
And signs of waking everywhere!

And then a silence as of waiting,
When in uncertainty or fear;
A rosy gleam in azure clear;
A song from some sweet bird that's mating;
And lo! the golden morn is here!
—John M. Manly, in Belford's Magazine.

THE MAN-EATER.

A STORY OF INDIA.

There were two entrances to the drawing room; this must be borne in mind.

The house itself was old-fashioned, a large and many-gabled one, standing quite alone and solitary in a spacious garden; all the windows had been closed and the jalousies shut and secured on the outside; the tatty-grasp and put the piazza had been relaxing morning away until anertshing shade. called for sky was near that part of the T'-called the Sunderbunds, through which the Ganges expands its branches as it approaches the sea—a labyrinth of creeks and rivers, of jungle and stagnant water. The night was perfectly fine, but moonless; there was a heavy dew rapidly falling, like a misty rain, which, in hot countries, is a perfectly natural occurrence.

I went into the drawing-room by what might be called the back door, as it led into the back drawing-room, and smaller of the two; the other, a far larger apartment, communicated with this one by great folding doors of gold and white. The back drawing-room was very full of furniture, rather inconveniently so. As I was carrying an armful of books, and in my disengaged hand a lamp, I proceeded, with tolerable security, though slowly, but then, of course, I knew the room and could have gone to my destination in the dark. What struck me as both curious and irritative was the fancy that the room seemed more impeded than ever with the furniture—dark, old-fashioned rosewood furniture, which had been made to match the piano. The various articles looked as if they had been dragged about the room. Possibly the darkness above and around me helped the illusion; anyway, they had the appearance of having been gradually spread toward the centre of the room round a heavy and solid table. It was this table that I wished to go to. I walked very slowly, partly because I did not wish to spill the books which I had spent the last hour in collecting, and partly because of an unaccountably horrible feeling which had come over me. This part of the house was quite silent; indeed, it was often so of an evening. My brother had passed me on his way upstairs, having been all day at Madrepore, and no doubt being tired had gone to bed. There were very few stairs at all, as the house was practically a one-storied one, rambling and full of angels, having been built and added to at various times; here and there little staircases streamed out, leading to long passages and unexpected cupboards; the back drawing-room door itself opened from a side-flight of five stairs. As I had encountered two small chairs and an overturned music stands I stood still for a second, looking for a clear passage, and thereby holding the lamp high and well in front of me; as I paused amid the complete silence which reigned, an immense tiger slowly crossed the path of light, turning on me two burning, yellow eyes, gleaming like vivid topazes. I stood there in stiffened terror and heard my heart beat. The tiger's mouth was parted and running with saliva; so wide was it hanging open at the corners that the serrated edges of the lower lips were plainly visible. It glared with a steadfast look of such grinning cruelty, such conscious malignity, that it froze my blood and turned my limbs to stone.

The tiger crossed the India-matting of the room with a noiseless, swinging gait; as it appeared to have come from the obscurity near the piano, so it vanished into the obscurity beyond—that is, outside the pathway of the lantern-light. I stood perfectly immovable, still clutching the books with my left arm, still holding the lamp before me, still gazing at the place it had crossed, and apparently forever seeing that awful look upon the tiger's face. It seemed as if my eyes saw the face, though my mind had rapidly suggested the frightful probability that the tiger was behind me. At the same time, by some dual mental process, it was holding out hope that the animal had passed through the great folding doors into the dark room beyond. I have no remembrance at all of my mind dictating the next action I pursued; it seemed just an instinct indulged in by the body upon its own account and for its own immediate preservation.

I laid the books very carefully down without making the slightest unnecessary noise or disturbing the hand that held the lamp, and then, raising with slow effort one of the heavy little chairs that had blocked my passage, I silently swung it on to my shoulders and held it so that it covered my head, then turned slowly sidewise, with my mind impressed with the necessity of keeping the lamp as far as possible behind me. This struck me at the time as clever and of unquestionable importance in saving my life. I managed to walk gently out of the room. I suppose I had been in it five minutes, but it seemed like a weary hour.

As I closed the door and locked it, my brother unexpectedly came down the passage and passed me on the little flight of stairs; he was rather in a hurry.

"Godfrey," I called out to him, "do you mind pulling the front door to in the large drawing-room as you go by?" It seems strange now, but I could think of nothing else to say then, and I said it slowly and quite naturally.

He assented and disappeared, and I, without noticing it at the time, took up the chair again, and with my lamp ascended the short flight of stairs, and proceeded along the passage to my own room, walking slowly and guardedly. The mind had evidently been so shocked that it had not recovered its dominant away over the body. Upon reaching my own room, I put the chair carefully down and sat upon it. The lamp I had placed on the table at the same time. I sat there a few seconds, feebly wondering which room the tiger was in. Then I got up with a sudden alacrity, took from its case a large revolver, and turned into the passage again. In a minute or so I was in Godfrey's room. He was half undressed. "What's the matter?" he demanded, with startled eyes. When I had told him, he took my hand and wrung it. "You may thank God that you are alive, old fellow." Then he dressed hurriedly, took a heavy rifle from a rack, and filled his pockets with cartridges. "Come along; stay, let me go first; your nerves are a bit shaky yet."

We crept out and awakened the punkah wallah, an old and faithful Hindoo, whom my brother once nursed during a dangerous illness—a brave and trustworthy man, who would have laid his life down for Godfrey.

"It is the man-eater!" said the Hindoo, after my recital.

"You will come with us, Ramee?" asked my brother. The old man smiled as if the question were superfluous.

"Will the sahib let his servant advise him?"

"Yes, Ramee; tell me your plan, my As the Hindoo rapidly ... the strange brother smiled dubio... idea. ...ust be met with cunning," "Cun Hindoo.

said I'll take three hours to arrange," I remarked.

"Three hours will bring the dawn; now, who can see in the dark?—not the sahib, but yes, the tiger."

"Very well," said Godfrey, "let's see about it at once." From the gardener's outhouse we brought a roll of wire netting which had been put there for fencing in a paddock a few days previously. Together we collected armsful of shavings the workmen had not cleared away, quantities of dried leaves, rags—everything we could find soft and pliable; and, having cut the wire into three square lengths, firmly lashed them together, one over the other. When completed, it was the shape but rather larger than the window in the room in which the tiger lay hidden, and the doors of which had been locked. Our operations so far had been conducted upon the veranda outside, near the gardener's room; we then rolled up the wire netting and carried it round the corner of the house to within a few yards of the big window; here it was unrolled again and flattened out, then upon its surface we poured all the shavings, rags, leaves and refuse we had collected, and upon this mass smeared and spread a quantity of lime left by the workmen for the morrow. This we smoothed down as well as we were able, till the whole mass assumed some consistency and clung to the interstices of the netting. Ramee next took some stout twine and improvised a rough kind of needle from a bamboo-cane. With this implement he sewed all over the mass of stuff, thus making a string-netting which helped to keep the composition in its place. So far, so good; the most difficult operation yet remained.

"Take my gun," said Godfrey to me, "and give me the revolver."

"Sahib," whispered the Hindoo, placing a restraining hand upon my brother, "let Ramee complete his work—is it not his duty? If he fails he shall suffer."

"You foolish man," said Godfrey, "how can you do it alone?" With slow and noiseless steps the netting, looking very like a large mattress, was carried exactly opposite the window and laid gently down; then both retired as silently as they had advanced.

Ramee then brought from the outhouse a ladder, and with a gesture of entreaty signed to my brother to stand aside and take his rifle in his hand. With bare feet the Hindoo crept up to the window again and reared the ladder against the wall. Taking a coil of rope from his neck, he deftly fastened it to the highest wall staple of the outside shutter. Descending, he quickly enlaced the short stand in the netting, placed the ladder on the other side, and ran the thong through the other staple. For the first time he made noise, but it was unavoidable, caused by the netting being drawn upward till it hung like a great curtain, covering the shutter and hiding the window from us.

Godfey and I stood ready to fire.

The Hindoo, perspiring at every pore, descended the ladder, which he lowered and placed horizontally on the window-sill, and lashed it to the bottom of the netting and again fastened that to the two lower staples on either side.

The thing was done; far away on the east the dawn was breaking, above which the morning star was slowly paling its silver fire.

"But, Ramee, the shutters are still fastened!"

"Sahib, I unfastened them; they are open the breadth of a man's hand; presently the light will stream through."

"Quick; fetch another rifle."

When he returned, I took the gun and gave him my revolver.

A light breath of wind passed murmuring through the feathery crowns of the slender cocoa-palms, two great spears of light shot up in the sky, somewhere in the garden a bird sang—the sun had risen. "Wait the signal," whispered my brother; "now, Ramee." The Hindoo knelt down and imitated the bleating of a kid that had lost its mother. At the instant Ramee sprang to his feet, the silence was rent by a sundering crash and a sudden, terrific roar; the shutters were torn from their sockets, a great mass hurled itself precipitately through the window, and the tiger, with its head and shoulders buried in the lime-covered débris, was grappling in maddened fury with an enemy he could not see nor make much impression upon.

Our guns were at our shoulders.

The animal was twenty feet from us, tearing up the graveled path, and coiling itself in inextricable confusion in the broken netting and splintered ladder. Ramee uttered a loud cry. The animal had freed its head, and stood with its bleeding mouth in an enforced listening attitude. It was the moment Godfrey had waited for, and he fired. The tiger, evidently not seeing him, sprang at the window again, but missed the opening, hurling itself against the wall and falling on the broken shutters. At the minute it alighted, I aimed at the spot behind the shoulder and fired; it gave a convulsive leap and turned its bloodshot eyes in our direction. Then Godfrey fired again and told me to do the same.

"Back! back!" cried Ramee.

The animal had gathered itself together and sprang forward with one mighty bound, and rolled over with a scream of dying rage.

When we came to measure the brute afterward, we found it was fifteen feet from the nose to the tip of his tail.—The Argonaut.

The Flathead Indians of Montana differ widely from most other tribes on this continent. They are not warriors, nor are they lazy and good-for-nothing. On the contrary, most of them are thrifty farmers, whose industry and skill are attested by big stacks of hay and grain about their dwellings.

The hair around a lion's neck is his mane protection.—Merchant Traveler.

HOUSEHOLD AFFAIRS.

RECIPES.

Carrot Ginger—Take fresh young carrots, wash well and scrape them, leaving all the eyes, as this gives more the rugged appearance of real ginger; cut them into pieces about the length and thickness of the real article, lay them in a sieve or a frying basket, stand this in a stewpan of boiling water and [illegible] over them. Let them drain and without breaking till the next day; then preserving pan with ing, put them into syrup of ginger, and their own simmer very gently for three [illegible] Fill empty ginger jars or preserve pots, allowing plenty of syrup, and cover closely as for jam.

Snow Custard—One-half box of gelatine, three eggs, one pint of milk, two cups of sugar, juice of one lemon; soak the gelatine one hour in a tea cup of cold water, then add one pint of boiling water and stir until the gelatine is dissolved; add two-thirds of the sugar and the lemon juice; beat the whites of the eggs to a stiff froth, and when the gelatine is quite cold, whip it into the whites, a spoonful at a time; for at least an hour whip steadily and evenly, and when all is stiff pour into a mould previously wet with cold water; set in a cool place: in four or five hours turn into a glass dish; make a soft custard and pour around it.

Beefsteak Rolls—Take a lean piece of beef entirely free from fat or bone and cut into thin steaks about four inches by six, sprinkle on a little pepper, salt and flour. Cut bread into strips, spread them thick with butter, into each piece stick two or three cloves, then roll up each piece of the bread in a piece of steak as tightly as possible, tie it with thread; roll them in some flour, and fry a light brown in butter. Then put them in a stew pan, shred a small onion fine and add. If the butter they were fried in is not burned add that, if it is melt some more butter with browned flour and season with a little cayenne and salt. Cover with boiling water, occasionally stirring, and adding sufficient flour to thicken, and stew until a fork will easily penetrate them.

Sauer-Kraut—Gather the cabbages and take off the outside leaves. Wash and quarter them, take out the core, and put in a clean barrel until you have enough to cut well. Then, with a clean, sharp spade, cut them fine and sprinkle on a little salt. One quart of salt is enough for forty gallons of kraut. If too much is put in, it will not sour. Then pound until water rises. Now put in more cabbage and proceed as before. Lastly, get some large cabbage leaves, wash, and cover the kraut with them, put on a board and then a stone for a weight. Wash the board and stone about once a week until the kraut has ceased fermenting. Be sure to keep enough water on it to cover. If you don't, the kraut will spoil. And if made in cool weather, keep it in a warm place until sour enough to suit the taste. If these directions are followed, you will have good kraut.

Ribbon Cake—Two and one-half cups of sugar, one-half cup of butter, one-half cup of sweet milk, three cups of flour, the whites of eight eggs, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Flavor with lemon. Yellow part—The yolks of eight eggs, two cups of sugar, one cup of butter, one cup of sweet milk, three and one-half cups of flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Brown part—Take one-half of the yellow mixture and add two-thirds of a teacup of grated chocolate. Red part—Whites of four eggs, one cup of red sugar, one-half cup of butter, one-half cup of sweet milk, one cup and a half of flour, two small teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Flavor with extract of vanilla. Take the yolks of the four eggs left from the red part and make a frosting of it and put it between the layers and on the top. This recipe will make two layer cakes and one marble cake.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

For ivy poisoning, bathe the parts in lime water.

Cistern water may be purified by charcoal put in a bag and hung in the water.

To remove a dry ink-stain, dip it into hot milk and rub it. Repeat till the stain is gone.

Patient rubbing with chloroform will remove paint from black silk or any other material.

To remove warts, rub them night and morning with a moistened piece of muriate of ammonia.

A solution of equal parts of gum Arabic and plaster of Paris, cements china and earthenware.

If onion peelings are taken off under water, one will have no occasion to weep while peeling them.

The white of an egg and a teaspoonful each of honey, salt, turpentine and camphor will cure a felon.

Finger marks may be removed from varnished furniture by the use of a little sweet oil upon a soft rag.

Best cure for rheumatism and neuralgia, one pint of alcohol, ten cents worth of oil of sassafras. Mix and rub in thoroughly.

If you have custard left from dinner, it will serve a second time by filling the bottom of the dish with apple sauce and pouring the custard over. A very fine dessert. Serve nice crackers with it. Berries, sliced peaches or pears are nice served thus.

Put a layer of bread crumbs in the bottom of a buttered pudding dish, then a layer of sliced tart apples sprinkled with sugar, then crumbs and apples until the dish is almost full. The crumbs should be last. Cover and cook an hour. Eat with the sauce or sweetened cream.

Cook macaroni in milk till tender, line a buttered mold of a thimble shape with it. Thicken half pint of skim milk with two tablespoonfuls of ground rice. Boil for a minute or two, beat in an egg, fill the cases, steam half an hour to one hour, according as your puddings are quarter and half pint or one pint. Turn out, and serve with cherry syrup round.

Earthquake Movement.

"There is a great mistake," remarks a California astronomer, "as to the actual amount of movement of the earth in an earthquake. In the Chabot Observatory recently the earth moved a little less than a quarter of an inch, and in East Oakland, where the shock was heavier, it moved about five-sixteenths of an inch. An earthquake in which the motion was a half-inch would prove very disastrous, and yet people do not hesitate to say that they saw the earth move at least a foot."

NEWS AND NOTES FOR WOMEN.

Brooches are the favorite ornaments among Algerian women.

Mousseline chiffon, a softly falling material, is used a great deal for evening gowns.

Mrs. Haggin, the California millionaire's wife, possesses a ruby valued at $10,000.

Mrs. Cleveland expects to devote much of this winter to a careful study of oil painting.

Mrs. Lydia Bacon, of Sudbury, Mass., has celebrated her one hundred and second birthday.

A dainty lace pin is a cluster of sweet peas in pink and white enamel, sprinkled with diamond dewdrops.

A Christian lady who wishes to become a member of the Hebrew Church must first of all learn Hebrew.

Accordion-plaited skirts of cream net over colored silks are very pretty, and much liked for evening wear.

Cow-boy hats for misses are of gray, ecru or bright red felt, with wide unwired brims edged with fur felt.

A new galloon is made of silk cord, united by crochet stitches, the effect being similar to that of point lace.

Sir Julian Paunceforte's four daughters have brilliant complexions and dress in the extreme of English fashion.

Ruches of silk braid of different widths, intermixed with oblong drops and aiguillettes, are used to trim the new mantles.

Moonstones continue to receive a large share of popular favor. The fancy just now is for large stones encircled with brilliants.

Serviceable school hats are Tam o' Shanters of plaid cloth, and plain felt caps in the same shape may be procured in all colors.

Miss Cordelia Meyers, of Newville, Penn., is the proud possessor of a piano once owned by the wife of President John Quincy Adams.

Female students are now admitted to Wesleyan University, and there are six of them in its classes along with the young men this year.

Fur-lined dolman wraps are less favored than in previous seasons, but are still occasionally made to order, to suit the taste of purchasers.

Gray astrachan, chinchilla and light beaver are the furs most favored for misses and children's wear, and they are most appropriate and becoming.

Muffs and boas of both red and blue fox will be worn by young ladies. The red fox is a very beautiful fur, and especially becoming to a certain type of blondes.

Mme. Albani, who sings before Queen Victoria every year, had the pleasure of singing to her Majesty a few weeks ago. She was accompanied by her sister, Miss Lajeunesse.

A handsome corsage ornament is in the form of a spray of three rosebuds, composed respectively of a black, a pink and a white pearl, with the stems and leaves of diamonds.

Fur trimmings are mostly of the long haired varieties, bear, black marten, lynx, mink, fox, etc. Persiana, although, a flat fur is very stylish, but otter, beaver, etc., are passee.

Mrs. Anna Lea Merritt, who was born in Philadelphia, was one of the three ladies who received honorable mention for oil painting in the British section of the Paris Exhibition.

As a rule, women need about nine-tenths of the nourishment requisite for men, boys of sixteen about the same as women, and childeen of ten half the quantity needed for adults.

The bell sleeve appears upon a few of the new seal jackets, but is not generally favored. When used an inner close sleeve is attached near the elbow, affording the necessary protection to the arms.

Princess Marie Theresa of Bavaria, who has a mania for pets, travels throughout Europe with fourteen animals of one sort and another, including several dogs, two magpies, an enormous rat and a diminutive bear.

The Empress and members of the aristocracy of Japan have given up the idea of adopting the western styles of dress for women. The Parisian models did not please the people in general, and the historic costumes will again be worn exclusively.

Queen Victoria doesn't wear a great deal of fur. She has an odd cloak, however, in which she comfortably incases herself when traveling in the cold weather. It is made entirely of ermine, and the ermine is outside. The cloak gives her a very regal appearance.

Warm bonnets for little girls are made of cashmere, the soft fronts gathered in front to a high frill above the forehead, and with accordion plaited capes six to eight inches deep. Loops of ribbon are set in the frill above the face, and a rosette outside, with a full cap trimming resting upon the banged hair.

Mrs. Harrison is the first mistress of the White House since Mrs. Hayes's time who really supervises the entire domestic machinery. She has the whole of it in hand, from the cellars to the attic. She goes over the most of it every day. Both the President and Mrs. Harrison are early risers, and the day's work gets started by 8 o'clock.

Fashionable bonnets in Paris this autumn suggest the great topic of the day. There is the "1789 bonnet" in black felt, with a tiny tricolor ribbon knot; the "election capote," ornamented with white feathers of bouquets of immortelles; and the "provincial voter's bonnet," simply made like the caps worn by old country women.

Stuffed Beforehand.

James P. Root, of Chicago, believes in bringing up children the way they should go. "I know how it is myself," he said the other day, as he spoke of this matter. "When I was a boy," he continued, "I had a most ravenous appetite, like all healthy boys. My dear mother was great on training and etiquette, and she had me at her afternoon teas. Now, tea was a little light for me then and she knew it, so just before the tea she would quietly lead me back to the pantry and fill me up with milk pudding until I couldn't wink. Then I would participate in the afternoon tea. Of course, loaded as I was, I could find no room for anything else, and when the tea and cake came around I said: 'No, thank you.' The ladies present would regard me with amazement and say: 'What a well-bred boy!' They didn't know that I had been stuffed beforehand."—Chicago Herald.

Food in its Relation to Health.

Dr. Atwater, in the paper read by him before the last convention of the American Public Health Association, dwelt on the evils of overeating, and showed that in this country people overeat enormously, especially in the matter of meat and sweetmeats, with the result of undermining their health to a degree. Dr. Jerome Walker gave facts to prove that meat once a day was enough for any ordinary person. Dr. Atkinson showed the importance of better cooking for the masses. He considered that a great obstruction to improvement in the art of cooking is the almost universal misconception that the finer cuts of meat are more nutritious than the coarser portions, coupled with an almost insuperable prejudice among working people against stewed food. This prejudice is doubtless due to the tasteless quality of boiled meat; boiling toughens each of the fine fibres, and deprives the meat almost wholly of its distinctive flavor. All these burdens and misconceptions must evidently be removed before any true art of cooking can become common practice. The more necessary, however, does it become to invent apparatus in which meat can only be simmered and cannot boil, as the Aladdin cooker, and also to invent a stove or oven in which neither meat nor bread can be overcooked, dried up, or rendered indigestible by too much heat, as in the Aladdin oven. Next, people must be persuaded that a better and more nutritious breakfast can be made ready to eat, as soon as the family are out of bed, by putting meat stews, oatmeal, brown bread and many kinds of pudding into the cooker, and simmering all night by the use of a single safe lamp, than in any other way.

The Use of Coffee.

It is asserted by men of high professional ability that when the system needs stimulant nothing equals a cup of fresh coffee. Those who desire to rescue the drunkard from his cups will find no better substitute for spirits than strong, new made coffee, without milk or sugar. Two ounces of coffee, or one eighth of a pound, to one pint of boiling water makes a first class beverage, but the water must be boiling, not merely hot. Bitterness comes from boiling it too long.

If the coffee required for breakfast be put in a graniteized kettle over night and a pint of cold water poured over, it can be heated to the boiling point and then set back to prevent further ebullition, when it will be found that, while its strength is extracted, its delicate aroma is preserved. As our country consumes nearly ten pounds of coffee per capita, it is a pity not to have it made in the best manner.

It is asserted by those who have tried it that malaria and epidemics are avoided by those who drink a cup of hot coffee before venturing into the morning air. Burned on hot coals it is a disinfectant for a sick room. By some of our best physicians it is considered a specific in typhoid fever.—Epicure.

Not Ready.

The phonograph has not yet been reduced to that simplicity and perfection of operation necessary for its general sale and introduction. It is true, several examples have been produced which are in use, and many interesting experiments have been made. At the Paris exhibition the instruments were shown in operation, and the perfection of the results in recording and delivering speech was marvellous. But in most cases, in order to get really satisfactory results, experts are required to watch, adjust and work the instrument. When the phonograph becomes entirely automatic its future is assured.

Summary Measures.

A Paris shopkeeper, when he advertises goods "at cost," is promptly called upon by a government official, whose business it is to see that the merchant is doing what he advertises, and if he is detected in fraud of any kind speedy punishment is inflicted. In other words, they will permit him to sell his own goods, which he paid for, "at cost," but if he is lying in his advertisement or defrauding his creditors, they expose him.

The People

are not slow to understand that, in order to warrant their manufacturers in guaranteeing them to benefit or cure, medicines must possess more than ordinary merit and curative properties. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the only blood-medicine sold, through druggists, under a positive guarantee that it will benefit or cure or money paid for it will be returned. In all blood, skin and scalp diseases, and for all scrofulous affections, it is specific.

$500 Reward offered by the proprietors of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy for an incurable case.

Unless a tree bears blossoms in Spring, we may look in vain for Autumn fruit.

Last Winter

I was troubled so badly with rheumatism in my right shoulder and joints of my leg as not to be able to walk. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and now I don't feel any aches or pains anywhere. I sell newspapers right in the middle of the street every day in the year, and have been doing so for five years, and standing on the cold stones ain't no picnic, I can tell you. And if Hood's Sarsaparilla cured me it certainly ought to be good for those people who don't stand on the cold stones. I can be seen every day in the year at corner Tompkins and DeKalb Avenues.—WILLIAM W. HOWARD, Brooklyn, N. Y. N. B.—Be sure to get

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

"MOTHERS' FRIEND"
MAKES CHILD BIRTH EASY
SHORTENS LABOR
LESSENS PAIN
DIMINISHES DANGER TO LIFE OF MOTHER AND CHILD
BOOK "TO MOTHERS" MAILED FREE
BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO. ATLANTA GA.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

Jennings' BUSINESS COLLEGE,
NASHVILLE, TENN.

This College, though yet in its infancy, has more than 600 former students occupying good positions, many of them receiving salaries ranging from $500 to $1,500 per annum. For circulars, address R. W. JENNINGS, Prin.

OPIUM HABIT. [illegible]

Bird Seed.

Bird seed forms a considerable item in the export trade of some of the Moorish ports. The vice-consul at one port states that this seed is never sown apart by the Moorish farmers, nor is any special attention paid to its cultivation. It is always sown with wheat, and when reaped and thrashed it is separated by the country women in sieves. The reason of this practice is that there is a general superstition among the Moors that in very wet seasons the wheat is in part converted into bird seed, and hence they sow the two together.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years Doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly upon the blood and mucous surface of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
☞ Sold by Druggists, 75c.

"Lucy Hinton."

Hark! the sound of many voices,
Jubilant in gladdest song,
And full many a heart rejoices
As the chorus floats along:
"Hail the Queen of all Tobaccos!"
How the happy voices blend,
"Finest and purest among her fellows—
Man's staunch and true friend."

Oregon, the Paradise of Farmers.

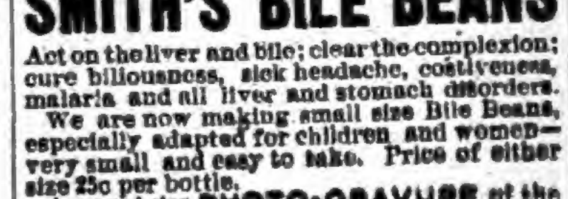
Mild, equable climate, certain and abundant crops. Best fruit, grain, grass and stock country in the world. Full information free. Address Oreg. Im'igra'tn Board, Portland, Ore.

The Mother's Friend, used a few weeks before confinement, lessens the pain and makes labor quick and comparatively easy. Sold by all Druggists.

The old smoker's delight—"Tansill's Punch, America's finest 5c. Cigar.

If afflicted with sore eyes use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye-Water. Druggists sell at 25c per bottle

Ely's Cream Balm
THE CURE FOR CATARRH
HAY-FEVER
50 Cts.
COLD IN HEAD
ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren St., New York.



SMITH'S BILE BEANS

Act on the liver and bile; clear the complexion; cure biliousness, sick headache, costiveness, malaria and all liver and stomach disorders.

We are now making small size Bile Beans, especially adapted for children and women—very small and easy to take. Price of either size 25c per bottle.

A panel size PHOTO-GRAVURE of the above picture, "Kissing at 7-17-70," mailed on receipt of 2c stamp. Address the makers of the great Anti-Bile Remedy—"Bile Beans."
J. F. SMITH & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

IF YOU WISH A GOOD REVOLVER purchase one of the celebrated SMITH & WESSON arms. The finest small arms ever manufactured and the first choice of all experts. Manufactured in calibres 32, 38 and 44-100. Single or double action, Safety Hammerless and Target models. Constructed entirely of best quality wrought steel, carefully inspected for workmanship and stock, they are unrivaled for finish, durability and accuracy. Do not be deceived by cheap malleable cast-iron imitations which are often sold for the genuine article and are not only unreliable, but dangerous. The SMITH & WESSON Revolvers are all stamped upon the barrels with firm's name, address and dates of patents and are guaranteed perfect in every detail. Insist upon having the genuine article, and if your dealer cannot supply you an order sent to address below will receive prompt and careful attention. Descriptive catalogue and prices furnished upon application.
SMITH & WESSON,
☞ Mention this paper. Springfield, Mass.

JONES
HE PAYS THE FREIGHT.
5 Ton Wagon Scales,
Iron Levers, Steel Bearings, Brass Tare Beam and Beam Box for $60.
Every size Scale. For free price list mention this paper and address
JONES OF BINGHAMTON,
BINGHAMTON, N. Y.

AFTER ALL OTHERS FAIL CONSULT
DR. LOBB
329 North Fifteenth St., Philadelphia, Pa., for the treatment of Blood Poisons, Skin Eruptions, Nervous Complaints, Bright's Disease, Strictures, Impotency and kindred diseases, no matter of how long standing or from what cause originating. ☞ Ten days medicines furnished by mail FREE. Send for Book on SPECIAL Diseases.

JOHN F. STRATTON & SON,
Importers of all kinds of
Mouth Harmonicas,
43 & 45 Walker St., New York.

$7 FOR A Double Breech-Loader
Breech-Loaders, $4 to $60.
Winchester 16-shot Rifles, $11 to $12.
Breech-loading Rifles, $2.50 to $12.00.
Self-cocking Revolvers, Nickel-plated, $2.00.
Send 2c. stamp for 60-page Catalogue and save 25 per cent.
GRIFFITH & SEMPLE, 512 W. Main, Louisville, Ky.

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH
PENNYROYAL PILLS
RED CROSS DIAMOND BRAND.
Safe and always reliable. Ladies, ask Druggist for Diamond Brand, in red, metallic boxes, sealed with blue ribbon. Take no other. All pills in pasteboard boxes, pink wrappers, are a dangerous counterfeit. Send 4c. (stamps) for particulars, testimonials and "Relief for Ladies," in letter, by return mail. Name Paper. Chichester Chem'l Co., Madison Sq., Phila., Pa.

SOUTHERN PRINTERS' SUPPLY CO.
WE CARRY IN STOCK
Type, Cases, Stands, Presses,
Paper Cutters
AND EVERYTHING USED IN A PRINTING OR PUBLISHING HOUSE.
☞ Call on us and SAVE MONEY! ☜
34 West Alabama Street, ATLANTA, GA.

OPIUM HABIT. Only Certain and easy CURE in the World. Dr. J. L. STEPHENS, Lebanon, O.

ONE ENJOYS
Both the method and results when Syrup of Figs is taken; it is pleasant and refreshing to the taste, and acts gently yet promptly on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels, cleanses the system effectually, dispels colds, headaches and fevers and cures habitual constipation. Syrup of Figs is the only remedy of its kind ever produced, pleasing to the taste and acceptable to the stomach, prompt in its action and truly beneficial in its effects, prepared only from the most healthy and agreeable substances, its many excellent qualities commend it to all and have made it the most popular remedy known.

Syrup of Figs is for sale in 50c and $1 bottles by all leading druggists. Any reliable druggist who may not have it on hand will procure it promptly for any one who wishes to try it. Do not accept any substitute.

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
LOUISVILLE, KY. NEW YORK, N.Y.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE GREAT WAR STORY SURRY
—OF—
Eagle's Nest
—BY—
John Esten Cooke.

This thrilling historic story, which has been out of print and for which there has been such great demand is now issued as a SUBSCRIPTION BOOK, with many magnificent illustrations. There has never been a more popular book throughout the Southern States than "SURRY OF EAGLE'S NEST." Many years have passed since the thrilling scenes herein recounted of the deeds of valor of the Confederate Soldier; yet the interest, by those who fought with Ashby, Stuart, Johnston, Beauregard, Jackson and Lee in the cause for which they so desperately and bravely battled, will never grow less. This thrilling story pictures not alone joy and sorrow, and a love sweetly told, but is filled with literal incidents of the great contest between the South and the North. Here is a book for the old Confederate, to recall to him the vivid scenes of the greatest Civil War ever known, to call back his own campaigns, and tell him of the mighty Chieftains, dear to the memory of every one who wore the Gray.

"Surry of Eagle's Nest" will find a welcome in every Southern home. That it may be within the reach of every one, it is published at the low PRICE OF $2, though a LARGE, HANDSOME VOLUME, BEAUTIFULLY ILLUSTRATED AND ELEGANTLY BOUND.

SOLD ONLY BY SUBSCRIPTION.

As the demand for this OLD FAVORITE BOOK which has been out of print so long, will be large, and applications for agencies very numerous, all who desire to act as Agents should write at once and quickly secure choice of territory.

G. W. DILLINGHAM, Publisher,
33 West 23d St., New York.

Thermometer below Freezing

and a fierce storm of driving sleet which strikes the face like a thousand needles. Wind forty miles an hour. You say a man couldn't stand such exposure? No, he couldn't, without just the proper clothing. And there's only one outfit that can keep a man both warm and dry at such a time, and that is the "Fish Brand Slicker." They are guaranteed storm-proof, waterproof, and wind-proof. Inside one of them, you are as much out of the weather as if indoors. They are light, but warm. Being re-enforced throughout, they never rip; and the buttons are wire-fastened. No roadman who has once tried one would be without it for ten times its cost. Beware of worthless imitations, every garment stamped with "Fish Brand" Trade Mark. Don't accept any inferior coat when you can have the "Fish Brand Slicker" delivered without extra cost. Particulars and illustrated catalogue free.
A. J. TOWER, - Boston, Mass.

SWIFT Double Action AUTOMATIC REVOLVER.
Safety Barrel Catch
Price $10
Unequalled for Symmetry, Beauty, Material, and Workmanship. With Safety Catch, impossible to throw barrel open when discharged. New Patent. 38 calibre, using S. & W. C. F. Cartridge. Do not buy until you have examined this. If you buy a genuine Swift Double-Action Revolver, you are sure to have as perfect a Pistol as can be made. Sent postpaid on receipt of price. Send 6c. in stamps for our 100 page illustrated catalogue of Guns, Rifles, Revolvers, Police Goods, etc.
John P. Lovell Arms Co., Mfrs., Boston, Mass.

OPIUM and WHISKEY HABITS cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE. B. M. WOOLLEY, M.D., Atlanta, Ga. Office 65½ Whitehall St.

HOME STUDY. Book-keeping, Business Forms, Penmanship, Arithmetic, Short-hand, etc., thoroughly taught by MAIL. Circulars free. Bryant's College, 457 Main St., Buffalo, N.Y.

I prescribe and fully endorse Big G as the only specific for the certain cure of this disease.
G. H. INGRAHAM, M.D., Amsterdam, N.Y.
We have sold Big G for many years, and it has given the best of satisfaction.
D. R. DYCHE & CO., Chicago, Ill.
Cures in 1 TO 5 DAYS. Guaranteed not to cause Stricture. Mfd only by the Evans Chemical Co. Cincinnati, Ohio.
$1.00. Sold by Druggists.

Push on the Handle and the Screw goes in.
[illegible]

A NICE PRESENT.
[illegible]

BRYANT & STRATTON Business College
LOUISVILLE, KY.

PISO'S REMEDY FOR CATARRH.—Best, Easiest to use. Cheapest. Relief is immediate. A cure is certain. For Cold in the Head it has no equal.

CATARRH
[illegible]